The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
H. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1892. No. 1.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Solicitors in Equity, Masters-in-Chancery,
Notaries Public, Office corner of Park avenue and Second street.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 1021. Office No. 4 Pemberton Row. Sales at Court-house, Tuesdays. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES E. THEIRS,
Dentist,
At Wm. Frost's store. A new local anesthetic applied for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—1m207

C. HAND,
Auctioneer,
No. 7 Address, Lock Box 71, south Plainfield, N. J.; or leave cards at T. J. Gillies's auctioneer's office, corner Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—m207

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
187 Broadway, New York city, rooms 22 and 23. Supervising and Resident Work Building. Residence, Plainfield, N. J.—y207

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. Van Arsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. Box 186 or left at Wm. Shann's store, No. 6 Park avenue will receive prompt attention. Residence, 81 East 2d street, corner Elm street.—1y1191

JOHN CHANDLER,
[ARPENTER AND BUILDER]
PLAINFIELD, N. J.,
Residence No. 26 East 2d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. apay

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison avenue, cor. Fifth street, Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
[Successor to E. B. Maynard.]
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, shampooing, &c., also manicuring performed. 1y191

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stove s can be found here at Johnson' prices. Bring your Tin ware needing to us. Tin Gutter Tinning, the best Prices here, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

J. Hervey Doane,
6 PARK AVENUE.
[Formerly Clerk's.]
Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and, promptly done. 1y191

Fall Announcement!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a skillful and expert manner, and guarantee satisfaction. Having had a practical experience of over twenty years in the business, and employing only the best of workmen, I feel confident I can please all who favor me with their patronage.
D. T. LITTELL,
No. 9 SOUTH AVE. (Spicer Building), E. P.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

FORCE'S HOTEL,
NORTH AVENUE, (NEAR N. E. STATION.)
JAS. H. FORCE, Prop'r.
A FIRST CLASS FAMILY HOTEL. Steam Heat. First-class furnishing.
Transient guests at reasonable rates. 10-25-tf

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.
JOHN W. MURRAY, President.
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice " NATHAN HARDING, "
ELIAS R. DOTY, Treasurer.
1y207

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMEST'
—SEGARS!—
S. H. PARK AVE., (next to Post Office.) SECOND ST.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smokers Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, without the poisonous drugs and chemicals so often used. 1y207

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 214 W. Front street, to 42 Somerset, one door east of Madison avenue, and opened the largest assortment of his Brands and the choicest tobacco. 1y207

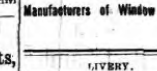
PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
1y207

L. B. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES, 38 NORTH AVENUE
m207

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning.
Hardware.
A. H. GRIFFIN,
12 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11-11-tf

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Lake.)
Laing's Hotel Stables


Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Parties and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure
RIDING OR LIVERY
Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.—m1y207
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 28.

Accommodation Express.
PETER SICKERT, Proprietor.
Office at Vanderbilt's Manufactory, Park avenue
The Accommodation Express will attend to the general carrying business of the city. Furniture, Goods or Baggage to and from the Depot, or from place to place. Storage Facilities. All orders left with care will be promptly attended to. Orders solicited.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
m207

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers, Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezer
Gasoline Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 12 SOMERSET ST. 3-15-tf

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.,)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established
NO. 24 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply pair me with the finest grade of
Fresh and Salt Meats,
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the lowest Market Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished one of order.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE CHARGES REASONABLE.
Hugo Weigman.
(Chautauqua Building)

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to T. J. Corey.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—56 W. FRONT ST.
All Orders Left at Office Promptly Attended to. Furniture Packed and Shipped to Any Part of the Country. P. O. Box 1021.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made with the purest Sumatra and Havana Filler.
CLARA HAVANA AMA IS A SPECIALTY
Also representative for the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
1y207

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMEST'
—SEGARS!—
S. H. PARK AVE., (next to Post Office.) SECOND ST.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smokers Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, without the poisonous drugs and chemicals so often used. 1y207

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 214 W. Front street, to 42 Somerset, one door east of Madison avenue, and opened the largest assortment of his Brands and the choicest tobacco. 1y207

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
1y207

L. B. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES, 38 NORTH AVENUE
m207

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning.
Hardware.
A. H. GRIFFIN,
12 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11-11-tf

MISCELLANEOUS.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programme Menus,
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation,
Everything

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST

DAILY PRESS

PLAINFIELD N. J.

A TRIAL.

Cupid on Judge—Touch no bar.
Cupid—The charge, I understand, is this—Miss Olof has a beautiful face, a fine figure, but I am indicted with youth.
Judge—Yes.
Cupid—I grow—that is the truth.
Cupid—And there! He leers and tell me all. You are also indicted with the habit of sighing, and standing in the doorway.
I heard a sigh—no more than that.
I had no time for second thoughts, so forthwith in my court I sentenced.
The sentence was short—I ordered
To be the damned who received
Of every Olof one kiss for her brow—
The recollection pains me now!
Sentence was carried out by me
By some hints of a certain Cupid.
I missed the object of her caress—
A maid of temptations.
Cupid—Hard fate!
Go one-why do you hesitate?
Young—And one I found time to caress—
That time was a naked bosom.
But have you seen her? Olof exists!
Cupid—Why—and the palatial
She adored too much!
Young—Then you mean not
That you are so wrongly gilt.
You must retract it.
Cupid—Never!
Young—Never!
Cupid—Return it to her by her kisses.
—Pierre Scott Hines, in Life.

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN,
17 LaGrande Avenue,
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET,
Will reopen THUR SEPT 17, 1891.
The regular course will include Modeling, Drawing and Cooking. 9 13 tf

DODWORTH'S
CLASSES FOR
Dancing & Deportment
SEMINARY HALL, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Commencing Friday, Oct. 30, 1891,
From 2½ to 5½ p. m.
Apply to E. E. Kenyon for circulars and information, or to THOS. J. DODWORTH.
Residence, 1190 Fulton avenue, N. Y. City.
10 8 tf

A MAMMOTH CRUISER.

Dimensions and Principal Characteristics of the New Battleship.

The cruiser New York, recently launched, is not only the most formidable cruising vessel ever in the United States navy, but also the largest and most powerfully engined ship ever built in the western hemisphere. The dimensions of the New York and principal characteristics are as follows: Length of the load water line, 380½ feet; breadth, including side armor belt, 64 feet 10 inches. She has three decks besides the protective deck. Her propelling machinery consists of four vertical, triple-expansion, direct-acting engines, triple-expansion engines of the latest type. Her steam is generated by eight cylindrical, double-ended boilers of 20 feet 3 inches in length, besides a smaller single-ended boiler for two boilers. The total grate surface is about 1,009 square feet, and the total heating surface about 35,000. At full power, with 320 to 332 revolutions, her engines are expected to develop 4,500 indicated horse power each, or a collective total of 18,000 horse power, which is calculated to give her a sustained trial speed of twenty knots. The vital parts of the machinery are protected by an armored deck, springing from the sides about five feet below the water line, and sweeping up to a point one foot above it and extending the whole length of the ship. The battery will consist of four 8-inch breech-loading rifles, twelve 4-inch rapid-fire guns, a secondary battery of sixteen small rapid-fire guns, firearms and four deck torpedo tubes. Her full war complement will be thirty-seven officers and 296 petty officers, firemen, seamen and marines. The keel was laid in September, 1890, under a contract requirement to complete the ship by January 1, 1892. The cost of the vessel is in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. She has a coal carrying capacity of 1,600 tons and will be able to steam 13,000 miles without recoaling.

THE CRUISER NEW YORK.

The Word "Catholic."

The word "catholic" was first used in the Apostle's Creed when it says: "And one holy, catholic, apostolic church." Its next use was by Ignatius, who is said to have been an apostle of St. John. He succeeded Erodius as bishop of Antioch and suffered martyrdom in the year 107 A. D. He used the word in this sentence: "Wherever Jesus Christ is, there is the catholic church." St. Augustine, A. D., 400 says: "The very name of catholic holds me in the church." The word is from kata, in or through, and holos, the whole.

Eight-Story Words.

The following are examples of eight-syllable words in the English language: Antitrinitarianism, anticonstitutionalism, anticonstitutionalist, anhydrobenzoline, ultromontanistically, incomprehensibility, individualization, syncategorematical, unconstitutionality, unintelligibility, valetudinarianism and virtuelsimilarity.

Great Railroad Train.

The longest and heaviest train ever carried over any road in this country consisted of sixty-four loaded coal cars on the Lehigh Valley railway.

His Expectations.

Her Father—So, young man, you want to marry my daughter!
Young Man—Yes sir.
Her Father—Well, what are your expectations?
Young Man—That you will not give your consent, and that we shall have to get married without it.—Puck.

Wanted a Gentle One.

"Do you warrant this bicycle to be gentle?"
"I don't understand you, sir."
"I want to know whom its habits. The last bicycle I had not only threw me, but whirled about in disgust on the ground and jumped all over me."—Harper's Bazar.

No Hope.

Clergyman (soliloquizing)—I greatly sympathize with you in your affliction, but you should not abandon yourself to despair. You should endeavor to bear it for consolation.
Young Widow—Bother! What would you do under the circumstances if you had to marry a man with three children?—N. Y. Weekly.

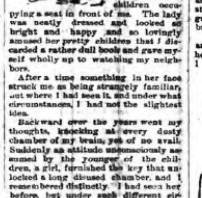
A Request Granted.

"My client can't show himself. I beg leave, if your honor will only give him time," pleaded the lawyer.
And the kind-hearted judge gave him twenty years.—Detroit Free Press.

A TRIAL.

Cupid on Judge—Touch no bar.
Cupid—The charge, I understand, is this—Miss Olof has a beautiful face, a fine figure, but I am indicted with youth.
Judge—Yes.
Cupid—I grow—that is the truth.
Cupid—And there! He leers and tell me all. You are also indicted with the habit of sighing, and standing in the doorway.
I heard a sigh—no more than that.
I had no time for second thoughts, so forthwith in my court I sentenced.
The sentence was short—I ordered
To be the damned who received
Of every Olof one kiss for her brow—
The recollection pains me now!
Sentence was carried out by me
By some hints of a certain Cupid.
I missed the object of her caress—
A maid of temptations.
Cupid—Hard fate!
Go one-why do you hesitate?
Young—And one I found time to caress—
That time was a naked bosom.
But have you seen her? Olof exists!
Cupid—Why—and the palatial
She adored too much!
Young—Then you mean not
That you are so wrongly gilt.
You must retract it.
Cupid—Never!
Young—Never!
Cupid—Return it to her by her kisses.
—Pierre Scott Hines, in Life.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO.
NEWARK, N. J.



RECENTLY while traveling by a tiresome train my attention was directed to a young lady and two children occupying a seat in front of me. The lady was neatly dressed and looked intelligent and happy and so lovingly amused her pretty children that I decided a mother's love could and pure could not wholly up to watching my neighbors.

After a time something in her face struck me as being strangely familiar, but where I had seen it, and under what circumstances, I had not the slightest idea.

Backward over the years went my thoughts, knocking at every dusty chamber of my brain, yet of no avail. Suddenly an old-time acquaintance seemed by the youngest of the children, a girl, furnished the key that unlocked a long closed door, and memory responded distinctly. I had seen her before, but under such different circumstances, yet so like, it was a wonder that I ever recalled the greatly changed face.

A fair face with streaming eyes was vividly impressed on my mind. Upward was nearly a tragedy, and to think that this happy, smiling face was the same, seemed incredible, yet so it was.

Although my interest in her, twenty years ago, was very great, I could not help but notice the sad look and tearful eyes of the little woman. Silently I watched her and thought that nothing could be done to help her sad and heavy woman. When the brakeman called out "Chicago!" I followed the bellers of 20 feet 3 inches in length, besides a smaller single-ended boiler for two boilers. The total grate surface is about 1,009 square feet, and the total heating surface about 35,000. At full power, with 320 to 332 revolutions, her engines are expected to develop 4,500 indicated horse power each, or a collective total of 18,000 horse power, which is calculated to give her a sustained trial speed of twenty knots. The vital parts of the machinery are protected by an armored deck, springing from the sides about five feet below the water line, and sweeping up to a point one foot above it and extending the whole length of the ship. The battery will consist of four 8-inch breech-loading rifles, twelve 4-inch rapid-fire guns, a secondary battery of sixteen small rapid-fire guns, firearms and four deck torpedo tubes. Her full war complement will be thirty-seven officers and 296 petty officers, firemen, seamen and marines. The keel was laid in September, 1890, under a contract requirement to complete the ship by January 1, 1892. The cost of the vessel is in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. She has a coal carrying capacity of 1,600 tons and will be able to steam 13,000 miles without recoaling.

THE CRUISER NEW YORK.

The Word "Catholic."

The word "catholic" was first used in the Apostle's Creed when it says: "And one holy, catholic, apostolic church." Its next use was by Ignatius, who is said to have been an apostle of St. John. He succeeded Erodius as bishop of Antioch and suffered martyrdom in the year 107 A. D. He used the word in this sentence: "Wherever Jesus Christ is, there is the catholic church." St. Augustine, A. D., 400 says: "The very name of catholic holds me in the church." The word is from kata, in or through, and holos, the whole.

Eight-Story Words.

The following are examples of eight-syllable words in the English language: Antitrinitarianism, anticonstitutionalism, anticonstitutionalist, anhydrobenzoline, ultromontanistically, incomprehensibility, individualization, syncategorematical, unconstitutionality, unintelligibility, valetudinarianism and virtuelsimilarity.

Great Railroad Train.

The longest and heaviest train ever carried over any road in this country consisted of sixty-four loaded coal cars on the Lehigh Valley railway.

His Expectations.

Her Father—So, young man, you want to marry my daughter!
Young Man—Yes sir.
Her Father—Well, what are your expectations?
Young Man—That you will not give your consent, and that we shall have to get married without it.—Puck.

Wanted a Gentle One.

"Do you warrant this bicycle to be gentle?"
"I don't understand you, sir."
"I want to know whom its habits. The last bicycle I had not only threw me, but whirled about in disgust on the ground and jumped all over me."—Harper's Bazar.

No Hope.

Clergyman (soliloquizing)—I greatly sympathize with you in your affliction, but you should not abandon yourself to despair. You should endeavor to bear it for consolation.
Young Widow—Bother! What would you do under the circumstances if you had to marry a man with three children?—N. Y. Weekly.

A Request Granted.

"My client can't show himself. I beg leave, if your honor will only give him time," pleaded the lawyer.
And the kind-hearted judge gave him twenty years.—Detroit Free Press.

only we were not sick.

"One night my lover came to me and said: 'Ellen, if we were lost at sea, would you be faithful to me?'

"I saw that he was downcast and heavy hearted and had something on his mind.

"I said: 'Why, Olof, what do you mean?'

"'I mean,' he said, and tears filled his eyes, 'that—I am going to America.'

"'Uh, Olof,' I cried, and wept bitter tears.

"Then he told me of his plans and how, when he became rich, he would send for me. We both promised to be so true to each other, and we became almost happy in thinking of the good times in store for us in far away America.

"I bore up bravely, for I knew how hard it would be for poor Olof away off so far from friends and working so hard for me.

"His letters came as regularly as working men's letters usually come. After awhile his writing seemed uncertain, as though his hand was weak, and I could hardly read his letters. Then I knew that he was sick but would not tell me.

"I felt that I must go to my lover. The case is wide, but a trustful heart can span it and fly like a freed sparrow to its mate. I sold some of my clothes and borrowed some money from my brother. Then, when I was all ready, I told my parents. They were angry and sorely perplexed, but I was bound to go and they could not keep me.

"On the morning of my departure my brother brought me a letter written in a strange hand. It told me that Olof was dead and in the letter was a lock of hair I had given him before he left. A friend of Olof's had written the letter. It said that my lover's dying request had been to send the hair to me, and tell me that he loved me to the last.

"Grief is hard to bear, but I bore mine as bravely as I could, and in a month I started to America to go to my lover's grave, and then go on to live with a brother in Utah.

"In your country directions are easy, and I arrived safely in the town where he died. On the evening of my arrival I bought a bouquet of flowers and started to the cemetery to find his grave. Near a house I stopped to rest. I saw a man approaching and heard him whistling an old Swedish air I knew so well. My blood tingled and my heart leaped for joy. It was a dear home that Olof was fond of, and here he was laid in the churchyard. The man came up. It was Olof himself. I passed the window. It was Olof himself. He was making love to another girl. I felt my senses reeling as I saw him looking into her eyes as he used to look at me.

"HE WAS MAKING LOVE TO ANOTHER."

"Then he had the dead come to life again and I had been deceived. I ran away and came here. How, I do not know. A terrible something pursued me. It seemed the phantom of him I had loved so truly. I could not forget, but in desperation, I tried to drown myself to get away from my thoughts. As I have lain here, I have forgotten. I am sure he has recovered from his long illness, weak but painless. That is why I am glad that I tried to drown myself, for the cold water of the river has washed away the memory of him I loved, and henceforth I do not think of Olof as he is, but as he was when first I saw him. Now you know all there is to tell. I am now going to my brother, who will be very glad to welcome me.'—Ellen Hegman."

PRINCESS VICTORIA.

The Duke of Clarence to Marry a Princess of the House of Teck.

The announcement of the betrothal of the Duke of Clarence to his third cousin, Princess Victoria of Teck, has caused an immense amount of pleasurable excitement in England. The princess is very popular, and it is significant that one of the most frequently heard expressions of praise of the lady who is probably to be the future queen of England is that "she's English." In fact she is thoroughly an Englishwoman in sentiment, manner and action, furnishing in this respect a strong contrast to the most of the half English, half German princesses connected more or less remotely with the royal family. Even from congratulatory telegrams and messages have been pouring in upon the Duke and the prince of Wales.

Force week before the engagement the duke has been forming one of a party at the country residence of the Danish minister at Lutto, in the Chiltern hills, near Bedford, where also the duchess of Teck and her daughter were stopping. It has long been known that the young couple were devoted to each other. They often managed to get separated from other guests where they were stopping, and their quiet love-making furnished a strong contrast to the observers of the courtship. The duke came up to London and informed his brother of his desire to marry Victoria.

The prince had no objection to offer, and bade his son go at once to Windsor and seek the queen's consent. This mission occupied so short a time—the duke entering only in his own—that there is no doubt the queen's approval of the match was cheerfully given. The date of the wedding is not yet fixed, but will probably not be for Lent. It is expected that the ceremony will be performed at St. George's, Windsor, and that the bride will receive after marriage in an elegant suite recently prepared for the duke in St. James' palace, London.

PRINCESS MAY VICTORIA OF TECK.

Foreign Items.

Miss Ellen Terry-Stout—What were you most impressed with during your travels abroad?
Miss Bacon Street—With the fact that so few of the people I had met had ever been in Boston.—Puck.

TO every Apache cas get his fill of blood before sun-up and his fill of mescal before noon. Yet Coyote-That-Bites had managed to achieve both these delightful ends, and of all the happy savages on the Colorado desert he was the most riotously, tumultuously happy. With what keen delight he had drawn his sharp blade across the throats of Jose Sanchez and his wife after he had stolen into their wagon in the gray dawn, and what thrills of joy shot through his breast when he silenced the yells of their two little children with the butt end of their father's own rifle. And then, when he had taken what gold and silver Jose Sanchez had, what mescal was in his demijohns and had strapped Jose's father's bleeding carcass belt, about his sun-brown waist, with what fierce pleasure he stole away from the scene of his bloody work, with the Mexican's rifle on his shoulder, had he ambered the glorious day across, stopping from the demijohn the stupefying juice of the agave from time to time until he felt that he was growing drowsy.

Then he had dragged his uncertain way along until he had come to the railroad track. He stared stupidly at the bright steel rails, and looked up at the humming wires in awed reverence of way. He would like to lie there beside the rocks, he thought, until some one should come along the track, and then try a shot at him with his newly-acquired weapon. The demijohn was growing light, and the rifle was growing heavy. Well, it was getting toward noon, and the sun was warm, even for an Apache, and he would lie down in the shade of the rocks over there and rest.

It was quiet there and restful—so sound save the music of the wires. Stay there were other sounds, but they came some time after Coyote-That-Bites had thrown himself upon the sand and gone off to the land of Nod. They came faintly at first, and mingled with the murmurings of the wires. Slowly they waxed volumes of children.

Had the red beast been awake he might have imagined that they were the haunting voices of the wee Mexican children whose blood he had so ruthlessly shed that morning. But he heard them not. They were very far from being ghostly voices, nay were, indeed, those that now piped forth so merrily as Dubs and Gay trudged down the line. They were walking in the scrub-pine along the road-bed—not on the track, for that was forbidden.

There were other things that were forbidden, too, and one of them was straying so far away from the station that Dubs was "taking good care of" his father's property, and in the pride of his full years, he was "going to the care of half a dozen such as Gay.

To give Dubs all due credit he did not know he was half a mile from home, and he really was going to turn back pretty soon. But the children had found many interesting and wonderful things to claim their attention. First there had been a chase after a young owl that could not fly, and that made its way along in the most haphazard manner imaginable. Then a horned toad had been captured, and Dubs had dragged the disgusted prisoner along by a string until he had tired of the sport and had let him go again. Then, always keeping close to the railroad, they had entered a great field of cacti, where Dubs had tried very hard to pick "coonies" without getting the inside, needle-like spines in his fingers. He was fairly successful, but he would not let the fruit of the cactus go into his sister's chubby hands until it had been stripped of its dangers by his ready jack-knife.

Then they had torn matches to build a fire with," sighed Dubs. "I'd burn off your pickles, jus' like vs Injuns does."

"O-o!" came suddenly from under Gay's sunbonnet, "I'm a squaw."

"Why, it's a jug!" and Dubs left the "coonies" and started towards the pile of rocks over which the vine grew. "Maybe it's whisky jejum," like the Yaquis who shouted and picked up the railroad and so his mind became wholly at ease.

The Coyote's cartridge belt, which had been so loosely strapped, had fallen off and lay by his side. There were a hundred very interesting things to claim attention in it, and the children soon had these scattered all about in the sand. Gay found a cartridge in the scramble for her share of the innocent toys. Gay let one of them drop on the Coyote's leg. Perhaps the mescal's influence was on the wane, for a big brown tear was thrust quickly up from the sand, and a big hand was clutched the ugly knife at the Coyote's feet. Into the head it fell, and the noble red man snored on.

Dubs tried on the cartridge belt and became an Indian. But the ungainable knife, and, he considered to borrow that from the sleeper, whose fingers had lost their grip on the luckhorn handle.

"It's bigger'n mommie's butcher knife, ain't it, Gay?" the urchin next asked, as he grasped the handle of the devilish-looking blade. "Now you stand over there and I'll get the old wuck. Yes you tum along, an' I'll jump out and kill you."

Gay demurred.

"O, it's on'y make b'lieve. Yese kind of Injuns don' kill nobody," and he stuck a contemptuous finger towards the innocent Coyote. "It's on'y Paches at kills, an' veg's none y'ound here, 'cept mescal, an' I'm a Pache, so you better look out."

It was dubious sport for Gay, and when it came to the killing part she screamed lustily.

"You've wuined him up an' 'poiled it all," said Dubs, in a tone of accusation. "Now he'll want his knife."

Some enough, the Coyote-That-Bites did shake his brown legs and arms quite vigorously, but the last two big mouthfuls of mescal held him down so, after turning over, and burying his head-like face in the sand, he lay quiet again.

When he had thus turned over, we brought into view the title, which, in the excitement, he dirty blanket. Dubs eyed the weapon with considerable eyes. He could see with one glance that there was in all over, starting to run up his back and hoping to get home with it, but this last proved a hasty resolution. Just what it was that kept his fingers off the sammer and trigger, and prevented a sound that would surely have brought the Coyote to his feet with a yell, I am sure I cannot tell, but Dubs played with that fascinating weapon for nearly an hour, while Gay, penned sand over the cartridges, taking nearly all of them from sight.

By this time the sun's rays were on the long slant and the children were very hungry. By this time, too, the Apache was growing restless, for the mescal had nearly lost its grip upon him. A brain thundering up, on much less "swift" brushing against his black foot, a spider dropping on his leg, or even a big fly buzzing at his ear, any of these would have set his demont force into play again.

But the children could not wait for such demonstrations as these, though why it did not occur to Dubs that the Coyote's ear needed tickling with a grease-wood twig, the Lord only knows. The wind was up and the wires were murmuring louder than ever. The wee ones had spotted in the black shadows long enough—had played with the fangs of the deadly serpent until they were tired and their stomachs were empty. So they set off on a trot for home.

Just as they turned the bend and came in sight of the low roof of the station, a "dust-devil" swept by the rocks where lay the Coyote-That-Bites. He jumped to his feet, grasped his empty shoulder, gave a mad whoop and started about the Apache rage. There was his knife, half covered by the sand, and there was his rifle, far from his sides. There was the cartridge belt, empty, and all about him in the sand were countless little footprints.

A bewildered look stole over his face, but it passed away when his eye rested on the empty demijohn. The expression that replaced it was one of demoniacal ferocity, and the lust of slaughter lay heavily upon him. But the cartridges—where were they? He saw Gay's mound of sand, and kicking it, gave a grunt of delight to see the cartridges lying about. They were scattered right and left by his foot.

MUCH TO BE THANKFUL FOR.

He picked them all up, grunting over each one. Filling the belt and grasping his rifle he started off in the direction in which the small footprints led. Like a bloodhound on the dead game's track. His eyes scanned the plain for every turn and his breath was hot and strong. But when he turned into the curve and saw the station he knew that he was too-late—and he gave a grunt of disgust as he took off like the wind over a side trail that led towards the mountains.

In the house behind the station the mother crossed the tired little Gay, lying heavily and limp in her arms, and looked out over the desert, saw the sun touching the edge of a mile from home, and he really was going to turn back pretty soon. But the children had found many interesting and wonderful things to claim their attention. First there had been a chase after a young owl that could not fly, and that made its way along in the most haphazard manner imaginable. Then a horned toad had been captured, and Dubs had dragged the disgusted prisoner along by a string until he had tired of the sport and had let him go again. Then, always keeping close to the railroad, they had entered a great field of cacti, where Dubs had tried very hard to pick "coonies" without getting the inside, needle-like spines in his fingers. He was fairly successful, but he would not let the fruit of the cactus go into his sister's chubby hands until it had been stripped of its dangers by his ready jack-knife.

"Then they had torn matches to build a fire with," sighed Dubs. "I'd burn off your pickles, jus' like vs Injuns does."

"O-o!" came suddenly from under Gay's sunbonnet, "I'm a squaw."

"Why, it's a jug!" and Dubs left the "coonies" and started towards the pile of rocks over which the vine grew. "Maybe it's whisky jejum," like the Yaquis who shouted and picked up the railroad and so his mind became wholly at ease.

The Coyote's cartridge belt, which had been so loosely strapped, had fallen off and lay by his side. There were a hundred very interesting things to claim attention in it, and the children soon had these scattered all about in the sand. Gay found a cartridge in the scramble for her share of the innocent toys. Gay let one of them drop on the Coyote's leg. Perhaps the mescal's influence was on the wane, for a big brown tear was thrust quickly up from the sand, and a big hand was clutched the ugly knife at the Coyote's feet. Into the head it fell, and the noble red man snored on.

Dubs tried on the cartridge belt and became an Indian. But the unmanageable knife, and, he considered to borrow that from the sleeper, whose fingers had lost their grip on the luckhorn handle.

"It's bigger'n mommie's butcher knife, ain't it, Gay?" the urchin next asked, as he grasped the handle of the devilish-looking blade. "Now you stand over there and I'll get the old wuck. Yes you tum along, an' I'll jump out and kill you."

Gay demurred.

"O, it's on'y make b'lieve. Yese kind of Injuns don' kill nobody," and he stuck a contemptuous finger towards the innocent Coyote. "It's on'y Paches at kills, an' veg's none y'ound here, 'cept mescal, an' I'm a Pache, so you better look out."

It was dubious sport for Gay, and when it came to the killing part she screamed lustily.

"You've wuined him up an' 'poiled it all," said Dubs, in a tone of accusation. "Now he'll want his knife."

Some enough, the Coyote-That-Bites did shake his brown legs and arms quite vigorously, but the last two big mouthfuls of mescal held him down so, after turning over, and burying his head-like face in the sand, he lay quiet again.

When he had thus turned over, we brought into view the title, which, in the excitement, he dirty blanket. Dubs eyed the weapon with considerable eyes. He could see with one glance that there was in all over, starting to run up his back and hoping to get home with it, but this last proved a hasty resolution. Just what it was

Rates of Advertising

Space	1 WEEK	1 MONTH	3 MONTHS	6 MONTHS	1 YEAR
1 in.	$ .75	$ 2.00	$ 5.00	$ 8.00	$ 12.00
2 in.	1.25	3.00	8.00	12.00	20.00
3 in.	1.75	4.00	11.00	16.00	28.00
4 in.	2.25	5.00	14.00	20.00	36.00
¼ col.	3.00	8.00	20.00	30.00	50.00
½ col.	5.00	14.00	36.00	55.00	90.00
1 col.	9.00	25.00	65.00	100.00	160.00

All Electro's must be solid metal.
"Units of Everything" column, 15 cts. per line.
Double rate, 30 per ct. advance of above rates.

IN MARCHING UNIFORM.

German Soldiers Compelled to Take a Dive Equipped for War.

While the swimming service is obligatory on the pioneers, and lately also on the cavalry, it is optional with the members of the other departments of the army, and the fact that the annual subscription list is always more than full, says the Berlin Illustrirte Zeitung, is a pleasant indication of the love of sports among our "blue boys." Manly as enthusiastic admirer of Neptune must, to his great sorrow, be turned away on account of the great number of applicants.

SWIMMING IN FULL UNIFORM.

The instruction is given, under the direction of lieutenants, by under officers. It begins with the regular practice of the swimming strokes, the pupil being carried meanwhile by the so-called "fishing rod." When he has learned the movements well enough to be able to propel himself above the water, he begins to swim on a loose line. At this stage it is often found that he who can keep afloat for some time is considered a lucky one quality that is indispensable for a good swimmer, and one much that Olympic men without which the most carefully acquired knowledge of the strokes is useless. When the pupil is able to keep himself on the surface safely and quietly, he must go into the water without the helping line, but a rod is placed a certain distance above his head for use in case of need. After he has spent such time in the test of swimming alone for fifteen minutes, then for half an hour, accompanied by a boat, and lastly crosses the "kriegsfahrt" (death trip), which lasts an hour.

The swimming exhibitions held at the end of the summer before the commanders-in-chief of the battalions or regiments are pleasant festivals. At Berlin the Berliner or Potsdam are often attended by any princes of the reigning house who happen to be in the neighborhood. Classes of men clad only in their swimming tights exhibit their proficiency in swimming, jumping and diving, and this water exercise is regularly formed lines, squads and sections is a pleasant sight. Last year the closed jumping feature of the programme, the exhibition of the finest swimmers in full marching uniform and knapsack, loaded guns in their hands. They jump

The Constitutionalist.
W. L. FORCE, A. L. FORCE
Editor and Proprietor. Associate Editor.

THE PRESIDENCY.

The personal of the Democratic party is rich in suitable material for the Presidency of the United States.

A score of names might be mentioned, citizens of practical ability and eminent repute, either of whom, if seated in the chair of Washington would do honor to the position and promote the welfare of country.

But, with all due respect to others, there is one of popular renown, an official of proven worth, thoroughly versed in the science of free government, and who possesses the priceless qualification of discharging every duty with promptitude and intelligence, and making in fact public trust a sacred obligation.

He is a safe and competent man to fill the office of Chief Magistrate, not the tool of clans or mercenary clique, but the honest and fearless champion of the rights and liberties of the people.

Democrats, Fellow-Democrats,

GROVER CLEVELAND.

ATTENTION! DEMOCRATS!

The year just opened will bring before the people momentous political duties.

Besides the election of a President and Congress, so far as the County of Union is concerned, important local officials are to be chosen.

It therefore behooves Democrats to consolidate for effective service, and with united strength and zeal to make triumphant in City, County, Township, State and Union the principles declared and safety proven principles and measures of the party of Jefferson, Jackson and Cleveland.

Daily Democrats!

Organize for victory!

Battle uncompromisingly for Freedom, Equity and Economy, the essentials of Democracy.

For city clerk Mr. Marsh nominated F. W. Runyon. Mr. Force nominated Aaron W. Hand, and made a neat speech in support of his candidate, whom he said would if elected fill the office honorably and capably. He laid stress on the fact that Mr. Rand was a Fourth ward business man. Mr. Gallup nominated J. B. Coward, last year's clerk. Messrs. Bee and Frase seconded the nominations. The vote was announced as follows: F. W. Runyon, 6; A. W. Rand, 1; J. B. Coward, 1. Mr. Runyon was present when the vote was announced.

THE RULES TO BE MADE BY-LAWS.

Mr. Marsh said that it was customary for common councils to have rules of order, and he made a motion to that effect, in addition by saying that sometimes meetings were connected without rules. He presented the rules of the previous council, and the list of committees altered and amended, and they were unanimously adopted as the rules of order for the council of 1892.

Mr. Marsh then gave notice that at the next meeting of the council he would present the rules for adoption as by-laws, so as to avoid any technical difficulties during the year.

For janitor of the council chamber Mr. Johnston nominated William Y. Ruddy. Mr. Frase nominated Charles A. Schofield. Messrs. Weber and Bird were appointed tellers. There were 7 votes for Mr. Ruddy, and 2 for Mr. Schofield.

OFFICIAL PAPERS AND STANDING COMMITTEES.

On motion of Mr. Bee, THE PRESS, the Times and the News were made the official city papers for the year. Mr. Gallup alone voted no.

President Ginna announced his standing committees as follows:

Claims—Bee, Johnston, Ackerson.

Auditing—Gallup, Weber, Frase.

Fire and Building—Erickson, Bird, Marsh.

Finance—Ackerman, Marsh, Gallup.

Laws and Ordinances—Bee, Johnston, Ackerson.

Licenses—Weber, Case, Erickson.

Police and Lights—Marsh, Erickson, Weber.

Sidewalks and Crossings—Frase, Gallup, Bee.

Streets—Johnston, Ackerson, Case.

Water and Sewerage—Case, Bee, Bird.

Cards containing the list of committees and copies of the roll call were ordered published for use of clerks.

Petitions were received for fire-alarm boxes—one at the corner of Eighth street and Park avenue, and one at the corner of Madison avenue and Twenty-third street in front of the electric light works. They were referred to the committee on fire and buildings.

TO REMEDY BAD DRAINAGE.

An urgent petition was received from residents of Liberty street in the neighborhood of the Central railroad, asking for immediate attention to the defective drainage of that street. The petitioners complained that the lack of drainage was detrimental to health, and that business prosperity was hindered and interfered with by the inundations caused by every rain, which filled the cellars and flooded the roadway and sidewalks. Mr. Bird made a speech indorsing the appeal of the people He held that the matter ought to be one of the first things to receive attention at the hands of the council. The evil was impassable—he said—after a rainstorm, and the evil ought to be remedied as soon as possible. The petition was referred to the committee on streets.

WANT LIGHTS TO DISPERSE NIGHTWATCHES.

H. M. DuFlon and others petitioned for electric street lights on Eastwood road near Park avenue and to Woodland avenue. They represented that the lights were imp-ratively needed for the protection of life and limb, and that pedestrians were in danger of being run down and shot at because the thoroughfare was so dark and lonely—all this in the city limits. The petition was referred to the committee on police and lights.

ADOPTING THE MAYOR'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

The annual message of Mayor Gilbert, which is published in full in other columns, was read, and, on motion of Mr. Marsh the part referring to the securing of fire-hydrants was referred to the committee on fire and buildings, the report at the next meeting.

ON, FOR A STREET RAILWAY!

The part referring to street work and street railroad was referred to the committee on streets. Mr. Marsh said that the people wanted a street railroad and wanted it quickly. There had been a franchise granted,—he said—but that was limited to one year. It was time for the courts It would be a long time before anything definite was reached. He thought that some arrangement might be made to settle the pending litigation—either by a change of route, or by abandoning the trolley system for a horse-car system, or some line. But some kind of a street railway was urgently needed, to develop and improve property. He moved that the committee on streets be instructed to confer with the city attorney and counsel for the parties in litigation and see if some arrangement could be made right speedily for the reorganization of the road. The committee to report at the earliest possible moment. All voted aye.

TO CORRECT ALMS-HOUSE EVILS.

That part of the message referred to the almshouse, also, that part concerning police to the police committee, and that part referring to sewers to the committee on drainage and sewerage.

On motion of Mr. Ackerman—whose desire was to effect the resolution of last year by which the street committee was given full power to act during recess appointments—it was unanimously resolved that all work done on the streets should be under the control and direction of the council, acting through the committee.

TO CLOSE BAR ROOMS AT 11.

Mr. Ackerman introduced an ordinance to close bar rooms at 11 p. m. instead of 12 midnight. It was passed on first and second readings, and ordered engrossed and advertised preparatory to third reading and final passage. Mr. Frazee alone voted no.

By resolution of Mr. Ackerman the work of sprinkling the macadamizing of Madison avenue was ordered to proceed.

For the use of the street committee during Jac nary $600 was appropriated.

AT LAST THE PRACE STREET FRONEY.

Mr. Bee introduced the long-deferred ordinance to widen Trace street. He said that a legal technicality had prevented its passage before. It was adopted on first and second readings and ordered engrossed and advertised preparatory to third reading and final passage. The clerk was instructed to advertise that all persons interested in the Peace street improvement would be heard at the regular February meeting.

On motion of Mr Bee the legal services of ex-Chancellor Theodore Runyon were requested and the clerk was instructed to notify him to that effect.

TO REPEAL THE LOW ORDINANCE.

Mr Bee moved that the corporation counsel be instructed to prepare ordinances to repeal the sewer and water-works ordinances granting franchises to J. M. Low and others. The motion was carried. The only opposition was from Mr. Gallup.

Mr. Bee moved that the corporation counsel be instructed not to inter; ose any defence to the two northern suits in the supreme court against the city, concerning water and sewerage. Mr. Marsh said that the two contracts were outrageous, and that they ought to be sustained by the courts; but at present he was hardly prepared to vote for Mr. Bee's motion, which he moved be tabled for one week. The motion to table was unanimously carried.

A note for $3,000 falling due next week was ordered extended for 30 days.

At 9:30 the council adjourned for one week.

BAD WRECK ON THE JERSEY CENTRAL.

FIFTY CARS SMASHED INTO KINDLING WOOD—AN ENGINEER TERRIBLY SCALDED, AND A FIREMAN SERIOUSLY HURT—FAITHFUL PORTRICKER IS A MORE FREIGHT LOCOMOTIVE.

[From a PRESS reporter on the spot.]

CRANFORD, N. J., Jan. 5.—An accident of extraordinary dimensions occurred on the Central Railroad of New Jersey near here this morning. Through the alleged careless-ness of the engineer of the big freight engine No. 613, fifty coal cars were totally demolished, an engine was rendered worthless, and two men were hurt, one of whom may die.

The accident occurred before daylight when a heavily loaded train of coal cars drawn by Engine No. 619 passed the Westfield station. Thence to below Cranford there is a sharp down grade, and with a full head of steam on the long train rushed eastward. Just before Cranford station was reached, the red caboose of a freight train was discovered in the darkness ahead. The engineer of 619 quickly reversed his engine and opened wide his throttle valve. The brakes were applied, and the velocity that the train had attained, made a quick stoppage impossible, and long before the rear cars felt the slackening of speed, the engine plunged into the rear of the train ahead, and before its onward course was stopped it had cut its way almost clear through to the first car of the train. Further progress was stopped the powerful piece of machinery careened to one side and leaped over two tracks to the fast express line.

The engineer was a brave man, even by investigation should prove him to be one. His post as the engine beneath him plunged onward through flying splinters of wood and iron. When its engine finally came to a standstill it was completely dismantled. The cab was torn away, nothing remaining but a small platform where the engineer and fireman stood. The steam pipes were communicated with splinters of wood, and soon the wreck surrounding the engine was consumed. Every piece of wood in the engine was burned to a crisp.

Escaping steam drove the engineer and fireman from their posts, but the latter was terribly scalded, and the engineer's name is unknown. He is a German, and lives at Philadelphia. He was taken to Elizabeth, where it was found necessary to amputate the fingers of one hand. He is terribly scalded and may die. The fireman's hurts are less serious, but one of his legs was badly crushed.

Of all those cars probably fifty coal cars lying totally demolished along the tracks. Where No. 619 crashed into the caboose there lie over forty cars mixed up in a heterogeneous mass, while for a long distance away are a dozen or so more that reared up and were crushed like eggshells by the shock of sudden stopping.

For three or eight hours after the wreck over the line was suspended, but at noon to-day three wrecking crews had cleared away much of the debris, and trains were running on the track. The other two were still blocked at 3 p. m.

Railroad men are very reticent, and decline to say whether there is any one employe but one was indicted, to say that there were lights displayed on the rear of the forward train, and that they presently had been extinguished by the train-hands to prevent being run into. Another railroad man said: "It served that engi ner righ"—but when asked to explain he gave no explanation, and said nothing. It is supposed that the sharp grade and a full head of steam led the engineer to run at an excessive speed —one that allo-ed him to over-reach the forward train inadvertently.

A Bright Rabbit.

The New York Evening Post gives us the following interesting development in the natural history line:

"A rabbit was recently caught in a coal mine near Frostburg, Md., two miles from its mouth."

Sale of Lovers' Leap.

Gen. D. Edwards has sold for the Rev. Edmund Embury the plot of ground known as the Lovers' Dell, at the corner of Rockview avenue and Grove street, North Plainfield. The purchaser was Frederick C. Jennings, and the terms were private.

Interior Goods.

The only safe way for purchasers is to insist on having the genuine article, and not be persuaded to take a substitute. By having pictures said to be "just as good," you are imposed upon thus. There are only trifling profits on goods that are made cheap, with which to induce purchasers to take them from competitors with gold. One trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla will convince you of the merits of this great blood purifier. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla. C. G. A. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

"My investigation of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER has led to the most valuable and essential results. It is the only one of the various plasters used by me that I can depend upon in every case."—Dr. Jos. Ransohoff, Cincinnati, O.

Ask for ALLCOCK'S, and don't be imposed upon by cheap and worthless imitations.

A LIVELY COUNCIL, THIS.

IT STARTS IN WITH A FLOURISH TO UNDO "BIG SIX" LEGISLATION.

After electing S. J. Ginna President and F. W. Runyon City Clerk, it Proceeds to Restore the Hour of Closing Saloons from 12 to 11 p. m., to Repeal the Low Water-works and Sewerage Franchise, to Open Peace Street, and to Reinstate Street Railway and Other Improvement Matters.

The council met last night in regular session, called the council of 1892 to order, at 8:06 Monday night. As had been predicted in these columns, Stephen S. Ginna was elected president, and Frank Willets Runyon was made city clerk. The councilmen occupied seats and arranged their desks as follows:

	Ginna
Bird	Erickson	Frazee
Ackerman		Gallup
Johnston	Weber
Marsh		Bird

When the meeting had been called to order, the first business transacted was the selection of a president. Mr. Marsh nominated Mr. Ginna. Mr. Frazee nominated Mr. Gallup. Messrs. Bee and Case were appointed tellers. Mr. Ginna received seven votes, and Mr. Gallup 1. Two ballots were blank.

PRESIDENT GINNA INSISTS ON PROMPTNESS.

Messrs. Marsh and Gallup were appointed to escort the new president to the chair. Mr. Gallup made a very short speech indeed, and Mr. Marsh "introduced" Mr. Ginna, who made a brief speech thanking his fellow-councilmen for the confidence they had reposed in him. He pledged himself to preside to the best of his ability, and trusted to their generosity to overlook and help him rectify any mistakes he might make. He said that the councilmanic pathway would probably be not so smooth as might be hoped for, but he was sure that all public questions would be disposed of in a manner entirely satisfactory to the city. He requested that the councilmen convene at each meeting on time and dispose of all business with as much promptness as possible.

For city clerk Mr. Marsh nominated F. W. Runyon. Mr. Frase nominated Aaron W. Hand, and made a neat speech in support of his candidate, whom he said would if elected fill the office honorably and capably. He laid stress on the fact that Mr. Rand was a Fourth ward business man. Mr. Gallup nominated J. B. Coward, last year's clerk. Messrs. Bee and Frase seconded the nominations. The vote was announced as follows: F. W. Runyon, 6; A. W. Rand, 1; J. B. Coward, 1. Mr. Runyon was present when the vote was announced.

THE RULES TO BE MADE BY-LAWS.

Mr. Marsh said that it was customary for common councils to have rules of order, and he made a motion to that effect, in addition by saying that sometimes meetings were connected without rules. He presented the rules of the previous council, and the list of committees altered and amended, and they were unanimously adopted as the rules of order for the council of 1892.

Mr. Marsh then gave notice that at the next meeting of the council he would present the rules for adoption as by-laws, so as to avoid any technical difficulties during the year.

For janitor of the council chamber Mr. Johnston nominated William Y. Ruddy. Mr. Frase nominated Charles A. Schofield. Messrs. Weber and Bird were appointed tellers. There were 7 votes for Mr. Ruddy, and 2 for Mr. Schofield.

OFFICIAL PAPERS AND STANDING COMMITTEES.

On motion of Mr. Bee, THE PRESS, the Times and the News were made the official city papers for the year. Mr. Gallup alone voted no.

President Ginna announced his standing committees as follows:

Claims—Bee, Johnston, Ackerson.

Auditing—Gallup, Weber, Frazee.

Fire and Building—Erickson, Bird, Marsh.

Finance—Ackerman, Marsh, Gallup.

Laws and Ordinances—Bee, Johnston, Ackerson.

Licenses—Weber, Case, Erickson.

Police and Lights—Marsh, Erickson, Weber.

Sidewalks and Crossings—Frase, Gallup, Bee.

Streets—Johnston, Ackerson, Case.

Water and Sewerage—Case, Bee, Bird.

Cards containing the list of committees and copies of the roll call were ordered published for use of clerks.

Petitions were received for fire-alarm boxes—one at the corner of Eighth street and Park avenue, and one at the corner of Madison avenue and Twenty-third street in front of the electric light works. They were referred to the committee on fire and buildings.

TO REMEDY BAD DRAINAGE.

An urgent petition was received from residents of Liberty street in the neighborhood of the Central railroad, asking for immediate attention to the defective drainage of that street. The petitioners complained that the lack of drainage was detrimental to health, and that business prosperity was hindered and interfered with by the inundations caused by every rain, which filled the cellars and flooded the roadway and sidewalks. Mr. Bird made a speech indorsing the appeal of the people He held that the matter ought to be one of the first things to receive attention at the hands of the council. The evil was impassable—he said—after a rainstorm, and the evil ought to be remedied as soon as possible. The petition was referred to the proper committee. Neither party could afford to force the Free Colinage issue into next year's contest. The time has not come for a discussion on the question of the coinage question. Let's do it ok by themselves, the persons who have mainly a speculative interest in silver will neither make nor mar the political fortunes of either party; but they are a load which no candidate and no party can afford to carry. A more desperate political maneuver than the attempt to defeat Cleveland by dishonoring Democratic principles could not be imagined. Its success would be suicidal.—Philadelphia Record.

City Attorney Garret Berry of Rahway, died suddenly in Newark, Friday evening last, while returning from Miner's theatre.

New Jersey contains six of the seventy largest cities in the United States. They are Newark, Jersey City, Paterson, Camden, Trenton and Hoboken.

New Jersey is mentioned as one of the 11 States in which the postal service is self-sustaining. It should also be stated (for the information of the party that claims to possess "all the intelligence") that New Jersey is a staunch Democratic State.

The State Board of Agriculture has taken a good step in calling a general convention to be held at Trenton on January 23, to consider the question of improved roads for New Jersey. The convention will bring together all who are practically interested in good roads, and who have any ideas or information to impart. It will give an impetus to a movement which has been gathering strength in the rural sections of the State, and have a good effect on the Legislature.

A VERY STRONG DOCUMENT.

IN HIS ANNUAL MESSAGE TO THE COUNCIL MAYOR GILBERT HITS OUT FROM THE SHOULDER.

He Alludes Effectively Among Other Points, Recommends the Establishment of an Adequate Fire System, the Opening of the Fire Department, the Introduction of a Healthful System of Sewers, the Construction of a Street Railway, Reform in the Matter of Cattle Along Streets and Destroying Shade Trees, the Enlargement of the Police Force So as to Give the Reserves Such Full Protection, the Abolishment of Peanut Rats, the Extermination of Sloppy Liquor Selling, the Forfeiture of Unused Licenses, and the Collection of Delinquent Taxes.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., January 4, 1892.

To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Plainfield.

GENTLEMEN:—Another year has passed, and the administration of the affairs of the city of New Jersey has come to the end of another term, he considered unwise to me to direct your attention to certain matters, the importance of which to the future of the city, as well as its present welfare, should be considered, and to make such recommendations as to the improvement of the same as your wisdom may suggest.

My own judgment is that the dignity of the office, as well as justice to the citizens whose choice they are, requires that an example should be made of all such offenders. In this connection I would suggest the repeal of Section 7 of the ordinance by which the hour for beginning the sessions of the council is fixed at 8 o'clock. There was no valid reason for the passage of this ordinance, and its repeal will relieve the members of the council of the anxiety and fatigue of the latter hours of the night, and lighten the labors of the police after 12 o'clock at night.

I would also suggest that the corporation counsel be instructed to prepare an ordinance to repeal the two ordinances by the provisions of which permission was granted to J. M. Low and others to lay pipes and mains for the purpose of introducing water and sewerage into the city, and to supply the city and its inhabitants with the people, as recently expressed at the polls, was sufficiently emphatic to justify such action. The matter is now in the hands of the courts for adjudication, and I trust that my recommendations may receive your favorable and speedy consideration. Respectfully submitted,

A. GILBERT,
Mayor.

OPENING OF THE JANUARY TERM.

Grand Jurors Drawn, and The Slander Murder Trial set Down for January 18.

The opening of the January term of court took place at 10:30 Tuesday morning, at Elizabeth, before Judges Depue, Wilbur and Hyer on the bench. The court room was filled to its utmost capacity, while within the rail was congregated legal talent from all parts of the county.

The grand jury to serve for the present term filed in the room and were duly sworn as follows:

Elizabeth—Peter Bennett, foreman, Lawrence O'Donnell, Adam Bauer, John Barry, William G. Balantine, Gustave Brauswman, William G. Hyles, William M. Oliver, Peter J. Donnelly, Milton W. Halsey, Thomas H. Smith, William McKinley.

Plainfield—Joseph G. Miller, Solomon Dunn.

Rahway—William Richards, Dai Freeman.

Union—Noah W. Parsell.

Westfield—Augustus K. Gale.

Fa wood—Joseph A. Patterson.

Cranford—Henry D. Hendrickson.

Summit—Edward J. Mowbray.

Linden—Milton C. Lowden.

Springfield—Albert A. Sleeky.

New Providence—Simon P. Dobbs.

Noah W. Parsell of Union being over eighty years of age, was excused from serving as a juror.

Judge Vanlyke informed the jury that he understood that but one case of any great magnitude would be brought forward for its consideration, that being a case of homicide, referring to the murder of Frank Lonsdale, for which crime Peter and Annie Corvi stand charged. The grand jury was instructed to give the case full investigation. After which they retired.

Prosecutor Marsh informed the court that it became his sad duty to announce the death of another member of the Union County Bar association, Garret Berry of Rahway.

Mr. Marsh referred to the deceased as a man of unusually high standing, and all who knew him. In closing his remarks he said that Mr. Berry's death reminded the members once more forcibly when the loss of the other five members recently departed, "that in the midst of life we are in death." Mr. Marsh then moved that a committee of three be appointed to draw up suitable resolutions relative to the death of Mr. Berry.

Judge Vanlyke in reipying said that he heartily accorded with the remarks of Mr. Marsh and appointed as a committee on resolutions Messrs. Hall, Mayo, Judge Alward and Thomas Shaffer of Rahway.

On motion of Prosecutor Marsh, the case of Herbert Blaster, charged with the murder of Thomas Wilcox, which had been set down for Tuesday next, was postponed until Wednesday.

In the case of James Barry against the Central Railroad company, in which Barry brought suit for $20,000 damages for injuries sustained, and which was tried by jury before Judge Depue, the latter entered a nonsuit, alleging that it was not reason-ible for the injuries received by Barry, as being a fellow ser- vant of those employed on the train. Barry gave notice that the demurrer was well taken and sustained it, holding that the company could not be held responsible.

Mr. Connolly, as counsel for Barry, says that he will carry the case to a higher court.

One of the Old Soldiers.

The correspondent of the New York World thus describes the Congressman of this district:

"Jacob A. Geissenhainer, the member from the Third District, is good looking, wealthy, generous and bald headed. He is a lawyer by profession and a Congressman by large majority. He is one of the strongest party men in the House, and is regarded as one of the old reliables when roll is called. His absence from his seat was noticed with regret all over the chamber. He never shirks, but when there is music he faces it. On rare occasions he makes a little music himself. He has a pleasant tenor voice, is fond of dancing, and his ideas are stated distinctly and with force. He is a garrit reformer of a large size, and as he has been in Congress he has pretty well mastered it. Mr. Geissenhainer lives very pleasantly at Elizabeth when he is not in session, and as he is his temper and his lives comfortably in this city when Congress is in session."

Union County Democrats Name Their Leaders.

The Union County Democratic Executive committee met Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock and transacted important business. The following officers were reelected for the ensuing year:

Thomas B. Budd, chairman; Charles A. Ryan, secretary; J. W. Crane, treasurer.

The following is the County Executive committee:

Elizabeth—First ward, Michael J. Liddy; Second ward, John F. Fuhrman; Third ward, Thomas Burns; Fourth ward, John Burns, sr.; Fifth ward, Frederick Mayer; Sixth ward, Charles A. Ryan; Seventh ward, Joseph Dorsey; Eighth ward, John Shanfelder; Ninth ward, Thomas Spruell; Tenth ward, Thomas C. Tathem; Eleventh ward, Thomas B. Budd; Twelfth ward, Wm. Hennessy.

Rahway—First ward, John Colley; Second ward, Chas. E. Lambert; Third ward, David B. Bethell; Fourth ward, John L. Ryan.

Plainfield—First ward, Walter L. Reed; Second ward, Rowland B. Mercer; Third ward, August Bellman; Fourth ward, Jas. Francis.

Westfield—Dr. W. Sanderson.

Fanwood—Chas. H. Force.

Cranford—Edward Hall, sr.; Andrew Thomas; Thos. F. Jane.

Springfield—E. Cory Cox.

Union—Thomas Connolly, Jr.

Linden—S. M. Williams.

A BIG FIRE AT WESTFIELD.

TWO BUSINESS BLOCKS DESTROYED, AND A FAMILY NARROWLY ESCAPE BURNING IN THEIR BEDS.

Both Occupants of the Town Burned Out—The Fire-Alarm Blunt in Danger—A Notable Fire from the Aloni Department Could Handle, and Elizabeth and Plainfield Responded to Fine Assistance.

From the PRESS office of Jan. 4.

THE neighboring town of Westfield was visited last night by fire which destroyed thousands of dollars in property and came near sacrificing human life.

The fire started in the printing office of Cash & Collins, publishers of the Leader, at the corner of Prospect and Broad streets, in the store formerly occupied by Geo L. VanEmburgh of this city.

The fire-alarm was sounded at 1:35. In an incredibly short time it was spreading through the adjoining buildings all along the two thoroughfares.

Before such a fierce fire the local volunteer department was almost helpless, but the bucket brigade and the chemical engine company set bravely to work, and battled heroic-ally against the tremendous odds. Such help as they similarly accorded the advance of the flames, but the fire continued to gain headway in spite of their exertions.

A call for help was therefore sent to Elizabeth and Plainfield. Chief engineer T. O. Doane of this city received his message at 3:00, and at 3:30 Hayes engine, No. 1, was ready to start for the scene of disaster. Just as the start was to be made a second disaster came saying that the entire section of water pipe in advance was not needed, and the horses were sahitched and returned to their stalls.

Later a third and imperative message came. It said: "Fire has broken out a resh. Come as quick as you can."

At that time Rolla engine, No 2, of Elizabeth, was on the way to Elizabeth, waiting for orders. The orders came immediately, and Rolla engine was started on its way to the burning town.

It was then about 4:30, and chief Doane sent out the special call of five blows on the gong, indicating "Fire out of town—east of Somerset street—No. 1 engine and Alert hose companies respond."

Chief Doane and number of firemen drove rapidly to Westfield in a wagon, the engine and hose reels following closely. When they reached Westfield, which was in just half an hour, Rolla engine from Elizabeth was already unloaded and was throwing quite a stream. She drew water from a small brook which had been dammed up, and which runs through a gap, and in the meadows.

Chief Doane was met by the Westfield chief, who thanked him for responding to the summons but said that his services would be needed, and the Plainfield firemen returned home.

The two rows of buildings facing Broad street and Prospect street, respectively, were completely destroyed, with all their contents. Collins & Cash lost everything, as did also James Moffett the carpenter, Charles Hobbie the coal dealer, J. R. Bates the cigar dealer, Bennett, the stationer, and Schoonover & Scudder the butchers. Temperance Hall, Royal Arcanum Hall, and the office of the Westfield Standard, also were destroyed, as was the meeting room of the Westfield brass band.

The fire was stopped on Broad street at the frame building owned by John Darsh, and occupied in part as a Chinese laundry. The tenants had all their property moved out, but the building got no harm but a severe scorching, thanks to the hard work of the firemen.

On Prospect street the fire was stopped at the thi shop of Mahlon H. Ferris, in a large frame building owned by James T. Pierson, the side wall of which was flaming forward. Had this building burned, the fire must have swept on through the next block, facing the Central railway station.

The long row of brick buildings known as Love's block, and directly opposite the buildings burned on Broad street, narrowly escaped destruction. The wooden portions were on several times, and every pane of glass in the block, from Shove's pharmacy to Eckel's bakery, was broken by the intense heat. In this block are the telephone and telegraph offices.

The loss of the fire cannot be estimated with any degree of exactness. All of the burned buildings were of wood, and if fairly insured—reflected with substantial brick structures, as is probable, the fire will have been a blessing in disguise.

The buildings burned like tinder, fiercely anything from them was saved. The sons of Pl Heenan, a tinner and plumber who lived in apartments adjoining Arcanum Hall, was especially unfortunate. He saved little but absolutely everything they had in the world, including furniture, clothing, and $25 in savings.

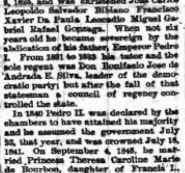
Mr. Heenan barely had time to save his wife and the lives of his loved ones. He was awakened by the crackling of glass in the windows, and found that the building was all afire. He and his wife rushed through the flames with their little ones in their arms, and were singed and almost overcome by the intense heat. There was no insurance whatever, on their property.

The Plainfield hook and ladder truck, which was hastily dispatched to the scene of the fire, was unable to render any assistance, on account of the fact that the ladder was too short to reach the roofs of the burning buildings.

The Elizabeth hook and ladder truck, which was also dispatched to the scene of the fire, was unable to render any assistance, on account of the fact that the ladder was too short to reach the roofs of the burning buildings.

The Aloni department, which is the pride of Westfield, was unable to render any assistance, on account of the fact that the hose was too short to reach the roofs of the burning buildings.

The Aloni department, which is the pride of Westfield, was unable to render any assistance, on account of the fact that the hose was too short to reach the roofs of the burning buildings.



DOM PEDRO, EX-EMPEROR OF BRAZIL.

DOM PEDRO THE GOOD.

Downfall Chosen of the Last Reigning Power of Brazil.

His Was a Selection, Transient and Monumental—The Emperor's Life of Service and Last Days.

Dom Pedro will be mourned throughout the civilized world as one of the best and most enlightened of rulers. He was born 2 December, 1825, was married 4, 1843, and was christened Joao Carlos Leopoldo Salvador Bibiano Francisco Xavier De Paula Miguel Gabriel Rafael Gonzaga. When not six years old he became sovereign by the abdication of his father, Emperor Pedro I. From 1831 to 1833 his tutor and the sole regent was Don Bonifacio Jose de Andrada E. Silva, leader of the democratic party; but after the fall of that statesman a council of regency continued the duties.

In 1840 Pedro II was declared by the chambers to have attained his majority and he assumed the government. July 23, that year, and was crowned July 18, 1841. On September 4, 1843, he married Princess Theresa Christine Maria de Bourbon, daughter of Francis I., king of the two Sicilies. Almost his entire reign was characterized by liberal parliament, and for years, or until 1848, there were stormy times, but he finally succeeded in quelling the fiery agitations of the people and for forty years he enjoyed an empire without internal convulsions.

In 1850 he felt secure in beginning the peaceful work of emancipating the blacks, and on September 4 of that year he decreed that the barter and sale of human beings should cease. It was not until 1871, however, that the liberal parliament to pass laws for the emancipation of slaves as they reached certain years of servitude, and it was not until 1888 that all human beings in Brazil were free.

Pedro had a dispute with England in 1862 which threatened to assume big proportions, but was finally referred to the king of the Belgians for arbitration. He decided in favor of Dom Pedro. Then there was a war against Paraguay, begun by Brazil and continued for five years. It ended in 1870 with the acquisition by Brazil of 1,000 square miles of the territory of Paraguay.

Dom Pedro spoke Portuguese, Spanish, French, English, German and Italian fluently, and had traveled most extensively all over the world. In 1862 he made his first trip through Europe, and was received with the best of favor. Amazon and its tributaries upon to the commerce of the world. In 1871 he received a gift from the Canadian people, and this year, he went to the United States, and saw the country—its people, its industries, its institutions—more thoroughly and more intelligently perhaps than any other distinguished visitor. He traveled like a private citizen, for he detested mere show and adulation. In 1887 he went to Europe for his health, which had been completely broken down. During his absence his daughter, Princess Isabella, acted as regent. When the emperor's health was restored he returned to Brazil in the latter part of 1888.

In November, 1889, a revolution broke out in Brazil, the monarchy was overturned, a republic declared, and the emperor and the entire royal family were banished. Dom Pedro and family shipped to Europe with orders never again to set foot in Brazil. Since that time Dom Pedro had resided most of the time in Paris.

It is said that the last conclusive proof of the love and devotion of the Brazilian people for Dom Pedro's offer to return to Brazil, made in a manifesto issued during the Provisional Government, that he declined. The disease which had for some time troubled him was aggravated by the fatigue of his journey and by his bed. His death will probably put an end forever to the attempts to revive the Brazilian monarchy.

Common Soap
Rots Clothes and Chaps Hands.
IVORY SOAP
DOES NOT

HYDE & JACKSON,
BANKERS.
30 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.
Offer choice Railroad and Water Bonds, yielding from 4 to 6 per cent., which have received personal investigation.
WRITE FOR PARTICULARS.

POSTPONEMENT OF SALE OF Mount Pleasant Stock Farm
Stallions,
Brood Mares
And Colts,
TO Saturday, Jan. 9,
1892, at 12 o'clock, noon,
FINDERNE,
Somerset county, N. J.
For particulars of Pedigrees of Stock, see last week's PRESS.
Arrangements have been made to exhibit the Stock under cover in case the weather proves unfavorable.
WALTER A. CHESTER,
Of "Turf, Field & Farm," Auctioneer.

THE PLAINFIELD
PACKING HOUSE
25 West Front Street,
Fresh Beef, Lamb,
Veal, Mutton & Poultry,
Which it is prepared to sell at Reasonable Prices!
and all goods delivered free of charge.
C. M. ULRICH.

NEWARK BEE HIVE.
Special January Sale
NOW IN PROGRESS
NEWARK BEE HIVE
Special January Sale Means
That every article in their mammoth establishment can be bought at a reduced price.
IT MEANS that cut price values are offered by the hundreds and thousands in every department, and by the new method of reducing stock prior to inventory.
IT MEANS should you or any of your family be in need of Seasonable Wear or of any other necessity sold in our stores, that
Now is the Time
To buy it cheaper than it has ever been offered for before or will again be sold at after this sale.
IT MEANS that our sales are "Above Par" in every department, and that as such recognized by thousands of New Jersey people from every part of the State, who will help in making this
Our Eleventh Annual Event,
The greatest success of them all.
For Full Particulars and Itemized list of
Special Bargains
Send us your name and address
L. S. PLAUT & CO.,
BROAD STREET, 707 to 731,
NEWARK, N. J.
CATARRH
CREAM BALM
HAY-FEVER
Gives Relief at Once.
It Cleanses the Head, Allays Pain, Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Restores the Senses of Taste, Smell and Hearing.
A quick Cure. Not a Liquid or Snuff. Agreeable to use. Price 50 cents at Druggists or by mail. Sample mailed free.
ELY BROTHERS, Owego, N. Y.

THE PRESS.

(NEW YORK)

FOR 1892.

Has a Larger Daily Circulation than any other Republican Newspaper in America.

DAILY.	SUNDAY.	WEEKLY.

The Aggressive Republican Journal of the Metropolis. A Newspaper for the Masses.

Founded December 1, 1887.

Circulation Over 100,000 Copies DAILY.

THE PRESS is the organ of no faction; pulls no wires; has no animosities to avenge.

The most remarkable Newspaper success in New York.

THE PRESS is a National Newspaper.

Cheap news, vulgar sensation and trash find no place in the columns of THE PRESS.

THE PRESS has the brightest Editorial page in New York. It sparkles with points.

THE PRESS SUNDAY EDITION is a splendid 1wo-page paper, covering every interesting subject in existence.

THE PRESS WEEKLY EDITION contains all the gems and things of the Daily and Sunday editions.

For those who cannot afford the DAILY or prefer to pay by quarters from first receiving it, THE WEEKLY is a splendid substitute.

AS AN ADVERTISING MEDIUM

THE PRESS has no superior in N. Y.

THE PRESS

Within the reach of all. The Best and Cheapest Newspaper in America.

Daily and Sunday, one year	$8.00
" " six months	2.50
" " one month	45
Daily only, per year	3.00
" " four months	1.00
Sunday, one year	2.00
Weekly Press, one year	1.00

Send for THE PRESS Circular.

Sample free. Agents wanted everywhere. Liberal commissions.

Address, THE PRESS,
38 PARK ROW, N. Y.
13 28 w5

FINDERNE
Somerset county, N. J.
For particulars of Pedigrees of Stock, see last week's PRESS.
Arrangements have been made to exhibit the Stock under cover in case the weather proves unfavorable.
WALTER A. CHESTER,
Of "Turf, Field & Farm," Auctioneer.
1 29 6w

THE PLAINFIELD
PACKING HOUSE
25 West Front Street,
Fresh Beef, Lamb,
Veal, Mutton & Poultry,
Which it is prepared to sell at Reasonable Prices!
and all goods delivered free of charge.
C. M. ULRICH.

NEWARK BEE HIVE.
Special January Sale Means
That every article in their mammoth establishment can be bought at a reduced price.
IT MEANS that cut price values are offered by the hundreds and thousands in every department, and by the new method of reducing stock prior to inventory.
IT MEANS should you or any of your family be in need of Seasonable Wear or of any other necessity sold in our stores, that
Now is the Time
To buy it cheaper than it has ever been offered for before or will again be sold at after this sale.
IT MEANS that our sales are "Above Par" in every department, and that as such recognized by thousands of New Jersey people from every part of the State, who will help in making this
Our Eleventh Annual Event,
The greatest success of them all.
For Full Particulars
and Itemized list of
Special Bargains
Send us your name and address
L. S. PLAUT & CO.,
BROAD STREET, 707 to 731,
NEWARK, N. J.
CATARRH
CREAM BALM
HAY-FEVER
Gives Relief at Once.
It Cleanses the Head, Allays Pain, Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Restores the Senses of Taste, Smell and Hearing.
A quick Cure. Not a Liquid or Snuff. Agreeable to use. Price 50 cents at Druggists or by mail. Sample mailed free.
ELY BROTHERS, Owego, N. Y.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—In Chancery of New Jersey between John H. Thompson, complainant, and Sarah A. Jones and husband, defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises. Dated December 17, 1891. Thomas Brown, Sheriff. Pl. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises. Dated December 17, 1891. Thomas Brown, Sheriff. Pl. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises. Dated December 17, 1891. Thomas Brown, Sheriff. Pl. fa. for s

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

LET THERE BE ANNEXATION.

Plainfield and North Plainfield Can and Should Be United.

FROM THE PRESS OF DEC. 31.

If Mayor Alexander Gilbert of the city of Plainfield, and Mayor Charles Place of the borough of North Plainfield, hand in hand, with the unanimous indorsement of both res cita, the influence of the representative citizens, and the support of the people of both places, would unite an effort before the legislature of New Jersey during the coming session, an act could re passed uniting the borough and city together under one government as should be.

Let there be a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull altogether, in this matter.

—Happy New Year!

—The snow knocks out the bicycle.

—This is the first sleighing weather of the season.

—Last winter it was "la grippe". This season it is plain grip.

—Five hundred people were fed in Hope chapel New York.

—The Legislature of New Jersey will assemble at Trenton Tuesday of next week.

—Joseph G. Miller and Solomon F. Dunn are the Plainfield members of the present grand jury.

—The snow makes happy the denizens in rubber clothing, skates and furs; also the fellows with sleighs.

—The electric street lighting service is being extended out East Front street to South Plains at the expense of private residences.

—The prompt firemen have changed their regular meetings from the first Monday to the fourth Wednesday evening of each month.

—One of the handsomest calendars that reaches this office this year is indorsed with the compliments of attorney John Urick. It is a beauty.

—An exchange says it is now time for the contractors to begin to make preparations for the winter by clipping his animal and raising a full beard himself.

—Our readers should remember there is yet plenty of fuel for fire and snow. Winter is only two weeks old. It begins astronomically on the 21st of December, and lasts eighty-nine days and fifty-seven minutes.

—The local physicians had their quarterly meeting and banquet at the Albion Monday. That the dinner was a superb one goes without saying, since the Albion chef prepares it and of course the doctors had a fine time.

—The sale of Mt Pleasant stock farm stallions, brood mares and colts has been postponed to Saturday, Jan. 9, at 11 noon, at Flinderne, Somerset county. The pedigrees of this fine stock were published last week. Walker C. Chester, of Prof. Field and Farm, will be the auctioneer. This is an excellent chance to secure first-class horseflesh.

—One week ago Monday Miss Maggie Sperling, a school girl in Miss Davis's class at the Plainfield High school, left for her home at Blackwell's Mills, for the holidays. She was suddenly stricken with typhoid fever and died the following afternoon at 5 o'clock. She was a most estimable young woman, and her untimely endeared herself to all her classmates, who will be deeply grieved at their sad loss. She was in her sixteenth year.

—The general public has no idea of the recent wonderful increase in the number of corporations in this State. Companies Charles A. Reed, of this city, who has done the big work in incorporating six different companies within the last three months, and says the same conditions obtains have as many advantages over partnerships many of the shrewdest business firms are becoming incorporated, and the number of such companies is growing to an extent which seems incredible.

A $50,000 COMPANY.

Doctor Chiera's "Sanatine" Will be Heard From.

Certificate of incorporation of the American Stomatine company has just been recorded. Dan P. Lagrett, C. H. Thiera and Chas. A. Reed are the incorporators. The business of the company will be the manufacture and sale of patient and proprietary medicines. The remedies, but especially "Stomatine", an excellent dentrifice and gargle discovered by Dr. Thiera about four years ago. The sale of this preparation has attained such large proportions through the recommendations of physicians and others who have prescribed or used it as to require increased facilities for manufacture. The company is therefore to be formed, and will at once proceed properly to advertise the remedy and place it upon the market in a manner that will undoubtedly give it an enormous sale.

A Great Scheme to Save "Trooper, Sir."

FROM THE PRESS OF DEC. 31.

Why should not the railroad companies paint on the side of the cars such legends as these—"Entrance," "Exit," or something to that effect? Such a scheme followed up might be the means of getting people to move the one way on the cars, a circumstance that would doubtless save time, to say nothing of temper, etc.

A Wedding.

L. N. Wyckoff and Miss Anale Moore were married at the residence of the bride on New street, New Year's eve, by the Rev. Dr. Ketcham. Miss Maggie Sharp was bridesmaid and J. Wyckoff was "best man." Edward Tomlinson and Cyrus Moore were ushers. Friends were present from Long Branch, Brooklyn, New York, Newark, Westfield, Plainfield, and Pompton. The happy couple received many fine gifts.

A Loose of the Fire.

It was only a few weeks ago that Westfield celebrated with much enthusiasm the success of one of its fire companies in a voting contest. Now, Abram Williamson, of that town, loaned State celebrities, and the speeches that were made showed that the Westfield people took much pride in their fire department. But this was before the big fire broke out on Monday morning. That showed them just what their department could do, and, alas, it showed too that in great emergencies their fire companies were not equal to the task. The men and the apparatus were taxed to their utmost and all that could possibly be expected, but the conflagration was too big for them. When Westfield recovers from the loss, better buildings will be put up and a better fire department will probably be provided. It will be no discredit to the old department, but it will be more in proportion to the needs of this growing town.

I have been troubled with a cough for over two months, and tried all the remedies I could hear of, but found nothing to help me until I used Piso's Cure for Consumption. I think it the best cough medicine in the world.—Mrs. Jennie Hall, Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 15, 1890.

I have been troubled with a cough for over two months, and tried all the remedies I could hear of, but found nothing to help me until I used Piso's Cure for Consumption. I think it the best cough medicine in the world.—Mrs. Jennie Hall, Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 15, 1890.

I have been troubled with a cough for over two months, and tried all the remedies I could hear of, but found nothing to help me until I used Piso's Cure for Consumption. I think it the best cough medicine in the world.—Mrs. Jennie Hall, Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 15, 1890.

PERSONALIA.

Charles B. Maltby, Esq., of this city, has left Rome and is now at Nice.

The engagement is announced of Miss Edith Harold to W. E. McClymont.

Harry A. Thorne has returned to Saranac Lake, from his holiday visit to his parents.

Miss Rostmann of Boston has been visiting her relatives at the home of J. A. Hubbard.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Peck, jr., have returned from Old Point Comfort very much charmed with the spot.

The Rev. Hobart Clark has returned from Boston, where he has been attending the funeral of his father.

The many friends of Miss Flo Randolph will be pleased to learn that she is recovering from her serious illness of typhoid fever.

Andrew M. Vanderbeek was at his place of business, 39 Park avenue, during day, for the first time after a 15 weeks' siege of illness.

Catherine Compton, widow of the late L. L. Compton, and mother of C. K. Compton, the confectioner, died Monday night at the age of 69.

The engagement is announced of Miss Josie Pierson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Pierson of Broadway, to one the sons of the Rev. John D. McKenzie of this city.

John M. Crane, of Elizabeth street, West, is back from Europe. He traveled 6,000 miles in 23 days, and perfected up the company he represents business schemes that will involve in time millions of dollars.

Col. Laing, of the 79th Regiment, Elizabethport, of New York city, was one of those from outside the city who attended the funeral of John W. Laing Tuesday. Deeply known deceased for many years, and who desired to express his sympathy to the family.

One of the most enjoyable of New Year's dances was that given by Mrs. H. Clifford Van Emburgh, Carroll Emerson and Fred. S. Cutter. It was held in the assembly room of Miss Scribner's private school building in LaGrande avenue and Washington street.

Mrs. Mason W. Tyler has issued cards for receptions to be given Fridays January 15 and 29 at Tyler London, E. C. Motherell tells THE PRESS that Mr. Ovitt contemplates making his home in this city again, upon his permanent return from Europe.

Mrs. Cochran, of Chester, Pa., [illegible] daughter of Dr. Witherspoon, President of Princeton College and one of the ancestors of the Declaration of Independence], together with her niece, Mrs. Scribner, of Roselle, and Mrs. Martin of Hillside avenue, formed a very pleasant luncheon party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchen on the closing day of the last year.

H. O. Newman, who for the past thirty years has been connected with one firm in New York in a confidential capacity of trust and responsibility, has severed his connection with the firm of Boice, Runyon & Co., the purchasers of the business of D. D. Casler & Bro. Mr. Newman will occupy the position of associate manager, and the firm is to be especially congratulated upon securing one so well qualified in every particular for the place.

The wedding of Miss Edith Davis's class at the Plainfield High school, left for her home at Blackwell's Mills, for the holidays. She was suddenly stricken with typhoid fever and died the following afternoon at 5 o'clock. She was a most estimable young woman, and her untimely endeared herself to all her classmates, who will be deeply grieved at their sad loss. She was in her sixteenth year.

The general public has no idea of the recent wonderful increase in the number of corporations in this State. Companies Charles A. Reed, of this city, who has done the big work in incorporating six different companies within the last three months, says the same conditions obtains have as many advantages over partnerships many of the shrewdest business firms are becoming incorporated, and the number of such companies is growing to an extent which seems incredible.

GONE WITH THE RAILROAD'S CASH.

John Flechstein Holds His Employer, the Ocean Station Agent, of Jersey Central and Union News Company Funds.

FROM THE PRESS OF JAN. 4.

On New Year's eve, when most persons were planning resolutions for reform in minor vices, John Flechstein, a youth of 18 years, employed at the Ocean station of the Central railroad, was engaged in other business. When the New Year dawned John had departed from this locality, and with him he took unknown amounts of money stolen from the Union News company and the Central railroad.

Flechstein never knew his parents. His first realization of the world and its hardships came to him in the home of the Sisters of Charity in Newark. He remained there until he was old and strong enough to be bound out to farmer Baine of Greenbrook. Later he went to work for Mr. Holman of Dunellen. Fourteen months ago, the late Mrs. Harford, who was until her death the Central railroad's chief agent at Jersey, hired Flechstein to assist her in her duties, and for several months past he had been continued in the service of Mrs. Reader, the present agent.

The latter did everything for the fellow that could be done to make him comfortable. He gave him a home with his own and fed and fed well, and in addition was paid a small salary. In various ways he had an opportunity of earning considerable money, and a boy with but little education was doing exceedingly well. He seemed thoroughly honest and upright, and was a regular attendant at church with Mrs. Reader and her niece.

Indeed, so well-liked was he that on Christmas day the commuters made up a purse of over ten dollars for him. Numerous presents were given to him, not the least of which were Mrs. Reader's gifts. Prosperity seems to have been too much for him.

On New Year's eve he bade everyone in the station good-night and went to his room. His bed was undisturbed the following morning and his companions went to call him. A hasty examination of his books and the cash drawers of the railroad and Union News company showed that Flechstein had been gone from the books, so it is impossible to estimate the loss. It probably will reach $100. Flechstein also borrowed money from various persons about the station before he went.

It is said that he was seen about 9 o'clock New Year's day in the Plainfield station, but since that time nothing has been heard from him. Detectives are looking for him throughout the State.

CHEERS FOR FATHER STAFFORD.

The Boys' Club Have a Good Time at the New Year's Party.

SILDOM has the Boys' club presented so lively a scene as it did at the New-Year's reception Friday afternoon. About two hundred of the members were present, and for boys who were in perfect health they were generally a well-behaved company.

For an hour they ate about the tables, playing games, reading and otherwise amusing themselves. When Mr. Miner, the superintendent, sounded the bell to secure their attention to the programme that had been prepared, the hum of voices speedily ceased, and all showed an intelligent interest in what followed.

There was first a short address by Mr. Miner, in which he spoke of the success of the club during the year, which, he said, had now a membership of nearly five hundred. He was followed by Mr. Bradley, a guest and relative of Mrs D. W. Pond, who gave a recitation, and by Mr. Mellick, who presented a short dialect selection.

The special address of the afternoon was then given by the Rev. Mr. Stafford, assistant rector of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, who made good use of the occasion to emphasize some very practical lessons that the club is intended to teach. When called upon, at the close of his remarks, to give father shouts for three cheers, the boys did so with a will.

The boys were ready at this point to enjoy the amusing exhibition that the old "Santa Claus" usually made of himself. The seven heads shown in this part panorama and part musical performance belonged to boys of the club, and they evidently succeeded in amusing their companions.

At the conclusion of the exercises in the main room a warning to the late members who had been present the offenses at the rooms during the year, which was secured by John Ronan; another was given to the use during the most knowledge of the contents of the library books, and was taken by George Apgar; and a third was given for the greatest improvement in behavior, which went to R. D. Berger and William March.

The club was then dismissed, and as each boy passed the landing at the foot of the stairs he was presented with a generous gift of cake and candy. The way these two hundred boys "went for" those sumptuous edibles was a thing the officers of the club who steamed the tide as it poured down the stairway.

The managers of the club present were W. D. Wadsworth, Mrs. Dr. D. W. Pond, Mrs. W. L. Patton, W. H. Murray, M. D., H. B. Wells, Dexter O. Tiffany, G. Wharton Edwards, and Mr. Mellick, and they were assisted in their efforts to make the occasion one to be remembered by the boys of the club.

A GOOD MAN GONE.

Deep sadness and sorrow of the entire community was the result of the death of "Uncle" John W. Laing, who for the past 30 years has been the friend of the poor or distressed in many ways. No one ever knew Mr. John W. Laing and for existence but he received it. His noble heart and generous hand will be a remembrance to many a person, and his name is enshrined in his life. At funeral men in every sense of the word, his memory will remain green in the heart of the community in which he has so long lived and where he succeeded and honored.

The circumstances of Mr. Laing's death were as follows. The evening previous he had spent a very good spirits, although having recently recovered from an attack of the grip, destroying himself with steady regardless, as was his usual habit. He retired to his room in Laing's Hotel, where he has lived for so many years, about half-past nine o'clock in the evening, and was apparently in his usual health in the morning, one of the guests of the hotel, Councilman V. S. Frazee, went to his room, where he was horrified by finding Mr. Laing lying upon the floor alongside his couch, face downwards, apparently dead. From appearances it was evident that Mr. Laing had recovered retired an unusually long time attached with an apoplectic fit and fallen out of his bed to the floor. His immediate relatives in this city were summoned at once, together with Dr. Frebasco. The latter pronounced his death, and requested that County Physician Wescott be summoned. That official arrived shortly after, pronounced apoplexy as the cause of death. Undertaker Runyon, who has served in like capacity in the family on many previous occasions, was notified, and took charge of the remains.

John W. Laing has been proprietor of the well-known and popular Laing's Hotel for across fifty years. His father, Abraham, established the business many years previous to his own death. "Laing's Hotel" has been a well-known and popular name throughout this and other States, and many grey-haired men and women to-day recount with fond recollection the days and sometimes they have enjoyed under its hospitable roof under the management of "Uncle John."

John Webster Laing was born in Passaic township, Middlesex county, N. J., Oct. 27, 1827, and early in life was an apprentice in the harness-making business. He afterward went to Accabonac, to mother Sarah Laing. He was the last of his family, being the fourth son of a group of eight children, William, who died in California; Hugh, who died in Mexico, James, who died in Plainfield, Ann Eliza, and Aldena, who died in Chester, N. J., Mary Jane Webster, who died in Plainfield in their youth. He came from Scotch descent; his ancestors coming to this country in the ship Caledonia in 1683.

There remain seven nieces and four nephews of deceased, Mrs. James H Force, Mrs. W. L. Force, Mrs. Clifford M. Dodd, Mrs. M. C. Young, Mrs. E. A. Stanger, Mrs. J. T. Lee, Mrs. H. C. Ohl, John and Hiram DeCamp, William and Hugh Laing.

For many years Mr. Laing has desired to dispose of his valuable property in this city on account of failing health and the infirmities of age, but was prevented by his love for his home and his family. Mrs. Hiram H DeCamp. His desire was to pass the remainder of his days among his nieces and nephews.

Mr. Laing has had two slight attacks of paralysis within a few years, only the immediate members of his family being cognizant of the fact.

A coincidence was the death of Mr. Laing is the fact that his father and mother died in the same building wherein he breathed his last. They died in a room adjoining the second floor and he in one directly over it.

In politics Mr. Laing was a Whig in his younger days and an uncompromising Democrat since the war. In religious matters he steadily adhered to the Quaker faith, and followed out the "Golden Rule" in all his dealings with his fellow men. He was a bachelor. He was fond of relating his experiences of riding some 1,800 miles on horseback throughout the west in his younger days. His father, Abraham, in his younger days had a bakery at Madison, N. J., and John used to drive the bakery wagon throughout the neighboring country.

The remains of the late John W. Laing were consigned to their last resting-place beside his kindred in Evergreen cemetery, on Plainfield ave., Tuesday afternoon. The services were held from his late residence, Laing's Hotel, and were conducted by the Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, who highly eulogized the deceased for his many acts of charity and for his honesty and integrity in all his dealings through life. There was present a large concourse of relatives and friends—for John W. Laing had many, many friends, who will respect his memory in the time to come.

The pall-bearers were some of his life friends, as follows: Wallace Vail, A. Darby, J. S. Martine, William McDowell Cortell, and Joseph B. Cutter.

The body was encased in a plain black, cloth covered casket, silver handles, and clothed in a plain suit of garments such as he had always worn, including a high collar of the old style.

The only floral pieces were a large pillow of beautiful flowers, with the words "Uncle John" in the centre, and a shield of roses with the words "Our Friend." The Bishop was desired that his fun pal should be plain in every particular.

The death of the next to last of his family, his brother, Alden Laing, occurred two years ago Jan 5, the anniversary of his burial.

SUPREME COURT.

Susan Charlotte Savage vs. Noah W. Pike. On Contract. Ang. W. Cutler. W. E. McClure.

Aaron D. Thompson vs. Mrs. L. H. Smith. On Contract. Chas. A. Reed. D. Haney, jr.

The Prairie Cattle Company, Limited, vs. Francis K. Schoonmaker, et al. On Contract. Nelson Runyon. W. K. McClure.

CIRCUIT COURT.

James A. Demarest vs. Rowland M. Smith. In Tort. Craig A. Marsh. Fred C. Marsh.

Electric Therapeutic Institute vs. Walter L. Hatfield, Executor, etc. On Contract. Chas. Broad. Craig A. Marsh.

Bernhard Fogel vs. Joseph T. Vail. On Contract. Craig A. Marsh. Chas. A. Reed.

JURY APPEAL LIST.

Charles T. Kissam, Applt., vs. Arthur M. Griffen, Applee. Joseph Lewis. William J. Noisen, Applt., vs. Charles T. Vail, Applee. Justice V. W. Nash.

JUSTICES APPEAL LIST.

William Callahan, Applt., vs. The Treasurer of the City of Plainfield, Applee. Judge W. H. Codington.

Levi Hatfield, Applt., vs. Charles H. Lyman, Applee. Justice V. W. Nash.

Caroline B. Bronson, Augustus J. Bronson, Executors of, etc., Appls., vs. Frank Z. Miller et als., Applees. Justice Louis F. Wadsworth.

Aaron D. Thompson, Applt., vs. John Lyman, Applee. Justice L. F. Wadsworth.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

ANOTHER CRASH ON THE CENTRAL.

A Broken Axle Causes a Bad Wreck at Greenbrook.

Another bad wreck of freight and coal cars occurred at Greenbrook, on the Jersey Central railroad, two miles beyond Dunellen, Tuesday. The axle of a car broke while the train was going at a high rate of speed, and twenty or more cars were piled up in a heap, burying all four tracks beneath a mass of wreckage. The tangle was a very bad one, and for many hours traffic was effectually blockaded. Trains were stalled all along the line in both directions. The accident occurred at about 10 o'clock, and the road was not cleared away until five o'clock next morning. No one was seriously injured, although two brakemen narrowly escaped being crushed among the shattered timbers. The snowstorm interfered considerably with the work of the wrecking crews.

Thirteen Thousand Tons at One Ice.

The Lockon Gaslight and Coke company asserts that it has beaten the record in its line during Christmas week when for and front reigned for six awful days and nights. On Thursday alone the company's customers consumed 128,000,000 cubic feet of gas. Thirteen thousand tons of coal were burnt by the company on that day.

The Doctor Says the Story's Fake.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The article in The Courier of Tuesday is false in many respects. But parties who do not sign names can not claim the time of intelligent readers.

Respectfully,
F. G. Wahnick.

Some favor a tariff for revenue only, some a tariff with incidental protection, and some a tariff for protection, per se; but a large majority favor Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Salvation Oil for cuts and bruises.

An endless chain of certificates verify the excellence of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Price 25 cents.

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S
BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE
"After this you ought to keep away from bad company."

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and is the best remedy known for Consumption in its first stages, and is sure relief in advanced stages of the disease. You will see the first bottle will benefit, while 50 cent bottle will convince you of its merits. Sold by druggists everywhere.

Romantic Miss—Do you love me well enough to do battle for me?

Ardent Suitor—Ay, against a thousand.

Well, Mr. Bigfish is paying me a good deal of attention. Would you fight him for it?

"Yes, I would."

"Could you defeat him?"

"N-o, but I probably thrash the life out of me."

"Mercy! Well, never mind. I'll take you instead. Brighter and, oh, do please remember, my darling, promise me on your honor, that if ever you see Mr. Bigfish coming, you'll run."—Good News.

He Was A Sheep.

A Sunday-school teacher endeavored to make his pupils understand the parable about that good shepherd. He said:

"Now, little children, suppose you were all little sheep, what would I be?"

He expected them to say that he would be the good shepherd, but was not to his disgust one of them replied:

"If we were little sheep you would be a big sheep, for you have the teacher looked very sheepish, indeed.—Texas Siftings.

Miscellaneous.

Mr. Grass-Seed—Is this a poetry bookstore)—I want ter get a book ter take hum, mister.

Clerk—Yes, sir; shall it be something lirht?

Mr. Grass-Seed—Not too heavy, mister, cuss I hev ter carry it. Some times I kinder carry hum, an' I ain't as strong as I uster was.—Texas Siftings.

A Compromise.

Mr. Trotter—Now I teach you to play the banjo, Miss Budd?

Miss Budd (coyly)—I know how, but I'm afraid the same purpose is answered in guitar playing.

Mr Trotter—But I don't play that.

Miss Budd—Ah, then, you may hold my hand anyway.—N. Y. Herald.

Contagious in Their Class.

Mr. Noopop—Doctor, is insomnia contagious?

Dr. Paresis—Certainly not, sir. What made you ask that?

Mr. Noopop—Because I notice that when baby is troubled with insomnia, my wife and I invariably remain awake.—Life.

He Took the Hint.

The jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty." Judge Duffy said admonishingly to the prisoner:

"After this you ought to keep away from bad company."

"Yes, your honor, you will not see me here again in a hurry."—Texas Siftings.

Rough on Aristophanes.

Tom Sharpey is making considerable progress in Greek at the university of Texas.

"What is the name of the most celebrated Greek humorist?" was the question put by Prof. Snore.

"Homer, I guess," read a good deal about Homeric laughter"—Texas Siftings.

Mercantile Item.

"Now, then," said a New York merchant to one of his salesmen, a young man who was packing for his journey, "let us see that you sell more goods on this trip than you did before. Our firm is more generally known now."

"In that case," said the drummer, looking dubiously up from his packing cases, "I am a little afraid it will be up hill work."—Texas Siftings.

Contracted a Prejudice.

"No, Mr. Fuzzletop, I will never cross the water," said a lady to her caller.

"Why not?"

"Well, you see her husband rescued her from drowning. That was what led to their acquaintance, and she has had a violent prejudice against the ocean ever since."—Washington Star.

WM. C. SMITH, Superintendent.

BRANCH STABLES, No 338 Palisade Ave., and Nos. 11 and 13 Ogden Ave., JERSEY CITY.

Have now on hand some fine Road Horses and Trotters, and closely Matched Teams. 2 12tf

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,

Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.

14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY

ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY 4 9 12

Buy from the maker, then no time is lost, and best returns are gained at lowest cost.

OUR AIM is to sell you Clothing that's both reliable and comfortable. There's a great difference between Clothing that covers you and Clothing that fits you. Now therefore be pa of Clothing in the city waiting to be bought, but who knows its quality?

Some of it bought from the large manufacturers. Some of it from alleged bankrupt or auction sales. Some of it garnished with peculiar names as tailor-made and custom-trimmed.

Never mind how loud a trumpet it blows, ask what the quality is. Ask, "Do you make this Clothing you sell?" If so, have you tested the strength or analyzed the quality?

We can tell you all about our Clothing, because we make it. It needs no throwing in of trinkets, no cheap watches, guns, steels, vases and kindred trumpery to raise its value. Its intrinsic worth—its goodness and excellence and fair price—is fully sufficient to commend it to your judgment. Our assortment this season is larger and more varied than ever.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad St NEWARK, N. J.

8 17 y

DEATHS.

CONSETT—In this city, Dec. 30, 1891, Lydia A. Consett.

COLES—In North Plainfield, N. J., Jan. 1, 1892, Ella Elton Coles, aged 36 years.

CLARK—In this city, Jan. 1, 1892, James B. Clarkson, in the 52d year of his age.

CONWAY—In this city, Jan. 4, 1892, Margaret Conway, wife of Richard Conway, in her 58th year.

COMPTON—In this city, Jan. 4, 1892, Catharine Compton, in her 69th year.

DUNHAM—On Dec. 29, 1891, Sarah Dunham, in the 88th year of her age. Anne Vail Dunham, daughter of Rev. Dr. Dunham of the New York Presbytery, at Philadelphia, Pa., and granddaughter of the late Rev. Dr. Dunham, of Philadelphia, Pa.

LAING—Suddenly, at apoplexy, at Plainfield, Jan. 4, 1892, John W. Laing, in the 65th year of his age.

MOORE—In this city, Jan. 2, 1892, Bridget Moore, wife of Thomas Moore, in her 48d year.

SMITH—On Dec. 26, 1891, at Flagtown, N. J., Mrs. A. M. Smith, formerly of North Plainfield, in the 73d year of her age.

SERVIS—In this city, Jan. 1, 1892, Wesley Servis, aged 58 years.

SPERLING—At Blackwell's Mills, Jan. 4, 1892, Miss Maggie Sperling, in the 16th year of her age.

WANTS, INFORMATION, &c.

TO LET—Two rooms, with furniture, for housekeeping. Inquire at 18 Somerset street. 1 2 tf

WANTED—A good girl for general housework. Apply at 19 West Fifth street. 1 2 tf

WANTED—Two or three boarders. Inquire at 19 West Fifth street. 1 2 tf

WANTED—A girl for general housework. Apply

THE OLD HOUSE.

I passed to-night the old house standing here
In ...ty.
The windows gloomed, the rooms all dark and dread.
The porch beneath where, my love together
We sat in the cool of many days ...ne no one near.
The solemn night wind latticry was blowing.
The old trees on the roof their branches
trashed;
The long grass in the yard was waving sadly.
The tall white palings of the garden paled.

Ah! love, like that old house, my heart is lonely.
Since those glad times it has been closed and cold.
Sweet memories now like dead are buried in it.
Old thoughts, old longings there never told.
But here to-night, with this old house before me,
There comes to me a fancy strange and sweet;
Suppose these darkened rooms once more were opened,
And light and life and love again might meet.

How joyous would the old house ring with laughter,
How play the scene with youth and beauty bright!
And through outside the autumn wind is sighing,
But
The hearts within are beating gay and light.
So it to me you ever should return, love,
Then you would seem my dread heart again,
And with the light of your sweet presence near me,
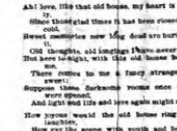
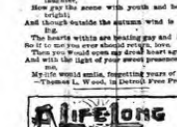
My life would smile, forgetting years of pain.
—Thomas L. Wood, in Detroit Free Press.





WHENEVER I see workmen on the tops of high places or on the lofty scaffolds often insecurely erected on new buildings a shiver runs through me, for it calls to mind an adventure I once had which nearly caused my death.

No awful is the remembrance to me that not for all the gold in the world would I mount one of their long ladders and climb. I have seen them do, on merely the two-foot top ledge of a lofty brick wall and gaze coolly down on the hard pavements, a hundred or more feet below.

As for going up in a balloon, the very thought makes me feel faint and sends a chill down my backbone.

I also avoid looking from the higher windows in the immense sky-scraping structures now rapidly filling our cities, for the fascination I have to jump out and down is too strong to trifle with.

Even the birds soaring high in the air make me feel uncomfortable, and the circus with its trapeze performers is barred from my list of pleasures.

All this came about because I, when a boy, ventured a climbing feat which, as I have said, well-nigh put an early end to my existence.

I was maybe, a dozen years old at the time, and was a bit of a monkey, and too thoughtless to know what danger meant.

A large church was in course of erection near our house, and its very tall wooden steeple was being covered with a huge ball surmounted with a cross.

The carpenter work was all done and the scaffolding was left for the painters to finish and to gild the ball and cross.

As far as the belfrey in the steeple the scaffolding went; then narrow slats nailed across one of the octagon sides formed a sort of ladder to reach its highest point, the slats growing smaller and closer together as the ball, they changed to a rude, rounded arrangement following the shape of the ball and under and over it to the cross.

We boys found this daily growing church a fine play ground, and after school I used to congregate there to watch the workmen, particularly when they were using their lives and pulling no bigger than dwarfs upon the steeple.

It was indeed a circus to us, and the sight of the men way, way up on the cross thrilled us with a queer delight.

One holiday, when the men were not working we were there as usual, gaping upward and eagerly discussing the matter until one of us proposed seeing how hard or how easy it was by climbing up ourselves.

None but boys, of course, would think of, let alone attempt, such a hazardous task, so, after a few "dares," up the scaffolding and long outside ladder to the roof we started, I leading the rest.

We all safely gained the edge of the sloping roof and, taking advantage of the temporary ladder, began the ascent.

It was indeed a dizzy climb, and after school I used to congregate there to watch the workmen, particularly when they were using their lives and pulling no bigger than dwarfs upon the steeple.

It was indeed, a circus to us, and the sight of the men way, way up on the cross thrilled us with a queer delight.

One holiday, when the men were not working we were there as usual, gaping upward and eagerly discussing the matter until one of us proposed seeing how hard or how easy it was by climbing up ourselves.

None but boys, of course, would think of, let alone attempt, such a hazardous task, so, after a few "dares," up the scaffolding and long outside ladder to the roof we started, I leading the rest.

We all safely gained the edge of the sloping roof and, taking advantage of the temporary ladder, began the ascent.

Each of us had taken about two steps when I felt weak and sick. My head began to swim and grow so dizzy that things seemed blank to my mind. I looked from below shouts of encouragement and mirthful jeers of despair, and above all I heard a scream which I recognized as my mother's voice.

But I shut my eyes and limp to the cross, expecting each instant to lose my hold and dash on the stones hundreds of feet down. At last, completely overcome with fear and terror, my strength left me, my arms loosened their grip and I knew I was fainting and in a moment must perish.

"HANG ON, YOU LITTLE RAT."

I felt then a strong voice sounded close to me and a man's head showed itself above the side of the ball, right where ladder was. "Hang on, you little rat," it said, "or I'll whip you to an inch of your life." The angry tone scared me so that, forgetting my danger and even where I was, I hung on like a good fellow.

More afraid of the punishment than of falling, I let my rescuer fasten a rope under my arms, a few stormy days later, and then command, allowed him to lift and lower me to another man on the slat ladder beneath the ball and let them be helped down the steeple slats and the scaffolds and the roof to the street. There, after my distracted mother had embraced me, I got from my father the soundest thrashing I knew before or since.

I deserved all and more than I got, but as a punishment for future climbing exploits it was entirely unnecessary.

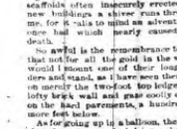
The remembrance of my terror on the steeple top keeps me forever on the safe and solid ground.

And the memory is ever refreshed by the dizzy heights I pass, in which I have the terrible sensation of falling from high places, but, luckily, I waken just before I strike the hard earth, and find stones waiting to crush me.—H. C. Dodge, in Goodall's Sun.

—Young Mrs. Codling (to her papa) —"Oh, papa, what does the word 'con tract' mean?" Papa—"It means to make smaller, my dear." For instance, to contract your self-conceit, Mrs. Codling—"Then it's all right. Barry told me he was contracting some heavy debts, and I was so nervous till you explained it."—Harper's Bazar.

—Gen. Boulanger's only brother, Ernest, mysteriously disappeared after having had a young man such a wild life that the family would never pronounce his name. His cronies say that he went to the United States and was killed in the War of Secession, but others say that he committed another side nobody seems to know.

THE STROKE OF A MASTER HAND.



—Chicago Mail.

The Inevitable.

Miss Y.—"Do you like to talk to old Lady Gossip about her heart affairs, and discuss the course of her conversation with?"

Miss X.—"Even your own sex Harold, Mrs. Goldfish, was a quadrupled lover of mine."

The old lady almost bounced out of her chair, but laughed it off, and when she had gone to her room she spoke to her husband.

"Well," she said, indignantly, "there may be some excuse for fashionable young women talking about their various sweethearts, but profanity is utterly unpardonable."—Detroit Free Press.

Knowledge Is Power.

Doctor—You notice a marked increase in your appetite?

Patient—Yes.

Doctor—Sleep longer and more healthy than usual?

Patient—Yes.

Doctor—Feel very fatigued after much exercise?

Patient—Yes.

Doctor—Hm! Very grave case. But the records of science, dear, enable us to cope with your malady, and I think I can pull you through.—Harper's Bazar.

Accounting for Age.

Prof. Grimalind—Yes, yes, this earth is 100,000,000 years old, not a day less.

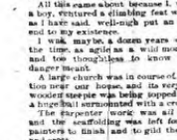
Visitor—Wonderful! wonderful!

Little Girl (centering)—Oh, papa, see my new doll.

Visitor—Your child, I presume, professor. How old is she?

Prof. Greatmind—Um—er—my dear, how old was that brother how old you are.—N. Y. Weekly.

A SUDDEN SWELLING.



Peculiar effect produced on the hat of Chelsey the actor when a friend tells him he is one of the greatest comedians of the century.—Judge.

Under Other Circumstances.

Mrs. Jocelyn—Don't you miss your husband very much, now that he is dead?

Mrs. Golightly—Oh, not at all. You see he left me plenty of money, and of course I shall not be lonely. Besides, I am in front of his place and half the time forget that he really isn't there.—Puck.

He Is No Cheat.

Mrs. Gargoyle (to her husband entering at two a. m.)—George, I have a suspicion that you have been drinking.

Gargoyle—M'dear, you should be likesh charitable to others.

"How was that?"

"Why was above some, m'dear."—Brooklyn Life.

Those With Tail.

Flora—Have you seen the shocking dress my friend has in my room unless she is most ashamed of myself.

Portia—Pooh! Don't worry. I will arrange up all right. I'll tell her she is twenty as will think you have on nothing at all.—Indianapolis Sun.

THE MAN OR FASHION.

How to Make a Kick That Will Impress Your Tailor.

Points for the Man Whose Clothes Fit Not Fit Him, Showing Where the Trouble May Lie, and How It Can Be Remedied.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

Of a hundred men who are able to dress fairly well there is one whose clothes I fit. Of a hundred strangers, a great majority allow themselves to be deceived into one of two opinions, hence a few who realize that something is the matter, and that the tailor is responsible, but they do not know what to do about it. They go from one tailor to another, seldom ordering more than one suit from any, and cherishing in their souls a feeling of animosity against the entire sartorial profession, which may be justified much but still does not the bag out of the knees of a pair of pantaloons.

FOUR COATS THAT DO NOT FIT.

I wish to give a few hints which, if they do not enable the reader to get his money's worth in every case, will teach him how to make a "kick" that will be understood. The subject is worth attention. Well fitting clothes may not be as important as a good moral character, but they have the great advantage in this hurrying country of being visible at a glance.

In the first place, young man, know your figure thoroughly. Make a careful study of your build. Investigation. If you are bow-legged or narrow-chested, admit the fact to yourself, and do what you can to remedy the defects. I have not time to discuss this part of the subject. Many excellent articles on physical development have been published in the last few years in the leading magazines, and they will repay careful study. Having learned what type of man you are you will be able to see what a tailor can do for you. Never attempt to repair a defect artificially unless the art can be wholly concealed. Don't pad your shoulders unless you are absolutely certain that the most prying eye will fail to discover it.

I rather think my head is level when I will never accept a suit of clothes that doesn't fit you; and stick to it. You will find me a service not only to myself, but to mankind. If there is a real defect in a garment do not let any knight of the needle put a bluff or bully or cajole you into paying for it. Let him understand your position at the start, and there will be no trouble.

The following points concerning some of the most common and most annoying of misfits, with suggestions of the remedies, are derived from conversations with one of the most skilful cutters in this city, and from your own painful experience. When you are being measured for a suit of clothes assume a natural position. Do not attempt to conceal any of the eccentricities of your figure. If you have an idea that your right shoulder is lower than your left, don't try to even them up by your posture. If you are bow-legged don't press your knees together from a sentiment of false shame. Don't inflate your chest to the point of explosion because you like to hear a Herculean sneeze called out to the clerk.

Tell the cutter clearly and concisely the sort of cut which you desire, and see that he make memoranda. If he puts on what Dr. Holmes calls the "gingerbread rabbit expression," signifying a total lack of interest in the subject you may be sure that he intends to cut the cloth entirely by guess. In that case you have about one chance in a thousand of being fitted. Let the cutter understand that you want the clothes for some mythical average man. If you have had trouble in getting suited heretofore, let him be it.

THE PRINCIPAL POINTS OF A COAT.

After the cutter has done his work and the process of science, enable it to suit, and he frequently ruins garments that have been properly cut. That is the time for you to assert that you are not different. One of them has been given to an infantile predecessor. Now you must make the cutter understand that you know what the trouble is and that the suit which looks so good on the model is wrong in the grade of the other or you would refuse to take it.

Suppose that you are trying on the suit, and examining it critically. We will begin with the coat. Be sure that you are fairly treated. The tailor pulls it into place he can make it look all right for a few minutes, or as long as you stand still. But the moment you move will not always have the benefit of his unobtrusive aid. Be sure that the coat has come as near to your body in every place as it will.

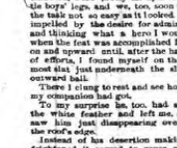
Then look it over carefully. If it doesn't "hang" as it should, don't you are in luck. Most coats do.

I have had tailors tell me that the "break" at the shoulder could not be remedied. That is nonsense. You will not get that way with a tailor who is trying to get your order. Make him fix it till you are sure that the coat presses equally upon your neck and the shoulder. It is often easy to see that the ends are bearing all the weight of the garment. This is from your dissatisfaction. A very hollow shoulder may need a little padding, but usually a resort to that remedy indicates a deficiency in your tailor's grasp of his business.

Sometimes a coat draws along a line from under the arm to a point near the back button on that side. This is caused by a shortness of waist, and the "tore parts" being a little short.

A low collar, drawing away from the neck, is caused by a short back part; a collar that rests a dilatory over your head when you sit down results from a long back part. Sometimes a three or four button coat may look fairly well with only the top button fastened, but it will not do if the others are fastened if spoken up and wrinkles at the back. Don't let your tailor tell you that the fault is in the buttons. He can't. The trouble is in the shoulder, points or waist. The cause of the "gorge" bonds away too much.

As to fitting around the wrists, coats are not cut very close under the present style. But if you want yours to fit well the cuff at the sleeve must be



You must be getting quite a corpulent gentleman, sir, remarked the waiter as he rose from the table.

SECRETARY FOR IRELAND.

The Appointment Gives Joy to a Very Few, but Pleases Many.

Mr. Jackson, the new chief secretary for Ireland, is a leather lunger at Leeds. It was, however, worried in the middle ages, or rather the extensive fortune which he is now understood to enjoy. Mr. Jackson contested Leeds in 1886, but he did not get a seat till 1888. He has occupied it ever since. Some surprise was caused when he was appointed financial secretary to the treasury in January, 1891, but his tenure of office has fully justified Lord Salisbury's choice. He has been voted a tendency to wrinkle against the body, the front is too short. Do not be persuaded to have them cut.

DISTINCTLY NOT THE FASHION.

I have written at some length about coats. There is nothing to say of vests, except that they are cut rather short now. Any tailor should make a vest fit well. But the pantaloons—ah, there's the rub. Where is the genius who shall rise up and tell us how to prevent bagging at the knee? Its may be ameliorated, but that is all. When it is excessive the fault is not in the cut at the knee, but in what a tailor would call the length of the stride. This means the extra cloth on the back, which will sag up, which enables the leg to be extended or bent without difficulty. The necessity for this extra cloth prevents the existence of a perfect pair of pantaloons. There must always be too much fullness at a point back of the thigh; look well when the wearer of the pantaloons, is standing erect. But this necessity should not be made to excuse wrinkles all the way down the back of the leg. There may be plenty of cloth to prevent excessive bagging at the knee, and it may be so disposed as to conceal its superfluity.

The man with broad hips should make his tailor allow for that unusual "beam," but never let him run the fullness all the seams down the knee. This results in those wrinkles at the sides from the knee up, which are so distressing to a man who is sensitive about his dress. Don't let any tailor excuse such a cut; he is sticking to his system and neglecting the special needs of the customer.

One of the most common defects in pantaloons is the failure to fit close to the leg on the outside, between the knee and ankle. A man with a large calf, placed to a tailor will be likely if his trousers do not hang two inches away from his ankle. But there is no need of it. The cutter can easily put sufficient fullness into the design to allow the leg plenty of room and then measure the garment at the bottom. The difficulty here is more often with the man who makes up the garment. He fails to get the bottom and sides even. Careful basting will avoid it.

This sort of a leg is very common-place, and it requires a straight inside seam. Pantaloons are not now cut with any "spring" to the leg, but usually they are made to strike the shoe at a point just above where the lacing begins.

Never choose a cloth that will stretch for pantaloons. Avoid what are called "biased goods." Have your tailor mark your pattern ask the cutter whether it will make up well. Try to get the bottom of his if you think there is any in him; and, if he inspires confidence, abide by his judgment, for there's great skill in selecting proper cloth if you wish well-fitting pantaloons.

ALBERT EDWARD TWEEDLE.

The Know Her Uses.

A little girl of 5 years called her father to her bedside the other evening "Papa," said the little diplomat, "I want to ask you a question."

"Well, my little dear, what is it about?"

"What do you think it would be best to give me on my birthday?"—Texas Siftings.

Mamma's Mistake.

Mamma—Dear me! You've got your clothes all covered with whitewash.

Little Son—Yes, ma; that isn't whitewash, 'deed it isn't. It's only paint.—Good News.

Jealous, of Course.

Bella—Estelle is such a lucky girl. She was born with a gold spoon in her mouth.

Nellie—Yes, and it must have been a tablespoon, too, I should judge.—Louisville Journal.

POLICE ITEM.

Citizen—Why are you always frowning?

Policeman—Begorra, sor, O'd be foined tin days per if I was switched-amollin'.—Texas Siftings.

A Wicked Boy.

"Get through your breakfast quick wonny, you will be late to school," said a Harlem mother to her child.

"I'm not going to school until I get a dime."

"I won't give you any dime,"

"Well, then, I'll just keep on eating. I will eat for once if I have to for you your obstinacy," replied the hopeful, taking a fresh butter cake.—Texas Siftings.

Mother Suggested.

Mother—I'd just like to know who this young man is you have engaged yourself to.

Daughter—Oh, he comes of splendid family.

"Does his family object to the match?"

"Yes."

"Then I guess he's all right."—N. Y. Weekly.

Encouraging Him.

Brother Jack—Virginia Cooper is coming on and she said there was too great a discrepancy in our ages.

Sister—How old is Virginia?

Brother Jack—Twenty-three.

Sister—And you're nineteen. So just wait two years and you'll both be twenty-one.—Judge.

In a Confidential Remembrance.

"What shall I get you to remind you of me while I am away?" asked a New York girl of her fellow, to whom she is going to be married, on the occasion of his taking the steamer for Europe.

"Do you want to get me something that will always make me think of you when I look at it?"

"Yes, darling."

"Then buy me a monkey to play with."—Texas Siftings.

Our Own Fault.

"John, you've been eating cabbage."

"I haven't been doing anything of the kind, my dear. I've been smoking one of those cigars you gave me. That's all."—Brooklyn Life.

Forth Side Statement.

Wayward Puss—Old Mossback is awful fond of his children, isn't he?

Jawkins (to his wife)—Chicago Tribune.

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

SPEAKING CONNECTION GIVEN OVER ITS SUBSCRIBERS' LINES BETWEEN ATLANTA AND SUBURBAN PLAINFIELDS, N. J.

General Offices: 95 Nassau Street, New York.

Subscribers' Names. Address.

Allen Hotel, The ..... Park ave and 30th st
Amos, Chas. H. ..... 21 Crescent ave
Anderson, Wm. C. ..... Madison ave.
Andrews, Mrs. J. H. ..... 9 Park Place
Arbuckle, W. D. ..... 40 Park ave
Arbuckle, Jno. G. ..... 40 Park ave
Bowsley, F. W. ..... Dunellen
Bailey, Mrs. Jas. ..... 8 Park place
Babcock, Geo. H. ..... 8th and Union sts.
Barnard & Dana, ... 16 North ave.
Barnes, Jas. M. ..... Cor. Front & Central ave
Beaumont, John ..... Central ave. and 8th st.
Bernheimer & Dana, ... Park ave and 4th st
Berg, Jno. F. M. ..... 10 E 8th st
Board of Education—8th st, 5th and Union ave
Bond, Wm. ..... 18 Madison ave
5th & Liberty, 6th & Monroe
Clark, E. W. ..... 2 Watchung place
Chipchase, Thomas ..... Park ave and 8th st
Clemens, James T. ..... Richmond and Front sts
Cochrane, Alexander ..... 4 Sherry ave.
Cook, A. D. & Bro. ..... Park ave and 8th
Cooley, Jno. J. H. ..... Manning and Westervelt ave
Cox, Raymond ..... Somerset st
Dunham, Wm. F. A. ..... 9 Third Place
Dunellen, R. R. Co. ..... 120 Carlton avenue
Ermann, J. H. M. D. ..... 49 somerset st
Chase, F. P. M. ..... Somerset st
Chatterton, Jas. H. Legget, Agt. ..... Park ave and Front st
Daily Press, ... 4 Sherry ave.
Dayton, Mrs. E. H. ..... 18 Crescent ave
Doty, Frank ..... 30 W. Fourth st.
Dunellen Bank, ... 6th ave & 4th st
Dey, B. H. ..... Rockview ave
Emmanuel, P. E. ..... 27 Park st
Emmanuel, John R. ..... 27 & 27½ st
Fowler, Jno. ..... Madison ave.
Decker, P.—pay station ..... Westfield, N J
Dietrich, James ..... 29 Front st
Evans, T. O.—Chief P.P.D. ..... 60 W 8th st
Dunellen, R. R. ..... Madison ave
Davis & Sherman, coal and wood. Office & Yard
Engine No. 1 ..... Park ave and 2nd st
Engine No. 2 ..... Park ave and 4th st
Engine No. 3 ..... Somerset st
Evans, Geo. C. ..... 37 Washington ave
Fanwood, Jno. ..... Fanwood station
Fanwood, pay station, ... Fanwood station
Fryatt, Jas. ..... Cor. Mt. Depot
Fryatt, W. M. & Son, ... Somerset st
Fouts, Jas. J. ..... 73 Park ave.
Fouts, Jas. J. Jr. ..... 4 Sherry ave.
Fuller, Henry ..... 6 W 7th st
French, C. Frank ..... 69 Somerset st.
Grant, Geo. W., Asst. to Police ..... 36 W 8th st
Goodrich, C. H. ..... 17 Third Place
Gilbert, Jno. ..... 16 E Front st.
Gilbert, Jno. B. ..... 16 E Front st.
Gilbert, R. D., W. P. ..... 16 E Front st
Gilbert, A. ..... Cor. Central ave & 8th st
Gilbert & Hardy ..... Somerset st
Gage, opt. L. ..... 81 & 83 Somerset street.
Gregersen, D. A. ..... 107 Spicer ave
Gilbert, Jno. ..... 16 E Front st
Hubbard, Jno. ..... 14 Prospect st.
Hubbard, Jno. N. ..... 14 East 4th st—20 North ave
Hubbard, John N. ..... 20 South 2d st—63 Park ave
Hardy, Francis C. ..... 122 Madison ave
Hendrickson, C. ..... Berkley road
Hubbard's City Express, ... 20 South st
Hubbard, Jno. L. ..... 14 East 4th st
Hoppe, Chas. ..... 15 Kensington st
Hubbard, Jno. ..... 14 East 4th st
Hardman, W. T. ..... 64 W 7th st
Hardy, Mrs. Robert, ... Mad ave and 3rd st
Hall, Jno. ..... 4 Sherry ave.
Hall, Wm. A. ..... Belvidere ave
Hollis & Abel, ... Somerset st
Hall, J. F. & Son, ... 8 W Front st
Hall, Jno. F. ..... 8 W Front st
Hanks, Frank ..... 8 W Front st
Hall, Jno. W. ..... 18 Cedar ave
Hyers, A. E. ..... 17 ave & 11th st
Hyers, Harry A. ..... Willow ave
Hyers, Jno. ..... Willow ave
Hyers, J. G. ..... 16 E Front st
Hyers, Jno. ..... Somerset st
Johnsburg Hospital, ... South ave
Hartley, Dr. Wm. H. S. ..... 107 Broadway
Hartley, Jno. ..... 40 Park ave
Hoffman, A. F. ..... 120 Central ave
Hoffman, T. F. ..... 120 Central ave
Hatch-mold, J. F. ..... 46 E Front st
Hyers, Lawrence ..... E Front st
Hyers, Jno. ..... Somerset st
Ivins, Mrs. Mary B. ..... 16 E 7th st
Jones, Jno. ..... 5 Park ave
Jenkins, Jr., Thos. B. ..... 5 Park ave
Plainfield Gaslight Co. ..... 49 East Fourth st
Kelly & Scott Lumber Co. ..... Park ave
Kelly, Scott and Co. ..... 30 and Washington sts
Police Station—Chief's office ..... 9 Park ave
Police Station, ... Park ave and 2nd st
Police Station, ... 7th and Division sts
Police Fire Wards, ... Somerset st
Prudence, Dr. J. S. ..... 41 Prospect st
Perkins, Edward G. ..... Arlington ave
Perkins, Jno. ..... Arlington ave
Pettit, Thomas ..... 12 Central ave
Pettit, Jno. ..... Somerset st
Post Office, ... Park ave and 2nd st
Post Office, ... Somerset st
Rogers, Jno. ..... 3 Front st—Central Union
Rogers, Jno. ..... 3 Front st—Central Union
Rogers, Jno. ..... Somerset st
Rogers, Jno. ..... Somerset st
Rogers, Jno. ..... Somerset st

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1892. No. 2.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & ODDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters in Chancery, Notaries, &c., Office, corner of Park avenue and Second street. 1y-1

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 126. Dunellen, N. J., or address at Bars of Constructionists. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. THEIS,
Dentist,
30 West Front street. A new local anesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—1y32

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock Box 71, South Plains, N. J. Orders left at T. J. Corey's, second third door above West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—8182

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
347 Broadway, New York city. Rooms 33 and 34. (Lawyers' and Traders' Bank Building.) Residence, Plainfield, N. J.—30tf

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Active Member of the National Association of Piano Tuners. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders left at Constitutionalist Office, No. 156 or left at Wilson's Shoe Store, No. 6 Park avenue will receive prompt attention. Residence, 91 East 2d street, corner Elm street.—8Y1947

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Residence and Shop No. 36 East 3d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. apey

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, cor. Front St. Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
[Successor to E. B. Maynard.]
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Leading and Children's Hair Cutting done at short notice. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., scientifically performed. 12Y1

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES, RANGES,
HEATERS.
Orders and Bricks for all Kinds of Stove Lining to be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware to Heading to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.
J. Hervey Doane,
6 PARK AVENUE,
[Formerly Oberle.]
Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and, promptly done. 49Y1
Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.
SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
Is prepared to do any of the above branches in a neat, first-class, prompt and workmanlike manner. Satisfaction guaranteed. Shop on the rear of my store. Call and leave orders. 1y-1
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 8 NORTH AVE. WEST, Plainfield, N. J.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

FORCE'S HOTEL,
NORTH AVENUE, [NEAR R. R. STATION.]
JAS. H. FORCE, Prop'r.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL. Steam Heat. First-class Plumbing.
Transient guests at reasonable rates. 19-31-tf

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum [payable semi-annually].
JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, "
ISAAC P. MANN, Treasurer.
1Y17

The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, which before spoken for, constantly in hand. 47tf

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
SENT IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE TO ANY PART OF THE CITY.
PAINTERS & PAINTERS' SUPPLIES
Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
1y29

C.E. & J.W. BROWN,
[Successors to O. P. & C. E. Brown & Co.,]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Raised Flock Papers, &c. Borders for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.
3-13-52

L. B. WOOLSTON, J. P. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 36 NORTH AVENUE
ESTABLISHED 1836.
C.E. & J.W. BROWN,
[Successors to O. P. & C. E. Brown & Co.,]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Raised Flock Papers, &c. Borders for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.
3-13-52

LIVERY.

Laing's Hotel Stables

Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Funerals and Private Parties. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.

RIDING OR LIVERY.
Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to horses to be boarded by the day, week or month.
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 26.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
Market

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements.
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezer.
Gasoline Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 12 SOMERSET ST. 3-13-52

GEORGE A. MOORE,
[Of the late firm of Moore Bros.]
is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of
Fresh and Salt Meats,
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished at short notice.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
38 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
[Chautauqua Building].

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to E. J. Carey.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—38 W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Wagon for Pleasure Parties. Goods delivered to any part of the city. Furniture moved in the best manner. P. O. Box 188. Residence, 10 Watchung Place. 1y-1

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The most delicious cigar in the state, and only to be obtained at the premises from the finest Havanas.
CLEAR HAVANA HEADS A SPECIALTY.
Also a large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Key West and Domestic Cigars. Cigarettes and Tobaccos always on hand.
Smoker's Articles in Great Variety.
1y17

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
—SEGARS!—
No. 38 PARK AVE., (Rear corner) SECOND ST.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Cigar Materials, of every description.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
and Dealer in all Kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles. Has removed from 201 E. Front street, to 7 and 9 West Front, one door east of Madison avenue, and invites the patronage of his friends and the public generally. 4 Y 3

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN,
17 LaGrande Avenue,
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET,
Will reopen THIS SEPT. 17, 1891.
The regular course will include Modeling, Drawing and Sewing. 9 11 tf

DODWORTH'S
CLASSES FOR Dancing & Deportment,
SEMINARY HALL, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Commencing Friday, Oct. 30, 1891,
From 3½ to 6½ p. m.
Apply to E. E. Kenyon for circulars and terms, Seminary Hall.
Residence, 1110 Fulton avenue, E. O.
THOS. J. DODWORTH.
10 4 tf

GOV. ABBETT'S MESSAGE

Gentlemen of the Senate and General Assembly:

In obedience to the requirements of the constitution I herewith present to you my second message, showing the condition of the state and recommending such measures as I deem expedient.

Condition of the state.

I congratulate you upon the splendid condition of the state at the close of the fiscal year. Its financial affairs are in better shape for the first time since 1865, the fiscal year has closed without any floating debt. Under the acts of 1891 valuable improvements have been made at the state prison, lunatic asylum, reform school, state hall, extensive alterations have been made in the old library building, giving additional office accommodations, the courts city court is provided with a new room for holding a portion of its sessions, and in addition to all of which improvements were rendered necessary by the growth of the state and its legislative interests, and will be completed without borrowing money and without additional taxation.

Under the liberal laws of the state many new corporations have been created, largely increasing the receipts for filing certificates, and the amount of tax payable by railroad companies, under the general road and miscellaneous tax acts of 1884, and their several supplements, and the practical and efficient enforcement of these laws, have increased the revenues sufficient to meet the increased demands occasioned by the rapidly growing population of the state and its increasing wealth.

With all these facts there has been accomplished, no new tax has been levied upon any corporation and the state is still one tax free from the imposition of any direct state tax for governmental purposes. The promise made by the legislature in 1884, that no direct state tax should be imposed upon the people of this state for any year so long as the government is carried on under existing laws, and under the present system of taxation, no such tax will be necessary. It is the future needs of the state require further revenue the ordinary sources of revenue can fairly be increased until they pay equitably with millions for the maintenance of the state, however, may properly ask for additional revenue from corporations. There is no pressure for increased taxation for ordinary state expenditures.

In view of the satisfactory condition of state affairs, I do not feel called upon to ask the legislature for any additional tax, either corporate or individual, for the ordinary expenses of the state government. The experience of the state does not require the limits of the present sources of revenue, and therefore there is no necessity for any increase. If, however, the legislature should make appropriations for new buildings or enlarged accommodations for the various state institutions, new sources of revenue must be provided. The only way to avoid the necessity of a collateral inheritance tax, or by the other methods recommended in my last message.

I again recommend to the legislature that, in making appropriations, they provide in the act for the source of revenue out of which the same shall be paid. The passing of an act for a large appropriation does not secure the payment thereof; the appropriation must be postponed until the finance department until sufficient money is realized from some source to meet it. The excess of ordinary receipts over expenditures is not sufficient to meet very heavy additional drafts. Many of the appropriations are still unprovided for. In the course of time these will gradually be paid, but if new appropriations are added additional sources of revenue must be provided.

Sinking Fund.

During the past fiscal year the entire floating debt of $400,000, which existed at the commencement of the fiscal year, which was fully paid off and discharged, and over $10,000 paid for interest thereon, and $66,000 has been expended for obtaining title to the camp ground at Sea Girt, which was taken under condemnation proceedings instituted under acts of 1891 and 1889. Payments have been made by the board of established authority the state lunatic asylum, the agricultural experiment station and other purposes, as provided by law.

Over $50,000 was spent to enlarge and rebuild the state prison. Of this amount the public debt has been paid; over $41,000 has been loaned to the sinking fund, and alterations and additions have been made to the state house, upon which nearly $26,000 has been expended. The following special appropriations and extraordinary net disbursements, including the temporary loans paid and amounts paid for expenses incurred in fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1890, amount to $990,-682.52. The total ordinary net disbursements, properly chargeable to the last fiscal year, amounts to $1,972,612.36, making a total of $2,963,294.88.

The total ordinary receipts were $1,747,-899.13. The proceeds of securities, including $202,614.63, money received from the United States, which makes a total of $2,120,499.03. The fiscal year closed with a balance in the state fund account of $812,169.16.

The sum of $1,747,899.13 was collected from the United States, without the payment of any commission or charge therefor. The state comptroller and treasurer have also been connected and intimately with the every dollar paid by the national government. The dollar paid by the national government would have largely depleted this fund. The offices made to the commissioners have also relieved the state of the cost for collection, amounting to over $30,000.

I believe that this could be saved, and with the advisors of the quartermaster general of the state, I have given the subject and investigation. I draw all the papers necessary to be properly present at the next legislature. The bill was prepared and comprised, as it was viewed, were taken to the state, and without any charge to the state collected the money and paid the whole amount to the several claimants. The experience of these acts by the state officers has been satisfactory, and as far as I have any knowledge of no other state that is able to show the same record.

Finances.

The reports of the comptroller and treasurer present in detail the financial operations of the state for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1891.

There are two funds referred to in those reports; one the state and the other the school fund, and they should be kept by each other, and I shall deal with them in the same manner.

State Fund.

The state fund received during the fiscal year the following amounts:

Railroad taxes	$1,046,695 09
Railroad taxes, corporations	1,000 00
Fees, etc.	22,404 19
Franchise receipts	22,404 19
Riparian lands	2,412 50
Miscellaneous	2,412 50
Interest and dividends	2,412 50
Escheats	2,412 50
Miscellaneous	2,412 50
Total ordinary net receipts	$1,747,899 13
Income tax refunded by the United States	202,614 63
Total net receipts	$1,950,513 76
Balance on hand Oct. 31, 1890	812,169 16
Total	$2,962,682 92

Following are the disbursements:

Ordinary disbursements for fiscal year	$1,972,612 36
Special appropriations paid	990,682 52
Temporary loans paid and interest	39,999
Temporary loans paid and interest	410,399 16
Total	$3,413,693 88
Paid on war debt and bonded state debt	270,397 00
Other expenditures	179,671 54
Total disbursements	$3,863,762 42
Balance on hand Oct. 31, 1891	1,098,920 50
Total	$2,962,682 92

The ordinary receipts on state account for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1891, will be all probability be equal to those received during the fiscal year just ended. There may, however, be a diminution in some of the items of receipts, and on the other hand there may be an increase. It will therefore not be safe to act upon a basis of total ordinary receipts of over $1,700,000. This will leave a balance over ordinary state expenses for 1892 which can be used for the appropriations hereinafter made by the legislature, and for which no other source of revenue has been provided.

Sinking Fund.

The securities in this fund are as follows:

1,867 shares of the stock of the Camden and Amboy Railroad Co.
Canal company of the par value of	$186,700 00
Original commutation stock has no value	74,118 67
Bonds of the several counties of the state for surplus revenues of the United States (the bonds have no value as an asset)	764,400 44
Principal sum named in a franchise tax bond account of March 19, 1890	1,000 00
The only assets of this fund which are for any value are the 1,867 shares of stock, which are worth $411,700, and the above riparian lease, upon which the state receives annually a rental of 7 per cent, on the principal sum. My former message gave a history of the items of Centennial stock and bonds due and received by, and other reasons why they were no longer of any value.

School Fund.

The total account of the school fund Oct. 31, 1891, was $3,790,612.26. Its investments were as follows:

Riparian leases held as the property of the state	$899,211 90
Bonds secured by mortgages	410,000 00
Bonds and mortgages	1,000,000 00
Bonds of school districts	249,617 39
Bonds of the state of New Jersey	1,000,000 00
Union county bonds	147,000 00
Bonds refunded	20,000 00
Mercer county bonds	120,000 00
Hudson county bonds	100,000 00
Hudson county bonds	100,000 00
1,000 shares of stock of the Camden and Amboy Railroad and Transportation company	100,000 00
500 shares of stock of the Delaware and Raritan canal company	50,000 00
East Orange bonds	70,000 00
Orange bonds	70,000 00
Newark bonds	70,000 00
Passaic county bonds	70,000 00
Bergen county bonds, Essex county bonds	70,000 00
Town of Penfield bonds	10,000 00
Union township, Bergen county bonds	10,000 00
40 shares of the stock of the New Jersey Fire Insurance Commutation company	4,000 00
200 shares of the stock of the Trenton Banking company	11,000 00
Trenton city bonds	4,000 00
Cash on hand Oct. 31, 1891	$3,515,546 87
	485,065 79
Total	$4,000,612 66

In addition to the above there is a claim against the state for $1,000,000 with interest on securities and for certain under riparian leases, $180,836.96.

The receipts of the school fund during the past fiscal year were as follows:

From income	$187,052 71
From sinking fund	66,566 25
Balance on hand Nov. 1, 1890	232,049 30
Total	$485,668 26

This amount is accounted for as follows:

Investments of school fund during year	$283,102 39
Premiums paid on investments	8,000 00
Interest accounted on investments	66 94
Disbursements on account of schools, etc.	193,516 94
	345,198 07
Total	$829,884 34

Sinking Fund.

The sinking fund account has been transferred to the treasurer under the act of March 11, 1891, (P. L. 1891, page 108). This transfer was made at the expiration of the term of office of the old sinking fund commissioners for the purpose of saving the expense attendant on this board. Under this act the state treasurer performs the duties of the sinking fund board without compensation.

The report of the late commissioner of the sinking fund shows the following assets Oct. 31, 1891:

Loans on bonds and mortgages	$288,250 00
Loans on bonds and mortgages	1,000 00
Real estate, cost as per statement	256,437 27
Due from Thomas Cruider	9,641 14
Balance in hands	71,809 27
Making a total of	$626,336 76
Decrease in assets during the fiscal year	14,470 19

This decrease is accounted for as follows:

Bonds and mortgages Oct. 31, 1890	$289,250 00
Bonds and mortgages Oct. 31, 1891	288,250 00
Decrease	1,000 00
Interest account unpaid Oct. 31, 1890	$6,000 00
Interest account unpaid Oct. 31, 1891	1,997 06
Decrease	4,002 94
Deficit real estate, Inc.	$10,467 74
Decrease Thomas Cruider Inc.	9,641 14
Decrease in cash, Inc.	826 05
Decrease balance in hands, Inc.	11,534 25
	32,469 19
The following amounts were paid and received on this account during the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1891:
For interest	$13,774 26
For premium	1,750 00
For sale of real estate	5,000 00
For sale of timber	25,000 00
For sale of 100 cords of timber on Allen farm	300 00
For state appropriation	44,000 00
For state loan to sinking fund	66,566 25
Balance in bank Oct. 31, 1890	232,049 30
	$384,389 81
The following amounts were disbursed:
Expenses paid	$2,222 25
Principal loaned on bonds and mortgages	379,667 56
Balance in hand Oct. 31, 1891	71,809 27
	$384,389 81

Tax Laws.

The inequalities of assessments and valuations of land on the part of the assessors, and the failure of the boards of appeal to correct undue valuations, have no doubt been the cause of many complaints, and have been fruitful sources of litigation, and have been fruitful sources of litigation, and have been fruitful sources of litigation

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor. A. L. FORCE

OUR LEGISLATURE.

New Jersey's Democratic Legislature assumed control at Trenton, on Tuesday last. It was a brilliant display of legislative brains and will undoubtedly give great credit to the Democratic State of New Jersey. The selection of Hon. Robert S. Adrain, as President of the Senate, and Hon. James J. Berger, as Speaker of the House, are commendible, and the candidates worthy and fit for the positions assigned them. The Governor's message (which will be found in full on the outside pages of this issue) is a document full of wisdom and truth. The Governor speaks for the people, not party. It is a document that should be preserved by every citizen, irrespective of parties.

We predict that the legislature of 1892 will be one of profit to the people and politics of the State. Gov. Abbett is deserving of great praise for his admirable administration, and all good Democrats hope and express their feelings that he should represent the party in the Senate of the U. S. Senator.

Now let the Democratic Legislature look after the interests of the people, as they have promised.

JACKSONIAN.

January 8th was the 76th anniversary of the renowned battle of New Orleans, when the arrogant English conquerors of Napoleon were routed and driven from American soil by General Andrew Jackson and the gallant soldiers under his command.

The recent anniversary, or Jackson's Day, as it is properly termed, was enthusiastically observed by the Democrats in various sections of our country.

Such was a worthy honor, not alone because of the great martial victory gained, but in remembrance of the distinguished hero of that event, who this term years thereafter was triumphantly elected Democratic President of the United States.

As a man of mental ability, integrity of character, and fidelity and devotion to duty, the memory of Andrew Jackson stands pre-eminent.

Regardless of monied influence and partisan animosity, he boldly dared to do what was believed to be right and for the best interests of country and fellow countrymen.

No power on earth could force him from the rock of truth and justice.

He was an honest man.

That the people knew, and for that glorious trait they reposed in him implicit confidence and never were deceived.

REFORM.

The first movement towards securing tariff reform by the present Democratic House of Assembly will be the abolishing of all kinds of wool on the free imposition list, and keeping an adequate adjustment protective duty upon woolen manufactured goods, but cutting off extra and onerous public bounty enacted by the McKinley tariff for special favoritism.

That will certainly be a step in the right direction and consistent with the popular verdict of two years ago.

Its becoming a law would benefit manufacturers by giving them the means of fabricating in competition with other nations, and at the same time benefit American labor and skill by enlarging the sphere of profitable employment.

It would also prove of substantial pecuniary advantage to the raisers of domestic wool by increasing the steady demand and price of that staple production, largely decreased by unwise McKinley tariff legislation.

And furthermore, it would enable the people of this country to use and wear honest fabrics, genuine woolen blankets, carpets and clothing, in lieu of cotton shoddy.

It is time to obliterate the national stigma, that among all civilized manufacturing nations, the United States, the boasted realm of intelligence, is the only one that can not produce woolens and interest by levying heavy taxation upon such an essential crude material as wool.

Singular will no doubt be taken by the Democratic House of Representatives in regard to other called for specific tariff reforms.

"But," say Republicans of the McKinley school, and their machine allies, "what can the House Democrats do when the Senate and President are hostile to any tariff change"?

Do! Democrats can do their duty! If the Senate refuses to concur in needed tariff reformation, or the President interposes his veto, a storm of popular opposition will sweep throughout the land and bury partisan Republicanism beneath another avalanche of Democratic ballots.

Let the Democrats in Congress do their whole duty, promptly and justly, as the people have demanded, and let the Republicans look out for they dare, take the responsibility of setting aside the popular verdict.

TAXATION.

The State Board of Tax Commissioners have had their report printed. They point out the glaring defects in the law of taxation and in the manner in which it is worked out by the assessors. They say assessors help their friends by low valuations and punish their enemies by high ones. They say the assessors do not look at the books and in that way the taxshirker gets off by having his misrepresentations kept secret. They recommend, in the interest of uniformity levied taxes:

1. That all assessments throughout the State shall be made on the first Monday in April of each year, according to true value at that date.

2. That all assessments shall be completed and finished on or before the first day of July next following.

3. That the books and duplicates of such assessments shall be open for inspection, by any one desiring to see the same, from the first day of July to the first day of August, in the year and each year.

4. That on the first Monday in August the various Assessors and Tax Boards of Assessors, and County Boards of Equalization, shall meet at the court house of each county for the purpose of revising and correcting said books.

5. All taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of October in each year.

6. All Commissioners of Appeals shall sit for the purpose of hearing appeals on or before the first Monday in November.

7. All taxes shall be a lien on real estate the first day of October in each year, after which a penalty for the nonpayment of the same may be imposed, as now provided by law.

8. Nothing in the law shall prevent any taxpayer or taxing district from appealing directly to the State Board of Tax Commissioners without first appealing to the Board of Assessors, as now allowed.

9. On or before the 10th day of July in each year the Assessor shall transmit, under oath or affirmation, to the State Board of Taxation, a statement from the duplicate containing the following facts:

1. The total amount of real estate assessed by him in his taxing district.

2. The total amount of personal property assessed by him in his taxing district.

3. The total number of deductions claimed and allowed by him for indebtedness in his taxing district.

4. The amount of exemptions, specifying particularly—

(a) Church property, school property, public property, cemetery property and property allowed under the Brearly, Soldiers and veteran's act; and on failure thereof such Assessor shall be subject to a fine of $250.

10. All appeals to the State Board of Taxation shall be filed on or before the first day of December next following the assessment.

EXEMPTIONS EXEMPT FROM TAXES.

In regard to property *held to be ex*empt from taxation, the report shows the total of exemptions in New Jersey to be about $75,000,000, partly accounted for below:

Church property	$20,000,000
School property	11,000,000
Cemetery property	11,000,000
Property of Public and veterans	2,000,000
Public property	15,000,000
Total	$75,000,000

The concensus of intelligent opinion throughout the State seems to favor the reduction of exemptions to the amount allowed by law, consistent with sound public policy. We have found the last ex-existing fortune to be used as a fraud upon the tax laws throughout the State. In one township in Burlington county (Mill Creek), Judge Paddock, while the town had no fire apparatus and the company existed only on paper. There are likely to be many other such fire companies organized solely for the purpose of claiming exemption from taxation. This aim of universal expression of opinion should be that all this class of exemption should be repealed, and we so recommend."

"Strong reasons exist also for limiting the list of exemptions. Under the statutory properties, many such organizations having been formed only for the purpose of making money. Property held for the exemption in such cases having ceased, the exemption shall cease also."

They say the exemption of cemeteries, most of which are private incorporations gotten up to make money, are wrong and that the exemption of the real estate of National Banks is a fraud upon the taxpayers of the State.

The New York World prints the following one of our of Prominent Union County Democrats:

"James E. Martine, familiarly known as the 'Farmer Orator,' is in the field as a candidate for Congress in the new Eighth district, comprising the county of Union, township of Essex, and the cities of Orange, South Orange and Bayonne. For years he has been an active politician. He once ran for Senator in Union county, but was defeated.

"Since then he has gone further and fared worse in making their nomination for Congress. Mr. Martine is able and has many warm friends throughout the district.

Union Out Left.

In the organization of the House of Assembly on Tuesday, the Democratic Assemblymen from Essex and Hudson formed a combination to capture the offices. They took in Bergen and Middlesex and the South Jersey men to insure the necessary majority, and left Union county entirely out in the cold. Vigorous protestations were made in the caucus. John B. Hardin was elected chairman. The offices were apportioned as follows:

Clerk—Thomas F. Noonan, Hudson.
Journal Clerk—William S. Shanghnessy, Mercer.

Assistant Journal Clerk—John H. Hickey, Hudson.

Engrossing Clerk—John H. DeMott, Hunterdon.

Assistant Engrossing Clerks—A. C. Yard, Monmouth; Morvin Armstrong, Hudson.

Sergeant-at-Arms—Thomas Cleary, Essex.

Sergeant-at-Arms—William Harrigan, Essex.

Door-keeper—Assistants shall jointly or two door-keepers selected to help Mr. Harrigan. Hudson gobbled ten of those and Essex took seven.

Before adjournment for the week President Adrain announced his committees as follows:

Library—Wurts, Barrett, Gardner.
Revision of Laws—Marsh, Barrett, Cranmer.
Finance—Barker, Hudspeth, Rue.
Printing—Wilson, Marsh, Cranmer.
Municipal Corporations—Doremus, Hinchcliffe, Gardner.

Railroads and Canals—Keyes, Brown, Cranmer.

Banks and Insurance—Gorman, Winton, Gardner.

Education—McMickle, Miller, Keyes.
Fisheries—Miller, Barker, Cranmer.
Game and Fisheries—Perkins, McMickle, Rue.

Riparian Rights—Hudspeth, Brown, Rogers.
Agriculture—Brown, McMickle, Gardner.
Miscellaneous—Perkins, Keyes, Fowler.

Elections—Miller, Barker, Rice.
Claims and Pensions—Hinchcliffe, Butcher, Fowler.

Unfinished Business—Winton, Martin Fowler.

Engrossed Bills—Barrett, Butcher, Rogers.
Labor and Industries—Butcher, Carmin and Rue.

Boroughs—Perkins, Cornish and Rue.

JOINT COMMITTEES.

Treasurer's Accounts—Wurts, Winton, Cranmer.

State Prison—Perkins, Barrett, Cranmer.
Lunatic Asylum—Perkins, Butcher, Rogers.
Deaf and Dumb Asylum—Barker, Rue.
Building Grounds and Buildings—Hudspeth, Rue.
Printing—Winton, Marsh, Gardner.
Pinned Bills—Butcher, Rogers, Rogers.
Soldiers' Home—Hudspeth, Miller, Fowler.
Reform School for Boys—Brown, Keyes, Rue.
Sinking Fund—Wurts, Hudspeth, Fowler.
Reform School for Girls—Cornish, Hinchcliffe, Rogers.
School for Deaf Mutes—Martin, Perkins, Rue.

Speaker Berger will announce his committees later.

In the Senate all the old officers of last year were re-elected, with the exception of William Pittard, Journal Clerk, who was supplanted by J. Mattison, of Somerset; and Bill Clerk Eidelman, of last year, was succeeded by H. F. Earle of Passaic.

Kindly Words.

[From The Jane Ann.]

The Plainfield Constitutionalist last week celebrated its silver anniversary—25th year. The Force Brothers, W. L. and A. L.—, who started the office, are still at the helm, and also a goodly number of their old employes. It is a bright and able Democratic paper, and has done good work for the cause all along the line. J. A. Demarest is the city editor of their daily, which was started several years ago. It also is a success.

Still Set Down to Seattle—Bell Walk Over, Etc.

[From the Associated Press.]

The New York World of last Monday says that James E. Martine, of Plainfield, has announced himself as a candidate for congressman from the new State for congressman from the new district, of which Union county is part. If this district is to be a Democratic district, it could not be represented by a more honest or capable man than "Farmer James", and he deserves the nomination at the hands of his party. He will, however, pardon the Observer if it expresses the wish and belief that the new district will not be Democratic. The Republicans of Union county intend to do everything in their power to defeat Martine, and as popular as he is considered in Martine would make, he will have to hustle, too, if he would be elected.

Why Wife Had Gone.

My wife had been away visiting for some time and I was getting lonesome. Finally I decided to go and see her. I wrote her that I was coming and she replied that she would meet me at the depot. When I got off the train I looked around for her, but could not see her. I then went to the hotel and registered. Then I went to the bar-room and had a drink. I then went back to the hotel and looked over the register, but could not find her name. I then went to the bar-room and had another

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—A project is progressing to organize a Crescent League bicycle club.

—The salaries of the city officials will be fixed for the year at the next meeting of the common council.

—Dr. Rosebalt, after a short stay in this city, has opened an office and commenced practice at Flemington.

—Dr. J. C. Williams announces that he has secured a hall for next Friday, and will lecture on "When Did Man Recognize Himself, and Who is Man?"

—The attention of the Somerset county freeholders is requested to the Somerset county end of the Bandfield avenue bridge over Green brook. It is in a dangerous condition.

—The Catholic Young Men's Lyceum will open a fair in the Opera House Hall, Monday, February 22. The proceeds will be devoted to diminishing the debt on the new club-house.

—Gustavus Johnston reports that the sewer Liberty street property so as to prevent inundation at each rain it will cost about $2,600. The committee will make further and more exact investigation.

—Charles B. VanWinkle secured the setting-aside of three attachments in Bound Brook, Friday, on the ground of their illegality. The cases will be heard before Justice Brampton. W. A. Coddington was opposing counsel.

—The Crescent League will give a fine entertainment at Temple Hall, Saturday evening of this week. The Columbia college glee club and Fred. Emerson Brook, the noted elocutionist, will take part in the programme.

—Messrs. C. A. Reed, Howard Emerson, and G. P. Leggett, constituting the house committee of the Crescent League, are to be congratulated on the recent improvements at the club-house, and rectifying accessions to the society's membership.

—W. E. Codington bought of the Tinde Belly estate, yesterday, Wednesday, at sheriff's sale at Elizabeth, the tract of land on North avenue adjoining Roberts's livery stable, and extending back to Second street. The price paid was $6,500.

—Beginning to-morrow evening, the teachers' meetings of the Somerset Hall, one Sunday-school, for the study of the Sunday-school lesson, will be resumed. The meetings will last three-quarters of an hour only, and will be very helpful ones. All teachers will be welcome.

—The amateur players of Plainfield who are to take part in the Park club dramatic performance at the Academy of St. pet, formed "The Belle of the Kitchen," in the pretty little theatre of the Bloomingdale Insane a plum in New York, the evening of Jan. 5. "The Belle of the Kitchen" is one of the plays that will be given at the Casino on the 21st.

—This is what the Rev. Everett Hall says of Leon H. Vincent, Bishop Vincent's nephew who is to lecture on "Advertising Literature" at Assembly Hall, January 12, 14, 19 and 21: "I heard your lecture on 'Scarecrow' with so much pleasure that I would gladly hear it all over again if I could." Tickets are on sale at Reynolds's and the central pharmacy.

—The young people of the Seventh-day Baptist church have completed the organization of Christian Endeavor society. The society started out with forty-one active members, and others are coming in. It is officered as follows: President—Arthur L. Titsworth; vice-president—May Tomlinson; secretary—Ernestine Smith; corresponding secretary—Mrs. O. B. Hubbard; treasurer—Bessie E. Titsworth.

—Machinist Anderson, of the Pond Tool works, still lies in Muhlenberg Hospital trying to recover from the shock of his accident and the amputation of his leg, while his wife and children are in destitute circumstances. Some of the good women of the various foreign colonial bands of the city might leave their work on those flannel shirts that the heathen they are making them for will trade for lotsaco or rum, and spend the afternoon to-day in the hospital for charity at home.

Extending the Fire-Alarm Service.

The common council Monday authorized the committee on fire and public buildings to place a fire-alarm call-box at Park avenue and Eighth street and another on Arlington avenue, as soon as they are in funds.

A Close Result.

The second team of the Crescent League bowlers, each one close to giving the cracks a tussle, Tuesday. R. T. Harpin was the umpire The score was:

FIRST TEAM.		SECOND TEAM.
Van Emburgh	158	Pond	157
Hawes	157	Neldner	154
Williams	157	Reed	143
Davis	152	Hall	140
Van Winkle	159	Thiers	160
	781		754

Installation of Officers.

At a regular meeting of Lyndon Council, 1094, American Legion of Honor, Tuesday evening, Jan. 5, the following offic rs were in-talled by Deputy Grand Commander Dr. Cook:

Commander—A. L. Titsworth.
Vice Commander—L. T. Rogers.
Past Commander—C. E. Smith.
Orator—D. H. Van Nest.
Secretary—G. E. Williams.
Collector—J. D. Pollis.
Treasurer—L. A. Hummer.
Guide—C. M. Bonnell.
Chaplain—M. B. Crocco.
Warden—Charles Dovier.
Sentry—J. P. Allis.

Did n't Collect the Note and Had to Pay the Costs of a Suit.

The long-drawn out legal contest between Wm. J. Buttfield, of North Plainfield, acting as assignee of L. A. Pleasance and W. S. Simpson, was Tuesday decided by Judge McCormick. The decision was in favor of Mr. Buttfield.

On taking charge of the Rhoame estate, Mr. Buttfield was presented with a demand from Mr. Simpson for payment of a note of $500 and interest, held by Simpson and bearing Rhoame's signature. Mr. Buttfield investigated the matter, and became satisfied that Mr. Rhoame's signature to the note had been obtained by unlawful means, and so he declined to pay. Hence the suit. Testimony was taken on both sides at considerable length before the Surrogate and the case was argued before the Orphans' Court. On this argument Mr. Buttfield's counsel insisted that the evidence established a case of fraud. Opposing counsel indignantly combatted this view. Whether the Court adopted it or not, the ruling is certain it sustained the exceptions in refusing to pay the note and thus leaves the whole costs of the litigation on the estate. Gregg A. Mann was counsel for Mr. Buttfield, and Jackson & Codington for Mr. Simpson.

In spite of great discovery and invention the chronic complaints are Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, the favorite.

Happy and content is the child with "The Rochester" lamp, a lamp with the light of the morning. Call on R. T. Harpin & Co., 28 Park Place, N. Y.

PERSONALIA.

David B. Weaver, of Bridgeton, is in the borough, is severely ill with the grip.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Clarkson are at hotel Laurel-in-the-Pines, Lakewood.

Miss Lizzie DeCamp of Chester, Pa., is visiting Miss Lillian Force of Door street.

Miss Hattie T. Thiers has returned home with his son Wirt, who is slightly improved of his illness.

Miss Blanche Miller entertained a pleasant party of friends at her home on Myrtle avenue, Tuesday night.

The engagement is announced of Miss Florence Rushmore, daughter of ex-councilman Isaac W. Rushmore, to Mr. Hurley of Mexico.

Miss Ida H. Sefield, of 68 West Second street, has returned to her home after an extended visit to her grandparents at Perth Amboy.

Ira G. Berthert, of 340 West Front street, is improving from a relapse of the grip which has confined him to the house for several weeks.

The friends of Miss Martin who is lying ill with the grip at Saranac lake, was much improved Tuesday and she is now expected to recover.

Mrs. William Palmer Smith Thursday night entertained fifty young ladies and gentlemen at her home in Netherwood, in honor of her daughter, Miss Edith Smalley.

Attorney B Allen, for many years editor of the American Agriculturist, died at his home on Webster place, Tuesday, in his 80th year. He had been an invalid for many years.

H. M. Stockton, of Central avenue, with the beginning of the new year, has been made sole manager of the sale in New York of the celebrated Harris fine cassimeres, worsteds and jerseys.

The friends of Miss R. V. D. Benton will be pleased to hear that she is gaining strength. She has gone to Florida for winter season.

W. E. MacClymont, organist of the First Baptist church, will give an organ recital in the church at 8 p. m. Tuesday, Jan. 19. Admission will be free. Mr. MacClymont will be assisted by others in the evening's programme.

The talented young artist and portrait painter, Miss Mary Frances VanArsdale of Crescent avenue, is expected home from the South in a few weeks. She has been in Jacksonville since last March, when she suffered a severe attack of the grip followed by heart trouble and nervous prostration.

Miss Dudley, who is Miss Kenyon's assistant at the Seminary, slipped and fell on the snow in the roadway, the other day, just in front of a fast coming team. The driver pulled up in time to save her life, but she was confined to her bed by the school. Monday, and taught her class in her room.

On Monday F. A. Dunham, C. E., and his skillful road superintendent, David Bowden, left this city for Saginaw, Mich. The municipal authorities there want Mr. Dunham to give them assistance in building a few hundred thousand dollars worth of new streets. They are convinced that he and Mr. Bowden can't be had.

William H Waldron, formerly of this city, where he still has relatives, died at his residence in Clinton January 6. He was forty-two years of age. The funeral services were held at his late residence, Monday, Jan. 18, at 1 p. m., and from the Clinton Presbyterian church at 1:30.

Mrs. E. P. Thorn has received a telegram announcing the safe arrival of Messrs. E. Thorn and Ellis Campbell at the home of Mr. Campbell's son Harry, who has an orange grove near Bartow, City, Fla. They went to Savannah, on the Clyde line steamer Cherokee formerly commanded by Capt. Doane of this city, and from there went by rail.

Miss May Tomlinson, daughter of Dr. T. H. Tomlinson, has gone to San Antonio, Texas, to visit her dear friend and cousin, Mrs. Chamberlain, who was Miss Addie Gillette, daughter of Dr. F. B. Gillette, formerly of this city. In her last letter, dated December, Mrs. Chamberlain says she is sitting in the open door way of her home writing by the light of the moon.

Homer B. Baldwin of 85th street, New York, is the guest of Howard Emerson of this city. Mr. Baldwin is the pretty affected young man who lost his mother, sister and friend in the regent accident on the New York Central railroad. His wife, as a result of the same casualty, lies in St. John's hospital, Yonkers, in a pitiable condition. Her hands have amputated off and her face is lamentably disfigured.

Mr. and Mrs. Constantine P. Ball gave a christening party Saturday p. m. at their home in Netherwood. The guests numbered nearly fifty, from Netherwood, Plainfield, and New York. The Rev. Dr. Vandewater of New York officiated. The babe wore a baptismal robe which has been in the Ball family in England more than 115 years, and which was brought over for this occasion. Mrs. Buchanan of Bridge, N. J., was godmother. The supper was by Marcel of New York.

James A. Taylor of West Seventh street is one of the board of directors of the United States Book company. It has acquired by purchase the entire plant, stock in trade, good-will, trade marks, copyrights, manuscripts, etc., of the John W. Lovell company, including in that purchase an enormous stereotype plant, consisting of stereotype and electrotype plates to the number of more than 1,250,000. Its stock of books consists of more than 1,000,000 volumes, of the value of $500,000. It has been in business 15 years, and has a capital stock of $1,000,000.

Mr. and Mrs. James Clark of West Seventh street will spend the balance of the winter, as usual, in Florida. Mr. Clark will be 50 years in March since Mr. Clark first hung up his business sign in that city as a leather merchant. He now occupies a building there that he erected himself, 26 by 150 feet in dimensions and six stories high. It is filled with a large stock of all the varied requisite and imported leathers that are used by shoemakers, saddlers and harness makers, than is to be found in even New York or Boston. He also has an establishment in Keokuk, and in part owner in two or three extensive tanneries.

A Wonderful Wife's Return.

After eight months' absence from her husband's home in Ken. Abram Fenner has returned to the shelter of his roof.

She went away last spring, taking her four children with her, and leaving them in charge with money her husband had given her to pay the rent with. She obtained work in New York, and supported herself and children thereby, but finally tired of metropolitan life, and returned a prodigal to her husband. He is of a forgiving nature, and has given her her old place in his heart. The whole happiness of the family on West Second street near Plainfield avenue.

THE TABERNACLE EXPLAINED.

Plainfield People.

The Rev. W. A. Walker, of Bridgeport, Conn., delivered an interesting and interesting lecture, the first of a series to be given this week, on "The Gospel According to Moses; or, Christ in the Tabernacle," in Trinity church, Tuesday night. Considering the weather, the attendance was large. T. E. Hazell, with an excellent choir of singers, led the singing, and the reading, and A. L. Titsworth presided at the organ. The Rev. Asa Reed Ditts offered prayer, and the Rev. Cornelius Bell introduced the lecturer. The model of the Tabernacle and of the court was set up on a platform in full view of the audience, and the typical teachings of each part were explained. The lecture was a most entertaining and instructive one, and was a most excellent help to the Bible student in private. The full course of Mr. Walker's lectures includes the following subjects:

The Tabernacle as a whole. Introductory.
The Tabernacle Court. Its Furniture, Curtains and Gate.
The Brazen Altar and Brazen Laver.
The Tabernacle Itself, its Coverings, Boards, Sockets, Pillars and Bars.
The Most Holy Place. Its Door. Table of Shewbread. Golden Candlestick and Golden Altar of Incense.
The Most Holy Place. Its Vail. Ark, and Mercy Seat.
The Jewish Priest. His clothing. Consecration and Service.
The Levitic Service and the Tabernacle on March.
The Day of Atonement and the Offerings.
The last evening Mr. Walker covered the first three topics.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Trinity church deserve great credit in securing so great a treat for the Christian people of Plainfield.

Concerning Mr. Walker's lectures, the Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes of this city writes as follows:

The Bible Readings given in Saratoga by brother Walker, during the week, have been altogether the best I have ever had of God's word. They were marked not only by a wonderful knowledge of the letter of the scriptures, but also by a clear and clear apprehension of the mind of the Spirit, as expressed by the inspired word. He made the people, by a rare expounder of the meanings of the scriptures. Such expositions as we have heard from him would be most helpful to the hearers of our churches, and in such a labor our brother would render eminent service in the cause of Christ.

$5,000 FOR AN EYE.

The Verdict in Against the Pond Tool Company, But the Real Losers Are the Insurance People.

When employed by the Pond Machine Tool Works company, Joseph W. Robinson, of Elizabeth, lost an eye. A short time ago a Union county jury at Elizabeth awarded him $5,000.

The suit was brought only on account of the loss of the eye. Suit for damages was not begun. The eyeball was struck by a flying particle of steel, which came from a cutting from which some other machine for the company were knocking chips.

The fragment of steel imbedded itself so deeply in Robinson's eye as to destroy his sight. His lawyers, Wm. H. Davis and E. J. Davis, of Phillipsburg, brought suit against the company, and the jury brought in a verdict of $5,000.

The trial was begun last Friday, and ended Monday afternoon. The jury was out one hour. The verdict was for the $5,000 asked. The principal witness for Robinson was his physician, Dr. T. S Davis

The plaintiff is satisfied, but the defendant company's position is not, and will, it is said, appeal from the verdict to the supreme court. The Pond company was represented by Senator Edwards of Jersey City.

The case was tried before Judge Vansyckel.

While the verdict is nominally against the Pond company, the real losers are the Fidelity and Casualty insurance company, who insure the Pond people annually against accidents to workmen in their works, and who are the real fighters in the present case.

SCRIPTURE FOR THE COUNCIL.

The Society of Friends Protests Against the Granting of Liquor Licenses.

The following was presented to the Plainfield Common Council Monday night, read, and ordered filed:

To the Honorable Common Council of the City of Plainfield.

GENTLEMEN.—Your memorialists, in behalf of the temperance committee of the Religious Society of Friends, respectfully represent:

1st. That the licensed sale and the sale of intoxicating beverages in Plainfield are opposed to the general public welfare; a menace to the safety and purity of the homes of its citizens; and a special peril to the young and inexperienced, and to the cause of virtue and reform and to lead temperate, Christian lives.

2nd. That the evil burdens of the taxpayers of the city are largely and needlessly increased, apart from the license fees, by the intoxicating drinks sold and consumed by the saloons; that "in the revenues of the wicked is trouble." For by one of old it was thus testified: a town with blood and stabbeth a city by iniquity"—(Hab. ii: 6).

3rd. We therefore respectfully and earnestly ask that in the exercise of the optional power conferred upon you as public guardians not only of the material, but of the moral well-being of our beautiful city, you will grant no license for the sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, for the ensuing year.

By order of the committee,
AARON M. POWELL,
RACHEL BOSLER.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., 1, 18, 1892.

Increasing the Treasurer's Bond.

An ordinance was introduced by councilman Ackerson Monday night, passed for first and second readings, and ordered engrossed and advertised preparatory to final passage, increasing the city treasurer's bond to $25,000. It has been $15,000 since 1881. Sometimes the treasurer has as much as $50,000 of the city's funds in his possession at one time.

Bank Directors.

The following boards of directors were elected by the local banks Tuesday:

First National Bank—D. Thurnell, president; D. F. Randolph, vice-president; Chas. Potter, Jr., cashier; Thomas Mott Osborn, C. Corbit, I. N. Rushmore, H. Mulford Reid, J. W. Johnson, William M. Stillman.

City National Bank—Chas. Hyde, E. H. Pope, J. T. Gibson, J. F. Hubbard, C. Schopfin, F. H. Gardner, J. F. MacDougall, J. B. Coward, H. G. Runkle.

Women Elect Officers.

At a regular meeting of the Woman's Relief corps, No. 10, Post 79, G. A. R., Friday night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. A. C. Cox.
Vice-president—Mrs. W. C. Smith.
Junior Vice-president—Mrs. H. Procher.
Secretary—Mrs. J. C. Drake.
Treasurer—Mrs. Charles S. Stephens.
Chaplain—Mrs. A. Durrey.
Conductor—Mrs. A. S. Mamos.
Guard—Mrs. J. S. Attwood.
Delegate—Mrs. C. S. Stephens.
Alternate—Mrs. H. Procher.

Society Descriptions as They Are Wrote.

The society editor of the Courier is out in all his glory on a description of a local christening, but he does only masters now and then in his exuberance, as witness the following:

"The floral tributes and floral decorations were of Easter lilies and white hyacinths, and the supper was served by Marcel of New York."

A Courier reporter was made of honors must have been a curiosity. But after the supper it appears, according to the B. B. Bees was a dinner, at which he was not present, as witness the next paragraph of the beautiful description:

"The table decorations were white lilies and white hyacinths. After the ceremony dinner was served in the middle family."

VETERANS INSTALL THEIR LEADERS.

Installation of Winfield Scott Post, With Interior Ceremonies by ex-Major Randolph and Others.

The public installation of officers of Winfield Scott post, No. 73, G. A. R., on Tuesday, was a fashionable event in local grand army circles. Many prominent Plainfield people were present in the East Front street headquarters of the post. Quartermaster-General R. A. Donnelly, who was expected to conduct the installation ceremonies, was detained at home by the illness of his wife and daughter. Past Commander R. C. Bisal, of the Wilson post, of Trenton, filled the position of chief of ceremonies in a finished and soldierly manner. The installation of the following post officers was conducted with a strict observance of the Grand Army regulations:

Commander—William C. Smith.
Senior Vice-Commander—Charles Stevens.
Junior Vice-Commander—John Emmons.
Quartermaster—Andrew Cox.
Officer-of-the-Day—Isaiah M. Coy.
Officer-of-the-Guard—Captain Hand.
Surgeon—Dr. Hunter.
Chaplain—John Goodwin.
Adjutant—George W. Moore.
Sergt. Major—L. Compton.

Mrs. Jennie B. Atwood, assistant by Mrs. Southwick, of Trenton, conducted the installation of the following officers of the Women's Relief corps, auxiliary to post 73:

President—Mrs. Andrew Cox.
Senior Vice-commander—Mrs. C. C. Bates.
Junior Vice-commander—Mrs. Procher.
Chaplain—Mrs. Corwin.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. Stevens.
Secretary—Mrs. H. C. Drake.
Conductor—Mrs. Brewster.

Short addresses were made by the Rev. William R. Richards, the Rev. E. M. Rodman, Major W. D. W. Miller, L. V. P. Randolph, and comrade Atwood. The music given by Mosher's band and Mrs. Miller was unusually interesting to the veterans, although all the addresses were received with vigorous applause.

The programme of entertainment arranged by Messrs. W. D. W. Miller, J. E. Stewart and John A. Goodwin, the committee in charge, included vocal duets by Misses Minnie and Jennie Hubbard; instrumental music under the direction of Miss Buckley and elocutionary selections by Mrs. C. W. Lisse. Asa Colby also read several letters of historical interest.

A pleasant incident of the evening was the presentation to the post by George W. Moore, through Colonel Atwood, of a handsome gavel. The head is of brass, heavily silver-plated, while the handle is made of lofcut wood cut near the apex of Washington's tomb. The gavel, which was obtained years ago by Mr. Moore, and in design is unique as it is beautiful.

BOB MEEKER WILL SPEAK.

Plainfield's Street Commissioner to Inform the State Convention About the Need of Engineering Skill in Road Building.

A State road convention is called under the auspices of the State board of agriculture, to meet in the Senate House, Supreme court room, at 2 p. m., January 21. Able and well informed speakers have been engaged as follows:

The Value of Good Roads—Dr. James C. Mackenzie, Lawrenceville, N. J.
Construction and Repair of Country Roads—James Owen, C. E., Newark, N. J.
Cost of Maintaining Roads under present Methods, compared with proposed Methods—State Aid necessary to Building Leading Roads—Judge Alfred Reed, Perth Amboy, and Clayton Conover, Esq., Moorestown, N. J.
Incongruity and Inadequacy of Existing Laws—Ex-Judge Joseph D. Bedle, Trenton, N. J.

The convention is called in the hope of creating some plan for permanent improvement of the public highways of the State; for such a general expression of views as will lead to such a suggest needed legislation; and, if thought best, to organize a permanent State road association. There will be committees appointed as may be deemed necessary. The convention will hold two sessions on the Thursday, and continue into the following day if found advisable.

WHO IS "JASPER, 120"?

He Promised to Heat Two Hydrants at a Plainfield Hotel to Sell Them "Green-Goods," But They Have Not the Gas Turned On.

Bliss Griffin and M. B. Ball, who were on their way to Plainfield to buy counterfeit money, narrowly escaped death in Ryan's Hotel at Elizabeth, Monday night, as a result of their escape they are under arrest and the police are looking for the Plainfield green-goods swindler.

At midnight a strong smell of gas was noticed in their room in the hotel. The door was burst open, and the two men were found on the bed unconscious, having apparently blown out the gas. When they had been resuscitated there, after an hour's work, they chased him and his assistants out of the room. The men then went to Newark, where they found that they were from Lynchburg, Va., and were going to Plainfield to get $3,000 in counterfeit money for $300 in hard cash. From there they went to New York, and to them from New York. They were instructed to speak to no one but the one saying, "Jasper, 120."

The fugitives from the Plainfield police victims would not tell their story to Chief-of-Police Tenny, because he could not give the counterfeiters. They are held for larceny of the gas meter, and the counterfeit money chap will be arrested as soon as his identity is established.

Prayer Talks by Mr. Herbst.

The Rev. Dr. J. L. Herbst will give a series of talks, during the coming weeks, before the Epworth League of the Morse Memorial church. Each one will begin at 8 p. m. The subjects will be as follows:

Friday, January 22—"How to Study the Bible."
Friday, January 29—"The Four Gospels."
Friday, February 5—"The Epistle of Corinthians."
Friday, February 12—"The Lands of Old Testament History."

Everybody is invited to attend, with Bible and note-book.

Borough Sales of Real Estate.

Recent real-estate transfers in Somerset county include the following of property in North Plainfield:

Benjamin D. Sandford to Elizabeth Lane, $1.
Elizabeth Lane to Margaret A. Randolph, $1.
Benjamin J. Weaver to John Taylor Johnson, $1.
Thomas A. DeCamp to John Taylor Johnson, $1.
Thomas A. Campbell to John Taylor Johnson, $1.
Thomas A. Clay to Susan N. Johnston, $1.
Ferdinand A. Straun to Hannah Durbach, $1,000.

Installation of Archer's New Officers.

There was a large gathering of masons at the Plainfield lodge, Friday night, at ball, Tuesday night, when Archer's new officers were installed. Among those present were W. B. Hoberg, Jr., of Cortell, W. L. Titsworth, John Chandler and H. Woodland of Jerusalem lodge. A collation was served at the close of the ceremonies by Caterer C. C. Daughoss and J. A. Smith. The officers installed were:

W. M.—Charles H. Lowrie.
S. W.—C. H. Rowland.
J. W.—Robert S. Hoberg.
Treasurer—Charles Potter, Jr.
Secretary—J. A. Drummond.
S. D.—Charles Hyde.
J. D.—Frank Hyde.
S. S.—C. E. Bowne.
J. S.—F. Y. Tunison.
J. S.—W. B. Cook.
Tyler—C. A. Emmons.
J. M. of C.—R. D. Bowne.
Organist—C. C. Wolfenden.
Marshal—Charles Hyde.

HYMENEAL.

Interesting Wedding.

AFTER an event that held its never equal, the wedding which took place in Green Protestant Episcopal church, Monday, when Miss Soldene Myers Wills became the bride of Marion Alexander Ackerson, the ceremony was performed before a large floral bell, at the front of the church, by the Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman. In the presence of a throng of people representing the wealth, beauty and culture of Plainfield.

The church altar was tastefully decorated with a profusion of white lilies and other pure white blossoms, deftly intermingled with the graceful smilax. The bridal party entered to the wedding march played on the great church organ by Mrs. William A. Freeman, and the processional "Before Ye Fare in Heart", sung by the surpliced boy choir of the church, with, singing as they marched, had previously taken their places in the church. When the wedding party had reached the chancel steps and the bride and groom had plighted their troth, the choir sang beautifully the "Gloria". Then the bride and groom, attended by the best man and the maid of honor, proceeded by the page, ascended the chancel steps to the rail, and there knelt, on a richly embroidered satin and velvet cushion, placed by the page, to receive the blessing. The choir sang as a recession the anthem "Deign This Union to Approve".

A very pretty feature of the wedding march was the alternation of the bridesmaids and ushers, in pairs. First were two bridesmaids, then two ushers, then again two bridesmaids, and so on, then the maid of honor and the page, then the rest of the bridal party. The bridesmaids were six of Plainfield's most sweet maidens—Miss Marion Dumont, Miss Gertrude Wells, Miss Annie Cooke, Miss Margaret Tracy, Miss Katheryn Yates, and Miss Margaret Tilton. Their costumes were of yellow silk, and they carried bunches of rare ascension roses, tied with yellow ribbons.

The maid of honor, Miss Fannie Orr, looked handsome in a costume of white crepe de chine, and the bride was radiant and altogether lovely in a gown of white satin and duchesse lace, with veil, which Master Roy Cox made a charming page, clad in black velvet and point-lace.

The bride was given away by her father, Frederick N. Willis. The best man was Ernest S. Ackerman, councilman, brother of the groom. The ushers were Frank Thomas Morgan and Edward Van Buren, all of Plainfield; John Grierson and Townsend Morgan, of New York; and Charles Dumont, of Brooklyn.

The wedding was altogether one of the prettiest social happenings of the current season. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, on Madison avenue. As the two families are among the most prominent in Plainfield the reception would have been a most fashionable event, but the recent sudden death of the bride's grandfather, the Rev. John Wills, of Barnstable, Mass., necessitated the strictest privacy being observed in Plainfield.

The bride's father is one of the best known insurance officials of New York city. The groom is the son of the late Rev. J. Hervey Ackerman, who was one of New York's leading lawyers, and who in his lifetime served both as councilman and as city judge in Plainfield. The groom's uncle, Warren Ackerman, is Scotch Plains, is one of the wealthiest men in New Jersey, and owns the largest cement works of the country.

WARM TALK ON A COLD NIGHT.

The Borough Street Light Committee Goes a Shooting Over the Coals.

Mr. Hegeman stirred things up and made a lively session of the borough council January season of the borough council Friday night. To begin with, he sharply criticised the action of the council at a previous meeting in refusing to allow a bill of engine-driver Seader. The bill was a correct one, he held, and the council only indulged in a most extraordinary proceeding when it lopped off $5 to offset the claim which the borough thought it had against Seader on an old score. Seader believed that he had earned the $5 in dispute, and if the council wanted to recover it after having once paid it the only way to do so was through legal proceedings. After some warm discussion, the council rescinded its former action, on Mr. Hegeman's motion, paid Seader the full amount of the bill which had been cut, and opened the question on fire, water and lamps to investigate the old claims and adjust it. Mr. Sebring alone voted against the whole proceeding, and some of his remarks were received with marks of disapproval and derision by the lobby.

Mr. Hegeman's second sensation was in the matter of street lights. He made some very severe statements in connection with the arrangement of the lamps on the streets which aroused resentment in Mr. Sebring, who is chairman of the lamps committee and who is popularly supposed to be interested in the North Plainfield electric light company.

Mr. Hegeman said that complaints came daily, thick and fast, that lamps were wasted on localities which did not need them and that other localities suffered for lack of light. Any petitions had been presented, but all seemed to be buried in committee.

The secretary under the Hull Plainfield system, to turn the lamps together, to get light, and Mr. Hegeman intimated that merely to enable the company to put a lamp on Rockview avenue, for instance, the committee had placed a street lamp on Rockview avenue, and that the borough was therefore paying the company for a lamp that it did not need there, and make a satisfactory report of the placing of the lamps.

The street committee were ordered to investigate the condition of Brook avenue and take steps to put a fence as a safeguard against people falling or driving into the open recovery running along the street. Brook avenue is an unlighted thoroughfare, and it is a wonder some fatal accident has not resulted from the unguarded condition of the roadway.

After transacting the usual routine business the council went into executive session.

RUSSELL RACE.

The well-known financier, writes:

"No Fifth Avenue,
New York City, Dec. 30, 1890.

"For the last twenty years I have been a great sufferer from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. I have frequently tried your Ayer's Pills, and always found them prompt and reliable in their action. They are the only pills I use, and I shall continue to take them as long as I live. I have also used your Sarsaparilla in my family, and find it an excellent blood purifier. My family are never without them.

ADJUSTING AN OLD CHURCH DEBT.

Pastor Ditts Tells His People This Worry Must Be Settled or He Will Have to Resign.

From THE PRESS of Jan. 5.

At a meeting held in the Park Avenue Baptist church last night, the pastor, the Rev. Asa Reed Ditts, pointed out to the congregation the way in which he strongly urged the rightful. In fact, Mr. Ditts was so urgent in his pastoral advice that he announced that, unless the church set an example of Christian uprightness in a long-disputed matter, he would of necessity be compelled to hand in his resignation as pastor.

When the Park Avenue church was built, alterations made in the original plans necessitated the expenditure of about $12,000 more than had at first been intended the church should cost. By what has been termed "sharp practice" the payment of about one-half of this money was avoided. The builders, Messrs. William D. Stewart and Charles Stumpson, are said to have signed a receipt in full for payment when the church officers when the church was completed, so that it now is claimed that they have no legal right to any further payment.

It has be-n said that the church is not legally responsible for the $600 should show a desire to give full measure and running over for all that it received. The Rev. Mr. Ditts has held for some time that the money should be paid, or at least that some adjustment should be made, in a Christian spirit, in the matter. It was but a demonstration of honest and Christian dealing, he held, for the church to recognize the alleged debt. The question was not a legal one, but entirely a moral one.

It is but fair to the builders to say that they have not pressed their claims.

At last night's meeting, Rev. Mr. Ditts earnestly asked the church to act with him in righting a wrong. He urged that the spiritual welfare of the church demanded that the stain of any kind should exist against it. For a healthful spiritual growth the church itself must set an example to be emulated with profit by the members of the congregation.

There were no discussions at this meeting—no unpleasant controversies. The words of good advice delivered by the pastor were received with respectful and kindly feelings by his people. At the close of his remarks the church voted to bring the disputed matter up for consideration before a business meeting of the church to be held within a few days. That the matter will be adjusted in an honorable way no one can doubt who knows of the close, affection that binds together the pastor and people of this church.

The question under settlement is not one that in any way affects the church building. Those are paid for, and have been for more than ever before, and the church is flourishing finely. The matter has to do more with the spiritual welfare of the church. Pastor Ditts has held it on his mind some time to ask for adjustment of the affair, which had been lying dormant, but will now be settled without discord and with credit to the church.

PRESIDENT SPENCER RE-ELECTED.

Interesting Annual Meeting of the Brethren Club—Good Advice by Dr. Lewis.

The installation services at Reform Hall Thursday night were well attended. The Rev. Dr. Honeyman conducted the devotional exercises. Music was given by the choir, consisting of Mr. Vanderbeek and Mr. and Mrs. Hiles. The annual meeting of the business, the newly elected officers were duly installed. On being conducted to the platform, president Spencer said: "Brother members of the club, I thank you for this mark of esteem you have shown, by re-electing me to the presidency of this club. I feel that I am no more entitled to the position than a great many others who have proved faithful to their pledges. I take a deep interest in the club, and, God helping me, will do ne for me, but for what it has done for so many others, and what it is capable of doing for others who are to-day in the world of needy years ago. In this regard to the pledge"—he continued—"I have not relied upon my own strength. There has not a day passed since I signed the pledge that I have not thanked God for what He aided me in signing it—and prayed Him to assist me in keeping it; and with His aid and an earnest effort on my part, I have been able to stand firmly. I believe that God will help those who try to help themselves."

The first vice-president, John S. King, was next conducted to the platform, and in appropriate remarks thanked the club for the honor conferred on him. He was followed by the second vice-president, P. H. Cranmyer, in his quaint and humorous style which was well received by the audience. Treasurer J. D. Spicer was next introduced. After tendering sincere thanks for the honor conferred, he followed with some excellent advice to the club and its patrons. Recording secretary W. B. Ayers was introduced to the platform accepted his position with well-timed remarks. Financial secretary J. W. A Bastenagle was the next official presented, and like his predecessors, was creditable to him. First marshal, Capt. Wm. C Smith was then pre-sented, and in fitting words related some of his experiences subsequent to being elected to the pledge, drawing comparisons which were very significant, in reflecting the sunlight of a sober life on the shadow of the past.

The Rev. Dr. Lewis, who had kindly consented to be present if possible, was then introduced, and he found a number of made exceedingly appropriate suggestions to the club, dwelling upon the practicability of individual work, and recommending a recognition committee to look after those who had violated their pledges and other work in that line—all of which will receive consideration at the hands of the club.

The president appointed the following: Chaplain—The Rev. W. R. Honeyman. Executive committee—Rev. Dr. Lewis, Judge W. R. Codington, Jacob Vonk, E. P. Williams, Capt. Wm. C. Smith.

Musical committee—Nathan Harper, S. P. Hoffman, J. D. Whiting.

The meeting was unanimously confirmed by the club. The services were closed by singing by the choir and the benediction by the chaplain.

They Wanted Counting House's Opinion.

Correspondence of the Courier.

The following paper was read before this city addressed by invitation a union meeting of the church people of, Somerville, Sunday afternoon, in the Methodist church of that place. The subject was selected by those having charge of the meeting which was one of a series on Sunday afternoon talks at which well-ready approved words of God are discussed divines and prominent public men in the State. Governor Mapes gave a legal opinion as to "Our courts, their power to grant and withhold licenses to sell intoxicating liquor".

—The trial of Michael Watson for illegal liquor selling was on Saturday postponed to next Friday. Some of the city's witnesses are said to have disappeared.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

ANOTHER MONOPOLY SPREADING.

From Plainfield to Elizabeth the Monopolists are to Invade, Lotz the Monopolists to Water, Are Grasping All.

The New York press tells that a large corporation that promises to have the biggest monopoly in central New Jersey is gradually absorbing all the electric light companies in that vicinity. Its object is to furnish light to all New Jersey towns lying between this city and Elizabeth. The large corporation recently bought out the Elizabeth Electric Light company, and an alliance with the Plainfield company will soon be consummated, when negotiations are said to be about completed. This last-named company already has a monopoly in this city. It owns both the gas and electric-light plants.

If an alliance is made between the two concerns, it is probable that all the towns between Elizabeth and Plainfield will by fair means or otherwise be forced to accept the Westinghouse alternating system.

The projects is strongly opposed in Westfield, as the townspeople had about completed arrangements to have an electric-light company of their own. It is not known yet how the matter will end, but it stayed from trespassing on the town. Westfield has not the power of a city or borough to keep off such corporations, and it is feared that the company will get the consent of a majority of the property-owners it will place its poles where it pleases.

The pressure that will be necessary to carry a lighting current from Elizabeth to Plainfield and from this city to Elizabeth is enormous, much greater than the voltage that is used in the alternating system to kill the convicted murderers at Sing Sing. It is said that united action will be taken to prevent the monopoly from gaining a foothold.

CHILDREN'S SPRING HEEL, HAND-SEWED WELT BUTTON BOOTS, IN MISSES A, B, C, D, E SIZES 11 TO 2. $1.50

YOUTHS' VEAL CALF LONDON TIP SHOES IN BUTTON & LACE, IN WIDTHS B, C, D, E SIZES 11 TO 2. $1.50

MEN'S CALF, Opera or Common Sense, GOOD TEAM WORK BOOTS, IN WIDTHS B, C, D, E; $2.50

LADIES' [illegible] HAND-SEWED WELT BUTTON BOOTS, IN WIDTHS A, B, C, D, E; $2.50

B

and overseers corporate during session in this state.

The report of the Secretary will furnish interesting and should be carefully considered by the legislature. Recommendations for legislation are made therein, to which I call your careful attention. The report contains most valuable information in reference to different kinds of business, the amount of money invested in these enterprises and the assets of the institutions. The commissioner has also made a summary relative to the standing of savings banks, and his action in reference to national building and loan associations, under the act of June 10, 1890.

He also calls attention to the improper use of the benevolent and charitable act of 1875 by a class of endowment associations which were overreaching the state, and claiming to exist under that act, the incorporators of which are principally contributors. The commissioner reports that most of these deceptive and fraudulent institutions have been driven from the state or compelled to cease business, and that a case is now pending for the judicial settlement of the legal questions involving their relations with this department.

He also reports that the act of Feb. 10, 1891, relative to taxation of life insurance companies, will result in increasing the revenues of the state.

State Asylum for the Insane.

March 17, 1891, the legislature passed an act (P. L. 1891, page 55) abolishing the separate management of the Insane asylums at Trenton and Morris Plains, and both institutions were placed under one board of trustees. The change was made in order to reduce expenses and increase the efficiency of the institutions. The new board, although it did not organize until March 19, 1891, has, I am informed, already accomplished since then will be clearly seen in the following report of the trustees of the Morris Plains asylum in 1890 were $231,-940.15. Expenses for 1891 were $206,452.67 per month, a saving of $25.48 per patient.

In the Trenton asylum the expenditures in 1890 were $1,-2,000.00. Expenses for the last fiscal year they were $940,429.18, being a saving of $59,570.82, although the average daily number of patients during the last year was 30 more than during 1890, and the actual number of patients on the books was 40 less than there were more than during the preceding year. The cost of maintenance per patient in the institutions for 1890 was $262.15; during the last fiscal year, upon the same basis of calculation, it was $206.42 per patient, a saving of $21.75 per patient.

In the Trenton asylum the expenditures for the year 1890 were $1,-2,000.00. For the last fiscal year they were $940,429.18, being a saving of $59,570.82, although the average daily number of patients during the latter year was twenty-eight more than during the preceding year, and the actual number of patients was thirty-four more than in 1890. The cost per patient in this institution in 1890 was $266.66, while during the last year it was $234.98, being $31.71 per patient less than in the previous year.

The aggregate balance of the two institutions on hand Nov. 30, 1891, is an average of $21,-59874 over the aggregate balance of the two institutions at the end of the fiscal year of 1890.

The value of the land and improvements under the supervision of the board is now estimated at $2,504,-778.91. The board has charged $1,-779 patients and 627 officers and employees.

The board recommends:

First—That additional sleeping rooms for patients be built at the Morris Plains asylum to relieve the present small and inconvenient dining room, and that the present dining room be fitted up as dormitories for patients, to relieve in the most economical manner the present crowded condition of the wards.

Second—That the legislature pass an act providing for the uniform government of the two state asylums, and such other enactments relating thereto and confirming this legislation as shall be found necessary for effecting or efficient to understand or apply.

Third—That the name of the asylum be changed to that of hospital.

The consolidating of these asylums under one management, which I have recommended in my previous message, upon the ground that it would secure greater efficiency and more economical administration of these institutions financially, has been fully justified by the result.

At the close of the fiscal year there were under treatment at the Morris Plains asylum 1,-456 males and 1,-456 females. The total number treated during the year was 1,-912, of whom 1,-219 were admitted, 113 men and 106 women. The daily average of patients was 1,-2,000. The number of the 1,-912 patients ceased to be inmates of the institution; of these 73 died, 74 were restored, 31 improved and 1,-1 unimproved, 1 escaped.

There are at present 720 patients classed as indigent who are supported by the counties sending them, 93 are private patients and 47 are boarded at the asylum by the state.

The total receipts for maintaining the institution during the year were $227,923.36, the beginning of the year, were $227,923.36. The total expenditures were $221,-826.64, leaving a balance on hand Nov. 30, 1891, of $6,-144.62.

At the close of the fiscal year there were under treatment at the Trenton asylum 930 patients, of whom 412 were males and 518 females. The total number treated during the year was 999; 202 new cases were admitted 121 men and 81 women. The daily average of patients was about 902. During the year 160 patients ceased to be inmates of the institution, of whom 73 died, 59 recovered, 17 were improved and 10 unimproved. There are at present 720 patients in the institution classed as indigent who are supported by the counties sending them; 93 are private patients and 18 are supported directly by the state.

The receipts for the payment of wages in cash.

Fifth—A bill to prohibit employees from working or performing from employment of nonresident detectives as peace officers in labor disputes.

Sixth—A bill to prohibit the employment of nonresident detectives as peace officers in labor disputes.

Seventh—The establishment of an efficient state board of arbitration or conciliation, and I desire to call your attention especially to the condition of affairs in the Cape May peninsula. The failure of the employers and the grave charges that have been made against the action of many of those connected with the corporation doing business at that place call for an investigation by the state, and I recommend the exact facts and take such legislative action as may be necessary whatever evils or wrong you may find.

Factories and Workshops.

The labor bureau of this department was fully stated in my previous message. A summary of the work done by the bureau since that the following work was done by them:

Number of factories inspected, 1,-304; number of factories, 1,-304; number of children employed, 1,-695; number of accidents reported, 1,-1; number of prosecutions instituted, 1,-1; number of permits granted, 1,-1; number of permits refused, 1,-1; number of fire escapes erected on orders, 1,-1; number of children returned to school, 1,-272.

The report of the inspector recommends:

First—That the factory laws and all supplementary thereto be codified.

Second—That the factory inspectors be authorized to forbid the use of unsafe boilers for manufacturing purposes.

Third—The appointment of an additional inspector, to be known as a mining inspector, whose duties shall be to visit the mines connected with mines and such other matters as shall be referred to him by the inspector.

Fourth—That no child under ten boys and girls may be employed in factories be raised, and that no child shall then be permitted to seek employment without, a permit from the inspector, which shall verify that they have attended the common school examination in reading, writing and arithmetic.

Fifth—That the compulsory education laws be amended so that minors be compelled to attend school until they are thirteen or fourteen years of age.

Geological Survey.

The work of the geological survey for the past year has consisted in the study of the surface formations of the state, the water power and water supply, the clay industry of the iron mining industry and the crystalline rocks of the highlands. The survey has acted in co-operation with the United States geological survey in the last mentioned work.

The state geologist reports that Professor R. D. Salisbury, assistant state geologist, has engaged for the study of the surface formations, having made a large number of personal observations made by him in the northern and central parts of the state. He began work in detail in the northwestern counties, and has carried it on over parts of Middlesex, Monmouth and nearly all of Ocean counties that he has devoted his attention to five weeks' time to the other formations, to which he has devoted and to practically the glacial and post glacial formations of the state. He has also given much attention to the differentiation of the formations of the several counties, as to which he has published in full detail, as well as to which he has before laid the foundation of the work.

The state geologist reports that the glacial drift has been found to be much thicker than was demonstrated that the glacial drift has been so far as only approximately determined. It

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY,
M. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1892. No. 3.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well as its limitations as to its authorities."—Madison.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON.
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters in Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—[1y52]

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sale of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 182, Dunellen, N. J., or address to care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES P. THEIS,
Dentist,
No West Front street. A new local anæsthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—[y52]

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock Box 21, SCOTCH PLAINS, N. J. Orders left at F. J. Cleary's second-hand store, 40 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—a1m5

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
241 Broadway, New York city. Rooms 31 and 32. (Importers' and Traders' Bank Building.) Residence, Plainfield, N. J.—[y52]

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Recommended by his former employer, Parmerene-Smith. Pianos and organs for sale and to let, or cash or by postal. P. O. Box 180 or left at Will Smith's Shoe Store, No. 5 Park avenue will receive prompt attention. Residence, 91 East Front street, corner Sixth street.—[y1y52]

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Residence and Shop No. 36 East 2d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. apa7

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—REGULAR SALES EVERY FRIDAY AT 2 O'CLOCK P. M.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
(Successor to E. B. Maynard.)
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, 5 hairdressing, 25 cts. Hair successfully performed. [1y52]

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stove s can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. First-class Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in the section. All our work is done by the very best of mechanics, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.
J. Hervey Doane,
6 PARK AVENUE.
(Formerly Clarke.)

Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and promptly done. 4y52

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23. 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches of work in the most thorough and workmanlike manner, and guarantee satisfaction in every instance. Having purchased the entire stock of Messrs. Stelle & Hall, I am now prepared to offer the same at prices that will defy competition. Call and examine my stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 6 SOUTH AVE. NORTH, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

FORCE'S HOTEL,
NORTH AVENUE, (NEAR R. R. STATION,)
JAS. M. FORCE, Prop'r.
FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL. Steam Heat. First-class Free Lunch.
Transient guests at reasonable rates. 10-31-tf

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually
JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, "
ELIAS B. POND, Treasurer.
apr87

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
CELEBRATED DELIVERER PEACH ORCHARD. a4tf

ESTABLISHED 1836.
C.E. & J.W. BROWN,
(Successors to G. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.)
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather and Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades. 3-15-y

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stove s can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. First-class Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in the section. All our work is done by the very best of mechanics, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.
J. Hervey Doane,
6 PARK AVENUE.
(Formerly Clarke.)

LIVERY.
A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables
Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Parties and Funerals. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.
RIDING OR LIVERY
Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.—oct19y
TELEPHONE CALL, No. 24.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation" Express will attend to the prompt delivering baggage to and from the Depot, or anywhere in the city.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.
WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
Marine

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasoline Stoves,
Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 12 SOMERSET ST. 3-14-y

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.,)
is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grade of
Fresh and Salt Meats,
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished at short notice.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE CHEAPER THAN EVER.
Hugo Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
(Successor to T. S. Gregory)
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—16 W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans for Furniture, Stoves, Safes, Pianos, Organs, &c. Also Open Vans for Freight. Orders left at Office or Residence, No. 16 West Front street, will receive prompt attention. Residence, 16 West Front street.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best tobacconists in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY
Also constantly on hand the finest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos always in stock.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
Study

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMEST'C
—SEGARS!—
No. 18 PARK AVE., (Rear of POST OFFICE.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials,
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.
The celebrated "Old Judge" smoking Tobacco, without the poisonous drugs and deleterious gums so often used. 4tm

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And Dealer in all Kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and Smokers' Articles, has removed from 30½ W. Front street, to 41 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally. 4 t m 3

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
a2tf

L. S. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS SUPPLIES. 26 NORTH AVENUE
apr87

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. H. GRIFFIN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-tf

WHATEVER form or printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes and Menus
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or of Societies,
Bill or Private Circulation,
Everything

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST

DAILY PRESS

(Chautauqua Building),

PLAINFIELD N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
Manufactured only by the
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
NEWARK, N. J.
2-7 y

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN,
17 LaGrande Avenue,
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET,
Will reopen THIS SEPT. 17, 1891.
The Kindergarten will include Modeling, Drawing and Sewing. 9 11 tf

DODWORTH'S
CLASSES FOR Dancing & Deportment
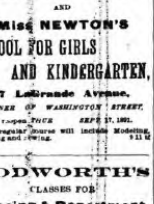
SEMINARY HALL, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Commencing Friday, Oct. 30, 1891,
FROM 3½ TO 5½ P. M.
Apply to E. E. Rogers for circulars and information, Seminary Hall.
THOS. J. DODWORTH,
Residence, 1328 Fulton avenue, N. Y. City.
20 6 tf



"And now," whispered the dying wife, "when I am gone, John, dear, don't grieve at my loss, but get married again, for the children need some one to look after them, and—"

"O, don't, May, don't," pleaded the sorrowful husband, "don't speak of it!"

"But I must," said she. "And if you get married, marry Miss Mayberry."

"I will, May, if you think she would make us a good wife."

"That's not it," she said, and her breath came fast and faint, "but when she won the prize for making the best bread, I saw how I'd get even with her and make her suffer, and—and you can do it, John!"—Boston News.

Not That Kind of a Bride.

The widow of a distinguished professor was thinking of marrying a disconsolate sort of a gentleman, who expressed great admiration for her deceased husband and the family name.

"I revere the memory of your husband, and would like very much to have some relic to keep and cherish me by."

"The only relic I can offer you," replied the disconsolate widow, sighing heavily, "is myself. I got will love and cherish me for his sake you may, for I am of an affectionate disposition and—"

But the relic hunter had silently stolen away before she could finish the sentence.—Detroit Free Press.

He Didn't Lie.

Father—Look here, young man, give an account of yourself. What kept you out so late last night?

Son—I was attending a class in astrology, and of course I didn't want to leave till the session was over.

"What do you want to be, for? I have positive knowledge that you were at the circus performance." "Good deal of astrology about that, eh?"

"Certainly. That comes under the head of 'the race of man,' don't it?"—Boston Courier.

HOW HE GOT IT.

Tarnished Finnegan (politely)—Young lady, would yer please ax yer mother if she can't give a poor man a bit of cold victuals?

Miss Witherupp (aged thirty-eight)—Sir right down here, poor fellow! I'll get you some myself.—Judge.

He Wanted It Lively.

He was an old bachelor looking for board.

"Is it pretty lively here?" he asked, as the landlady was showing him about.

"I should just say it was. Now, if you take this room, there's a man and his wife on each side of you, and—"

"That will do nicely. They're always quarreling, and you can hear every word that is said."

"That would be interesting."

"And on the left there's a young man that is learning to play the cornet. He practices half the night, and the family across the hall have a melodeon. I have a piano myself and a girl upstairs is learning the violin, so I guess you will find it lively here."

But he said if there wasn't a xylophone and a mailings in the house he wouldn't take the room. He was afraid he'd would be lonesome.—Detroit Free Press.

He Showed Her.

They had been sitting in silence for some time; the clock was slowly dragging its hands to the points that would mark 11. She had yawned, dagged, dozed on forth, sneezed, but he did not seem to catch on, as the seminary girls have it. At length she said:

"Do you know any slang phrases, George?"

"Well, yes, I believe I do," he said, rather surprised at the question.

"What is meant by 'getting a move on you?'"

George looked at her fondly for a moment. Then he said he would give her an imitation of the slang, and she was pleased. [!]

Needless Advice.

Physician (to his patient, a hunted looking man)—Now, my dear sir, I would advise you to—

Patient—Thanks, doctor, for your advice, I'll do it. By the way, where can I get a pair of handcuffs on the cheap?—Judge.

A WOMAN'S GYMNASIUM.

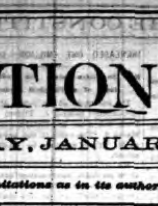
Where Ten Thousand Women Cultivate Their Muscles.

Miss MacGahan Visits the Chautauqua Gymnasium at Boston with Mrs. Ames, Its Directress—How They Dress for Exercise.

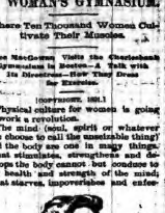
[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

Physical training for women is going to work a revolution.

The mind (soul, spirit or whatever you choose to call the immobile thing) and the body are one in many things. What stimulates, strengthens and develops the body cannot but conduce to the health and strength of the mind; what starves, impoverishes and enfeebles one of the vitalities, with one or



Miss Marguerite C. Clark
Cambridge



MISS M'MARTIN, DIRECTOR OF CHARLESBANK GYMNASIUM.

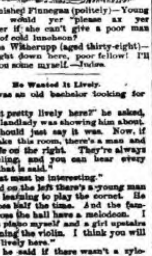
bles the body must also have its energizing and depressing effect upon the mind.

Men's superior mental and moral stamina and resistance comes more than is commonly realized from their more active habits of life. Over-tender sensibilities get hardened, morbid tendencies are nipped and corrected in the daily scuffle of the sometimes rough but healthful contact with the world at work and at play. How cowed, sickly, melancholy or morbid sentimentality flourish on the floor of the stock exchange, in the various centers of commercial life, or in a football rush, a yacht race, a prize fight, a base ball or almost any of the stirring occupations or amusements of the average man?

If sickness, calamity or bereavement hits a man he gathers up what's left and goes ahead to make the best of it, fighting just as much as possible as if he had lost. If his wife dies he doesn't go out and wrap his head in a hideous black blanket of a veil and refuse all comfort. It's only women who do this, who cover their faces and think it a sort of wickedness to be comforted; and I protest it is nine-tenths due to lack of exercise in their limbs and bodies, the impetus that a good circulation and fine, lusty physical life would give their mental being toward health and happiness.

Dr. Dudley A. Sargent, director of the Hemenway gymnasium at Harvard and the leading authority in America on physical culture and the study and practice of physical culture and development, tells me that two-thirds of his summer school at Harvard as well as his normal classes are women. He says they are quick, bright, intelligent in learning and most capable and successful instructors; and he insists that women are the coming teachers of physical culture.

Dr. Sargent also has supervision of the gymnasium for the Harvard annex, the teacher in charge being Miss Jennie



Blanche Wilson, a graduate of Dr. Sargent's normal classes. The normal classes are held in this gymnasium and from them have been sent out graduates to teach physical culture, according to Dr. Sargent's methods, in colleges and schools all over the country. Of these some of the most distinguished and successful are:

Miss Helen McMartin, in charge of the Charlesbank free gymnasium for women and children, Boston.

Miss Ida Ballin, director of the Miss Allsone gymnasium at Venice.

Miss R. Foster, M. D., director of gymnasium Women's Educational and Industrial Union, Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Julia Mackrell, teacher of physical training, Goates college, Terre Haute, Ind.

Miss Ellen L. Lowell, Leland Stanford university, Palo Alto, Cal.

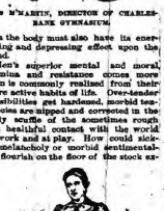
Miss D. M. Elliott and Miss Mary G. Potter, Berkeley lyceum, New York city.

Miss Margaret E. Clark is building a gymnasium for her own in Cambridge.

Miss Ballantine made rather a specialty of swimming, and there is a fine big swimming tank in the Vassar gymnasium, where she now teaches.

This is the one athletic sport to which women, as a class, seem to take a man, her smaller bone and greater amount of adipose tissue giving her more buoyancy in the water, and the muscular effort required being more accurately distributed. And she certainly would be no two epidemics as to be being a most useful and desirable accomplishment to be able to swim—to be able to "take to the water as a duck takes to it."

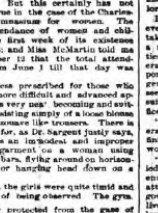
The Charlesbank gymnasium, of Boston, is a free open air gymnasium on the shores of the Charles, with one of the finest gymnasium buildings in the world. It is going at the matter in the right manner, providing healthful exercise and means of physical development for those who most need it, and attend the least chance of getting it—that feminine portion of the city which flies slowly out of the great sweating boxes between the hours of sunset and sunrise. The gymnasium belongs to the city, is absolutely free to all, and is open daily from eight till half an hour after sunset. Any working girl or woman seeking pleasure and exercise and physical development may, secure all the privileges of the place, apparatus and instruction, by simply presenting her name. The



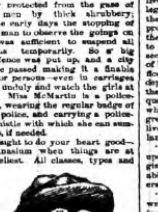
THE GYMNASIUM COSTUME.

CHARLESBANK GYMNASIUM.

Miss C. Potter
Instructor, Berkley Lyceum, N.Y.

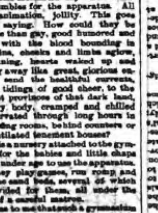


Miss Julia Mackrell
Teacher of Physical Culture, Terre Haute, Ind.



Jessie Blanchy Gilbert
Dr. Sargent's Assistant

Miss Ballantine
Vassar



Miss Foster
Buffalo, N.Y.

gymnasium is fitted up in the most improved manner, and in accordance with the most modern methods under Dr. Sargent's supervision. The apparatus used is much the same as that in the men's gymnasium, and in all other well equipped institutions of the sort, differing in some respects from the men's in that some of the paraphernalia has been changed to meet the requirements of the sex.

You often hear it said that when given opportunities for physical or mental improvement people who have most need of them are too indifferent to avail themselves of them. The fact certainly has been proved true in the case of the Charlesbank gymnasium. During the total attendance of women and children the first week of its existence was 9,603; and Miss McMartin told me on October 12 that the total attendance from June 1 till that day was 146,000.

The dress prescribed for those who use the more difficult and advanced apparatus is very pretty, becoming and suitable, consisting simply of a loose blouse and full, somewhat like trousers. There is no skirt, for, as Dr. Sargent justly says, a skirt is an impudent and improper looking garment on a woman using vaulting bars, flying around on horizontal bar, or hanging head down on a trapeze.

At first the girls were quite timid and very shy of being observed. The gym was only protected from the gaze of curious men by thick shrubbery; and in the early days the erection of one lone man to observe the goings on within was sufficient to suspend all operations temporarily. So a big wooden fence was put up, and a city ordinance passed making it a finable offense for persons over 10 years of age—to stop unduly and watch the girls at exercise. Miss McMartin is a policeman, too, wearing the regular badge of the park police, and carrying a policeman's whistle with which she can summon help, if needed.

It is a sight to do your heart good—the gymnasium when things are at their liveliest. All classes, types and varieties of girls and women are there, from nine years to sixty, from the child scarcely old enough to walk to the "stout lady" who tips the beam at 200, so that Miss McMartin says she sometimes trembles for the apparatus. All is life, animation, jollity. This goes without saying. How could they be otherwise than gay, good humored and hopeful with the blood bounding in their veins, cheeks aglow, eyes shining, hearts waked up and pounding away like great, glorious engines to send the healthful currents, like glad tidings of good cheer, to the uttermost provinces of that dark land, the weary body, cramped and chilled and enervated through long hours in close sewing rooms, behind counters or in ill ventilated basement houses?

There is a nursery attached to the gymnasium for the babies and little chaps who are under age to enter the gymnasium. There they play games, run round and dig in the sand beds, several of which are provided for them, all under the charge of a special matron.

It seems to me that such a gymnasium, established in every city, absolutely free, scientifically fitted up and conducted by thoroughly trained and competent teachers would count more for the good than many existent public and semi-charitable institutions, would be a great factor in the physical improvement of the race (for it is the minority who now avail themselves of the opportunities for physical culture), and would be, to the mass of girls and women, a source of pleasure and of the good time which is every human

A GREAT LAW OFFICE.

How the Attorney General Performs His Many Duties.

He Is the Lawyer for the Government—Needed Reforms in the Department of Justice—Work of Assistants.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

The department of justice is a formidable name for a building suggesting architectural features of the most majestic and awful description. And there are handsome and imposing public buildings in abundance in Washington, but the building consecrated to the department of justice depends for its importance rather upon its name and the dignity and importance of its functions, than upon anything contributed by the builder and decorator.

It is a red stone structure of fair dimensions, that looks as if it might have been intended for a warehouse or mercantile establishment, but, as an afterthought, the flag of the United States was hoisted upon it, and Justice had taken up her headquarters there. You enter by way of a sort of wooden shed, paint-less at one end, and are lifted by the elevator to the first floor, and see over a doorway the legend: "The Attorney General."

Entering, you find yourself in a narrow ante-room, with chairs along the wall. In one of these, which are attendant, to whom you have stated your errand, asks you to be seated a moment.

As I sat there, a middle-aged man, of middle height, clad in a rather rusty suit of dark cloth, passed through the room, and disappeared by an inner door. Judging from his general appearance, he might have been one of the minor clerks of the department. But when, after a few moments, I followed to the apartment beyond, there sat the middle-aged man at the large table in the middle of the room, and as he turned his face toward me, I saw that he was the attorney general himself.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL AT WORK.

His countenance, indeed, was far from being as commonplace as his aspect otherwise. He is of somewhat spare, but sinewy habit, with broad and prominent cheek bones and a pale yet remarkably clear, penetrating eye. His hair and short beard are gray, though not white, and his complexion, like upper lip short, his chin prominent. His forehead is broad and long and well developed at the temples. His look is sagacious, honest, resolute and devoid of self-consciousness. His head, I should say, is somewhat above the average in size. In memory, orderly in ideas, full of knowledge, judicious and bold. He is swift of apprehension, discriminating and prompt in decision, and all his faculties are lightened and broadened by a quiet sense of humor. I do not know, and have known him anywhere for a lawyer, and for a great lawyer. Were he to sit on the English bench, clad in a wig and robes of state, he would look like a Republican simplicity takes away everything picturesque; but it cannot take away the features and the mind of a man competent to perform high duties. The room in which Attorney General Miller sits is hung round with the portraits of many former attorneys general; but none of the painted visages seemed to me to represent a man better fitted for the judicious and prompt office than is the present incumbent.

"Were I to be appointed attorney general to-morrow," said I, by way of defining the situation, "what routine of work should I have to perform?"

"Well," said Mr. Miller, in a full-bodied baritone of deliberate and leisurely enunciation, "to put it in a word, the attorney general is the lawyer of the government. He is called upon to deliver opinions on all matters involving legal discrimination, that come before the president, or before she secretaries, provided, in the case of secretaries, that they ask the matter in question. He is to be one 'which it falls within their scope to have determined. Every sort of legal question is referred to this office from the sources named. The state department contributes many; there is much from the treasury; the fiscal questions; the interior department, which includes the patent office, gives a great number; opinions have to be delivered regarding the Indians and the land laws."

"But must you, individually, pass upon all these questions?" I asked, beginning slowly to feel that I would probably decline the office of attorney general, should it be tendered to me.

"There are three assistants here who write opinions," Mr. Miller replied, looking across at the portrait over the mantelpiece, and playing with a pair of eyeglasses mounted in black enamel. "The solicitor general acts when I am absent; and there is a attorney in the court of claims. It is not absolutely incumbent upon the attorney general to argue cases. Mr. Garland, I believe, argued none. I shall have but eight or ten this term. Of course, I am responsible for what is done in my office."

"Against whom are your arguments delivered?" I inquired.

"Well," said Mr. Miller, with a slight smile, "I am in the opposite category to that of the newly-landed Irishman, who, you remember, said that he was against them, be it what it might. I am for the government in everything."

"Is it true," I asked, "that you are overworked?"

Mr. Miller replied, looking over at the portrait, that he was not overworked at present. "There have been times when I have been overworked, and I have no doubt that I shall be overworked at times in the future. But I am not overworked now. I have time to read the papers, and to look about me, and to think. I have time to—"

"Yes, you have time to—" I repeated, as he paused.

"Yes, you have time to—" he repeated, looking at me with a smile, "to write letters. I have time to write letters. I am not overworked."

"And I suppose you are applied to also in the matter of pardons?"

"Yes, we have as many as ten or twelve applications for pardons come to us every week. It is one of the most painful functions we have to discharge. There is the conflict between the natural desire to be merciful, and the demands of duty. The applications are first referred by the pardon clerk to the court of the district attorney, there a brief is made out and submitted to me, and affair submitted by me to Presidents Harrison, Hayes and Arthur before affixing his signature. I have the opinions, signed by the way, of all district attorneys. And in all matters in which attorneys are employed in cases at a distance, I have to fix the fees. There is, of course, a regular fee bill, but in addition to that, there are incidental and fortuitous matters for which the court will be charged, and I always have to be carefully investigated, and any tendency to overcharge checked. This makes a constant struggle for expenses. It is irksome business, and the system is a bad one. I have suggested that it be reformed. As it is now there is naturally an effort on the part of attorneys to make all they can. The case is similar to journalism between space-writers and salaried writers. The former are tempted to send in as much material as possible; the latter are only interested to do well the work they have to do.

"Is there any particular class of crimes," I inquired, "which is more likely than another to come before you?"

"No; not specially as to the nature of the crime; but, for instance, we have had more to do with the crimes committed in the territories, and especially in the Indian territory, which was a great hell hole for crime. Now that Oklahoma has been settled, however, the courts there attend to the offenses against law, and the bulk of the attorney generalship had been fully and finally cured some while before.

"What I get done before I leave is rather than half-past eight, and I don't get away again before five," was the reply. "Yes, hours are longer hours than the clerks have to keep, but it's the same as any law practice, except that you haven't the same option as to what you'll undertake that you have in private practice."

"You are an Indiana man, are you not?" I inquired.

"I was born in New York, but I moved out to Indiana and practiced law there," he said. "Mr. Harrison and I were law partners from 1854 to 1862, and from 1876 I have seen, Mr. Harrison about every day."

"I had never occur to you, in those days, that you might be sitting here?"

"I never had the slightest anticipation of such a thing," he said, in fact, I may say that, until within three months of my coming here, the idea of holding a public office had never presented itself to me seriously."

And certainly only a high motive could have induced him to accept the office when it's tendered to him. From the pecuniary point of view, a lawyer of Mr. Miller's attainments could certainly make more in private practice than his salary as attorney general

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, } A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

REAL STATESMEN.

A statesman may be a politician in the proper meaning of that term, but a mere practical politician cannot be a genuine statesman.

In aim and method they are wide apart. One looks with an impartial eye upon public affairs, and swayed by sound and intelligent judgment yearns to make the post of duty the post of honor. The other hesitates not to prostitute one any species of trick or trade that promises to secure partisan advantage and ill gotten personal gain.

The mission of true statesmanship is to wisely and permanently advance the well being of the whole country and of all the people, not any particular section or favored class, holding all to be justly and absolutely entitled to receive and enjoy the benefits of a government honestly and equitably administered.

The general public good is the mark in sight by which the real statesman steers.

Although owning allegiance to a political party, he will never turn a deaf ear to the appeals of patriotism, but rather study how best, to the best of given ability, render intact the fabric of old time principles of the American Republic, prominent among which are —security of life and property, personal liberty, and the unmolested pursuit of domestic happiness and worldly prosperity.

We want more true-hearted statesmen throughout our broad land.

Men whom no earthly consideration can swerve from the straightforward path of rectitude.

Men who weigh all public questions in the scales of justice.

Men, who would no soon handle venomous snakes as corrupt political spoils.

Men whom no blue-tenderer will ever dare approach.

Men who will conscientiously endeavor to know what is right and then openly espouse the cause of right with out fear or favor.

Real statesmen is the popular demand.

DEMOCRACY.

The House of Representatives at Washington last week adopted, by a vote of 220 yeas to 40 nays, the following resolution offered by Mr. Holman, of Indiana, who was awarded a Democratic sentinel now stationed at the door of the National Treasury :

Resolved, That in the judgment of this House the granting of subsidies in any bounties by Congress in money, public lands, bonds, or by indorsement, or by pledge of the public credit, to promote special private industries or enterprises, or of corporations, independent of the question of the Constitutional power of Congress to make such grants, is unjust and impolitic, and in manifest conflict with the spirit of our republican institutions, as it directly tends to create and foster the wealth of favored classes at the ex cense of the whole people, who bear the burdens of government, and is therefore a violation of the fundamental principles of the people on which liberty and safety rest, and for which our government was established.

That clearly expresses a fundamental principle of the Democratic party—

THAT NO FAVORED CLASS SHALL BE ENRICHED AT THE SENSE EXPENSE.

It is also directed at corrupt special legislation, at the heart of grasping monopoly, plundering combines, and sham protection as embodied in McKinley *bill*ism.

It is Democracy.

WHAT HE THINKS.

One of ex President Cleveland's friends met him at Lakewood for a few days ago, and in the course of the conversation that ensued, Mr. Cleveland said : "For many years I have watched with interest the increasing confidence Democrats manifesten given by New Jersey and have felt a deep pride in my party's achievements in the State. Its sturdy loyalty to the Democratic candidates, and its ready to lend a helping hand at all times to its demands and you know they were very numerous during my term as President. But during the past four years, it seems to me, my favorable experience, that some for offices would base their plea on the fact that they were 'McPherson men,' and others on the fact that they were 'Abbett men.' And I don't remember in any instance in which any Jerseyman asked me for any office because he was a Democrat." Summit Record, Jan 9

The annual meeting of the New Jersey Editorial Association will be held at Trenton, Monday, Feb. 1, at 11 a. m.

Senators Marsh of Union, and Wilson of Bergen, were the first to present bills before the Senate on the opening day of the session. They were all important bills.

Every day adds to the popularity of Grover Cleveland and his candidacy for the Presidency, in extracts and editorials in the Democratic press through out the country.

Thanks to those who had the matter in charge and to a Democratic Legislature, the State House at Trenton is now a fit and beautiful place for the State's legislators to meet in.

A dispatch from Washington says that the Democratic National Committee will call the National Democratic Convention to meet June 22, 1892 just two weeks later than the it postponed Convention, which meets June 7.

Congressman Geissenhainer has gained many warm friends throughout the old Third District, which he represents, by his efforts to secure an appropriation for the erection of a Post Office building in Elizabeth, will it that city needs, as does Post-Field.

That staunch Democratic newspaper, the Bergen County Democrat, has reduced its subscription price from $2 to $1 a year, and will demand pay in advance, or no paper. We hope the Democrat will make the plan work, for any such newspaper is worth $2 a year.

Popular feeling seems to be setting in among Democrats throughout the State that Hon. Geo. T. Werts, of Morris, should be the next Democratic nominee for Governor. A recent poll of votes among the members of the Legislature showed 31 for Werts and 31 for all other candidates. We have always contended that Senator Werts would be a strong and available candidate. Whoever it be however, the Democracy will be sure to give him the handsome majority possessed by the State.

AN INTERESTING MEETING.

Reported South-Clinton tells Plainfield People of the Visit of the Salvation Army in France.

The weather was very wet and disagreeable, Monday night, but nevertheless standing room only was to be had in the Methodist Episcopal church, long before the Marechal arrived. The audience was a thoroughly representative one, and included large numbers of the most active and influential Christian people in the city. The Marechal and her secretary arrived a little after 8, and after they had ascended to the platform the Rev. Dr. Richards, Lewis, Rodgers, Yerkes and Schenck then went up and occupied seats beside them. Dr. Yerkes opened the meeting by announcing the hymn beginning "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name" The Rev Mr. Schenck followed with the reading of a portion of Scripture, after which Dr. Richards offered prayer. In the absence of A. M. Powell, who is at Washington, Dr. Lewis introduced Mrs. Booth-Clibborn as one of the leaders of the work for the prisons of prosecuting the Gospel of Jesus Christ in the different.

Mrs. Clibborn is a tall and graceful woman, with a fine face. To her it was a pleasure to hear her speak as her voice is clear and sweet, with a delightful English accent. She spoke in part as follows :

"I think I may ask you to pardon me for the lateness of our arrival after the hour appointed, for the meeting, but since I have been fighting a severe cold, and it being just at the close of three months meetings in London, I am exceedingly tired. But in the Salvation Army we are taught to go on and do our best, even if that best is not what we should do ire. We feel sure and trust you will do so.

"Now I tell you frankly before beginning to speak that this evening is all too short a time, and even two evenings, for me to give you a full account of the work, however brief, outline of our battles, our struggles and our victories with infidelity and our persecution in France and Switzerland.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - - City Editor.

—The Park Place chapel is to be the official name of the new North Plainfield office of the Methodist Episcopal church. The title was chosen at the last session of the church board.

—The Crescent Lee se had a large audience at their entertainment in Music Hall last Saturday evening, and one can count for giving the people such excellent amusement at so low a price.

—A correspondent asks: "Is Pease to remain ten months of the Democratic party in the borough that it is time for them to call a meeting for organization and the election of officers for the coming year."

—Fifteen Scandinavians have signified a desire to study English branches at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Any Swedes or Danes who are ill possession of the spirit of progress can attend to apply at the association rooms.

—A Plainfield boy was killed by cigarette smoking last week, and a Staten Island boy was crushed by the same pernicious habit. There is a law against selling them to minors, but it isn't enforced.—Elizabeth Journal.

—The grand jury finished their labors on Thursday, and were discharged at 11 o'clock by Judge McCormick with the thanks of the court. They brought in twenty-two bills of indictment, the nature of which are not yet made public.

—John McIntyre Monday furnished bail in the county court at Elizabeth for the relief of Samuel Higgins, who has been indicted for misdemeanor in securing money by "steering" customers on property adjoining Rahway.

—The claim is short-hand that was organized at the Y. M. C. A. room last October has completed its course. All young men who are interested in the formation of a new class are requested to apply at once at the association rooms.

—Saturday was the coldest of the season, by 4 or 5 degs. The self-registering thermometer at 130 Central avenue was down to only 2° above zero. The mild ash for the ice crop is now used, and the ice-trust and high prices will get a black eye.

—The Music Hall managers have engaged a company of the Boston Museum to give an all-star play on the last week of this month and the first three weeks of February. A reserved seat for the whole course will probably be sold for one dollar, with a reduction for schools.

—Mrs. Edward Ryder is still confined at her home, 22 Central avenue, on account of the painful accident that happened to her one week ago to-day. She was on her knees brushing up some crumbs, when a tendon or ligament connected with the knee-joint, slipped over.

—The next tea of the Ladies' Christian Work society of the Trinity Reformed church will be held at the residence of Mrs. James Mackenzie, 120 Seventh street, Thursday evening of this week, from 5 to 9. It promises to be a very pleasant event, and deserves to be liberally patronized.

—A concert and ball will be given by the Martin Routier-Quartette, under the management of F. Randolph, at the Crescent Athletic club house, Wednesday, Jan. 27. First-class music will be in attendance. James Scott will be floor manager. The grand march is to begin at 10:30.

—There are two thousand people in this city and the seventh waiting patiently for Tom Hall's man to tell them that John Harkins is again signed to play on Plainfield's ball team of next season. The only new to say in relation to the matter is, that Tom Hall's man is not Jack Keller talking very earnestly to Harkins, on Park avenue, yesterday afternoon. Sign him. Tom! Sign him!

—The firm of C. H. Slater & Co., 38 Roseland D. V. Parker of Fanwood, has been settled. The manufacturing company sued Parker for $100, balance due on a machine they had sold him. He declared that the machine was defective, and refused to pay. The suit and negotiations in the matter were prevented by Bert Hubbard, clerk of Charles A. Reed, and Parker by George Demarest of Jackson & Cleghorn's office.

—At a meeting of the Christian Endeavor Union permanent officers were chosen for next week, at Dunellen, it was decided to suspend temporarily its publication. A large number of subscriptions expired with the December issue, none of which has been renewed. The remaining sub-criptions will be filled by occasional issues under the direction of a new publishing committee. All communications, hereafter, respecting the Christian Endeavor Union, should be addressed to William H. Larkin, president of the union, and not to that Y. P. S. C. E., Dunellen, to whose care the books and property of the paper have been intrusted.

Home and Barn Burned—Bad Blunder.

Information comes from Warrenville that Mr. Re-mont is still missing, and that his barn and two houses were burned to the ground last Thursday morning at 10. The barn was found afire first, then the upper part of the house was out in flames; a shower of rain hampered the fire in the barn, the garret, and a lot of brush and a log of oil soon were discovered there. It still had a very suspicious look. No one was home at the time.

Plainfield's Tax Rate the Lowest of All.

The following table of tax rates for 1891 in the fifteen towns of Union county is of general interest and quite a feather in Plainfield's cap:

Elizabeth	2.20
Rahway	2.00
Roselle	2.00
Cranford	1.90
Westfield	1.70
Plainfield	1.60

His Old Friends Come Miles to See Him.

There are a thousand commuters in this city alone who remember with respect William F. Rudd, who resided at 342 Ferry street, Easton. He had two visitors last week who had come two thousand miles to see him. One was P. B. Edgerl, ex-president of the Lake Superior terminal and transfer railway, living at Wes-Superior, Wis. Mr. Eldred was formerly a conductor on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and had not seen Mr. Rudd for fifteen years. The other visitor was Ed. Light, a conductor on the St. Paul and Duluth railroad. Mr. Rudd, who is an invalid, was delighted to meet his friends, who came so many miles to take him by the hand.

A Chinaman Becomes a Jersey Citizen.

The first Chinaman ever naturalized in Union county took out his papers at Elizabeth Thursday. He is Lee Kee, a Chinese laundryman, at 8 South Broad street, Elizabeth, and has been eleven years in this country and most of them in this city. He has been converted to Christianity and has joined the First Presbyterian church. He has left behind a large sum of money in China, and intends to send for them in a couple of weeks. He has made the naturalization papers, he says, to protect him in China, and also to secure the rights of citizens of the United States. Judge McCormick granted the request, and the Chinese went away feeling the privileges deserved to his friends.

PERSONALIA.

Mrs. counsel Terry is dangerously ill at her home, 30 Richmond street.

Mrs. J. H. Tier, sr., of Bush place, is quite ill with the grip and sore throat.

Mrs. Thomas Moriarty and Miss Minnie Force are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank King at Jersey City.

Patrick Casey was in Brooklyn Friday, attending the funeral of his brother James, who died a few days ago at the age of 59.

The physicians announce that John H. Jackson is suffering from attacks of the fever. He is at ill confined to his bed and is very ill.

Mary Flynn, the estimable wife of Peter Flynn, one of West Third street's best mechanics, died on Saturday in her sixty-sixth h year.

Mr. and Mrs. Israel C. Pierson, and Miss Pierson, will give a reception at their home, 115 Broadway, Tuesday afternoon, the 26th inst., from 4 until 7.

George T. Harris and Miss Emily Van-Nuys were so tried by the Rev. Cornelius Schenck at the home of the bride's father, 63 E. st street, Tuesday, Jan. 12.

Lawrence Myers is very ill at his home on East Front street. His con-lition is no better than when his serious illness was first told of in these columns some weeks ago.

Miss L. Brown and Miss E. Worne, of Newark, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kellenburger at Front street, Miss Brown is a cousin of Mrs. Van Eurgh.

The Rev. H. E. Gilchrist, pastor of the Church of the Holy Spirit, Jersey City, N. Y., with his wife, is visiting at the home of his uncle, Seymour G Smith, 141 Central avenue.

John Frederick Cook, the well-known baker and caterer of Elizabeth, and that city's pride of amateur act re, will take the character of Anatole in "A Game of Cards", at the Lyceum next Thursday evening. Mr. Cook is a natural-born actor.

R. W. Rice, of the firm of R. W. Rice & Co., has been appointed by W. Rud Dunton, United States Marshal, to act as a special deputy collector, with full power in the formation of a new class are requested to apply at once at the assoc tion rooms.

—Saturday was the coldest of the season, by 4 or 5 degs. The self-registering thermometer at 130 Central avenue was down to only 2° above zero. The mild ash for the ice crop is now used, and the ice-trust and high prices will get a black eye.

—The Music Hall managers have engaged a company of the Boston Museum to give an all-star play on the last week of this month and the first three weeks of February. A reserved seat for the whole course will probably be sold for one dollar, with a reduction for schools.

—Mrs. Edward Ryder is still confined at her home, 22 Central avenue, on account of the painful accident that happened to her one week ago to-day. She was on her knees brushing up some crumbs, when a tendon or ligament connected with the knee-joint, slipped over.

—The next tea of the Ladies' Christian Work society of the Trinity Reformed church will be held at the residence of Mrs. James Mackenzie, 120 Seventh street, Thursday evening of this week, from 5 to 9. It promises to be a very pleasant event, and deserves to be liberally patronized.

—A concert and ball will be given by the Martin Routier-Quartette, under the management of F. Randolph, at the Crescent Athletic club house, Wednesday, Jan. 27. First-class music will be in attendance. James Scott will be floor manager. The grand march is to begin at 10:30.

—There are two thousand people in this city and the seventh waiting patiently for Tom Hall's man to tell them that John Harkins is again signed to play on Plainfield's ball team of next season. The only new to say in relation to the matter is, that Tom Hall's man is not Jack Keller talking very earnestly to Harkins, on Park avenue, yesterday afternoon. Sign him. Tom! Sign him!

—The firm of C. H. Slater & Co., 38 Roseland D. V. Parker of Fanwood, has been settled. The manufacturing company sued Parker for $100, balance due on a machine they had sold him. He declared that the machine was defective, and refused to pay. The suit and negotiations in the matter were prevented by Bert Hubbard, clerk of Charles A. Reed, and Parker by George Demarest of Jackson & Cleghorn's office.

—At a meeting of the Christian Endeavor Union permanent officers were chosen for next week, at Dunellen, it was decided to suspend temporarily its publication. A large number of subscriptions expired with the December issue, none of which has been renewed. The remaining sub-criptions will be filled by occasional issues under the direction of a new publishing committee. All communications, hereafter, respecting the Christian Endeavor Union, should be addressed to William H. Larkin, president of the union, and not to that Y. P. S. C. E., Dunellen, to whose care the books and property of the paper have been intrusted.

House and Barn Burned—Bad Blunder.

Information comes from Warrenville that Mr. Re-mont is still missing, and that his barn and two houses were burned to the ground last Thursday morning at 10. The barn was found afire first, then the upper part of the house was out in flames; a shower of rain hampered the fire in the barn, the garret, and a lot of brush and a log of oil soon were discovered there. It still had a very suspicious look. No one was home at the time.

Plainfield's Tax Rate the Lowest of All.

The following table of tax rates for 1891 in the fifteen towns of Union county is of general interest and quite a feather in Plainfield's cap:

Elizabeth	2.20
Rahway	2.00
Roselle	2.00
Cranford	1.90
Westfield	1.70
Plainfield	1.60

His Old Friends Come Miles to See Him.

There are a thousand commuters in this city alone who remember with respect William F. Rudd, who resided at 342 Ferry street, Easton. He had two visitors last week who had come two thousand miles to see him. One was P. B. Edgerl, ex-president of the Lake Superior terminal and transfer railway, living at Wes-Superior, Wis. Mr. Eldred was formerly a conductor on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and had not seen Mr. Rudd for fifteen years. The other visitor was Ed. Light, a conductor on the St. Paul and Duluth railroad. Mr. Rudd, who is an invalid, was delighted to meet his friends, who came so many miles to take him by the hand.

A Chinaman Becomes a Jersey Citizen.

The first Chinaman ever naturalized in Union county took out his papers at Elizabeth Thursday. He is Lee Kee, a Chinese laundryman, at 8 South Broad street, Elizabeth, and has been eleven years in this country and most of them in that city. He has been converted to Christianity and has joined the First Presbyterian church. He has left behind a large sum of money in China, and intends to send for them in a couple of weeks. He has made the naturalization papers, he says, to protect him in China, and also to secure the rights of citizens of the United States. Judge McCormick granted the request, and the Chinese went away feeling the privileges deserved to his friends.

BAR ROOMS TO CLOSE AT 11.

A New Ordinance Adopted Changing Saloon Liquor Licenses.

The Plainfield common council occupied nearly two hours Monday in considering and adopting the new liquor license ordinance, which is based on the following sections, and into which are embodied all the operative features of the old ordinance of which this takes the place. The most important are: No bar shall be kept open after 11 o'clock Saturday night and 1 o'clock Sunday morning, nor shall any person be allowed to remain in the premises of the same. Bars must be closed on election days, and no liquor shall be sold or delivered to minors. Any violation of the ordinance will subject the offender to a fine of $100 for the first offense, $200 for the second offense, and $300 for the third offense, and the revocation of the license. The ordinance was introduced by Councilman Hall, and was read by the clerk. Councilman Hall moved that the ordinance be adopted, and that the rules be suspended so that the ordinance could be passed upon at this session. Councilman Hall said that he had a copy of the ordinance in his pocket, and would read it over the desk and find places open till 1 or 2 in the morning. After each section had been read over by himself and others the ordinance was ordered engrossed and advertised preparatory to third reading and final passage.

The license fee was left at $700 for all the year-round places, and $400 for summer hotels.

Illegal Liquor Selling.

The case of Matthew Kilpatrick, charged with illegal liquor selling, was called up before Judge Codington and a jury Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The jury was judged guilty and fined $100. His lawyer, Walter L. Hetfield, reserved his defence until the trial on appeal at Elizabeth.

Frauds to Death Under Unusual Circumstances.

A New Jersey exchange of recent date relates the following story with much pathos and confidence: "A farmer raised one thousand bushels of p tatoes and stored it in his barn. The barn caught fire and burned down. The potatoes began to sprout and filled a ten-acre field. An old-maid in a neighboring house who had a decided eye sight saw the corn and thought it was snow and froze to death."

Letters by the Rev. Dr. Chadwick.

The fifth lecture in the Unitarian course was given January 19 by the Rev. John W. Chadwick of Brooklyn. His subject was "Some Places of Our own Travel." The lecturer took his audience to the Mediterranean, the tombs of Egypt and from palaces, pyramids, and reformers of the old world. The places were described with a skillful hand and, throughout, the lecture illustrated that rhetorical and literary culture for which the poet-preacher is distinguished.

Grip Mortality Small.

In conversation with Oliver B. Leonard, registrar of vital statistics for this city, that functionary said that there had been unusual mortality among Plainfield citizens from the ravages of the grip this winter.

There were 18 deaths in Plainfield during the month of December, 1891, 8 cases being from pneumonia following the grip. During the month of January, 1891 there were 23 deaths each, pneumonia claiming 9 in the former year and 7 in the latter. These are the official figures of the board of health.

Death From Excessive Cigarette Smoking.

John Wittaman, the eighteen-year-old lad who died Thursday, of a sudden from consumption, which was said to be caused by excessive cigarette smoking. Wittaman was a young man of excellent prospects, and was employed by Schlicht, Haas, who employed by the bell phone company, he met with an accident which resulted in his death. He had, after his recovery, his life days hung so heavily o him that he smoked incessantly to pass away the time. Germs of disease were gathered in the saliva on the cigarettes, and the victim was cut off from life in the prime of his youth.

A Benefit Entertainment.

A merry party of Plainfielders went to Warrenville in sleighs night of Jan 13 and gave an enjoyable entertainment for the benefit of the Methodist Episcopal church. The programme was as follows:

PART I.

Overture	Organ, Cornet and Piccolo
Duett	Miss Miller and Mr. Grotze
Recitation	Wm. Newsom
Instrumental	Jas. Henderson
Piano Recital	John Brown
Comic Song	Ely M. Odam
Cornet Solo	Whitney Fraser
Dutch Sayings	John A. Carney
Musical Sketch	Mr. Miller and Party
Character Song	Odam, Klein, Holdstein, Randall, Carney.

PART II.

Overture	Organ, Cornet and Piccolo
Recitation	Miss Miller and Mr. Grotze
Cornet Solo	Whitney Fraser
Sketch—"Wanted a Madison"	(Hoboken.
Tenor Solo	Dan J. Randall
Recitation	Wm. Newsom
Comic Song	Ely M. Odam
Piano Recital	John Brown
Concluding with the ma-ical-cal-ed song and sketch, No. 29, by Odam and entire company.

The Plainfielders returned home at 4 next morning.

A Pleasant Evening.

A few evenings ago there was a pleasant gathering of friends at the hospitable residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O. Hockridge, 41 East Fifth street, brought together by unique invi ations in Japanese characters and sent to them from Yokohama, some weeks previously. The event was to commemorate the safe return of Mr. Hockridge from a four months' trip to Japan and China in the interest of the well-known New York firm of Lord, Taylor, stable & Co., who selected him as a trusted employe to visit the above-mentioned countries and purchase such articles as curiosities, antiques, bric-a-brac, etc. While there, Mr. Hockridge caused to be sent to a few of his many friends in this city the invitations above alluded to; they all the appointed time assembled together to listen to their host's de-cription of life and manners in far-away Japan and to assist in reversing the shoe-on the other foot order. Mr. Hockridge, before them by their kind and agreeable hostess, the sons of which consisted, principally, of curiosities, the choicest fruits, pickles, tea, etc., brought direct from Japan by Mr. Hockridge. Included in the delectable was the famous Japanese drink "sake" served hot in tiny cups.

Among the many beautiful and costly specimens of Japanese ware and workmanship brought back and scattered about the parlors by Mr. Hockridge's kind hosts, are an ebony cabinet, lacquer stand, ivory panel, a valuable bric-a-brac piece, beautifully painted, and a number of albums containing rare and costly collections of female dolls, silk pictures called "E kamono", photographs of interesting homes and places, etc., all of which are highly prized by Mr. and Mrs. Hockridge and their inter sting family of children, Fred, Jessie, Nellie, Mabel and Walter. An interesting and amusing feature of the evening's pleasure was the reception of the guests by the Tycoon, represented by full costume by the host's friend, Walter C. Longmire. He did the honors to perfection.

Notes of the Boys' Club.

The average attendance at the rooms during the last week was 58 per evening, the largest being 68, and the smallest 26. The total attendance was 295.

The boys are doing nicely in regards to saving their pennies. Deposits are received Tuesday and Friday evenings.

An exhibition of the work done by the classes in mechanical drawing will be given during the month of April. The boys are turning out some very fine work.

Candidates for this year's base-ball team will be formed during the month of February.

OFFICERS TO LEGISLATION.

Plainfield's Members Unable to Force Watercourse Districts Bodies and Street Cars Bills.

The only other business besides the passage of 1891 new liquor-license ordinance at the meeting of the Plainfield common council was the amendment and adoption of the following resolution, presented by Mr. Bee:

Resolved, That the Hon. Frederick C. Marsh, member of the Senate, and the Hon. Mr. Kirby, member of the Assembly, of this county, be and they are hereby requested to send to the presidents of the common council of the city of Plainfield a copy of any bill which they may have introduced for the public interest of our city. Also Resolved, That the common council of this city most earnestly request the above named to use their best efforts not to allow any such bills to become laws, whether they be of a character relative to the introduction of water, electric lights, street cars or any bills affecting the interests of our streets, or the rights of our city government, until time has been given to the city authorities to examine and report back to them. The city clerk is hereby instructed to forward a copy of these resolutions to each of the gentlemen above named, and the president of the common council is respectfully requested to report back to the common council any communication he may receive from either of the above named gentlemen above named to the above resolutions.

Very impressive were the funeral services over the remains of the late Timothy Hunting Hoyes, held yesterday afternoon. Interesting services were held in the house of Mrs. Fromm's, Mr. Morse's daughter, Es t Fifth street, at 2:15; and from there the Masonic brethren and other mourners went to the Congregational church, where were about 60 members of Jerusalem and Archer lodges present. At the church the Rev. O. E. Daggett and F. M. Johnson gave scriptural readings. Including appropriate selection from 1 Corinthi ns XV, begining at the 20th verse, and Psalm CXLVI. The Rev. Mr. Daggett preached a short sermon from II Corinthi ns, v: 1. The sentiments of a neighboring pulpit were also heard, and throughout, the lecture illustrated that rhetorical and literary culture for which the poet-preacher is di-tinguished.

Death From Excessive Cigarette Smoking.

John Wittaman, the eighteen-year-old lad who died Thursday, of a sudden from consumption, which was said to be caused by excessive cigarette smoking. Wittaman was a young man of excellent prospects, and was employed by Schlicht, Haas, who employed by the bell phone company, he met with an accident which resulted in his death. He had, after his recovery, his life days hung so heavily o him that he smoked incessantly to pass away the time. Germs of disease were gathered in the saliva on the cigarettes, and the victim was cut off from life in the prime of his youth.

A Benefit Entertainment.

A merry party of Plainfielders went to Warrenville in sleighs night of Jan 13 and gave an enjoyable entertainment for the benefit of the Methodist Episcopal church. The programme was as follows:

PART I.

Overture	Organ, Cornet and Piccolo
Duett	Miss Miller and Mr. Grotze
Recitation	Wm. Newsom
Instrumental	Jas. Henderson
Piano Recital	John Brown
Comic Song	Ely M. Odam
Cornet Solo	Whitney Fraser
Dutch Sayings	John A. Carney
Musical Sketch	Mr. Miller and Party
Character Song	Odam, Klein, Holdstein, Randall, Carney.

PART II.

Overture	Organ, Cornet and Piccolo
Recitation	Miss Miller and Mr. Grotze
Cornet Solo	Whitney Fraser
Sketch—"Wanted a Madison"	(Hoboken.
Tenor Solo	Dan J. Randall
Recitation	Wm. Newsom
Comic Song	Ely M. Odam
Piano Recital	John Brown
Concluding with the ma-ical-cal-ed song and sketch, No. 29, by Odam and entire company.

The Plainfielders returned home at 4 next morning.

A Pleasant Evening.

A few evenings ago there was a pleasant gathering of friends at the hospitable residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O. Hockridge, 41 East Fifth street, brought together by unique invi ations in Japanese characters and sent to them from Yokohama, some weeks previously. The event was to commemorate the safe return of Mr. Hockridge from a four months' trip to Japan and China in the interest of the well-known New York firm of Lord, Taylor, stable & Co., who selected him as a trusted employe to visit the above-mentioned countries and purchase such articles as curiosities, antiques, bric-a-brac, etc. While there, Mr. Hockridge caused to be sent to a few of his many friends in this city the invitations above alluded to; they all the appointed time assembled together to listen to their host's de-cription of life and manners in far-away Japan and to assist in reversing the shoe-on the other foot order. Mr. Hockridge, before them by their kind and agreeable hostess, the sons of which consisted, principally, of curiosities, the choicest fruits, pickles, tea, etc., brought direct from Japan by Mr. Hockridge. Included in the delectable was the famous Japanese drink "sake" served hot in tiny cups.

Among the many beautiful and costly specimens of Japanese ware and workmanship brought back and scattered about the parlors by Mr. Hockridge's kind hosts, are an ebony cabinet, lacquer stand, ivory panel, a valuable bric-a-brac piece, beautifully painted, and a number of albums containing rare and costly collections of female dolls, silk pictures called "E kamono", photographs of interesting homes and places, etc., all of which are highly prized by Mr. and Mrs. Hockridge and their inter sting family of children, Fred, Jessie, Nellie, Mabel and Walter. An interesting and amusing feature of the evening's pleasure was the reception of the guests by the Tycoon, represented by full costume by the host's friend, Walter C. Longmire. He did the honors to perfection.

Notes of the Boys' Club.

The average attendance at the rooms during the last week was 58 per evening, the largest being 68, and the smallest 26. The total attendance was 295.

The boys are doing nicely in regards to saving their pennies. Deposits are received Tuesday and Friday evenings.

An exhibition of the work done by the classes in mechanical drawing will be given during the month of April. The boys are turning out some very fine work.

Candidates for this year's base-ball team will be formed during the month of February.

OIL HELPED SAVE HER,

BUT SHE HAD ROUGH WORK ROLLING THREE WAYS AT ONCE.

A Very Interesting Story of How One of Joseph W. Savery's Ships Behaved in a Terrible Cyclone.

THE BARK LIBERIA, one of a number of ships owned by Joseph W. Savery, 1020 Seventh street, went through a cyclone experience a little more severe than the life of which no ship has ever before escaped her sailor lived to tell of. But before any of its dangers the captain was ready of great scientific interest to the departments in Washington who have those matters in charge, and Mr. Yates has been requested to send to the proper authorities a complete chart of the cyclone. The only work is merely instructed to make a report of the storm, and to send the specimens above named to the chief of the bureau, but to allow any such bills to become laws, whether they be of a character relative to the introduction of water, electric lights, street cars or any bills affecting the interests of our streets, or the rights of our city government, until time has been given to the city authorities to examine and report back to them. The city clerk is hereby instructed to forward a copy of these resolutions to each of the gentlemen above named, and the president of the common council is respectfully requested to report back to the common council any communication he may receive from either of the above named gentlemen above named to the above resolutions.

Very impressive were the funeral services over the remains of the late Timothy Hunting Hoyes, held yesterday afternoon. Interesting services were held in the house of Mrs. Fromm's, Mr. Morse's daughter, Es t Fifth street, at 2:15; and from there the Masonic brethren and other mourners went to the Congregational church, where were about 60 members of Jerusalem and Archer lodges present. At the church the Rev. O. E. Daggett and F. M. Johnson gave scriptural readings, including appropriate selection from 1 Corinthi ns XV, begining at the 20th verse, and Psalm CXLVI. The Rev. Mr. Daggett preached a short sermon from II Corinthi ns, v: 1. The sentiments of a neighboring pulpit were also heard, and throughout, the lecture illustrated that rhetorical and literary culture for which the poet-preacher is di-tinguished.

Grip Mortality Small.

In conversation with Oliver B. Leonard, registrar of vital statistics for this city, that functionary said that there had been unusual mortality among Plainfield citizens from the ravages of the grip this winter.

There were 18 deaths in Plainfield during the month of December, 1891, 8 cases being from pneumonia following the grip. During the month of January, 1891 there were 23 deaths each, pneumonia claiming 9 in the former year and 7 in the latter. These are the official figures of the board of health.

Death From Excessive Cigarette Smoking.

John Wittaman, the eighteen-year-old lad who died Thursday, of a sudden from consumption, which was said to be caused by excessive cigarette smoking. Wittaman was a young man of excellent prospects, and was employed by Schlicht, Haas, who employed by the bell phone company, he met with an accident which resulted in his death. He had, after his recovery, his life days hung so heavily o him that he smoked incessantly to pass away the time. Germs of disease were gathered in the saliva on the cigarettes, and the victim was cut off from life in the prime of his youth.

A Benefit Entertainment.

A merry party of Plainfielders went to Warrenville in sleighs night of Jan 13 and gave an enjoyable entertainment for the benefit of the Methodist Episcopal church. The programme was as follows:

PART I.

Overture	Organ, Cornet and Piccolo
Duett	Miss Miller and Mr. Grotze
Recitation	Wm. Newsom
Instrumental	Jas. Henderson
Piano Recital	John Brown
Comic Song	Ely M. Odam
Cornet Solo	Whitney Fraser
Dutch Sayings	John A. Carney
Musical Sketch	Mr. Miller and Party
Character Song	Odam, Klein, Holdstein, Randall, Carney.

PART II.

Overture	Organ, Cornet and Piccolo
Recitation	Miss Miller and Mr. Grotze
Cornet Solo	Whitney Fraser
Sketch—"Wanted a Madison"	(Hoboken.
Tenor Solo	Dan J. Randall
Recitation	Wm. Newsom
Comic Song	Ely M. Odam
Piano Recital	John Brown
Concluding with the ma-ical-cal-ed song and sketch, No. 29, by Odam and entire company.

The Plainfielders returned home at 4 next morning.

A Pleasant Evening.

A few evenings ago there was a pleasant gathering of friends at the hospitable residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O. Hockridge, 41 East Fifth street, brought together by unique invi ations in Japanese characters and sent to them from Yokohama, some weeks previously. The event was to commemorate the safe return of Mr. Hockridge from a four months' trip to Japan and China in the interest of the well-known New York firm of Lord, Taylor, stable & Co., who selected him as a trusted employe to visit the above-mentioned countries and purchase such articles as curiosities, antiques, bric-a-brac, etc. While there, Mr. Hockridge caused to be sent to a few of his many friends in this city the invitations above alluded to; they all the appointed time assembled together to listen to their host's de-cription of life and manners in far-away Japan and to assist in reversing the shoe-on the other foot order. Mr. Hockridge, before them by their kind and agreeable hostess, the sons of which consisted, principally, of curiosities, the choicest fruits, pickles, tea, etc., brought direct from Japan by Mr. Hockridge. Included in the delectable was the famous Japanese drink "sake" served hot in tiny cups.

Among the many beautiful and costly specimens of Japanese ware and workmanship brought back and scattered about the parlors by Mr. Hockridge's kind hosts, are an ebony cabinet, lacquer stand, ivory panel, a valuable bric-a-brac piece, beautifully painted, and a number of albums containing rare and costly collections of female dolls, silk pictures called "E kamono", photographs of interesting homes and places, etc., all of which are highly prized by Mr. and Mrs. Hockridge and their inter sting family of children, Fred, Jessie, Nellie, Mabel and Walter. An interesting and amusing feature of the evening's pleasure was the reception of the guests by the Tycoon, represented by full costume by the host's friend, Walter C. Longmire. He did the honors to perfection.

Notes of the Boys' Club.

The average attendance at the rooms during the last week was 58 per evening, the largest being 68, and the smallest 26. The total attendance was 295.

The boys are doing nicely in regards to saving their pennies. Deposits are received Tuesday and Friday evenings.

An exhibition of the work done by the classes in mechanical drawing will be given during the month of April. The boys are turning out some very fine work.

Candidates for this year's base-ball team will be formed during the month of February.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—United S. Government Food Report.

WRECKED BY THE ROYAL BLUE.

Richardson Escapes from Fatality in a Jersey Central Collision.

The Royal Blue Line express from Washington, due 9:58, Thursday night crashed into a Philadelphia and Reading freight train, on the Jersey Central tracks, near the ground house at Dunellen.

At that point the tracks are a network of switches. One of these had been opened to permit a local passenger train to shift tracks, and it is said that the switchman neglected to close the switch again.

At any rate, the freight train left the track at this point, and the rear end of it was struck by the engine of the main track, directly in the way of the Blue Line.

The engineer of the express saw the obstructing train barely in time to reverse his engine. He then sprang manfully to his post, and the ponderous locomotive ploughed its way through several cars, strewing the tracks with wreckage.

It is considered a wonder that no one was injured. The vestibule arrangement of the passenger cars prevented telescoping, and the Blue Line coaches, though damaged, was not disabled, and after two hours delay proceeded on with its train to Communipaw.

An inquiry into the affair will be made to fix the blame of the accident.

OJEER TESTIMONY IN A LAWSUIT.

One Witness Swears that He Knew a Horse to Run 25 Miles With a Broken Leg.

The trial of the case of Edward Schenck against Firman Gise came off last week at Dunellen. The facts of the case, which have been given in full in the Press at the time of the occurrence, Mr. Schenck, who lives near New Market and has a milk route in Plainfield, started out on Monday morning last at a very early hour, long before it was daylight. On reaching Dunellen, he proceeded up the main street for Plainfield, when, about opposite the round house, he ran into a large coal wagon loaded with crushed stone, which stood in the middle of the road. Upon examination, it was found that some repairs on the sidewalks.

The wagon had been left on one side of the street, and Mr. Schenck must have supposed that there was a good road from the centre of the street to strike it.

Mr. Schenck's horse ran away, breaking up the wagon, and injuring itself to such an extent that it had to be shot.

The trial, which was held at Maier's hotel, was witnessed by no less than 50 persons, who had been duly subpœnaed on hand, and the defendant and plaintiff each selected two arbitrators to act as a jury, after which Judge Pitney was requested upon by both sides as a fifth arbitrator. The other four were Chas. Day and W. D. Davis of New Market, for the plaintiff, and Jacob Bergen and Wm. Fagan for Gise. Judge Codington was counsel for the defendant, and W. L. Goddington for Schenck.

The evidence was taken in many instances was very contradictory, and was not at all satisfactory, and although the counselors did their work manfully the tenor of public opinion was not changed.

One witness for the plaintiff swore that the wagon was so near the centre of the road that he could not allow another wagon to pass between, when he never saw the wagon there, and only gathered his information from hearsay. Another swore that he had run 25 miles with a broken leg!

In almost every case the witnesses gave their conflicting evidence, which was not at all satisfactory to the arbitrators.

The arbitrators have three weeks to bring in a verdict. Public opinion in the neighborhood of the present locality is favorable of the defendant, and Dunellen people have no doubt that he will have to pay very little if any damages.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

THE PLAINFIELD
PACKING HOUSE!
25 West Front Street,
Would respectfully inform its patrons that in addition to its usual stock of Fresh, Salt and Smoked Goods,
It has added a full line of
Fresh Beef, Lamb,
Veal, Mutton & Poultry,
Which it is prepared to sell at
Reasonable Prices!
All goods delivered free of charge.
C. M. ULRICH, Prop'r

OBITUARY.

Polly Ames Ryno.

Polly Acors Ryno died at the residence of her son, John Bates Ryno, in Colonia, on Wed., Jan. 14, 1892, in her 87th year. She was born near Broad Brook, N. J., April 28, 1805, and moved with her parents to Ovid, Seneca co., N. Y., where she was married, in 1829, to Mr. Jacob Ryno, of Westfield, N. J. Her husband died in 1835, when, with her two children, she returned to her parents, with whom she lived until 1838, when she was in 1869, with her daughter, Mrs. William Leffler, she removed to Michigan, and had since lived with her son, John B. Ryno, the daughter of John C. Bates and Rebecca Brooks, and granddaughter of Cornelius Bates and Zebe Cortrell of New Market, N. J.; who were descended from two of the oldest families in America, Aert Bayes having settled in New Utrecht, L. I., in 1650, and David Coryell having been one of the early French Huguenots who settled in New Amsterdam in 1661. The deceased has a number of relatives in and about Union county.

Notice for It.

Readers of THE CONSTITUTIONALIST who find themselves in need of merchandise of any kind, will find it to their advantage, need but drop a card or letter to the "Newark Bee Hive", who will see that all special wants are supplied quick, as a wink". Read their advertisement on page two.

Notice for It.

I have used Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills for Dyspepsia, etc., and have been cured by them. I cheerfully recommend them to all who suffer from Dyspepsia.—Reverend Lorenzo Deane, author Wyoming Series. Prepared and sold by Jersey City.

A. M. RUNYON & SON,
UNDERTAKERS, EMBALMERS
40 PARK AVENUE.
Telephone Call 61.
RESIDENCE—85 MADISON AVENUE.
Telephone Call 61.
Office of Resident Coroner.

WANTS, INFORMATION, &c.

TO LET—The store, with fixtures, No. 28 Front street, Plainfield, recently occupied by Frederick Gross and J. Hall. Inquire of Gross & Hall, Front street, Plainfield. 1tf

A. J. CAMMEYER,
161, 163, 165, 167 and 169 Sixth Ave.,
Corner 12th Street, New York City.
FIVE POINTS ABOUT SHOES
A. J. CAMMEYER'S SHOES COMBINE ALL THESE POINTS
AND YOU DON'T NEED A TELESCOPE TO FIND IT OUT
6th Ave. cor. 12th St.
LADIES' "A. J. C." HAND-SEWED WELT BUTTON BOOTS, in widths A, B, C, D, E; sizes 1 to 8. $2.50
MEN'S CALF, (Tan or Black) GOODYEAR WELT SHOES, in widths C, D, E; sizes 6 to 11. $2.50.
BISSELL SPRING HEEL HAND-SEWED WELT BUTTON BOOTS, in widths A, B, C, D, E; sizes 11 to 2. $2.00.
BOYS' CALF SHOES, in BUTTON and LACE, in widths A, B, C, D, E; sizes 2½ to 5½. $2.00.
$2.00.
CHILDREN'S SPRING HEEL, HAND-SEWED WELT BUTTON BOOTS, in widths A, B, C, D, E; sizes 5 to 10½. $1.50
YOUTHS' VEAL CALF LONDON TIP SHOES IN BUTTON & LACE, in widths A, B, C, D, E; sizes 11 to 2. $1.50
THE ABOVE LINES OF SHOES ARE MADE IN FIVE DIFFERENT WIDTHS, AND IN ALL SHAPES AND STYLES. I CANNOT ONLY SATISFY THOSE WHO ARE IN SEARCH OF A NEAT AND NOBBY SHOE, BUT HAVE AN COMPLETE AN ASSORTMENT FOR THOSE WHO PREFER THE OLD-FASHIONED BROAD-SOLED, SOLID COMFORT SHOE. I GUARANTEE EVERY PAIR TO GIVE ENTIRE SATISFACTION IN EVERY INSTANCE.
SHOPPING BY MAIL.
By our thorough Mail Order system, and through it shopping by mail is rendered easier and as satisfactory as selecting personally in the store.
ALL KINDS OF RELIABLE FOOT COVERING FOR MAN, WOMAN OR CHILD FOR LESS MONEY THAN ANY GRADE OF GOODS CAN BE BOUGHT FOR ELSEWHERE.
F

CHRISTMAS ECHOES.

Frills Put On by the World of Womankind.

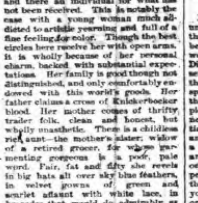
For What We Gave and Received and Escaped Not Or Not Duly Thankful

—A Beautiful Diploma Gown —Is Everyone Sure a Fraud?

COPYRIGHT, 1891.

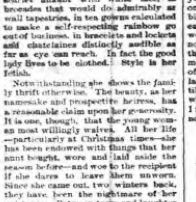
Gift making is over, and all the world duly thankful. A large part of it that the holiday bother is well ended, here and there a few packages for which has not been received. This is notably the case with a young woman who is distended to artistic yawning and full of a fine feeling for color. Though the best circles here receive her with open arms, it is wholly devoid of her personal charm, backed with substantial expectations. Her family is good enough but dispensed, and only comfortably endowed with this world's goods. Her father claims a crown. Elaine-broker blood. Her mother comes of thrifty trader folk, clean and honest, but wholly unstylish. There is a childless rich aunt—the mother's sister, widow of a retired grocer, for whose generosity everyone has a good word. Fair, fat and fifty she revels in big hats all over sky blue feathers. In winter she goes in furs and a secret affaant with white lace, in brocades that would do admirably as wall tapestries, in no gown calculated to make a self-respecting rainbow go out of business, in bracelets and lockets and chatelaines definitely unknown as far as eye can reach. In fact the good lady lives to be clothed. Style is her fetish.

Notwithstanding she shows the family thrift otherwise. The beauty, as her manesake always expected to be known, a reasonable claim upon her generosity. It is one, though, that the young woman most willingly waives. All her life—particularly at Christmas times—she has been endowed with things that her aunt bought, wore and laid aside but a week. Fair, fat and fifty she revels in big hats all over sky blue feathers. In winter she goes in furs and a secret affaant with white lace, in brocades that would do admirably as wall tapestries, in no gown calculated to make a self-respecting rainbow go out of business, in bracelets and lockets and chatelaines definitely unknown as far as eye can reach. In fact the good lady lives to be clothed. Style is her fetish.



ONE OF NEW LACE FRILLS.

Notwithstanding she shows the family thrift otherwise. The beauty, as her namesake always expected to be known, a reasonable claim upon her generosity. It is one, though, that the young woman most willingly waives. All her life—particularly at Christmas times—she has been endowed with things that her aunt bought, wore and laid aside but a week. Fair, fat and fifty she revels in big hats all over sky blue feathers. In winter she goes in furs and a secret affaant with white lace, in brocades that would do admirably as wall tapestries, in no gown calculated to make a self-respecting rainbow go out of business, in bracelets and lockets and chatelaines definitely unknown as far as eye can reach. In fact the good lady lives to be clothed. Style is her fetish.



MY LADY OF THE SHOPS.

with crystal passementerie into the bargain. It was as rich and costly as it was ugly, and, to the donor's mind, exactly the thing that she needed to wear at a swell dinner party with a gown after it had been in progress. The victim of it thought otherwise. The invitation was the first that had come to her from the really swagger set. If she did not do credit to it it would be also the last. To do it credit, meanwhile, gown was to freedom herself to social failure. What could she be but a dumb fright under the circumstances that was how horror? Yet not to wear it might cost her eventually a solid quarter, million. It was a case of her fate for her fortune—and she did not care to sacrifice either. There was nothing for it but diligently taking her corsage in both hands, shi stepped off every vestige of the pink, and with it ornamentation of the calf-cover bone robe, where the effect was not half bad. This she sent to her aunt as a birthday gift, intimating that only the elder lady's magnificent complexion could bear such delicate colors. Then the green remnant was veiled and swathed in clouds of pink and white tulle, layer upon layer, the crystal dotted here and there and trails of water grass and lilies on the corsage and about the skirt. This governed, with an emerald pendant on her bare white throat, green slippers, green stockings, a white and green fan, the young woman was rated an undine with a soul, and her social success assured. But it was a nerve-racking, harrowing experience—one too that she figured was to be indefinitely repeated. There were two more bonfires in her wardrobe that it seemed certain the Christmas just past would precipitate on her devoted head. Then the gods took better saved her. It read: "Old brocades are more stylish than new, now that that texture is going out of use." By consequence at the eleventh hour the aunt bought for her niece a bolt-bonnet as long as your two hands, all over gilt and flowers, and sent for her invitation to wear it and the accessories of the gowns she could not bring herself to part with.

Her evening gowns, especially in soft organza and the like, were a gown, or a modification, the empire, is more and more used as the winter advances. Miss Violet Darling, the young English siren-tinies, who is as good to look at as to listen to, wore it in white both styles. But she wears long sleeves—close setting, but very much wrinkled. Indeed, as before written, long sleeves are quite a feature of the most swagger evening dresses.

Contrarilee, she who has perfect arms makes the most of them. Witness the picture in the empire frock, whose original appeared in at one of the swellest functions Murray hill has seen this winter. The material was cream-pink China crepe, very deeply crinkled and embroidered in gold all over the skirt. At foot there was a border almost entirely covered with gilt cord, from which long, gracefully sprays fell up almost to the tucked drapery effect which was fastened directly under the bust and fell in gold fringed and studded to the bottom of the train. Wide gold fringed epaulettes will age, fall away from the shoulder neck just was innocents of jewels, so were the perfect, glovelees arms and hands. On the left breast was fastened a big pale pink enamel orchid blossom with a diamond heart and crushed with diamonds. Pearls were in the elaborately treated Empire coiffure. She wore also pink shoes, high-heeled, gold-wrought, pink stockings and a pink lace scarf draped over the instep; pale pink stockings clocked with gold and carried a huge fan of white ostrich feathers, striped with pink and mounted upon exquisitely carved ivory sticks. Her handkerchief was of lace matching the fall. Altogether it is very little wonder that the wearer was set down—

IN DIAMONDS AND PEARLS.

The beauty of a sixty-eight.

Because this beauty went beautifully unjewelled, do not therefore set it down that simplicity is the fashion. Never before, perhaps, were gems and gold so well wrought, so well worn as at present. Diamonds—always so favorite—are now set in platinum, and are thickly placed that you catch naught but their clear splendor. New shapes are so varied that it is idle to catalogue them; the pictures give a fair idea of some of the newest and most choice. A notable thing is the new swallows in flight; in another a bird chases a bee through a branch of May-blossoms. Brooches are larger than for years past. I saw one that was a mass of irregular pearls set around a largish diamond, the whole quite as big as the palm of your hand. A leaf-shaped diamond, one to be worn also as a pendant, was shaggy still, and had set with it large earrings such as our grandmothers wore. Cameos, too, are revived. But nothing is quite so much in favor as the enamel flowers that grow yearly more perfect. I saw yesterday a spray of nightmarish nestling amid the costly lace below a Vanderbilt throat, and not till I caught the gleam of diamonds on what ought to have been the leaves did I realize that it grew in a workshop not a garden. It was at an afternoon tea, and the lady wore a marvelous gown of the softest camel's hair in one of the new green shades. It had a velvet yoke outlined by full pleated frill, that was edged with jeweled galon, and somehow disappeared under one arm. The same galon trimmed the skirt above a band of the velvet some four inches deep. A bow her neck was one of the new lace falls that drop straight down from a deep band and the pseudo flowers nestled bit to one side.

ONE OF NEW LACE FRILLS.

To turn back to jewelry, I saw a striking bracelet the other day that commended itself to all who care to be unique. Perhaps fifty strands of the finest yellow gold chain, such as one gent-grandmothers wore so plentifully with their watches, were slightly twisted about the arm and clasped on top with a deep red stone as big as a rabbit's eye. Pretty diamonds in the side of gala set Elsie Cornish.

A YANKEE NOTION.

Pat Fifteen Cents in the Slot and Hope Your Fortune Understood.

The gentleman of mythology who sowed the dragon's teeth from which sprang brave warriors is now succeeding to Harper's Weekly, not in the race with the more modern gentleman who dropped his dimes of "drop a nickel in the slot" machines. The variations that have been played on this innocuous but profitable device are legion. A series of mechanical servants seems to have been fairly begun. As yet the machines have been more or less conveniences, but they are conveniences that in this age shortly become necessaries. The latest variation of this scheme is to "lay a parcel on the shelf and have it delivered" apparatus. It is an illustration of mechanical simplicity, and may become a necessity, especially to "shoppers." It is nothing but a pneumatic express run on mechanical principles.

A YANKEE NOTION.

As shown in the illustration, this new invention consists of an oblong box of polished steel set on end and rounded at the top. In front is a small platform bearing the words "Step on disc," and when the order is obeyed the top slides open and a steel shelf comes up and promptly hides the contents of the box below. On this shelf the package is laid, and, a stamp costing fifteen cents being dropped in the order of things, retires from the platform and the box closes.

If there is an address on the parcel, the sender may count upon its collection within an hour, and obtain delivery. With each stamp purchased a coupon is attached, which is regarded as a receipt. A number of these will make bounty collections, and a dial on the front of the machine indicates when the parcel will be started on its way. Another stock idea of the humorist is thus done away with, for the poor benighted individual no longer will be captured as lagging an armful of miscellaneous bundles. He can pay fifteen cents at the factory, and have the cargo delivered at his residence on the banks of the picturesque Harlem. Within the head of each of these automatic bundle sentiment that will be fostered by this new machine. The indulgent father of a numerous brood will economize to the extent of fifteen cents per gift, and freely decline to exhibit himself as a participle Santa Claus in any public vehicle. By mechanical aid man will rise from the life of petty annoyances, and establish himself on a permanent luxury by the expenditure of a few paltry cents. It may make life more expensive; but what is the use of money without comfort? It is only the inventor who becomes rich.

What is Rather Slow.

"I understand that Mr. Fargle is one of your heavy depositors," remarked Sharpsett to Banker Stiffback. "Is an effort to pry into Fangle's business.

"Well, I should say Mr. Fangle weighs 220 pounds," replied Stuffy.—Brooklyn Life.

Very Mean.

"Gould is awfully mean with his photograph," said Bobbie. "I sent him a card, and he only signed his name and put his name at the bottom of it, and he knows I'm supposed to do it."—Brooklyn Life.

Look Out for the Farmer.

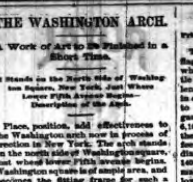
"Pooh!" said the young man who was a Kansas farmer yesterday.

Another Youngster—How did you know?

"Pooh!—He gave my dollar and a half back."—Judge.

THE WASHINGTON ARCH.

A Work of Art to Be Finished in a Short Time.



"It Stands on the North Side of Washington Square, New York, Just Where Lower Fifth Avenue Begins"—A Description of the Arch.

Place, position, and effectiveness of the Washington Arch before the process of erection in New York. The arch stands on the north side of Washington square, just where Lower Fifth avenue begins. Washington square is of ample area, and becomes the fitting frame for such a monument. Lower Fifth avenue, in one at its beginning is not of great length, it has fair width, and so the artistic impression of the arch is not lessened by its surroundings.

The exact appreciation of an arch, the meaning of its massive qualities, while its decoration tells of battle and conquest. Its title has indicated triumph. It may recall the caudine fork of a savage victor, but if its vault could give a sound, its echo might be "vive victoire."

It has been judiciously remarked in criticisms on the Washington arch, the architect, Mr. Stanford White, has made his design with perfect appreciation of the surroundings. Such buildings are to be found in the lower Fifth avenue, or visible through the trees, can neither be called noble nor impressive. It would be necessary to say that the arch was asserted to the neighborhood. Mr. Stanford White was too good an artist to lower his conceptions. It will not as an artistic creation stand, however, aloof from its modest neighbors, but it must in time exercise its influence. In the years to come the quiet repose of this portion of New York will have an awakening. Buildings will then, following the lead of the arch, a better type of buildings will be reared. Committees who select localities for monuments will have one slight of what is in the future. It may, then, be safe to say that just as long as Washington square exists, Lower Fifth avenue begins there, this special quarter of New York will never lose its importance.

WASHINGTON ARCH, NEW YORK.

In all wars Mr. Stanford White's plan is excellent, and above all, is appropriate. It would be meaningless. Differing in no way from all other art conceptions, it must tell what it means. An American arch, if it had any idea to convey to us, could never be one of conquest, but reminding us of the superb use of all triumphs—that of freedom. Anything else than this would jar with true republicanism. No one ever thought of erecting a triumphal arch to think of rearing a pile blatant with our victories over Mexico.

The material of which the arch was due to the erection of a temporary wooden one when the celebration of the inauguration of Washington took place. The great event of 1789 was remembered in 1889. "Why not," it was once asked, "have a permanent memorial of such an era?" The suggestion was enthusiastic, and the city authorities, but they are conveniences that in this age shortly become necessaries. The latest variation of this scheme is to "lay a parcel on the shelf and have it delivered" apparatus. It is an illustration of mechanical simplicity, and may become a necessity, especially to "shoppers." It is nothing but a pneumatic express run on mechanical principles.

A YANKEE NOTION.

As shown in the illustration, this new invention consists of an oblong box of polished steel set on end and rounded at the top. In front is a small platform bearing the words "Step on disc," and when the order is obeyed the top slides open and a steel shelf comes up and promptly hides the contents of the box below. On this shelf the package is laid, and, a stamp costing fifteen cents being dropped in the order of things, retires from the platform and the box closes.

If there is an address on the parcel, the sender may count upon its collection within an hour, and obtain delivery. With each stamp purchased a coupon is attached, which is regarded as a receipt. A number of these will make bounty collections, and a dial on the front of the machine indicates when the parcel will be started on its way. Another stock idea of the humorist is thus done away with, for the poor benighted individual no longer will be captured as lagging an armful of miscellaneous bundles. He can pay fifteen cents at the factory, and have the cargo delivered at his residence on the banks of the picturesque Harlem. Within the head of each of these automatic bundle sentiment that will be fostered by this new machine. The indulgent father of a numerous brood will economize to the extent of fifteen cents per gift, and freely decline to exhibit himself as a participle Santa Claus in any public vehicle. By mechanical aid man will rise from the life of petty annoyances, and establish himself on a permanent luxury by the expenditure of a few paltry cents. It may make life more expensive; but what is the use of money without comfort? It is only the inventor who becomes rich.

What is Rather Slow.

"I understand that Mr. Fargle is one of your heavy depositors," remarked Sharpsett to Banker Stiffback. "Is an effort to pry into Fangle's business.

"Well, I should say Mr. Fangle weighs 220 pounds," replied Stuffy.—Brooklyn Life.

Very Mean.

"Gould is awfully mean with his photograph," said Bobbie. "I sent him a card, and he only signed his name and put his name at the bottom of it, and he knows I'm supposed to do it."—Brooklyn Life.

Look Out for the Farmer.

"Pooh!" said the young man who was a Kansas farmer yesterday.

Another Youngster—How did you know?

"Pooh!—He gave my dollar and a half back."—Judge.

LARGEST SHIP AFLOAT.

The Immense Steamer Lu Francia, the Pride of the French Line.

The largest sailing ship under way now flag is the five-masted vessel La France, which recently took coal from Newcastle, England, to Valparaiso. Its gross tonnage is 3,000 tons, and its length, breadth and depth, measured from the inside of the hull, are as follows: Length on deck, 320 feet; length at keel, 300 feet; breadth, 45 feet; depth, 28 feet. Her displacement is 4,000 tons, and her burthen 4,100 tons. The principal dimensions of the vessel are as follows: Bowsprit, 50 feet long and 13 inches and 20 inches in diameter; mizzenmast, in a single piece, 150 feet long, 36 inches in diameter; mainmast, 48 feet long; upper throat, 21 feet; lower throat, 24 feet. The fore, main and mizzen are in a single piece, and are the following dimensions above deck: Foremast, 150 feet; foremainmast, 160 feet; aftermainmast, 167 feet. The diameter of the mast varies from 30 inches to 17 inches that of the topgallant mast being 18 inches to 10 inches. The length of the lower yards is 82 feet, that of the upper yards from 62 feet to 77 feet, topgallant yards 50 feet. The ocean Veritas. She was built on the Clyde by D. and W. Henderson, and is owned by Aut. Dom Bords et Fils, of Dunkirk. It may be interesting to mention that on her first voyage from Garcliff to Rio de Janeiro the trip was completed in thirty-three days, and although only moderate winds prevailed a speed of 12½ knots was attained. The vessel being laden with 6,000 tons of coal. The fifth mast is very much facilitates the working of the ship, which tacks about with wonderful ease," said the captain at the conclusion of the voyage. Referring to the sailing ships calls to mind the master Yankee clipper, The Great Republic, built in "the fifties" of Law and launched, but she was too big for her time, and she ended her days as a French transport, since then as a coal hulk. But in her prime she made the run from New York to Scilly in thirteen days.

LA FRANCE.

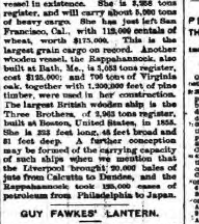
The largest British ship is the Liverpool, of 3,399 tons, built of iron by Messrs. Russell & Co., on the Clyde. She is 333 feet long, 45 feet broad and 26 feet deep. Her four masts are each square rigged, but she is far from clumsy sloft, is easily handled, and has run 14 knots an hour for a whole day. Her very much improved by her exceptional size; but for beauty she compares unfavorably with such a ship as the Thermopylæ, or a large wooden ship of America, having bright, lofty spars, and decks as white as a hound's tooth. Iron decks do not lend themselves readily to adornment. Next in size is the Palgrave, of 3,078 tons. The United States, of Shenandoah, of Bath, Me., built by Messrs. Sewall & Co., of that port, is the largest wooden vessel in existence. She is 2,982 tons register, and will carry about 5,000 tons of heavy cargo. She left San Francisco, Cal., on the 11th inst. with 118,000 centals of wheat, worth $175,000. This is the largest grain cargo on record. Another wooden vessel, the Rappahannock, also built at Bath, Me., is 2,053 tons register, is 225 feet long, 41 feet broad and 21 feet deep. A further conception may be formed of the carrying capacity of such ships when we mention that the Liverpool brought 50,000 bales of jute from Calcutta to Dundee, and the Rappahannock took 120,000 cases of petroleum from Philadelphia to Japan.

GUY FAWKES' LANTERN.

The Interesting Relic is in Evidence at the Present Day.

It is not known that the veritable lantern whose form Guido Fawkes, when he was found in the vaults below the houses of parliament, is still in existence. The lantern was given to



GUY FAWKES' LANTERN.

Cambridge university in 1641, and an interesting account was placed upon it by Robert Heywood, the proctor of the university. The interesting relic is now preserved in the Ashmolean museum.

Well-Kept Secret.

For a century and a half a firm at Alt-dorf kept the secret of the art and method of dyeing the regulation robes of the Roman Catholic cardinals their characteristic red color, and the manufacture of the cloth, and therefore has had the monopoly of making the robes.

At Home in Water.

The natives of the Friendly islands spend most of their time in the water. They are great swimmers and divers.

A Give-Away.

Judge—Officer, you say this woman, when locked up, was dressed in men's attire?

Officer—Yes, sir; but I didn't suspect her sex until she undressing; when she was buttoning her shoes.

Judge—How did you detect it then?

Officer—She asked me for a hairpin!—Puck.

Dressed in Style.

Western Stage Robber—Hold up yr hands!

Scared Passengers—Yes, yes, yes, of course.

Robber (gallantly) — Beg pardon, lady; you needn't hold yours up. Put 'em down, please.

Lady—My hands are not up. Those are my shoulder puffs.—N. Y. Weekly.

Right, After All.

Codling—Say, old fellow, Carrier, you pretend to be a realistic painter and yet in this picture you have a stream in oil colors instead of putting it in water colors.

Mawler—That's all right, Codling. The stream is the pleasure to oil people in Venango county, Pa.—Brooklyn Life.

In the Public Weal.

Dr. Burridge—How do you feel this morning?

Mercury (the tramp)—Pretty unsatisfactory, doctor; but I wish you'd let science have a rap at me.

Dr. Burridge—Why?

Mercury—Just try that preparation for the transmission of fear.—Puck.

Retirement Longevity.

"Are long-continued retirements remarkable for longevity?"

"Indeed they are. Some of them seem to be forty or forty thousand long."—Brooklyn Life.

Unexpected Counsellor.

"Counsel! Counsel!" shouted the crier in the court.

The lights were turned down and a love, and the final request for mercy.

"Pooh!" said the counsel.

Fee—Has she admitted you falsely and forged the signature to the check?

Her—No; that's the trouble. She admits that she wrote it herself, and you know—Judge.

Don't You Know.

"Don't you know that it is a felony to steal a postage stamp?" asked Justice Dogby of a boy.

"I know it, judge, but the fact is that postage stamps are so full that it makes the man's coat tails go out so I couldn't help it. I believe your honor has got enough to have made a better boy than myself if you had been in my place."—Texas Siftings.

Found Me Loved.

Old Friend—Well, old boy, have you found the right one along? Did she accept as a novelist?

My Bookship—No; she published a novel of mine. Which is bankruptcy, indeed probability, you know.—So I had to give it up; but I'm doing finewate.

What say?

"Writing railway advertisements."—N. Y. Weekly.

The Last Sim out.

Williamson—I hear Jagman was so drunk last night that several of you fellows had to take him home on a shutter. Did he talk with his head dead?

Henderson—She must have. She certainly laying him out when we left.—Brooklyn Life.

At the Amateur Play.

Reginald—At last, my love, we are together. Rest you in these arms forever. (Aside, to man in the wings) Step lively there with the curtain, you jackass, or you'll have to stay this way all night?

Hortense—Is the curtain drops—Forever!—Life.

She Took One Wing.

Tommy—Mother, what is an angel?

Mother—An angel is a being that flies.

Tommy—But, mamma, papa calls my governess an angel.

Mother—Then, my dear, she is going to fly immediately.—Brooklyn Life.

A Splen-ed Discussion.

"What was the subject of your debate this evening?"

"Whisky."

"Was it well discussed?"

"Yes; the members nowhere were full of the subject."—Kate Field's Washington.

TABLE TALK.

Knife—Dull times for me nowadays. Fork—Here, too, pard. I've been stuck in everything I've taken hold of lately.

Railroads.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROA THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERIC... CONNECTING NEW YORK AND ... Splendid Equipment.

TRAINS FOR THE WEST.

On and after Nov. 1, 1891, trains will leave Plainfield as follows:

For Chicago, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, Fast Express, at 12.01 A. M. (Through and elegant coaches, Buffet Sleeping Cars, Dining Car for Breakfast), daily, except Sunday, for Chicago and Cincinnati.

For Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Intermediate Stations, at 7.30 A. M., daily, except Sunday.

For Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Intermediate Stations, at 12.01 P. M., daily.

For Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Intermediate Stations, at 4.30 P. M., daily, except Sunday.

For Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Intermediate Stations, at 7.30 P. M., daily.

For Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Intermediate Stations, at 11.30 P. M., daily.

For Philadelphia, Washington and the South—1.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 A. M.; 12.01, 1.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 P. M.; 12.01 and 2.01 A. M.

TRAINS FOR THE EAST.

For Philadelphia, New York and Boston—1.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 A. M.; 12.01, 1.01, 2.01, 3.01, 4.01, 5.01, 6.01, 7.01, 8.01, 9.01, 10.01, 11.01 P. M.; 12.01 and 2.01 A. M.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 7.30 A. M., daily, except Sunday.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 4.30 P. M., daily, except Sunday.

For Philadelphia, Trenton and Intermediate Stations, 11.30 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 7.30 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 11.30 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 12.01 A. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 2.01 A. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 3.01 A. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 4.01 A. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 5.01 A. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 6.01 A. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 7.01 A. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 8.01 A. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 9.01 A. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 10.01 A. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 11.01 A. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 12.01 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 1.01 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 2.01 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 3.01 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 4.01 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 5.01 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 6.01 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 7.01 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 8.01 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 9.01 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 10.01 P. M., daily.

For Somerville, Flemington and Trenton, 11.01

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
H. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 28, 1892. No. 4.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well as its limitations as to its authorities."—MADISON.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Solicitors in Chancery, Masters in Chancery, Notaries Public, Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property Solicited. P. O. Box 142, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES H. THEIS,
Dentist,
66 West Front street. A new local anesthetic for application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—[6-3]

H. HARD,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock B or H., Green Plains, N. J. Orders left at C. F. Jones' account-book store, or at West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—8[20]

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
211 Broadway, New York city, (rooms 31 and 33, Importers' and Traders' Bank Building.) Residence, Plainfield, N. J.—[20]

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Parties ordering will receive prompt attention by postal. P. O. Box 116 or 161 at Wilcox's Drug Store, No. 1 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence, 21 East 2d street, corner Stelle street.—[27-13]

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Residence and Shop No. 36 East 3d St
Jobbing promptly attended to. 4267

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, Five S
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
[Successor to E. B. Maynard.]
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., at establishment corner of Second street. 4[27]

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES.
COOK STOVES.
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stove can be found here at Jobbers' Prices. Bring your Tinware needing to us. Tin-work Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in the vicinity. We have none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

J. Hervey Doane,
6 PARK AVENUE.
[Formerly Clerk's.]
Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry,
Repairing neatly and promptly done. 4[27]

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment! Best Goods! Lowest Prices! Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.

Garret Q. Packer.
SANITARY PLUMBING.
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 9 NORTH AVE., cor. Plainfield, N. J.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

FORCE'S HOTEL,
NORTH AVENUE, [Near R. R. Station.]
JAS. H. FORCE, Prop'r.
A FIRST CLASS FAMILY HOTEL. Steam Heat. Fine rooms fronting.
Transient guests at reasonable rates. 10-84-87

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually
JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARDEN, "
ELIAS S. POPE, Treasurer.
6[27]

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
SENT IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOOD SILVERED BREAD AT JAMES.
4[27]

C.E. & J.W. BROWN,
[Successors to O. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.
3-13-92

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
Laing's Hotel Stables
Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Carriages for Weddings, Funerals and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for Pleasure.

RIDING OR LIVERY
supplied, with drivers for shopping calls or pleasure driving. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month. Orders left at my residence on Second street, or at the stables will receive prompt attention.
TELEPHONE CALL, No. 96.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS,
OFFICE—Vandervoort's Music Store, Park avenue. The undersigned is now prepared to do all kinds of carting and transferring of the finest and heaviest furniture, pianos, safes, boilers, &c., with care and dispatch. Orders left at the office will receive prompt attention. Residence, 20 Somerset street.

INSURANCE
WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasoline Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 18 SOMERSET ST. 3-14-87

GEORGE A. MOORE,
[Of the late firm of Moore Bros.]
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established
NO. 15 YORK AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the choicest goods in season.
Fresh and Salt Meats,
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Game, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Any thing not usually kept in stock furnished at short notice.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE CHEAPER THAN ELSEWHERE.
Hugo Weigman,
EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to T. J. Gillies.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—56 W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans for Furniture. Goods delivered to all parts of the City. Orders left at my residence, 56 West Front street, or at my office, 56 West Front street, will receive prompt attention.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best Domestic Segars in the State, and made entirely from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars. Cigarettes and Tobaccos always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
Yearly

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
—SEGARS!—
18 PARK AVE., (NEXT DOOR BUT SECOND ST.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Articles,
Of every description.
The undersigned has just opened a Tobacco with the best cigars ever handled in this city. Give him a call.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And Dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobaccos, also smokers' articles, has removed from 20½ W. Front street, to 62 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally. 4[27]

PAINTERS & PAINTERS' SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
4[27]

L. S. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS' SUPPLIES. 36 NORTH AVENUE
10[26]

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping. Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. H. GRIFFEN,
15 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 13-87

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
Prepared only by
D. F. COLES' DRUG AND MFG. CO
NEWARK, N. J.

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN,
27 LaGrande Avenue.
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET.
Will reopen TUESDAY, SEPT. 15, 1891.
The School Year will include Morning Lessons and Evening.

DODWORTH'S
CLASSES FOR Dancing & Department
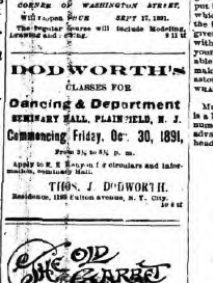
SEMINARY HALL, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Commencing Friday, Oct. 30, 1891,
From 3½ to 5½ p. m.
Apply to H. E. Seymour for circulars and information, Seminary Hall.
THOS. J. DODWORTH,
Residence, 1108 Fulton avenue, N. Y. City.
8 11



Come under the Rafters deserted
And grasping among the stranded heaps on the floor
I capture the long-hoard-hall of memories ever.

Here are dolls that are broken, old sheets and sofa cushions,
And, a calamity that pierces the soul to its fibres!
There's a low-revered distaff attached to a rude spinning-jenny almost worm-eaten with spinning-wheel.

Worn schoolbooks untreated some decades ago,
Bindwood in a curious shape;
While a cupboard is filled with quaint rubbish, pell-mell,
Whose use it would take an expert to tell.

A "square chair" rests where the rafters bend low,
A relic of full half a century ago,
But its seat is worn through with a monkey-made pile
Of quaint old hats that have parted with Their "style."

Here a crockery-crate holds a load of its own,
Where a beautiful record is kept of days that have flown,
While their cobwebs and dust fill each crevice around
Where the past goes to sleep undisturbed by a sound.

Most pathetic of all is the cradle I see,
Which rocked my forefathers before I rocked me—
But they, with the hands that propelled it are gone,
While I, a taken-made treasure, uninjured, lives on.

In a sleep which the cradle was powerless to break
They rest—but their virtues and memories
I leave it in silence—and safety, I trust—
And the garret well-haloed by moments and dust.

WHATEVER form of printing matter you require we can be of service to you: whether it be

Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programme Music
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST

DAILY PRESS

(Chautauqua Building),

PLAINFIELD N. J.

WOMEN AND THE BIG FAIR

Talks with Women Interested in the Exposition.

Mrs. Palmer as An Executor—the Talks of the Wonderful Woman's Building—And Plans How the Women Have Designed and Built It.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

The ladies of Washington are literally interested in the world's fair. We have there representative women from all parts of the United States, and there is scarcely a senator's wife or a general's daughter who does not expect to visit it, and who is not anxious that her State should have a good representation in it. There is no diversity of opinion as to the part that women should take in it, and the fair will probably have a better exhibit of women's work than any national exposition that has had it been. It was from Washington that the movement was started which gave women a representation on the board of managers, and there is in existence here a society called the Isabella Heroines of Queen. This is named after Queen Isabella of Spain, the woman who furnished the funds with which Columbus to discover America, and who, more than any one in the world, is entitled to the credit for the opening up of our continent. It is felt here that the Philadelphia centennial gave no adequate idea of what the women of the United States are, and of what they can do, and no effort will be spared in the coming exposition to show how women are now managing all kinds of business in the United States, including steamboat lines and railroads, and how they are engaged in every industry and trade, from typewriting to medicine, and from the law to the raising of cattle and stock. A part of the exposition will show the inventive genius of women, and it will demonstrate that some of the best patents in the United States have been taken out by her, and the whole exhibition of the women's department will put the American woman at the head of her sisters all the world over. The work of the building for this exhibit is rapidly going on, and the lady managers, a number of whom I have interviewed this week, give me the encouraging details of their progress.

A CHAT WITH MRS. POTTER PALMER.

I met Mrs. Palmer at the Arlington hotel during her recent visit to Washington. She is one of the leading women of the United States and one of the most beautiful. Born in Louisville, Ky., she became identified here at Washington, and it was in 1871 that she married the noted Chicago millionaire who at that time had made a fortune in dry goods and had retired to enjoy his wealth.

During her visit abroad in the interests of the fair, she was well received by the most noted people in England, and she is also well known there, the wife of the president of France, is very much interested in the fair, and that the Princess Christian and other English ladies are greatly interested in the advancement shown by American women. Said she:

"I feel confident that the result of our work is going to surprise the people. The interior of the building for the woman's department will be decorated by women, and the work has to do with the architectural decorations of this building; which is to be a very large one, will be of staff, and the stationary above the roof line will be executed by women, and the models for this work are now before the committee and the decision will be based entirely upon merit. We want to have the women which symbol all the sections of the building carved by women, and these columns will be there in design and they will be designed by the states. There will be three granite columns from the state of Washington, and there will be an arge one from Missouri. The wainscoting in one of the departments is now being carved by women, and the plans for the building throughout is to be made of native wood, and women will superintend all the decorations so that nothing shall be put into the structure. I took the plans which Miss Rogers has drawn for the beautiful building which has been given us and how we propose to fill it, with me to Europe, and the fact that a young woman of twenty-one was capable of planning such a beautiful building was the wonder of the foreigners, and the astonishment to our European sisters."

WHAT MRS. LOGAN SAYS ABOUT THE WORK.

Mrs. Gen. John A. Logan's name is a household word in connection with philanthropic societies. She has watched the advancement of women, and her name heads a score of charitable boards and philanthropic societies. She says the women's art hall encountered two months ago, and which was destroyed by fire in it. I found her in her home, Calumet Place, on the hills overlooking Washington the other day and talked with her about the exposition.

MRS. JOHN A. LOGAN.

"What is the District of Columbia doing for the fair, Mrs. Logan?" I said.

"The ladies of the District of Columbia and of Washington cannot do much for the reason that there will be nothing in the way of art and charity. I don't believe you will find anywhere so many rich families as there are by the ten miles square. Mrs. President Harrison has given a brilliant tone to the ladies who reside here in devoting her time to the study of painting, and the art circle of Washington is yearly broadening. We have many artists here who will have pictures at the world's fair, and we will show what our schools and universities are doing in intellectual and physical culture among the girls and the boys."

THE COLORED PEOPLE AND THE EXPOSITION.

"By the way, Mrs. Logan," said I, "the colored people seem to think that the lady managers have not treated them fairly."

"This is not so," replied Mrs. Logan. "The colored women have been placed on the same footing as others in connection with the fair and they have been treated with equal deference. The whole trouble arose from the application of a delegation of colored women who called upon the national committee and demanded that a sum of money be placed at their disposal. This was refused upon the ground that the committee had no individual funds for special classes and they were referred to the state board in accordance with the regulations. Our committee accepted them upon a common footing with others, and it was to this equality that they took exception. They claim that they should have representative officers upon the board, and in response to the demand the committee should give them a special resolution was acted down. I think on the whole, the women of Mrs. Lockwood's class feel that the ladies are doing very well in connection with the world's fair. It is true we have had a misunderstanding, but have kept back the work, but the different states have helped it, and Illinois alone gave eighty thousand dollars towards the woman's building. There is one thing, however, that I would like to say, and that is to call the attention of the women who are pushing the world's fair work. Many of these ladies are extensively engaged in business and are actively connected as strong minded. The committee has decided to confine the fair to the encouragement of talents and of the furthering of woman's interests aside from any consideration of woman's rights."

MRS. MARY S. LOCKWOOD.

MRS. LOCKWOOD'S DUTIES.

A curious feature of the preparations for the world's fair is the fact that it is to be delivered by Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood, one of the national committee, to the queen regent of Spain, on behalf of the women of the United States. The profits of these lectures are to be used to defray the expenses of the Columbian exhibit. It is to attend the world's fair who would otherwise be unable to go to Chicago.

Mrs. Lockwood is a fine looking woman and women who have exhibits, and the young woman to be sent from Washington from the feuds is Miss Jenny Stephens, whose artistic merit is well known here, and whose tapestry work is especially beautiful. Mrs. Lockwood's lectures are accompanied by stereoscopic views, and are to be given in the largest cities of the union. I talked with Mrs. Lockwood, last night, about the fair. She said:

"Our idea is not to set up the work of women in competition to that of men as many people think. We want our exhibits to be united with that of the men. Harriet Hosmer, for instance, does not go to the world's fair to compete with other women, but with the world at large, irrespective of sex. We want our women to take their places in the ranks of aspirants irrespective of sex, and we think she will be able to hold her own. We are going to send a woman from the District of Columbia to do much of the painting on the walls of the exposition building, and the designs will be the result of competition. The work of the manager is getting on very nicely, and the committees in the various states are working with us. We shall not hold another meeting before April, but the work is going on, and the American woman as shown at Chicago in 1892 will be a type of which the United States may be proud."

WOMEN AMERICAN WORKERS.

The vice president of the ladies' organization of the fair is Mrs. Ex-Congressman Wilkins, the wife of one of the proprietors of the Washington Post. Mrs. Wilkins is a rosy cheeked, bright eyed Ohio woman, who is liked for her popularity here. She was a leading social figure during the administration of President Cleveland, and she has received with Mrs. Carlisle while Senator Carlisle was speaker of the house. She is a woman of practical common sense and is devoting a great deal of time to the world's fair. Said she:

"We hope to make the fair a great success, and to show that the woman of the nineteenth century is thoroughly up with, and if anything ahead, of the times. The different states of the union are up and doing, and we are getting efficient aid from every part of the country. We are going to have a fine display from South America and Mexico and the ladies who represent these countries in a social way here as the wives and daughters of the diplomatic representatives are doing a great deal for the fair. Some specimens of woman's work which have already been received are surprisingly beautiful and they show what women can do when skill. There were last year a number of meetings of the South American women here, and there have been fourteen ladies each of whom has been in correspondence with her people and has brought on some striking new and interesting in their manufactures in relation to women. In this way many more and beautiful articles have been collected. Among the ladies who are doing a great deal for the fair in this way are Madame Romero, wife of the Mexican minister; Mrs. Mendonca, wife of the minister from Brazil; Mrs. Legare, wife of the Peruvian minister; Mrs. Hubley Ashton, Mrs. Isham Hornsby, Mrs. Lowrie Bell, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Dahlgren, wife of Lieut. Dickins of the navy, who has been journeying with her husband in foreign ports, has brought together a most valuable collection of native manufactures. A lady resident of Washington, Miss Schiller, who has devoted herself to the study of Spanish with the intention of making a specialty of translating the native South American publications, has among recent researches in that direction discovered many interesting novels and short stories written by the women of the various South American republics that show marked talent and a knowledge of men and letters far in advance of what one would give them credit for. The study of the products of these southern climes brings to light many valuable inventions and manufactures that are largely the handiwork of females. As most of the architectural work upon the building is awarded to women whose talents have won them high praise both at home and abroad, the completion of the whole will be a most gratifying proof of the talent and progress in the high arts towards which the women of our generation are advancing."

MRS. DENIAL WILKINS.

A Philanthropic Shoe Man.

Irate Customer—Those shoes I bought for my boy last week are half worn out already, and I found a thick piece of pasteboard in the soles. What have you to say to that?

Dealer—My dear sir, the pasteboard is put in to keep the boy from touching the ground when the leather wears out. You wouldn't want your little boy to be taken cold and die of consumption, would you?—Good News.

Not Writers' Cramp.

Doctor—From the condition of your hand and arm, I should say you are suffering from writers' cramp—too much exercise of one set of muscles.

Young Business Man—But I never write. I employ a type-writer.

"Then engaged to her?"

"Y-e-s."

"Do your—er—dictating with your other arm."—N. Y. Weekly.

A DESPONDENT POSITION.

Mrs. McGrath—And phwat is it yez husband he's doing for a living, Mrs. Rafferty?

Mrs. Rafferty (loftily)—He husband is in the employ of the signal service.—Texas Siftings.

Correct Definition of Courtship.

Baldhead—That was a wonderfully clever speech that your husband just made! He talks like a true orator.

Mrs. Wedder—Oh, you spoke so? Well, I wouldn't be surprised if he got up all that speech during courtship.—Boston Courier.

IN THE EVENT OF WAR.

General O. O. Howard Discusses a Probable Plan of Defense.

A Careful Discussion of Possibilities—The Consequences of a War With Chili or With Italy—A Great Loss of Property Inevitable.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

Yes, indeed, I am willing to answer those questions which you consider unmilitary. It is there a possibility of war with any foreign nation?

The question is a general one, though it is direct and can be answered affirmatively or negatively. It would be a glorious morning, if the dawn of the twentieth century could show written on the sky of promise a negative answer like this: "No millennium has come, peace and good will reign upon the earth; there is no longer the possibility of war between nations, for the will of the Lord is everywhere done, and will everywhere be done." Certainly then, as the greater includes the less, there would never be the possibility of war between the United States and any other nation, great or small.

GEN. O. O. HOWARD.

But whence? I ascend either hill or mountain where the field of vision has any reasonable expanse, I cannot discover even as against a distant negative to the question; on the contrary, I cannot refrain from formulating the answer: Yes! Yet there is a possibility of war between nations. Here and there the possibility becomes a probability, and even on our own continent, much as we hate it, too often there is the deplorable fact of actual war.

As in Honduras, Guatemala, the states of Columbia, Brazil, Argentine Republic, Peru and Chili, it is war and rumors of war continually. We are hardly settled down to the comforts of peace and hope for the future, saving to ourselves that the days of peace have at last come," when there arises some new outbreak, local or national, or international.

Just at present the United States is at peace and has been at peace, so far as other nations are concerned, for over a quarter of a century, and public men pray, promise and hope that there may never be war between the United States and any other government.

Still war or peace does not rest upon the will of one party or one nation alone. Take our difficulty, not yet settled, that arose from the massacre of the Italians in New Orleans, and the withdrawal from Italy of the legation. Here, there is disposition to do right by parties in power. Doubtless the rulers of both nations are peaceably scientiously, and everybody hopes, and everybody believes that there will be a peaceful settlement of all the questions involved.

But, my friends ask me, is such a thing as war with Chili likely to occur? Is it probable? I think not. Yet it is within the range of possibility, and on that account a fairly good fire department has been organized with proper machinery and the engineer to man it, and the essential rules to bring it into the field and govern it when necessary.

You ask a second question; "Should here be a war with any foreign power, what would that power in these days undertake to do?"

POWDER CHARGES AND PROJECTILES.

The answer to such a question as this would naturally involve a discussion of the different kinds of warfare; but it is evident that any nation, whatever, in order to carry on a war against the United States must be aggressive; and as such, in the main, would be offensive, or, at best, offensive in the outset and then defensive. These terms, the meaning of which is evident, will apply to both land movements and naval operations.

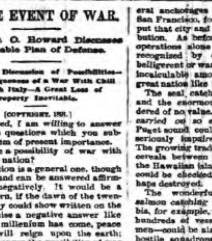
We may premise that a small nation on the west coast of America, for example, before beginning an aggressive war would seek to make some close alliance with some other more powerful nation both offensive and defensive. The struggle would appear so one-sided against a solid nation of sixty millions of people without such preparation for reinforcement as I reserve that reasonable statement in the small aggressive nation would beforehand clearly foresee the futility of the struggle with insufficient means.

Yet, suppose for the moment that powders and ships, blinded for the eyes, and that as unaccountable public opinion on the part of their people had pressed them to adopt these measures, what could the said small nation do?

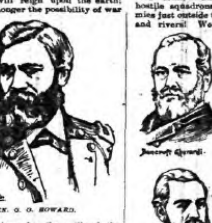
First, it would discontinue intercourse, political and commercial. It might confiscate the property of all United States citizens within her boundaries. It might imprison sailors; catch up all vessels within the limits of her jurisdiction, and confiscate their cargoes. It might send forth its well-equipped national naval marine; run down and sink all American vessels on the high seas. It could aggravate this work by issuing "letters of marque" and empowering fast steamers to help themselves to merchant ships which were owned and sailed by United States men.

The officials of the small nation could keep up this sort of warfare for some time. Even while avoiding open battle with our naval squadrons, their steamers could do more upon the high seas of commerce destroying and sinking than upon their ability to succeed in direct naval engagements.

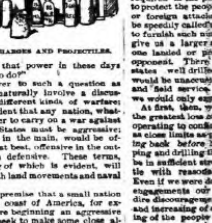
We can suppose that a small navy on the Pacific coast could make a very formidable fleet. Let us suppose that the United States should send to the Pacific coast the fleet of San Diego bay, which would be sold to the other nation. Let us suppose that the United States had in addition to that fleet twenty-four fast steamers, or make the number forty, and mobilize it.



JEROME CHARLES BONAPARTE. SAMUEL F. BARNEY.



GEORGE E. BELKNAP. JOHN IRWIN.



ARMY 12-INCH STEEL RIFLE.

which is possible on account of the size of our country, would make it certain that we eventually would drive any hostile fleet from the ocean and have it landed on our shores. Our unprepared condition, however, is so great that a single battle with such a fleet would cost us millions of dollars in money that could be saved if we had made any hope to secure the requisite preparations.

Surely we have made great strides in the last few or ten years toward this preparation so far as our first line, the navy, is concerned; and also are making fair progress in the second line, for example, in the superb sets of breech-loading mortars that cover a wide field of operations, the latest approved breech-loading cannon of largest range and greatest penetrating power; in the world and some torpedo boats; the formidable floating batteries; and seacoast guns which spring up like magic, do their work well and then run to shelter safety.

The final means of defense of our country, the militia, or volunteer army, is in just the same condition as to numbers as it was twenty years ago, and that same cost of the war of the rebellion, who were then available, have now passed away. The people are ready to take part in any future military struggle that is necessary, but they have not organized as they should be, and are not sufficiently in order to prepare an efficient army and mobilize it.

Rates of Advertising.

Space	1 w	2 w	1 m	2 m	3 m	6 m	1 y
1 in.	$	$	$	$	$	$	$
2 in.
3 in.
4 in.
5 in.
6 in.
¼ col.
½ col.
1 col.

All Electro's must be solid metal.
"Links of Knowledge" column, 5 cts per line.
Double rate, 50 per ct. advance of above rate.

I assumed San Diego a point to be attacked merely because it is the southernmost harbor of California, and is almost entirely defenseless, giving ingress to quite a rich country. However, any attack on the Pacific coast would probably only be such a harbor as that for a coaling station from which to send a force upon the larger and more valuable harbor of San Francisco even if the first attack was not aimed directly at that city.

Should the attack come on the Puget sound or the Columbia river the conditions would be the same; except that, in those three positions, it is much more favorable to the assailant than an attack upon either of the other two points. There being no supply of food and of transportary horses always to be found in the northwest.

A bold army, consuming Washington and Oregon would be very hard to defend, on account of the protection of the mountainous country adjoining these states. There are great distances across which the soldiers of the west would hasten succor to compass; and the fact that within themselves they have almost the finest military power that could keep any considerable force from taking possession is a strong argument to hasten military preparation against such possibilities as any thoughtful man cannot help contemplating.

The few candid suggestions that have just been made in answer to your last question are such as every man, every citizen I mean, should consider, and such as should be canvassed before the public and there [illegible] for the actions of the world.

I now should say that we are thus letting our enemies see our condition, or helping them to methods, the answer is very direct and simple. They are enemies, already know more than we dream; they have sketches of our forts and of our harbors, and they know within reasonable limits about how much force we have on hand, and how soon we could be ready for actual service. They are watching our growing navy, and they understand that, though we are a peaceful people, we are indomitable in war.

Certainly we should not confirm our actions to the enemy's point of attitude, because, in case of an outbreak, there will be blows to give as well as blows to take. Any small nation, fighting on its own commerce soon destroyed, its own seaboard attacked, its own harbors blockaded and fortified, and, doubtless before long, a column like that of Gen. Taylor or of Gen. Scott in the Mexican war, walking step by step from city to city, from siege to siege, from battle to battle, till it set down at the capital, complete master of the said small nation.

Still it is the earnest purpose of every good citizen, and certainly of every patriotic soldier, to prevent war by having such a preparation in all our three lines of defense that there will be no temptation to the folly, the fanaticism, the pride or the ambition of any greedy people on the globe to attack our cities or to overrun our domain.

O. O. HOWARD.

Major General U. S. Army.

Respect That Was Natural.

"You must honor your parents," the Sunday-school superintendent said to the new boy. "I am sure you obey your mother."

"Yes, sir!" came the reply with an emphatic nod. "I always do what mother says. I follow her around the house here always show her respect, don't you?"

"I've bet we does. Why, she kin lick dad, she kin."—Judge.

A Liberal Truth.

Sagesman—How is it you failed to meet popular expectation? The whole town looked on you as a second Mike Tickle.

Sagesman—Yes, that's so; but you see I subsequently discovered that she was suffering from heart failure.

"You don't say!"

"But I did say it! Her heart failed to find any room for me within its sacred inclosure, and I concluded my courting engagement endwise."—Boston Courier.

A Forgetful Boy.

Teacher—Tommy, why didn't you learn your lessons for to-day?

Tommy—Well, papa was sick and mamma had to stay with him, and mother was away.

Teacher—How did that affect you?

Tommy—Why, there wasn't anyone to remind me of them.—Harper's Young People.

He Needed to Pray.

"Is your husband in?"

"No, he has gone to the prayer meeting this evening."

"Is the prayer meeting? Isn't that something unusual?"

"Yes, but he put down a carpet for me this afternoon."—Cape Cod Item.

A Point in His Favor.

Jaysmith—I'm going to see the Howler Shot. It called me a thief.

McWatty—But papers are allowed to print the news, you know.

Jaysmith—But mine's news.

McWatty—True enough—every body knows it now.—Judge.

A Hero.

Bloombumper—Speaking of heroism, McJokin did the bravest thing I know anything about.

Jaster—What did he do?

Bloombumper—He married Swidow with two sets of twins.—Philadelphia Press.

Found His Level.

Bouttown—Where did you go on your vacation?

Bouttown—I went out west to look at a corner lot I bought by mail.

"Find it?"

"Yes; went swimming in it."—N. Y. Weekly.

Bettered Him.

Cora—Didn't you think he was trying to flatter you when he said you was beautiful as an angel?

Dora—No.

"Why?"

"Because I thought so myself."—N. Y. Herald.

Had Seen the Game Played.

Eastern Boy—Did you ever play football?

Western Boy (watching the game)—No; but I once got caught in a drove of stampeded mules.—Philadelphia Press.

A Slight Mistake.

A little fellow, three years old, who had never eaten frosted cake, asked at the table for a "piece of that cake with plastering on it." Boston Transcript.

Proof.

School-teacher—Bobby, you may define "proof."

Bobby (whose father is a druggist)—Four hundred per cent.—Judge.

What Man's Pugnacities.

"A lit'l o' everything," Mr. Dooley is reported by the nixest man."

"Ah, that's what I thought their views about their successor all theirselves."—Puck.

A Sweet Comforter.

He (despairingly)—It doesn't matter if I have good lots of money, I cannot forget that my grandfather was a stage driver.

She (sweetly)—That is all right,—you can refer to your ancestral heath with out going into particulars.—Jury.

A Friendly Critic.

Miss Ashes (of the Art Students' league)—Do you know I am often oppressed by the thought: "Art is long and Time is fleeting."

Mr. Soumble—True—true—and time is or so much more valuable than your art.—Puck.

The Constitutionalist.
W. L. FORCE, } A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chooses the city of Chicago as the place for holding the national Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation therein equal to double the number of the representation to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economicall and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE, Chairman.
SIMON P. SHEPHIN, Secretary.

CHILI BACKS DOWN.

The Chilian Government has sent a reply to the ultimatum of the United States. The reply is in effect as follows:

Chili agrees to withdraw the offensive note sent by Senor Matta to all the Chilian Ministers abroad, and acknowledges that its issuance was due to an error of judgment.

Chili also withdraws its request for the withdrawal of United States Minister Egan.

In addition to this the Chilian Government in its answer proposes that the affair of the attack on the Baltimore's sailors be referred to the submitted to the arbitration of some neutral nation.

If this proposition is not acceptable to the United States Government, the Chilian Government suggests that the matter be submitted to the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States.

POOR JOHN ROACH.

We see in recent papers the announcement that the wretched remnant of the late John Roach's estate is about to be turned over to his heirs by the assignees to whom he entrusted it in 1885.

It is only a paltry trifle of $2,000,000. Poor John Roach, bounded into bankruptcy—with a $2,000,000 surplus —by the wicked Democratic Secretary of the Navy, William C. Whitney, who contrived by all sorts of acts of all the precedents of the five preceding administrations, insisted on his faithfully carrying out his contracts with the government.

Poor fellow, the victim of honesty—forced on him against his will. Poor fellow, dying in the comparative poverty of $100,000 a year income, and leaving his loved ones to starvation on a mere pittance of $2,000,000, and all this after he had built up a decent sufficiency with the help of Robeson, Chandler & Co.

How the unpublished campaign orator has wept tears of blood for poor John Roach, and how greatly to be lamented a victim of Democratic cruelty he is. Peace to his ashes.

The State Legislature has settled down to business. A large number of bills have been introduced.

The Democratic National Committee, on the fifteenth ballot, selected Chicago as the place for holding the Presidential convention, and the date of the convention, June 21.

Girls, let us give you a word of advice. Because this is 1892—a disastrous leap year—it does not follow that you should jump into the soup. Look well before you leap.

The Democratic State Committee of New York have decided to call the Democratic State Convention to elect delegates to the National Convention, at Albany, February 22. This seems to mean Hill delegates.

Supreme Court Justice Manning M. Knapp, of New Jersey, was seized with a fit of apoplexy, while on the bench in Jersey City, Tuesday afternoon, and died within a few minutes. He was trying a civil case and was summing up at the time.

An effort will be made to amend the half-holiday law at the session of the Legislature, so that it will not apply to third and fourth class counties. This would allow real estate sales to be held on Saturday afternoons to the satisfaction of every one.

United States Supreme Court Judge, Joseph P. Bradley died at Washington, Jan. 22. Justice Bradley's name became prominent in the Tilden-Hayes Electoral Board. It was his vote which decided the seating of Hayes as President. He was a prominent and eminent jurist.

Says the True American: "The problem is being again demonstrated that it is much easier to break down than to build, and that it is much easier to be criminating Grover Cleveland from the list of possible candidates for the Presidency are creating difficulties which will hamper, if not defeat the one upon which they bestow their favor."

Congressman Millin has written a letter to Speaker Crisp resigning his position as Chairman on the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. He is willing to serve in the ranks, but does not desire a chairmanship, and in resigning from political, he says, he is simply following out the line of action indicated in his former letter to the Speaker.

Have you seen the new postal cards? They are beginning to come through the mails. There are two sizes. Smaller ones and larger ones than the kind so long in use. We are not used to them yet, of course, and somehow the big ones seem clumsy just at first. Try one. Address it to THE CONSTITUTIONALIST, and on the reverse side send along the name of a new subscriber or two.

Senator McPherson, in an interview at Washington upon his Presidential preferences, was very non-committal. He said: "I do not care to be placed in the position of drawing a distinction between Senator Hill and Mr. Cleveland. I would not care to express an opinion as to which would make the strongest candidate. Either would carry New Jersey for President. As to the sentiments of the Democrats of my State, I do not exactly know and haven't as yet been advised."

The Fall-field Constitutionalist is for Governor Peter Turney. Hurrah for Governor Peter Turney. This is a case in which the Constitutionalist will have to swallow its championship of Hogg and support some other nominee. New Brunswick Providence.

That's what you say. But let us say something. We think our opinion is right and just, but if the Democracy of this grand old State say we are wrong, we shall not be sore. We think our choice a safe one, but if the Democracy of this grand old State say that some other standard bearers shall ask for our support, you will find us staying right with them. Now Jersey is Democratic by popular vote and, to use a common expression, "don't you forget it."

LEGISLATIVE PROCEEDINGS.

The House held two sessions Tuesday and got down to real business Wednesday. The most bills came in but the race track measure is still missing and will, in all probability, not make its appearance before next Monday night. The bill is being drafted in Jersey City, but is not yet completed.

A bill came in during the morning which was quietly laid away last year, almost five feet eight inches in height, with ample girth, though not fat. His physique is good and his constitution is like iron. Those who attributes have a good head to do with making him what he is, namely, a hustler from away back, whether bent on business or pleasure. When a boy he was a hustler and faithfully, and when at play expends just the same amount of force, entering heartily into whatever form of sport he may be engaged in. He is all superintendent base ball. In the latter game he is greatly interested, having managed the team in his resident town for several different seasons. When not in use this is an amateur player, but increased years and avoirdupois have compelled him to relinquish active participation in the game.

Mr. Keller first became interested in trap shooting about eleven years ago, at the time of the old New York State shoot at Coney Island. He is the owner of two or more shooting sets in the field and at the trap, but has been more promi nently before the public for the last seven years as a trap shooter. Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Am ng these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence, was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boun- dary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out.

The Democratic State Committee met at Trenton, Wednesday, and selected Colonel Samuel Fleming, of Flemington, to be the next Democratic candidate for Governor. This is a case in which the Constitutionalist will have to swallow its championship of Hogg and support some other nominee. New Brunswick Providence.

That's what you say. But let us say something. We think our opinion is right and just, but if the Democracy of this grand old State say we are wrong, we shall not be sore. We think our choice a safe one, but if the Democracy of this grand old State say that some other standard bearers shall ask for our support, you will find us staying right with them. Now Jersey is Democratic by popular vote and, to use a common expression, "don't you forget it."

LEGISLATIVE PROCEEDINGS.

The House held two sessions Tuesday and got down to real business Wednesday. The most bills came in but the race track measure is still missing and will, in all probability, not make its appearance before next Monday night. The bill is being drafted in Jersey City, but is not yet completed.

A bill came in during the morning which was quietly laid away last year, almost five feet eight inches in height, with ample girth, though not fat. His physique is good and his constitution is like iron. Those who attributes have a good head to do with making him what he is, namely, a hustler from away back, whether bent on business or pleasure. When a boy he was a hustler and faithfully, and when at play expends just the same amount of force, entering heartily into whatever form of sport he may be engaged in. He is all superintendent base ball. In the latter game he is greatly interested, having managed the team in his resident town for several different seasons. When not in use this is an amateur player, but increased years and avoirdupois have compelled him to relinquish active participation in the game.

Mr. Keller first became interested in trap shooting about eleven years ago, at the time of the old New York State shoot at Coney Island. He is the owner of two or more shooting sets in the field and at the trap, but has been more promi nently before the public for the last seven years as a trap shooter. Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out.

Mr. Keller has just closed a contract with the United States Cartridge company, at Lowell, Mass., whereby he will represent them on the road, visiting the trade throughout the entire country. With the respobsoting fraternity he has a large and wide acquaintance, by whom he is better known under the pseudonym of "Doc K-y".

Mr. Keller is thirty-five years of age, about five feet eight inches in height, with ample girth, though not fat. His physique is good and his constitution is like iron. Those who attributes have a good head to do with making him what he is, namely, a hustler from away back, whether bent on business or pleasure. When a boy he was a hustler and faithfully, and when at play expends just the same amount of force, entering heartily into whatever form of sport he may be engaged in. He is all superintendent base ball. In the latter game he is greatly interested, having managed the team in his resident town for several different seasons. When not in use this is an amateur player, but increased years and avoirdupois have compelled him to relinquish active participation in the game.

Mr. Keller first became interested in trap shooting about eleven years ago, at the time of the old New York State shoot at Coney Island. He is the owner of two or more shooting sets in the field and at the trap, but has been more promi nently before the public for the last seven years as a trap shooter. Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out.

Mr. Keller has just closed a contract with the United States Cartridge company, at Lowell, Mass., whereby he will represent them on the road, visiting the trade throughout the entire country. With the respobsoting fraternity he has a large and wide acquaintance, by whom he is better known under the pseudonym of "Doc K-y".

Mr. Keller is thirty-five years of age, about five feet eight inches in height, with ample girth, though not fat. His physique is good and his constitution is like iron. Those who attributes have a good head to do with making him what he is, namely, a hustler from away back, whether bent on business or pleasure. When a boy he was a hustler and faithfully, and when at play expends just the same amount of force, entering heartily into whatever form of sport he may be engaged in. He is all superintendent base ball. In the latter game he is greatly interested, having managed the team in his resident town for several different seasons. When not in use this is an amateur player, but increased years and avoirdupois have compelled him to relinquish active participation in the game.

Mr. Keller first became interested in trap shooting about eleven years ago, at the time of the old New York State shoot at Coney Island. He is the owner of two or more shooting sets in the field and at the trap, but has been more promi nently before the public for the last seven years as a trap shooter. Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out.

CHANGED HIS BASE.

Thomas Eastwood Keller, of whom this city in particular is proud, but whom the people of the vicinity, the Hon. Reginald Belknap of Perth Amboy, and hold in high regard, has just succeeded the ties that have bound him to his old love, Democracy, and accepted a position with a salary of something over $4,000 a year, in a more congenial and wider field. The Specimen's Journal, published in New York and Chicago, has this to say of it and him:

"Mr. Keller has just closed a contract with the United States Cartridge company, at Lowell, Mass., whereby he will represent them on the road, visiting the trade throughout the entire country. With the respobsoting fraternity he has a large and wide acquaintance, by whom he is better known under the pseudonym of "Doc K-y".

"Mr. Keller is thirty-five years of age, about five feet eight inches in height, with ample girth, though not fat. His physique is good and his constitution is like iron. Those who attributes have a good head to do with making him what he is, namely, a hustler from away back, whether bent on business or pleasure. When a boy he was a hustler and faithfully, and when at play expends just the same amount of force, entering heartily into whatever form of sport he may be engaged in. He is all superintendent base ball. In the latter game he is greatly interested, having managed the team in his resident town for several different seasons. When not in use this is an amateur player, but increased years and avoirdupois have compelled him to relinquish active participation in the game.

"Mr. Keller first became interested in trap shooting about eleven years ago, at the time of the old New York State shoot at Coney Island. He is the owner of two or more shooting sets in the field and at the trap, but has been more promi nently before the public for the last seven years as a trap shooter. Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out.

NEWS FROM THE VISITOR.

Thomas Eastwood Keller, of whom this city in particular is proud, but whom the people of the vicinity, the Hon. Reginald Belknap of Perth Amboy, and hold in high regard, has just succeeded the ties that have bound him to his old love, Democracy, and accepted a position with a salary of something over $4,000 a year, in a more congenial and wider field. The Specimen's Journal, published in New York and Chicago, has this to say of it and him:

"Mr. Keller has just closed a contract with the United States Cartridge company, at Lowell, Mass., whereby he will represent them on the road, visiting the trade throughout the entire country. With the respobsoting fraternity he has a large and wide acquaintance, by whom he is better known under the pseudonym of "Doc K-y".

"Mr. Keller is thirty-five years of age, about five feet eight inches in height, with ample girth, though not fat. His physique is good and his constitution is like iron. Those who attributes have a good head to do with making him what he is, namely, a hustler from away back, whether bent on business or pleasure. When a boy he was a hustler and faithfully, and when at play expends just the same amount of force, entering heartily into whatever form of sport he may be engaged in. He is all superintendent base ball. In the latter game he is greatly interested, having managed the team in his resident town for several different seasons. When not in use this is an amateur player, but increased years and avoirdupois have compelled him to relinquish active participation in the game.

"Mr. Keller first became interested in trap shooting about eleven years ago, at the time of the old New York State shoot at Coney Island. He is the owner of two or more shooting sets in the field and at the trap, but has been more promi nently before the public for the last seven years as a trap shooter. Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out.

HIS FRIENDS INCLUDED

Thomas Eastwood Keller, of whom this city in particular is proud, but whom the people of the vicinity, the Hon. Reginald Belknap of Perth Amboy, and hold in high regard, has just succeeded the ties that have bound him to his old love, Democracy, and accepted a position with a salary of something over $4,000 a year, in a more congenial and wider field. The Specimen's Journal, published in New York and Chicago, has this to say of it and him:

"Mr. Keller has just closed a contract with the United States Cartridge company, at Lowell, Mass., whereby he will represent them on the road, visiting the trade throughout the entire country. With the respobsoting fraternity he has a large and wide acquaintance, by whom he is better known under the pseudonym of "Doc K-y".

"Mr. Keller is thirty-five years of age, about five feet eight inches in height, with ample girth, though not fat. His physique is good and his constitution is like iron. Those who attributes have a good head to do with making him what he is, namely, a hustler from away back, whether bent on business or pleasure. When a boy he was a hustler and faithfully, and when at play expends just the same amount of force, entering heartily into whatever form of sport he may be engaged in. He is all superintendent base ball. In the latter game he is greatly interested, having managed the team in his resident town for several different seasons. When not in use this is an amateur player, but increased years and avoirdupois have compelled him to relinquish active participation in the game.

"Mr. Keller first became interested in trap shooting about eleven years ago, at the time of the old New York State shoot at Coney Island. He is the owner of two or more shooting sets in the field and at the trap, but has been more promi nently before the public for the last seven years as a trap shooter. Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out.

A HIGHLY CREDITABLE SHOWING.

Thomas Eastwood Keller, of whom this city in particular is proud, but whom the people of the vicinity, the Hon. Reginald Belknap of Perth Amboy, and hold in high regard, has just succeeded the ties that have bound him to his old love, Democracy, and accepted a position with a salary of something over $4,000 a year, in a more congenial and wider field. The Specimen's Journal, published in New York and Chicago, has this to say of it and him:

"Mr. Keller has just closed a contract with the United States Cartridge company, at Lowell, Mass., whereby he will represent them on the road, visiting the trade throughout the entire country. With the respobsoting fraternity he has a large and wide acquaintance, by whom he is better known under the pseudonym of "Doc K-y".

"Mr. Keller is thirty-five years of age, about five feet eight inches in height, with ample girth, though not fat. His physique is good and his constitution is like iron. Those who attributes have a good head to do with making him what he is, namely, a hustler from away back, whether bent on business or pleasure. When a boy he was a hustler and faithfully, and when at play expends just the same amount of force, entering heartily into whatever form of sport he may be engaged in. He is all superintendent base ball. In the latter game he is greatly interested, having managed the team in his resident town for several different seasons. When not in use this is an amateur player, but increased years and avoirdupois have compelled him to relinquish active participation in the game.

"Mr. Keller first became interested in trap shooting about eleven years ago, at the time of the old New York State shoot at Coney Island. He is the owner of two or more shooting sets in the field and at the trap, but has been more promi nently before the public for the last seven years as a trap shooter. Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out.

THE CENTRAL'S FLYING DUTCHMAN.

Thomas Eastwood Keller, of whom this city in particular is proud, but whom the people of the vicinity, the Hon. Reginald Belknap of Perth Amboy, and hold in high regard, has just succeeded the ties that have bound him to his old love, Democracy, and accepted a position with a salary of something over $4,000 a year, in a more congenial and wider field. The Specimen's Journal, published in New York and Chicago, has this to say of it and him:

"Mr. Keller has just closed a contract with the United States Cartridge company, at Lowell, Mass., whereby he will represent them on the road, visiting the trade throughout the entire country. With the respobsoting fraternity he has a large and wide acquaintance, by whom he is better known under the pseudonym of "Doc K-y".

"Mr. Keller is thirty-five years of age, about five feet eight inches in height, with ample girth, though not fat. His physique is good and his constitution is like iron. Those who attributes have a good head to do with making him what he is, namely, a hustler from away back, whether bent on business or pleasure. When a boy he was a hustler and faithfully, and when at play expends just the same amount of force, entering heartily into whatever form of sport he may be engaged in. He is all superintendent base ball. In the latter game he is greatly interested, having managed the team in his resident town for several different seasons. When not in use this is an amateur player, but increased years and avoirdupois have compelled him to relinquish active participation in the game.

"Mr. Keller first became interested in trap shooting about eleven years ago, at the time of the old New York State shoot at Coney Island. He is the owner of two or more shooting sets in the field and at the trap, but has been more promi nently before the public for the last seven years as a trap shooter. Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out. The experience he gained here has been at the service of several other clubs and associations of a like character since he has since managed. Among these was the New York State Sportsmen's association tournament, where he broke the record, and the Interstate Park Association, of which he has been one of the most active members. Here his natural self-confidence was at a premium and he made himself invaluable to the club by his ability to run a big shoot and throw a large number of targets in a given time. He is not always to be depended upon to do more than his share of the work, and a Middlesex boundary line shoot Ray should have been like Hamlet with Hamlet left out.

FOR COAST DEFENSE.

The Monterey Nearing Completion at San Francisco.

The Most Powerful Vessel of Its Kind Ever Constructed—The United States Wheels the Draft Fifteen Inches

The new double-turreted, twin-screw, armored coast defense vessel Monterey, now nearing completion in San Francisco, and is now fast nearing completion. She is named after the county in California in which the Union iron works, San Francisco, and is now fast nearing completion. She is the largest vessel ever built on the Pacific coast, and will be one of the most powerful and fastest locomotives in existence. To that end they placed an order with the Baldwin Locomotive Works of Philadelphia, which the Union iron works, San Francisco, built exactly after the Baldwin pattern. The superintendent of the Baldwin Works, is the sole patentee. He is the originator and designer of this unprecedented piece of mechanism. The Monterey is the locomotive is built of five-eighths steel. The driving wheels are 6 feet 6 inches in diameter. From the ground to the top of the cab is considerably over fourteen feet. The cab is filled with four-cylinder compound engines. The boiler is fifty-eight inches in diameter, and, when in use, is filled with water. In the boiler are two hundred and fifty flues, the fire-box is 11 feet by 3 feet 8 inches, and is filled with hard coal. The

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST ..... City Editor.

—Burglars last week stole a quantity of harness from James E. Martin's stable.

—Rev. Lucius Hotchkiss, the crack Crescent League 9 ball player, was in town Saturday night. The latter spent Sunday with friends here.

—There will be an indoor game of baseball at the rink, Friday evening at 9 o'clock, between the police club and a team from the Pond Tool works.

—The police have not yet arrested any of the alleged gamblers who were raided Saturday night. Some of the officers are said to have left town.

—Frank Muhlenberg Parkinson, postmaster son of the late Thomas Parkinson, was born a few days ago at the hospital, which is the first born west of him.

—If you drive straight out Park avenue on your way to New Brunswick, be careful after you leave the macadam road. There's a hole fifteen feet deep you may get into.

—The block wind Tuesday morning diamantled a frame dwelling house in course of construction on Netherwood avenue, tearing the timbers apart like so much pasteboard.

—The sheriff's sale of the City Hotel property, to settle the estate of the late "uncle Billy" Runyon, was today adjourned for four weeks, to Feb. 24, at the court-house at Elizabeth.

—What do the people think now of Jack Frost, who, if the city and county members of the grand jury that I dieten Tax Payne for telling truths about the Mill Pond saloon be found guilty.

—The Elizabeth team will play the first game in the Central New Jersey Basket Ball league, to which Plainfield belongs, on the Elizabethport grounds on Saturday, March 5, with the Somervilles.

—Some of the residents on Cresce t avenue, whose windows have been broken by the lad- who hold snowball fights in the street in front of their homes, think they ought to arrested and made an example of.

—The thermometer Tuesday morning registered 5 degrees above zero. This is for quite a number of the local season, but comes very near it, and the winds blowing makes it seem colder than it really is.

—Rabbi Seymour G. Smith's coachman was attending to an errand at the North Avenue railway station last Thursday, his team of horses ran away with the empty sleigh. They were caught safely near Mr. Smith' house.

—Mr. Hunter, of Jersey City, has purchased of A. D. Thompson, of Plainfield, the lot at the corner of Westfield and Sheridan avenues, and will soon begin the erection of a building for store purposes as soon as ground can be broken.

—Sam Fraze purchased some oysters of his neighbor, Lod Frazee, Saturday, and in opening one of them he discovered a substance in the bivalve that he thought worth at least $1,000. He guards it very jealously until he has the opinion of an expert.

—Warrants were issued by Justice Nash to arrest a number of men who are accused of congregating in Robert's stable and gambling and creating a disturbance Saturday night. The police tried to enter while the row was in progress, but were shut out.

—The trustees of Muhlenberg Hall say they are doing finely, and will meet the board of directors to put additional steam radiators in the hall. After a few days, therefore, there will be no further reason for re-opening when the weather turns unexpectedly cold.

—The flags were all flying from the public school buildings, Monday. It was the anniversary of the birth of the founder of Plainfield's schools—the late Orrie B. Stillman. The day was the first this year on which the old "dog days" as published in THE PRESS.

—James Smyth, manager for the John Hay estate at the corner of Liberty and Washington streets New York, Jan. 20 fell down the stairs at the Jersey City station of the Jersey Central railroad, and fractured a shoulder. The Dun-ellen Bowling club will therefore lose the services of the great American bowler this season.

—Garrett & Co., the leading crockery and glassware merchants of the county, have leased the store now occupied by Fairchild the furniture dealer. It gives better windows and more room inside for a display of the magnificent stock of high grade goods they carry. It contains also glass, lamps and gas fixtures and the thousands of dollars worth of everything else in their line that may be found at the lowest prices at Garrets.

L. L. A. No. 197.

The quarterly election of officers of Lincoln club, L. L. A., No. 197, took place Monday. The following officers were elected:

President—A. Lotzenzer.
Vice-president—H. A. Kline.
Secretary—R. S. LaBoyteaux.
Treasurer—J. Lotzenzer.

The president appointed A. R. Sampson and I. H. Read the standing committee.

All applications for membership should be made to J. R. LaBoyteaux, 33 East 8 ath street.

Ice Kay Vieser.

The sportsmen and spectators on the grounds of the Plainfield Independent Shooting club Tuesday saw some fine shooting. The wind and cold interfered so that the 100 bird about was made a 50 bird one, at inanimate bird-rocks. Ten Kay leaded C. Smith 41 and Alfred Kay 36. It was an interesting friendly match, with no stakes up. In a live-bird contest Ten Kay was victor, with Smith second, and Nief Aagor and Warren Rogers third.

Have Your Salary Insured.

A new form of insurance has just been offered by the American Insurance and Casualty company, of which John M. Crane of this city is superintendent. That company is now prepared to issue a policy insuring against loss of salary to employes arising from dismissal from employment, sickness, accident or death occasioned through no willful act or negligence on their part, and also against the arbitrary discharge of an employe without cause.

It is believed that there is a large field for this branch of insurance, and that it will prove very attractive to those employed by banks and other financial institutions, as well as to employes in wholesale establishments. It is not, however, the intention of the company at present, to extend this insurance to cover those who are employed as mechanics or engaged in performing manual labor, excepting engineers, firemen and conductors on steam railroads.

The insurance is designed to cover against the well-known and usual loss of situation over which no clerk has any control, among which may be mentioned the following: Fire on the premises, want of capital, discontinuance of business, transfer or retirement from business, depression of trade, reduction and rearrangement of staff, reduction of several departments, bankruptcy, failure or death of the employer. Personal accident, sickness, inestimability for one position although qualified to fill another, disagreement and other incidents of frequent occurrence in the financial world tending to cause loss to employes from causes over which they may have no control.

PERSONALIA.

Miss Dillie, of Trenton, is visiting Miss Millie of Duer street.

Miss Clara Fisher has returned from her long visit to Harrisburg.

The next meeting of the 8th Ross club will be held at the residence of Miss Stroud.

Frederick Koppel was the guest of Mrs. G. W. Edwards during his stay in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. William Manning, of Third street, are both recovering from severe attacks of the grip.

Mrs. Henry Rankin entertained the Ladies 9 of the Y. M. C. A. at luncheon, Saturday, at her home, 115 Broadway.

Mrs. and Mrs Bartman, of Albany, N. Y., are visiting Mrs. Bartman's mother, Mrs. Thomas Hooke of 39 East 6ixth street, this city.

A very pleasant reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. Isreal O. Pierson and Miss Pierson, at their home, 115 Broadway, Saturday, at her homeon examined eve.

Mr. and Mrs Bartman, of Albany, N. Y., are visiting Mrs. Bartman's mother, Mrs. Thomas Hooke of 39 East 6ixth street, this city.

A very pleasant reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. Isreal O. Pierson and Miss Pierson, at their home, 115 Broadway, Saturday, at her homeon examined eve.

Father O'Sullivan, formerly pastor of St. Joseph's church North Plainfield, was in town today. It was a surprise visit to his former parishioners to greet him on coming in.

Miss Sarah Sharp and William Henry Wilde were married at the home of the bride's father, John J. Sharp, West Sixth street, Thursday afternoon. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Charles B. Mansfield.

Albert Hetfield, brother of A. P. Hetfield of Maddis n avenue, the popular Central ticket agent, died at his home, 2,021 North Front street, Philadelphia, on Sunday Jan. 20. A young son survives him. He had in this city, twice a year, visited his parents.

Anna, wife of Frank B. Fine, died Friday at the age of 37. She was an active the Christian woman, and was very patient under tribulation and suffering. Funeral services were held from the Trinity Reformed church Monday afternoon at 2:30.

Henry Lapsley, a well-known Wall street trader for a few years ago, and brother of Howard Lapsley, the wealthy banker of Philadelphia and New York, died at his home, 20 Williams avenue, this city, early this morning. He leaves a wife and a young son.

The Rev. A. I. Marthe, pastor of the Dunellen Pre-byterian church, exchanged pulpits with the Rev. Cornelius Schenck Sunday morning. Mr. Marthe delivered a very able discourse from the text in the morning service. He is a scholarly and interesting preacher.

A. B. Cosner, of Newton, Sussex county, was the guest of the Rev. Mr. Martin, pastor of the M. E. church of Westfield, Sunday. Mr. Cosner is well known to church circles. He is also leader of the Newton band, and a fiver of music. He was a visitor in the old time days, and

Mr. and Mrs. John Doull Miller are spending several weeks with Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard, of East Front street. Before their visit from Mr. and Mrs. Miller are the recipients of many social attentions. On February 3 they expect to sail for Europe on the steamship Majestic.

Mr and Mrs Isaac W. Bonhamre will give a reception at their spacious home, 133 West 8-venth street, to a large number of invited guests, Thursday evening, Feb. 4, from 8 until 11. Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, ex Murray; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rushmore, ex Acker-man, will also receive on that occasion.

The entertainment in announced of Miss Florence Tilsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Tilsworth of Madison avenue, and Henry Hedrevich, son of the senior member of the wealthy firm of Hedrevich & Wadley, Soe-ists. The entertainment will be given at the Lyceum rooms-leased by many one of the finest in the vicinity of New York.

J. Hervey Deane and Captain Benjamin Deane returned from a visit to Goldsboro, N. C., on Wednesday last by the Clyde steamer "Cherokee", Captain Deane's old ship. The trip is mainly for the benefit of Mr. Deane's health, and in no her way can a desire for health or pleasure be accomplished at this time of the year than by a journey South by the Clyde line steamers.

Thur-day night, at their beautiful residence in Netherwood avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Voehl, jr., tendered a reception to their charming young friend, Miss Sarah E. Smith, of Peapack, Somerset county. The evening was delightfully spent in dancing, speaking and playing games. Last and long to be remembered was the manner in which the hostess proved her capability by spreading a bountiful repast. The guests departed well fed and well pleased, with many well wishes to the host and hostess.

Conductor William F. Rand, whom so many of Plainfield's commuters know and kindly remember, has been ill with the grip at his home, 343 Terry street, Easton. The attack has aggravated the heartache and he is laid up with it, and so the whole family are now down with the grip, he is discouraged and almost hopeless. THE PRESS and Dots says there are a number of "Billy's" old friends in this city who would join in doing something to bring brightness into his life again, although he is not a subject of charity. Mr. Rand contracted his illness in their service. Standing and walking in the jarring, sway'y cars day after day, and year after year, have brought on an affection of the kidneys.

The Mt. Olub and the Crescents to Open the Season.

The base-ball probabilities at this the local season will be opened with a game between the Crescent League team and the Mount Olive club. The latter club will be a strong one, though strictly amateur, and is already boosting dates with the amateur teams of Orange, Brooklyn, Bergen Point, Elizabeth and Westfield. An amateur league will be formed among Plainfield, Somerville, Westfield and Roselle in case the latter get good grounds. J. W. Wait has been re-elected captain of the Bicycle team and R. P. Murray and J. G. McLaughlin will be his managers.

Closed Out by the Constable.

By virtue of a chattel mortgage held by Jacob Bogert in the New York brewery, constable W. R. Mattox will auction off at the Elwood, Saturday morning at ten o'clock, all that is left of Joe Miller's saloon fixtures, now located in the levy is as follows: Ten barrels of liquors and wines, five thousand cigars, lot of tables and chairs, bar and back bar, lot of fixtures and glass ware, range and cooking utensils, linen, crockery and silverware, bowling alleys, pins and balls, pictures and bric-a-brac, 25 cases of wines and liquors.

The furniture in the rooms upstairs is advertised for sale by auction on the same day at the same place.

—A lady well-known in Plainfield had a lighted cigar thrown in the trimming of her bonnet while passing under a stairway on Twenty-third street, New York, and but for the presence of mind of the gentleman who was with her she would have been seriously burned.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

ELOPED WITH THE PLUMBER.

JOHN DARSH'S PRETTY DAUGHTER FLEES WITH HANDSOME HARRY.

How Sarah Jane Persuade Wanted Her to Wed a Wealthy Widower, but She Loved the Humble Son of the Presbyterian Choir, and Is Now His Bride.

From THE PRESS of Jan. 25.

John Darsh, hardware dealer, at Westfield, and Josephine, his wife, have a daughter named Sarah Jane, about a year ago a distant relative, a wealthy widower-terry, somewhat of the cowboy stripe, visited them. Mrs. Darsh was ambitious for her daughter to marry the westerner, and a match ago he made his set and visit to Westfield, with the avowed intention of marrying the girl. She had another notion in her head, however, and to all entreaties of mother and would-be lover, was deaf; the other holding as the basso who stood beside her in the Presbyterian church choir, Harry Nagle Taylor, a young plumber by trade.

It culminated last night in Miss Sarah's driving down to Cranford. Young Taylor went on the train. They met at the Presbyterian parsonage and were quickly married. A telegram to the mother told of a letter of explanation in the bureau drawer which would explain all.

The happy couple started away as fast as steam could carry them. The would-be groom was seen rushing wildly about the depot as the train pulled out, with a fierceness in his eye that forbodes terrible.

The groom is a hand-some, sturdy young fellow of twenty-one years. He will be giving him a glorious send-off for the plack displayed in his efforts to get the young lady. He is well connected, his father being a life member of the plumbing house of Rogers, Peet & Co., and his brother the manager of the New York branch of the Corbin Lock company.

A Rimelier shave in Plainfield.

After three weeks of poor houses, light receipts, and absolutely interesting liabilities, the Plainfield Opera House combination disbanded Tuesday at Fremont and the sheriff took charge of its property. The company has been in hard luck for about a month and the Nebraska circuit proved a Jonah. A part of the troupe is in Omaha almost penniless.

Borough Property Changes Hands.

The following real-estate tradders of property in North Plainfield were recently recorded in Somerville office:

Martin Kemp to John Taylor John... $1,000
Same E. Brokaw to John Taylor John... $1,000

The Mutual Life insurance company of New York to John Taylor Johnston, the Rockrock property on Belmont avenue, number four Brock avenue to Mona, main avenue... $10,000

A Good Cause—Dance by an Enjoyable Time.

The Ladies' Christian Work society of Trinity Reformed church, gave a tea at the home of Mrs. D. Sandler, 116 Grove street, Thursday. It was well attended but deserved the presence of every member of the church and congregation. Everyone had a most pleasant time, and a good sum of money was realized. There was a bountiful supply of supper.

The feature of the evening were the singing of Miss Staats of Elizabeth, and those of Mrs. Sandiker; instrumental music by Miss Sandiker, and singing by Fred S. Cuizet.

Next Move the Freight House.

The Jersey Central railroad company have decided to construct a freight station near the North avenue station in this city, and will hereafter use water from the Plainfield Water Supply company's mains. The company has purchased the property on New Road, for the purposes which have hitherto been supplied locally. It is earnestly hoped that the establishment of the new station will be a step towards the most desired removal of the freight-house.

The North avenue station, which is at present supplied from the pumping station, will hereafter be heated by a furnace in the passenger station cellar.

Bob Sander's Speech.

At the State road convention at Trenton, Thursday, Robert A. Meeker, of this city, spoke on the topic "Need of Legislation Looking to Permanent Road Building". He is a civil engineer, but said he did not come before the convention in that capacity; but as a road builder. He had been engaged in that capacity for two years past, and gave his experience. He said the dirt from the side of a road should be thrown out to the center, and the road bed dirt. It should be disposed of in deep holes or otherwise, and gravel or rock put in the centre of the road. But he did not have a good foundation or it will make it worse than at the beginning.

Resurrecting Henry Field on Sunday.

The court of chancery on Monday decided in North Plainfield in favor of some interest. The case was that of Louis Marrott vs. Patrick McCue. The action was for possession of property sold by Marrott to Sunday or round-the-corner purchase of McCue's farm in Warren township. On the 4th of November following Sunday pretty the parties met to execute the deed, but as they could not agree to the time the mortgage should run they decided to throw up the sponge. McCue promised to return the part-purchase money the following Saturday, but did not, and suit was begun to recover. Justice Crowley gave judgment against McCue, and an appeal was taken. The defense was that as the money was paid on Sunday it could not be recovered. The court held that though a Sunday contract could not be legal the money in this case could not inasmuch as to retrieve the money would be to enforce an illegal contract. The matter and of fact below was therefore affirmed. Jackson & Covington were counsel for Marrott, and W. A. Coddington appeared for McCue.

Miss Johnston Entertains.

The season assembly of the Thursday Evening club was held Thursday night at the winter home, 8 Fifth avenue, of Miss Fannie Taylor Johnston of this city, when one of the most attractive entertainments since the organization of the club was offered to its members. Miss Johnston's guests sat for the two large drawing rooms, in the second of which was erected a temporary stage, with footlights and full theatrical properties. The interesting programme consisted of selections from the French in the eighteenth century. First there were the peasant songs. "Cadet of Babet" and "Que dompis vous, ma Belle ?" Then came Mozart and Rossini. Fanny read scene selections from Molière's "Bourgeois Gentilhomme", in which the parts were taken by Miss Tilsie Noel, Miss Josephine Noel, Miss Castaing, M. Le Maleure, Henry Chauncey, jr., Alfred de Rougy, Pierre Mali, Henry Cammann, and Charles Mali. Professor Isaac de Gavotte by Corelli. Then "Berger et Bergeres", with Miss Weekes and Dr. J. Herbert Claiborne; then "Le Duo", with Lawrence Myers as the Chevalier and then a delightful "Menuet de la Cour", danced by Mr. Charles Wheeler and Alexander M. Holden, dressed in Louis XV costumes. At the close of the entertainment were worn of Louis XIV's time. Lander's orchestra furnished the music. About fifty members of the club were present.

The surest means to rid yourself of that distressing cough is to use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

"Mrs. Jones sits on the window all day and she is as fat as a pig." "Why don't she walk?" "She has only little feet and can't get her body about." "No wonder! they were fat-footed before she sat down."

COMEDY AT THE CASINO.

LEADING AMATEURS PRESENT THREE CHARMING PLAYS.

Local Talent Tries Electricity Thought to Compare with Metropolitan Stars—Notable Professional Achievements Combine to Form a Delightful, Social and Artistic Success.

From THE PRESS of Jan. 29.

SELDOM has a Plainfield audience been so favored with a dramatic performance as was that which thronged the Casino last evening to enjoy the amateur theatricals given under the auspices of the Park Club of North Plainfield. The affair was distinctively an artistic triumph, as well as a notable social success, and the large audience was generous with its congratulations, while to the individual players of the evening the audience showered tokens of deserving praise.

"A Game of Cards", a one-act comedietta from the French, was the first play presented. The Chevalier de Rochefrier was an impoverished nobleman who was dependent on the bounty of his friend M. Mercier, a retired dry-goods merchant. Mercier had a daughter, Rosa, who was betrothed to Anatole, son of the Chevalier, and the wedding day was fixed for the time when Anatole should receive his degree M. D. as a student of medicine. The happy day arrives, but the poor nobleman and the rich merchant have a fierce quarrel over their game of piquet, and the nobleman prepares with his son to leave the house in high indignation. Anatole and Rosa have an amusing little lit over their p-rents' quarrel, but speedily make up again, and Anatole tries his medicinal skill on the old man, and puts him to sleep with chloroform. While the Chevalier is slumbering Anatole has the room rearranged just as it was before the quarrel; and destroys all evidences of the preparations for departure. Mercier redistributes the cards and gives the game to the more beautiful hand, and when the nobleman awakens they persuade him that he fell asleep over the game and that the quarrel was all a dream. When the curtain goes down all is serene, and the young people's hearts are happy, for the notary who is to witness the marriage contract is due.

EVERT JANSEN WENDELL AS THE CHEVALIER

The dialogue and action abounded in humor, and the production was satisfactory in every respect. Evert Jansen Wendell made a superb Chevalier, and clearly carried off the honors of the evening. He gave a most finished and perfect impersonation.

Harry S. Bibke was seen to better advantage as Mercier than in his former appearance here as the villain in "Forbidden Fields", and shed-d with his fellow-players a full meed of applause. John Fr-derick Cook in the character of Anatole, was a lover, artful son, and clever young fellow generally. He could not be blamed for his devotion to Rosa, for Miss Alice G. Chandler, the part-ner of Mr. Cook, was very sweet and unaffectedly charming.

In the one-act comedy sketch entitled "My Lord in Livery" there was more depth of plot than in either of the other performances, and it was altogether a delightful production. The entire cast were members of the Park Club of North Plainfield. He is a civil engineer, but said he did not come before the convention in that capacity; but as a road builder. He had been engaged in that capacity for two years past, and gave his experience. He said the dirt from the side of a road should be thrown out to the center, and the road bed dirt. It should be disposed of in deep holes or otherwise, and gravel or rock put in the centre of the road. But he did not have a good foundation or it will make it worse than at the beginning.

Resurrecting Henry Field on Sunday.

The court of chancery on Monday decided in North Plainfield in favor of some interest. The case was that of Louis Marrott vs. Patrick McCue. The action was for possession of property sold by Marrott to Sunday or round-the-corner purchase of McCue's farm in Warren township. On the 4th of November following Sunday pretty the parties met to execute the deed, but as they could not agree to the time the mortgage should run they decided to throw up the sponge. McCue promised to return the part-purchase money the following Saturday, but did not, and suit was begun to recover. Justice Crowley gave judgment against McCue, and an appeal was taken. The defense was that as the money was paid on Sunday it could not be recovered. The court held that though a Sunday contract could not be legal the money in this case could not inasmuch as to retrieve the money would be to enforce an illegal contract. The matter and of fact below was therefore affirmed. Jackson & Covington were counsel for Marrott, and W. A. Coddington appeared for McCue.

Miss Johnston Entertains.

The season assembly of the Thursday Evening club was held Thursday night at the winter home, 8 Fifth avenue, of Miss Fannie Taylor Johnston of this city, when one of the most attractive entertainments since the organization of the club was offered to its members. Miss Johnston's guests sat for the two large drawing rooms, in the second of which was erected a temporary stage, with footlights and full theatrical properties. The interesting programme consisted of selections from the French in the eighteenth century. First there were the peasant songs. "Cadet of Babet" and "Que dompis vous, ma Belle ?" Then came Mozart and Rossini. Fanny read scene selections from Molière's "Bourgeois Gentilhomme", in which the parts were taken by Miss Tilsie Noel, Miss Josephine Noel, Miss Castaing, M. Le Maleure, Henry Chauncey, jr., Alfred de Rougy, Pierre Mali, Henry Cammann, and Charles Mali. Professor Isaac de Gavotte by Corelli. Then "Berger et Bergeres", with Miss Weekes and Dr. J. Herbert Claiborne; then "Le Duo", with Lawrence Myers as the Chevalier and then a delightful "Menuet de la Cour", danced by Mr. Charles Wheeler and Alexander M. Holden, dressed in Louis XV costumes. At the close of the entertainment were worn of Louis XIV's time. Lander's orchestra furnished the music. About fifty members of the club were present.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

THE STOCKHOLDERS CHEERED.

Directors of the Reading Railroad Hold the Meeting Next Year as a Result of President Robbins' Administration of That Great Property.

Corporation meetings are not usually demonstrative. On the contrary, as a rule, such gatherings are characterized by cold-blooded and business like methods. It must, therefore, have been distinctly gratifying to President McLeod, of the Reading railroad, at the annual meeting of that corporation the other day, the stockholders applaud the unexpectedly favorable report of the administration of their great property during the past year.

The results accomplished and the gains achieved in every department of the company's business during a year when other railroads have barely succeeded in holding their own, have scarcely a parallel in railway history, and constitute a most emphatic endorsement of the integrity and ability of the road's present management.

As compared with 1890, the business of the railroad itself for 1891 shows an increase in net earnings of $1,669,216 44, and an increase in gross earnings of $3,310,098 62, while the Coal and Iron company's operations exhibit an increase of $633,822 94 in net earnings, and a total gain over the previous year of $640,421 67. The gain in total gain, for the two companies, of $2,150,662 49.

The net amount net added as profits for 1891 is considerably more than double that of 1890. Out of this there will be paid the full interest, 5 per cent., on the first preference bonds and 4 per cent. on the second preferences. That the management did not strain a point to pay the full 5 per cent. on the latter securities is evidence that Mr. McLeod will not decend to questionable methods in order to make a good showing.

Many interesting facts are to be gleaned from the president's report. From it we learn that the Reading company is one of the greatest land owners in the Union, its vast estates, comprising coal, iron, ore and timber lands, aggregating upwards of 194,000 acres. The company owns at least 80 per cent. of all the anthracite coal mountain lands in Pennsylvania. The Reading is also a landlord on a very large scale, owning 2,764 dwelling houses, upon its lands, and for the most part occupied by miners and other employes.

To operate the mines there is employed a force 34,764 men and boys. It will surprise most people outside of the "region" to learn that of this number only 2,703 are foreign born. 2,000 mules and mules, 19 locomotives and 7,275 mine cars are in use underground to move the coal from the chambers to the foot of the shafts. Among the commodities

Successor to A. D. Thompson.

Riverside Stock Farm,

AT FINDERNE STATION,

On Central Railroad of New Jersey, will always have for sale a large assortment of Horses of all Kinds and for all Purposes. Also Mules and Fresh Cattle.

Everything warranted as represented or money refunded.

WM. C. SMITH, Superintendent.

BRANCH STABLES, No. 338 Palisade Ave., and Nos. 11 and 13 Ogden Ave., JERSEY CITY.

Have now on hand some fine Road Horses and Trotters, and closely Matched Teams. 2 12tf

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,

Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.

14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.

ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 49tf

Buy from the maker, then no time is lost,
And best returns are gained at lowest cost.

OUR AIM is to sell you Clothing that's both reliable and comfortable. There's a great difference between Clothing that covers you and Clothing that fits you. Now there's hedge of Clothing in the city waiting to be bought, but who knows its quality?

Some of it bought from the large manufacturers. Some of it from alleged bankrupt or auction sales. Some of it garnished with peculiar names as tailor-made and custom-trimmed.

Never mind how loud a trumpet it blows, ask what the quality is. Ask, "Do you make this Clothing you sell? If so, have you tested the strength or analyzed the quality?"

We can tell you all about our Clothing, because we make it. It needs no throwing in of trinkets, no cheap watches, guns, sleds, vases and kindred trumpery to raise its value. Its intrinsic worth—its goodness and excellence and fair price—is fully sufficient to commend it to your judgment. Our assortment this season is larger and more varied than ever.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad St NEWARK, N. J.

8 17 y

Lumber & Coal

LOOMIS & RICE

Telephone 75 A

B'dway. 49

Wanted Agents to Make Money

By selling three newly patented Household Specialties. Address

WESTFIELD MFG. CO.,
Broad, Cake and Elmora avenue companies and Bell Telephone Exchange, Elizabeth, N. J. Write for circulars and terms. Agents are making from $5 to $10 per day. Ladies can make as much as gentlemen. Call or address, 1 to 3 p. m., 11 Broad street, Elizabeth, N. J. 2 12tf

CHESHIRE'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Joseph Cheshire, complainant, and John C. Cheshire and others, defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Sheriff's office, in the county of Union, on Monday, the twenty-fourth day of February, A. D. 1892, at two o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, all the right, title and interest which the said defendants had on the 29th day of January, A. D. 1892, being the day when the said mortgage was duly recorded, in and to all those certain lots, tracts or parcels of land and premises situate, lying and being in the township of Elizabeth, in the county of Union, and state of New Jersey, and bounded and described as follows:

Dated January 27, 1892.

W. E. HICKS, Sheriff.
Fees—$5 00. 2 12tf

THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO ROUTE,
WEST AND SOUTH,
VIA WASHINGTON, D. C.

The F. F. V., Limited, a solid train of Vestibuled Pullman Palace Cars, leaves Jersey City, foot of Cortlandt street, daily at 12:10 noon, connecting at Washington with the Limited Express for Cincinnati, Louisville, every day at 3:40 p. m., arriving at Cincinnati at 8:30 next morning, Louisville at 9:00 next morning. Direct connections by annex cars for Lexington, Ky., and Shenandoah Valley points. Free chair Reading Parlor Cars on all day trains. Through Pullman Sleeping Cars to Richmond and Washington.

For tickets, Pullman accommodations, or information apply at 229 Broadway, or any Passenger Agent of the Company.

FRANK McGUIGAN, General Agent,
203 Broadway, Cor. Fulton St.,
1 7 y NEW YORK.

DEATHS.

FLYE—In this city, Jan. 27, 1892, Anna, wife of Frank E. Flye, in her 29th year.

Funeral at Dunellen, Jan. 29, 1892. James Lowrie, aged 69 years, 2 months.

MYERS—Suddenly, on Sunday morning, Jan. 24, 1892, in this city, Lavy, son Myers, in his 69th year.

A. M. BURTON & SON,
UNDERTAKERS, EMBALMERS
69 PARK AVENUE.
Telephone Call 37.
Residence 10 MADISON AVENUE.
Telephone Call 37.
Office of Riverside Cemetery.

WANTS, INFORMATION, &c.

TO LET—In the south side, 10 rooms and bath, all modern improvements, with stable. Apply to 1 7 tf

MUSIN IS COMING AGAIN, AND Annie, Louise Tanner,
Inez Parmster,
Emil Senger,
Roger Dupuy, and
Eduard Scharf.
Second Engagement, and
Farewell Concert
Before Their Departure From This Country.
At Music Hall, Saturday Ev'g, Feb. 6.
Reserved Seats, 50 and 75c.
For sale at Central Pharmacy, corner Front street and Park avenue, from 7 o'clock MONDAY MORNING, FEB 1, until all are sold.

"Seeing is Believing."

And a good lamp

must be simple; when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, Beautiful, Good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and unbreakable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.

Send for illustrated catalogue. The Rochester, 37 the handsomest lamp at the Paris Exposition, and the style you want, mailed to us for our new illustrated catalogue and we will send you a lamp subject to return your choice at once. 2,000 references from the Largest Lamp Stores in the World.

MANUFACTURED BY THE RUSHMORE LAMP CO., 42 Park Place, New York City.

"The Rochester."

BERNHARD MEYER,

Successor to A. D. Thompson.

Riverside Stock Farm,

AT FINDERNE STATION,

On Central Railroad of New Jersey, will always have for sale a large assortment of Horses of all Kinds and for all Purposes. Also Mules and Fresh Cattle.

Everything warranted as represented or money refunded.

WM. C. SMITH, Superintendent.

BRANCH STABLES, No. 338 Palisade Ave., and Nos. 11 and 13 Ogden Ave., JERSEY CITY.

Have now on hand some fine Road Horses and Trotters, and closely Matched Teams. 2 12tf

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,

Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.

14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.

ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 49tf

Buy from the maker, then no time is lost,
And best returns are gained at lowest cost.

OUR AIM is to sell you Clothing that's both reliable and comfortable. There's a great difference between Clothing that covers you and Clothing that fits you. Now there's hedge of Clothing in the city waiting to be bought, but who knows its quality?

Some of it bought from the large manufacturers. Some of it from alleged bankrupt or auction sales. Some of it garnished with peculiar names as tailor-made and custom-trimmed.

Never mind how loud a trumpet it blows, ask what the quality is. Ask, "Do you make this Clothing you sell? If so, have you tested the strength or analyzed the quality?"

We can tell you all about our Clothing, because we make it. It needs no throwing in of trinkets, no cheap watches, guns, sleds, vases and kindred trumpery to raise its value. Its intrinsic worth—its goodness and excellence and fair price—is fully sufficient to commend it to your judgment. Our assortment this season is larger and more varied than ever.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad St NEWARK, N. J.

8 17 y

Lumber & Coal

LOOMIS & RICE

Telephone 75 A

B'dway. 49

Wanted Agents to Make Money

By selling three newly patented Household Specialties. Address

WESTFIELD MFG. CO.,
Broad, Cake and Elmora avenue companies and Bell Telephone Exchange, Elizabeth, N. J. Write for circulars and terms. Agents are making from $5 to $10 per day. Ladies can make as much as gentlemen. Call or address, 1 to 3 p. m., 11 Broad street, Elizabeth, N. J. 2 12tf

CHESHIRE'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Joseph Cheshire, complainant, and John C. Cheshire and others, defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ to me directed, there will be exposed to public sale at the Sheriff's office, in the county of Union, on Monday, the twenty-fourth day of February, A. D. 1892, at two o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, all the right, title and interest which the said defendants had on the 29th day of January, A. D. 1892, being the day when the said mortgage was duly recorded, in and to all those certain lots, tracts or parcels of land and premises situate, lying and being in the township of Elizabeth, in the county of Union, and state of New Jersey, and bounded and described as follows:

Dated January 27, 1892.

W. E. HICKS, Sheriff.
Fees—$5 00. 2 12tf

THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO ROUTE,
WEST AND SOUTH,
VIA WASHINGTON, D. C.

The F. F. V., Limited, a solid train of Vestibuled Pullman Palace Cars, leaves Jersey City, foot of Cortlandt street, daily at 12:10 noon, connecting at Washington with the Limited Express for Cincinnati, Louisville, every day at 3:40 p. m., arriving at Cincinnati at 8:30 next morning, Louisville at 9:00 next morning. Direct connections by annex cars for Lexington, Ky., and Shenandoah Valley points. Free chair Reading Parlor Cars on all day trains. Through Pullman Sleeping Cars to Richmond and Washington.

For tickets, Pullman accommodations, or information apply at 229 Broadway, or any Passenger Agent of the Company.

FRANK McGUIGAN, General Agent,
203 Broadway, Cor. Fulton St.,
1 7 y NEW YORK.

DEATHS.

FLYE—In this city, Jan. 27, 1892, Anna, wife of Frank E. Flye, in her 29th year.

Funeral at Dunellen, Jan. 29, 1892. James Lowrie, aged 69 years, 2 months.

MYERS—Suddenly, on Sunday morning, Jan. 24, 1892, in this city, Lavy, son Myers, in his 69th year.

A. M. BURTON & SON,
UNDERTAKERS, EMBALMERS
69 PARK AVENUE.
Telephone Call 37.
Residence 10 MADISON AVENUE.
Telephone Call 37.
Office of Riverside Cemetery.

WANTS, INFORMATION, &c.

TO LET—In the south side, 10 rooms and bath, all modern improvements, with stable. Apply to 1 7 tf

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

OBITUARY.

Lawrence Myers.

The death of Lawrence Myers occurred at his home on East Front street Sunday morning at 6:30, after a lingering illness.

Lawrence Myers was born in Plattsburg, N. Y., April 25, 1833. His business engagements were chiefly in New York city, where he attained prominence first as a banker and afterwards in a responsible position of railroad management. In 1866 he established his home in Plainfield, where he resided ever since, except for a brief period of residence in Colorado, enforced by the illness of his late daughter.

The deceased was honored and influential among all the citizens of this place, and was a specially recognized authority in many for his business and long continued services in behalf of the Crescent Avenue church, of which he was a faithful member. The funeral will be held from the church the heavy task of raising a costly house of worship in what was then a sparsely settled neighborhood. By his wise counsels as member of the board of trustees, by most liberal contribution of his own means, and by singular address with those who were reluctant to aid others, he helped to carry, and at last to remove, that burden, which had seemed formidable enough to crush a growing enterprise.

He was most cordial and affectionate in his support of those who have successfully filled the office of pastor of that church. Their labors were lightened by an unfailing and thoughtful kindness on his part which greatly endeared him to them. It was never natural for him to give public expression to what was deepest in his heart, but those nearest him could discern a tenderness

GOOD WALT WHITMAN.

The Aged Poet Trembling on the Verge of the Grave.

His Abandonment of Ordinary Forms of Poetic Utterance and Creation of a New Meter—His Contributions to Literature.

With the new year the life of Walt Whitman, the beloved poet of the new era of literature, trembles upon the verge of the grave, and it is too evident that his "Last Words" given to the press a few months ago will be indeed the last message that the public will ever receive from him. He has traversed two more stormy years past the three score and ten span allotted to man's life, and upon his last birth anniversary, May 31, he expressed his weariness of age and physical suffering, and his longing to enter into that rest which have preceded him Lowell, Bryant, Longfellow, Emerson and the other friends and companions of his youth and early manhood.

Although his death, which cannot be far distant as he is suffering from a complication of diseases and a third shock of paralysis, will be deeply mourned by those who honor him personally and correctly understand his writings, the majority of his contemporaries will not comprehend that in him poetic literature loses a master singer, says the Chicago Graphic.

Like Longfellow in "Hiawatha," Whitman abandoned ordinary forms of poetic expression and created a new meter. His poems, however, bear no resemblance to any other in literature, and is a compromise between rythmical prose and blank verse, having a wonderful vigor and expressiveness and giving a clear idea of the images in the author's mind, unhampered by conventionality. Everywhere he was assailed by ridicule. Parodies of his productions were printed in newspapers upon both sides of the Atlantic, and even to-day there are many eminent critics who abuse Whitman's style and consider it rather a literary nonsense ity than the production of a great mind striving to give original thought, vim and expression.

WALT WHITMAN.

The dramatic quality of many of Whitman's shorter poems is remarkable, and his imagination that of a Dore. They are not written merely to please by the beauty they present to the mind or the music to the ear, but to excite the depths of human emotion, to inspire to noble thinking and living. It is for this reason that Whitman is the poet of man rather than nature. His themes are moral, social and political problems of the age, and upon them he speaks fearlessly, caring nothing for the mock modesty of the over-squeamish or the hatred and opposition of the fanatic.

His "Leaves of Grass" is the work which by his best appraisers, and with reason considered is the greatest work in our literature. It was condemned by the Massachusetts authorities on account of its plain speaking upon many subjects, and is comparatively little known in America, but in England is widely read and admired.

Walter Whitman was born May 31, 1819, in West Hills, L. I., and in his early manhood was engaged in the newspaper business in Huntington, L. I., and in New Orleans. He traveled extensively in the United States and Canada on foot, and recorded the impressions that he received in his various journeys. His brother was wounded on the battlefield of Fredericksburg, and him in camp in 1863, and remained as a volunteer army nurse until the close of the war. Overpowering fidelity to watching and privations that rendered him an invalid for the remainder of his life. His disposition is sweet and tastes simple, and few men have been so well revered by his personal friends and relatives. The most noted men of two hemispheres have visited him at his home in Camden, N. J., and he has aptly called "the Merlin of the modern Table Round of the literature."

A Lady Who Enjoys Voting.

Mrs. Helen M. Warren, wife of Senator Warren, of Wyoming, has voted for twenty years. She says that it is no more trouble to perform this duty at the polls than it would be to go to the theater or a church. She is authority, too, for the statement that the voting, where the Australian ballot system is used, the women make fewer mistakes than the men. Of course, they aspire to office, but are willing to elect men if they are good men. Husband and wife do not always vote the same time, but no serious disadvantages have arisen from it. Women have served on the jury in Wyoming, but not recently. They have had one woman justice of the peace and several county superintendents. At the recent Fourth of July celebration women had prominent places on the programme, one lady orator was widely quoted, and one or two companies of girl guards escorted the car of state in the procession.

Sunday Cannot Not Wallow.

A man in Kansas City, who dislikes too much company, has removed the elevated walk by which his front door was approached, and now go by way of a ladder at the back, drawing in the ladder after him. He has also posted signs up: "No callers wanted on the Sabbath. It is the Lord's day—a day of rest."

Something Turned Up.

Kind Lady—Why do you stand here so long, my poor man?

Tramp—I'm waitin' for something to to turn up.

Kind Lady—I'd like to help you, but I can't. Here, is five cents. All the chance I have.

Tramp—Thankee, mum.

Kind Lady—Do you think anything will turn up?

Tramp—Yes, indeed, mum. Foller me around the corner, mum, an' you'll see a beer glass turn up.—Good News.

How It Worked.

Watts—When we started housekeeping, my wife and I were not as rich as we might be. So, after consultation, we decided that it was better to economize in our apparel rather than at our table.

Potts—Good idea, that.

Watts—So? The result was that all of our friends dropped in often to dine with us—and dropped on the street.—Indianapolis Journal.

After the Quarrel.

Mrs. Coffin (to her husband, an undertaker)—Why do you pose so intently on me?

Mr. Coffin—I was thinking, my dear, Mrs. Coffin, what business we have you to think? Tell me instantly what you were thinking about me.

Mr. Coffin—I was thinking, my dear, how handsome you would look in one of those antique caskets I got in yesterday.—Jury.

Very Inconsiderate.

First Burglar—I guess this is the winnin'est prospect, Jim!

Second Burglar—Then take my advice and keep out. There ain't no fun, robbin' a woman, with so many tears and babies. It 'pears ter me that winnin' folks ain't got no regards for no one's family's best feelin' nerval.—Life.

Walked Into Line.

Washington—Say, Jedd, I thought you were again' it' makin' a speech at d' polesical meetin' last night.

Jefferson—So I was, Wash, but I didn' have de nerve ter rise an' speech without hab'n a drink or two, and when I hab dis nerbin' it, I couldn' talk.—Judge.

FAILING RAPIDLY.

The Last Days of the Author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

The gifted authoress of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is eighty years of age, and is said to be failing rapidly. A gentleman who recently visited her home in Hartford tells a New York Mail and Express reporter that she has failed very much of late and her mind is so clouded that she can talk connectedly only on one subject. She is not confined to her room and does not require a physician's care, but her friends are apprehensive that the end is not far off. A great many letters still come to her, but these she never sees. She is constantly under surveillance. Her last days are made as pleasant as wealth and kind friends can make them, but she seems to know nothing of what is going on about her, and, indeed, is almost, as helpless as a child.

HARRIET BEECHER STOWE.

Mrs. Stowe is not familiar with her literary work, but it is not generally known that her first venture in authorship was in the shape of an epitaph placed on a slab over the grave of a pet cat. It was written when she was eight years of age. It seems that poor Tom, of whom the child was very fond, had a fit and died so badly that his father shot it. There was a flood of tears, of course, and then came the cat's funeral. The next day the future great authoress wrote these lines:

Here lies poor kit,
Who had a fit
And would queer
Killed with a gun.
Her race is run,
And she lies here!

There is not much sentiment expressed, but the facts seem to be all engaged, for days after the funeral the child visited the grave and wept copiously at the untimely end of pussy.

Mrs. Stowe's books still sell well. And she will go down into history with the great distinction of having done as much as one more than any one single person to break the shackles and make millions of men and women free. She needs no other monument.

MICHIGAN'S BUILDING.

Home of the Wolverine State at the World's Columbian Exposition.

Michigan promises to set the pace for other states in the beauty of its state building. Chief Burnham has just approved the design of Pond & Pond, of Chicago, architects for the Michigan state board.

The sketch is a very artistic design in the classic style, but treated with the freedom the subject demands. The structure is 80x120 feet and two stories in height. A main porch leads to the grand entrance. The visitor passes through an arched vestibule. On one side of the vestibule is the office of the executive commissioner of the state board, on the other the checkroom and post office. Like all the state buildings, the interior is unoccupied by state boards, largely as a clubhouse for the reception and entertainment of visitors to the exposition from the state. With this in view the architects have arranged the lower floor for reception rooms, lavatories and other apartments for the comfort of visitors.

THE MICHIGAN BUILDING.

A Lot of Queer People.

William Harman, a resident of Titusville, Pa., committed suicide a few days ago from a melancholy conviction that he was his own grandfather. Here is the singular letter he left: "I married a widow that had a grown-up daughter. My father visited our home often, fell in love with my step-daughter and married her. So my father became my son-in-law and my stepdaughter my mother. Then she was my father's wife. Some time afterward my wife had a son; he was my father's brother-in-law and my uncle, for he was the brother of my step-daughter. My father was the step-grandfather—had also a son; he was, of course, my brother and in the meantime my stepdaughter had a son; he was, of course, my brother and in the meantime my wife had a son; he was my grandson of my daughter. My wife was my grandmother, because she was my mother's mother. I was my wife's husband and grandchild at the same time. And as the husband of a person's grandmother is his grandfather I was my own grandfather."

Safe from Vipers.

A physician who spent some time in the countries bordering on the gulf of Mexico found a curious use for dogs among the natives called Curadors de Culebra, or herders from vipers. Having been inoculated with the poison of the serpents they were proof against their venomous bites. The inoculation was made with a venom tooth of a viper and the bait of a rabbit carried around the herd upon which the dogs feasted. The preventive inoculation has been an old custom among the natives of that region.

THE DODGE DIDN'T WORK.

"Kind lady, will you please give me five cents to get a bed and lodging for my dying mother? I'd like her to see me before she dies."

"Poor man. You don't suppose I would do anything to prevent a woman from dying a peaceful death?"—Life.

Not Thirteen Did It.

Mr. Stiffkin (to Miss Dorothy, with whom he is deeply smitten and cannot find a way to propose)—I hate these weddings in which there are nine and twelve, so many guests and flowers and music and all that. When I'm married there'll be no one present but myself, the bride and the minister.

Miss Dorothy—Oh, I'm so sorry! I was hoping to get an invitation to your wedding. Such an odd friend as I should not be left out.

Mr. Stiffkin—When I'm married you will be there.—Judge.

One for the Doctor.

Skeptical Caller (to doctor, can you cure me of the belief that I have these warts on my hands?

Faith Doctor (suspecting them)—Not until I can cure myself of the belief that your hands need soap-suds more than any medical treatment you can suggest.—Harper's Young People.

HOW TO CURE FURS.

Valuable Hints Furnished by an Old Trapper.

How to Secure the Most Treasured, Least Tainted, Purest and Whitest Skins Possible With the Use of Chemicals.

First catch the animal, writes William Bell, in the Youth's Companion. Of the death blow the skin of it alone as possible unless the creature was drowned. In that case wait till the fur is dry.

Hold the animal up by the hind legs. Stretch the front apart and make a cut from each hind foot along the top or back of the leg to near and under the tail. Leave the tail uncut with the back of the skin.

Work the fingers under the skin around and over the back near the tail. Pull this part of the skin by placing a split stick on the tail, while the other hand holds the body.

After the tail fur is pulled off the inner stump, pull the skin off whole from the hind legs toward the head. Do not cut down the belly. On coming to the fore legs work around them with the fingers and pull them out of the skin.

Then work the skin off to the tip of the nose. Cut this off so it will hold on or over the end of the board, to keep the skin stretched properly.

At the beginning cut carefully around all the natural openings of the animal so to save all the fur and not tear the skin. Work off the hide with the fingers, using the knife as little as possible. Thus you will keep the skin white.

TO STRETCH THE SKIN: The best way is to use a board. Cut it a little longer than the stretched skin is from the tip of the nose to the tip of the hind leg. Make the board as wide as can well be pushed into the skin. The board should be not more than three-eighths of an inch thick in the middle, and tapered to a thin edge at each side.

Most of the small animals are contributed because of one-third forward of the fore legs. Make the board tapering slightly, narrowing from the third end to the fore legs. Then cut it in the shape of a tapering flatiron to the tip of the nose.

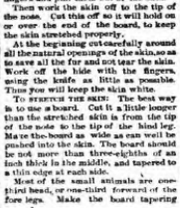

Fig. 1. Fig. 2. Fig. 3. Fig. 4

Pull the skin on the board for inside. Then take off all grease and flesh possible. Make two notches in the ends of wood as long as the board. Run one under the skin down the middle of the back and the other under the belly side. Thus the skin is raised from the board and stretched.

Catch the under lip on the end of the belly sword, so as to draw it well up to the nose. Pull the hind feet back a little and tack them to the lower edge of the board. Pull at the roots of the tail with one hand and at the same time rub the skin back each with the other, so as to stretch it without tearing. Tack it to the sword, and tack the edge of the belly side likewise.

To cure the skin: Hang the skin up by the nose in the shade. It should not be near a fire nor any other object. Fresh air should be all around it.

These directions carefully followed will give the best-textialized, least-tainted, dryest and whitest skin possible, of any given kind. No chemicals being used, the pelt will bring the highest market price.

These directions are for animals from the size of the beaver down, except as to other tails, which must be split open, otherwise they will be tainted on a board to prevent tainting. Fold the skin of the otter's fore legs under the chest and tie so that they will lie flat.

The illustrations show some forms of boards and swords commonly used. Fig. 1 is a good form for the skin of a muskrat or other short animal. Fig. 2 represents the "sword" or piece of wood which goes with it. Fig. 3 is the board needed for the skin of a mink or other animal of like size. Fig. 4 is the sword which must accompany it.

Fig. 5 is an end view or section of the board and sword, with the skin stretched upon them.

Is the Earth Hollow?

The orthodox lawmaker believes that the earth has an opening through it from pole to pole, by other words, that it is the exact counterpart of a gigantic ring doughnut. He also believes in waters which flow to the north are drawn thitherwards by a suction created by cyclones and tornadoes drawn through the hollow which they firmly believe exists. Their authority for this curious belief is one Cyrus Sauls, a semi-crazed work written early in the fourteenth century. If this statement needs any "backing" one has only to consult the writings of one Bjorn Liefson, a fisherman, who was driven northward by a fierce gale about the year 1001, in the only human being who has ever seen the spot where the waters of all oceans plunge downward and are no more. This small story has passed entirely through the earth and again appears, bubbling and boiling like a mammoth spring, at the south pole. Symmes, an American Arctic explorer, is said to have entertained a notion some what similar.

Results of Having a Rat-Trap.

A citizen of Troy, Ala., recently invested twenty-five cents in a rat-trap. Since then he has caught seventy-four rats, one calf and one old setting hen. Now the investment looks cheap for a trap—after for heavy damages, and the owner of the old setting hen has broken off all negotiations for peace between his daughter and the trap-setter.

Not That Kind of a Boy.

A Sunday-school teacher while examining a class in Genesis to a class of boys asked:

"Why did Ham laugh at his father, Noah?"

"Because Noah was drunk."

"You would not laugh at your father if he were to come home drunk, would you?"

"I never get much of a chance. He comes home so late that I'm always asleep."—Texas Siftings.

Worth Thinking Over.

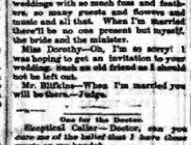
Young Mr. Garter—Is your sister in, Harry?

Little Harry Clasp—Yes. But she isn't going to receive any gentleman after ten, unless he comes in a dress suit.

"Why? What brought her to that decision?"

"I guess she must have found out that you didn't have one."—Clothier and Furnisher.

"THE GREEN-EYED MONSTER."



Indifference.

He sat in the cars so sadly,
With a sense of sad unrest,
His wife and baby in front of him,
His mother-in-law behind.

A Suggestion.

"What is the matter, dearest?"
"Nothing awful's happened, mamma."
"Well, what is it, sweetheart?"
"My doll's baby got away from me and bounced a ball down in the pantry."—Harper's Young People.

COLUMBUS MONUMENT.

A Work of Sculpture Now Standing in the Plaza de Colon, Madrid.

The design of a monument to Columbus has, by the request of Hamlet Hinchman, of Chicago, been drawn up by M. Godefroi the celebrated Parisian sculptor, and sent to the world's fair authorities in Chicago. The design, as the Chicago Graphic, provides for a quadrangular terrace at each angle of which is a lofty pier of the Doric order. The monument proper is approached by four long steps and consists of a pedestal with suitable medallions and inscriptions.

PROPOSED MONUMENT TO COLUMBUS.

Bas-reliefs illustrating the principal events in the life of the great navigator adorn the sides of the pedestal. These bas-reliefs commemorate the entertainment of Columbus and his men Diego in Spain upon that miserable that was fraught with such stupendous consequences to future ages; the interview of Columbus with Ferdinand and Isabella and the unfolding of his design to them and to the court; Columbus' return to Europe and the triumphal cortege that accompanied him to the court of the Spanish king.

The principal front of the base shows the prow of a vessel terminated by a figure holding in each hand a torch to light the discoverer upon his way, and above and back of the ship's prow is a group showing Columbus and his companions discovering the new land. The principal group, as well as the three statues in a prone which surmount it in the middle of the monument and serves as a pedestal for Columbus. This pedestal is crowned with an entablature ornamented by medillions and the real column rests on a slightly raised pedestal richly decorated with escarpus. This is canulle at least one-third of the way up, whence it is ornamented by emblems formed of anchors and crowns, intermingled with olive branches, and terminates with a top piece that supports four eagles, each holding in its claws an American shield, and bearing on their outspread wings a globe on which sits Genius holding a crown above the head of Columbus. Lastly, an American flag, held by two slaves, fronts the principal part of the monument and floats over the column.

The total height of the monument, not including the terrace—that is to say, reckoning from the base to the summit—will be 56 feet. All the architectural work will be executed in clear white marble and all the decorative parts will be in gilt bronze. The coat of arms shields enameled in their heraldic colors, the same as those now to regard the flag and the globe supported by the gilded eagles.

MAGIC AT HOME.

An Amazing Illustration of a Familiar Problem.

Our illustration supplies without the need of explanation the solution of the problem, how to balance a pencil on its point.

You have merely to tip the blade of a half open penknife into the pencil a little above the point, and to open or close the blade, little by little, till you find that the balance is obtained. The combination of pencil and penknife thus placing itself in equilibrium is an illustration of the principle that a body sustains the center of gravity of the combination falls below the point of support

"BALANCING A PENCIL ON ITS POINT."

(the finger, edge of lattice or the like), and thus stable equilibrium is obtained.

By varying the degrees of opening the penknife, you impart corresponding degrees of inclination to the pencil. When the center of gravity of the two combined falls in a line with the axis of the pencil, the pencil will rest at some a perpendicular position.

Various Measurements.

The foot is named from the length of that member in a full-grown man. It was a standard of measurement used by the ancient Egyptians. The cubit, Latin cubitus an elbow, is a Roman standard of length from the point of the elbow to the end of the middle finger. Fathom is from the old Aryan root, fat, to extend and denotes the distance from tip to tip when the arms of a man extended man are fully extended. The palm was a measure of length used by the Romans. Its length was almost 8½ inches.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

Work Performed by Women During the Eighteenth Century.

The scientific committee of the awards at the Guelph exhibition left many visitors under the impression that needlework, which is a specialty of women, was neglected by the ladies of the Georgian era.

Happily this imputation is clearly refuted by sweet Cowper, witty Dr. Johnson, and humorist Addison, who all agreed in their praises of the work so inspired were lit up by the astounding quantity of every kind of work executed by their acquaintances.

Who is not familiar, too, with the exquisite needle books and pincushions mothers, as well as with their quaint samplers and pictures embroidered in a fine style, which often frequently with the raised and complicated productions of the needle during the reign of the Stuarts? Specimens of all these are sufficiently come, as usual, from high quarters.

We read with no little amazement of the prodigious number of tapestry chairs worked by the Empress Sophia, mother of George I., and the needle of her nimble fingers to palaces, convents and churches all over the country, which did not prevent this gifted princess from inspiring five languages, besides being renowned as a clever painter and gardener as well as a profound philosopher.

Caroline, wife princess of Wales, 1720, interested herself in the silk-worms kept in the mulberry garden at Chelsea and was famous for the work she made. Queen Charlotte, fond herself of knitting, knotting and ribbon work, showed her special interest in the work by establishing a school for the daughters of clergymen and decayed tradesmen, where all needlework was taught as a profession.

The pupils worked for their patroness a magnificent counterpane in knitting, which was exhibited for a long time at a fashionable resort, and another for Lord Howard, in patchwork, ornamented with white and gold spots. It is also well known that the court of George III. affected lawn in fashion hours as not tolerated.

We are told that when at Windsor castle, every day during the evening concerts, the princesses, their visitors and the ladies in waiting sat in the passage, with needle, needlework knitting.—Queen.

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

SPEAKING CONNECTION WITH OFFICES AND RESIDENCES OF SUBSCRIBERS. [Illegible] CONNECTED. PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Central Office	No.	Avenue.
Subscribers' Name		Address
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1892. No. 5.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as to its authorities."—MADISON.

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & S. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON.
Counsellors-at-Law.
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public and Conveyancers. Office: corner of Park avenue and Second street. [1y]

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 143, Dunellen, N. J. Orders may be left in care of Cox & Cornelius' Stables, Plainfield. [6m]

DR. CHARLES H. TRIBLE,
Dentist,
In West Front street. A new local anesthetic applied painlessly for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—[y10]

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Dunellen, N. J., South Plainfield, N. J. Orders left at C. J. Cook's, Dunellen, and Adam's, 66 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—[y238]

OSCAR S. TRAUL,
Architect,
1 & 2 Broadway, New York. Rooms 19 and 20. (Manhattan and Traders' Bank Building.) Residence, Plainfield, N. J.—[y237]

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER,
Instruments out in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos sold, bought, for sale, and taken in exchange by postal, P. O. Box 156; or left at Wilson's White Store, No. 7 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence, 81 East 7 ost street, corner Elm street.—[y7tf]

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
Residence and Shop No. 26 East 3d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. [y29]

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—MADISON AVENUE, Price's Block, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
(Successor to R. B. Maynard.)
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 23 PARK AVENUE,
Opposite Post Office, Plainfield, N. J.
Shampooing and Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving. Shampooing, etc., satisfactorily performed. [17tf]

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Thawes mending to us. We lead Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

J. Hervey Doane,
6 PARK AVENUE.
[Formerly Clerk.]
Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and promptly done. 49tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established Market at
No. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grade of
Fresh and Salt Meats.
Full of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished at short notice.

Garret Q. Packer.
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a neatly first-class, workmanlike manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and none will be employed by me. I believe in doing my own business. I sell none, and do none.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 2 NORTH AVE., corner Somerset, N. J.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

FORCE'S HOTEL,
NORTH AVENUE, (NEAR N. B. R. STATION.)
JAS. H. FORCE, Prop'r.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL. Steam Heat. Free 'bus from Hotel to and from the cars.
Transient guests at reasonable rates. 10-25-tf

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.
JOHN W. MURRAY, President.
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, "
ELIAS B. POPE, Treasurer.

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMEST'C
—SEGARS!—
O. 28 PARK AVE., (NEXT DOOR BUT SECOND BELOW.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smokers' Materials,
Of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, without the poppers, for sale by the pound. 45tf

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
Ain't dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and Smokers' articles, has removed from 214 W. Front street, to 61 West Front st., one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally. 4 3m

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
4tf

L. B. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 38 NORTH AVENUE
ap26tf

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping. Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning.
Hardware.
A. H. GRIFFEN,
18 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL. 6. 11 11-tf

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables
Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Parties and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for hire.
RIDING OR LIVERY
Outfits, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.—[oct13y]
TELEPHONE CALL NO. 24.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
M.[y1tf]

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasoline Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 13 SOMERSET ST. 5-13-tf

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the choicest brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobacco always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
[y1tf]

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
S. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO.
NEWARK, N. J.
s-1-y

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN,
17 EastGrande Avenue,
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET.
Will reopen THUR SEPT 17, 1891.
The regular course will include Modeling, Drawing and Cooking. 7 11 tf

THE MAN OF FASHION.

In the Bachelor Apartments of New York's Rich Young Man.

A View at the Twenty-story Rooms—Fifty Thousand Dollars a Year Apartment—How to Choose—What to Buy.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

It is in New York the bachelor enjoys life to the utmost; New York, with its magnificently-arranged apartment and clubhouses, where every need of the single man may find its proper satisfaction. New York, with its choice of location, its vast variety for selection, seems to have reached almost perfection in the way of making a bachelor feel at home in this world. If you are a man of fashion, single, and want to live up to a big income you can do one of three things—live at the club, at your hotel or take a bachelor's suite of one of the apartment houses that are found in Fifth avenue, Broadway and some of the fashionable side streets. The best plan is the last-named, and you will find just what will please you in the big apartment-houses. Bachelor dining-rooms are out of style. In fact, in but two or three of the swell apartment houses in town will you find a dining-room for the bachelors, and in these cases it is invariably apart from the suites. What you want if you have taste is luxurious are five rooms—a bedchamber, a library, a drawing-room, a smoking-room and a bathroom. You will find about five swell apartment houses in New York that have arrangements for such suites. All the rest are divided up into three-room apartments—five with the bathroom—but all large and roomy, with plenty of light and air. If a suite you have booked has a satisfactory as far as space and arrangement are concerned, don't fail to investigate the two necessary adjuncts, the right kind of light and the right kind of ventilation. If possible have four windows in the suite, with south or east exposure. Like all rules this has its exceptions, and surroundings should always be taken into account. But proper ventilation is the very essence of needed repose and security. Don't forget to ask about it and to examine into it. With the modern appliances no swell apartment need be without a thorough system of ventilation. When you have settled these questions prepare to furnish your rooms. You can spend two hundred and fifty dollars or you can spend fifty thousand dollars. There are styles of both and all grades between these extremes in New York city.

JACK BLOODGOOD'S APARTMENT.

Lewis G. Tewksbury, the banker, has perhaps the most elegant bachelor suite in the city—perhaps the richest in the country. He lives in the "Wiltraham" on Wall and likes that the original his cozy rooms with the costliest bric-a-brac, the richest of rugs and with the finest collection of oil paintings. As you open the door leading into a little vestibule the first thing to catch the eye and welcome you with an air from Stradella or Aida. You are in a perfumed flower-scented atmosphere and entranced into the magnificently furnished reception room. A vast globe in the center of the room, through which electric lights, giving a somber hue seen to the Venus de Medici at the side, and a darker shade to the red Mephistopheles, whose hand reaches temptingly toward the white Martha. Damask curtains hang from the windows and between the rooms. An oil painting by Edward Gay over the mantle of the wall, and on the other side bronze armor, swords and piles of ancient pattern grace Mr. Tewksbury's accomplishment a very warlike aspect. The chairs are upholstered in velvet. Luxury is given a bounteous turn by the presence of a big divan and folding a groaning sideboard. Everything is there, and everything in that curious object you are enabled to help yourself to a glass of chianti, a good cigar or a cigarette, as you may feel inclined, all these good things having waited your performance in full view. The bed-chamber is royal in its magnificence. A black bear rug covers the floor. Its companion is a leopard almost to the wall. A spring is touched and, presto, here is the bed in which Mr. Tewksbury puts his weary head. His toilet outfit, brushes, etc., are all silver backed. Over the bed is the fetish, a crucifix, of course, before which repose the ribbons of all those and designs I can't attempt to describe, each independent on the humanelate shirt-front of Mr. Tewksbury. Four bath robes adorn one wall of his toilet room. His dressing-room is as completely furnished as the others. The walls are frescoed, and stationary and brioc-a-brac of all kinds adorn every nook of the chamber. Mr. Tewksbury's smoking-room is fashioned after the plan of the famous Acheen of Turkey. Divans are arranged about the room in sky-blue canopy satin; a soft light falls upon you and forms are tastefully arranged in the center, and the bronze figure of a woman holding aloft an incandescent light. From the ceiling hang weird shapes—a dragon, open-mouthed snakes, a lion's head with threatening mane, and what not that go to make up a good case of delirium tremens. These are the accessories which, including a score of paintings, Mr. Tewksbury has spent something like fifty thousand dollars. If you have that much to spend, or can send dollars to spend, take a look at what the young bachelor has done and you will get a charming perfection in the way of bachelor's apartments.

MR. TEWKSBURY'S SMOKING-ROOM.

Up in the Wall Street district, Pine avenue and Twenty-sixth street, where the old Berry Wall apartments are, you will find the bachelor apartments of Jack Bloodgood, son of the brewer, and he has furnished them elegantly, but without profusion. In Jack Bloodgood's apartments at the Alpine there is a little more profusion, but exquisite taste. The beautiful chiffonniere, a long pier glass, four rugs, five velvet covered chairs; a canopied couch hung in blue satin, three or four odd pieces, a center card-table, a massive carved oak sideboard, and you have a reception and drawing room for one, and that is limited for the comfort of its occupant. Ben Ali Hoggin occupies a double apartment at the Williaham. His six rooms are arranged without any great display of wealth, although the pictures which adorn the walls give one an insight into Mr. Hoggin's way of thinking. They are all erotique pictures, and the great animals he owns. In the Holland house there is a bachelor's floor. The suite elegant suite there is occupied by Messrs. Buckley and J. B. Campbell. Here the judgment of the hotel owners has allowed supremacy, and as a result a model bachelor's apartment is presented. There are two entrances to each suite, one at the bedchamber side and the other into the parlor. Two bedrooms and a library or smoking room complete the apartments. The bedroom is heavily frescoed and has a chiffonier, a pier glass, a couch, finely upholstered chairs, mocquette rugs and damask curtains, relieved with a bachelor's outfit of brush, comb, etc., makes the model room. The billiard room on this floor leads off from all the bachelor apartments. In this respect the Holland house owners have added a feature which is greatly lacking in most of fashion in the regular bachelor apartment houses. C. P. Diefendorf, whose house is directly in the rear of the Wiltraham, has solved one problem for the man of fashion. The billiard room is delightfully furnished at the Wiltraham, has solved one problem for the man of fashion. The billiard room is delightfully furnished at the Wiltraham, has solved one problem for the man of fashion. The massive bronze clock is flanked by bronze statuettes while the mirror in the background is rounded, reaching almost to the ceiling. The woodwork is finished in oak and ornamented with exquisite taste. On either side hang silken curtains. It is understood that John W. Mackey, is to have the model bachelor apartments of the city at the Belgravia, corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-ninth street. He has taken three rooms and they are to be modeled after a famous Paris design, of which the details have not yet been given out.

MR. TEWKSBURY'S BATHROOM.

ALBERT EDWARD TYRRELL.

A GOOD RULE.

THERE ARE TIMES WHEN ARGUING A CASE Doesn't Help It.

A rule for living happily with others is to avoid having stormy subjects of disputation. It mostly happens, when people live much together, that they have to have set topics avoided, and even everything is to be settled by sufficient reason. Dr. Johnson saw this clearly with regard to married people when he said: "Wretched would be the pair above all others, were they obliged to speak the thoughts that lay uppermost in their minds." The saying is applicable almost to the whole of life, though not always to the same degree. There are times when it is right to argue a point, and there are times when it is wrong. In all minor disputes it is best to let well together, they must not hold on to logic, and suppose that The Constitutional.

W. L. FORCE, A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chooses the city of Chicago as the place for holding the national Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation therein equal to double the number of its representation to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE, Chairman.
DENIS F. SHEEHAN, Secretary.

THE PRESIDENCY.

There is no more honorable and responsible public position than that of President of the United States.

It is honorable, because associated with the matchless name and fame of Washington, that grand example of patriotism, and responsible, for the reason that it distinctly represents popular sovereignty, the freedom and welfare of the people.

To preserve the office of President in its original purity and vigor, it must be filled by a citizen whose patriotic devotion to duty, executive ability and personal character are above reproach, in a word, one altogether worthy of being called upon to serve.

It has been well declared that the Presidency should neither be sought for nor declined.

Political history discloses the fact that many aspirants have from time to time, earnestly labored and artfully conspired to secure the coveted Presidential prize, and the same record bears witness that such self-seekers failed to reach the goal of their ambition.

Sound public sentiment was not with them.

That Presidential candidate to whom the honor has been tendered in recognition of his superior fitness, will have the strongest hold upon popular favor.

Independent judgment has become a mighty and honest electioneering factor in this country.

FREE WOOL.

The Wool Consumers Association of Massachusetts has presented a memorial to Congress in favor of the Democratic bill for free wool.

The memorial speaks thus:

"With free raw materials, the tax on imports of competing goods would be almost entirely for the protection of labor; and, as free raw materials would greatly increase the consumption of wool, it would be an increased demand for labor.

The readjustment of the tariff on the basis of free wool is perfectly simple; it needs but the removal of the duties on wool and corresponding reduction of the duties on goods which were put on to offset the cost of the wool duty. Here is a chance to every manufacturing of wool and to every consumer. It is absurd to say that nothing else is taken off of one article free trade must follow. Congress is not obliged to adopt free trade because it puts a taken off of wool, any more than it was when it made jute or tea or coffee or sugar free.

The growth of the wool manufacture has undoubtedly been great during the past thirty years in the country, with its vast natural resources and enormous immigration, increased yearly in population and wealth; but the growth of the manufacture would be much more generous and much greater if with free wool, and its growth and prosperity mean larger use of domestic wools and larger profits and ground for all competing goods.

If (wool) is produced in this country in inadequate quantities and not in the necessary varieties and qualities. Some indispensable grades can be produced in this country only under conditions unfavorable as compared with those of other countries. Take clothing wool, a quarter of a century have failed to produce any carpet wool in the country, and we have also failed to produce an adequate supply of the wools needed for the woollen knit goods industries. Carpet wool can be made free from it with a large reduction in cost of goods and with a very large increase of trade or of interference with sufficient protection, it is only reasonable that the changes enumerated in Schedule K, of the act of 1883, should be made for the benefit of the whole people."

That is the true doctrine.

To make manufacturing prosperous, labor recompensed, business interests enlivened, and needless taxation eliminated, GIVE US FREE RAW MATERIALS.

CANDIDATES.

Correspondents of the New York World are making nominations for Democratic Union County and Congressional candidates. The latest is this announced by the World:

"President—Charles W. Moore, (Dem.) of Elizabeth, is said to be a candidate for the County Clerkship of Union County and is generally regarded as the best office in the county.

"Alderman Jacob H. Sheppard, of Elizabeth, is also said to be a Democratic candidate for Surrogate, and Alderman John T. Boyd, of Elizabeth, announces himself as a candidate for the Congressional nomination in the Fourth District. Both counts upon being supported by the delegates from Elizabeth and Bayonne.

We wonder where Pudding-head comes in. The man has previously announced that "Farmer James" E. Martine is in the field for Congressional honors, and we learn that ex Councilman Walter L. Reid is in the race for Surrogate, and hopes to secure the consent of his Democratic constituents from this city to that end.

The Newark Journal truthfully says: "The off ox to enforce the fish and game laws should have the earnest support of public opinion. Unfortunately the ox is a large class that consider the laws an infringement on public rights, and a still larger class that think nothing about the law but sympathize with any individual who is prosecuted for taking fish or game out of season. It ought to be realized by the whole people that the fish and game laws are only the reasonable rules necessary to protect the animals named from extermination. It is to the advantage of everyone that there should be a good supply of fish and game. But the can not be secured if reckless slaughter is allowed to continue. If the meshes and seals are limited at all it is because it is not allowed to breed they will soon become extinct even in the regions where they are now most plentiful."

JUDGE WERTS.

Governor Abbott on Wednesday nominated and the Senate promptly confirmed Associate Justice George F. Werts as the successor of the late Manning Knapp, as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. Judge Werts immediately resigned his office as Senator, the appointment puts Mr. Werts out of the race for the Governorship, but the people of the State are to be congratulated upon the appointment of such an honest, upright and capable man to the judiciary.

Ex-President Grover Cleveland has arrived at his home from the Southern "quiet spot" trip to accept Mr. Tilden's judicial home near New Orleans.

Representative Arnold, of Missouri, on Monday last introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives asking for the recall of Minister Egan, from Santiago.

The great English preacher, Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon died Sunday night at his home in Mentone, England. His end was painless. He had been unconscious since morning and did not recognize those around him.

The United States Supreme Court has reversed the decision of the Nebraska Supreme Court, and decides Governor James E. Boyd is not elected and entitled to his seat as Governor of the State of Nebraska. Boyd was elected Governor in 1890, on the Democratic ticket, but was refused his seat by the then Republican Governor John M. Thayer, on the ground that he was not a citizen of the United States.

President Harrison could well have suppressed his message to Congress bearing upon the Chili question, and been content to lay before that body the official correspondence, which would have been more favorably received and made the necessary and ample apology for their little error of assuming a belligerent attitude toward "Uncle Sam." The President's course was not in accord with the sentiments of the American people.

Only five months to the time of holding the Republican and Democratic National Conventions, and the Democratic Convention meets at Minneapolis, June 7 and the Democratic Convention at Chicago, June 21. The indications are that the main issues between the two parties will be so squarely drawn that the important canvass may begin at once without waiting for the two Summer months to pass away which intervene between the time of making the nominations for President and Vice President and the election of the same.

State Treasurer Gray says, in relation to the State Sinking Fund investments: "It is my intention to rent all farm property at a fixed rental per annum, and reduce, as far as possible, expenses connected with the property until the end of the year."

With the practical business methods introduced in the administration of the State's finances by the present officials, there ought to be a revision effected in the methods of the State Sinking Fund, the operations of which have for some years been the amusement and despair of intelligent citizens.

The Trenton True American has recently been publishing some fine portraits of the members of our State Legislature, with complimentary biographical sketches. The publishing Union County, the True American says in its concluding remarks:

"Certainly the people of Union county have no reason to complain of the showing the delegation which represents them in the Legislature this year, for in both branches of the State Legislature, the county need yield the palm to no other of similar size. Besides having a full share of legislative ability, and the right kind of men

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—Ticket 2,921 won the $150 music box at Williams's pharmacy, Saturday night.

—Don't leave the selection of your seats for the Music concert until too late.

—The city is to purchase a new desk for 69 St. Marys, at an expense not to exceed $35.

—The topic of interest in musical circles just now is that Music is coming to Plainfield again.

—Mr. and Mrs. David Haad have conveyed to Samuel H. McQuoid, land on the east side of Berkley avenue, for $400.

—A promenade concert and dance will be given Tuesday evening, Feb. 9th, at 8, by Wetumpka commandery, Knights of Honor.

—Jeremiah Manning and wife have conveyed to Matthew H. Hughes, lot situated on Dunellen avenue, for a consideration of $1,400.

—One of the triplets born in this city last October died Thursday at the home of its parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bussem, 136 South Second street.

—The Immanuel Baptist church of which the Rev. F. W. Mitchell is pastor, is remodeling Cutler's building on West Front street to Hazelhurst's building on Somerset.

—The Chromothanatoletron is now under way, and will be given, Feb. 22, as it is some time during February. It will be an instructive as well as an interesting entertainment.

—The old claims of Tunis J. Carey and Patrick Lynch for police work they never did were taken from the table by the common council Monday and referred to the committee on claims.

—The regular February meeting of the Plainfield common council was filled with much routine business, and the session lasted from 8 till 11:30. All of the members were present.

—The Rev. A. P. Schauffler, D. D., of New York city, will address Sunday-school teachers and others interested in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, Monday evening, Feb. 15, at 8.

—Bids for crushed stone have been received by the city as follows: John G. Cook, $1 a ton; Sunday Brook, 90 cents a ton; Wm. Manning, 94 cents a ton. The contract for the year is yet to be awarded.

—It is a matter of general comment that Melanie P. Weaver made application to apply for a liquor license with such a record of illegal selling. He was fined another $100 by Judge Codington Monday.

—Scandanavians have still an opportunity to join the class in English branches that meets twice each week at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. A $4 membership entitles to this and other privileges of the Association.

—Fourth street from Broadway to Park avenue is to be macadamized. A crosswalk is to be laid across Sixth street at Madison avenue. Another crosswalk is to be laid across Park avenue at Fourth street.

—Ovide Music will sell from this country in a few weeks, together with his entire concert company. Consequently, the people of Plainfield have but another chance to hear him after Saturday evening next at Music Hall.

—The committee on committees on fire and water, Messrs. Brandt, Hall and Cox, put a new door on Alert hose house, a new boiler and heater in Gazelle engine house, and to make other similar improvements in place of the old boiler.

—The Westfield managers have signed pitcher Hamilton of last year's Crescents, to alternate with O'Neil in the box for the Westfield nine during the championship season. It is rumored that contrary to all reports, Ludbery will not play with the Westfields.

—The tax collector and city assessor are to move to the Crowell building on Park avenue, where they will have the use of safes to preserve their valuable city records from fire. Their books at present are utterly unprotected against loss.

—Senator Fred. C. Marsh has written to the Plainfield city clerk announcing his cheerful readiness to abide by the common council's wishes and watch out for the city's interests in the legislature for the winter's session of the State Legislature.

—Chicken thieves are again at work. One Plainfielder has recently lost 30 fowls. The guilty ones should take warning from the fate of the chicken thief who was recently sent to State Prison for one year. If they persist in hen-roost robbing they will meet a like fate.

—The selection of Andrew Vanderbeek for overseer of the poor is a wise choice. Whop Mr. Vanderbeek held the office some years ago he proved most satisfactorily his efficiency and his administration of poor fund affairs was so judicious that he saved $2,000 for the city.

—The city assessor advocates the renumbering of the city streets, as some of the lots will be near enough to be used for two or three houses built on them and a number of new streets and extensions of streets have been opened. The matter will receive municipal attention at our early date.

—Special officer Jacob Krimey, of Evans, was said last night on Monday afternoon that there were making themselves very obnoxious to the roosters at Evans. He captured two out of the three. One was a very ugly customer, but Mr. Krimey landed him safely in the lock-up.

—Edward A. Veemesie of 20 Dunellen street each year stores away his winter cabbages in the time honored hole in the ground. A day or two ago he found that fully one-half of this year's supply had been stolen. He suspects an Italian scavenger who was seen prowling about a few days before.

—Councilman Frazee and Weber endeavored Monday to have the street commissioner required to do the work of city surveyor, but the majority of the others was that Mr. Meeker would have his hands full with street work alone, and they did not believe a standing $2,500 worth of work on a $1,200 salary.

—There will be a shooting match at live birds on the grounds of the South Plainfield Gun club on Monday, Feb. 8, between Tom Brandreth of South Plainfield and Billy Perrine of Marlborough. Conditions: 25 birds a side for a purse of $100. Otsego interesting sweepstakes will take place during the day.

—For the benefit of the Plainfield Public Library, four lectures will be given, at the Casino, as follows: February 16—Prof. John M. Tyler, "Animal Intelligence." March 7—Prof. Henry R. Richardson, "Ole Bellegrau Bed; or, A Story of Old German Life." March 17—Prof. Russell Sturgis, "The Interior Architecture of Modern Residences." March 31—Bishop John H. Vincent, "A Talk About To-Morrow."

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

PERSONALIA.

Lawrence Neade, the young grandson of the late Lawrence Myers, is ill of scarlet fever.

Andrew D. Mellick, jr., of Broadway, is able to spend some time in New York city this season.

Miss Mary Hustbourne of Providence, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. F. B. Hustbourne of Westervelt avenue.

Mrs. Mary Struthers, mother of S. R. Struthers of this city, died in Jersey City, last Thursday, at the age of 76.

The engagement is announced of Stanton M. Smith, formerly of this city and now of Fanwood, to Miss Hattie Briggs of that place.

It is said that the wedding will soon take place of Dr. Frank S. Wells, of Central avenue, and Miss Draper of Dover, N. Y.

Lee Cornelius, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin L. Sutton, died on Tuesday, at the home of the afflicted parents on West Fourth street.

The Immanuel Baptist church of which the Rev. F. W. Mitchell is pastor, is remodeling Cutler's building on West Front street to Hazelhurst's building on Somerset.

—The Chromothanatoletron is now under way, and will be given, Feb. 22, as it is some time during February. It will be an instructive as well as an interesting entertainment.

—The old claims of Tunis J. Carey and Patrick Lynch for police work they never did were taken from the table by the common council Monday and referred to the committee on claims.

—The regular February meeting of the Plainfield common council was filled with much routine business, and the session lasted from 8 till 11:30. All of the members were present.

—The Rev. A. P. Schauffler, D. D., of New York city, will address Sunday-school teachers and others interested in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, Monday evening, Feb. 15, at 8.

—Bids for crushed stone have been received by the city as follows: John G. Cook, $1 a ton; Sunday Brook, 90 cents a ton; Wm. Manning, 94 cents a ton. The contract for the year is yet to be awarded.

—It is a matter of general comment that Melanie P. Weaver made application to apply for a liquor license with such a record of illegal selling. He was fined another $100 by Judge Codington Monday.

—Scandanavians have still an opportunity to join the class in English branches that meets twice each week at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. A $4 membership entitles to this and other privileges of the Association.

—Fourth street from Broadway to Park avenue is to be macadamized. A crosswalk is to be laid across Sixth street at Madison avenue. Another crosswalk is to be laid across Park avenue at Fourth street.

—Ovide Music will sell from this country in a few weeks, together with his entire concert company. Consequently, the people of Plainfield have but another chance to hear him after Saturday evening next at Music Hall.

—The committee on committees on fire and water, Messrs. Brandt, Hall and Cox, put a new door on Alert hose house, a new boiler and heater in Gazelle engine house, and to make other similar improvements in place of the old boiler.

—The Westfield managers have signed pitcher Hamilton of last year's Crescents, to alternate with O'Neil in the box for the Westfield nine during the championship season. It is rumored that contrary to all reports, Ludbery will not play with the Westfields.

—The tax collector and city assessor are to move to the Crowell building on Park avenue, where they will have the use of safes to preserve their valuable city records from fire. Their books at present are utterly unprotected against loss.

—Senator Fred. C. Marsh has written to the Plainfield city clerk announcing his cheerful readiness to abide by the common council's wishes and watch out for the city's interests in the legislature for the winter's session of the State Legislature.

—Chicken thieves are again at work. One Plainfielder has recently lost 30 fowls. The guilty ones should take warning from the fate of the chicken thief who was recently sent to State Prison for one year. If they persist in hen-roost robbing they will meet a like fate.

—The selection of Andrew Vanderbeek for overseer of the poor is a wise choice. Whop Mr. Vanderbeek held the office some years ago he proved most satisfactorily his efficiency and his administration of poor fund affairs was so judicious that he saved $2,000 for the city.

—The city assessor advocates the renumbering of the city streets, as some of the lots will be near enough to be used for two or three houses built on them and a number of new streets and extensions of streets have been opened. The matter will receive municipal attention at our early date.

—Special officer Jacob Krimey, of Evans, was said last night on Monday afternoon that there were making themselves very obnoxious to the roosters at Evans. He captured two out of the three. One was a very ugly customer, but Mr. Krimey landed him safely in the lock-up.

—Edward A. Veemesie of 20 Dunellen street each year stores away his winter cabbages in the time honored hole in the ground. A day or two ago he found that fully one-half of this year's supply had been stolen. He suspects an Italian scavenger who was seen prowling about a few days before.

—Councilmen Frazee and Weber endeavored Monday to have the street commissioner required to do the work of city surveyor, but the majority of the others was that Mr. Meeker would have his hands full with street work alone, and they did not believe a standing $2,500 worth of work on a $1,200 salary.

—There will be a shooting match at live birds on the grounds of the South Plainfield Gun club on Monday, Feb. 8, between Tom Brandreth of South Plainfield and Billy Perrine of Marlborough. Conditions: 25 birds a side for a purse of $100. Otsego interesting sweepstakes will take place during the day.

—For the benefit of the Plainfield Public Library, four lectures will be given, at the Casino, as follows: February 16—Prof. John M. Tyler, "Animal Intelligence." March 7—Prof. Henry R. Richardson, "Ole Bellegrau Bed; or, A Story of Old German Life." March 17—Prof. Russell Sturgis, "The Interior Architecture of Modern Residences." March 31—Bishop John H. Vincent, "A Talk About To-Morrow."

PASTOR DILTS RESIGNS.

HE WILL LEAVE HIS PRESENT CHARGE APRIL 1.

This Is the Outcome of the Dispute Over an Old Church Debt—He Takes the Stand as a Matter of Conscience and Duty—His Congregation Deeply Affected by His Determination.

The Rev. Dr. Asa Reed Dilts has decided to leave the pastorate of the Park Avenue Baptist church April 1. This determination was announced to his congregation Sunday at a meeting of the parishioners which he called at the close of the morning's service.

Although he had intimated three weeks before that unless the old church debt under dispute were settled in accordance with his views he could no longer conscientiously retain the pastorate, the resignation was a matter of great surprise to the congregation. They were actually dumbfounded by it, and as he read the brief note of resignation they hardly realized what he was saying. As the reality dawned on them many were the tokens of tears, and in all parts of the church evidences of deep emotion were visible. When he had concluded reading the letter he gave it to the deacons and said that was all he had to say. He declined to discuss the matter, and his congregation went soberly homeward.

Mr. Dilts has labored in the midst of the trouble over an old church debt. As was told exclusively in these columns Jan. 3, he took the stand that the practice "unworthy of a Christian church the payment of $800 had been avoided. His resignation is the result of the congregation's refusal to settle the matter in accordance with his ideas. His position is considered a manly and determined one, and one that his conscience and high standing in the Baptist honor compel him ever-thinly to take.

A pleasant evening was spent by a party of friends at the home of Henry Lee on Thursday, Jan. 28, when a programme included excellent vocal and instrumental music and refreshments.

The Rev. Edward Beindorf, formerly pastor of the First Lutheran church, and one of the editors of the Elizabeth Herald, has been deposed from the ministry. The cause has been already told in these columns.

The cause of the death of Leonie Martin, on Monday, at Saranac Lake, was heart failure following an attack of the grip. Funeral services will be held at her late home, 135 Park avenue, this afternoon at 2:30.

Miss Grace Lewis entertained a party of thirty friends Monday night at an "Author party". Each one was dressed in a costume, from which the others were to guess the character he represented. It was a very merry affair.

Matthew Hughes, formerly of this city, and brother of Michael Hughes of Middway avenue, died of old age in St. Michael's Hospital, this morning. Funeral services over his remains will be held from St. Mary's church, this city, Friday morning at 10.

Hugo Tall, formerly of this city, has been interesting himself in founding a library fund for Haverford college. An endowment of $10,000 due largely to him. This is considered the finest institution. Mr. Tall is now a resident of Santa Barbara, Cal.

Judson Overton, well known to a number of Plainfield people, is dead at his home, Patchogue, N. Y. The cause of his death was consumption. He leaves a wife who, when they were married, was the daughter of Dr. Daniel Denman, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Demarest of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. H. Pollice will sail for Europe in the spring, to be gone three months. They will go to Rome, the city which place they will make short trips about, so as to see and study the country thoroughly. A son and a daughter will accompany them to receive foreign education.

Senior Warden Charles P. Leggett of Jerusalem lodge, F. and A. M., was initiated by the Commanding Knights of Plainfield, Monday evening, Feb. 1, at 8:30. A reception will follow all the work of the bride's parents, 112 West Washington street, from 9 to 11.

—Commodore" Albert A. Wright, of this city, is quartered at the Magnolia, St. Augustine, Fla., for the season. The "Commodore" is an enthusiastic amateur yachtsman, and what he does not know about "fib-booms" and "spinnakers" is not worth thinking of. Some friends have been nicknamed "The Jersey yachtsman", and anyone who can "box the compass" in true nautical Style is sure of a hearty hand-shake from the "Commodore."

The Young Ladies' Missionary society of the First Baptist church gave an enjoyable tea at the home of Dr. Terbea last evening. Mrs. Terbea was assisted in receiving by her daughters, by Miss Edith Harold, Miss May Taylor, Miss Belle Butler, and by other members of the society. Miss Jessie Sarrell and Mrs. Walter McGee had charge of the refreshments, which were very daintily served.

Seated at tables with violet decorations, the members of the Alumni association of the University of the City of New York enjoyed their sixty-first annual dinner at the Hotel Brunswick, New York, Thursday night. Five hours were spent at the table. Among the guests were I. C. Pierson of Broadway, who was a classmate of the undersigned, and class of '62. Mr. Pierson's name appears on the "list of noted alumni" published in the university annual, The Violet, as also the name of Rev. Dr. Taylor Johnston, class of '20.

The very many admirers of William D. Craig have sincerely appreciated the opportunity, within the past few days, to congratulate him on a hard bearing of the good health and continued prosperity of himself and his brother George. His duties as an executive officer of the Middlesex and Mount Bethlehem have called him away from his ranch and his banking interests in Texas, and he will probably remain in Plainfield for a few months. His presence was the relief of Prosper Bonhamme, and they formed the complete Johnson.

A MUSIC TREAT.

Ovide Music and His Company to Appear at Music Hall—Saturday Evening.

The following programme has been selected for the second appearance of Ovide Music and his company, at Music Hall, Saturday evening, February 6.

The standing of this programme is in accordance with the suggestions of the management in this city. Mr. Music consenting to four solos besides the obligato solo for violin, and as many results as he may be favored with.

Mr. Dupuy will sing "The Palms" as only he can sing it. His appearance here before was his first in America, and he was not at home. He has since been one of the great successes of the company all over the United States.

Miss Parkister's solo will be Gordon Thomas's "Summer Night"; Mr. Senger will sing an air from "Magic Flute"; and Mr. Kinsel will play Raffinelli's Tarantelle. But the programme can speak for itself:

PROGRAMME.

Quartette from "Fidelio"..... Beethoven
Annie Louise Tanner-Music, Inez Parmater, Hugh Dupuy, Emil Senger.
Fantasie..... Bonini
Ovide Music.
A Summer Night..... Gordon Thomas
Inez Parmater.
"The Palms"..... Faure
Hugh Dupuy.
Brilliant Rondo..... F. David
Annie Louise Tanner-Music.
a. Berceuse..... Music
b. Mazurka (a Concert)
Ovide Music.
Air from "Magic Flute"..... Mozart
Emil Senger.
Tarantelle..... Rubinstein
Edward Kinsel.
Selection from Puritani, for soprano with viola obligato..... Herold
Annie Louise Tanner-Music and Ovide Music.
"Friendship"..... Marzials
Inez Parmater and Emil Senger.
Bravura variations on the Prayer of Rosini's "Mose"..... Paganini
(on 4 single strings)
Hugh Dupuy.
Quartette from Rigoletto..... Verdi
Annie Louise Tanner-Music, Inez Parmater, Hugh Dupuy, Emil Senger.

KEITHS 900, 450, NOR 225.

Interest League Members in a Quandary Over a Mathematical Computation.

The other afternoon a discussion was provoked in the Crescent League parlors by a member observing that in the individual bowling tournament now in progress the total number of games to be bowled by the 31 men entered would be 465. This was disputed, and estimates were made ranging from 225, the square of 15, to 900, the square of 30. Not one, however, could give a rule whereby his results could be speedily proved. Recourse was made to a prominent civil engineer, he being also a League member, who instantly recited a rule, compiled by himself, and now in general use by scientists, and, by reason of its brevity, of interest to all whom it devolves to arrange schedules of athletic games. It is as follows—

"From the number of entries deduct one. Multiply the remainder by one-half the number of entries. The result will be the total number of games." This rule holds good as to any number entered, or higher as to any number to play, but only where each man playing meets the others individually once. According to this rule the formula as to the matter under discussion would be (31 minus 1) multiplied by (31 divided by 2) equals 465.

Expositor has Low Franchise.

Ordinances were introduced into the common one of Monday night, adopted on first and second readings, and ordered engrossed and advertised, repealing the ordinances of last year by which J. C. Low and his associates were granted water-works and sewerage franchises.

A Lawyer Interprets the Scriptures.

J. H. VanWinkle gave a lecture on the Bible, under the auspices of the literary committee of the Trinity church Christian Endeavor society, Thursday night, in the church parlors. He is a fine Bible scholar, and his lecture, which gave evidence of careful research, was highly interesting and instructive. Preceding the lecture there was quartette singing by Miss Mills, Miss Gillen, Mr. Marsh and Mr. Moore, with Miss Allen Smith as accompanist. Miss Mills also read Yatman's sketch on "How to Mark Your Bibles".

Only Good Swimmers Can Go That Way.

Plainfield councilmen are considering the Liberty street bridge nuisance, they might also look into the matter of remedying the nuisance at the Washington street bridge. During rains the water covering the sidewalk under the bridge is knee-deep—and it's no fool depth at that. Under the circumstances it ought to be remedied, and the street made passable. People don't as a rule like to hall in the midst of a rainstorm and wade in water "up to their knees" before they can get home. Yet the only other alternative at the Washington street bridge is to wade or swim.

Out on the Fellow Who Jokes on Sacred Things.

He who is pestilent to perpetrate "Editorials", through the Courier, upon a long-suffering public, has scrawled some pretty bad things in weeks past, but it would seem that at last he has reached the limit of execrable abomination. When one gets so depraved that he can jest in old Testament God, and print his words as a smart and "cute" thing, he must be a hardened wretch, and it is time his "editorializing" was "nailed in". Courier readers think of a fellow who spun a blasphemous joke as that which describes a zambino den and tells how "some of the party held a hand that could make the Lord of the Almighty!" And why does the editor of the Courier permit such depraving stuff to enter the columns of his "clean family paper"?

The Wedding of Clarence Reeves.

As announced in THE PRESS two weeks ago, the marriage of Miss Drusilla Wentworth, daughter of the late John Wentworth of Chicago, to Clarence W. Bowes, brother Henry E. Bowes of this city, took place at the New England church, Chicago, at noon Thursday. The Rev. James G. Johnson, D. D., pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. W. W. Patton, president of the Chicago Theological seminary. The wedding was a social event, and the auditorium of the church was crowded with representatives of the best society.

Herbert W. Bowes, United States Consul at Sherbrooke, Canada, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Messrs. Lispenard Stewart, William E. D. Stokes, James Varnum of New York; Arthur Hatch, William Reid, Sidney Barhart, Franklin Bowes of Brooklyn; Henry H. Walker, Pierrepont Isham, and Edward Blatchford of Chicago.

The bride and groom took a train for the South. The bride is one of the richest women in Chicago, having inherited a fortune of several millions from her father.

George Tallmer, who has a French poultry farm at Union Village, knows how to raise fowls for profit. He has six hundred and fifty of the finest breeds, and is warmly located in cold weather, keeps the fowls free from disease, and feeds the hens on egg-producing food. The result is a handsome profit. He has a few settings of eggs for sale, and has a number of fowls, which he is ready to supply to Plainfield people, at their door, every Wednesday and Friday. His guarantee is that he is perfectly honest and square in every deal.

Happy dog owners in a house with "The Bachelor's Friend," a lamp with the light of the evening. Call on Hazelhurst & Co., 39 East Front, N. Y.

MABEL IS MARRIED NOW.

Miss Fannie Stevens Becomes the Bride of Mr. Frank Tate at Plainfield.

Yesterday Tate of Jan. 28.

To the friends of George B. Rockefellow, jr., son of the constable, it has been no secret, the past few days, that he intended to be married to Miss Mabel, the fair young daughter of Montravelle S. Knight of 5 Arlington avenue, George did not hesitate to tell all the details of the proposed nuptials, and as many results as he may be favored with.

Mr. Dupuy will sing "The Palms" as only he can sing it. His appearance here before was his first in America, and he was not at home. He has since been one of the great successes of the company all over the United States.

Miss Parkister's solo will be Gordon Thomas's "Summer Night"; Mr. Senger will sing an air from "Magic Flute"; and Mr. Kinsel will play Raffinelli's Tarantelle. But the programme can speak for itself:

PROGRAMME.

Quartette from "Fidelio"..... Beethoven
Annie Louise Tanner-Music, Inez Parmater, Hugh Dupuy, Emil Senger.
Fantasie..... Bonini
Ovide Music.
A Summer Night..... Gordon Thomas
Inez Parmater.
"The Palms"..... Faure
Hugh Dupuy.
Brilliant Rondo..... F. David
Annie Louise Tanner-Music.
a. Berceuse..... Music
b. Mazurka (a Concert)
Ovide Music.
Air from "Magic Flute"..... Mozart
Emil Senger.
Tarantelle..... Rubinstein
Edward Kinsel.
Selection from Puritani, for soprano with viola obligato..... Herold
Annie Louise Tanner-Music and Ovide Music.
"Friendship"..... Marzials
Inez Parmater and Emil Senger.
Bravura variations on the Prayer of Rosini's "Mose"..... Paganini
(on 4 single strings)
Hugh Dupuy.
Quartette from Rigoletto..... Verdi
Annie Louise Tanner-Music, Inez Parmater, Hugh Dupuy, Emil Senger.

KEITHS 900, 450, NOR 225.

Interest League Members in a Quandary Over a Mathematical Computation.

The other afternoon a discussion was provoked in the Crescent League parlors by a member observing that in the individual bowling tournament now in progress the total number of games to be bowled by the 31 men entered would be 465. This was disputed, and estimates were made ranging from 225, the square of 15, to 900, the square of 30. Not one, however, could give a rule whereby his results could be speedily proved. Recourse was made to a prominent civil engineer, he being also a League member, who instantly recited a rule, compiled by himself, and now in general use by scientists, and, by reason of its brevity, of interest to all whom it devolves to arrange schedules of athletic games. It is as follows—

"From the number of entries deduct one. Multiply the remainder by one-half the number of entries. The result will be the total number of games." This rule holds good as to any number entered, or higher as to any number to play, but only where each man playing meets the others individually once. According to this rule the formula as to the matter under discussion would be (31 minus 1) multiplied by (31 divided by 2) equals 465.

Expositor has Low Franchise.

Ordinances were introduced into the common one of Monday night, adopted on first and second readings, and ordered engrossed and advertised, repealing the ordinances of last year by which J. C. Low and his associates were granted water-works and sewerage franchises.

A Lawyer Interprets the Scriptures.

J. H. VanWinkle gave a lecture on the Bible, under the auspices of the literary committee of the Trinity church Christian Endeavor society, Thursday night, in the church parlors. He is a fine Bible scholar, and his lecture, which gave evidence of careful research, was highly interesting and instructive. Preceding the lecture there was quartette singing by Miss Mills, Miss Gillen, Mr. Marsh and Mr. Moore, with Miss Allen Smith as accompanist. Miss Mills also read Yatman's sketch on "How to Mark Your Bibles".

Only Good Swimmers Can Go That Way.

Plainfield councilmen are considering the Liberty street bridge nuisance, they might also look into the matter of remedying the nuisance at the Washington street bridge. During rains the water covering the sidewalk under the bridge is knee-deep—and it's no fool depth at that. Under the circumstances it ought to be remedied, and the street made passable. People don't as a rule like to hall in the midst of a rainstorm and wade in water "up to their knees" before they can get home. Yet the only other alternative at the Washington street bridge is to wade or swim.

Out on the Fellow Who Jokes on Sacred Things.

He who is pestilent to perpetrate "Editorials", through the Courier, upon a long-suffering public, has scrawled some pretty bad things in weeks past, but it would seem that at last he has reached the limit of execrable abomination. When one gets so depraved that he can jest in old Testament God, and print his words as a smart and "cute" thing, he must be a hardened wretch, and it is time his "editorializing" was "nailed in". Courier readers think of a fellow who spun a blasphemous joke as that which describes a zambino den and tells how "some of the party held a hand that could make the Lord of the Almighty!" And why does the editor of the Courier permit such depraving stuff to enter the columns of his "clean family paper"?

The Wedding of Clarence Reeves.

As announced in THE PRESS two weeks ago, the marriage of Miss Drusilla Wentworth, daughter of the late John Wentworth of Chicago, to Clarence W. Bowes, brother Henry E. Bowes of this city, took place at the New England church, Chicago, at noon Thursday. The Rev. James G. Johnson, D. D., pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. W. W. Patton, president of the Chicago Theological seminary. The wedding was a social event, and the auditorium of the church was crowded with representatives of the best society.

Herbert W. Bowes, United States Consul at Sherbrooke, Canada, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Messrs. Lispenard Stewart, William E. D. Stokes, James Varnum of New York; Arthur Hatch, William Reid, Sidney Barhart, Franklin Bowes of Brooklyn; Henry H. Walker, Pierrepont Isham, and Edward Blatchford of Chicago.

The bride and groom took a train for the South. The bride is one of the richest women in Chicago, having inherited a fortune of several millions from her father.

George Tallmer, who has a French poultry farm at Union Village, knows how to raise fowls for profit. He has six hundred and fifty of the finest breeds, and is warmly located in cold weather, keeps the fowls free from disease, and feeds the hens on egg-producing food. The result is a handsome profit. He has a few settings of eggs for sale, and has a number of fowls, which he is ready to supply to Plainfield people, at their door, every Wednesday and Friday. His guarantee is that he is perfectly honest and square in every deal.

Happy dog owners in a house with "The Bachelor's Friend," a lamp with the light of the evening. Call on Hazelhurst & Co., 39 East Front, N. Y.

GOOD-BYE, OLD GRIP!

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

ARMY ORDAINED.

The Rev. Mr. Warwick of Plainfield Left as Clerk of the Council and Preaches the Sermon.

At Montclair, Thursday, the Rev. F. G. Warwick, pastor of Mt. Olive Baptist church of this city, preached the ordination sermon upon the occasion of admitting William Perry into the work of the gospel ministry. A council was called for the purpose by the Union Baptist church of Montclair, whose members had already organized with a view to effecting the erection of a church for Mr. Perry. The Rev. A. G. Young of New Brunswick was chosen moderator and Bro Warwick, of this city, clerk. Both were experts, and doing the present from Westfield Cranford, Caldwell, Bloomfield, Orange, New Brunswick and Plainfield.

The candidate, William Perry, passed a most creditable examination, and the council expressed by unanimous resolutions their pleasure in finding him in accord with his views of Bible doctrine and his Christian experience. Complimentary remarks were made by Brethren Cole, Brown, Bedell and Young. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and understitable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.

Look for this stamp—The Rochesters. If the lamp dealer has it the genuine are for sale. If he has not, send to us for our new illustrated catalogue, showing the finest lamp factory in the world, and varieties from the 25-cent lamp safety by express—your choice of over 2,000 varieties. Sent free. Mention this paper.

MANCHESTER LAMP CO., 42 Park Place, New York City.

"The Rochester."

BERNHARD MEYER,

Successor to A. D. Thompson.

Riverside Stock Farm,

AT FINDERNE STATION,

On Central Railroad of New Jersey, will always have for sale a large assortment o

Horses of all Kinds and for all Purposes. Also Mules and Fresh Cattle.

EVERYTHING warranted as represented or money refunded.

WM. C. SMITH, Superintendent.

BRANCH STABLES, No. 338 Palisade Ave., and Nos. 11 and 13 Ogden Ave., JERSEY CITY.

Have now on hand some fine Road Horses and Trotters, and closely Matched Teams. 2 18 tf

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,

Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.

14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.

ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 4 9 tf

Buy from the maker, then no time is lost,
And best returns are gained at lowest cost.

OUR AIM is to sell you Clothing that's both reliable and comfortable. There's a great difference between Clothing that covers you and Clothing that fits you. Now there's heaps of Clothing in the city waiting to be bought, but who knows its quality?

Some of it bought from the large manufacturers. Some of it from alleged bankrupt or auction sales. Some of it garnished with peculiar names as tailor-made and custom-trimmed.

It can truthfully be said that by the departure of Mr. Greesmith the works have lost a valuable man, while the Portland company have gained a most efficient general manager. The workmen in the shops are unanimous in expressing regret at his departure, as he has been very considerate with the men always, and has always a kind word for all. May success attend him at his new post, and may his successor be as pleasant and affable.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad St NEWARK, N. J. 8 17 y

Lumber & Coal
LOOMIS & RICE
B'dway. 49 TELEPHONE 75

THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO ROUTE,
WEST AND SOUTH,
VIA WASHINGTON, D. C.

The F. F. V. Limited, a solid train of Vestibuled Pullman cars, leaves Jersey City at 3:30 P. M. daily. Reached by elevated railway direct to depot. Reached by elec trolley from Cortlandt street ferry. Only one change of cars between Jersey City and Cincinnati, Louisville, Chicago and St. Louis. Dining car service unsurpassed. Rates as low as by other lines. Connections and Double-ber street cars to Bush Terminal depot. Reached by electric cars from Brooklyn by transfer at Fulton ferry. Through tickets to Cincinnati, Louisville, Chicago and St. Louis. Time tables, Pullman accommodations, &c., on application to C. W. SMITH, Agent, Plainfield, N. J. Or address A. J. CASSATT, General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, Pa.

FRANK MCGARRELL, Passenger Agent, 229 Broadway, N. Y. 1 30 tf

MUSIN IS COMING AGAIN, AND Annie Louise Tanner,
Inez Parmater,
Emil Senger,
Roger Dupuy, and
Eduard Scharf.
Second Engagement, and
Farewell Concert
Before Their Departure From This Country.

At Music Hall, Saturday Ev'g, Feb. 6.

Reserved Seats, 50 and 75c.

For sale at Central Pharmacy, corner Front street and Park avenue, from 7 o'clock MONDAY MORNING, FEB 1, until all are sold

Strictly Fresh Eggs!
FROM THE
FRENCH POULTRY FARM,
UNION VILLAGE, N. J.

I am prepared to furnish strictly Fresh Eggs, from my own warren, at your door, every Tuesday and Friday. These eggs are gathered at my own ranch, WILD, GUARANTEE EVERY EGG I deliver to be not over 48 hours old. A trial of these eggs will convince you of their superiority.

Address GEO. TAILLEUR, Gillette, N. J. 1 13 y

"Seeing is Believing."

And a good lamp must be simple; when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, Beautiful, Good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and understitable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.

Look for this stamp—The Rochesters. If the lamp dealer has it the genuine are for sale. If he has not, send to us for our new illustrated catalogue, showing the finest lamp factory in the world, and varieties from the 25-cent lamp safety by express—your choice of over 2,000 varieties. Sent free. Mention this paper.

MANCHESTER LAMP CO., 42 Park Place, New York City.

"The Rochester."

BERNHARD MEYER,

Successor to A. D. Thompson.

Riverside Stock Farm,
AT FINDERNE STATION,

On Central Railroad of New Jersey, will always have for sale a large assortment o

Horses of all Kinds and for all Purposes. Also Mules and Fresh Cattle.

EVERYTHING warranted as represented or money refunded.

WM. C. SMITH, Superintendent.

BRANCH STABLES, No. 338 Palisade Ave., and Nos. 11 and 13 Ogden Ave., JERSEY CITY.

Have now on hand some fine Road Horses and Trotters, and closely Matched Teams. 2 18 tf

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,

Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.

14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.

ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 4 9 tf

Buy from the maker, then no time is lost,
And best returns are gained at lowest cost.

OUR AIM is to sell you Clothing that's both reliable and comfortable. There's a great difference between Clothing that covers you and Clothing that fits you. Now there's heaps of Clothing in the city waiting to be bought, but who knows its quality?

Some of it bought from the large manufacturers. Some of it from alleged bankrupt or auction sales. Some of it garnished with peculiar names as tailor-made and custom-trimmed.

It can truthfully be said that by the departure of Mr. Greesmith the works have lost a valuable man, while the Portland company have gained a most efficient general manager. The workmen in the shops are unanimous in expressing regret at his departure, as he has been very considerate with the men always, and has always a kind word for all. May success attend him at his new post, and may his successor be as pleasant and affable.

McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad St NEWARK, N. J. 8 17 y

Lumber & Coal
LOOMIS & RICE
B'dway. 49 TELEPHONE 75

THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO ROUTE,
WEST AND SOUTH,
VIA WASHINGTON, D. C.

The F. F. V. Limited, a solid train of Vestibuled Pullman cars, leaves Jersey City at 3:30 P. M. daily. Reached by elevated railway direct to depot. Reached by elec trolley from Cortlandt street ferry. Only one change of cars between Jersey City and Cincinnati, Louisville, Chicago and St. Louis. Dining car service unsurpassed. Rates as low as by other lines. Connections and Double-ber street cars to Bush Terminal depot. Reached by electric cars from Brooklyn by transfer at Fulton ferry. Through tickets to Cincinnati, Louisville, Chicago and St. Louis. Time tables, Pullman accommodations, &c., on application to C. W. SMITH, Agent, Plainfield, N. J. Or address A. J. CASSATT, General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, Pa.

FRANK MCGARRELL, Passenger Agent, 229 Broadway, N. Y. 1 30 tf

DEATHS.

MARTIN—At Saranac Lake, N. Y., on Monday, February 1, 1892, Leonie A., daughter of the late J. Mott Martin.

Funeral services will be held at her late residence, 135 Park avenue, this (Thursday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment at Evergreen cemetery.

BUTSON—In this city, Feb. 3, 1892, on Wednesday, February 3, 1892, Lizzie, daughter of Mrs. Mary and the late Peter Butson, aged 3 months and 17 days.

Funeral from the residence of her mother, 124 Somerset street, on Friday, at 2 P. M. Interment private.

A. M. RUNYON & SON,
UNDERTAKERS, EMBALMERS
98 PARK AVENUE.
Teleph

WASHINGTON'S SCHOOLS.

They Are Good, But Overcrowded in Every Department.

Board of Trustees Want Pay So Taxes in the District of Columbia Take Advantage of Its Creditable Educational Institutions—Is Franklin Park.

[Special Washington Letter.]

The annual report of the superintendent of the white schools of the District of Columbia, which is now in the hands of the district commissioners, is an exceptionally interesting public document.

The superintendent says that congress has provided liberally for the erection, extension and improvement of school buildings during the past few years, and that most of the schools are taught on full time. Nevertheless, it is a fact that a number of schools above the second grade have been restricted to half-day time because of the fact that there is not sufficient room in the school buildings to accommodate all of the pupils. He says that there are over forty-five thousand children attending these schools, while there is only room to accommodate about thirty-one thousand of them, so that in order that all may attend one-third are given only half-day time. That is to say that pupils of the third grade can occupy a room from nine o'clock until twelve, while pupils of the fourth or fifth grade occupy the same room from one o'clock until four in the afternoon. It is deplorable, indeed, that there should be an additional eighth-room building in each of the school districts of the city, and a number of schoolhouses are needed in the growing suburbs.

One thing that stands out most prominent in the report of the superintendent is the fact that so many non-residents of the district of Columbia claim and are accorded school privileges for their children. There are over four hundred children of the house and of the senate and fully six hundred employes of the capitol and the departments who are in no whatever in the District of Columbia, yet demand the privilege of sending their children to the public schools. It is impossible for the school authorities to distinguish between the children of residents of the city of the national capital, as we have no polling precincts, no voters, nor other means of ascertaining the facts in such points. Therefore it happens that any family residing in the city, whether temporarily or permanently, is entitled to have the right to send their children for instruction in the various grades of our public schools.

Quite a number of the children grow to young manhood and young womanhood under the tutelage of the district instructors and are fitted for admission to the high school. The superintendent calls attention to the fact that the present high school building is not large enough to accommodate the constantly increasing number of pupils advancing to that grade, and he recommends the establishment of other commodious high schools as very desirable adjuncts to the present educational machinery. The plant for constructing high schools will be found to be exceedingly expensive, and it is not at all likely that the present congress, either senate or house, will be inclined to deal liberally with any matters whatever, not even for the educational advancement of the rising generation.

There is a spirit of economy in the air of the national capital, and it is a cheese-paring spirit, a sort of save-at-the-spigot-and-waste-at-the-bung-hole economy. Therefore it is not likely that the recommendations for the establishment of coordinate high schools will be favorably considered by congress. It is shown by this same report that congress has heretofore insisted upon limitations to the salaries of teachers, so as to make it utterly impossible for the school authorities to command the number of experts required for a well-equipped high school. This may seem strange, but in view of the fact that the children of our statesmen are being educated in these schools.

It will be interesting, especially to my younger readers, to know the curriculum adopted in the high schools of the District of Columbia. The first year's work is: In the academic branch —English, history, algebra, Latin, lectures on physics and physiography.

BEARING THEIR LITERARY BURDENS.

Scientific—German, lectures on physiology and physical geography.

Business branch—same as above, with bookkeeping, business methods, lectures on physiography and physical geography by advanced instructors.

The significance of the schools during the past year has been exceptionally good because it has been uniformly regular. The attendance of colored children in almost every considerable city in the Union is better for the season or other, and from some motive, more occult than transparent, the superintendent says that it seems to be a necessity for a change in the kind of text books in common use. For this reason the standard books cannot be bought and the older children cannot transfer as precious legacies to their younger brothers and sisters the books which they have used and preserved most carefully. The annual expenditure for new books is one of the regular expenses which the head of a family must count upon. In some cities it is asserted that school boards are corruptly influenced by book publishers to make these changes, and that it would not be fair to even intimate such a thing concerning the immaculate officials who preside over the schools in the national capital.

In a majority of the towns, cities and counties of this country, since the new year dawned, the children have been going to and from their schools, either walking upon or wading through the snow; or rushing with flying feet through the bitter cold air which comes with biting strength from the far north land. In this city, however, where the climate is mollified and modified by the genial influences of the gulf stream, our children, young men and maidens traverse clean, smooth sidewalks and streets, some of them wearing neither overcoats nor overshoes, throughout most of the winters and balminess of the atmosphere.

SCENE IN FRANKLIN PARK.

One thing, however, is manifestly true, and it is so with every public schools are open and flourishing, the children have too many books to study to ever master any one of the contents of any of them. Little ones not more than ten or twelve years old are loaded down with their load of at least a dozen books but they will never bear these burdens upon their brains, for it is impossible for young or old to gain erudition by absorption. Doing as a task, and that done well, is an excellent motto which very few instructors ever learn. They push pupils through a curriculum and eventually give them certificates which inform the public that their possessors are educated, in nine cases out of ten, the high school graduates cannot correctly spell vernacular English. It would be better for the little ones to spend the first two years in their spelling books, with no other study whatever, than to push them through so many books that they do not know even the names of the authors of them. If two years were spent in the spelling book one year in grammar, another year in arithmetic, and another year in penmanship, with a review of other studies, better results would result.

In that manner, there would be laid a good, broad and deep foundation, and every little mind which is imbued with a natural desire for information even during half of the day would advance as much as it does now in the whole day. These are words of wisdom.

Down town, in the heart of the city, opposite Franklin park, stands the most desirable school in the city for children to attend. The grounds are large, the schoolrooms are large, the most beautiful park in the city is directly opposite, and during recess or at noon time there are more bright and happy faces to be seen in the vicinity of Franklin school than anywhere else in Washington.

On every other side of the park are the homes of distinguished people. Their children are among the thronging happy rompers who take possession of the place. There is nothing better for the health of children of the rich and well of man, especially in this aristocratic city, than to spend an occasional hour in the atmosphere of children of much or young maidenhood. Such an hour I spent this morning in Franklin park, where children and their knowledge in speculations concerning their present and future. Thereafter I examined the superintendent's report with a great deal of interest, and concluded to transmit these facts and thoughts to the reading friends of schools the country.

SMITH D. FRY.

Feminine Hazing.

There is no doubt of the wonderful progress making by the "higher education" of women. In very few matters are the college girls behind the college boys, and the present rate of progress they will soon be far ahead in many things until lately distinctly peculiar to the enlightened male sex. Such was the an exciting pillow rush last week, and how news comes from the Pacific coast of some highly interesting developments in the practice of hazing among the young lady students in a seminary near San Jose. Among other things the girls sophs tied a rope around the waist of a girl fresh and pulled her around playfully until she fainted, and she was afterwards quite ill. Investigation disclosed many similar evidences of advanced and exciting culture.

Fire'd from Home.

Along the Columbia river a kind of bread is made from a moss that grows on the pine trees. This moss is prepared by placing it in heaps, sprinkling it with water, and permitting it to ferment. Then it is made into balls as big as a man's head and these are baked in pits

THE NEW SECRETARY.

Stephen B. Elkins, Who Has Just Been Given the War Portfolio.

Stephen B. Elkins was born in Perry county, O., September 26, 1841. He removed to Missouri when very young. He graduated in Missouri university in 1860 and studied law. He served in 1860-3 as a captain in the Seventy-seventh Missouri infantry. After the latter year, went to New Mexico, where he was admitted to the bar in 1864. He also engaged in mining and stock-raising there and accumulated a fortune. He was a member of the territorial legislature in 1865-6, attorney general of the territory in 1868-9, and United States attorney in 1870-2. He was then elected a delegate to congress and served four terms, from 1873 to 1877.

Mr. Elkins was a member of the National republican committee from 1872 to 1884. He took an active part in the Chicago convention of 1880 that nominated James G. Blaine for the presidency.

S. B. ELKINS, SECRETARY OF WAR.

and earnestly supported him in the canvass. Since then Mr. Elkins has devoted all his energies to the development of his extensive coal, railroad and other interests in West Virginia, in which he has taken a deep interest. He spends a good portion of his time in New York, where he also has business interests. Mr. Elkins is the president of the West Virginia railway. He is a son-in-law of ex-Senator Henry G. Davis, who represented West Virginia in the senate for several years.

EVERYTHING HAS ITS USES.

"Say, chappie, old fel, how in the name of sense are we to get across this beastly muddy street?"

"I'll novah say anything against ladies wearing trailing skirts again, my dear boy."—Life.

Off to Midwinter.

It was about 1230 a. m. Mr. Rampo came stumbling into the sitting-room where Mrs. Rampo, looking stern, forbidding and unconquerable, was awaiting him. His left eye was frescoed in black and blue, his right cheek was scratched and swollen, and a large and imposing knob, some of his hair was missing, one coat of his collar, usually clung to by fasteners, stuck out appealingly over his shoulder, and he had the general aspect of a man who had gone through a corn-sheller.

"Absalom," exclaimed Mrs. Rampo in a voice that would have stung up a fight, "Absalom shook his head.

"No, Xanthy," he said, with the slow deliberation emphasis of one who knew what he was talking about, "I don't want to it, or dare. I'm done with that."

"Then what in the name of sense have you been doing?" she demanded.

"Nothin' 'tall," he said, "only I've been attending a funeral."

"Absalom Rampo, you've been fighting!"

"No, Xanthy," he said, with the slow deliberation emphasis of one who knew what he was talking about, "I don't want to it, or dare. I'm done with that."

Paler (sternly)—Now, children, I don't want you to get sick any more until the last day of school is passed with the doctor.—Judge.

sight, leaving their largest and most elastic hosiery suspended from nails around the fireplace. Before seeking to relieve the monotony of filling the hosiery aforesaid with the indigestible and hard-shelled reproductive inconsequences of trees indigenous to the equatorial regions, together with various odd fish, birds and other zoological monstrosities constructed from candy by gifted foreign confectioners, his upon an original method of conducting the proceedings.

He conceived the happy idea of dressing himself to personate Santa Claus and then coming down the chimney and filling the stockings, while the children, under the supervision of their maternal parent, viewed the ceremony through the half-open door, and were into believing that they were witnessing a genuine visit from old St. Nick himself.

Accordingly, he let his wife into the secret, and betook himself to the house-top with a two bushel bag filled with the wonderful productions of fairyland.

The first intimation the breathless watchers below had that Santa Claus was about to make his appearance was the sudden descent of a toy horse with flowing mane and waving tail, both three of its legs in a sadly dilapidated condition, and with its back irretrievably broken by reason of having defied the laws of gravity in effecting its debut.

It was followed by a cow that might, at some time in the remote past, have had a "crumpled horn," but which had probably been left behind in a fit of absent-mindedness, together with that portion of the animal's body aft the shoulder-blades.

Then came a perfect avalanche of small animals, such as sheep, pigs, bears, cats and other representatives of domestic zoology; and, as though nature had had a fit, a couple of cows, a comfort, miniature barns, cowsheds, pigpens and other outbuildings came tumbling after them in great confusion, together with vast quantities of provisions in the shape of candy pumpkins, corn, popcorn balls etc., etc.

Then there was a sound like unto the blowing off of steam from a locomotive and a sort of cross between a yell and a screech—with a terrific scratching and clawing, during the progress of which immense quantities of soot rolled forth from the fire-place and spread out over the hearthstone carpet.

THE COOK TREE TURNED ON THE HOSE.

Suddenly a pair of very fat legs appeared in the opening, the body of the owner being entirely out of sight, the feet belonging thereto switching about in all directions with marvelous energy. The remaining energy displayed by the legs were drawn up so far that several inches of soot-begrimed cuticle flashed before the eyes of the astonished children.

Santa Claus appeared to have stuck fast in the throat of the chimney, and, despite his admirable manipulation of his lower extremities, could advance no further.

"O Lord! I'm chokin'! Somebody help me, quick! Why, Xan's yere Ah, Lord! I'm strangled!" shrieked the unfortunate man.

The natural noise brought the cook from the kitchen. She knew nothing of the St. Nicholas programme, and seeing the half made legs of the improper dangling from the chimney, supposed they belonged to a burglar and called in the dog. He immediately took the rapidly-oscillating pedal extremities for some hybrid nocturnal monster of the tropical wilds, for he seized the calf of one of the legs with his teeth and added his suppressed growls to the unintelligible cries of the imprisoned master.

The cook then turned on the hose, and yelling "fire!" at the top of her voice, drove the entire whole place a drenching with cold water.

By the time Rumpas' wife had succeeded in inducing the cook to refrain from her target practice the room was in a very moist and melancholy condition, and when Rumpas finally effected, they drew the bedraggled and half suffocated man from the chimney family from the fireplace, he was a sight to inspire pity in the heart of a mummy.

His wife says that she does not anticipate a repetition of the experiment another Christmas, but rather inclines to the belief that Mr. Rumpas will dispense his holiday gifts in the old-fashioned way, which he seems to think is good enough after all.—Col. Max Seadder.

A Cat Colloquy.

Mouser—Say, Miss Malkie, you are playing a little too rough! You yanked out a bit of my coat that time.

Malkie—I'm sorry. I didn't intended it for a joke.

Mouser—Yes; but it was rather for fetched.—Yonkers Gazette.

A Reasonable Explanation.

"I don't understand," said the east side tragedian, "why the Jews never attend my performances."

"They never did," retorted the man who was just waiting for a car on the line bench, "have much use for ham."—Brooklyn Life.

What Of?

In Germany doctors are very poorly paid. At a teachers' festival somebody proposed the toast: "Long live our school doctor!"

"What on?" asked a cadaverous-looking specimen, rising in his seat.—Texas Siftings.

The Point of View.

"What a world of change this is!" sighed Mr. Billus, looking over an old newspaper.

"And how little I get hold of!" sighed Mrs. Billus, looking over her old gown.—Chicago Tribune.

The St. Louis Girl.

"What would you do if you were in my shoes?" asked the perplexed Chicago girl of her St. Louis friend.

"Change them for a smaller pair," was the consoling reply.—Detroit Free Press.

No Time for Detail.

The Priest—This man is so ignorant he can hardly distinguish right from wrong to him unless he is in his natural state.

The Bridegroom-Faith, this, you'll have to bear with, for sometimes he's in that mixed.—Life.

The Old Is.

Bridget—I don't see how you manage to get along with the wife of yours.

Hiesperus—I don't manage. She does.—Detroit Free Press.

Heard Her Father Say.

Paler (sternly)—Now, children, I don't want you to get sick any more until the last day of school is passed with the doctor.—Judge.

ARCHBISHOP KENRICK.

rick Kenrick. It will be remembered, held the see of Philadelphia until 1851, when he was made archbishop of Baltimore, where he died in 1863. Father Kenrick on resigning Philadelphia was given a professor's chair in the diocesan seminary at Overbrook. Besides this duty he edited parochial and other works the Catholic Herald, a paper no longer in existence.

In 1858 he became pastor of the cathedral parish and president of the seminary, holding the chair of dogmatic theology. In 1887 he was made vicar general and was accredited by Bishop Bruie as theologian to the third provincial council of Baltimore. In 1844 Bishop Rosati, of St. Louis, asked for a coadjutor, and Father Kenrick was chosen by Rome for the office. He was consecrated bishop of Drasa in Philadelphia by Bishop Rosati November 30, 1841, the event recently commemorated. Two years later Bishop Rosati died and he succeeded to the see of St. Louis. In 1847 St. Louis was made a metropolitan see and Bishop Kenrick was raised to the archiepiscopacy.

The St. Louis diocese is one of the largest west of New York. Bishop Kenrick has under him nine suffragan bishops, 800 priests, 300 churches and a Roman Catholic population of about 200,000. For the first twenty-five years of his episcopate, he was without a coadjutor. In 1879 Rt. Rev. F. J. Ryan, now archbishop of Philadelphia, was appointed bishop of Tricomia and assigned to St. Louis. He remained until 1884 and since that time Archbishop Kenrick has maintained his high office alone. A coadjutor was appointed at the recent jubilee.

LORD MAYOR EVANS.

THE NEW LORD MAYOR.

He Is a Good Man and Popular with All Classes.

We give here a portrait of Mr. Alderman David Evans, J. P., the new lord mayor of London. Mr. Evans is, of course, a Welshman, and lives at Ewell. We quote from the Lyre and Lyric: "Ewell grove is one of those residential, comfortable, roomy suburbs of our forefathers built when George III. was king. There is a bloodless sobriety of the typical lord mayor in the man who welcomes you so cordially to the grove. His right weight of 20 stone has been reduced by a whole decade of civic conviviality; there is a healthful glow on his face which just misses the unhealthy; with Ewell than Watling street, and his thick light mustache would do credit to a savage warrior. He enjoys nothing in the joys of outdoor exercise, and if you want to talk business or "corporation" you must look indoors. In his office in Watling street about lunch time, when he will be able to tell you more than any other living Englishman, the latest novelties of St. Etienne and Coventry, the approaching contest with the trade in fringe and trimmings, the particular wants of his ward, or the aspirations of Whitechapel. Under all this, he is full of the merits of "Blackbird"—"my black" as he familiarly calls him—and takes a pride in his stables to make the acquaintance of his favorite Irish hunter and his companion "Ballyhoo." The lord mayor sleek makes no effort to disguise the pride he feels in his horseflesh, and from the cradle to the grave of sight. He has taken tennis courts, where the future lady mayoress is busily engaged in a game with two eldest girls. Mr. Evans puts into politics all the thoroughness and earnestness which have in the past contributed to the success in life; and, as you walk along over the soft turf, he takes an encouraging view of the conservative prospects in the division now held by Mr. Cubitt. Mr. Evans, though a Welshman born and bred, is a tory to the backbone.

1,262 Miles Per Hour.

A locomotive weighing complete a pressure of 140 to 165 pounds to the square inch of boiler surface may move a train at a velocity of 1,262 per hour, and under favorable circumstances, even a greater distance. While we are apt to think this a wonderful rate of speed, it is slow, very slow, when compared with the velocity of a projectile fired from a cannon "great gun." Such initial impetus forward through the air at the rate of 1,995 miles per hour, the impelling force exerting a pressure of 44,000 to 45,000 pounds to each square inch.

Without a Stain.

"Johnson is a sort of a crank, isn't he?"

"Oh, I don't know. He is very set in his ways, of course."

"Yes, and some of his ways are so peculiar."

"What have you in mind particularly?"

"Well, you know he prides himself on his church connections."

"Yes."

"And claims that he is absolutely pure."

"Yes."

"Well, he told the church director the other day that he should get no work in other church if they put stained glass in the windows."

"Good-day, sir."—Philadelphia Press.

PICTORIAL ADVERTISING.

Oh, Tompson—Why is it that the tailor of the present day is so much superior to the tailor of the past?

Mrs. Tompson—The modern tailor is encouraged by the patronage of the modern husband.—Life.

Mr. Jones—Why, Brown, I thought you discovered your last cook's recipe. Why are you getting another? Is she cheaper? Mrs. Brown—Cheaper? Why, she's worth her weight in gold.—Life.

Mrs. Peck—Mr. Peck, I'm ashamed of you. You should be ashamed of the hair of another woman on your head.

Mrs. B. Peck—Why, my dear, I found it on your coat.—Brooklyn Eagle.

ALBERT HEDDEN,
Livery and Boarding Stables
FOURTH STREET,
Between Park avenue and Park avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Carriages for Funerals, Weddings and Parties furnished at short notice. Horses boarded by the day, week or month. Horses bought and sold on commission.

RICHARD M. NELSON.

The New President of the American Bankers' Association.

The seventeenth annual convention of the American Bankers' association, recently held in the city of New Orleans, was an occasion of unusual interest. The association has been ably managed by electing as its presidents for the past seven years Hon. Hugh McCulloch, president of the Commercial bank of Washington; Mr. John Jay Knox was elected the seventh.

Mr. Nelson is a native of North Carolina, where he was born in 1843, and is, therefore, 49 years of age. Four years, withdrawing to enter the Confederate service in the civil war in 1861. He received a thorough classical education, and in 1866 located in Selma, where he became a member of a prominent and successful law firm, continuing with it until 1878, when he was chosen president of the Selma savings bank, the oldest in corporated bank in central Alabama, and the name of which was two years later changed to the Commercial bank of Selma. Under his management the institution has greatly prospered. He has been connected with other leading financial and business institutions in Alabama, and in 1879 was one of the commissioners of the state for the Centennial exposition, serving as a member of the finance committee. He has been prominent in the affairs of the Protestant Episcopal church and has represented his diocese in its general conventions. He has been a active member of the American Bankers' association for several years, having been a member of the executive council since 1878.

ARCHBISHOP KENRICK.

RICHARD M. NELSON.

In all the positions which he has filled in business, social and religious life he has displayed eminent ability and integrity, so that his name has become a synonym for fidelity in the performance of duty and uprightness in every official trust. There is no doubt that he will add to the honors he has already won in the position to which he has now been elevated.

Simple Curiosity.

"Do you want some nice pork, sir?" said a butcher to a Irishman, who was intently regarding a side of a hog, which hung outside the door.

"No, sorr! But I'm wonderin' whin ye're wan goin' to kill the other half o' that pig."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Railroads.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA
Unsurpassed Equipment and Superior Facilities.

TRAINS FOR THE WEST.
On and after June 5, 1892, trains will leave Plainfield as follows:
8:00 a. m. Fast Line, Pullman Vestibuled parlor and sleeping cars, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Louisville, daily.
9:00 a. m. Pacific Express, Pullman parlor and sleeping cars, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City, daily except Saturday, for Pittsburg.
10:00 a. m. Western Express, with Pullman Vestibuled parlor and sleeping cars, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Louisville, daily except Saturday, for Pittsburg.
2:00 p. m. Pacific Express, with Pullman Vestibuled parlor and sleeping cars, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City, daily except Saturday, for Pittsburg.
4:00 p. m. Chicago Express, Pullman parlor and sleeping cars, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Louisville, daily, for Pittsburg.
7:00 p. m. Limited Express, with Pullman Vestibuled parlor and sleeping cars, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Louisville, daily, for Pittsburg.
11:55 p. m. Night Express, Pullman parlor and sleeping cars, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Louisville, daily, for Pittsburg.
For Atlantic City:
1:00 p. m. Through train, with Pullman Vestibuled parlor and sleeping cars, daily except Sunday.
For Philadelphia—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. and 11:55 p. m. daily.
For Trenton—8:00, 10:00 a. m., 12:00 m., 1:00, 2:00, 4:00, 5:00, 7:00, 11:55 p. m. daily. 10:00 a. m., 12:00 m., 1:00, 2:00, 5:00 p. m. Sundays.
For Bristol—8:00 a. m., 12:00 m., 4:00, 5:00, 7:00, 11:55 p. m. daily. 10:00 a. m., 12:00 m., 2:00, 5:00 p. m. Sundays.
For Bound Brook—8:00, 10:00 a. m., 12:00 m., 1:00, 2:00, 4:00, 5:00, 7:00, 11:55 p. m. daily. 10:00 a. m., 12:00 m., 2:00, 5:00 p. m. Sundays.
For Princeton—8:00, 10:00 a. m., 12:00 m., 1:00, 2:00, 4:00, 5:00, 7:00, 11:55 p. m. daily. 10:00 a. m., 12:00 m., 2:00, 5:00 p. m. Sundays.
For Jamesburg—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Pemberton—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Lakewood—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Long Branch—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Asbury Park—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Ocean Grove—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Point Pleasant—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Toms River—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Tuckerton—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Beach Haven—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Manasquan—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Bay Head—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Sea Girt—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Spring Lake—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Belmar—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Avon—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Asbury Park—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Ocean Grove—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Point Pleasant—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Toms River—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Tuckerton—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Beach Haven—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Manasquan—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Bay Head—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Sea Girt—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Spring Lake—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Belmar—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.
For Avon—8:00 a. m., 4:00 p. m. daily.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.
Stations in New York, foot of Liberty street, and Twenty-third street, North River.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.
Leave Plainfield 5 11, 5 27, 6 26, 6 34, 6 39, 6 50, 7 00, 7 30, 7 45, 8 00, 8 15, 8 30, 8 45, 9 00, 9 15, 9 30, 9 45, 10 00, 10 15, 10 30, 10 45, 11 00, 11 15, 11 30, 11 45, 12 00, 12 15, 12 30, 12 45, 1 00, 1 15, 1 30, 1 45, 2 00, 2 15, 2 30, 2 45, 3 00, 3 15, 3 30, 3 45, 4 00, 4 15, 4 30, 4 45, 5 00, 5 15, 5 30, 5 45, 6 00, 6 15, 6 30, 6 45, 7 00, 7 15

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
M. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1892. No. 6.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public, Conveyancers, corner of Park avenue and Second street.—1867

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Baker of Personal Property solicited; P. O. Box 153, Dunellen, N. J., or address left at CONSTITUTIONALIST office will receive prompt attention. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. THEISS,
Dentist,
39 West Front street. A new local anesthetic applied for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—1m57

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Locust Sq.Ft., Scotch Plains, N. J. Orders left at C. J. Clark's drug store, Second street, or West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—1y1

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
247 Broadway, New York city, Rooms 10 and 11. (Long's Arcade.) Residence, Second street, Plainfield, N. J.—1y1

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. Van Arsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Has commenced with Lindeman & Sons, New York, Pianos and Organs for sale and to let, warerooms 29 Park place, New York. Also with Wm. Hall & Son's Store, No. 6 Park avenue Williamstown Piano and Organ Rooms, 39 and 39½ Main street, Williamstown, Mass.—1y1907

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Residence and Shop, No. 36 East 2d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. 1y47

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, 1st door from the Depot.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
(Successor to E. P. Maynard.)
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 20 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, and Hair Dressing in satisfactory performance. 1y1

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES.
COOK STOVES.
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of door s can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in the section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

J. Hervey Doane,
6 PARK AVENUE.
[Formerly Clerk.]
Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and promptly done. 1y1

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices?
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grade of
Fresh and Salt Meats,
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished at short notice.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a neatly first-class, workmanlike manner.
Having associated himself with Mr. Frank Pennington, of Dunellen, I am prepared to do any work for private parties, or for the trade, on short notice. Orders left at my shop on North avenue, or at Dunellen, will receive prompt attention.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 2 NORTH AVE. and at Dunellen, N. J.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

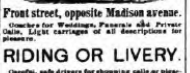
FORCE'S HOTEL,
NORTH AVENUE, (NEAR D. L. & W. STATION.)
JAS. H. FORCE, Prop'r.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL. Steam Heat. First-class Plumbing.
Transient guests at reasonable rates. 10-31-tf

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.
JOHN W. MURRAY, President.
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARDEN, " "
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.
1y1

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALLCOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE. 1y1

WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Relief Plush Papers, &c. Designs for Halls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades. 9-18-tf

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables


Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Funerals and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.
RIDING OR LIVERY.
Gentle, safe drivers for shopping calls or business drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.—1y1
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 26.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vandervoort's Music Store, Park avenue. Can be found at the office when not engaged in the regular carrying business of the Express. Orders promptly attended to. Household goods carefully moved. Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
1y1

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasoline Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 12 SOMERSET ST. 9-18-tf

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grade of
Fresh and Salt Meats,
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished at short notice.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE, AT CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
24 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
(Successor to W. J. Gaston.)
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—24 W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans for Trucks. Goods stored and kept part of the time free of charge. P. O. Box 88. Residence, 23 Watchung avenue. 1y1

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. C. D. CIGAR,
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made entirely of Havana tobacco.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars. Cigarettes also. Tobaccos always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety. 1y1

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in Havana & Domestic
—SEGARS!—
No. 8 PARK AVE., (one door north of POST OFFICE,)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "One Puff" Smoking Tobacco, without the unpleasant after-taste usually to be found in smoking. 1y1

A. WOLFF,
MANUFACTURER OF
CIGARS,
And Dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, Snuffs, Pipes, &c. Segars manufactured from best of Key West, Havana and Domestic tobacco, and sold at the lowest possible prices. Store on the west side of Madison avenue, one door south of the entrance of the Stewart House. 1y1

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN,
17 LaGrande Avenue,
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET,
Will reopen THUR SEPT 17, 1891.
Pupils will include Modeling, Drawing and Cooking. 9 11 tf

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass,
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
1y39

L. B. WOOLSTON, J. P. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS' SUPPLIES. 38 NORTH AVENUE
1y39

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing,
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. H. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 8. 11 11-tf

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. P. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
RAHWAY, N. J.
9-17

PRESTON B. PLUMB.

Career of the Recently Deceased Senator from Kansas.

With a Common School and a Printer's Education He Forged His Destiny—One of the Most Popular Members of the Senate.

The late Senator Preston B. Plumb was born in Delaware county, October 17, 1837, so that he was in his fifty-fourth year at the time of his death. He was not a college graduate, but left the common schools for the printer's case, and in pursuance of his vocation as a journeyman printer in 1856, in the bloody days of the historic and newly-organized territory of Kansas, walked into that territory and with the vigor and indefatigable energy which has throughout his life been his chief characteristic, the young man plunged at once into the thick of hot political strife which was then waging over the slavery question. Be at once went to the front and was elected lieutenant in the Leavenworth constitutional convention of 1859. He was admitted to the bar in 1861, when on the place of his adoption became a state of the union; served in the legislature in 1862, was chairman of the judiciary committee and subsequently reporter of the supreme court. When the war broke out he entered the army as second lieutenant in the Eleventh Kansas infantry and served successively as captain, major and lieutenant colonel of that regiment and was commissioned a colonel of the same regiment in August, 1865. After the war Mr. Plumb, returning to Kansas, was elected a member and speaker of the Kansas house of representatives, and in 1870 was chosen United States senator to succeed James M. Harvey, republican. He took his seat in 1871 and represented his state as a senator ever since. His term would have expired March 3, 1895.

Senator Plumb was a man of most positive views, but always had a keen appreciation of the line of separation between the impracticable and the expedient. He was peculiarly fitted to grasp details. That faculty found ample field for exercise in the discharge of his functions as a member of the senate committee on appropriations and it was generally understood among his brother senators that Senator Plumb was unimpeachable in any statement he might make concerning the intricate machinery of the government service. He was chairman of the committee on public lands and a member of the committee on agriculture, executive departments, mess products and administrative service of the senate.

SENATOR PRESTON B. PLUMB.

There was no more popular man in the senate than Preston B. Plumb. He was said to be a millionaire, but this was a mistake. His fortune was short of two hundred thousand dollars. The people of Washington ranked him among the millionaires of the senate, however, as he was less obnoxious in the ears of the general public. Plumb was an open-hearted man. He made what money he possessed by his own abilities and downright hard work. He left his log cabin home in Ohio and with only fifty cents in his pocket walked seventy-five miles to a printing office, where, after learning to stick type, he worked his way to Kansas, where he set down his kit and said he would stay and grow up with the country. He stuck to it and his privations and the difficulties encountered in rising to the high place he occupied when he died did not sour his disposition. On the contrary, it made him more generous, and no worthy supplicant for help ever left Senator Plumb's presence empty handed. He knew it was hard work to get along and he seemed to enjoy helping his fellow beings on their life journey.

Senator Plumb was a good liver, and despite his hard work and close application to business he always took time for amusement. He knew that a laugh had as good a right to be heard as a sob, and a smile was as worthy to be seen as a sober, serious face. His smile and laugh were often seen and heard, and of no time was his smile broader or his laugh louder than when he could bluff an expert at poker out of a monumental jack pot. His skill as a poker player was only equaled by the dexterity of ex-Senator Farwell. For horse sense he had no superior. He was no fanatic, and he spurned a hypocrite as he did a snake. But he was a good fellow, a warm, generous friend; a type of man one liking to meet, wholesouled and hearty. There has been many a man of good parts in the United States senate, but none was more liked than Preston B. Plumb, of Kansas.

Women in India.

There are more women in British India (24,000,000) than there are men. Women and children in Great Britain, France and Germany put together, with the population of several minor states cast in as well.

Of Ancient Origin.

The custom of saying "God bless you" when a person sneezes dates from the time of Jacob, who observed that when a person sneezed some one should make a pious exclamation.

Trials of a Dramatic Author.

Blotterwick—Well, how is the farce-comedy coming off?

Pompano—All done but the finale. I can't decide whether to wind up with an earthquake or an oyster supper.—Philadelphia Press.

An Unpopular Investment.

Mrs. Bunting—The bishop of Massachusetts speaks three hundred and twelve words a minute.

Bunting—I didn't know they had any women bishops.—Life.

A TREMENDOUS GIVE-AWAY.

A Manufacturer Says:
Most never had any effect on me. I was a sufferer for years, and tried all kinds of medicines, but without any benefit. I was induced to try Dobbins' Electric Soap, and was surprised at the result. I am now using my fourth bar, and feel like a new man. I would not be without it if it cost $5 a bar. Yours truly, Jerry.

KANSAS' NEW SENATOR.

Bishop W. Perkins, Successor to the Late Preston B. Plumb.

Bishop W. Perkins was born at Rochester, O., and was fifty-nine years old October 18 last. He was educated in the public schools and at Knox college, Galesburg, Ill. After leaving college he went to Colorado, and on his return in 1862 enlisted in company D, Eighty-third Illinois volunteer infantry. He served as sergeant and lieutenant, and in December, 1863, was appointed adjutant of the Sixteenth Colorado infantry. Later he was appointed to fifty as captain of company C of the same regiment. He served as judge advocate on the staff of Gen. Gilpin, and also in the same position on the staff of Gen. Steadman; was mustered out at Nashville in May, 1866; returned to Illinois and read law in the office of Lawrence & Hall, and of O. C. Gray at Ottawa.

SENATOR PERKINS OF KANSAS.

After being admitted to the bar in 1867 he located at Peoria, Ind., where he remained until he came to Oswego, Kan., in April, 1880. The same year he was appointed county attorney and was the following year probate judge, which office he held till February 1, 1873, when he was elected judge of the Eleventh judicial district. He was reelected in 1874 and 1878, and in November, 1882, was elected a member of congress.

Mr. Perkins is a republican, sincere in his convictions and aggressive in his expressions. He was a delegate to the Chicago convention in 1880. He was elected member of congress from the Third district, and was reelected for three successive terms, but met defeat a year ago at the hands of the Farmers' Alliance. He was editor and proprietor of the Oswego Register from 1871 until appointed district judge in 1873.

THE FLAG INSULTED.

American Colors Torn to Pieces by a Russian Sailor.

A piece torn out of an American flag adorns the quarters of Capt. Alexander McLean, late commander of the American sealing schooner James Hamilton Lewis, at the wharf of the quarantine station at Angel Island, San Francisco.

When the Lewis was seized by the Russians off Copper Island and a prize crew put on board Capt. McLean had the American flag run up to the mizzen peak and the halyards jammed in the block and cut, so that the flag could not be pulled down. Two days later a Russian sailor succeeded in climbing up to the mainhead. He was unable to get the flag down, so taking out his heavy knife he cut the flag a few inches below the peak and tore off as much of it as he could. What was left only amounted to a few square feet. The tear began a few inches from the top, increased to about thirteen inches half way down, and ran back to a width of about eight inches where the tear ended.

THE TORN AMERICAN FLAG.

The remains of what once formed the ensign of an American vessel was on display at the head of the bed of her late captain, and they will not go out of his sight until they are used as evidence in an action for damages to be commenced against the Russian government by Capt. McLean.

A Princess' Choice.

A sister of the late king of Spain consented to mingle her proud Castilian blood with that of the lowly by marrying a doctor of medicine who had not a solitary handle to his name. When the couple called on the Infanta's mother they turned up the whites of their eyes to the sky like ducks in a thunderstorm at the bare notion of this superb patrician lily giving herself to a husband belonging to the professional class. The doctor in question is well provided for mentally and physically and his spouse is evidently proud of him, for when she was invited while marrying an untitled individual she said: "I preferred a man without a title to a title without a man."

Powerful Odor.

The musk antelope can send forth such a powerful odor of musk that even at the distance of one hundred yards he can smother his enemy to death.

Russian Isinglass.

The best isinglass comes from Russia, where it is obtained from the great sturgeon which inhabits the Caspian sea.

High-Priced Hair.

The Empress Eugenie paid 1,000 francs ($200) an ounce for a braid of hair that exactly matched her own.

Still Young.

Old Resident—Yes, sir, I'm eighty years old, and I walked thirty miles to-day. Kin you do as much?

Average Man—N-o, not yet. I'm only forty.—Good News.

To Be Thought Wise.

You want your friends to think you smart?
I'll tell you what to do:
Just whisper what you believe you think
That they are smarter far than you!
—Philadelphia Press.

High-Priced.

"Did you cover up to Biss, the tailor?"
"Yes. Got two suits from him. One dress suit. One 'at-suit. Very expensive man."—Jury.

What She Took Him For.

"You seem to take me for a fool"
Said he; she said: "How funny!
I do not take you for a fool,
I take you for your money."
—Philadelphia Press.

Well Named.

"You might try one of our Rip Van Winkle rugs."
"What is there special about them?"
"They have an unusually long nap."
—Puck.

Delayed Identity.

Mrs. Haggerby (impatiently)—Here, drop everything at once and come to me!

Horse—You, ma'am.

Mrs. Haggerby—Now, what's the baby crying for?

Horse—Once I dropped him, ma'am.—Puck.

CASTLE ROMINTEN.

The Most Curious of Emperor William's Residences.

It Is Built of Cyclopean Trunks of Norwegian Pine—A Hunting Lodge Lavishly Decorated with Odoriferous Pines of Great Height.

The most curious of imperial residences is Emperor William II.'s Castle Rominten, near Theerbude in East Prussia. It was planned by a Norwegian architect under the emperor's supervision, and was put together by a Norwegian builder. His ideas for the construction the emperor got on his first journey to the North Cape. He is a great wild forest that covers some seventy-five square miles of rough and rocky territory, abounding in fine fishing deer that run on the continent. Here the emperor delights to hunt, as his ancestors hunted long ago in the days when Hohenzollern first became a royal name. For the dandified and cambypanky Parforce hunts at Potsdam, in which natty young lieutenants and high society belles ride safely over hill and dale in pursuit of half-tamed boars, William II. has no liking. He is a fine horseman, and, despite his crippled arm, almost as sporting mariomas, and he he cares only for the chase that requires both horsemanship and marksmanship. The medieval exuberance of the bucks of the Rominenser health gives him an opportunity to exercise all the skills of which he has not exercised it in vain is shown by the almost unbroken collection of antlers at Castle Rominten.

The castle near Theerbude rests on a stone platform of rocks 50 feet long, 70 feet wide and 32 feet high. It is of unhewn trunks of Norwegian pine fitted, not nailed, at the corners. For the better preservation of the wood, all the walls are heavily coated with varnish. Otherwise there is not even an appearance of ornamentation. The cracks were stopped with cotton covered with bark. No tapestry or screen hides the rough interior of the walls, except in the dining-room and the emperor's study, which have wainscoting five feet high. Every room has a huge chimney of old Norwegian pattern of old Norwegian brick.

The kitchen of the castle is set down in the rear foundation. Above it and in the middle of the castle building is the dining hall, adorned with the finest antlers that have rewarded the emperor's two seasons of hunting on Rominten heath. One huge table stretches down the middle of the hall. The chairs are large, rough looking and entirely of wood. The floor is polished and bare of rugs or carpets. Behind the dining-room is a small apartment to which the food is raised in dumbwaiters from the kitchen to be prepared finally for serving. The castle has but one story in the part taken up by the dining-room.

CASTLE ROMINTEN.

The wing on each side of this low building is two stories high and is surrounded by verandas on both floors. The east wing has a little tower at the corner and a fresh, high roof, which floats a flag bearing the great black eagle. All this indicates that this part of the castle is for the special use of the emperor. On the ground floor of the east wing and opening into the dining room is a large reception room, to which is the emperor's audience chamber. Beyond the latter are rooms of the emperor's immediate attendants. Up a richly-carved stairway and on the second floor of the wing are more rooms of the emperor has a magnificent view over the Rominten valley, across the lake and clumps of forest to the mountains on the boundary of the great threatening solosan. Next to the sleeping room is the study where the emperor writes the dispatches which keep the wires to Berlin hot during his hunting days. Beyond the study are apartments for his most honored guests, and a bathroom. The west wing contains bedrooms for less favored guests.

With its rocky foundation, its odoriferous Norwegian pines, its huge open fireplaces and its great dry forests, unpolluted by the breath of factory civilization, Castle Rominten is as well calculated as any place could be to soothe and steady the effervescing and overworked young man who built it.

A Practical Scientist.

A distinguished Boston physician, paying a visit to the Detroit medical institute, found Prof. Brieger busily at work in the laboratory, surrounded by a most formidable array of chemical and bacteriological utensils. The professor's sole attention and care, however, appeared concentrated on one particular vessel, in which was enveloped a smoke and steam. "Guess what I am boiling here," said the professor to the visitor. The latter began to enumerate the entire scale of micro-organisms: "Micrococci?" "No." "Gonococci?" "No." "Bacilli?" "No." "What then?" "Hog cholera germs," replied Brieger.—Detroit Free Press.

New Material for Growlers.

Aluminum is found to be an excellent material to use in the manufacture of beer mugs. It will prevent the beer from becoming flat for a long time.

The Only Use for Money.

"If I gave you a quarter what would you do with it, Johnny?" asked the boy.

"Spend it, of course," replied Tommy; "what's all it's good for?"—Harper's Young People.

Then It Isn't There.

"Pa," said Tommy, as the paper says Mr. Bjenks is 'an able financier,' what is an able financier?"

"An able financier, Tommy," said Tommy's pa, "is a man who is able to borrow two or three million dollars of other people's money without being expected to account for it until his estate comes to be settled up."—Somerville Journal.

The Game.

The band that rocks the cradle,
As the fond proverb tells,
Is the band that spanks the baby;
And then makes the baby cry.
—Puck.

No Danger Ahead.

Adoring Youth (fondly)—What's that Sweet Girl—That sounds like a footstep.

Adoring Youth (moving uneasily)—Hadn't I better go?

Sweet Girl—No, say. I don't think he'll try to borrow over five dollars of you the first time you've met him.

A Lawyer's Fee.

"Would your fee be reasonable under the circumstances?" asked the client.

And the lawyer calmly made reply:
"The whole amount of the bill."

Why He Failed.

Teacher—I don't see what's got into you lately. You have always known your lessons perfectly, and now you do not seem able to comprehend a thing, no matter how much I explain it. Are you sick?

Boy—No, ma'am; but papa and mamma is away on a visit, and now there isn't anybody home to explain your explanations so I can understand 'em.—Good News.

Needed Punishing.

Cdller—Your daughter is at home now, is she not? I heard she had graduated at the Artistic literary and scientific university.

Hostess—She is not at home. She has gone to a finishing school.

"Why, what for?"

"Oh, to learn how to enter a room, and sit down, and hold a fan, and blush, you know."—N. Y. Weekly.

The Condition.

Benedick—I'll give you the money for your shotgun on one condition.

Mrs. Benedick—I know what that condition is. That I don't ask for too much.

Benedick—No; that you don't ask me to go with you.—Puck.

Worth Worship.

Chicago Belle—I fear you do not really and truly love me.

Ardent Suitor—I worship the very ground you walk on.

Chicago Belle—Of course. It's worth $900 a front foot.—N. Y. Weekly.

ON A SAINT NIGHT.

Sound from the steps—Z-z-i-i-pp.

Voice from above—Tek off yo' rubbers 'fore yo' comes in, Rosby. I don' want dat hall linoleum all messed up.—Judge.

Not Always.

Miss Ruby—Wasn't it sad about Mr. Larrabee?

Mr. Gimp (an old bachelor)—What was it?

"He was married on Tuesday and died on the following Friday."

"Yes, it's sad; but, then, marriage doesn't always prove fatal so soon."—Jury.

Futile Malevolence.

"There were more than three hundred people at Gibson's funeral," said Watts.

"I'm not surprised at hearing it," answered Potts, who had once bought a lot from the late Mr. Gibson. "They probably came there they had seen the last of him."—Indianapolis Journal.

There Was More of It.

Little Maxie, whose parents are poor, is eating dinner with some rich relatives, one of whom says:

"Well, Maxie, how do you like your dinner—more than you get at home?"

"It doesn't taste much better; but I don't get through as soon as I do at home."—Texas Siftings.

Mr. Wall Suppressed.

Mr. Wall—Well have to economize this year, Annie.

Mrs. Wall—Very well, dear; you can buy my bonnets and I'll select your ties and cigars.

Mr. Wall hasn't said a word about economy since.—N. Y. Herald.

Hard-Hearted Thieves.

Sympathizing Friend—Your loss by that burglary was certainly very heavy—but you know what the poet says: "Into each life some rain must fall."

Mrs. Lage (weeping)—Yes—and the mis—miserable thieves even took my um-um-brella.—Puck.

The Country Still Alive.

A prominent politician, who has been in politics all his life, was bragging the other day that he was born on the very day that Thomas Jefferson died.

"And the country has survived both disasters? This is a wonderful country."—Texas Siftings.

The Best Position.

Mamma—Are you getting along nicely at school now, Johnny?

Johnny—Yes, indeed; mamma I have the best position in my class.

Mamma—Yes? What is that?

Johnny—Near the stove.—Demorest's Magazine.

Another Way of Looking at It.

Bloobumper—What a pretty child Mrs. Jay-smith's baby is.

Mrs. Bloobumper—Yes; and it didn't get its beauty from its papa either.

Bloobumper—I don't know about that. Jaysmith hasn't any left.—Judge.

He Kept Well.

Mother—How did your face get that strained, aconsted look in your photograph? Did the light hurt your eyes?

Small Son—No, ma'am. The man told me to try to keep still, an' I did.—Good News.

Her Place Supplied.

Tomdik—I suppose you were very lonely the month your wife spent at her mother's.

Hoffy, ed. She left the parrot at home.—Judge.

No Barber Shop.

Boston Waiter (to outside barbarian, who tucks his napkin in his vest)—Pardon me, sir, but there is no shampoo goes with this dinner.—Brooklyn Life.

The Fallacy of Similis.

Ponsonby—My business is going like clockwork.

Popinjay—That can't be.

Ponsonby—What reason have you for saying so?

Popinjay—Why, if you wind up a clock it goes; if you wind up your business it stops.—Jewelers' Circular.

Conclusive.

"Here's a queer story about a turkey that died of grief," said Dumley. "I don't know whether it is intended to be pathetic or whether it's a joke."

"What do you find it in?"

"A London comic paper."

"Then it's no joke."—Chicago Tribune.

An Effective Method.

"What can we do to drive tramps away from the town?" asked the mayor of a rural municipality.

"Let's build a soup factory," suggested the editor of the local paper.—Philadelphia Press.

Like Her Daughters.

"Adam," said Eve,
As she bent over him
When ordered to leave,
"Is my not so slender?"
—Chicago Tribune.

A Weighty Reason.

Miss Quaker—What a delightful man your friend Mr. Cutler is. So easy to get acquainted with. He more than seems one half-way.

Mr. Isaac—Merely force of habit, I assure you. He is a retired butcher.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Rates of Advertising.

Space.	1 Week	2 Weeks	3 Weeks	1 Month	2 Months	3 Months	6 Months	1 Year
1 In.	$1.00	$1.50	$2.00	$3.00	$4.00	$5.00	$8.00	$12.00
2 In.	1.50	2.00	2.50	4.00	5.00	6.00	10.00	15.00
3 In.	2.00	2.50	3.00	5.00	6.00	7.00	12.00	18.00
4 In.	2.50	3.00	3.50	6.00	7.00	8.00	14.00	21.00
5 In.	3.00	3.50	4.00	7.00	8.00	9.00	16.00	24.00
6 In.	3.50	4.00	4.50	8.00	9.00	10.00	18.00	27.00
7 In.	4.00	4.50	5.00	9.00	10.00	11.00	20.00	30.00
8 In.	4.50	5.00	5.50	10.00	11.00	12.00	22.00	33.00
9 In.	5.00	5.50	6.00	11.00	12.00	13.00	24.00	36.00
10 In.	5.50	6.00	6.50	12.00	13.00	14.00	26.00	39.00
11 In.	6.00	6.50	7.00	13.00	14.00	15.00	28.00	42.00
12 In.	6.50	7.00	7.50	14.00	15.00	16.00	30.00	45.00

All Electro's must be solid metal.

"Little of Everything" columns, 5 cts. per line.

Double rate, 50 per ct. advance of above rates.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes Menus
Addressest,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST

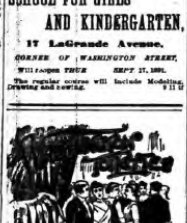
DAILY PRESS

(Chautauqua Building),

PLAINFIELD N. J.

MRS. WILMERDING'S POINT DE SOIE.

GOWN WORN BY MRS. HARRISON ON NEW YEAR'S DAY.



(COPYRIGHT, 1892.)

The present social season will show more fine dresses than have ever appeared in Washington before. A great number of the wives of the foreign senators and diplomats were made in Paris last summer, and you may see many fine gowns at the ball or at dinner reception. There is scarcely a lady of prominence who has not an almost entirely new wardrobe, and the cost of the clothes at any white house gathering now runs high into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Mrs. President Harrison has a number of handsome new gowns, and she wore a very fine one on New Year's day. It was made for that occasion, and it consisted of a rich pomegranate satin embroidered in bright longuets in natural tints, opening over a front petticoat of canary satin. This had a deep bralded border with draperies of amber and embroidered lace, and the slight V-shaped opening at the throat was filled in with the lace and fastened with a handsome diamond pin and pendant. At this same reception Mrs. McKee brought out one of the new gowns which she had made in Paris last summer. It was a petticoat of white satin brocaded in velvet, with a design of rose petals. The sleeves were full and the bow and belt were of white puffy chiffon. A wide sash of pale blue moire was fastened to the front at the left side in a large bow, and this had long floating ends. Mrs. McKee has a number of other fine gowns which she got in Europe, and the most of these are to be worn with a broad sash and two wing-like bows at the back. Among Mrs. Harrison's new gowns, which she will bring out later in the season, is one of sage-green brocade with a vest of cross pink embossed crepe, and another of Mrs. McKee's is a steel gray silk, the waist of which has a tablier effect in front.

MRS. WILMERDING'S POINT DE SOIE.

Mrs. Wilmerding, the widowed daughter of the secretary of the navy, appeared for the first time at a public reception since the sad tragedy which a year since visited the house of the navy secretary. Several of her few moments laid in ruins not only his heartstone, but deprived him of his wife and daughter at one fell blow. Though sadly broken by the terrible trial, Mrs. Wilmerding has bravely smothered her own grief and for the sake of her father and child again assumed the obligations of her position. Her appearance among the ladies of the cabinet at the white house was a source of sincere pleasure to all, not only of whom, but fully appreciated the self-sacrifice of the brave effort. This made Mrs. Wilmerding's gown of white point de soie trimmed with simple ruffles of chiffon, bespeak the mourning garb yet evidence the determination of her sorrow to hide the world.

Mrs. Robeson, the wife of the Montenegrin minister, was a notable popularity among Washington hostesses. She recently spent six months abroad, during which time she visited all the capitals of the east, and brought with her some beautiful new gowns. Mrs. Robeson has returned to Washington and is again in the social whirl. She visited in London, Paris and Constantinople, and brought with her some beautiful new gowns. Among these is a white satin dinner dress of heliotrope satin, with long court train, the entire skirt elaborately embroidered in steel and blue stones in cut steel and iridescent passementerie, thickly studded with jewels. The high bodice is trimmed with a full of lace about the curved opening at the the neck and down the front, a ruffle of the same edging the bosque, the whole elegant in the rich simplicity. Another most antique and tasteful gown was purchased in the east. It is a Turkish costume such as is worn by ladies of high rank. The material is a delicate white silk mull elaborately embroidered in gold, the figure 8 being predominant among the figures. Spangles of the same gold and blue ornaments scattered over the surface. She has also a figure jacket of white broadcloth richly embroidered in gold, and tied with gold cord and tassel over a shirred tight-fitting waist. One of her handsome reception dresses is of dark sage-green corded silk, brocaded in stripes of roses and white lilacs, the high and full sleeves elaborately trimmed with Spanish lace edged with a full of lace about the hips. An elegant visiting costume is of navy blue serge with a jacket of black lace at the throat, completes a most superb costume.

GOWN OF MRS. ROMERO'S PARISIAN GOWNS.

Mrs. Howard Gannon White, of Utica, N. Y., daughter of Senator Miller, is distinguished among Washington hostesses for the richness and elegant taste of her toilets. A woman of fine personal appearance and devoted to social life, she entertains the president over her father's handsome house at the capital with a grace and attractiveness that renders it one of the most charming among social centers. Mrs. White has just recently returned to the city and has already appeared the largest portion of her wardrobe. Among the list of those already noticeable is a handsome and plaza dress of golden brown cloth ornamented with white and trimmed with ostrich tips. This has a long close-fitting basque of the same and has and feather to match, and the combination makes a very stylish and elegantly elegant costume. A very beautiful evening dress is of pearl-white satin, brocaded in long bands of delicate blue forget-me-nots with their green leaves. A broad band of velvet is fastened around the throat with a big bow at the back; the low-neck bodice is trimmed with sprays of forget-me-nots and lace. A handsome carriage dress, conspicuous for simple elegance, is of brown and white trimmed with ostrich feathers. This has a long train and felt hat with feathers to correspond. A variety of other equally rich toilets will later be worn by the gentlewoman, whose artistic taste is not only noticeable in her gowns, but in her beautiful furnishing and unrivaled decorations of her fine home, one of the most beautiful in the capital. Mrs. Schofield has had occasion to don a variety of luncheon and dinner dresses upon the numerous occasions during the anti-official entertainments given in her honor. One of her prettiest gowns is of white brocade figured in tiny pink rosebuds. The skirt and bodice are in one, made with short baby waist with a wide fall of French point lace around the skirt, and long sleeves are of point d'esprit with ruffle of the lace and capped with the brocade. A belt of pink velvet ribbon forms a point at the back and front, and a fall of the lace is studied across the front of the bodice, the skirt, like all of the new gowns, being bell-shaped with a narrow quilling around the bottom.

GOWN OF MRS. ROMERO'S PARISIAN GOWNS.

A Blind Move.

Tomson—Do think that some people can read the minds of others like a book?

Johnson—Yes. I flatter myself that I can.

Tomson—Indeed. Suppose you try to read mine.

Johnson—Er—there are some books that one cannot read.

Tomson—What kind, pray?

Johnson—Well, blank books, for instance.—Brooklyn Life.

Why Worse Than the Gallows.

Sam Johnson, a negro who was aggrieved because an Austin justice of the peace fined him five dollars for disturbing the peace, said:

"Mr. Johnning

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chooses the city of Chicago as the place for holding the national Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation therein equal to double the number of the representation to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and conservative government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE, Chairman.
SIMON P. SHERRIS, Secretary.

WITHDRAWAL OF BLAINE.

James G. Blaine has withdrawn his name from the consideration of the Republican National Convention, to meet in Minneapolis, in the following letter addressed to Chairman Clarkson of the Republican National Committee, which was given to the press Feb. 7:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 1892.

Hon. J. S. Clarkson, Chairman of the Republican National Committee:

MY DEAR SIR:—I am not a candidate for the Presidency and my name must not be presented to the Republican National Convention for the nomination. I make this announcement in due season.

To those who have tendered me their support I owe almost every office and am most grateful for their confidence. They will, I am sure, make earnest effort in the approaching contest, which is rendered specially important by reason of the industrial and financial policies of the Government being at stake, the popular decision on these issues are of great moment, and will be of far reaching consequence.

Very sincerely yours,
JAMES G BLAINE

WANTED.

The right man for President of the United States.

A pliable official, thoroughly competent, industrious, courageous and trustworthy.

Not a seeker after the place, but one whom the people desire to fill it.

A man willing to become a candidate if fairly honorably nominated, but unwilling to accept under any clouded conditions.

A man who never did and never will barter or conspire for political success.

Not a scheming time-serving politician whose unprincipled ambition centers in self, but a patriotic statesman pledged to uphold and advance the honor and welfare of the whole country.

Not a mercenary spoilsman, but an incorruptible custodian.

A man purely unselfish and unflinchingly honest.

There is such a man within the Democratic fold. He has been tried and found true. GROVER CLEVELAND is his honored name.

BURSTED.

President Harrison, in the undue haste displayed by him in laying before Congress a voluminous message regarding a small sized and much magnified matter with the Republic of Chili, doubtless expected to boom himself into a popular hero and carry the country by storm.

The stout fell short.

The gun exploded with the fizzle.

The question properly arises—Why did not the President wait a few hours, until Chili's reply to his ultimatum could be more translated from Spanish into English and thence into English, and so laid before him?

There is reason to believe that Chili's consistency and satisfactory answer had reached Washington even when the Presidential messenger was most hurrying to the Capitol with a belligerent paper missive.

The President's great hurry was facetiously compared by a Mugwump Congressman to the farmer, who gave as a reason why he ran so fast through a shower to the barn and then fell to sheltered, was because he wanted to get in before the rain stopped.

The President was anxious to make public through Congress his startling and bombastic sentence against Chili before her peaceful response had driven away the fleecy war clouds. The gun burned.

McIlvaine, who murdered grocer Lucas in Brooklyn some three years ago, was put to death by electricity at Sing Sing on Monday.

The U. S. Government spent $2,286 95 last year in the maintenance of the Gloucester sand shell, in this State, operated by the Fox Commission.

Senator McPherson has introduced a bill to make N-ark an independent port of entry. It is now subject to the jurisdiction of the New York Custom House.

The State Legislature should go slow over the recently introduced race track bills. It is very doubtful if the masses of the people of the State want the passage of these bills. Go slow, gentlemen.

The Hotel Royal, corner Fulton street and Fifth avenue, was destroyed by fire, Sunday morning, and the estimated over $5 dives were lost by the catastrophe. As usual, the building proved to be a regular fire-trap.

We return thanks to Comptroller W. C. Hedgenheimer and State Treasurer Geo. R Grey, for copies of Annual Report of the Comptroller of the Treasury and Report of the Joint Committee on Treasurer's Accounts of the State of New Jersey.

The New York World calls on Senator Hill, in suppliable terms, to call a halt in his unprecedented act of calling the State Convention at so early a date as July 5. The World is demoralized by a large majority of the Democratic papers of the country.

The Democratic Central Committee of Oklahoma has decided to hold the Territorial Convention for the purpose of electing delegates to the National Convention on the 17th of May. The committee is almost a unit for the nomination of Cleveland for President.

THE SELFISH AND STRIKERS SHOOK.

A Law Introduced Taking from the Power of the Bosses to Further Oppress the Millions of a Street Railway in Philadelphia.

Assemblyman Stoder of Montclair, alive to the Views of that place, and one of the most prominent Republicans of Essex county, introduced into the hall of assemble at Trenton, Monday night, an act numb ered 192 that will effectually destroy forever the power of the strike, the strikers, and the men who ride in chaises, preventing the construction and maintenance in Philadelphia and all other cities and of a kind of a street railway the people want.

The proposed law is given below. It will be seen that it is retroactive, and if it has passed the house and be signed by the governor—as THE PRESS can assure the people it will become a permanent statute—no one will be attracted in this city at once, no matter how many bosses object:

1. Be it enacted, That any street railway company in this State may use electric or mechanical motors or any other motive power of its cars, instead of horses, provided, it shall first obtain the consent of the municipal authorities having charge of the public streets or highways on which it is proposed to operate, but such consent or such consent may be granted either by ordinance or by resolution.

2. And be it enacted, That such municipal authorities may in like manner authorize the change of poles and wires already in use for the purposes, and subject to such conditions as they may deem proper, in which and on the where such poles shall be located, and the manner in which the wires shall be strung thereon, and for the use of such poles as may be prescribed in such ordinance or resolution.

3. And be it enacted, That no such consent hereinbefore granted, whether by resolution or ordinance, by municipality to any street railway company to change the motive power or any cables as the propelling power of its cars, or to change the location of poles in such ordinance or resolution specified, shall be valid or effectual unless the same shall have been granted pursuant to the provisions of this act to the extent authorized by this act.

4. And be it enacted, That the municipal authorities shall have the right to receive compensation for the granting of any consent, in such shape as shall be agreed upon by the said railway companies and municipal authorities, such compensation to be paid in accordance made for such compensation shall be void and effectual as if made under this act.

5. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

AT LAST A CHAUTAUQUA NOVEL.

New Book; Finkleburn Case to be Remembered in Its Pages.

Plainfield people will be especially interested in the latest book from the pen of that gifted author, John Habberton, inasmuch as Plainfield was for long the centre and inspiration of the literary movement, and inasmuch as Mr. Habberton's new book is devoted entirely to the Chautauqua movement in its humorous side.

"The Chautauquans" is a handsome book to begin with, for it is issued from the press of the well-known publishers, Messrs. Dodd, Mead & Co. It is finely bound and richly illustrated by Warren B. Davis. But it is more than handsome: it is intensely interesting. The scene is laid at the C. L. S. C. has not before been made the subject of a story. There is certainly material enough in that organization for a most interesting novel, and Mr. Habberton was just the man to write the first one. He grasps the Chautauqua idea, and he grasps its possibilities to the writer of fiction. Take one of the most ordinary house features of the existing law and perceives thus that the practice, habitual or otherwise, of betting on horse races, commonly known as bookmaking, or the keeping of a place to which persons may resort for such betting or bookmaking shall not constitute a nuisance or the keeping of a house of ill fame, or a misdemeanor or any other misdemeanor or criminal offense whatever. The person engaged therein shall not be indicted, tried, when such betting or bookmaking is carried on or done within the extent or limits of any race course, park or agricultural society or other inclosure or building used for the purpose of making and betting must be done only on the day of the race and upon the ground within the inclosure of such association.

A bill, by Senator Marsh, [illegible] all secret societies in the State, except Masonic lodges. It provides that the organizations shall not exist for more than the time of holding their municipal election on the second Tuesday in April, and not for a year after. The bill is a good act. Trenton already holds its election on the second Monday in April.

Governor Abbett on the Senate, Monday evening, the name of George S. Duryea as full term as Governor of Banking and Insurance. He was only appointed until the Legislature met. Senator Bogert, Essex; Emil H. Williamson and Phillip P. Baker were appointed trustees of the Home for Feeble Minded Women.

MODESTLY MARRIED.

James E. Clark and Miss Sarah Wolford Locate Wedded.

The Daily Gate City of Keokuk, Iowa, has the following to say of the marriage in the home of a prominent citizen of that city, recently told of in THE PRESS of Saturday:

"With very modest, but most beautiful ceremony, the marriage of James E. Clark, son of John Clark of West Seventh street, Plainfield, and Miss Sarah Wolford, eldest daughter of Mrs. Wolford, was solemnized at the home of the bride, 1038 High street, Keokuk, last Tuesday noon. The Rev. H. B. Heyer, Sr. tied the knot in the presence of a small company of friends, limited to relatives and most intimate friends. A tete a tempting lunch, Mr. and Mrs. Clark departed on the afternoon T. P. & W. train for the east.

"The bride is the daughter of the Hon. Lafe Wolford, now at the chancery of the United States courts, and well known and esteemed. Mr. Clark was formerly of the firm of Clark Bros. & Co., wholesale boots and shoes dealers and leading men of the city, and went east in 1887. He is now the Boston man her of the sole leather handling firm of Wright, Clark & Co., and is a young gentleman of that high order of moral and social qualities. After an extended bridal tour, Mr. and Mrs. Clark will be at home to their friends in Chicago, Evanston, Wheaton, Mass., after March 1.

When You Go West Take the Alton.

Before starting on the trip which you contemplate, consult Fred L. Chase, the genial and obliging passenger agent of the Chicago and Alton railroad. You will from him the many valuable pointers to travelers he has to impart. The Chicago and Alton is one of the most popular roads in the world. It is famous for the attention it pays to the convenience and comfort of its passengers. Luxurious palace vestibuled cars are furnished for those on all through trains, day and night, over its lines, between Chicago and Kansas City. Chicago and St. Louis, and St. Louis and Kansas City. For safety and comfort patronize the Chicago and Alton. Consult Fred L. Chase.

The opinion of the people in that Dr. Buchanan's proposition to lend and thereby relieve the needy of Dublin was absurd, has been fully confirmed by the subscriptions already received.

The hunting and partridge question at Secretary Gil reader is the best article on the subject, and one of the shortest published.

SAVED BY A FIERCE FLAME.

A Mother and Daughter Snatched From the Fiercest in Asbury in Their Prime.

Among those who were rescued from the burning Hotel Royal in New York city, Sunday morning, were Mrs. Julia Fulper, wife of Hon. H. J. Fulper and two of Whom F. Fulper of this city, and her daughter. Miss Julia Fulper. Mrs. Fulper, who lives in Flemington, had gone to New York to visit her daughter. As she is a pupil at Miss Gardiner's school on Fifth avenue, and Miss Fulper was spending the night with her mother at the hotel, Mrs Fulper was slightly burned and is suffering from the shock. Miss Fulper had her hair singed.

The proposed law is given below. It will be seen that it is retroactive, and if it has passed the house and be signed by the governor—as THE PRESS can assure the people it will become a permanent statute—no one will be attracted in this city at once, no matter how many bosses object:

1. Be it enacted, That any street railway company in this State may use electric or mechanical motors or any other motive power of its cars, instead of horses, provided, it shall first obtain the consent of the municipal authorities having charge of the public streets or highways on which it is proposed to operate, but such consent or such consent may be granted either by ordinance or by resolution.

2. And be it enacted, That such municipal authorities may in like manner authorize the change of poles and wires already in use for the purposes, and subject to such conditions as they may deem proper, in which and on the where such poles shall be located, and the manner in which the wires shall be strung thereon, and for the use of such poles as may be prescribed in such ordinance or resolution.

3. And be it enacted, That no such consent hereinbefore granted, whether by resolution or ordinance, by municipality to any street railway company to change the motive power or any cables as the propelling power of its cars, or to change the location of poles in such ordinance or resolution specified, shall be valid or effectual unless the same shall have been granted pursuant to the provisions of this act to the extent authorized by this act.

4. And be it enacted, That the municipal authorities shall have the right to receive compensation for the granting of any consent, in such shape as shall be agreed upon by the said railway companies and municipal authorities, such compensation to be paid in accordance made for such compensation shall be void and effectual as if made under this act.

5. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

CAPT. MARTIN'S GENEROUS GIFT.

Important Transactions at the Bi Club Rooms.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Plainfield Bicycle club, on Friday night, four new members were elected, Messrs. Alonzo T. Ayworth and N. Holdworth, were elected.

Notice was given that at the next meeting resolutions will be offered for amending certain clauses of the constitution, it being the desire of some of the members of the club should with draw from the League of American Wheelmen.

Captain Frank L. O. Martin's offer to present the club with a handsome flag was accepted with a vote of thanks.

"THE WORLD puts heart and conscience into this work," said Mr. Pulitzer in the handmaid of Justice, the unraveller of mysteries, the detector and the terror of evil doers. It has been the champion of the help of the poor, the strength of the weak and the defender of the injured among from the People, it gives back to them. It is their advocate and friend. Fearless and its resources enable it to render.

With a perfect equipment, a thorough organization, capable direction and a long determination to move on and up to higher and higher levels of excellence, THE WORLD believes its multitude of readers a more and more magnificent field for enterprise. Much has been done in it during 1892 even more wonderful things than it has already accomplished.

Prizes for Their Prize Poster.

The Plainfield's association met Monday night at the home of Mr. Richards. Mr. Mitchell read an interesting paper on "Proper meetings". A resolution was adopted to raise a hundred dollars to purchase a new flag. The treasurer having been read and approved, the meeting was then adjourned.

KILLED BY THE WRECK.

Firemen Bradley Terribly Mangled in a Railway Railroad Collision.

Patrick Bradley, fireman on a Philadelphia and Reading freight locomotive, died at the Reading hospital in this city, Monday, from frightful injuries received in a collision of the Reading road near the crossing of the Lehigh Valley road at Wesley, Somerset county.

Bradley's locomotive had a stand in on a siding to take out a train of empty coal cars. When it was ready to start, the switch and the engine was backed in again to reconnect the cars. The switchman came over from his tower to see what was the matter, and, in the darkness, failed to see that no other train should approach while the cars were being drawn. The heavy coal train, which did not stop at the siding, dashed into the light engine with terrific force, and the latter was thrown down the bank at a speed much greater than that of the train. The engineer escaped by jumping, but it was a frosty night, and Bradley, who was asleep, was seen in the caboose keeping warm. Such brakes as were opened failed to check the speed of the train, and with a terrific crash that was heard for miles the heavy cars of coal, and other freight cars, were piled in a confused heap

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY. HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST ..... City Editor.

—The whist team of the Quadrant League have received handsome oak card tables as prizes for their work in the recent whist contest.

—Members of the W. C. T. U. went through the dismantled "Elmwood" yesterday. It is hoped the union will secure the place for a headquarters.

—Stevenson R. Hope has been a special policeman ever since Plainfield was incorporated as a city. He was sworn in Saturday for his twenty-fifth term.

—Jesse Hatfield has a rare old copy of the Millstone (Somerset county) Mirror, which flourished in war times, but which died because it refused to enter politics.

—Members and officers of the North Plainfield township committee audited the books of collector H. N. Spencer, Monday, and found them correct.

—Rudy resell the pianist is not coming to Plainfield, as was hoped. His manager tells THE PRESS that his price is $2,000 for a night, but that his book of engagements is full.

—Music Hall has been rented for Monday evening, Feb. 22. "Washington's Birthday," which, on occasion the thrilling "Border" drama of "The Lost Scout" will be presented.

—The partnership lately existing between John H. McVey and Frank P. Haffner, for a hardware business, the latter dealers, as agent, have been selling goods on commission, is dissolved.

—Because you have lived in Plainfield, the perfect in the business men of this city don't fancy that you know all about it, but order through Etall a copy of John Habberton's new book, "The Chautauquans".

—A young lady in the family of John M. Hetfield at 4 Plainfield avenue accidentally set fire to a lamp-wick on a mantel in the house Thursday night. An alarm of fire was sent in from box 43. The damage was slight.

—It is rumored that the doctors of Plainfield are intending to raise their rates and fees. Hopeful signs of a reduction in business if they do. The people won't feel called upon to pay for their physicians' income.

—Everybody will be glad to know that Amos Moffett is able to be out again after a severe illness of over a month. He attended church at Bethlehem yesterday, and received the congratulations of his scores of friends.

—Although Edward Schenck recovered a verdict of $20 against Fireman Gise of Dunellen, for damages done by a runaway and wagon, the lawsuit has gained little to his purse. The five arbitrators are now entitled to $20 for their work, which expense is to be borne between Gise and Schenck.

—Annie Nolan was interviewed Tuesday night and threw herself on the railroad track near the Somerville station, in front of an approaching train. She narrowly escaped death, for the train was not difficultly stopped within half a rail's length of her. Policeman Conroy grabbed her in time.

—To fill not be long before Peace street is extended into the borough. The township committee was authorized the extension, and the commissioners have begun their work of appraisement. At a public meeting in the borough on Monday sufficient money was subscribed to meet preliminary expenses.

—Overflowing with choice reading and useful information is the February number of The Library Table, just from the press of Warren street, New York. The journal is issued every month, at the very low price of 50 cents a year. The variety of contents is said to be unusually attractive, and must be seen to be appreciated.

—Seymour G. Smith's hand—despite the off rts of all the best surgeons in the country and a number of "specialists" operations—is no better, and he fears now he may have to have it amputated. The beginning of the trouble was merely a sprain while bowling, but since then the injury in the back of the hand are decidedly rapidly.

—The housekeepers of Plainfield will be pleased to learn that they may procure through the woman's exchange at 73 Park avenue, hickory-nut meats of fine quality for cakes and candies, at a very low price. The nuts are gathered and shelled by contracted by a deserving person, who would like through the exchange to find a steady market for his wares.

—Signor Manager Codding's signing Hammill, who last year pitched for Plainfield, the Westfield Leader says: "It will be remembered that Hammill was the only pitcher that defeated the victorious over the Westfield last year, and the occasion is doubtless a valuable one. With O'Neil and Hammill, Westfield will be pretty well equipped in the way of pitchers.

SEVEN-UP AT FANWOOD.

The Knight Had a Heavy Load to Carry.

The Highlanders met Monday in Fanwood for the first sitting in the struggle for supremacy at the old-fashioned game. On assembling, it was announced that the Captain could not attend, he having been unexpectedly called to Jersey City to reunion of seafaring veterans in Brooklyn; but with his cust-mary forethought he had sought out the official scorer, Mr. ——, and handed on instructions represented by him, so that the series should in no way be interrupted. Most disastrous was the result of the change, as the Generals and Colonels reduced the lead of their opponents that the latter now are but 14 points ahead, the score being Captain and Knight, 69; General and Colonel, 55. Much anxiety was expressed by Mr. —— as to what the Captain would say upon his return. The regulation refreshments were duly discussed, and the sittings adjourned at any early hour.

Statement of the Petition.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The statement in your issue of Feb. 4, is not true, as there were one hundred and two firemen out of one hundred and sixty, that signed the petition asking the mayor to retain J. Erwin Wat ers as first assistant engineer; also over one hundred citizens asking the same. In reference to the company that did not sign any petition, that was because they had none offered them.

A YOUNG FIREMAN.

Six Months in Jail for a "Philippsburg Telegram" Reporter.

The parties connected with the defunct Philippsburg Telegram who were convicted of libeling Lawyer Wm. B. Bechtel, of Reading, were sentenced in court Tuesday. Mr. Wombaugh was fined $100 and cost, and his partner in the publication of the paper, Mr. Costello, was fined $150 and costs. Frank L. Murphy, the alleged author of the article, was fined $150 and a sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

PERSONALIA.

John Codington is at the bedside of his father-in-law, Simon Runyon, who is very ill at Millington.

D. G. Clawson was summoned by telegraph Sunday to the bedside of his father, who is very ill at Barleyfield, near Flemington.

Charles Chase Hurlbut of this city has been elected from the sophomore class in Washington university to membership in the Skull and Bones society.

H. E. Lavell and family, of this city, have gone to New York for a short visit before sailing for Bermuda. Mr. Lavell needs the rest trip in search of good health again.

The Rev. A. V. V. Raymond of Albany, formerly pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will exchange pulpits with the Rev. Mr. Richards of this city, Sunday the 21st inst.

Milford, son of Benjamin Day, of Rockwood avenue, died Wednesday last Thursday in an epileptic fit. Dr. Jenkins was summoned, but the lad was dead before the physician arrived.

The directors met on the 10th inst. at the engagement of E. B. Rogers, of the late firm of Rogers Bros., to Miss Emma S. Vreeland of East Millstone. Mr. Rogers has gone to Buffalo, where he will engage in the real estate business. W. B. Rogers, the other brother, is very ill at Buffalo with pneumonia.

Captain J. Frank Hubbard and Charles H. King were mustered in Major Anderson Post, No. 109, Thursday night. They make a total of 10 added to the Post in the past six months. The full membership is now 68 which is a remarkable showing of growth and prosperity since the Post's organization.

Capt. Benjamin Doane, a retired captain of the Clyde Line and formerly captain of the Cherokee, has arrived in this city, accompanied by his son-in-law, a Mr. Hall, a member of Plainfield, N. J., to spend a few weeks with his sons, Mrs. G. H Shepard, 105 West Duval street.—The Metropolis, Jacksonville, Fla.

Walter Bass of this city has been enjoying two weeks of fine weather and fine shooting at the sportsman's paradise, Long Point Marsh, Back Bay, Virginia. He has returned to this city, looking well, with fine specimens of game, and has sent some to be mounted two magnificent Canada wild ducks, which he favors bestowed by the generous hostess were very handsome and appropriate.

Mrs Margaret Bottome, who addressed the members and friends of the Ladies' Circle of King's Daughters in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, Thursday afternoon, was a recipient from a warm friend of hers, of a fine work, which emblematic floral piece, a basket with a white cross set in a bed of purple violets, the whole surrounded with a wreath of white silver bells ending from a border of smilax.

George F. Brown, who left Plainfield last December, is at present staying in Jacksonville, Fla. A letter received today, by his brother Charles, he signifies his intention of sailing in a few days for Honolulu, in the Sandwich Islands, where he will make a visit of several weeks or longer. Mr. Brown has not been very well since leaving Plainfield, but at the time he writes was feeling much improved.

Gen-ral William B. Sterling will leave Plainfield in a few days for San Francisco to administer upon the estate of his brother, J. Frank Sterling, who died there in that city. The latter was a bachelor, and left considerable wealth. The counsel of the Pacific railroad, just before he left Philadelphia will accompany the General as his attorney. The deceased left, besides other property, valuable real estate in Chicago and Plainfield.

Mrs. Albert Beers was assisted at the reception she tendered her friends at her home on Broad way, Saturday afternoon, by Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. Patterson. It being at anniversary of her wedding, she was attended by eight bridesmaids as follows: The Misses Goosie and Minnie Murray, the Misses Green, Hollie and Genevieve Daniel, Miss Alice Holmes, Miss Kate Kimball and Miss Minnie Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. MacClymont of Washington Park celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding Feb. 3, afternoon and evening. Only their friends were in attendance. Many were present. Among those were the Rev. D. T. McClymont, pastor of the North Baptist church of Newark, Wm. F. Hall, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company, George W. Marlow of the city sub-treasury, and many others. The host and hostess received many handsome presents.

Those who have the interests of the Plainfield public schools at heart will regret to learn that there is a possibility of Miss Sulkley's resignation as principal, assigning her office at the end of this term. It is understood that she has been offered an important professorship in a new university to be founded in Chicago by some of the country's leading educators. Final decision in the matter will soon be reached. The most earnest efforts will be made of course to their best endeavors to induce Miss Sulkley to remain.

ARRESTED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT.

A Plainfield Young Man Gets His Employer's Goods for No Own Profit.

William H. Rose, aged twenty-two years, was arraigned in the Elizabeth police court Saturday morning, charged with embezzlement. Rose was in the employ of John G-ff, a Plainfield produce dealer, and went to Elizabeth with a load of potatoes, which he sold, and converted the money. His likewise tried to sell the horse and wagon, but while he was hunting up a purchaser the chief of police was informed of Mr. Rose's actions and he was arrested. Mr. Goff went on from Plainfield and made a formal complaint against the prisoner, who was committed to jail for trial. His father was formerly a produce merchant on Broad street, Elizabeth, and now lives at Roselle.

Story in Plainfield.

Henry E. Dixey and company, under the management of Charles Frohman, still present Darnley's light, humorous comedy "The Solicitor" at Music Hall, Friday evening.

The amusing complications and situations are said to go with a snap and vim that provoke shouts of laughter. This is especially true of the second act, the hilarious ending of which received several curtain calls each evening, during the course of a hundred nights in New York city. Dixey's impersonation of the London lawyer has proved to be a thoroughly artistic and complete one. He makes no attempt at creating a laugh through any personal efforts, but relies purely on his serious treatment of the role to lend the drama its audience mirthfully.

Preceding "The Solicitor" will be given "A Tangled Web", a bright one-act farce by Benjamin F. Newcomb. The company is in competent one and includes such well-known players as Miss Virginia Buchanan, Miss Josephine Plowe-Day, Miss Marie Greenwald, Miss Annie Boeklin, Miss Fanny Gilson, and Lewis Baker, Robert Hickman, Joseph Francis, Walter Greenwald, Frank Mc-Cormick, Samuel Chester, F. W. Glennon and others.

ORGANIST AND CHURCH AT ODDS.

Trouble Among Presbyterians Over the Question of Who Shall Run the Music.

From THE PRESS of Feb. 3.

A learned wiseman of years gone by once made the remark that it was when the devil succeeded in gaining entrance to a church he at once went into the organ loft and made his presence felt with the choir. The wisdom of that remark has received abundant verification in these latter days, and there are those who quote it in connection with the fine rumpus that has just arisen in the First Presbyterian church in this city.

A rupture has existed for some time between Deacon Rick, organist, and John M. Bettman, chairman of the music committee. It has been no secret that Rick took one of the choir singers, Miss Bisbebe Fellows, who is a niece of Mr. Bettman, that her "uncle John might run the rest of the church, but should n't run this thing."

Each Sunday the choir sing five selections besides the regular hymns. The members found it impossible to do justice to two special solos without preparation, and so suggested to the music committee that one week's notice be given Rick, so that the selections to be rendered by organist Rick was called before the session of the church and after some argument he promised to give the desired notice. Rick, the next Sunday strutted, however, between Mr. Rick and Mr. Bettman, that Mr. Bettman would wait after service and inform each choir member as he came out if Mr. Rick had given him the music for the next Sunday. Consequently Mr. Rick neglected to do so, and a storm resulted. The breach grew wider, and at last the little resentment developed into open defiance. Once or twice the organist sent in his resignation, but each time was prompted and cajoled, and induced to remain.

Mr. Rick has been planning to give the production of "The Crucifixion" in the church on Good Friday. Instead of going to the music committee or the session he went to Dr. Ketcham and asked permission to have the church for that purpose. Dr. Ketcham said he had no objection, but intimated that it was proper that he should first consult the music committee or session. Public announcement was made of the approaching musical event. Mr. Bettman, Mr. Lounsbury, and Mr. Kelly, of the music committee, were indignant that Mr. Rick had made arrangements for the occasion without consulting them. They were willing to grant Rick's request, but did not like the way in which he sought to brush away their authority. Mr. Rick appealed to Dr. Ketcham, who has always been a warm friend of his, and the clergyman at once wrote a letter to Rick telling him that his consent to the use of the church had been given without knowledge of the fact that said before Mr. Rick must apply to the music committee or the session. The Rick letter was read to the choir one evening last week and the announcement that Mr. Rick was not "called before the session" created a sensation. Mr. Rick declined to receive and grant his application for the use of the church. Instead he sent in his resignation. This time it was promptly accepted. Last night Rick's services had to be given under difficulties. Mr. Rick sat in the congregation and listened. Mr. French from the congregation led the singing, and under the circumstances did admirably. The affair is still in an unsettled condition, as Mr. Rick evidences a desire to continue the organist, in spite of the result. It is, which seems to believe he did not think would be accepted. Feeling among the church people is almost to will make a thrill of general wreck or longer. Mr. Brown has not been very well since leaving Plainfield, but at the time he writes was feeling much improved.

Gen-ral William B. Sterling will leave Plainfield in a few days for San Francisco to administer upon the estate of his brother, J. Frank Sterling, who died there in that city. The latter was a bachelor, and left considerable wealth. The counsel of the Pacific railroad, just before he left Philadelphia will accompany the General as his attorney. The deceased left, besides other property, valuable real estate in Chicago and Plainfield.

Mrs. Albert Beers was assisted at the reception she tendered her friends at her home on Broad way, Saturday afternoon, by Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. Patterson. It being at anniversary of her wedding, she was attended by eight bridesmaids as follows: The Misses Goosie and Minnie Murray, the Misses Green, Hollie and Genevieve Daniel, Miss Alice Holmes, Miss Kate Kimball and Miss Minnie Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. MacClymont of Washington Park celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding Feb. 3, afternoon and evening. Only their friends were in attendance. Many were present. Among those were the Rev. D. T. McClymont, pastor of the North Baptist church of Newark, Wm. F. Hall, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company, George W. Marlow of the city sub-treasury, and many others. The host and hostess received many handsome presents.

Those who have the interests of the Plainfield public schools at heart will regret to learn that there is a possibility of Miss Sulkley's resignation as principal, assigning her office at the end of this term. It is understood that she has been offered an important professorship in a new university to be founded in Chicago by some of the country's leading educators. Final decision in the matter will soon be reached. The most earnest efforts will be made of course to their best endeavors to induce Miss Sulkley to remain.

BOLD BURGLARY.

Two Locomotive Firemen Robbed of Their Watches in Broad Daylight.

The Food police are looking for a jaunty "dude" of medium size who for some days has been loitering about the corner of Front and Somerset streets. At 2:45 o'clock Friday afternoon Mrs. Ella E. Compton, of No. 42 Somerset street, was alone in the house, when she heard a noise in the front room. She went to investigate, and found that a burglar had broken through a rear door, ransacked the house from top to bottom, and departed with probably $100 in money and jewelry. From Mr. and Mrs. Ella's ladies' gold hunting-case watch and other jewelry and several dollars in money. Mr. and Mrs. Homer Compton, also of No. 42 Somerset street, lost $8 in money, two amethyst rings, an opera-glass silver watch, gold chain and charm. Witt's buttonhook and pocket knife. The thief wrenched apart the lock on the trunk of Mr. Bedford, Mr. Mc-Kee's brother-in-law, and abstracted a $60 watch and $15 in money. The trunk had an initial plate in small diamonds, and had Bedford engraved inside.

The thief entered the residence of Mrs. Hawkins at No. 51, through a cellar window. He unlocked all the doors in the house and secured $15 in cash. As in the case of Mr. McKee's, all the family were out. A servant girl at the house of John H. Doane saw a well-dressed, dapper young man prowling about the front door of Homer's house. He had a light silk handkerchief about his neck. She saw him try the door that was later found open, and he is believed to be the thief.

MR. RICK'S SIDE OF THE CASE.

A Defender Who Says That Everything is Fine That Anybody Else Says.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Having seen with surprise the article in your Monday's issue under the caption of "Organist and Church at Odds", I ask that you give the same prominence to this communication in the interest of simple truth and justice. While the article in question has a grain of truth, it is buried in such a mass of misunderstandings as to be calculated to mislead those of your readers who are unacquainted with the facts. One of the statements of facts is the question of Mr. Rick's request to Miss Fellows that her "Uncle John might run the rest of the church but should n't run this end," which was brought out by her saying after one of the choir meetings that she would sing it no more. Members of the choir suggested that the music be given out one week in advance. But on learning Mr. Rick's objections the gentlemen withdrew, and the subject was dropped so far as they were concerned. Mr. Rick was not "called before the session" and did not receive any notice except for a couple of Sundays.

The statement that Mr. Rick sent in his resignation "after the choir meeting" at a time he was pained and cajoled and induced to remain" is not true. The only resignation was that tendered to Dr. Ketcham March 1st, and which Mr. Rick planned to give the Oratorio of the "Crucifixion" in the church on Good Friday, and had succeeded in securing a fine choir of thirty voices from the best of our local talent, but no steps were taken by him until he had received the sanctions and approval of Dr. Ketcham and several members of the board of trustees who alone had authority to grant the use of the church. As it was unnecessary to consult the music committee, there was no valid reason for indignation on their part, they having no authority in the matter. It is stated that the choir in the prize service was "Given under difficulties", but that can be easily understood by those who had been accustomed to the best of music, and the loss of the grand organ by Mr. Rick. The musical service last Sunday night, instead of being in any particular satisfactory, was in nightmare order, and the strain pain to lovers of harmony. The "affair" is not in an unsettled condition so far as Mr. Rick is concerned, and while his host of friends in and out of the church would be only too happy to have him back in his old place, his resignation was fully accepted at the time, and instead of the feeling in the church being "almost wholly against him", as a matter of fact the contrary is the case and he has a majority of the congregation in his favor today. Another error is the statement that "He drove an excellent singer from the choir". The whole trouble is attributed of the music committee going outside their province in the determination to direct the musical director on matters that had been left to the latter by the best of a thoroughly competent organist and musician.

TRUTH.

Plainfield Feb. 10, 1892.

Whose Pastor and People Do Not Agree.

[From The Elizabeth Journal.]

The Park Avenue Baptist church of Plainfield did not have the choice of the pastor of the contractor who built the edifice, and therefore the pastor, the Rev. Asa Reed Dirks, resigned. He did not think as his people did with reference to this one tie, and therefore concluded to leave. It was not merely a matter of pique, it was a matter of Christian principle, and on this the Rev. Dirks stood. When pastor and people do not think the same, a separation is the best thing that can happen.

Fossil News From New York.

The Sunday New York Herald each week devotes a column to record the doings of this city, and the select array of choice literature with which his readers are treated regales the erratic James Gordon Bennett's account of the visit of Lillian Russell to Europe on a run and make the elder J. G. Bennett a hand-spring in his grave. Yesterday, for instance, the Herald sitting-up newspaper recounted a meeting of the Lunch club "on Wednesday evening," which really occurred a week and a half before, and stated that Mr. Timothy Fay Adams delivered a lecture at the Casino," which was also eminently untrue. Mr. Adams's lecture took place a week ago Saturday night, and to top off with an item about a Plainfield family who anticipate a European tour is stolen word for word from the PRESS of eleven days Jan. 29, and printed in the Herald. There is no doubt that the Herald is a great paper, but it ought to scare up a Plainfield correspondent who can keep pace with the times.

A Farewell Hop.

New Yorker (advancing upon the ostentacian in charge of the Union News stand at the Fanwood station): Paper of Virgin Lee?

Ostlegerian: "Ain't got none."

New Yorker (pointing): "I see it in that bar."

Ostlegerian: "Oh!" (Produces it.)

New Yorker throws down a quarter, and receives fifteen cents in change.

New Yorker: "Five cents is the regular price. Now if I wished to buy a copy of the Plainfield Farms what would you charge?"

Ostlegerian: "Five cents."

New Yorker: "So it is true that my friends have cannot be supplied with that paper without paying six hundred and fifty cents, goods to the Union News agency?"

Ostlegerian: "I don't know nothin' about it." Throws window.

New Yorker (soliloquizing): "Well! I've come for a Farm; four cents for an edition of my city daily; the Farms one cent with a great power!"

Sergeant Lynch is on duty again, after a protracted siege of illness.

A BRILLIANT SOCIAL EVENT.

The Elizabeth Journal Describes Behind the Scenes Doings.

[From The Elizabeth Journal.]

The Food police are looking for a jaunty "dude" of medium size who for some days has been loitering about the corner of Front and Somerset streets. At 2:45 o'clock Friday afternoon Mrs. Ella E. Compton, of No. 42 Somerset street, was alone in the house, when she heard a noise in the front room. She went to investigate, and found that a burglar had broken through a rear door, ransacked the house from top to bottom, and departed with probably $100 in money and jewelry. From Mr. and Mrs. Ella's ladies' gold hunting-case watch and other jewelry and several dollars in money. Mr. and Mrs. Homer Compton, also of No. 42 Somerset street, lost $8 in money, two amethyst rings, an opera-glass silver watch, gold chain and charm. Witt's buttonhook and pocket knife. The thief wrenched apart the lock on the trunk of Mr. Bedford, Mr. McKee's brother-in-law, and abstracted a $60 watch and $15 in money. The trunk had an initial plate in small diamonds, and had Bedford engraved inside.

The thief entered the residence of Mrs. Hawkins at No. 51, through a cellar window. He unlocked all the doors in the house and secured $15 in cash. As in the case of McKee's, all the family were out. A servant girl at the house of John H. Doane saw a well-dressed, dapper young man prowling about the front door of Homer's house. He had a light silk handkerchief about his neck. She saw him try the door that was later found open, and he is believed to be the thief.

MR. RICK'S SIDE OF THE CASE.

A Defender Who Says That Everything is Fine That Anybody Else Says.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Having seen with surprise the article in your Monday's issue under the caption of "Organist and Church at Odds", I ask that you give the same prominence to this communication in the interest of simple truth and justice. While the article in question has a grain of truth, it is buried in such a mass of misunderstandings as to be calculated to mislead those of your readers who are unacquainted with the facts. One of the statements of facts is the question of Mr. Rick's request to Miss Fellows that her "Uncle John might run the rest of the church but should n't run this end," which was brought out by her saying after one of the choir meetings that she would sing it no more. Members of the choir suggested that the music be given out one week in advance. But on learning Mr. Rick's objections the gentlemen withdrew, and the subject was dropped so far as they were concerned. Mr. Rick was not "called before the session" and did not receive any notice except for a couple of Sundays.

The statement that Mr. Rick sent in his resignation "after the choir meeting" at a time he was pained and cajoled and induced to remain" is not true. The only resignation was that tendered to Dr. Ketcham March 1st, and which Mr. Rick planned to give the Oratorio of the "Crucifixion" in the church on Good Friday, and had succeeded in securing a fine choir of thirty voices from the best of our local talent, but no steps were taken by him until he had received the sanctions and approval of Dr. Ketcham and several members of the board of trustees who alone had authority to grant the use of the church. As it was unnecessary to consult the music committee, there was no valid reason for indignation on their part, they having no authority in the matter. It is stated that the choir in the prize service was "Given under difficulties", but that can be easily understood by those who had been accustomed to the best of music, and the loss of the grand organ by Mr. Rick. The musical service last Sunday night, instead of being in any particular satisfactory, was in nightmare order, and the strain pain to lovers of harmony. The "affair" is not in an unsettled condition so far as Mr. Rick is concerned, and while his host of friends in and out of the church would be only too happy to have him back in his old place, his resignation was fully accepted at the time, and instead of the feeling in the church being "almost wholly against him", as a matter of fact the contrary is the case and he has a majority of the congregation in his favor today. Another error is the statement that "He drove an excellent singer from the choir". The whole trouble is attributed of the music committee going outside their province in the determination to direct the musical director on matters that had been left to the latter by the best of a thoroughly competent organist and musician.

TRUTH.

Plainfield Feb. 10, 1892.

Whose Pastor and People Do Not Agree.

[From The Elizabeth Journal.]

The Park Avenue Baptist church of Plainfield did not have the choice of the pastor of the contractor who built the edifice, and therefore the pastor, the Rev. Asa Reed Dirks, resigned. He did not think as his people did with reference to this one tie, and therefore concluded to leave. It was not merely a matter of pique, it was a matter of Christian principle, and on this the Rev. Dirks stood. When pastor and people do not think the same, a separation is the best thing that can happen.

Fossil News From New York.

The Sunday New York Herald each week devotes a column to record the doings of this city, and the select array of choice literature with which his readers are treated regales the erratic James Gordon Bennett's account of the visit of Lillian Russell to Europe on a run and make the elder J. G. Bennett a hand-spring in his grave. Yesterday, for instance, the Herald sitting-up newspaper recounted a meeting of the Lunch club "on Wednesday evening," which really occurred a week and a half before, and stated that Mr. Timothy Fay Adams delivered a lecture at the Casino," which was also eminently untrue. Mr. Adams's lecture took place a week ago Saturday night, and to top off with an item about a Plainfield family who anticipate a European tour is stolen word for word from the PRESS of eleven days Jan. 29, and printed in the Herald. There is no doubt that the Herald is a great paper, but it ought to scare up a Plainfield correspondent who can keep pace with the times.

A Farewell Hop.

New Yorker (advancing upon the ostentacian in charge of the Union News stand at the Fanwood station): Paper of Virgin Lee?

Ostlegerian: "Ain't got none."

New Yorker (pointing): "I see it in that bar."

Ostlegerian: "Oh!" (Produces it.)

New Yorker throws down a quarter, and receives fifteen cents in change.

New Yorker: "Five cents is the regular price. Now if I wished to buy a copy of the Plainfield Farms what would you charge?"

Ostlegerian: "Five cents."

New Yorker: "So it is true that my friends have cannot be supplied with that paper without paying six hundred and fifty cents, goods to the Union News agency?"

Ostlegerian: "I don't know nothin' about it." Throws window.

New Yorker (soliloquizing): "Well! I've come for a Farm; four cents for an edition of my city daily; the Farms one cent with a great power!"

Sergeant Lynch is on duty again, after a protracted siege of illness.

COUSINS WANT HIS WEALTH.

Contesting the Will of Mrs. Mary Ann Runyon, Formerly of Plainfield, Who Willed Trinity Church of This City $5,000 but Afterwards Changed His Mind and Left Most of His Money to a Young Wife.

A very eccentric old gentleman was John Goldsmith Paynter, who for many years lived at Bloomfield Motherwood on the north side of Park avenue and Fifth street. He accumulated a large fortune, and on his death made bequests to a number of friends and relatives, not forgetting either his favorite charities or his new church. But the Rev. Mr. Schenck's church on West Second street, whose trustees had been told by mutual friends that Mr. Paynter had the church down in his will for $5,000, was crossed out before he died.

His wife, Mrs. Mary B. Paynter, is entitled by the terms of his will to the greater part of his estate. Whether she will ever receive it or not is a matter for the courts to decide, as a contest has been brought, and the first hearing is set down for this morning before Surrogate Bloom.

Mr. Paynter was fully seventy years of age and very infirm. He had had several apoplectic strikes and was under constant medical treatment. He was a fine scholar and lived in handsome style in his house in Lexington avenue.

He was also in the habit of doing business for about a quarter of a century, his only occupation being to care for his property in New York and Brooklyn. His wealth was variously estimated at from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

MARRIED AFTER MANY YEARS.

Under the circumstances there was great surprise among his acquaintances when it was announced less than a year ago that he had just married Miss Mary Burtill Ellis, of Williamsburgh, N. Y., who was barely half his age. It is said, however, that he had been engaged to Miss Ellis at one time, perhaps fifteen years ago, as told in THE PRESS, but that engagement had been broken off not long afterward.

He had made arrangements just before the momentous event showing that he expected to remain a celibate. The wedding ceremony took place on February 10, 1890, at Williamsburgh. He had to consult a physician on the very day of his marriage. Four days later he executed a long and elaborate will in New York. He went to a sanitarium in the interior of the State on June 1. About a fortnight later a codicil was added to the will. The old man died on August 11.

TERMS OF THE WILL.

The will contains thirty-four clauses, and is devoted mainly to bequests ranging from $1,000 to $5,000. The largest gave $61,920.35 to the First Presbyterian church of Newtown, L. I., giving directions how the money was to be spent. A new church building should be erected on the site of the present church, but $1500 first further back from the road, at a cost of $25,000; for the organ $5,000 shall be paid, for the windows $550; for the heating apparatus $500; for carpets $500; for the pulpit one of $1,000, and for organ $1,000.

Detailed directions were given about filling in marshy ground, erecting carriage sheds, putting up monuments, building a stone fence, painting and other things. A special fund was made for keeping the place in repair and arranging the shrubbery and for paying the organist and choir.

A monument was to be erected in memory of the Rev. John Goldsmith, the pastor of the church during Mr. Paynter's boyhood, and other monuments for deceased relatives.

Other bequests included $5,000 to the Manhattan Working Girls' society and to the Bethany Day Nursery. Several pieces of real estate, in addition to the entire residue, after paying the bequests, were specifically given to Mrs. Paynter. The executors appointed were Edwin S. Gorham, of Bloomfield, Conn., and Abraham Marshall Hyatt, of 20 West Seventy-third street, New York city.

By the terms of his codicil Mr. Paynter made several additional bequests; among them one of $2,000 to his lawyer, Oliver J. Wells.

The contestants, who are represented by counselors Mooney & Shipman, of Nassau Street, and Charles Ogden, are John E. Paynter, Amanda J. Paynter, Catherine E. Wood, Mary Helen Pierce and Charity M. Morris, who are all cousins of the old man.

A PARSON.

[From The Bound Brook Democrat.]

When North Plainfield people their 1.50 per Centage of Labor Tax to join the Plainfield friends in paying their $2.21 assessments they will probably make their wants known to the Legislators through their natural representatives Hons. Wm. J. Keys and James J. Bergen, in whom all confidence is placed.

The Late to Save the Clergyman.

Thursday night's Courier tells us:

Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon, now at Montreux, is gradually recovering from his long and serious illness.

In view of the fact that Spurgeon died Sunday night, it is deplored that the physician's health editor failed to rise to the occasion earlier, and get in his sonorvalescence business last week.

Harris Not Dear Friends Here.

Carlyle Harris says: "I again repeat, and defy anyone to prove to the contrary, that I never had any guilty knowledge of Helen Potts. I never even knew the woman or a girl named Van Zandt. It is not true that I ever lived in Plainfield, N. J. I have some dear friends there, but I had to all the connection I have ever had with the town."

Solving the Broomacker Problem

The McDowell Co., of 6 West Fourteenth street, New York, are now preparing ladies to use the Broomacker. This machine so as to enable them to take a position as a cutter or to do their own dressmaking. One can learn to cut two different styles of garments each day and attend the special lessons on basting, finishing, draping, fancy vests, ball costumes, seamless waists, or waists with fancy yokes, sleeves, and all the different styles of skirts. By these one is so thoroughly drilled in taking measures and cutting that in one week's time one is sure to be able to cut any style from a fashion journal. One can enter the class and take her first lesson at any time. They have classes from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. Each pupil gets one of the famous garment drafting Machines. The company will be glad to show ladies through their establishment where they can see the cutters at work and where they can also see just how the finest work is done. The McDowell French fashion journals, "Modes de Paris", "Nouvelles Modes" and "La Mode", are the finest ever placed before the public. Send for the beautiful February issues.

- Major Grant, Comptroller Myers, and Chamberlain Croker, of New York, have added the Maxwell and Fulton Bank, of which Alex Gilbert, Mayor of this city, is cashier, to those in which New York's money is deposited. The rate of interest will remain 2½ per cent.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

DROVE THROUGH THE FIRE OF THE MOB.

Interesting and Exciting Incidents in the Career of Senator Kaye.

If earnest county's senator, William J. Keys, occupies two entire pages of the biographical department of the recently-published Legislative Manual. The story is an interesting one, and in reading it Mr. Keys's political opponents cannot help admiring the senator for his excellent qualities of head and heart, while his many friends in this section will read it with great pleasure:

Among these present were:

Senator Keys was born at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., April 13, 1838. His father was one of the original builders of the old Hudson river railroad, and at the age of thirteen the present senator found employment in New York city, where he remained for a number of years. He was an active member of the old volunteer fire department and served for eleven years.

During the war Mr. Keys, through the recommendations of the Hon. Horatio Seymour and Gen. John A. Dix, was awarded the contract for hauling and helping distribute the provisions and forage for the eastern department. Chester A. Arthur then had charge of that department, and Mr. Keys was brought in close contact with the late President, and a strong friendship was formed which lasted until President Arthur's death.

Mr. Keys's contract was a big one, and during those exciting days he had his hands full. It was during the draft riots that the greatest trouble was experienced, and the contractor had much difficulty in getting drivers for the wagons to deliver rations to the hungry soldiers stationed in and around New York city. It was worth one's life to ride the streets in the interest of the government.

On one particular afternoon during a riot, an attempt was made to blow up the gas-house at the foot of East Twenty-first street, and a large body of soldiers was stationed at the gates of the Seventy-seventh, between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth streets, in readiness to be called out at any time.

A requisition was sent to the Battery Barracks for cooked rations to be delivered at the arsenal. The streets were filled with angry men, and not a driver would undertake the task. Mr. Keys was the only way the rations could be delivered was for Contractor Keys himself to drive, and this he did.

He started the best team hitched to a loaded truck, and, mounting it, he started out. Going up Greenwich street he was attacked from every side with stones, bricks and other missiles, and several shots were fired, but undaunted he urged on the team, and reached the hungry soldiers in safety, except for a few cuts about the head.

On another occasion he made a similar trip to Gen. Sandford's residence at the old Stickland mansion on Broadway. He was again attacked by the mob, but being recognized by some members of the fire department, he was allowed to pass, declaring that "Bill Keys should not be molested". He drove up to Gen. Dix's headquarters in triumph, and received the thanks of the general and Gen. Lew Wallace and others.

Perhaps no man living, except Senator Keys, can say that he studied law of Henry Clay Dean, who for the very ground now occupied by the post-office. The government granted him that privilege during the early days of war.

Early in life he was engaged in the produce business in old Washington Market, and later became connected with the Cunard Steamship line, of Troy, and still has interest in that and other lines. He also carried on a large livery business in the city.

Politically he has been a staunch Democrat, and was a warm personal friend and a great admirer of Samuel J. Tilden. Senator Keys has always been active in politics, and was a member of Tammany.

The Senator always wanted to live on a farm, and when the late Senator H. B. Veghte, of Somerville, who was his intimate friend, advised him to purchase a farm at South Branch, he did not ponder over the matter, but closed the bargain, and became a Somerset county farmer.

He did not attempt to become conspicuous in Somerset politics, but in seeing Somerset county Democrats know a good man when they see one, and in 1890, when that party was at sea for a winning candidate for Senate, it was with pointers and such, forging the charge. This proved a boomerang for the Republicans, and the Democrats elected by 391 plurality, in a county naturally Republican, and which had not sent a Democrat to the Senate in many years.

Senator Keys is a great lover of horses, and has a stable of them, valued at not less than $60,000, at his beautiful home, the Ellis stock farm, on the south branch of the Raritan river, about three miles west of Somerville.

Last year he served as chairman of the committees on Banks and commerce and navigation, and as a member of the committees on education, elections, unfinished business and reform school for boys.

Strictly Fresh Eggs!
FROM THE
FRENCH POULTRY FARM,
UNION VILLAGE, N. Y.

I am prepared to furnish strictly Fresh Eggs, from my own ranges, at your door, every Tuesday and Friday. These eggs are gathered at my own yards. I WILL GUARANTEE EVERY DOG I deliver to be not over 48 hours old. A trial of these eggs will convince you of their superiority.

Address CEO. TAILLEUR, Gillette, N. J. 1 12 3w

"Seeing is Believing."

And a good lamp must be simple; when it is not simple it is good. Simple, Beautiful, Good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and indestructible. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.

Look for this stamp—That guarantees. If the lamp dealer has not the genuine Rochester, send to us for our new illustrated catalogue and we will send you a lamp, express prepaid, for examination. Send for catalogue and prices of Rochester Lamp Chimneys.

BACK NUMBER DUDES.

They Were Just as Silly as the Modern Chappie.

Louis XIV. and His Toilet.—A Dandy of Cromwell's Time.—Beau Brummell and Nash.—The Lovelace Gandy Wearing Apparel.

[Special Letter.]

WHAT the subject of yesterday's adornment is a time-worn one, and has been dressed like him if we could." This statement may be considered along with the remark that, the Beau never removed his hat even to a lady, as it might have disarranged the hairs of his wig, and therefore for this reason he always replaced in the same exact position. His boots, which he blacked with champagne, were always polished on the bottom of the sole. All are familiar with his famous snub of the prince of Wales, when he audibly implored upon the prince's bowing to his companion and ignoring Brummell to "Remember your fat friend." Beau Nash, the McAllister of the past, was styled "King of Bath." He was the son of a Welsh glass painter, and rose by the power of impudence and a fine coat, to a position which enabled him to move in the best society, to dictate and to snatch off the white apron of a duchess, with the remark that only inhabited maids wore aprons.

Neither Brummell nor Nash had the sense to die soon enough; but while the one died a maniac in a lunatic asylum, the other was driven from society and imbecility at Calais, Nash was more fortunate. He was claimed by Bath as their pet to the last of him, I says his biographer, at the good old age of eighty-eight, having retained his sharp wit well that he was thought worthy of a grand funeral at the expense of the corporation.

EMMA M. B. MCDOWELL.

LOVE IN POVERTY.

An Other Evidences of the Fact That Thorns Do Grow on Mistletoe.

She was sweet looking and had considerable style about her, but the quality of her clothes indicated that her purse was not plethoric. She stopped out of the street, in a jewelry store and as the clerk sat out before her a tray of polished calf buttons and gave her the prices, she looked appealing at him and said:

"I don't know much about these things and I would like you to help me make a selection. Tell me what you would like."

"What I would like? Well, now, I think I would like to have a pair like my sister's and he reached into the case and brought out a pair of solid gold with a very small diamond in the center.

"What are they worth?" she said.

The price was far beyond her means.

"Yes, they are very pretty," and then she turned her eyes on the tray that contained the cheaper class.

"Do see, those are rather common," he said; "it's the thing for a present."

"Thank you," she replied, "I am very much obliged to you and sorry to have put you to so much trouble. If I don't see anything I like better I will come back."

As she went out she had a very disappointed look on her face, and I wondered if she would go home and would fail to get a Christmas token of love from her just because a man incapable of appreciating her, from a business standpoint except intrinsic value had led her to believe that all men were like himself.—St. Louis Post Dispatch

REMAINS THE LEADER.

Hartington's Promotion Will Not Affect His Political Position.

The position of Lord Hartington as leader of the dissidents will remain undisturbed on his elevation to the house of lords, writes the Chicago News correspondent. In parliamentary matters he will act as to whether Mr. Joseph Chamberlain or Sir Henry James will succeed to the virtual head of the party. The question, however, was really settled long ago, during the illness from which Lord Hartington has now fully recovered. Under the concurrence of Lord Salisbury, who was then vainly endeavoring to form a cabinet, Lord Hartington by the conservative party, it was determined that Lord Harting-from, while still another enjoyed the privilege of carrying away the slippers. A throng of less-favored courtiers stood meanwhile in respectful silence to witness these thrilling scenes.

LOUIS XIV. BEFORE AND AFTER DINNER.

One of Thackeray's most amusing caricatures draws the old King Louis of his ambrosial periwig, his high-heeled shoes and robe, embroidered with Brussels de-lis. By his side stands the tame fop we decked out in all the royal plumage. The first is only little bald, plain, insignificant Louis Quatorze. The second, Louis plus his clothes—Le Grand Monarque!

But even granting the luxurious Frenchman to have been unduly devoted to self adornment, we must admit that the fashions he set were artistic and graceful. Enough so, at least, to have been since revived from time to time, supporting now in a wanderer, now in a ruffle, or again in the decoration of a room, as in the case at the present time. The same cannot be said of the attire worn by English "article" of the Restoration period.

This gay young man was clad in a fashion which roused the indignation of the satirists, one of whom declared it impossible to know from one's appearance "who is noble, who is worshipful, who is a gentleman, who is not," adding, with due solemnity, "God be merciful unto us." The lace ruffles strengthened by "the devil's liquor, stercke," made this zealous saint absolutely boil over with wrath; while nothing gave him more righteous joy in those restless days than to behold his dressy enemy sacrificed to a sudden access of fire.

"ARTICKE," OF CROMWELL'S TIME.

The fop in question, Sir Percy Westbrooke, let us read his name, when he went abroad, wore a tall hat with a bunch of ribbon on one side and a droopine plume upon the other; his face was gently veiled with patches of red on each side of his head hung upon his bosom and was tied with ribbon bows. His broad collar was edged with lace, he wore a tight vest partly open and short in the waist, with his shirt protruding above his breeches. The latter was adorned with dozens of points at the knees, besides two great bunches of ribbon of various colors. His legs were covered in the lace-trimmed boots provided with jingling spurs and having the toes cut square to show on his left arm he carried his cloak, and in his right hand a stick, which he "played with" as he "strodlled" along the streets, "singing."

The strodling was necessary. A character in a well-known old play complains: "One of my silver spurs catched hold of the ruffle of my boot, which broke off Spanish fashion and so subject to tear, foreblesse me." They therefore "walked wide" to prevent accidents.

A very serious matter was a gentleman's toilet, in those times; so much that it grew tiresome to the wearers, who, after becoming sobered by the plague, the great fire and other calamities, dropped one ribbon and yard of lace after another, until they could safely take their meals from their books and hats and walk about intent upon their business. Let us hope upon their behavior also, for the "gently fellow" under the Stuarts was pretty only in respect to feathers and velvet doublet. His language was coarse, his manners worse, his views eminent of all.

Beau Brummell. Beau Nash.

When the prince regent was posing as the "first gentleman of Europe," the dress of a fop was a blue coat with gilt steel buttons and cuffs. "In black velvet breeches he put all his riches." His heavily-scented garments and the fop-

MIDWINTER FASHIONS.

The Revolving Street Brushes That Border Gowns.

How the Street Cleaning Machines Are Managed by Women Power—The Fairy as in Reality the Pioneer of Its Manufacture.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

It is always a comfort when an idea that has a strong commonality on the horizon of the brain advances a pace or two and allows you with some approach to definiteness to make out its shape. This morning Iowa watching a tall woman dressed wholly in gray. She suggested somehow to me, but the suggestion was tantalizing because so dim and misty in its outlines. Her dress was a tailor gown of heavy Russian gray, in which she looked big and imposing. Over it was a coat of gray velvet trimmed with gray silk passementerie and fur, which looked wonderfully well in company with a perilous bonnet of the same material, with full gray ostrich tips, relieved by one scarlet feather in the middle. The gray velvet strings and bow were lined with the vivid reflecting color.

But it was something about the bottom of the dress which teased me with an idea that seemed to be playing hide and seek and never fairly coming into view. There was a band of gray Astrakhan at the foot and above that a three-inch binding of gray velvet, the skirt was long in the back, of course, and as its wearer passed in state and majesty, head up, chest out, some sort of small scarlet flower ablaze on her bosom, the shaggy border seemed to touch first over and over, while itself aspired with its lapping tongues upon the pavement in right-royal zeal to do its full duty in life, and as I looked at it I knew it was acutely trying to remind me of a revolving street brush and was giving itself no rest from roll or two of playful congratulation because it saw that at last it had succeeded.

I said it was comfortable to force an idea into declaring itself, but when the idea spells a bright winter promenade the comfort is only momentary; for once the eyes are opened it makes the head swim to look up, down and across and see nothing but brushes, brushes, turning, fast, turning slow; black brushes, brown brushes, gray brushes; big brushes that turn with pompous dignity behind a portly matron in velvets and broadcloth; little brushes that flop themselves round and round with nervous haste behind a thin woman in a tube dress; and then suddenly there explains some knotty point in the ethics of shopping: brushes that roll straight ahead with quiet unconcern; brushes that jerk to one end of the sidewalk and then to another; brushes that turn corners and do only perfunctory service and brushes that keep little jets of street refuse flying out in front and at the sides of them: for brushes and brushes economically made so look a little like fur; brushes of all sizes and conditions were apparently maneuvered by all women who wear gowns.

VISITING COSTUME.

It is wonderful how universal the brush mania has become. Of twenty-three women who passed me in four minutes only five were without that shaggy fur border spinning round and round most energetically at their heels. It is a fashion which has its limitations in its movements, for in the brush itself there is a barrier of fabric also. Almost every street dress of any pretensions has a skirt after this order: at the tape its foot fitting; then a foot yoke it becomes fuller and has some added length behind, more or less according to the wishes and needs between the wearer's common sense and her imitativeness; around this added portion is a full and heavy fabric—silk or other close napped or long-haired fur, or even flimsy frill of velvet just edged with fur. This last is for a sweeper cannot be afforded—and, indeed, it seems unjust to expect women to be in any way fettered by practically undertaken municipal duties to use such expensive appliances—imitation Astrakhan is the favorite of fabrics and we see how short pile plushes woven expressly to meet the demand for fairly durable, medium priced brushes for winter cleaning.

When the eye can free itself for a moment from the constant turning and rolling of the long Russian coats of black relief to attract attention. A woman has on a pale lilac heliotrope orchid in her buttonhole comes out of a florist's shop wearing one. It has a long, slender bank, close-fitted, and in front it is single-breasted and has sloped bias seams to give fullness to the figure, which ought to within a couple of inches of the bottom of the dress below. It has big mother-of-pearl side pockets, and its orchid shivers across the sidewalk and the carriage door in three or four shades brocade lining shows, with pale lilac purple flowers dotted over it like the orchid that nods in relieved contentment at the woman at pats her warm soft lining.

A girl with the other pale skin that is a different sort of a brush—one made of opium smoking comes down the avenue quantity muffled in one of the new short coats that copies the only hardly restore outside of New York city with a full shoulder cape, flaring collar and full breadths reaching quite to the girl's knees. Its yoke is of pale golden yellow fur, and is closely covered with costly passementerie designs in black arabesques, and it has a delicate satin lining to match the yoke and a narrow band of sable fur for a border.

Next comes a picture in green. A very slender, dark girl in the animating spirit, and she wears an emerald green velvet skirt, short in the back, for a change, and about the front seven days—and a rather lighter green cloth, the same almost covering it and fitted with plaited flounces about the feet. Above the waist is a band of

PROMENADE GOWN.

No Experience Necessary.

Dusty Rhodes—The trouble with you Willie, is that you are not practicing anything. When the weather turns cold, I simply step into a restaurant and fat enjoy.

Fitz William—You don't know any thing. Don't you forget that. I'm a vegetarian.

Dusty Rhodes—I generally pass at the egg with a snake in his stomach.

Comparing Notes.

"Yes, I was a great despot in my day," said the reformed trade-dollar, shaking his head sadly and with much humility, "I once held up a whole train-load of passengers single-handed and alone."

"That was quite a feat," said the retired anchorman, with a dreamy, far-away look in his eye, "but I once knocked down a whole railroad."—Chicago Tribune.

Too Suggestive.

Dukane—I suppose you've noticed the fad the women have of putting snakes on their clothes?

Caswell—Yes.

"Exclusively snakes and gilt snakes and all sorts of snakes, used in all sorts of ways?"

"Yes."

"Well, I don' admire the style."

"Simply Chromatic Chocolate.

Eyes and No Eyes.

Miss Neersite—Who is that crossing the street? I cannot recognize anyone at that distance.

Charlie Voix—Why, that is your aunt Rosalind, but I wonder who that girl is behind her, with the seal cape on?

Miss Neersite—Seal? Oh, that is not seal! It is sealette.—Puck.

A Hint of Confidence.

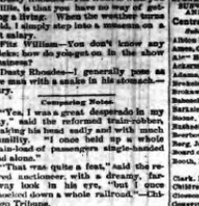
"Your mother, I understand, has been very ill, Thomas."

"Yessir."

"Is she mending, Thomas?"

"Mendin'? No, indeedy! She said I could go without clothes before she would sew another darned stitch."—Life.

LATE FASHION NOTE.



"Stripes are going out."—Chicago Tribune.

NEW HATS.

eyelashes are lifted with evident surprise as the girl stops and studies the new and curious combination, which is matched for oddity by only one other feature of milinery fashion, the long, broad, velvet ribbon streamers, after the manner of the old "follow me leds," which in now days commend themselves in the autumn in the comparative privacy of the sun-room, and have now sufficiently advanced in courage to walk out infrequently, even when the wind blows, out of doors.

ELLEN OSBORN.

Unselfish.

"Your husband borrows a great deal of trouble, it seems to me, Mrs. Bine."

"Yes, but he is unselfish with it. He always shares it with me."—N. Y. Sun.

EVILS OF SMOKING.

What Might Have Been if He Had Never Used the Weed.

He was a pretty old man that was apparent. His hair was white and his beard was white. He walked with a cane, but, says the Chicago Tribune, he was able to look out for himself and get around reasonably well.

"Mr. ——, good-day," said he to look a big black page out of his mouth.

"And you've smoked all your life?" asked the young man who had stopped to speak to him.

"Pretty much all," he replied. "I've smoked since sixty-eight years."

"And it hasn't hurt you?"

"Well, I don't know, young man, I don't quite know about that. My wife

"MOST EIGHTY-ONE," HE SAID.

has always told me that it hurt me, an' my father when he was alive used to say it was bad for me, but I—"

"But it doesn't seem to have hurt you?"

"Nor don't be too hasty. I ain't just sure about that. I'set great store by what my wife an' my father say, and I don't advise any young man to begin smokin'."

"Yes, of course. But you've smoked, and you've lived a good old age."

"Yes, that's all right. But there's no telling, young man, how old I'd a' been if I hadn't. If it's bad it's bad, an' I'm glad that I sort o' worked into before I knew it."

— Planted by Franklin.

Up the old Boston road in New Haven turnpike in the southern part of New London county, Conn., 85 odd miles from Boston, and 55 miles from New York, was set there by Benjamin Franklin. When the highway was laid out Franklin got the job of setting the first milestone, and he did it in an original way. He set out from Boston in a comfortable chaise with a pair of horses, and the men followed him with a team that conveyed the stone. Franklin's wheels had a peculiar machine that marked the miles according to the revolutions of one of the wheels. He drove all the way between Boston and the Elm city. This historic stone is dangerous of the John Chamblain farm in Lyme.

The Detective Business.

Customer—Have you a cat that fires I need this miserably cheap umbrella I bought of you, the black dye soaked out and got inside.

Dealer—Mien friend, that was our new patent self-detective umbrella. If anyone attempts to steal it he'll know him by his clothes.—Good Hews.

Nip This.

"You are charged, sir," said the police magistrate, "with attempting to kiss this woman on the street. Do you plead guilty or not guilty?"

"Your honor," answered the bleak-eyed prisoner, tactfully a good look at the woman before he replied, "I plead insanity."—Chicago Tribune.

His Proxy Typewriter.

"I used to have the greatest, prettiest little typewriter in the world," he said, with a sigh.

"What became of her?" inquired his sympathetic friend.

"I married her," he said as he sighed again more profoundly than before.—Detroit Free Press.

Not Enough.

First Moth—What do you think we have for breakfast? A lot soiled new clothes.

Second Moth—You'll have to excuse me. I never indulge in such heavy meals before breakfast.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

SPEAKING CONNECTION WITH OVER 200 TOWNS AND VILLAGES IN THE STATE OF NEW YORK AND NORTHERN NEW JERSEY.

Central Office—25 North Avenue.

Subscribers' Names.	Residence and Office Addresses.
Adams, Chas. E.	Residence and office 18 Front st
Adams, G. Cameron	18 Front st
Ann Home Co., No 1	Mattress ave
Ann Home Co., No 2	Mattress ave
Adams, Jas. D. C.	16 Front st
Adams, Jas. D. C.	46 Grove st
Brewster, F. W.	Dunellen
Brewster, F. W.	Residence Dunellen
Babcock, Geo. H.	Residence Plainfield
Babcock, Geo. H.	5th and Union sts.
Bates, Wm. H.	Residence Plainfield
Bauer, W. C. W. B.	Cor. Front & Central Av.
Bushnell, John	Centre ave. and 9th st.
Bell, Wm.	Residence 2 Third Place
Berg, Jos. F. M. D.	16 E 5th st.
Board of Education	4th st. bet. 2nd and Union sts.
Bischoff, Jas.	Residence 2 Third Place
	5th & Liberty, 5th & Roosevelt
Clark, J. B.	3 Watchung place
Children's Home	Jackson ave
Clement, James W.	Richmond and Front sts
Conservation Association	Office 2 Second st
Cook, A. D. & Bro.	Park ave and 6th st.
Cooley, Jas. H.	Residence Plainfield
Cooley, John R.	Manning and Watervliet ave's.
Cox, Howland	Residence Plainfield
Cox-reads, Mrs. F. A.	3 Third Place
Cox, Chas. J.	Residence 3 Third Place
Crane, T. O.—Chief P F D	46 W 5th st.
Dalley, E. L.	30 Somerset st.
Davis & Burrows, Coal and Wood	Office W Front.
Dennett, Dr. Geo. W.	Park ave. and 4th st.
Dickinson, Hon. T. N., Mansion	Grove st.
Engine No 1	West 2d st.
Engine No 2	Front st.
Engine No 3	Grove st.
Evans, Mrs. C.	37 Washington ave
Frost, Chas. J.	Residence 46 Grove st
Fanwood, pay station	Fanwood station
Fraser, Rose	C. RR. Depot
Frank, F. & Sons	Somerset st
Frank, F. & Sons	74 Park ave.
Fleming, Richard	38 Park avenue
Fisk, Fleny	4 W 7th st
French, C. Frank	60 Somerset st
Gardner, Wm. W., Chief of Police	5 Second st
Godfrey, C. M.	17 Third Place,
Gibbons, A. M.	12 E Front st,
Gaston, M. D., W. F.	5th and Park ave's
Gilbert, A.	Our Central ave & 5th st
Gifford & Hagy	42 East Front st
Heyniger, L.	81 & 83 Somerset street,
Hopeman, H.	107 Spruance avenue,
Hodges, Dr. Ella W.	42 East Front st
Hyde, Chas.	144 Front street,
Hobbs, Albert	68 st. near Pa. r. way
Higgins, M. A.	24 East 4th st. North ave
Hosfeld, John H.	304 South 3d st.—21 Park av
Harder, Francis	122 Madison ave
Herdesome, G.	Nether wood
Hetherington & Clay Engravers	39 North 4e
Jenkins, Dr. G. L.	37 Front st,
Jones, Evan	13 Kensington st
Jones, Wm.	6th and Spruance ave's
Kaufman, W. T.	46 W 7th st
Lowry, Rev Robert	Madison ave and 8th st,
Lovell, L. L.	Grasscroft ave
Lord, Wm. A.	Bethlehem ave
Lewis & Hunt	The ave Somerset st
Lake, J. T. & Co.	3 W Front st
Lindley, Frank	43 W Front st
Landgraff, F. C.	13 Fifth ave
Myers, J. K.	17 bis 7 th st
Mabee, Hatty A.	W. 2d st,
Mabie, Daniel	W. 2d st,
Miller, J. G.	19 E. Front st,
Mason, Wm.	30 North ave
Muhlenberg Hospital	South ave,
Murray, Dr. Wm. H.	107 Broadway
Middleton,	Residence Middleton,
Middleton, J. F.	130 Central av
Mayhew, Joseph	11 Somerset st
Macdonald, J. F.	96 E Front st,
Myers, Lawrence	E Front st
Mayhew, Joseph	11 Somerset st
Newman, Henry B.	16 E 7th st,
Nash, Wm.	5 Park ave
Nelson, Dr. Thos.	5 Park ave
Nelson, Dr. Thos.	Residence Park ave
Plain Dealer Gaslight Co.	49 East Fourth st,
Plainfield Electric Light Co.	Watchung ave and 2d st
Pierson, Jas.	52 and 54 Washington st
Police Station—Chief's office	9 Park ave
Police Station	9 Park ave
Parker, C. H.	1st and Division sts,
Pratt Rose Works	Grant ave,
Pendelton, Dr J. S.	42 Front st,
Perkins, Edward C.	Central ave, and 6th st
Post & Co., J. C.	3 Somerset st,
Pitkin, Thomas	118 Central av
Plainfield Post Office	Boulevard corner Grant av
Perkins Hardware Co.	5 Somerset st,
Quigley, F. W.	1 Front st—Central Times
Randolph, Henry C.	37 Broadway
Randolph, Henry C.	Broadway
Robinson, L. A.	30 Broadway
Rogers, Wm.	Park ave and North ave,
Runyon, H. P.	Somerset st,
Runyon, O. S.	Somerset st,
Smith, Silver, Wm. W.	Park and North ave,
Simpson, A. M. & Son	Park ave
Simpson, A. M. & Son	46 Madison ave
Simonson, Dr. Edward	Park ave. near Fifth st,
Smith, J. C.	Cor. Sherwood & Sycamore aves,
Smith, Wm.	6 W 2d st
Smith, Chas. W.	Park ave
Smith, Dr. A. M.	The ave Emily and Front sts
Sandford, L. S.	Front st
Sayers, Wm.	6 W 2d st
Sayers, J. F. P.	34 Watchung ave
Sayer, S. W.	30 east 5th st
Sutton, Lester W.	Front st, and 4th ave North Plainfield
Sapsuc, L. S.	50 Front street,
Shaw, R. F.	Front st, opp Park ave,
Shaw, R. F.	Front st, Prospect st,
Smith, W. F.	Belvidere av, Netherwood
Smith, Wm.	2d st
Smith, Walter A.	13 W Park st
Scott, Walter A. Co.	South ave
Spring, W.	Spring st Woodland av
Stiles, Irving L.	Stiles st
Stiles & Co.	16 E 2d st
Thompson, A. D.	32 E 2d st
Talmage, Hetty P. (Mrs.)	Netherwood
Tuttle, Wm.	38 W 7th st
Thwaite, Jos. H.	38 W 7th st
Tomlinson, Dr. F. L.	La Grande ave N Edison
Tompkins, Miss	2 Grove st
Terhune, Samuel	92 Rockview av
Tuttle, Wm.	38 W 7th st
Telegraph Office	Plainfield station
Tuttle, Wm.	38 Front st
United States Express Co.	2 3 Park ave
Union Co. County Clerk	Our Park av & Arlington
Vail, Dr.	Front st
Wharton, Clifford	17 Centre av
Whitman, O.	West Second st,
Wilson, Dr. Jas. B.	5 Park ave
Western Union Telegraph Company	2 Depot
Wilson, J. F.	9 5th ave Grant ave
Wilson, R. Lee	Netherwood
Wyckoff, pay station	Westfield, N J
Wood, Dr.	108 E Front st

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES,

FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

Asbury Park, N J.	80c
Atlantic City, N J.	80c
Bordentown, N J.	80c
Bound Brook, N J.	40c
Burlington, N J.	80c
Camden, N J.	80c
Carteret, N J.	40c
Cranford, N J.	20c
Dover, N J.	80c
Elizabeth, N J.	20c
Elizabethport, N J.	40c
Englishtown, N J.	80c
Farmingdale, N J.	80c
Flemington, N J.	80c
Freehold, N J.	80c
Hackettstown, N J.	80c
Hightstown, N J.	80c
Jamesburg, N J.	80c
Keyport, N J.	80c
Lakewood, N J.	80c
Lambertville, N J.	80c
Little Silver, N J.	80c
Long Branch, N J.	80c
Madison, N J.	20c
Matawan, N J.	80c
Metuchen, N J.	40c
Middletown, N J.	80c
Morristown, N J.	80c
Newark, N J.	20c
New Brunswick, N J.	40c
Newton, N J.	80c
Orange, N J.	20c
Perth Amboy, N J.	40c
Phillipsburg, N J.	80c
Princeton, N J.	80c
Red Bank, N J.	80c
Rahway, N J.	20c
Somerville, N J.	40c
Spring Lake, N J.	80c
Trenton, N J.	80c
Tuckerton, N J.	80c
Woodbridge, N J.	40c
Woodbury, N J.	80c
Yardville, N J.	80c

TWENTY

Years experience in the business.

SECOND STREET. 2 doors above Passaic

MR. JOHN R. HUNTER,

Who has been connected with the Livery, Boarding, Sale and Exchange Business, Passaic, Orange and Newark for twenty years, has purchased the stock and fixtures of the

ALBERT HEDDEN,

Livery and Boarding Stables

FOURTH STREET,

Between Front street and Park avenue.

First-Class Livery.

Horses boarded by Week or Month.

Telephone No. 24.

OSTRICH FARMING.

One of the Most Interesting Industries of South Africa.

History and Habits of the Ostrich—A Paradise of Birds—Plucking Time—Dismount from the Back—Profits of the Business.

[Special South African Letter.]

The ostrich plume has been prized from the immemorial as a head and dress ornament; its introduction as such is probably coeval with the advent of the ostrich in the Indian Judaic valley of the daughters of Eve. At the battle of Arbela, 331 B.C., the Greek king, having slain the king of Bersina, plucked the ostrich plume from the vanquished king's helmet and, placing it in his own, named it as the "crest of the princes of Wales," as which it has ever since been recognized. The ostrich, Struthio camelus, is a native of Africa and has been found from Algeria to the cape of Good Hope peninsula. Though there are evidences to be found in the quaint etchings of the Egyptian monuments, and in the sculptured tombs of the old authors, of the domestication of the ostrich, it would be difficult to trace their origin. And for such a desirable purposes the taming of the ostrich and transforming it from one of the wildest and most timid creatures of the desert to a domestic and tractable species of farm stock is due to the Boer farmers of the

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1892. No. 7.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON.
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public, etc. Office, corner of Park avenue and Second street. 1y1247

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 153. Residence, No. 17 Madison place, next to Congregational church. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES E. THEISS,
Dentist,
16 West Front street. A new total immobility application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—1y841

H. HARD,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock B or 71, SOMERVILLE, N. J. Orders may be left at Messenger's Express office, 40 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—41y247

OSCAR S. TEALL,
Architect,
112 Broadway, New York City, and 16, 17 and 18, Library and Society Hall Building, 1 Baker Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.—1y841

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. Van Arsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
In this capacity and as Discount Salesman for Messrs. Phelps and Lippincott for sales and repairs of city by patrons. P. O. Box 180 or left at Wilcox's store North. No. 6 Park avenue will receive prompt attention. Residence, 21 East 6th street, corner Plum street.—1y1247

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Residence and Shop No. 36 East 3d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. 4y47

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, cor. Front, opposite Second, Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received for consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
[Successor to E. B. MATHEWS.]
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE.
Ladies' and Children's Hair Clipping done at their residences during. Shampooing. First class attention in everything.

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
and
HEATERS.
Orders and Bricks for all kinds of Stove s can be found here at Andrews' prices. Bring your Tinware measured up. Best of Coal Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fixers in the section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

J. Hervey Doane,
6 PARK AVENUE.
[Formerly Clerk'd.]
Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and promptly done. 4207

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.

Garret Q. Packer.
SANITARY PLUMBING.
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a workmanlike manner and guarantee satisfaction.
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers' Association of New York City, I am prepared to do any work in my line at the lowest prices consistent with first-class workmanship. I believe in every man receiving his own and I will endeavor to do so.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 2 DOUGLASS AVE. corner Plainfield, N. J.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

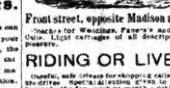
FORCE'S HOTEL,
NORTH AVENUE, (NEAR N. Y. R. R. STATION.)
JAS. H. FORCE, Prop'r.
A FIRST CLASS FAMILY HOTEL. Open Host. First-class travelling. Transient guests at reasonable rates. 10-31-tf

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Is now receiving Deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.
JOHN W. SUMAN, President.
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, "
ELIAS S. POPE, Treasurer. 4207

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE. 4207

C.E. & J.W. BROWN,
[Successors to G. P. & C. E. Brown & Co.,]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK
English Tiles, Antiquities, Hand, Leather-Screens Flock Papers, &c. Borrage for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.
3-13-tf

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables


Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Parties and Private Use. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.
RIDING OR LIVERY
Careful, safe horses for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month. 4207-1y
TELEPHONE CALL, No. 16.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderhoef's Music Store, Park avenue, 7th door from corner of Front street. Will do all kinds of Carting and Jobbing. Orders left at this office will receive prompt attention. Residence of Proprietor, Plainfield, N. J.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
Mortgages Negotiated.

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasoline Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 32 SOMERSET ST. 3-13-tf

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of MOORE BROS.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established
No. 14 NORTH AVENUE.
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the Rarest Fresh Meat
Fresh and Salt Meats.
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the lowest Market Prices.
Anything you usually kept in stock, furnished at all at 6-6-tf

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARLES KRAMWARDE
Hugo Weigman.
10 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J. 4207

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to P. J. Carey.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—No. 9 Front St.
Large Covered Vans to Move Goods Safely. Furniture Packed and Shipped. P. O. Box 1. 4207

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best cent cigar in the State, and made entirely from the finest Havana.
CLUB HAVANA and other CIGARS.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
C. M. FINE,
Dealer in FINE HAVANA & DOMESTIC
CIGARS!
No. 9 PARK AVE., (NEAR CORNER OF SECOND ST.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials, always on hand.
The celebrated "Old Judge" smoking tobacco, with other popular brands constantly on hand.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
Dealer in All Kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, like. Orders by mail from 25¢ to $5. Prompt attent. to. All Wood work a specialty. Also a fine assortment of pocket books for the patronage of his friends and the public generally.
PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES
Paints, Varnishes, Glass,
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
4220

U. S. WOOLSTON. J. P. SCOTT.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS SUPPLIES. 20 NORTH AVENUE
4207

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing,
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. H. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11-11-tf

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
NATHAN HARPER
H. V. COLES' DRUG AND MFG. CO
NEWARK, N. J.

EDUCATIONAL

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN,
17 LaGrande Avenue.
CORNER OF SHERMAN STREET.
WILL re-open TUES SEPT 17, 1891.
The regular course will include Modeling, Drawing and Cooking. 2 11 tf

THE WOMAN OF FASHION.

She Is Spotted Like the Leopard as a Sign of Tradition.

Quaint and Pretty Things in Jewelry—The Animal Sensation in the Face Powder Line—The Latest Thing in Trains —Return of the Dolly Varden.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

The epidemic for spots has spread to book tops. Everything is spotted or threatens to become so soon.

The last article to fall a victim to this disease was the top of the dainty boot which is now made to match the spotted gown which is so fashionable.

Last week fads had begun to run with great spots upon them, and the velvet fringes for the mantelpiece of the hats were of that velvet or were dotted in a way which suggested that ere long the dots would become pronounced spots.

The swellest thing in an outdoor garment is not a fur cloak. To the grief of those ladies who have spent their entire substance upon a fur coat, it must be mentioned that a much more stylish garment than the fur cloak, a cloth coat with great furry spots upon it, supplemented by fur sleeves, furlined and a big fur collar.

These cloaks are very long, coming almost to the bottom of the dress skirt, their entire surface is covered with spots, large, pronounced and malignant in appearance.

To be quite stylish now-a-days get a dress with spots upon it. Get a cloak with spots upon it. Purchase a pair of shoes made with spotted tops. Get a pair of long topped gloves with cheerful dots upon them. Purchase a hat which is a symphony in spots and dots. Trim it with a big dotted bow to match. The stylish veil over your face, gather it up well at the back, and let two long dotted ends hang down. Now make a muff of the dotted material of the coat and trim it with a spotted bow.

When you have done all these things you may be sure that you are extremely stylish in your dress, and, if you have selected the color properly, you will probably look quite pretty. The dotted effect is becoming to nearly everyone, and the variety of dots, from the large big, and, at the present writing, extremely fashionable.

If you are a woman who likes to go to extremes, or who wishes to appear exactly as is made, get a shopping bag of leopard skin with the spots still on it and purchase also a portemonnaie of the same material. The handkerchief, which is declared so dainty in your muff, has a border of silk spots and the fan which is in the proper thing to carry by the front of one's dress for the time being, is of dotted silk stretched upon slender sticks of sandal wood.

Do not despair when you have done these things, and do not think that you have come to the end of you by the way to teach other young women not to make nuisances of themselves in the railroad cars hereafter.

THE DOLLY VARDEN.

New things in jewelry have come to light of late. The happy wishbone pin is something which not everyone has seen. It is a broken wishbone, and is made of gold. Two diamonds are set alongside of the bone, and there is a clasp to fasten it with.

The chicken brooch is another combination which is very pretty, especially as a gift for young ladies, who are fond of gay clothes, and who admire to display their jewelry rather than the recreation hours only.

The narrow pin is another novelty. A pin about three inches long, with scores of various colors is clasping a bar with its feet, while its beak reaches toward a gold ball.

Among men's pins there is a very large one that has been worn for years, a horseshoe and a whip. The whole is mounted upon a long pin, so that it can be worn in the cravat. It is however, rather large for a man's scarf-pin, and is prettier worn as a woman's pin, and is pretty worn as a woman's pin, and is pretty worn as a woman's pin, and is pretty

The Constitutionalist.
W. L. FORCE, } A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chooses the city of Chicago as the place for holding the national Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation therein equal to double the number of the representation to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE, Chairman.
ISAAC P. SHERRIN, Secretary.

RALLY TO THE RESCUE.

A recent subject of debate by the Fairfield High School Lyceum was "Will American decay or the great nations of antiquity be done?"

The question and manner of its presentation commands two-fold interest, unfolding as it does to mental view the agencies of national decay and of regeneracy, and evidencing that the young men of to-day are zealous for the attainment of practical and useful knowledge. They certainly deserve encouragement.

There is reason why the United States of America, the grand Republic of Washington, Jefferson, Hancock, Franklin and their illustrious compatriots, should not share the fate of nations of national health and strength in indefinite period, and for the good of the whole world, rejoined, the principles of civil and religious liberty, of unselfish patriotism, of exact justice to all the people, of honor and honesty in all political affairs and in the administration of every department of government, are preserved in their original integrity of purity and defended against every species of hostile innovation, whether open or disguised.

Our Republic is threatened with many foes domestic and foreign, which if permitted to succeed, will surely crumble into ruin the fairest governmental edifice ever reared for the protection and blessing of mankind.

And let the fact be borne in mind that these antagonistic forces are in effect the same that wrought the decline and fall of the mightiest nations of antiquity.

America has foes and many, the naming of only two will for the present suffice.

POLITICAL CORRUPTION, thwarting the popular will by fraud, trickery and intimidation, purchasing ballot boxes with bribery, purchasing official places and often converting them into dens of political freebooters, is a virulent enemy.

MENDICANT MONOPOLY, the unpitying object of pity, said, the wasting trampling under foot of individual rights and opportunities, and the levying of unjust taxation upon honest industry for the princely emolument of privileged classes, is another heartless enemy.

Rally to the rescue, young men!

Upon you will soon devolve the fierce battle for national existence.

Kill, not merely scotch, every enemy of free representative and equitable government, such as the fathers ordained, and success crowning your patriotic efforts, you shall bequeath an inquisitive, but you will admit that your existence alone and unprotected, in this place at this hour, is unconventional to say the least, and you will be pardoned if you are thus it is all right and I will gladly leave you to your own devices."

While he spoke the sweet creature had been seeking with the deft, practiced hand of a Grecian goddess into the starry vault above, but she lowered her eyes when he finished, and the faint-t sunset glow of a blush came to her pretty cheeks.

"You can go on then"—she said, musingly.—"It is all right."

The young man hurried greatly, but, not knowing what else to do, pottedly tipped his hat and turned to go, when there came running down the driveway with a rush as of many cyclones a middle-aged, wild-eyed gentleman clad in his last year's trousers, a smoking jacket and a pair of carpet slippers. He made a deadset for the young man and the beautiful maiden, and, seeing no opportunity for escape, the youth stood his ground like a Spartan at Thermopylæ. But the fierce onslaught of the enemy was not received not to move some what might, and this determination was materially augmented when the young lady at the side of a little shriek of recognition, and leaning her pretty arms about his neck, besought his protection. The elderly angel was not to be denied, and he headed

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—A crosswalk is to be laid across Park avenue at Sixth street.

—For the uniforms of the three new policemen to be appointed $170 has been appropriated.

—Crescent League bowlers will help open a new club house at Elizabeth Washington's Birthday.

—Stage manager Mattox of Music Hall has arranged for a benefit performance of "The Lost Scout," Washington's Birthday.

—Policeman Glese arrested Isackson Fijun yesterday for fast driving. Fijun will have a trial Friday morning at 10.

—Richard Reville, a patriotic son of "the old sod," was in town last Tuesday, leaving for chains to put around Ireland to free it from the tyrant.

—On motion of Assemblyman Lane on Wednesday the Legislature agreed to adjourn sine die on March 11th. There is no prospect of the race-track bills passing.

—Don't fail to see the production of "The Lost Scout" at Music Hall, under the auspices of and for the benefit of property man Mattox, Washington's Birthday.

—A colored woman supposed to have fainted, was carried out of Bethel mission chapel, last Thursday evening. It was subsequently discovered that she was under the influence of liquor.

—The police are calling in all the hackmen's badges. This will afford an opportunity to discover who have been doing business without them. New ones will subsequently be issued.

—Assemblyman Post introduced in the house of assembly at Trenton, Tuesday, an act fixing mileage at four cents per mile each way, to be paid poll jurors in addition to the present per diem.

—Eugene Hoenster, who has a liquor establishment on Grove street, applied last week for a wholesale license at 44 Liberty street. The application was referred to the license committee.

—This evening at the Casino, the first of the course of four lectures for the benefit of the public library, will be given. It will be by Prof. John M. Tyler, of Amherst college, on "Animal Intelligence".

—A two dollar pull on each mule over twenty-four, to be used solely for the ben fit of the public schools, is the provision of a law proposed by Assemblyman Zeiler and introduced in the House at Trenton, last week.

—Annie Nolan, alias Ellen Plunk, who while intoxicated, one day recently threw herself in front of a railroad train, was taken before the police justice yesterday and a sentence was suspended. Sheridan Jones was fined $5 for drunkenness.

—The firemen of Plainfield, N. J., are clamoring with a hot appetite heard by the mayor of a first assistant engineer. If the firemen were allowed to elect their own officers, as they should be, this trouble would be avoided.—Plevna's Herald.

—A. O. H., No. 4, of Plainfield, will give their annual reunion in T. A. B. Hall, Thursday evening, March 17, under the management of P. Casey, J. Galbraith, F. Rogers, M. Harrington, J. Kelly and T. Fitzgerald. The music will be by O'Reilly.

—The bowling team of the Crescent League that will open the new alleys of the Arthur Kull boat club on the evening of Washington's Birthday will be VanKeuburgh, Haven, Teel, Rogers, Lymar, Davis, Reed, Thiers, Vail and Van Winkle.

—Policeman Glese bravely checked what might have been a serious accident on Park avenue Monday afternoon. Two women were in danger of being thrown from their buggy by a fractious horse. He stopped the animal and put it under control.

—Andrew Carney of this city, ex-chief of the fire department, received a severe scalp wound, afternoon of Feb. 10, in a collision between a Sixth avenue car and a truck in New York. He had his head dressed and was able to get home without assistance.

—The keys to box 45 have been placed at Spicer & Hubbard's mill, the electric light station and the Park Hotel annex. The electric light station is open night and day. Box 26 is in town ready for erection at Richth street and Park avenue as soon as the right of way for poles has been secured.

—In the past few years the dyeing and cleaning business has been wonderfully improved and the old methods of the ammoniadyestuffs. Hillier & Co., who have obtained an enviable reputation in this business, have opened a branch of their New-ark establishment at 49 North Avenue. Their windows exhibit some fine specimens of their work.

—A discrepancy occurs in the new liquor license ordinance. It prohibits a woman from receiving a license, but further says that each license must display a sign bearing "his, her or the firm name." A woman may have her sign wiped out by a supplementary ordinance, to guard against possible attempts to take advantage of the error.

—Jennie Hall is the name of the young man whom the New York papers and THE PRESS reported Thursday as inquiring at the burned Hotel Arlington for the body of a girl from Plainfield. He adds that he doesn't even know the woman in question, and it transpires that the inquirer was a young man named Frick instead of Fike.

THE REPORT WITHOUT FOUNDATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I am requested to state that the report that the Plainfield Medical Association, contemplate increasing their rates, is entirely without foundation.

D. C. ADAMS,
Secretary of the Plainfield Medical Association.

PERSONALIA.

Miss Virginia Fitz Randolph is expected home from Europe in May.

E. M. Stelle and Fred Morse of Brooklyn will go together next week to San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Clarkson, formerly of this city, left New York today for a Western trip.

Mrs. Schoesely and family are about to remove to California, to join Mrs. Schoesely's son.

Miss Lizzie Milligan, of Brooklyn, is visiting her friend, Miss Tillie Spencer at Washingtonville.

Dr. A. P. Schaeffer of New York, will speak in the Sunday school work, in the Crescent Avenue chapel, this evening, at 4.

Mrs. Charles Lewis of New Market died Sunday night at her late residence at Dunellen. She left a little daughter a few hours old.

Isaac N. Brokaw, the Second Street pharmacist, on well known in this city, died at 30 o'clock Feb. 10 after an illness of only two days.

The Alfred Cortes university, Feb. 9, says: "Miss Sadie Rosencrans, Ph. D., 1888, is studying voice and singing in New York, while living at Plainfield, N. J."

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Brooks will have a house warming Thursday evening of next week, at their home in Westervelt avenue.

The host or friends of Mr. and Mrs. H. Herbert Van Syckel will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Spencer is gradually recovering from her long siege of illness.

The wife of Frank Van Buys, and step-daughter of Dr. Bisbee of New Market, died suddenly at her home on Tuesday night of heart disease. She was only taken ill the day morning. A husband and two sons survive her.

Eugene A. Leiter has the sympathy of the community in the loss of his first born and only child, whose life passed away Monday morning after a few hours' existence. The mother is doing as well as can be expected.

Mrs. Andrew Cox, of West Fifth street, sprained her ankle very badly at Trenton, last week, where she had been attending a meeting of the Women's Relief Corps auxiliary to the G. A. R. She will be unable to get out for some time.

Francis Barlow, the watchmaker of Washington valley who was the last one that set Plainfield's town clock agoing, died Feb. 10 at the age of 67 years, 3 months and 15 days. He was a native and died of the same disease as ex-President Grant.

Mr. Edward W. Milligan and daughter Louise, of Brooklyn, N. Y., were attendants at the funeral of the late Peter Bartels, of Washington Valley, last Sunday, deceased being a former neighbor of property man Mattox, Washington's Birthday.

The Grand Army men of Plainfield were honored Friday by the election of George W. Arrowsmith to the office of council of admiral traitor in the Hudson-Jersey department of the G. A. R., Mr. Arrowsmith is one of the bravest and most popular veterans in the State.

William Flagg who twenty years ago was one of the most prominent of the Plainfield colored men who opened up Plainfield, is in the city again. He has many other projects he developed in that next to THE PRESS Plainfield which he built and which was originally called Flagg's Addition.

A delightful event was the twilight tea and chat given Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. L. Patton in aid of the fund for the proposed reception. Miss Mann gave some charming selections on the piano, and the Misses Holmes and Mr. Barnes sang. The affair was a great success.

Miss Julia H. Fulper, niece of W. P. Fulper of this city, who escaped with her mother from the Hotel Royal fire, as told in THE PRESS, used to wear a silver whistle on a chain by her father, William H. Fulper, at Princeton, for putting the shot. It was found in the ruins of the hotel. S. burday.

Prof. W. Boyd, private secretary to Senator Jones of Nevada, and secretary of the committee on contingent expenses in the United States Senate, spent Sunday in this city as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Smither from the Hotel Royal fire, as told in THE PRESS. Boyd used to wear a silver whistle on a chain by his father, William H. Fulper, at Princeton, for putting the shot. It was found in the ruins of the hotel. S. urday.

A two dollar pull on each mule over twenty-four, to be used solely for the benefit of the public schools, is the provision of a law proposed by Assemblyman Zeiler and introduced in the House at Trenton, last week.

—Annie Nolan, alias Ellen Plunk, who while intoxicated, one day recently threw herself in front of a railroad train, was taken before the police justice yesterday and a sentence was suspended. Sheridan Jones was fined $5 for drunkenness.

—The firemen of Plainfield, N. J., are clamoring with a hot appetite heard by the mayor of a first assistant engineer. If the firemen were allowed to elect their own officers, as they should be, this trouble would be avoided.—Plevna's Herald.

—A. O. H., No. 4, of Plainfield, will give their annual reunion in T. A. B. Hall, Thursday evening, March 17, under the management of P. Casey, J. Galbraith, F. Rogers, M. Harrington, J. Kelly and T. Fitzgerald. The music will be by O'Reilly.

—The bowling team of the Crescent League that will open the new alleys of the Arthur Kull boat club on the evening of Washington's Birthday will be VanKeuburgh, Haven, Teel, Rogers, Lymar, Davis, Reed, Thiers, Vail and Van Winkle.

—Policeman Glese bravely checked what might have been a serious accident on Park avenue Monday afternoon. Two women were in danger of being thrown from their buggy by a fractious horse. He stopped the animal and put it under control.

—Andrew Carney of this city, ex-chief of the fire department, received a severe scalp wound, afternoon of Feb. 10, in a collision between a Sixth avenue car and a truck in New York. He had his head dressed and was able to get home without assistance.

—The keys to box 45 have been placed at Spicer & Hubbard's mill, the electric light station and the Park Hotel annex. The electric light station is open night and day. Box 26 is in town ready for erection at Richth street and Park avenue as soon as the right of way for poles has been secured.

—In the past few years the dyeing and cleaning business has been wonderfully improved and the old methods of the ammonia-dyestuffs. Hillier & Co., who have obtained an enviable reputation in this business, have opened a branch of their New-ark establishment at 49 North Avenue. Their windows exhibit some fine specimens of their work.

—A discrepancy occurs in the new liquor license ordinance. It prohibits a woman from receiving a license, but further says that each license must display a sign bearing "his, her or the firm name." A woman may have her sign wiped out by a supplementary ordinance, to guard against possible attempts to take advantage of the error.

—Jennie Hall is the name of the young man whom the New York papers and THE PRESS reported Thursday as inquiring at the burned Hotel Arlington for the body of a girl from Plainfield. He adds that he doesn't even know the woman in question, and it transpires that the inquirer was a young man named Frick instead of Fike.

THE REPORT WITHOUT FOUNDATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I am requested to state that the report that the Plainfield Medical Association, contemplate increasing their rates, is entirely without foundation.

D. C. ADAMS,
Secretary of the Plainfield Medical Association.

PERSONALIA.

Miss Virginia Fitz Randolph is expected home from Europe in May.

E. M. Stelle and Fred Morse of Brooklyn will go together next week to San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Clarkson, formerly of this city, left New York today for a Western trip.

Mrs. Schoesely and family are about to remove to California, to join Mrs. Schoesely's son.

Miss Lizzie Milligan, of Brooklyn, is visiting her friend, Miss Tillie Spencer at Washingtonville.

Dr. A. P. Schaeffer of New York, will speak in the Sunday school work, in the Crescent Avenue chapel, this evening, at 4.

Mrs. Charles Lewis of New Market died Sunday night at her late residence at Dunellen. She left a little daughter a few hours old.

Isaac N. Brokaw, the Second Street pharmacist, on well known in this city, died at 30 o'clock Feb. 10 after an illness of only two days.

The Alfred Cortes university, Feb. 9, says: "Miss Sadie Rosencrans, Ph. D., 1888, is studying voice and singing in New York, while living at Plainfield, N. J."

THE VOICE OF NEW JERSEY.

A STRONG PROTEST AGAINST THE RACE-TRACK GAMBLING BILLS.

A Great Throng of Ministers, Lawyers, and Women Appear for the Cause of Morality—Plainfield's Representative Does the Very Worst.

The ungodly clustering of indignant people that ever swarmed the gate of trembling legislators, was that which filled the corridors of the State Capitol at Trenton Tuesday, and thronged the new assembly chamber to the very doors. The most progressive moral elements of the State were represented and the enthusiasm and indignation manifested made the event one of the most thrilling in the legislative annals of the common wealth. Ministers, fellow professors, lawyers, bankers, merchants and laboring men, were all among the delegates and every county of the State was represented in the throng. From Plainfield 60 of her best citizens were ready to demand right at the hands of the Legislature. There were probably 2,500 people pre sent.

The storm of indignation was so fierce that the two race-track bills are do med, and it is believed by very many that they are dead beyond hope. Members who before thought there was a chance for them to become laws, were free to express their opinion last night that the demonstration of yesterday had swallowed up all hope of the bills getting to the statute books.

After their arrival the delegates proceeded to the State Capitol in a body, and soon a meeting was called in the museum on the third floor. The delegates eagerly crowded into the room but, moral enough as it is, it was far from being large enough to accommodate all who desired to enter. R. V. Lindabury, the Elizabeth lawyer, was called to the chair and after a introduction of the race-track criminals, called the meeting to order and was chosen as chairman in the absence of the Rev. Dr. Kemp Duff, who had been for two years in that capacity, but is now in Bermuda for the benefit of his health. Charles C. Beideman, Esq., of the Elizabeth Journal was made secretary.

It was about noon, after the numerous anti-race-track people had squeezed into the small available room for them in one of the galleries of the Assembly chamber, that chairman Ford D. Smith, of the committee on revision of laws, into whose hands the race-track bills have been whittled, announced that the committee was ready to hear anyone upon the bills. Mr. Lindabury then said he was not requested to present resolutions expressing the views of 100 000 people. He then read the following resolutions which were been prepared by the committee appointed by the meeting held prior to the hearing. It was subsequently sent up to the clerk and read by him:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting, composed of citizens representing all the counties of the State of New Jersey, that the bills No. 185 and 187, known as the race-track bills, meet with our most emphatic disapproval and condemnation. In our judgment they tend to throw down the barriers which remain upon the statute books against the pernicious evils of race-track gambling, and are subversive of the legislative policy that was prevailed in the State unchanged, and without any measure of change, until a very recent date, and which the people overwhelmingly commands the support of the people of this State.

Bishop Scarborough made an earnest and eloquent address. The Louisiana Lottery and the Monte Carlo gambling hells were not in his eye a circumstance to the abominations at Gutenberg and Guttenberg. He was applauded at the proposition that the State should become a partner, for blood money, in the crime against good morals that horse racing undoubtedly is. He awoke thunders of applause when he said that if the bills passed the State would see such an uprising as she had not seen since the war called all patriots to order.

A handsome woman in sober attire stepped forward to claim the attention of the committee.

"Mrs Knowles of Newark, representing 300 000 women",—was chairman Lindabury's introduction of her as he bowed to her. Mrs. Benjamin W. Hamilton, Jr., of Elizabeth, she had been chosen by the State Christian Endeavor convention at Metuchen Tuesday evening, and she was one of his cautionary interesting addresses. There was a very large attendance, and every reference to the 300 000 Christian Endeavorers are spiritually wide-awake.

A very able and interesting paper on "Dunnellon: Stone Quarrying in the Blasting Powder" was read by William L. Saunders of North Plainfield, member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, with full illustrations by blackboard sketches. Mr. Saunders, a self-by-professionals, has been issued in pamphlet form, illustrated, by the society, for circulation throughout the world of science.

Mr. Winsoop of Dunellon, president of the Dunellon Congress of N. A. E. A., is a representative to the National convention of Christian Endeavor held at Hartford. It is under-tood that Mr. Winsoop is a candidate for the National congress, and it is hoped he may secure enough votes to get there. He is one of the most able men in the order and would represent New Jersey very satisfactorily.

On April 20, the first Wednesday after Easter, Mr. Saunders will give a parlor entertainment in her up-close new home on Belvidere avenue, for the benefit of Grace church. The talent secured consists of the Mendelssohn male quartette, Miss Voorhees and J. Birker Kinsendorf, New York vocalists; Victor Baler, organist of Trinity church, New York, and a humorist and Alfred C. Pearsall, elocutionist.

The Brooklyn Woman's club had a birthday party a day or two ago, which was enjoyed by a large and brilliant gathering at Hotel St. George. Mrs. Florence Howe Hall of the Plainfield Woman's club said that the club was the outcome of admiration and respect from her own club. She told what was considered a good story about a man who made some funny comments on a woman's club. He said they differed from men's clubs in that women talked all at once.

A delightful social event was the leap-year cotillion dance at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Franklin place, night Feb. 12. The dance was led by Miss Flora Huntington and J. Augustus Hammond of New York. The supper was very choice, and the music by Andrew Carper was of the finest. Handsome and appropriate favors were distributed. The patronesses received fans, leather dusters and embroidered pincushions. Hand-painted pin-cushions, ribbons and paper-cutters were the favors for the gentlemen. Among the guests were: Miss Harriet Gardner, Miss Marion Dumont, Miss Annie Murphy, Miss Tompkins, Miss Hammond Earle, Miss Edith Gleason, Miss Katheryn Yates, Miss Maud VanBoskerck, Cassius Murphy, Harry Borden, Alfred Stoutt, John P. Moses, Harry Wetmore Waring, Rowland Coe, and James Murray.

BASE-BALL FOR '92.

Schedule of Games Arranged by the Committee of the New Jersey Central League.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Feb. 17.—Below is given the schedule of games for the coming season to be adopted at a meeting of the Central New Jersey Base-ball League, to-morrow evening. It is drawn by Charles J. Reed, chairman of the committee:

May 19—Westfield at Plainfield.
May 20—Plainfield at Westfield.
May 21—Elizabeth at Somerville.
May 23—Somerville at Elizabeth.
May 24—Elizabeth at Westfield.
May 25—Westfield at Somerville.
May 26—Somerville at Plainfield.
May 27—Plainfield at Elizabeth.
May 28—Elizabeth at Somerville.
May 30—Somerville at Westfield.
May 31—Westfield at Plainfield.
June 1—Plainfield at Somerville.
June 2—Somerville at Elizabeth.
June 3—Elizabeth at Westfield.
June 4—Westfield at Somerville.
June 6—Somerville at Plainfield.
June 7—Plainfield at Elizabeth.
June 8—Elizabeth at Somerville.
June 9—Somerville at Westfield.
June 10—Westfield at Plainfield.
June 11—Plainfield at Somerville.
June 13—Somerville at Elizabeth.
June 14—Elizabeth at Westfield.
June 15—Westfield at Somerville.
June 16—Somerville at Plainfield.
June 17—Plainfield at Elizabeth.
June 18—Elizabeth at Somerville.
June 20—Somerville at Westfield.
June 21—Westfield at Plainfield.
June 22—Plainfield at Somerville.
June 23—Somerville at Elizabeth.
June 24—Elizabeth at Westfield.
June 25—Westfield at Somerville.
June 27—Somerville at Plainfield.
June 28—Plainfield at Elizabeth.
June 29—Elizabeth at Somerville.
June 30—Somerville at Westfield.
July 1—Westfield at Plainfield.
July 2—Plainfield at Somerville.
July 4—Somerville at Elizabeth.
July 5—Elizabeth at Westfield.
July 6—Westfield at Somerville.
July 7—Somerville at Plainfield.
July 8—Plainfield at Elizabeth.
July 9—Elizabeth at Somerville.
July 11—Somerville at Westfield.
July 12—Westfield at Plainfield.
July 13—Plainfield at Somerville.
July 14—Somerville at Elizabeth.
July 15—Elizabeth at Somerville.
July 16—Somerville at Westfield.
July 18—Westfield at Somerville.
July 19—Somerville at Plainfield.
July 20—Plainfield at Elizabeth.
July 21—Elizabeth at Somerville.
July 22—Somerville at Westfield.
July 23—Westfield at Plainfield.
July 25—Plainfield at Somerville.
July 26—Somerville at Elizabeth.
July 27—Elizabeth at Somerville.
July 28—Somerville at Westfield.
July 29—Westfield at Somerville.
July 30—Somerville at Plainfield.
July 31—Plainfield at Somerville.
Aug. 1—Somerville at Elizabeth.
Aug. 2—Elizabeth at Somerville.
Aug. 3—Somerville at Westfield.
Aug. 4—Westfield at Somerville.
Aug. 5—Somerville at Plainfield.
Aug. 6—Plainfield at Somerville.
Aug. 8—Somerville at Elizabeth.
Aug. 9—Elizabeth at Somerville.
Aug. 10—Somerville at Westfield.
Aug. 11—Westfield at Somerville.
Aug. 12—Somerville at Plainfield.
Aug. 13—Plainfield at Somerville.
Aug. 15—Somerville at Elizabeth.
Aug. 16—Elizabeth at Somerville.
Aug. 17—Somerville at Westfield.
Aug. 18—Westfield at Somerville.
Aug. 19—Somerville at Plainfield.
Aug. 20—Plainfield at Somerville.
Aug. 22—Somerville at Elizabeth.
Aug. 23—Elizabeth at Somerville.
Aug. 24—Somerville at Westfield.
Aug. 25—Westfield at Somerville.
Aug. 26—Somerville at Plainfield.
Aug. 27—Plainfield at Somerville.
Aug. 29—Somerville at Elizabeth.
Aug. 30—Elizabeth at Somerville.
Aug. 31—Somerville at Westfield.
Sept. 1—Westfield at Somerville.
Sept. 2—Somerville at Plainfield.
Sept. 3—Plainfield at Somerville.
Sept. 5—Somerville at Elizabeth.
Sept. 6—Elizabeth at Somerville.
Sept. 7—Somerville at Westfield.
Sept. 8—Westfield at Somerville.
Sept. 9—Somerville at Plainfield.
Sept. 10—Plainfield at Somerville.
Sept. 12—Somerville at Elizabeth.
Sept. 13—Elizabeth at Somerville.
Sept. 14—Somerville at Westfield.
Sept. 15—Westfield at Somerville.
Sept. 16—Somerville at Plainfield.
Sept. 17—Plainfield at Somerville.

HYMENEAL.

ANDERSON—WEBER.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

CUMBERLAND, Md., Feb. 13.—The wedding of Ernest R. Ackerman, member of the Plainfield common council from the Third ward, to Miss Mora Lissette Weber, daughter of William Edsall Lissette Weber, took place last evening in this city.

The officiating clergyman was the Rev. James H. McGill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, where the ceremony was performed. The full Episcopal ceremony was used, and the wedding was a very pretty one.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who is president of the Third National bank at Cumberland, and by him was given away. The bride was radiantly beautiful in a rich costume of white silk, en train, adorned with pearl trimmings and lace. Her ornaments were magnificent diamonds. She carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and myrtle-spray.

The bride was attended by six bridesmaids and a maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Pauline Milholland, Miss Minnie McGeath, Miss Ella Spring, and Miss Juliet Weber, of Cumberland, Miss Annie Moss of Parkersburg, and Miss Nellie Robinson of Baltimore. The costumes were of white silk, with chiffon trimming. Two of the maids carried white bouquets, two yellow, and two pink. The maid-of-honor was Miss Rose Weber, sister of the bride. This happy, graceful group of femininity made a most charming picture, and the wedding had the appearance of one of the most beautiful ever seen in Cumberland society.

The best man was Duncan Morgan of Plainfield, and the ushers were A. R. Lewis, F. J. Seaver, Harry Weber, Rodrie Clary, and the Hon. Wm. M. McKaig, Congressman, all of Cumberland, and Lloyd Miller of Pittsburgh, Pa. The favors worn by the ushers were dainty scarf pins.

Among the near relatives of the bride and groom were Mrs. Weber, in black silk, Mrs. J. H. Ackerman, in purple silk, Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman, in her wedding gown of white silk, and Mrs. Robert Rushmore, in her wedding gown of white silk.

The bridal party entered the church to the sweet notes of the wedding march from Lohengrin. Mendelssohn's was used as a recessional. Ira Tipton presided at the organ.

After the ceremony a reception was given to near relatives and friends, at the home of the bride's parents, 112 West Washington street.

What a Farce!

The second annual meeting of what is termed the "State Publishers' Union", was held at Trenton, Monday There was no one present except a few Republican politicians. The annual and northern Jersey who seemed to have met to cry over the official patronage they had lost, their party's defeat.

After everybody present had refused the office of president, it was again given to the very publisher in the State who has displayed the least ability in the line, and polished the smallest amount of success in that line. Then Mr. Winton of the Hackensack Republican, not even present, was elected secretary, and Mr. Winsoop, also not present, was elected vice-president.

A committee consisting of editors Mc-Bride of Jersey Blue (republican) and Boyd (not much of anything) was appointed to draft an act in relation to the publication of the laws in the newspapers. It is to be taken to Senator Sewell, their leader for their pains. The "State Publishers' Union" does not represent the publishers of the State, and the Democratic legislature is not called upon to enact laws for the benefit of its enemies and its defamers.

The Republicans in a Rage.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

We hope the report set afloat by the Plainfield Press that Gen. Grubb intends to resign his post at the court of Madrid, and return home to run for Governor is untrue; not that we lack respect for his qualifications or running qualities. Our objection rests upon a firm belief in the danger of rendering defeat inevitable. It seids on works well We have lost a notation and after it by it in Passaic county. Gen. Sewell is now said to be found already in the person of the Hon John Kean, jr., of Elizabeth, and the proper thing is to stick to him until he is nominated and elected. The Republican party of New Jersey is in a hole and needs a veritable Moses to put it on the road to the promised land again. To desert Gen. Grubb for such a herculean task would be unwise. As a defeated candidate he is not unlike Sampson shorn of his locks.

Estate's Hotel to be Sold.

The valuable property on Front street, this city, known as the Lamb's Hotel, 60 feet front by 200 feet in depth, including the lively stable, now occupied by A. Hacking, will be sold on the premises, Monday, March 21, by the executors. Here is a chance for capitalists to secure a good investment. This property will positively be sold on the date above given.

"Troll for a Trout Stream."

Games are being arranged by the Crescent League base-ball managers for Wednesday of the coming season, with the Y. M. C. A. of Bridge Island A. C., the Y. M. C. A. of Salem Field A. C., and the Boston Athletics.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED.

Persons with weak lungs—those who have a cough, should not be deceived—but should use ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER over the chest, and counteract the tendency to other troubles during cold weather. Remember their great strength and power to relieve pain. Be sure you get ALCOCK'S—they can be depended on. Insignificant imitations are sometimes offered—look out for it, but insist upon getting ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. They are the only genuine plaster ever produced.

—Laing's Hotel property will be sold March 21. See adv.

BASE-BALL FOR '92.

Schedule of Games Arranged by the Committee of the New Jersey Central League.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Feb. 17.—Below is given the schedule of games for the coming season to be adopted at a meeting of the Central New Jersey Base-ball League, to-morrow evening. It is drawn by Charles J. Reed, chairman of the committee:

[Schedule omitted]

END OF THE HYDE-GREEN CASE.

Ended the Bloomsbury Record His First Mortgage, as Would Not Have Lost Through the Farmers Bank.

The famous lawsuit of Charles Hyde against Frank G. Green and others is at last ended. Two years ago Mr. Hyde bought a big furniture store in Plainfield, he borrowed of Hyde $4,000, to be used to buy out the share of his uncle Frank G. Green. Green, who knew the goodness of the debt he gave a promissory note for $4,000, indorsed by Green Green and George Warren Wilson, as bail, and security to give a chattel mortgage on his goods. When the note came due it went to protest. Creditors from various quarters pressed Green and Wilson, and Hyde's bailiff finally took possession of the place, a receiver was appointed, and the entire stock, valued at $20,000, was sold at auction in addition to satisfy claims aggregating $10,000. The mortgage to Hyde had not been put on record, because Hyde still exhibited have been kept back could come in only after the others. This subsidies disposed of the contest.

CO-OPERATIVE WOODYARD FOR TRAMPS.

Plainfield Proposed Solution of the Burglar Question.

The good women of Plainfield who are planning to give employment to tramps at wood, to men out of work, might by developing their plan work out a very excellent solution of the tramp question. Like other towns, Plainfield has at times been overburdened with applicants for charity. In the co-operative woodyard plan is a chance for the tramp to work a week the needy and the undeserving. Let the women put up a shed, stock it liberally with cordwood, and supply saws, axes and horses. Then let the ladies call the co operation of housekeepers throughout the city who have been persuaded with sympathy for the tramp question. After ist each applicant for aid be given an order on the co-operative woodyard, to cut up a certain quantity of cordwood, for which he receive a ticket that can be required to buy, at a fair price, from the managers, the wood cut under this order, and let the man who does the work be recommended with food, lodging or clothing as he may require. The really deserving will then have a way opened to obtain something of a livelihood, and the idea of being compelled to work or go hungry will cause the unfortunate fellow to steer clear of the town. If the women enter enthusiastically into the enterprise the local wood dealers may look for a considerable reduction of their profits—and of course everyone is hard look will be eager to saw wood for a living.

400 WILL CONTEST HER TITLE.

Maybe 386 Will be Queen of the Road to Square.

Engine 386 has a rival for the title of "Queen of the Road". It is engine 400. She made her first appearance in Plainfield Saturday, and followed the 10:04 train to New York, with a train of 25 box cars. 400 is built on the same lines as 385, with the same compounded cylinders for the use of night and low pressure. She has the driving wheels what will help her to cling closer to the track, and in that respect she has a very great advantage over her predecessor. The results of the trial tests that are now being made of 400's abilities, are awaited with intense interest by every man in the employ of the road. If 400 is all that is expected of her, proved she was the fastest engine in the world, yet already a rival has sprung up and the excitement that the appearance of the new comer on the railroad men all over the country, will be renewed and greatly increased by the news of 400's appearance.

A Company With Every Penny Time It Wants.

At a meeting held at the office in this city, duly called for the purpose, on the 19th ult., The Carolina company decided by the vote of more than two-thirds in interest of the shareholders, that the capital stock of the company shall be reduced to $271,500 by calling in one-half the shares held by each stockholder and paying 50 per centum of the par value thereof.

Henry P. Talmadge of this city is president of the company and William T. Miner is secretary and treasurer.

Bathersie Progresses in the Sewerage Matter

Councilman Cone reported Feb. 10 that the sewerage committee and the committee seemed very glad of the opportunity to share with the councilmanic committee the responsibility of pleasing the property holders, that the capital stock of the company shall be reduced to $271,500 by calling in one-half the shares held by each stockholder and paying 50 per centum of the par value thereof.

Henry P. Talmadge of this city is president of the company and William T. Miner is secretary and treasurer.

Bathersie Progresses in the Sewerage Matter

Councilman Cone reported Feb. 10 that the sewerage committee and the committee seemed very glad of the opportunity to share with the councilmanic committee the responsibility of pleasing the property holders, that the capital stock of the company shall be reduced to $271,500 by calling in one-half the shares held by each stockholder and paying 50 per centum of the par value thereof.

Henry P. Talmadge of this city is president of the company and William T. Miner is secretary and treasurer.

A Runaway Horse, and a Runaway Horse.

What would undoubtedly been a disastrous runaway accident was averted in a way by a brave young Swede named Bystrom Thursday. Peter Rose had come into town with a handsome new milk wagon and his daughter Annie, aged 12, was driving the horse started away. It came galloping down Somerville avenue at great speed, and was just turning into Front street when Bystrom sprang forward and at the risk of his own stopped it. He thus prevented a runaway that would have been disastrous, but also much damage to other vehicles on Front street. Rose thanked him.

One of the Greatest Railroads in the World.

The coup of President McLeod of the Philadelphia and Reading in getting control of the Jersey Central and the Lehigh Valley—as told in the report of Parsons—is the greatest in the history of railroad financiering and makes the Reading as strong a corporation as there is in the country. The great results of the Philadelphia and Reading system will hereafter be eighty million dollars annually and the number of its employes will approximate 100,000, being more than are employed by any single corporation on this planet.

It is now plain what was in Mr. McLeod's mind when he acquired the Pennsylvania holdings and the lease ordinary charter, which throws the Reading and the entire anthracite system into the heart of New England, giving it the only all rail route from the Middle and Southern States to Boston. The Reading system will also be fostered by its alliance with all the important New England roads, and enables it to virtually control the coal trade of that entire region. The Reading is now the greatest railroad in the world, the strongest financial institution in the country, is assured.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—United S. S. Government Food Report.

AN EIGHT-YEAR-OLD HERO.

Little Georgie Arrowsmith Saves His Playmate from a Watery Grave.

A group of boys were playing on the sawmill bridge in South Plainfield Thursday when little Dick Hillier, age seven, ventured down on the log. He had gone but a short way from shore when he broke through and disappeared, with a natural cry, to the cold black depths of the pond.

Most of the boys were terror-stricken and ran frantically to and fro along the bank, crying.

Georgie Arrowsmith, however, retained presence of mind, and went promptly to the rescue. Creeping out on the frail ice to the edge of the gap where Dick had gone down, he waited for the imperiled lad to reappear. When the struggling form rose to the surface Georgie thrust forth the crooked end of a shiny stick and shouted "Grab it, Dick!" Then, with the boy on the bank were crying "Oh, Georgie, you will be drowned too!" he hauled the half-unconscious Dick out on the ice and assisted him to the shore.

JERSEY CENTRAL CONDUCTORS.

Yes, I.—Charles S. York—The Day Poacher.

A popular train to New York for Plainfield men, is scheduled to leave the North avenue station at 10.06 a. m. The crew in charge of the same, returning leave New York at 7 p. m. Of the strict attention to duty and the rights of the company exhibited by this crew, from conductor down, columns might be written. From Plainfield to Jersey City this is one of the fastest trains on the road, the Philadelphia flyer immediately following being a close second.

It is of common occurrence that this train running on time make mile after mile from Netherwood to Roselle in 40 seconds each, which means 90 miles per hour. Such confidence does the conductor have in the capacities of the engine driver, that to all appearances he pays no attention to the rate of speed at which they are running, but to a careful observer he will be seen to keep one eye his glasses, while filling tick-ts, at objects outside his train—thus often neglecting to respond to the greetings of his friends. So pre-occupied is he with the responsibilities resting on him and by his anxiety to "make time", that he is at times called a crank, but no one riding on his train has yet been heard to express the slightest dissatisfaction with his management, excepting perhaps occasionally a "duffer", a grumbler about his running into stations ahead of the scheduled time. This latter peculiarity is noticed almost daily, but from the reason that the indicated time being too slow for him for other reasons it is impossible to say. In any event, it is certainly a pleasure to ride in a train in charge of such a man, who by his careful judgment, and ability to overcome obstacles where time is lost, has justly earned the title of "Cannon Ball Tuck".

In his leisure moments Mr. Tuck is engaged in breeding dogs from stock of recorded pedigree. Strong is his interest in physical disabilities in those animals is unquestionably No. 1. The other day a gentleman had a Newfoundland dog that appeared to be very much depressed. Mr. Tuck, who promptly prescribed. Now that gentleman has no dog.

A Great Offer for the Ladies.

Common sense and good judgment are the qualities for which our American ladies are noted. When they find any article which will add to the comfort of their homes or to their personal appearance they speedily adopt it, being quick to discover the superiority of the new article. It is to this trait that the firm of A. McDowell & Co. owe the wonderful success of their French fashion journal which has already critically examined their superior merit is at once recognized. They not only give the styles one month ahead of all other fashion journals; but the variety, originality, and practicability of those styles isn't seen so far above all others, that they are now acknowledged the standards of fashion for this country, as they have long been in France. Many complaints having reached A. McDowell & Co. concerning the difficulty experienced in obtaining their fashion journals through newsdealers, who will often try to work off some other and inferior publication lying on their hands, this firm has decided to give the following premium offer: To each yearly subscriber who sends $3 50 for one regular yearly subscription for "La Mode de Paris", or "Album des Modes", will be given gratis, as a premium, Book No. 1, "Dressmaking Self-Taught". This book is valued at $5. Book No. 1 teaches how to keep wrinkles out of dresses; how to join seams; how to finish a waist; the darts, the bones, how to cut, how to make and put in sleeves of all kinds; how to make the new sheath skirt by rule; how to baste plaids and stripes, etc., etc. Subscriptions to any of our subscriptions through local newsdealers; but if any difficulty is experienced in obtaining the publications of A. McDowell & Co., 4 West 14th street, New York.

An Executive Worthy of Respect and Esteem.

From THE PRESS of Feb. 11.

THE PRESS desires it understood that it is not unfriendly to Governor Abbett from anything which appeared in a special despatch from Philadelphia in yesterday's issue. On the contrary it admires his Democracy and actions. All we contend for him as it always has, in his endeavors to give New Jersey that which it has enjoyed in past years—a good and honest government.

Do not throw away your hard earned cash for every new cough syrup, when that old-fashioned remedy for coughs, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, is 25 cents.

—The Plainfield common council will meet again Feb. 23.

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S
BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE

THE CHICAGO POLICE.

An Army of Twenty-One Hundred Able-Bodied Men.

Financial Chat Regarding Maj. McClaughry, General Superintendent of the Force — Qualifications Essential to an Appointment as Patrolman.

(Special Chicago Letter.)

If there is one thing of which Chicago is prouder than of its sky-scraping buildings and its park system it is the police department. Every time there is to see a large body of men who are physically perfect, even if they are a little weak mentally. Physical perfection has been highly esteemed in all ages and among all nations, and not until higher education shall have become universal will a change occur.

At the present time the police force of Chicago consists of 2,100 officers and patrolmen and 200 substitutes. This army is under the command of a general superintendent, who is appointed by the mayor. His word is supposed to be law in the police department. He is sometimes called to assistants, is responsible for changes in the administrative offices, and controls all promotions and discharges. To a certain extent these powers are indeed vested in him, but the mayor and the aldermen of the district school. He was ambitious for a better education and took private lessons of a Presbyterian minister six hours, and in that way prepared for college, entering at Monmouth, Ill., in 1856. From which he graduated four years later. In 1861 he removed to Carthage, Ill., and during part of the war served as major of an Illinois regiment, participating in the expedition against Vicksburg. In 1864 he was appointed paymaster of the army and quartered at Springfield, Ill., until October, 1865, when he was honorably discharged. In 1874 he was appointed warden of the Illinois penitentiary at

MAJ. ROBERT W. MCLAUGHRY.

Joliet. He held this position until 1888, when he became general superintendent of the Pennsylvania industrial reformatory at Huntingdon, Pa. In May, 1891, Mayor Washburne tendered him the position of chief of police of Chicago, which he accepted after giving the offer thoughtful consideration and securing the assurance that he would be permitted to organize and manage the police force without interference from any authority whatsoever.

The criminals of the country were not pleased with the appointment. They knew that while Maj. McClaughry was the head and most competent state of prison officials, he was also a firm believer in the majesty of law, and would consequently keep a close eye on their doings. Most of the dangerous lawbreakers of the United States are personally known to the police. While warden of the Joliet prison he introduced the Bertillon system of identification of criminals; and no crook who has ever been an inmate of the institution is allowed by him to be the slightest chance of escape should he be found at his old tricks.

At the present time Maj. McClaughry is perfecting arrangements for the protection of visitors to the world's fair. He has already gone into correspondence with the heads of the police department of every country in Europe for the purpose of securing photographs and personal descriptions of notorious crooks, pickpockets and confidence men, who are sure to find their way to Chicago in 1893. Detectives representing the various nations will be imported to keep an eye on their law breaking countrymen. Other measures of equal importance have been laid before his superior, and he has every reason to be perfectly confident. It is safe to say, therefore, that the interests of the world's fair visitors will be amply protected, and that they will not be subjected to the annoyance experienced by many Americans who were robbed right and left while visiting the exposition at Vienna and Vienna.

The regular force of officers under command of the chief of police consists of patrolmen and sergeants, and about 200 substitutes. Fully two-thirds of the 2,100 men are on duty at night; the balance is detailed to guard the street crossings in the business district, attend to police court duties and assist special officers in the performance of their private work. To secure a more equal distribution of police protection the city has been divided into thirty-one districts, each of which contains a station, and is under the command of a captain or lieutenant. The various divisions of the city are in charge of inspectors, who receive the reports of commanding officers and conclude them for the general superintendent and his assistant. The detective force is under the direction of a lieutenant, with executive powers.

To secure an appointment on the police force a man must be between the ages of 21 and 35; he must be not less than 5 feet 8 inches in height, and of weight proportioned to his height. He must be an American citizen—native or naturalized—able to read English fairly well, and must have a thorough knowledge of the city, its principal places of business, the various street-car systems and all points of public interest. A medical examination — more rigid even than that required by the war office in the case of applicants for enlistment in the army—keeps out scores of men who seemingly are possessed of health, but who, nevertheless, are afflicted with some organic disease.

A DRILL AT THE STATION.

Applicants who have met all the requirements of the service receive appointments to the substitute corps as soon as vacancies occur. It is said, however, as there are constantly on file from two to three thousand applications, that no man can secure the favor of aldermanic or some other kind of influence unless he stepped by those with money sufficient to secure his appointment. The civil service commission of Chicago has had more than its share of abuse—because it refused to appoint a man because of the claims of individuals who were willing enough to grease the official wheels. Time and one of the evils whose extirpation enlisted Maj. McClaughry's most earnest endeavors, and that he has not of his efforts are already noticeable by an increased esprit du corps. There is area of discontent among the men, and there is a cry father who wants one of his henchmen rewarded by a place on the force will be disappointed if the department and the city at large.

Police recruits are just about as raw as military recruits. It requires hard work to convert them into men that-looking material. Years ago each captain or lieutenant was supposed to train the men in his command. The result was so unsatisfactory that a drill master was appointed whose duty it is to teach new men how to march and how to wield their clubs.

The hardest duty which a policeman is called upon to perform is guarding the crossings of down-town streets. He must preserve the lives and limbs of thousands of pedestrians, control the movement of hundreds of wagons, carriages and street cars, and yet do due to all. The task is one whose magnitude cannot be appreciated by anyone who has never been with his own eyes the pandemonium which exists in the principal thoroughfares of Chicago. The most experienced officers are detailed for this duty, which requires nerve, presence of mind and an even temper, as opportunities for using a club present themselves almost every minute.

The state legislature at its last session passed a law granting a pension, amounting to half pay, to all officers who have served the municipality twenty years, upon reaching the age of fifty years. In Chicago's long list officers have availed themselves of this enactment and others have been requested to do so. A number of valuable men have been lost to the department in this way but on the whole the law has proved of considerable benefit. Burglaries who clung to their positions long after passing the period of usefulness were removed and their places filled with younger blood.

GUARDING A STREET CROSSING.

It is doubtful if any other city in the nation has a more perfect police force than Chicago. There are found among it men who are brave and quick to suspected. It is true, but they cannot hold their positions for any length of time. The custom that politicians are paid to enforce laws, not to break them, is beginning to be practically employed, and one soldiers' pleasing assertion made by the guardians of the peace. Therein Chicago's force differs much from that of New York, whose members, according to newspaper reports, recognize no power above that of their own hickory sticks.

G. W. WEIFFERT.

HOOSIER CLUBHOUSE.

Indiana Will Have the Finest Building at the World's Fair.

When people come streaming from Posey county, Ind., to see the world's fair, they will learn that the Hoosier state has some of the finest clubhouses on the exposition grounds, says the Chicago Herald. No Hoosier, no matter how poor he may be, will be allowed to enter the exposition grounds without becoming one of the Indiana building. By some critics Henry Ives Cobb's design for the building is considered by far the finest and the most graceful of all the state buildings yet presented. When Mr. Cobb offered his plans some people in Indiana picked at them and said "the state ought not put up any building at all if Indiana Hoosiers are not good enough to plan it."

"Well, I don't take that view of the case," Judge Martindale replied. "For my part, I think nothing too good for Indiana. If the Chicago man has a better design than our own we want to see what the Chicago man's design."

That explains Mr. Cobb's selection. The Indiana building is to be a typical clubhouse. If the state board had to buy all the material that goes into the building it would cost $100,000, and that is more than the board has to spend. So the enterprising manufacturers of Indiana have decided to give $70,000 worth of material for the house, and when they have finished it they will turn over to Indiana the big front door and feel as much at home as they do by their own firesides. They will literally "own the place." In design the Indiana building will be French gothic, both inside and out. It will be constructed of red brick, the inclosing the verandas that surround it. The buildings will be two-storied, but on either side there will be towers to the height of 200 feet. These towers are pierced at intervals by windows. The interior of the building will be of stone and imitation stone. It will be finished throughout with the best hardwood lumber that can be had. The two floors have been divided into rooms where visitors can come to rest or spend hours pleasantly. The second floor will have about as many rooms for social gatherings as the men. Large assembly halls have been planned, where different state associations can meet and discuss matters of interest. Writing rooms, check rooms, lavatories, a post office and in fact everything that will add to the comfort and convenience of the visitors have been marked off on the plans.

INDIANA STATE BUILDING.

The last state Executive Commissioner B. F. Havens, of Indiana, incited over the plans he drew a deep sigh and said: "I guess Indiana will beat them all in state buildings."

A few days later Mr. Havens resigned and Secretary Hurty and the Indiana board was ready to tear up the sod at Jackson park. Illinois has not only state already at work on her building.

CONTRARY DREAMS.

Her Father Mistook Him for Burglar and Fired Two Shots at Him.
While Assisting Unconscious Parent.
He Went Right Home and Went to Bed and Dreamed of Shooting Burglars.

Englehill—Why, Chappie, what's the matter—are you ill?

Chappie—I just had an awful night's work, old fel. I dreamed I was a burglar, ballet dancer, and had to wear a pink tights, and—

Englehill—Stop, stop, for heaven's sake, my dear boy, or you'll have me dreaming with you.—Tit-Bits.

A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN.

Miss Mattie Mitchell, Who Is to Marry a French Duke.

Her Reliability Is Acknowledged in Europe as Well as in America—Personal Chat About a Handsome Young Lady.

MISS MATTIE MITCHELL.

Miss Mattie Mitchell, the beautiful daughter of Senator John H. Mitchell, of Oregon, whose engagement to Duke Francois de la Rochefoucauld has recently been announced, is one of the few much-talked-of society beauties whose reputation is well founded. Her beforehand, says Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, is acknowledged from the shores of the Nile to "where down the Oregon." She is now in the exquisite full bloom of womanhood. Her figure, just a shade below medium height, is perfectly proportioned and softly rounded. Her head is matchless in poise and coloring. Her hair is a soft, bright bronze, always worn in the same fashion, twisted on the crown, and in front in little rings across her forehead. Her face is a perfect oval, with the curves of a child; her eyes, under delicately penciled brows and steeped dark lashes, are dark, full and expressive, and her cheeks are those peachblow roses, while her mouth is full-lipped "Cupid's bow." She dresses with simple elegance in faultlessly fitting gowns of dark blue, black, chestnut browns, or quiet, dark shades for the street, and usually in white in the evening, when she is without a bunch of violets, which, with roses, are her favorite flowers. She was a member of the dancing class while in Washington, and at one of its evenings wore a gown which, for its simplicity and becomingness, received universal admiration. It was a simple round waist and straight skirt of white nun's veiling, with a low bodice, short puffed sleeves, and edge of the skirt of which were bordered with violets, and a narrower belt of violet velvet outlined the waist and fell in loops down the back.

She made her début in Washington about six years ago, has lived abroad a great deal since then, where she was a great favorite, particularly at the Russian and last winter and the winter before she spent in Washington.

Her accomplishments are numerous. She is a fine linguist, speaking French, Italian and German fluently, and for that as much as for her beauty was she ways a great favorite in the diplomatic circle. Indeed, at one time it was rumored that the British minister, Sackville West, was going to lead her to the altar—a rumor which arose, however, solely from her intimacy with his family, as she is a proud republican, has read widely in the different languages, rides horseback a little, dances "divine," as her men partners and friends all, has the tact and aplomb of a society woman of twice her years. Owing to Mrs. Mitchell's delicate health she not only discharged the many social duties that was imposed on a senatorial household, but looked after the domestic machinery, and herself did the marketing. Senator Mitchell's dinners are famous from epicurean and decorative standpoints, and to his charming daughter he long be the credit.

She met the Duke de la Rochefoucauld in Paris about six years ago, and it was a case of love at first sight. There were obstacles in the way of their marriage which have at last been cleared away, and the engagement, to the surprise and surprise to society, is a natural consummation of their hopes to her friends.

The prospective husband comes of an old distinguished French family, noble in deed as well as in name, its original title was the Prince of La Roche-fireauld, near Angouleme, and its history traces back to 1026, when a certain Foucauld, a field officer under Hugh Capet, spoken of in a charter of an abbey of Angoulême as "vir nobilissimus Fulcaudus." In a fifteenth century page, which Harper's Bazar reproduces, the Duke de la Rochefoucauld is described as "a handsome young man of twenty-six years, who was much attached to literary pursuits, and who cultivated the society of the most distinguished men of letters of his time, Boileau, Racine and Molliere, and who published, besides his memoirs, the well-known collection of 'Maximes Morales,' which is still widely quoted, and regarded as a model of French purity."

The duke de la Rochefoucauld is not one of the many impoverished nobles seeking for rehabilitation in an American fortune, but possesses estates and an income sufficient for his wants. Miss Mitchell's very comfortable "dot" will not be a mere drop in the bucket even there, however.

Correct Pipes.

About 100,000 earthenware pipes are daily manufactured in this country, all being made in three factories, at St. Louis, Evansville, Ind., and Akron, Ohio. The cobs are all procured in Missouri, and are supplied by the Collier variety of corn, on which they grow unusually heavy, woody and hard.

A Flat Sky.

The apparent flattening of the vault of the heavens has been found to have an annual period and to depend on clouds. It seems least flat with a misty horizon and most in April and May.

A Different Note.

Old Friend of the Family—And is this Archie Augusta (of bygone years)—No, sir; I've grown up, now—I'm Gussie.—Puck.

Did Not Hurt All the Time.

Awkward Barber—Does this razor hurt you, sir?

Patient Customer—Only when it gets under the skin.—Good News.

Anxious to Know.

"Have you fixed up my will?" said the sick man to Lawyer Quillins.

"Yes."

"Everything as I've said as you can make it?"

"Entirely so."

"Well, now, I want to ask you something—not professionally, but as a friend, you understand—what do you honestly think stands the best show for getting the property?"—Washington Star.

A Fatal Error.

Ringway—What's the matter, old man? You seem troubled.

Featherstone—I have made the mistake of my life. You know I have a rich maiden aunt who lives in the state buildings."

A few days later Mr. Havens notified Secretary Hurty that the Indiana board was ready to tear up the sod at Jackson park. Illinois has not only state already at work on her building.

CONTRARY DREAMS.

Her Father Mistook Him for Burglar and Fired Two Shots at Him.
While Assisting Unconscious Parent.
He Went Right Home and Went to Bed and Dreamed of Shooting Burglars.

Englehill—Why, Chappie, what's the matter—are you ill?

Chappie—I just had an awful night's work, old fel. I dreamed I was a burglar, ballet dancer, and had to wear a pink tights, and—

Englehill—Stop, stop, for heaven's sake, my dear boy, or you'll have me dreaming with you.—Tit-Bits.

PRINCESS OF WALES.

Still a Handsome Woman Although Approaching Her Fiftieth Year.

The princess of Wales is one of those few and favored women with whom the years of their prime seem to add to their personal beauty is manifested by the passage of the years. Although her appearance has, of course, changed materially since, as a girl of nineteen, she became the bride of Albert Edward of Wales, she is still a handsome woman, and at fifty-one, as she nears the age of fifty, she is said to be much more attractive in appearance than women. Her latest portrait shows that she still possesses the same perfection of form and feature which previous pictures have made so familiar, and as there is about it an added look of maturity with perhaps a suggestion of sadness in those soft eyes, heightens the effect of the sweet expression which has been so notable in all representations of this royal personage.

H. R. H. PRINCESS ALEXANDRA.

THE CHINESE VICEROY.

Li Hung Chang and His Ambition for His Country's Military Prowess.

The hearts of all loyal celestials are now saddened by the fact that the grip has upon the venerable viceroy of the Flowery Kingdom, Li Hung Chang. Though he is now in his seventieth year the patriotism of the venerable viceroy is as ardent as it in his youth. Li Hung Chang, since the death of the late Prince Kung, the young emperor's father, has been the strongest buttress of the throne. For possible power and prestige, however, were provincial rather than metropolitan, and perhaps the keeper of his commanding ability and his success in dealing with foreigners caused him to be ignored during the regency, save when he was harassed by frivolous complaints and official "nagging" from Peking. Yet during this time he was making Tientsin one of the most powerful centers of political influence in the empire and organizing a native Chinese army and navy under his own control, which must in any crisis have given him a decisive voice in determining its future. The success with which the germs of rebellion have been stamped out in northern China further enhances his prestige, for it gives an outward and manifest sign that his slowly maturing policy of quick using and developing the dormant military power of China will yet be fruitful in far-reaching results. Those of those who know that Li Hung Chang is growing too powerful for the dynasty and that his ambition will not be satisfied until he has seated himself on the dragon throne. But the late Gen. Gordon, who knew him better than most men, always declared that Li Hung Chang was loyal to the core, that by making himself indispensable to the inner council of state he could satisfy all his ambitions, that in these days it would be suicidal policy for him or any other usurper to establish his authority over fourteen provinces and pass it on to his son within the space of a lifetime.

LI HUNG CHANG, VICEROY OF CHINA.

Big English Oaks.

The largest oak now standing in England is the "Cowthorpe" which measures 78 feet in circumference at the ground. At one time this tree and its branches covered within an acre of space. The gigantic old "Parliament Oak" in Clipstone park, Notts, is believed to be 1,000 years old. The tallest oak on the British Isles is called the "Duke's Walking-stick." It is higher than the spire of Westminster abbey. The oak of Gelemos, which was felled in 1810, weighed 84,982 tons. Its owner; its bark was sold for $6,000 and the trunk and branches for $8,350 more.

A Deserter Whistle.

An English railway engineer has invented a useful adjunct to the ordinary semaphore signal, consisting of a whistle operated by compressed air. When the blade is at danger, a spring lever is made to rise so as to lie along the inner face of the rail. The lever projects slightly above the rail, and when depressed by the wheels of a passing engine a powerful whistle is emitted by the whistle at the inside of the track.

The Session.

Without exception, heavenly girls like the expression "nice versa," because it always puts another face on the matter.—Lippincott's Monthly.

Reasons and Excuses.

First Sport—I played the races yesterday and I realize now what an awful fool I was.

Second Sport—Why don't you ring in a messenger boy and hire him to kick you for so long or over?

First Sport—I played the races yesterday.—Somerville Journal.

No Counsel for Action.

Chumleigh—Why should I make out to see a man for slander?

Makin the Lawyer—If anyone should call you a thief, that would be slander.

"Supposing I was called an ass—mird you, an ass?"

"That would be—er—well, simply a statement of fact."—Truth.

ANIMAL MAGNETISM.

Judge Fowler—Can't you now! How did you manage to cheat the people?

Hasten' Henshaw—Did's 'em' do beautiful; couldn't get by 'em without, boss!—Puck.

A Sympathetic Opportunity.

"Are you fond of travel?" he asked, as they sat in the parlor, he nervously rawning and looking at the clock "are you?"

"I am. If I had the opportunity I would travel all the time."

"I don't see," she said, stifling another yawn, "why you don't. Nothing on earth want than you have."—N. Y. Press.

How the Lookout Is at It.

"It is true," said Eve to the serpent, "that I have a very interesting family, but I do wish you would stop calling them 'young Adams.'"

"What shall I call them?"

"Oh, I don't know; but tell me I can't look like his mother."—Judge.

Second-Hand Truth.

Of all the cold tubs in New York city that prescribed by a fat old doctor who lives over the way is the most popular. On a sidewalk stand in fancy corners, before Church & Co.'s door, had displayed a heap of second-hand artificial teeth. In reply to an inquiry he said: "I have a dozen of them originally since, as a girl of nineteen, she became the bride of Albert Edward of Wales, and although she is now fifty years ago, her face has lost none of the charms which have always made it the most attractive of English royal

Debtor—Well, I kept my word, didn't I?—Texas Siftings.

Worth the Price of Subscription.

First Burglar—The newspaper says we missed $25,000 in the safe we cracked last night.

Second Burglar—That shows how valuable newspapers are. Well go and get it to-night.—Epoch.

A Man of His Word.

Debtor—I can't pay you anything this month.

Collector—That's what you told me last month.

Debtor—Well, I kept my word, didn't I?—Texas Siftings.

A Venturesome Young Man.

Her Mother—I saw him kiss you. I am terribly shocked. I did not suppose he would dare to do such a thing.

Herself—Nor I. But I bet him he didn't dare.—Brooklyn Life.

Railroads.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA
TRAINS FOR THE WEST.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

AMMONIA AS A MOTOR.

It Propels Cars at the Rate of Thirty Miles an Hour.

One of the Most Interesting Features of the World's Columbian Exposition—Horse Power and Cables Are Not "In It."

Intramural transportation for the world's fair is receiving more attention than appears on the surface, says the Chicago News.

Surface, elevated, arcade and subterranean systems will be exhibited, and every system, style, form, kind and quality of land transportation is after the privilege of handling intramural transportation for the comfort of the world's fair visitors and the incidental advertising, which after all is the grand object in view.

Two competitors are already on the ground, a movable sidewalk and an ammonia motor, which has been running over the railroad tracks inside the plaisance for several weeks.

Under tests the motor is said to have attained a speed of thirty miles an hour, taking the curves with ease, and has been brought to a stop inside of 100 feet when running twenty miles an hour. The driving mechanism consists of two cylinders 6 by 15 inches of the ordinary locomotive type, with link-valve motion and no link drive or wheels, connected so as to form a 6-foot wheel base of standard gauge. The novel feature of the motor is the power, which is the gas given off by anhydrous ammonia.

Anhydrous ammonia—ammonia without water—becomes gaseous at 28½ degrees Fahrenheit below zero. If atmospheric pressure and 230½ degrees less than the temperature at which steam is generated from water. The anhydrous ammonia is stored in two water-enveloped tanks carried with the motor. It is placed in the tanks at a temperature of 60 degrees, which gives a pressure of 150 degrees to the square inch.

END VIEW OF THE AMMONIA MOTOR.

The motor carries four tanks—one large one, which contains three of smaller diameter. The larger, or outside, tank is filled with water, the two lower of the three inclosed tanks are for storing anhydrous ammonia, and they are connected with the third tank placed over them, which is used as a gas reservoir. As soon as the anhydrous ammonia is charged into the two lower tanks it lets off gas, which is driven into the gas chamber until a pressure of about 150 pounds to the square inch is accumulated. A throttle valve gives the gas entrance into the cylinders, and it is then turned into the open air, as steam is, but into the water. So great is the affinity which water has for ammonia that the gas is absorbed immediately and becomes aqua ammonia. The ammonia is exhausted very quickly that there is little or no back pressure against the piston.

When anhydrous ammonia expands into gas it absorbs heat and creates such a low temperature that it is used for ice-making purposes. This characteristic would be fatal to its success as a power producer were it not for the fact that it is done in the world's fair ammonia motor by exhausting the used gas into the water which surrounds and cools the tanks and cylinders, for the gas in combining with the water to make aqua ammonia generates heat sufficient to keep the inside temperature up to 60 degrees at least, and this insures a good working pressure. It will last as long as there is any anhydrous ammonia in the storage tanks.

The motor is started at the station, and contains enough latent energy to to run the motor fifty miles at a speed of fifteen miles an hour. The car is run on a boiler and steam still, which takes aqua ammonia made up of 79 per cent water and 30 per cent ammonia, and distills it into the anhydrous ammonia. This ammonia is charged by the motor while in operation is drawn from the tank at the end of a trip and distilled, and the latent heat generated over and over again. While the solution is being drawn from the motor tanks and distilled it is also being charged with the anhydrous ammonia, requiring about two minutes to draw and charge.

From tests made at various times with the plant in Jackson park it was found that the cost of fuel alone for making anhydrous ammonia from aqua ammonia was 0.3034 cents per gallon, and the cost of fuel and water was 1.0624 cents per gallon.

Three gallons of anhydrous ammonia are used per mile with the motor alone, carrying sixteen passengers, and five gallons when the motor draws four cars. When running six miles an hour the motor develops twenty-seven horse power, and seventy-five horse power at 150 pounds pressure will send it fifteen miles an hour.

There are no cinders, ashes or smoke, as no actual fuel of any kind is used on the motor, as it is, in fact, a motor operated by stored power.

Tropical Trees.

All the trees of the tropics except those imported from the colder climates are evergreen.

STILL SCRAPING AWAY.

"Ah, by the way, Mr. Brown, you have the finest lawn in the neighborhood. Do you know Mr. De Smythe of that place—Mr. Algernon De Smythe? I had a delightful time with him a few days last summer at Long Branch. Met him on the train and somehow we managed to scrape an acquaintance. What is the dear fellow doing now?"

"Well, he's still at it, I believe."

"What! Still scraping?"

"Oh, no; still scraping acquaintance."—Detroit Free Press.

Put Him Off.

Oh, you, of course, don't marry him
In just two weeks, she said.
But when she named the day, her pa
Had dated her about the day.
—Cook Review.

Took After Both.

Boarding-House Keeper—That Reith home takes after both his father and mother.

Friend—How so?

Boarding-House Keeper—One eats a long time and the other a good deal.—Puck.

A Decisive Reason.

Ethel—There is one thing I fear you have forgotten, Mr. Gushie.

Gushie—What is that, Ethel?

Ethel—To ask papa.—N. Y. Herald.

TWENTY Years experience in the business.

MR. JOHN H. STEVENS, Horse-shoer, gives Special Attention to Interfering, Forging, Speedy Cutting, Contracting Feet, Quarter Cracks, Corns,

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1892. No. 8.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON.
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Notaries Public, Offices, Masonic Hall, Somerset Chancery, Corner Front and Second streets.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Salesroom of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 130, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Telephone connection.

DR. CHARLES D. TREES,
Dentist,
29 West Front street. A new local anesthetic administered for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—p-21

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Box 28, South Plainfield, N. J. Orders left at N. J. Carpet, second-hand store, 49 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention. 4-19

OGDEN TEALE,
Architect,
241 Broadway, New York. Rooms 8 and 10, 2d. (Carpenters' and Traders' Bank Building.) Residence, Plainfield, N. J.—p-21

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VAN ARSDALE,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale on easy terms or rented by quarter. P. O. Box 108 or left at Williamson's Music House, No. 4 Park avenue will receive prompt attention. Residence, 21 Rose P. ostreet, corner Elm street.—d-1987

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Residence and Shop No. 36 East 2d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. 4p49

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—HARDING'S STORE, 313 PARK AVE. (Up stairs.) P. O. Box 38.
Goods received for consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
(Successor to E. P. Haviland.)
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence having Shampooing, &c., at satisfactorily performed. 1-1yr

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stove can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware standing to us. Tinware Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-Fitters in the business. We have not the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

J. Hervey Doane,
6 PARK AVENUE.
[Formerly Clerk.]
Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and promptly done. 4yr

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices?
Ever Offered in Plainfield!

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
No. 44 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the choicest meats at
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.

Garret O. Packer.
SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a first-class workmanlike manner and guarantee satisfaction.
Having purchased Stock with the Water Power and Machinery of the late firm of Packer & Bro., I am prepared to do all kinds of Turning, Scroll Sawing, Planing, Matching, &c., at reasonable rates. Also Dealer in all kinds of Lumber, Mouldings, Sash, Doors, Blinds, &c.
S. W. LITTELL,
No. 9 SOUTH AVE. (near Plainfield, N. J.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

FORCE'S HOTEL,
NORTH AVENUE, (Near R. R. Station.)
JAS. H. FORCE, Prop'r.
A FIRST CLASS FAMILY HOTEL. Steam Heat. First-class Plumbing.
Transient guests at reasonable rates. 10-31-tf

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of [illegible] per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.
JOHN W. MURRAY, President.
WILLIAM WEBB, Vice " NATHAN HARDIN, "
HOLMES FORT, Treasurer. 48tf

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
SENT IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE. 4-1tf

ESTABLISHED 1836.
C.E. & J.W. BROWN,
[Successors to C. P. & C. E. Brown & Co.]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
Hamilton Tiles, Anaglypta, Sand, Leather Ramee Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades. 9-33-52

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables

Front street, opposite Madison avenue,
Carriages for Weddings, Funerals and Private Calls. Light carriages for all descriptions for pleasure.
RIDING OR DRIVING HORSES.
Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or sleigh-ing drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.—oct-1tf
TELEPHONE CALL, No. 16.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers, Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasoline Stoves,
Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 15 SOMERSET ST. 3-15-tf

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late Firm of Moore bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
No. 44 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the choicest meats at
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.

Garret O. Packer.
SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a first-class workmanlike manner and guarantee satisfaction.
Having purchased Stock with the Water Power and Machinery of the late firm of Packer & Bro., I am prepared to do all kinds of Turning, Scroll Sawing, Planing, Matching, &c., at reasonable rates. Also Dealer in all kinds of Lumber, Mouldings, Sash, Doors, Blinds, &c.
S. W. LITTELL,
No. 9 SOUTH AVE. (near Plainfield, N. J.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. G. D. CIGAR,
The best 10 cent cigar in the State and made on the premises from the finest Havanas.
CLEAR HAVANA 25 CENT CIGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of Fine Chewing, Plug Cut, Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
Orders promptly filled. Goods delivered free of charge.

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in Havana & Domestic
—SEGARS!!—
No. 25 PARK AVE., (Right Entrance.) SECOND ST., PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Material, Rotary Refrigerator.
The choicest brands of Cigars, including Cabanas, with other popular and fashionable brands, always on hand. 4-1yr

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco and smokers' articles, has removed from No. 9 W. Front street, to 21 West Front street, next to Arlington House, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally. 4-1yr

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES.

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWAIM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
A. B. FOUNTAIN, A. F. SCUDLY
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 38 NORTH AVENUE

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing,
Heater Work, Tinning,
Hardware.
A. H. GRIFFEN,
12 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11-11-tf

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

- Letter Headings,
- Circulars,
- Programmes Menus
- Addressess,
- Memorials,
- By-Laws of Societies,
- Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or
- any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.

Everything

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST

DAILY PRESS

PLAINFIELD N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
A THOROUGH ONIC TO THE BODY.
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
NEWARK, N. J.

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN,
17 LaGrande Avenue.
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET.
Will reopen THIS SEPT 17, 1891.
The regular course will include Modeling, Drawing and Sewing. 9-11-tf

THE MAN OF FASHION.

He Should Have a Code of Health to Govern Him.

How White and What to Drink and Eat with Morning Exercise — Follow the Example of the English Nobility — Known Men "Around Town."

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

The man of fashion should have his code of health as he has his code of ethics. From October 1, when society takes up its town life, until the Lenten days of rest, the strain on his brain, nerve and muscle is constant, and the vitality of the strongest man in the world would be undermined in at least two seasons unless a rigorous system for the preservation of health, coupled with a good deal of self-denial, is followed. The duties of a man of fashion involve his presence at innumerable "affairs" each season. The opera and the assembly, the theater and the ball, entail a necessary complement of convivialities. These tend down the society man. Of course, a fashionable man drinks his wine and rare wines, for his life would be unbearably stupid if he eschewed these beverages. But he owes it to himself to regulate his "drinking" as far as possible. The one rule to follow at any "little affair" is to drink sparingly of all that is set before him. A good caterer will see that the guests at the banquet are served with only such wines as are particularly appropriate, and moderate amounts of each vintage can only serve to aid digestion. But beware of a mix with regard to anything that every man of fashion should be aware of with the morning cocktail. Of course, it seems just the right thing when you get up in the morning to look into the mirror and find unmistakable evidences that you had a great time the night before. Your disagreeable feeling is relieved by a cocktail or absinthine. Your physician, if he is a good one, will tell you to avoid all these pernicious habits. His advice will run something like this: "Swing your Indian clubs for ten minutes, exercise with your dumb bells for the same length of time, and then jump into a bath as cold as you can stand it. If you have a valet, get him handy take it in as icy a shape as possible, and then rub yourself down with a coarse towel until your entire body is in a blood glowing into every part of your now reviving constitution."

In his sleeping apartments the man of fashion must be a fresh-air crank. He need not have his valet's end table, but a number of cubic yards of air that one adult human being will poison in one hour, but he must have the value of a breathing fresh pure air or air as nearly pure as the polluting city will permit, within his means, and to do this, but without exposure to grip-breeding draughts.

In the first place, in selecting your room, lay and select one into which the light of day will not pierce at too early an hour. The man of fashion needs to sleep at least eight hours and in that time the restorative powers of the body to some extent obtain, so as to begin digestion, assimilation, &c., necessary in the gymnastics of the membership roll of the Manhattan athletic club shown. Dr. F. S. Dinkers, formerly physician of that institution, has in his charge a number of sets of millionaires and gentlemen of leisure, who have been weekly exercised under his supervision. Dr. Dinkers' theory and the chart appear on the enrollment and introduction of Amherst and which has since been adopted by the Harvard and Yale. The idea of this charting system is to keep progressive record of a man's development so that at any given time it may be ascertained which muscles need special exercise to keep up the symmetry of the body. For instance, if the measurement of the chest be 36 inches, expanded or proportionately too deep through the chest, he is put on exercises that develop the lateral, and vice versa. But in general it cannot be said that gymnastics are popular in the realm of man's dress. The man of fashion of a fad now, though several wealthy young men are still walked on their sporting proclivities by champions whose they take instruction in the use of their fists. But boxing is too violent. A man who has to "train" is in bad shape, even if this business is only saying charming nothings about Plates and Browning to the waltzes, can't afford to have it undergo the concussions of a sparring bout.

Riding is deservedly popular in fashionable circles. It is an exhilarating exercise and when the horse is well in gallop all the muscles of the body, it takes first place as a supplementary means of refreshing one's constitution, for there is nothing really so invigorating as fresh air and sunshine; but the man who has to be wearing distinctions of society life needs something that will do more than shake up the liver. It needs something that will bring every muscle into active play.

DR. LAWRY NICOLL AND HIS PATENT TARGET, A SPARRING CONSTITUTIONAL.

Dr. W. Bourke Cockran, the well-known clubman and president of the Wagner Palace Car Company, uses the dumb bells and Indian clubs. Chauncey M. Depew takes his out in walking. De Lancey Nicoll, the district attorney, is a crack rowing man, and about once a week, when the weather is propitious, takes a twenty-mile constitutional out on the river. Tom Johnson, the great society favorite and statesman of Cleveland, is devoted to the bicycle. Robin Gould has strong predilection in the direction of athletic sports in addition to his skill on horseback, which makes him a perfect centaur. He will ever have to employ a private physician, as does his father. The Cutting brothers are their splendid physiques to their active engagements in healthful outdoor sports.

ALBERT EDWARD TERRELL.

PRESIDENTIAL DINNER.

A Formal Meal with George Washington in 1790.

The following is a description of one of Gen. Washington's dinner parties, given on the 27th of August, 1790, taken from the "Senator McCay Diaries" recently published: "Senate adjourned early. At a little after four I called on Mr. Haseett, of the Delaware Senate, and went to the president's to dinner. The company were: President and Mrs. Washington, Vice President and Mrs. Adams, the governor and his wife, Mr. Jay and wife, Mr. Langdon and wife, Mr. Dalton and a lady (his daughter, I suppose, wife), and a Mr. Smith, Mr. Bassett, myself, Lear, Lewis, the president's secretary, and the grandchildren of Mrs. Washington sat opposite each other at the middle of the table on the two secretaries, one at each end. It was a great dinner and the best of the kind I ever saw. Towards the conclusion, was disagreeably warm. First was the soup; fish roasted and broiled; then boiled mutton, fowls, &c. This was the dinner. The middle of the table was garnished in the usual tasty way, with small images, flowers (artificial), etc. The dessert was, first, apple pies, pudding, etc.; then ice creams, jellies, etc.; then watermelons, muskmelons, apples, peaches, nuts. It was the most solemn dinner I ever sat at. Not a health drank; not a word said until the cloth was taken away. Then the president, filling a glass of wine, with much gravity drank to the health of every individual by name round the table. Everybody imitated him, charged glasses, and with a bow of "health to you" and 'thank you, madam,' never had I been used before. Indeed, I had liked to have been thrown out in a hurry; but I got a little wine in my glass, and passed the ceremony. The ladies sat a great while, and the bottles passed about, but there was a dead silence almost. Mrs. Washington took a lady with her, the ladies. I expected the men would now begin, but the same stillness remained. The president told of a New England clergyman who had lost a hat and wig in passing a river called the Brooks. He had both, and everybody else laughed. He now and then said a sentence or two on some common subject, and he had he said was not amiss. At Jay tried to make a laugh by mentioning the circumstances of the duchess of Devonshire having no stone unturned to carry Fox's election. There was a Mr. Smith who mentioned how Homer described Jinces leaving his wife and carrying his father out of flaming Troy. He had a pleasant remarks (if supposed with on the occasion; but if he had ever read it he would have said Virgil. The president kept a fork in his hand, when the cloth was taken away, I thought, for the purpose of picking his teeth. He, however, was not so played with the fork, striking on the edge of the table with it. We did not all stop after the ladies retired. The president arose, went upstairs to drink coffee; the company followed. I took my hat and came home."

A Silver Question.

Prosaicby—Helpful every silver lining has the cloud.

Poeticby—Yes. You can't earn a quarter-dollar without working for it. —Jewelers' Circular.

Chappie's Effort.

Chappie—I started to ask Ethel last night "When is a door not a door?" The answer is: "When it's ajar. But I got it wrong and asked "When is a door not ajar."

Johnnie—What did she say?

Chappie—She said "Shut up!"—N. Y. Herald.

Bashful Wooer of St. Peter—Let—ape—pear, mike, where are you from?

New Arrival—I am from Rome.

St. Peter (playfully)—Ah, then I have heard of Boston—

New Arrival—Never mind now. If you say another word I'll knock you down. I won't go to Boston.

A Down-Hearted Wail.

A sufferer from the widespread dyspepsia reform movement makes the following wail:

"Sweetbreads to-day,
Sweetbreads to-morrow,
Sweetbreads for breakfast,
Sweetbreads for dinner,
Sweetbreads for supper,
Sweetbreads all the time.
Sweetbreads when I'm sick,
Sweetbreads when I'm well,
Sweetbreads when I'm dead,
Sweetbreads in my coffin,
Sweetbreads in my grave,
Sweetbreads in my soul."

CONVENIENT KITCHEN.

Plans Furnished by an Ohio Housekeeper.

A Place for Everything and Everything in Its Place—Arrangements Which Lessen the Drudgery of Kitchen Work.

Mrs. B. B. Herrick, of Lorain county, O., has sent to the Ohio Farmer a number of diagrams to illustrate her kitchen and house, with the necessary accessories, and a photograph of the interior. We have had five of the diagrams engraved, which are amply sufficient, we think, to make everything plain. She explains as follows:

Fig. 1 represents the ground floor of the house. S is the kitchen, 12x14. In this are located—1, the bath tub; U, table; S, sink; L, cupboards, the one on the left side of the door into dining-room (N) being a slide cupboard to the cellar. G, back and cellar stairs. D, pantry and cupboard under. A, linen closet and pantry. This. The kitchen opens on the right into a covered porch, in which is located a sink (S) and a cistern (X). This opens at the right into the woodhouse (C) and carriage shed (G), both together being 12x24 feet.

Having back to the main part of the house—N is the dining-room, 14x16, with a conservatory at the right (B) with glass roof. C, C, C, in the linen room and pantry (A) are cupboards. P, parlor. Bathly, S, sitting-room. Hall. T, front stairway. F, bedroom. The cellar, the engraving, or rear of the house, is to the east, or, in other words, the house faces west.

FIG. 1.—GROUND FLOOR.

Fig. 2 is an interior view of the kitchen. A, baking table, under which are—sugar at G, flour at H, meal in the drawer L; I and H are drop leaves. E, shelf for spices, soda, cream tartar and extracts. G, rack for butcher knives, and under the shelf E are nails for iron spoons, etc. The drawers on the left of A are for salves and rags for cut fingers, can openers, wrenches, tack pullers, can rubbers and extra covers, old flannels, etc. The drawer on the right are for knives and forks and spoons for cooking use, dish towels, hand towels, meal. B, sinks; the waste pipe carried out under the porch into the sewer pipe drain. N S, cupboards for kettles and cooking basins. K, soap crock. F, shelf for lamps. C C, dish cupboards opening both into dining-room. K, side cupboard or elevator, from dining-room to cellar. D, shows the way down cellar, with shelves at the left

FIG. 2.

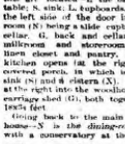

FIG. 3.

FIG. 4.

(not lettered) for boots, shoes and rubbers. M is the outside door onto the south porch. Between K and C is the door into dining-room. T is the bath tub.

Fig. 3 is another interior view from opposite side. C, stove or range. B, flue down to cellar stairs. A, door to dining-room. I, the slide cupboard. F, door to milk room. E, four cupboards for tins and baked food.

Fig. 4 is a view looking to the east. D, cupboards. G, bath tub. C, hanging clothes bars; above is a mirror and comb case. The bath tub has a cover which lifts back and is held up by a strong hook fastened to the window casing. With the cover down it is used for a wash bench on washdays. It makes a good table to cut out garments.

FIG. 5.

Throw on some ingredients and it is a good lounge. The water is taken from the tub is conducted outside by a pipe. At the kitchen is usually worked, and has warm water at hand. It is convenient for bathing in cool weather.

Fig. 5 is the "work bench," to take the place of the oval table in the kitchen, and occupying no more room. Any farmer or ordinary mechanical ingenuity can make this table. The top is a shallow wooden sink to be used as a molding board, and when not in use is covered by the hinged leaves, B; when open they are supported by the rack, A. The drop door, E, fit, may all be one, or in two parts. The drawers, etc., have been explained in Fig. 2.

The plan, Fig. 6, is drawn a foot to the inch; the plans in Figs. 1, 2 and 4 are 1 foot to the inch; the table, Fig. 5, is 1 foot long and 1 foot 6 inches wide.

TWO BIRD GYMNASTS

How a Couple of Rare Swallows Fun-lished a Cage.

Big newspaper space is daily taken up with accurate throwing and catching and hitting of balls, the aim of the human eye, the speed of the human foot, the accuracy and dexterity of the human hand, and the young people who play baseball and tennis enjoy this reading matter.

But a short time ago, says a writer in the St. Louis Republic, I saw two creatures only a year old outdo in all essentials of grace and skill anything I ever knew.

They were a pair of barn swallows. A very gentle little house-pet was in the habit of taking her daily nap in the bay-loft, directly under the nest among the rafters. All went well until the mother bird began to sit on her eggs. Then, presumably, the cat lifted her eyes to contemplate the pretty sight, for about four o'clock of the first day the bird stayed on the nest the cat came running out of the barn, the two swallows after her. Giving her in turn a vicious peck, they rose in air, swooped down and pecking her squarely on the back, one after the other, though she was running in all directions.

FURNISHING THE CAT.

Twenty-three times I watched them rise in the air so high as to be out of sight, then come sailing down, one behind the other, and each time giving the poor cat a peck apiece on the back, although she was spanking bitter and thither bewildered, seeking to hide under carts, under trees, here and there, they never missed her once, though they never slowed their swift flight to do it, never paused for the peck, but swiftly gave it as they skimmed down over her, rising on the same point of curve, to descend again presently.

For about two weeks they were seen to fly out and repeat this punishment whenever the cat appeared on the green near the barn.

THE BOY SOVEREIGN.

The Youthful Emperor of Annam and How He Lives at the Palace.

There are two young people in Europe whose birth has placed them on the thrones of their respective nations. Queen Wilhelmina, of Holland, and the baby king of Spain.

In the far east they have another royal cousin, whose portrait we give below; he is the emperor of Annam, and is under the protection of the French government.

The young emperor, Than Thai, is seated on the throne, his brother is on his left and his sister on his right hand, presenting their loyal homage. He is represented in silky dress of dark yellow silk with gold embroidery. On each side of him are two exquisite vases, gilded and inlaid with mother of pearl. On one is a box containing his betel nut and tobacco, and on the other the royal cuspidor—of gold inlaid with silver ornaments. Behind the young monarch is the royal curtain with the insignification in Chinese characters: "May the king live one hundred thousand years." Two umbrella bearers with their black boxes and robes of yellow silk keep guard over the royal family.

THE BOY EMPEROR OF ANNAM.

Than Thai is the son of Duc-Duc, who was deposed and murdered in prison on account of his French sympathies. He is twelve years old and his brother, Lien, is about ten. His predecessor, Ham Nghi, is now in Algiers.

The young sovereign is a quiet, serious boy and is very fond of study. His guardians believe in the good old maxim of "early to bed and early to rise." As he goes to bed with the sun, he is up at six every morning, he amuses himself with Parisian toys which were sent to him by the French government among other things as entire train of cars, which go by steam. Like all the other natives of Annam, his lightness is an inveterate smoker of cigarettes.

The Czar's Army.

The Russian standing army consists of 410,952 infantry, 84,936 cavalry, 67,976 artillery, 19,325 engineers and 35,100 ordinance, a total of 618,178 enlisted men and 26,000 officers. The Cossack strength in peace, besides the Caucasus, is the above total, is 18,468; there are 72,594 officers and men of the reserve and 168,000 officers and men of the local and auxiliary forces, a total, that is, of about 814,000 men. The czar's war footing is 3,330,796 combatants, officers and men.

The Play That Pleases.

Dramatic Author—Here is a new play which I should like you to examine.

Great Actress—Pardon me, but I am surprised that it would be impossible for me to—

"The scene is laid in Europe—"

"Don't want it.

"At a most picturesque orb of medieval time—"

"I have plays enough."

"It is in five acts—"

"Keep it in your pocket."

"Fifteen scenes."

"Won't have it."

"And calls for ninety-five changes of costume."

"I'll take it."—N. Y. Weekly.

She Asked for Information.

The play was one-third over and he was observing a carelessness about the curtain went up on the second act.

"George," she whispered, softly.

"Yes, darling?" he answered questioningly

"George," she murmured, "why do they put cardamom seed in whisky and other spirituous and malt liquors?"—Detroit Free Press.

Trained by Mamma.

"I've gone clear back on slang," said Bryden, with emphasis.

"Why?" inquired his friend.

"I was calling on a young woman last evening and chanced to remark 'My eyes!' by way of—"

"And what did she do?"

"She murmured my name very, very softly."—N. Y. Sun.

AMONG SAVAGE PAPUANS.

Adventures of a German Explorer in New Guinea.

Scenes in Wilds Never Before Invaded by White Men—Pretty Women Sold, Very Cheap—Curious Customs of the Natives.

H. Liebermann, an engineer representing the agricultural department of the German government, arrived in San Francisco recently after three years' explorations among the cannibals of New Guinea. Germany owns, or rather has a protectorate over, about half of these islands, while England and other countries control the others.

Mr. Liebermann, as the representative of the home government, adjudicated claims and visited the interior of both New Guinea, so called, and New Britain, which are governed by the English, on exploring expeditions and thoroughly surveyed the wilderness of New Guinea back from the seacoast. He had many startling experiences among the savages and had to be on his guard very warily on many occasions because of the dangers that surrounded him.

"No European had ever before invaded those forests," said Mr. Lieberman to a Call reporter recently. "I first pressed the earth remote from the explorations of the Anglesian race. It was the native home of the savages. Many of them had never been near the coast, and they lived in any kind of style of it except by hearsay, consequently their knowledge was very vague.

These natives are very insecure in their strange customs. They were naked. Not a thread of any kind do these natives wear. Men and women alike appear as on the day of their birth. They are large, stalwart savages, strongly built and with crispy black hair and eyes. Their skin is scarcely so dark as that of the Sumatans or Hawaiians. For indeed they are of another race. The Malays and the Hawaiians are Polynesians, but these are Papuans. Many of the men are six feet high, but most of them are about five feet eight or five feet ten inches.

ONE OF THE CANNIBALS OF NEW GUINEA.

"The women are also of good size, well developed and quite handsome. The women, however, have no influence over the men. A white man can buy a woman for enough of the native implements to make, say, from two to five pounds. A very pretty woman can be got for that, and often for less. One who is not very pretty can be got for half that, and as ugly one for a good deal less.

"When a man has bought a woman she is his absolutely, and if she violates her faith with him she is killed and frequently is very cruelly tortured. They will not kill and eat her at or near their village pots, for years ago we began inflicting severe punishment on them for cannibalism, but they will have her away in the woods and then cut off her head and cook her up. We never hear of such women again.

"It is only for such things that we will so dispose of one of its members, but tribe preys upon tribe, steals men and women away from each other and eats them. The German government and the New Guinea company do all possible to prevent this, but have failed to stop it. The savage accomplishes it in the woods remote from the posts, and about all we can do is to see that things are disappearing. No member of a tribe will come down to the coast and tell of it.

"When I went into the interior, however, the natives were kind, and on one occasion I came upon a party of natives who had cooked the body of a young woman. They were sitting around the fire, the palms and a gloomy light was thrown out. The dead body had been cut in pieces and the parts were roasted through and through. It was a fearful sight, and as the natives, stood about each exhibiting a piece of roasted flesh I thought no living person had seen or could see a more horrible thing.

"One of the dangers that stared toward me with a fleshy piece in his hand, and as he came closer I saw that it was the woman's breast.

"The body, after it had been cut in pieces, was cooked with leaves of the banana tree. These give the flesh a spicy flavor. I have eaten of this myself, and I found it very good as well, the flavor being pleasant, but this awful scene made me forget that there was anything in all the island that was good to see or that would tend to redeem it from the terrible barbarism pictured before.

"The natives did not offer to molest me, and as soon as possible I got away from the cannibals. There are many who were so safely done without fear of punishment and without a thought of the awful nature of it."

The Largest Kitchen.

The Bon Marche in Paris possesses probably the largest kitchen in the world. It supplies food for all the employes of the house, 4,000 in number. The smallest kettle holds 75 quarts, the largest 300 quarts. There are 36 frying pans, each of which is capable of cooking 200 rations at a time, or of frying 200 pounds of potatoes. At 7 o'clock they are ready for breakfast; 7,800 eggs are used. The coffee machine makes 750 quarts of coffee daily. There are 60 cooks and 100 kitchen boys employed.

Not What Was Necessary.

"Do you think we should be united to each other?" she said, hesitatingly, before the final acceptance.

"Certainly not," replied after a little while," he responded, with supreme confidence." "All that is necessary is for you to be united to me and we'll get along beautifully."—Detroit Free Press.

A Dramatic Triumph.

Stayatt Holmes—How was the new play last night?

Footlight Jing thing. They've got a dime museum in the third act, with real freaks.

"What sign is there to the play?"

"Nothing much."

"What did you pay for a seat?"

"Two dollars."—Puck.

The Man Was Frank, Too.

Customer—Will this meat keep a few days?

New Clerk—Yes, ma'am. It will. We've had it in the shop two weeks now, and it's just as fresh as ever.

Customer (in a second later)—Thomas, why did that lady leave the shop so suddenly?—Yankee Blade.

Art Note.

"What's that picture all for?" inquired Mrs. Sharpe of her daughter.

"For penciling eyebrows," responded the little Fright.

"Well, what do you want to use one for?"

"To draw."

"Draw what?"

"Sharp's name."—Texas Siftings.

Rates of Advertising

Space	WEEKS			MONTHS
	1	2	3	6	9	12
1 in.	1.00	1.50	2.00	3.00	4.00	5.00
2 in.	1.50	2.00	2.50	4.00	5.00	6.00
3 in.	2.00	2.50	3.00	5.00	6.00	7.00
4 in.	2.50	3.00	3.50	6.00	7.00	8.00
5 in.	3.00	3.50	4.00	7.00	8.00	9.00
6 in.	3.50	4.00	4.50	8.00	9.00	10.00
1 col.	4.00	4.50	5.00	9.00	10.00	12.00

All Electro's must be solid metal.
Lists of Everything" column, 5 cts. per line.
Double cols. 30 per ct. advance of above rates.

GRANT'S OLD HOME.

It Will Soon Be Removed from St. Louis to Chicago.

The fact that the historic old log cabin in St. Louis county, Mo., which the late Gen. Grant erected with his own hands, and with logs cut and hewn by himself, is about to be removed from its present site and shipped to Chicago, where it will be recrected for exhibition at the world's fair, gives timeliness to the illustration published herewith. The cabin, says Frank Leslie's Illustrated Weekly, stands on an eighty-acre tract of land, on the Jefferson Barracks and Rock Hill road, about ten miles southwest of St. Louis. The land was given to Mrs. Grant as a wedding present by her father, Mr. Frederick T. Dent, on the occasion of her marriage to the general, then Lieut. Grant, August 22, 1848. The cabin was erected in the fall of 1854, just after Grant's return from the Pacific coast, and he lived there in comparative poverty for some years. The house, which is in a good state of preservation, is five full logs and twenty wide, and is divided into four large rooms, two on each floor, separated by an open hall, and in the center of the house, with a broad stairway leading from the lower to the upper story. The two lower rooms each have a spacious old-fashioned fireplace, and each is lighted by two large windows. All of Grant's children except the two eldest were born in this cabin.

GEN. GRANT'S OLD HOME.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

She Was Making Pictures While Her Husband Was Gambling.

Many things during the last twenty-five years the private lives of the prince and princess of Wales have been brought into striking contrast, and many have been the comparisons drawn, not always favorable to the New York Sun, has been prayed for by the religious and blushed for by the less pretentious. The prince is left free up as a model of wifely conduct and as an embodiment of all the domestic virtues, while he lights his cigar and lounges. All of Grant's children except the two eldest were born in this cabin.

STUDY OF A HEAD.

conduct when she could, and when she could not she has endeared with a silent and dignified reserve that has won her the love and admiration of all the world.

Two pictures in an English magazine will furnish a fresh text for a sermon on the different characters of the two. Perhaps has just come out of the baccarat scandal with his royal frolicking and has added his name to that list ears saluted with the jeers of some of his subjects, while the newspapers have given to his eyes lurid descriptions of his conduct from his own people which must have sounded strangely in his ears, and were continually perfumed with adulation.

It seems that while the prince has been busy with the amiable and gambling with pavements she lend him money the princess has been devoting herself to painting and learning. She is a woman of intelligence far beyond the very material mind of her husband, and her efforts with the brush have borne better fruit than her mother-in-law Victoria's efforts at the pen.

IN WINDSOR FOREST.

These two pictures are from drawings made recently by the princess, and have been published with her permission, and are the first that have ever escaped from her sketch book into print.

THE PATIENT WAITER, ETC.

Tommy (inquisitor)—Things are coming my way at last.—Puck.

Where Simeon Is Golden.

"Ting Brudsky is the smartest man I ever saw."

"What's he done now?"

"He's invented a magic box that plays Yankee Doodle and Auntie Rooney' till some one drops a nickel in the slot, and that stops it for ten minutes."—Boston Herald.

True Boston Friendship.

Her Boston Friend—O what a dear little Fright!

Herself (blushingly)—Yes. It's my engagement ring.

Her Enemy (Chicago)—Indeed!—Where did you buy it?—Brooklyn Life.

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, Editor and President. A. L. FORCE, Secretary.

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chooses the city of Chicago as the place for holding the national Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation therein equal to double the number of the representation to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and difference, who can unite with us in the effort for pure economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE, Chairman.
WILLIAM F. HARRITY, Secretary.

PATRIOTISM AND POLITICS.

The anniversary of the birth of one whose name and fame cast imperishable lustre over the pages of American history has just been observed as a national holiday.

To study the biography of that illustrious man is time profitably expended, and to imitate his life seizes the very helm of patriotism.

What glories encircle the name of WASHINGTON!

He was a patriot in the fullest meaning of the term, a sincere and ardent patriot, devoted at all times and under all circumstances to the welfare of country and fellow countrymen. With him self was of secondary importance and political profligacy a thing abhorred.

Washington was a patriot.

He had no sympathy with the designs of political tricksters. He breathed a pure atmosphere and aimed for a nobler destiny.

The difference between a practical patriot and a mercenary politician is as wide as the ocean.

One yearns to secure the supremacy of national honor, and promote public prosperity; the other makes personal emolument and the spoils of office the goal of unholy ambition.

A genuine patriot would recoil with disgust from the bare thought of endeavoring to hoist himself through the power of any kind of political machinery into the Presidential chair first and most grandly occupied by George Washington.

The unprincipled politician has no such conscientious scruples, but swayed alone by selfish motives, to him the satisfaction of success justifies the employment of means however repugnant to honor and honesty.

Washington never sought, directly or indirectly, the office of President. Having once filled that high position the trials and privations of the Revolutionary struggle, he reluctantly consented to accept the cares of official position in obedience to the popular demand.

Washington was a patriot.

Would that all public men of the present day lived up to the same high standard of excellence.

JERSEY OFFICIALS RENOMINATED.

The following renominations were made by the Governor, Wednesday: Henry C. Kelsey, Secretary of State; Benjamin F. Lee, Clerk of the Supreme Court; John P. Stockton, Attorney-General.

Law Judge—John Hopper, of Passaic; Ley Judges—Van Hoenberg, of Passaic; Smith, of Essex and Hyer, of Union. James O Glasgow was nominated to succeed B. P. Wills, Law Judge of Burlington. Harbor-Master Driscoll, of Elizabeth, was renominated. A. B. Bland, Superintendent of the Jersey City Schools, was nominated to succeed State Superintendent Chapman. The nominations of Messrs. Rockafellow, Lee, Kelsey and Hopper were confirmed. The others were laid over.

That all the above nominations are excellent ones goes without saying. They are tried and true officials.

The delegates elected at the Democratic State Convention held at Albany, New York, Feb. 22, are solid for David B. Hill for President.

The Trenton True American of Monday contained an excellent likeness of Gov. Abbett, with a column and a-half biographical sketch of our excellent Governor's life.

Ex-President Cleveland was given an enthusiastic reception at Detroit, Michigan, on Tuesday. The streets were crowded and people made themselves hoarse in shouting for him.

It looks now through Hon. Allan L. McDermott, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee would be the next Mayor of Jersey City. Well, we don't believe the city could have a better one.

The Newark Evening News thinks that imposing as was the demonstration made by the citizens of Trenton, the citizens who are contending against the legalizing of race-track gambling, it may not be well to too confidentially assume that the legislation against which they protest will be dead, party lines as Gottenburg's Big Four have the power they hold, and justly adds—"the sentiment which inspired the protest should not be appeased by the law as it now stands in Jersey and Hudson as it is in Passaic and Monmouth and Union Counties."

Mayor Saunders of Mayor Beasley!

"While Greek meets Greek then comes the tug of war" is aptly illustrated in the long-lasting contest in North Plainfield borough. The Democrats have nominated for mayor, in the person of William E. Saunders, a candidate who is far surer of election than any other that party has ever put up in that Republican strongbold. He is a good man, and eminently deserving of the ballot of every honest voter; and if elected will make a most efficient officer and will leave an honorable record and a shining example for its successors. But school trustee Beasley, the Republican candidate, is also a good and deserving man, and is perhaps as fully and quite as justly popular among borough residents as is Mr. Saunders. T'will be a nip-and-tuck campaign, and one of the most interesting elections in the borough's history; and may the best man win!

The stockholders of the Plainfield Street Railway Company will hold their annual meeting in this city, Monday, March 7, from 3 to 3 p. m.

LEGISLATIVE PROCEEDINGS.

There was a small attendance of spectators present at the opening of the Legislature, Monday morning.

Mr. Lane, chairman of the special committee, acting in pursuance of a statement that he had personally visited Vice-President Maxwell, of the Reading complaints, and had been promised a copy of the lease at an early date by that official, who seemed ready to hold the old to the lease system. The committee will act as soon as the lease is received.

Senator Barrett's bill, which became a law last week, changing the time of holding elections in municipalities of counties of the first-class, has caused quite a furore in the country districts and over the State. Many of the farmers understood by many to apply to all counties of the State, and the township authorities thought they would have to change their election notices. In some townships this was done. The bills, however, apply to only to Essex and Hudson counties.

Senator Lyon introduced a very important bill which is to protect county fairs from being imposed upon by "fakirs." It is often the case that a horse with an obscure record is entered at fairs in a much lower class than he belongs. In the meantime he is also swooping in all the first moneys. In New Jersey there is the best agricultural law which exists. The bill under consideration is a fine of $500 for making a false entry.

Senator Lyon also stood for a school teachers' pension bill. It provides that when male teachers have reached the age of sixty after having taught in the schools of New Jersey for thirty years, and female teachers after they would have taught for twenty-five years, the sum Board of Education may retire them on a pension of one-half of their salary at the time of retirement.

A bill by Senator Barrett makes it a misdemeanor for country peddlers to sell any kinds of medicines over their counters. The bill is called into existence by a fact that, it is thought, many are injured thereby.

Senator Kalisch introduced a bill establishing a board of education with one commissioner from each ward and not more than one-half of the same political party, except in cities having uneven wards. The mayor is to appoint those commissioners.

Monday evening last among the bills introduced into the Senate by one of which provides for the appointment of a Deputy Comptroller by the Comptroller, and a Deputy Treasurer by the Treasurer.

The State Board of Agriculture desires to have all the road laws on the statute books consolidated, so that they can tell what they have. A joint resolution was introduced in the Senate Monday evening, providing for the appointment of a commission to accomplish this.

The effort to wipe out the Still Mechanics' Lien law failed in the House on Tuesday evening. Mr. Howell Still put through two years ago, has caused a deal of trouble ever since. Mr. Potts has endeavored to have it amended this year, but that failed. He then turned about and contented in the movement to wipe out the entire law and bring back the law to the status that it was before the Still amendment was passed. It looks as though the Still law would still stand in spite of the determined opposition of the Democrats.

The State Board of Education at a meeting held on Monday appointed A. and J. Matthews, of Elizabeth, as Superintendent of School Census, under the law recently passed. The duties of the taking of the school census into the hands of the State Board of Education. The new official will act for five years and his compensation is to be fixed by the Board. The duties of this new official are, with the approval of the President of the State Board of Education, to designate as enumerators in each district of the State in which the school census afore-said he shall have the power, with the approval of the State Board of Education, to establish such rules and regulations as may be necessary and proper, to govern and direct the said census and the said enumerators; and he shall provide and furnish the enumerators blank books and forms for such other stationery as may be necessary; the said enumerators shall perform their work within the time in accordance with the rules and regulations of the said Superintendent; and shall be entitled to receive for their services the sum of five cents for each and every child's name taken in accordance with this act, which said compensation shall be paid to the said enumerators for the same manner as is now provided by law, upon the certificate of the Superintendent of the Census.

ORGANIZE A LAW AND ORDER LEAGUE!

That's What THE PRESS Wants Propose for Plainfield, in Endorsement of ex-Mayor Randolph's and Dr. Rodman's Suggestions.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—A most important suggestion seems to be made by ex-Mayor Randolph in his speech at Music Hall, last Sunday afternoon, to the effect that for the proper protection of the people something more was needed than an annual report of legislation on account of some proposed iniquitous legislation. Anyone who watches the signs of the times and sees the bills presented to the Legislature for the purpose of legalizing gambling, pool-selling, book-making, and for State regulation of vice; anyone who knows the practice of racing clerks, who take their business hour to visit pool-rooms and speculate with their own or their employers' money on races; anyone who has read Dr. Parkhurst's denunciation of the same practices in New York city, must be convinced that it is high time for the sober, honest and industrious people of this land to organize for the protection of society's best interests.

Year after year the workers of iniquity have become bolder in their demands and more unblushing in their methods, as witness the bills before the New Jersey Legislature, granting enlarged privileges to race-track gamblers, to which it is hoped the present demonstration of public indignation has given a check; and those before the Legislature of New York removing almost every restriction which experience and experience have forced to put upon the saloon business, reducing the fees for licenses, exempting from police regulations the saloons for certain hours, allowing sales all night or 163 out of the 168 hours of the week. Some good people have been rejoicing that the Louisiana lottery had received its death blow, to be deathblow, but it now turns out to be only a removal of headquarters to Mexico, whence it is proposed to operate in Canada, Europe and America. Coming nearer home, the 4-cent of affairs in our own city is not such as to affect as much satisfaction as might be desired by those who believe that good morals, truth and honesty and right dealing are the foundation of good politics.

Is it not time for our people to arouse themselves and take some measures to guard our homes against these and other social evils which are undermining their rule? "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." What do your readers think?

E. M. RODMAN.

Another Fire-Alarm Box Wanted.

The residents of the Scott Press Works neighborhood have petitioned the common council for a fire-alarm box at Franklin Place and East Front street. The box in the Scott works is a private one whose use for fires outside the works is said to have been forbidden. The matter has been referred to the committee on fire and buildings.

—The contract of printing the new pamphlets containing the rules of order of the common council and the ordinances adopted during the past two years has been awarded by the city to W. L. Force & Son, who were the lowest bidders.

SEVEN BAR ROOMS LICENSED AND SEVEN APPLICATIONS REJECTED BY THE COUNCIL.

In Some Places, and Favor Old Ones in Those Above Table for All—Temperance People Jubilant Over the Success of Their Efforts to Abolish the Evil—Speeches in the Chamber of the Local Liquor Traffic—Surprises and Disappointments Among Rejected Applicants—Illegal Sellers Punished.

The list of liquor-license applications disposed of by the Plainfield common council Tuesday night is as follows:

GRANTED.	REFUSED.
John Rafferty,	Charles Bock,
Charles Smith,	Lee & Hunt,
Prod. Caspar,	Joseph T. Sullivan,
James Connooly,	Michael F. Walsh,
Edward F. Thorn,	James J. Ryan,
Jacob Bimm,	John R. Beerhower,
John J. Goff,	Henry F. Winslow.

WHOLESALE LICENSE GRANTED.

Frank Linke.

REFERRED BACK FOR CORRECTION.

Wallace V. Miller, James H. Force.

The lobby of the council chamber was thronged with an expectant crowd in the fate of the license applications. Most of these were of the license element. Within the chamber were a few such anti-license men as Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis and the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, but the power of the temperance people was concentrated in the mass of petitions presented protesting against all licenses in general and in particular against the granting of any new applications, against the relicensing of those who had been convicted of violating the license law, and against licensing proposed saloons in the neighborhood of the factories.

The city clerk was an hour or more reading the records. They were from various of the religious bodies of the city, including the First Baptist, Park Avenue Baptist, First Presbyterian, Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, Methodist Episcopal, Trinity Reformed, Congregational and Unitarian churches, and Hope Chapel, from the pastors of the city, and from other residents and citizens. Many promin-ent names were on the lists, which footed up a total of 946 signers.

A supposedly decent appeal was from Mrs. E. E. Kimball, president of the Children's Home association, who was aptly referred to by councilman Bee in calling special attention to her petition as one who was eminently qualified through her work among the sufferers from strong drink to speak of the destitution and degrading aspects of the curse. Mrs. Kimball was particularly opposed to opening a "fancy grocery" saloon on Park avenue where temptation would be thrown in the way of the workmen making their headquarters near by.

Councilman Marsh commented in a strong speech on the merits of the petition. He forcibly announced his determination to vote against all applications for license, and urged on his fellow-councilmen that no saving time would be lost to a manufacturing district than to establish a saloon in its midst. He was also outspoken against those who had been convicted of violating the law. Such offenders—he said—had gone into their illicit business with their eyes open, after having agreed over their own signatures to the forfeiture of their licenses in case they were detected in illegal selling. Their violations had been deliberate; the only way to enforce the law was to enforce the penalty decreed. He therefore advocated the refusal of the applications of guilty ones seeking renewal.

Councilman Pearse was of the opinion that with the adoption of the new liquor ordinance all applications should be granted, so that everyone could start even in the fair competition of conducting a legal work he for one would promptly vote for revocation of the offender's license.

Against the 946 protestants were arrayed 184 petitioners whose especial prayer was that Lee & Scott might be granted license. These petitioners were mostly fellow-workmen of the applicants.

After duly consid-ring the protests and petitions that had been referred to them, the license committee reported back in the cognizi the seven granted and seven rejections. All of them were reported correct in form and in compliance with the ordinances, except that of James H. Force, to keep a hotel at 7 North arcades and that of Wallace V. Miller to keep a wholesale place at 68 Park avenue. The committee said that these two petitions did not altogether comply with the ordinance, and they were unanimously referred back to the committee for correction.

Among the granted applications councilmen Case and Marsh alone voted no, and the applications were granted by the vote of 10 to 2, councilman Ackerman being absent. Mayor Place granted the hotel license all voted. Councilmen Case, Gilnes and Marsh voted against the bar, 7 to 3.

That of J. Goff barely squeezed through his application to keep a hotel at 54 West Third street. For the hotel part of the license all voted aye except councilman Erickson. For the liquor privileges the vote stood 6 to 4, councillors Case, Erickson, Gilnes and Marsh voting no. Another no would have lost the license.

Joseph T. Sullivan's application at 66 West Third street. Councilmen Bird, Case, Erickson, Gilnes, Marsh and Beerhower voted against him, and his application was denied, 4 to 6.

When Michael F. Walsh's application to keep a saloon on Grant avenue near South Second street was presented Councilman Erickson moved that it be not granted. Everybody voted not to grant except councilmen Pearse, 1 to 8.

The application of James J. Day to keep a saloon at 97 West Third street was similarly treated, and defeated 1 to 9.

That of James H. Force, petitioning to keep a hotel, with liquor privileges, at the corner of Second street and Park avenue, was read, together with an earnest if unpremeditated protest from Mrs. Peterson, with 68 of the signers to the petition. Mrs. Peterson said that her husband's family was not a foreigners but that she herself was a native born and declined to vote. Her prohibition friends also said—but declined to vote.

The property, and it did n't look very nice from the outside, even if it was painted in the same dull color as the others. Weber reported that John Goodell, another of the signers, had requested a desire to withdraw his name from the list. In view of these circumstances it was proposed to table the application. The motion to table was defeated by the vote of 3 to 7, councilmen Pearse, Gallup, Johnston, Weber and Bird voting "no." The petition for a hotel license was then granted unanimously, but on motion of councilman Erickson the question of liquor-selling privileges was fished, on account of recent conviction for illegal selling, all voting no except councilman Pearse.

Henry F. Winslow, at present bartender for John Schorb, but who has just leased the premises from the recently convicted illegal seller, was denied by the vote of 8 to 2 in petition to continue the hotel with bar, at 11 East Front. Councilmen Pearse and Johnston were the only ones voting aye on either proposition.

Frank Linke's wholesale license at 43 West Front street was renewed by the vote of 7 to 3, councilmen Case, Gilnes and Marsh voting no.

Members of the police force who were present at the meeting expre sed to a Press reporter their opinion that the best policy in the world to draft hotel privileges to an applicant whose liquor-license application was to be refused. "If they want a hotel"—the police said—"they'll sell anyhow, and it's only makes more spying for us to do."

ELECTRIC LIGHT DEFECTS.

Leaky Wires and Rotten Poles Need Renewal in Plainfield.

The trouble with the electric lighting system of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company seems to be a lack of efficient inspection. The recent experiment of putting candles in the street lighting service has developed the fact that much of the company's current has been in the habit of leaking from the wires to the earth through the shade trees, leaving only a weak force to enter the lamps. It seems singular that such gross defects could have existed so long without close observation, to telegraph and telephone linemen, and that the electric light company whose men have, to work on the circuits should be utterly oblivious to the fact. And if such a state of affairs is sufficient to arouse public indignation with what sentiment will the people receive the disclosure that rotting poles are not at once replaced with others but are permitted to stand until they fall of their own weakness and cause destruction of property and possibly serious if not fatal human existence? Is not such carelessness criminal? And is not that corporation de serving of harsh con-ure which pounds its teeth and its paws and tumble in the streets through the false economy of its managers and its employees? The place for electric wires is under ground, and if the electric light company can't provide a safer overhead service it is time the city made it bury its wires in thoroughly-insulated cables.

New Jersey Grand Army Appointments.

Gen. R. A. Donnelly, the newly-elected Commander of the New Jersey Department of the Grand Army of the Republic, has announced the following appointments: To be Assistant Adjutant-General, Bishop W. Mains, Trenton; Assistant Quartermaster-General, Charles McGrath, Camden; Department Inspector, Augustus A. Mesereoll, Trenton; Judge Advocate, Howard Pyle, West New City; Chief Mu-tering Officer, William H. Knause, Newark; Chief of Staff, E. C. Stahl, Trenton. The aides will be announced later.

Summit and Rahway Will Play for Westfield Athletic Club Championship.

SOMERVILLE, Feb. 23.—The Westfield Athletic club has contracted with S. Mellado, Charles A. Hasmuth, John Rose, John Lovell, J. Gerrold, John O'Rier and John Warner, and has released John McCabe and B. McManus.

The West End Athletic club of Somerville has contracted with Fred. Bright, G. Ryman, M. Kennedy, T. Moorehead, J. Farrell, J. Heiser and J. Sutter.

L. C. MACK,
Secretary N. J. C. A. S. A.

President Reload Vetoes His New Pleasantries.

A special train composed of the six-car parlor cars "Bedford" and "Crystal," passed through Plainfield Monday morning at 11, having on board President Reload of the consolidated road, Vice-President Shellbarger, Director Othausen and other officials of this division. Their destination was Phillipsburg as the trip was taken for the purpose of viewing the property. Upon what a piece of railroad property he had just become possessed of.

Saturn Club Anniversary.

The eighth anniversary of the Reform club was appropriately celebrated Monday evening. President Cleveland and Governor Hill made stirring addresses. The Misses Manning and others sang. Among those on the platform were the Revs. Roneyman, Redman and Stuckenberg, Mayor Place of the borough, councilman Marsh, E. P. Williams, vice-president Crosley, and freeholder Vanderbeek. Strong resolutions were adopted condemning the liquor traffic.

Pope Stopped Series and Saw the Last Game Pope.

The bill published in The Press in full a few weeks ago, giving street railway companies who have franchises the right to put up poles and string wires for trolley system no matter how many objections objected, passed the house of assembly on Wednesday Tuesday, by an almost unanimous vote.

The purpose of the bill is to offset the recent decision of the supreme court in which it was held that the municipal authorities had no power to authorize the planting of poles or the stringing of wires in the public streets. It applies to the road from Plainfield to Dunellen, which company was about to construct, when stopped by Mr. Pope.

Heavy License Fees for Travelling Merchants.

Since corporation counsel Marsh had reported in response to the council's query that the city could not exempt its bicycling tradesmen from paying a license fee that was charged other travelling and auctioneers combine to town, the common council Tuesday adopted the ordinance imposing a license fee of $25 per week as approved by of the resident and nonresident, who think they see in it protection against travelling fakirs and Councilmen Case and Pearse voted against the ordinance, which was adopted on second reading and ordered engrossed and advertised preparatory to third reading.

An ordinance to license hawkers and peddlers was unanimously adopted on second reading and ordered engrossed and advertised. It was introduced on the behalf of the local merchants, and provides that every hawker and peddler shall pay a license fee of $15 on handcart peddlers, and $25 on those using a horse and wagon to peddle their goods, in addition to a regular license fee of $5.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED.

Persons are warned against purchasing WHAT ALLEGORY PERSON PLEASE over the counter during the past week. Persons who have been induced to purchase the same, with or out of the signature to the petition. Mrs. Peterson said that her husband's family was not a foreigners but that she herself was a native born and declined to vote. Her prohibition friends also said—but declined to vote.

The children's hour in court was interrupted Monday morning by the appearance of Mrs. Mary Ann Cooper, who complained that a boy had thrown a stone at her, and that she had been struck by it. Upon the statement of the complainant, the boy was ordered to appear in court. Mrs. Cooper's son, a boy of about 12 years, was then called to the witness stand, and in reply to questions from the magistrate gave the following account of the affair:

"I was coming home from school and I met the boy. He threw a stone at me and hit me on the head. I threw a stone at him and hit him on the back. I don't know what I hit him with. I don't know what I threw at him. I don't know what I threw it with. I don't know what I threw it for. I don't know what I threw it at him for. I don't know what I threw it at him on the back for. I don't know what I threw it at him on the back with. I don't know what I threw it at him on the back with for. I don't know what I threw it at him on the back with for. I don't know what I threw it at him on the back with for

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—Excellent bargains in furniture and household goods may be secured at the auction sale at Lyon's Hotel this evening.

—Mayor Whiting of Bound Brook will not accept a second term. George Lesmore will be nominated as his successor.

—Conductor Mason of the police board is fully reported on the sick list, excepting Tuesday that George W. Grant had been reappointed police captain for the coming year.

—William Homan, 19 years of age, died at Cranford, Friday morning, with this message on his lips: "Tell the boys cigarettes killed me; and let them profit by my experience."

—The soldiers' service of concert announced to be held at Hope chapel last Sunday evening, was postponed on account of the weather until next Sunday evening, commencing at 7:30.

—John Taylor, general traffic manager of the Lehigh Valley road, has been appointed general traffic manager of the reinforced Reading system. He is recognized as the best freight man in the country.

—Remember the great auction sale of horses, harness and wagons at A. D. Thompson's, Metropolitan Stables, opposite railroad station, Wednesday, March 9, at 10 o'clock, a. m. See announcement in advertising columns.

—It is rumored that the Central railroad contemplate making Lorraine, the new station near Roselle, their terminus for all Newark and local trains, as it is somewhat nearer the work of manufacturing East Fourth street from Broad way to Park avenue will soon proceed.

—A city official Monday told a Press reporter that he understood a number of the electric light poles on Front town were quite as rotten as the pole that fell Saturday night. He said the rotten poles were of such a character that they ought not to be replaced at one by electricians.

—An electric light wire on Plainfield avenue near Front street sagged down during Friday night and caused a disturbance of the electric fire-alarm system and all the engine houses and the house of the chief Dunne. The chief and a lineman spent the next morning before fixing the wires and repairing the difficulty.

—THE PRESS learns through official sources that the New Jersey Postal Telegraph company, whose work of construction was suspended in the fall, has paid its first dividend of 5 per cent., thus showing a full earning capacity of not less than 15 per cent. per annum. Stock of this kind is a bad love-insect.

—There was a large attendance on the grounds of the Independent Gun club in North Plainfield Monday, and the shooting very good. The club is rapidly gaining in membership and expects to improve its grounds and erect a larger clubhouse in the near future. Among the members are a number of crack shots of the Middlesex Gun club.

—Civil Engineer Dunham's civil young soul-lasts who are going about the city taking separate measurements of the front lines of buildings and other properties so as to insure the absolute correctness of the new map that Mr. Dunham is soon to publish, would not be interfered with if they would keep the animals tied up for a week or two.

—A scholarly article which all Plainfield clergymen and some laymen will read and especially interested in Prof. Adolph Harnack's famous discussion of "The Paranoiac of Christianity," in The Sub-bath called for Friday, March 4, has been received. The work has hitherto been published only in German, but was translated into English by Dr Lewis, especially for the Outlook, of which he is editor. It is a most masterly production.

Shall the Firemen Elect the Chief

A resolution presented by Mr. Frazee and unanimously adopted by the common council Tuesday night, referred to a committee on fire and buildings the question of future elections of chief and assistant engineers. The committee is instructed to consider the advisability of having these officials chosen in future by vote of the fire department members. At present the mayor appoints.

Sunday Services for Policemen.

For years the Plainfield policemen have been in the habit of working 7 days a week and 365 days a year. Now commences March arises to the dignity of forty each month. The change from 26 days each month to 30 days each month ought to be suggested the thing and unanimously recommended that the police board arrange the matter.

They Were Licensed Under the If O'Neill Ordinance.

Captain Grant of the police force notified the proprietors of all saloons and barrooms in Plainfield yesterday forenoon that they could not open after they must close this evening and hereafter at 11 o'clock. But the opinion of THE PRESS is that the ordinance will require any thing of the sort on the part of those Captain Grant was notified.

Read the section of the new ordinance that covers the point. It says:

Sec. 10. That any person or persons licensed under this ordinance, shall between the hours of 11 at night and 6 in the morning of the next day.

That is to say, except in the business of selling liquor in this city, were not licensed under that ordinance.

Pastor Worden Surprised.

The Rev. F. J. Worden, pastor of the Mt Olive baptist church, was agreeably "surprised" Tuesday by receiving a call from about one hundred of his parish joners at his residence on Liberty street, who showered upon him innumerable gifts and congratulations. The Rev. William A. Alexander, pastor of Bethel chapel, with Mrs. Alexander, were among the party. This was their first appearance among the Mt Olive congregation, who most cordially received them. The "surprise" was at the residence of Mrs. William Doyle, 72 West Fourth street, and proceeded from thence to the residence of the pastor. An entertainment was subsequently made to the church office, where chocolate and cake in abundance were served. The whole affair was under the supervision of Mrs. William Maybury, who deserves praise for the success of the affair.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 29, 1890.
Having been a sufferer for a long time from neuralgia, and having tried many remedies without success, I was recommended to use Dr. Dunn's Pyrospecific Pills. I did so, and after using two of the pills they are recommended, a cure for these troubles. I therefore feel it to myself sincerely in recommending them to any who may be afflicted with neuralgia. W. RAIR, Rear Mill Pine Avenue.

PERSONALIA.

Counselor John H. Jackson is home again from the south.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Moore, have a little daughter, born, age 12 days.

T. A. Chaney of Quay place has just returned from a Southern trip of a month past.

Miss Eva Clark, of Westerly, R. I., is visiting Miss Florence Titsworth of Madison avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Force will spend Sunday with relatives on Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn.

Borough clerk H. H. Benham is confined to his home on Dunr street with an attack of the grip.

Richard V. Kinney and Miss Emma B. Pratt were married by the Rev. Cornelius Edwards Wednesday evening.

George S. Clay of the Union Pacific Railroad company, is confined to his home, 57 East Sixth street, by a severe cold.

Edward S. Hooley and family have gone to Green Cove Spgs, Florida, for the balance of the winter. They will be at the Clarendon Hotel.

During the absence of Robert Gorton-Monday, from the choir of the First Presbyterian church, William Holmes very efficiently filled his place.

William C. Smith of this city was elected a vice-president of the Second New Jersey Cavalry Association, at their annual reunion, at Trenton, Monday.

Have you secured your seats for the Dannreuth concert at Music hall, Friday 8? They are for sale at the Central pharmacy, Front street and Park avenue.

The Rev. A. V. V. Raymond paid a visit to Trinity Reformed Sunday-school Monday afternoon, and spoke eloquent words of congratulation and encouragement to teachers and scholars.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, daughter of Mrs. D. Quackenbush, of Park place, will give a second informal tea next Thursday afternoon at her home 6 West 33d street, New York city.

The many friends of Eugene Gross are gratified to know that he is recovering from the serious injury to one of his ankles accidentally received the night before last Cotillion.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Martin of 72 East Third street have the sympathy of a host of warm friends in the death of their only child, Edward, who died Friday morning at the age of eight months.

The wedding of Miss Lelia Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Butler, to Ellis W. Hedges, M. D., of this city, will take place on Dr. Butler's home church, Tuesday evening, March 1, at 7.

The sad news has been received here of the death of the brother of Mrs. William Sanford, a prominent farmer of the prime of life and the height of prosperity. He was the son of Joel Randolph.

Two Plainfield law students were admitted to the bar Thursday—Harry Runyon of C. A. Reed's office and Charles L. Moffett of Nelson Rayon's. Both passed highly meritorious examinations, ranking among the highest seven per cent.

The New York Times says that the "Rev. J. V. A. Crissbead of Plainfield," was among the graduates present at the dinner given in the Hotel Imperial, New York city, Friday night, in honor of Dr. Eisbelert D. Warfield, the new president of Lafayette college.

There need be no anxiety felt regarding the attendance of the invited at the receptions to be given by Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and by Mrs. Joseph W. Yates, Thursday evening next. Both will be open in full dress and swallow-tail will go to the Philharmonic concert first, and the receptions afterwards.

Prentice W. Gaines, whose death at his home in Netherwood was announced in THE PRESS of Saturday, was the first American Consul at Sydney, New South Wales. He was appointed by President Polk. He was the pioneer shipper of American products to Australia and New Zealand, and was a great traveler. He started the globe-girdling trip around the Atlantic thirty times. A wife and two daughters survive him. One of the daughters is the wife of Dorsey W. Hyde, son of the millionaire banker, Charles Hyde.

Miss Helen Hay Downing and William Percival DeWitt, a nephew of the late Isaac Rodgers of this city and a cousin of Mrs. Alex Gilbert, will be married on Tuesday afternoon, March 1. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. J. Wesley Brown at St. Thomas church, New York city, at 4 o'clock. The chancel will be filled with palms and massed roses. The bride's wedding gown will be of white satin with draperies of point-lace and many diamond ornaments. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hyde, on Fifth avenue Downing, 960 Fifth avenue. The bride is said to be worth a half-million of dollars.

Mr. Satan Denies He's Crazy.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I desire to contradict the erroneous statement recently published in the paper which I have had been sent to the Morristown asylum. It was stated most unauthoritively and is only another specimen of the manner in which things are manufactured.

THEO. RUTAN.

Stop Jumping at Conclusions.

A week ago the Courier grossly agitated a handful of readers in the city by the statement that Carey was to be reappointed captain of police. A few days later the In-Courier disturbed a handful of readers in the borough by the statement that the local election they had prepared was to be postponed a month.

If our esteemed neighbor does n't stop jumping at conclusions, both handfuls of readers will stop buying it.

A Brakeman Saves's Life.

The presence of mind of the rear brakeman on Phil Sackter's train, saved the life of little Jimmie Morris, Monday night. Sackter's train, which leaves New York at 11:30 p. m., arrived at Fanwood on time. Hardly had it stopped when a mixed train of freight cars, loaded with 413 movies in the same direction, came speeding down the grade. Little Jimmie had alighted from the passenger train and was crossing the track in front of the engine, when quick as a flash and with no thought of his own danger, the rear brakeman of the passenger train sprang forward, caught the boy and jumped back on the train.

This is additional evidence of the fact that the traveling public are absolutely safe in the hands of conductor Backer and his a crew.

Watchung Knights of Honor Have a Night of Pleasure.

It was a very enjoyable leap year promenade concert and dance that was held in Watchung hall, Tuesday night. It was under the auspices of Watchung Commandery, No. 34, Knights of Honor, and 250 were present. Music by Prof. Guttman's orchestra led the dancers.

The entertainment committee consisted of Sir Knight John H. Van Middlesworth, chairman, and Sir Knights Frank P. Hafner, Alvah W. TenEyck, William R. Dunham, David S. Sutphen.

Other officers of the evening who worked faithfully and successfully for the pleasure of all were: Floor commander—Sir Knight Joseph Fidler; assistant floor commander—Sir Knight, Louis L. Van Alytine; associate commanders—Sir Knights Charles E. Rank, Louis H. Brown; Knights Charles E. Rank, Louis H. Brown; reception committee—Sir Knight, J. C. Pierson, jr., chairman, and Sir Knights C. J. Feyrel, C. Dickinson, Guillermo Thorn and H. L. Pope.

THE KNIGHTS' BIRTHDAY.

Fythian Celebrate the 32th Anniversary of Their Organization and Honor Their Order Uttich of Trinity Lodge Makes Some Remarkable Statements.

The Grand Lodge, Lodge, Knights of Pythias of New Jersey, of which exalted ruler Uttich of Trinity lodge, this city, is grand chancellor, commenced holding their annual session and celebrating their twenty-fifth anniversary of organization in Trenton, Monday.

The representatives present of the one hundred and twenty-four lodges of the state assembled in the morning and formed a large delegation from Plainfield. The attendance surpassed all previous grand lodge sessions. The session was called to order at 11 o'clock by Past Master Ball. The report made by grand chancellor John Uttich was elaborate, and contained many suggestions for the future good of the order.

Chief of all, the grand chancellor congratulated the representatives over the unprecedented increase of lodges and members. In fourteen new lodges a constitution about 600 members, were added. Chancellor Uttich said the increase surpasses all the gains made in membership in the order for the fifteen years ending February, 1891. The increase of members in the whole order during the past year was 1,049. One lodge was suspended and one resuscitated during the year. The grand chancellor approved heartily of the uniform rank movement, such public manifestation redound to the credit of the order and a confidence is inspired by the impressive ceremonies which cannot otherwise be publicly inculcated.

To the mind of the grand chancellor, the Uniformed Rank of the order is the most important part, besides attractive than all other military organizations, and he added: "Considering that the Uniformed Rank is the only civil military organization recognized by the war department at Washington, there is no wonder that it is such an attractive feature".

There are now in the State fourteen divisions of the Uniformed Rank numbering nearly six hundred. Two new divisions were organized during the past year.

In conclusion, the Grand Chancellor said:

And now, my brethren, in a few hours I shall deliver to you the insigns of my office with which you invested me one year ago, and to my successor I shall tender the joint of authority, and shall fall in the ranks from which you have called me. Such is the law of organization that some must lead and others should follow, and in such capacity loyalty to duty should prevail.

In throwing aside the mantel of leadership my greatest desire is that in the rank and file, as in the high, exalted office, you will find me ready to respond to all Pythian duties and whose constant aim shall be to further the interests of our organizations Order

"What I have done in my office has conscientiously been done 'without fear, favor, reward or hope thereof,' and if, in the cares, the responsibilities, the sacrifice of the friends and business, the labor has been at times pleasant to me. I leave the record I have made to your kind inspection, confident that you will not speak unkindly of the errors I may have committed, and as confident that you will from all envy will commend whatever good in the record may be contained.

"To my associate Grand Lodge officers, to the subordinate Lodge officers, to the Knights of the State, one and all, who have so kindly and earnestly seconded endeavors, I now, in closing, return thanks in this my last address.

"Brethren, a golden opportunity now awaits you, and with the beginning of the new year, a new impetus and new life, and inspiring; from all parts of the State come words of good cheer and enthusiasm, our castle halls are receiving nightly new created Knights. This is the injunction:

"Let us then be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate;
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait."

George E. Pierson, Grand Keeper of Exchequer, reported receipts for the year to be $6,625 24, and a total membership of 12 643.

Wm. Wilson, Grand Master of Exchequer, reported balance on hand Feb. 4, 1892, $1 398 89.

In the afternoon session the following officers were elected:

Grand Chancellor—Chas. W. Kilbourn, New Brunswick.

Grand Vice Chancellor—Walter F Bayhurst, Lambertville.

Grand Prelate—George C. Cranmer, Barnegat.

Grand Keeper of Records and Seals—George E. Pierson, Woodbury.

Grand Master at Arms—Ralph Donath, Jersey City.

Grand Inner Guard—W. E. Hitchcock, Newark.

Grand Outer Guard—D. S. Rockefeller, Somerville.

The Grand Lodge made a contribution of $200 to the Uniformed Rank, to be used as prizes for the divisions best drilled.

The Regimental Board of the Uniformed Rank could not come to any agreement in fixing a day and place for the annual drill, so it was decided that the matter be left to the Board's meeting at Elizabeth.

Facts are Facts

The fact that L. S. Plant & Co. of the Newark "Bee Hive," claim their Dress Goods Department is to be the largest in the State and to the lowest priced selling in the land, is a fact that every reader of THE CONSTITUTIONALIST will admit, who has ever visited the popular store, and the large and enlarged section of their establishment.

The Difference Between Was and Is.

The News in printing secretary Adams's st. tement that there is no foundation for the report that the physicians of Plainfield contemplate raising their fees, says: "The report did not appear in the News." Of course it did n't. News never flinches. It was into that impoverished sheet. The report appeared in THE PRESS because the matter was being suggested by the leading doctors and talked of among them. There was foundation for the report then, but since THE PRESS sounded a warning for the people, the doctors "contemplate" such action no longer.

What do You Think of This?

Advertising pays when you advertise in the right place. Mr. Andrew Keasey had a safety lamp stolen from his house, presumably by "accident". It was left in front of the depot and found by Policeman Lynch, who advertised the fact in the Daily News and recovered it next evening. Mr. Keasey has his wheel again, which he never expected, at the cost of only a few cents.—Plainfield News.

Now as the facts of the above case are that the bicycle was advertised in THE PRESS, and that Mr. Keasey and Mr. Lynch saw the advertisement in THE PRESS only, and the owner recovered his wheel through that medium alone, what do you think of the fabrication quoted above?

A Fool Tailed Fire.

The Rev. Mr. Warnick gave a very entertaining stereoptican exhibition in St. Mary's hall, Thursday night. It was entitled "Around the World in 80 Minutes" and was a great success. But during the affair the rubber connection slipped off the gas attachment, and the loud hissing of escaping gas gave the impression that some fool shouted "Fire" and there was great excitement among the audience. But no one was hurt and all their fears were subsequently quieted.

Ex-councilman Emmons and family are enjoying delightful weather in Florida. Strenuous Republicans, and considerable hailing of candidates may be expected in the coming election.

A CHARMING PINK TEA.

Delightful Social Event at "Tranbarry," the Home of Mrs. Gil. Wilson.

The tea given by Miss Minnie Wilson at her beautiful home on Watchung avenue, Tuesday afternoon, proved to be one of the most delightful events of this and past seasons. The decorations were in keeping with the day, and were simply elegant. Philadelphia was represented by the Misses Thomas, Arnold and Andrews, and Baltimore by the Misses Rapport, Gibson and Hall, all of whom looked beautiful and bewitching, while the Plainfield belle and belles, were equally as charming. Nearly two hundred were the refreshment room were Misses Emma Haviland, Miss Edith Taylor, Miss Mary Wells, and Miss Vantevender. Two of the prettiest girls about town, were the dainty bonbons. Among the guests were Mrs. William B. Lowe, Mrs. George Dupee, Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mrs. J. Edgar Collins, Miss Yerkes, Mrs. J. Edgar Collins, Miss Annie Corliss, Mrs. Charles Wadsworth, Miss Maude Wadsworth, Miss Marion Dumont, Miss Mary Taylor, Miss Katheryn Yates, Mrs. Warman, Miss Ida Cook, Miss Edna Fitzman, Miss Kate Miller, Mrs. Tracy, Mrs. Churchill, Miss Edward Fisher, Mrs. David Thompson, Miss Emily Thompson, Mrs. Charles Lyman, Miss Lulu Pangborn, Miss Lydia Colt or, Miss A. Neilson, Miss Della Bertin, Miss Agnes McGee, Mrs. Horne, Mrs. Walter McGee, Mrs. Charles Reed, Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Miss Vanderveer, of Somerville, Miss Warfield, of New York, Mrs. VanDeventer, Miss Mabel VanDeventer, Miss Bird's Place, Mrs. C. B. Leonard, Miss Mason.

THE CAREY STORY ISN'T SO.

Councilman Sarah says the Police Board Re-appointed Grant.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I was not surprised to hear the rumor up town this evening that the police board had made Mr. Carey captain of police, when I undertook to refer myself quoted as the authority.

It is not the case. The board appointed Mr. Grant captain of police. Mr Carey not being on the force, could not be appointed.

It has been understood all along by the board that Mr. Carey was not a candidate for the office; that he did not desire to go on the force, and would not, owing to the demands of his present business.

The board fully appreciated the fact that Mr. Carey made a most efficient captain of police, but as he had stated that he would not again go on the force his board was not before the board.

I stated to captain Grant the morning after the meeting that the board had made him captain, and nothing more. To all of which I incidentally repeated that fact to him. He, however, understood me to name Mr. Carey, which by a slip of the tongue I doubtless did. Hence the false rumor and this explanation.

F. E. MARSH.

Feb 18, 1892.

WINDING UP A BUSY YEAR.

North Plainfield Officials Present a Review of the Tredermeuths' Work.

The North Plainfield borough council held an adjourned meeting Friday night for reception of annual reports. Councilman Schaffer was present. The street committee reported in detail the work of macadamization and other substantial road improvement during the year, and expressed the hope that the citizens would be liberal in subscribing for improvements during the coming year, and urged prompt payment of the borough subscriptions. A number of subscriptions of the past year had not yet been paid. The committee further urged much needed improvement in the matter of side walks. The committee on licenses and marshals praised marshal Thomas Rutledge and his two assistants "specials" for their diligence and faithfulness in maintaining good order and otherwise looking after the interests of the borough. Otherwise the reports were largely routine matters. They all showed North Plainfield to be a most progressive and thriving b rough. The reports were ordered printed in sufficient number to insure sufficient quantity to supply each taxpayer with a copy. The session of the council lasted an hour. After adjournment the councilmen met for a social time at Spencer's grocery, where a warm and painfully exciting personal argument took place between two leading borough officials. Blows were avoided.

Barstars at Fanwood.

Burglars ransacked the residence of Mr. Fanwood, opposite the station, Sunday night and stole a quantity of silver-ware and Mrs. Warren's pocket-book. They also entered Mr. Fanwood's another house by a dog. The burglars also operated in Westfield between 12 and 1 midnight.

Farmers, Attention!

On Wednesday, March 9, at A. D. Thompson's Metropolitan Stables, North Avenue, opposite the railroad station, sale of horses, wagons and harness. Mr. Thompson's reputation for honest dealings should be remembered by those looking to purchase. Full particulars in another column.

The Receipts and Save Fire Water.

The proposed appropriation of $1,900 for borough purposes for the coming year in North Plainfield is an increase of $500 last year's appropriation. The increase is made necessary by the expenses of the new and complete fire hydrant service To prevent increase of taxes $500 is lopped off the road appropriation. The borough council believe in judicious economy in street matters where by that economy they may secure adequate protection against fire.

Plainfield's Champion Marksmen.

Eight clubs were represented at the initial shoot of the New Jersey Trap Shoot-ts' league, held on the grounds of the Westside Gun club in Bellevile Monday. The team of the Plainfield Gun club, of Plainfield carried off the honors of the day and won the trophy emblematical of the bluerock championship of the State, with a record of 94 out of a possible 125. The team winning the trophy the greatest number of times during the series will retain it. Each team was composed of five men, and each man shot at twenty-five blue rocks at unknown angles, five traps, rapid-firing system, under American Shooting association rules. The members of the Plainfield shooters was: T. Keller, 20; Neal Agget, 24; E. D. Miller, 21; Thomas Brantingham, 24, and Dan Terry, 26. Total, 109.

Mr. Keller had broken through the ice while skating on Johnston's pond Friday afternoon and went up to his neck in water. He was barely rescued by Willie Pope.

CONDUCTOR CHAPMAN'S CHORUS

And Some of the Prominent Soloists in the Concert at the Second Presbyterian Church, Next Week.

There never was in this city sweeter and grander voices than those of Miss Maxwell and Signor Galassi. There is power and pathos in the voice of the latter reading and delightful effects than the Melopede under William R. Chapman. At that and more accomplishes is the reason why the rehearsals of the chorus of fifty voices in the Casino of the Union County Country club Tuesday night, was such an unqualified and unexpected success. Conductor Chapman is responsible to every individual in the crowded auditorium.

The concerts of the Melopede, which is the society which they have the honor to conduct and most of talent so the prize is never considered Galassi, above evening, was accorded a perfect ovation. His rendition of the song of the Toreador, from Carmen, was received with rapturous applause and given a result. At the close of his singing of Wagner's "Ev ning Star" Tannhauser, Galassi was obliged to respond to an encore. He was compelled to repeat it whereupon Emile Levy, the accompanist, resumed an opportunity which he has missed as Signor Galassi's good natured and laudable attempt to sing the whole opera found Mr. Levy without such sufficient notes.

Miss Maxwell, sweet-voiced Miss Lillian Blauvelt, also achieved a conspicuous success Her style is the "bravura" and her voice about is established. Her high notes notably and unusually pure and ring. A gem of the evening in the way of good composition, was Mr. Chapman's setting to Miss Sarah Sexton Sexton. Miss Blauvelt's rendition of the sentimental solo and it was all well-rendered though a would-have-been effective rest was marred by a careless or worthless singer among the tenors.

Tuesday night they have the honor to conduct and most of talent so the prize is never considered Galassi, above evening, was accorded a perfect ovation. His rendition of the song of the Toreador, from Carmen, was received with rapturous applause and given a result. At the close of his singing of Wagner's "Ev ning Star" Tannhauser, Galassi was obliged to respond to an encore. He was compelled to repeat it whereupon Emile Levy, the accompanist, resumed an opportunity which he has missed as Signor Galassi's good natured and laudable attempt to sing the whole opera found Mr. Levy without such sufficient notes.

Miss Blauvelt, sweet-voiced Miss Lillian Blauvelt, also achieved a conspicuous success Her style is the "bravura" and her voice about is established. Her high notes notably and unusually pure and ring. A gem of the evening in the way of good composition, was Mr. Chapman's setting to Miss Sarah Sexton Sexton. Miss Blauvelt's rendition of the sentimental solo and it was all well-rendered though a would-have-been effective rest was marred by a careless or worthless singer among the tenors.

HYMENEAL.

Gauss—Beal.

The marriage of Miss Eleanor Garthwaite Boyd-ile Beal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J Beal of Netherwood, to William G. Gauss son of Mrs. George Gauss of Boston, took place in the pretty little Church of Our Saviour at Netherwood at 7 Tuesday evening. The wedding was a very charming one. The bride was Egt-ceptable, and the officiating clergyman was the Rev. Stephen P. Simpson, rector of the church.

The bride entered the church on her father's arm, preceded by her maid of honor and the four u-hers. Her natural grace and attractiveness were heightened by her wedding costume of white silk and ribbon, with pearl pendant and other ornaments. She carried a white-bound prayer-book.

The maid of honor, Miss Agnes Winifred Chamberlain of Elizabeth, wore a costume of pale-blue faille, with cream train. She wore a blue-and-white enameled pin, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The best man was Thad Beal, a cousin of the bride, and the ushers were Reynold Beal, another cousin, James C. Sharp, Warren S. Burt and Albert T. Hinrichs, all of whom were favors of admiration and bright pins.

The church was daintily decorated with potted plants, palms and white flowers. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the residence of the bride's parents. The invited guests at the wedding included many society people from New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Plainfield, Netherwood and Newark.

The wedding journey of the happy young people will be to the South. Their future home is at Watertown, a suburb of Boston.

NORTH PLAINFIELD'S NEXT MAYOR.

His Name is William L. Saunders, and He'll Make a Good One.

The borough Democrats made the best possible selection for mayor Feb. 17 in the person of William L. Saunders, a gentleman who is sire of election because of his personal qualities of head and heart and because of his eminent fitness for the office.

The borough primary was then held, the same president and secretary officiating.

Nominations were made as follows:

For Town Clerk—Frank C. Kreesen.

For Overseer of the Poor—W. E. Mattison.

For Assessor—Thomas Brantingham, David N. Force.

For Justices of the Peace—W. I. Westervelt, Wm. Demler.

For Commissioners of the Highway—John Burke, Thomas Newman.

For Commissioners of Appeal—George Brewer, R. C. Mershon, John Kelly.

For Collector—William N. Pangborn.

For Pound-Keepers—(vacancy to be filled by committee).

When the primaries had adjourned a meeting of the Democratic association of North Plainfield was held, and Andrew J. Kenney presided in the unavoidable absence of chairman John Vetzerlein. Officers were elected as follows:

President—A. E. Rowe.

Vice-presidents—Ira F. Riker, Samuel H. Townsend, John Bolling, Lewis C. Kilroe.

Secretary—Andrew J. Kenney.

Treasurer—Benjamin Gavin.

Executive committee made by Mr. Morse and others, and thus the association started in on a campaign that promises to be not only as agressive one but one that will bring victory to the Democratic banner.

Not to Lend Inquisitions on Sovereign.

The committee on the severance of the city, is very desirous of receiving suggestions on the subject from any persons, and these can be given—preferably in writing but so promptly as possible—to either of the committee:

L. W. Sorrell, 10 West Front street.

Joseph H. Flynn, 119 Somerset.

H. B. Rowland, 9 East Seventh street.

A. E. Cook, 20 West Eighth street.

Alex. Gilbert, Mayor's office.

Another Runaway from Bowne's Stock.

While Percy Abbott, a Hopewood boy of Dunellen, was riding along the sidewalk on his tricycle, he collided with a stepping stone in front of Hatfield's grocery store and was thrown with the machine into the gutter in front of a spirited horse that was attached to a milk wagon. The animal became frightened at the fallen boy and ran away, but fortunately for the boy would be trampled to death. Several persons ran to the rescue and found the boy very much frightened but not seriously injured.

CONDUCTOR CHAPMAN'S CHORUS

And Some of the Prominent Soloists in the Concert at the Second Presbyterian Church, Next Week.

There never was in this city sweeter and grander voices than those of Miss Maxwell and Signor Galassi. There is power and pathos in the voice of the latter reading and delightful effects than the Melopede under William R. Chapman. At that and more accomplishes is the reason why the rehearsals of the chorus of fifty voices in the Casino of the Union County Country club Tuesday night, was such an unqualified and unexpected success. Conductor Chapman is responsible to every individual in the crowded auditorium.

The concerts of the Melopede, which is the society which they have the honor to conduct and most of talent so the prize is never considered Galassi, above evening, was accorded a perfect ovation. His rendition of the song of the Toreador, from Carmen, was received with rapturous applause and given a result. At the close of his singing of Wagner's "Ev ning Star" Tannhauser, Galassi was obliged to respond to an encore. He was compelled to repeat it whereupon Emile Levy, the accompanist, resumed an opportunity which he has missed as Signor Galassi's good natured and laudable attempt to sing the whole opera found Mr. Levy without such sufficient notes.

Miss Blauvelt, sweet-voiced Miss Lillian Blauvelt, also achieved a conspicuous success Her style is the "bravura" and her voice about is established. Her high notes notably and unusually pure and ring. A gem of the evening in the way of good composition, was Mr. Chapman's setting to Miss Sarah Sexton Sexton. Miss Blauvelt's rendition of the sentimental solo and it was all well-rendered though a would-have-been effective rest was marred by a careless or worthless singer among the tenors.

RUBBER BOOTS SAVED HIS LIFE.

But His Rubber Were Total Shoes, and Was Rated by the Plainfield Contract.

From Ten Cents per Foot.

The Plainfield Gas and Electric Light company has on its hands the settlement of another claim for damages for the death of a horse. During Saturday night the electric wires of the company on Park avenue fell, and the electric light wires were carried with it to the ground. Before day break Sunday morning William Joseph Duffy of Bound Brook was driving home to serve his customers. Usually milkman William Thomas of Short Hills escorts Plainfield ahead of him, but this time Thomas was just behind. Duffy was on the obstruction in the road, and got out of the wagon to lead his horse around the pole. The fact that he had rubber boots on his feet saved him from possibly a fatal shock in crossing the wires, but his horse no sooner stepped on the wires that it dropped stone dead in the ground. Before Duffy could get a hold of the bridle and clipped from Duffy's grasp, and he was about to stoop over to take hold of the horse when Thomas warned him against the danger. Duffy got a slight shock from his arguments brushing against the animal. Duffy refused on guard to warn others, until Thomas with rubber boots drove over the fallen wires. Duffy still demand damages of the company, who were forced to pay John Chandler in full for the loss of a trotting horse, which was killed by their wires on Crescent avenue two years ago.

The cause of the fall of the pole is attributed to the combined strain of the wires and the rottenness of the pole at the base.

THE COMPANY SETTLES.

One Hundred Dollars Paid to Hitkman Duffy for Death of His Horse.

Representatives of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light company to-day had milkman Duffy present his claim for the value of the horse which was killed by their wires, and presented him with a check for $100, the full amount asked.

NO CHANGE IN ELECTION DATES.

It Was Only the Courier's Latest Bluff, and the City and Borough Will Vote as Usual in March and December.

Notwithstanding a very different and diffuse statement in the Plainfield Courier of Friday last, the elections in North Plainfield will continue to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in April and the Plainfield city elections, as heretofore, in December.

Consequently our neighbors over the brook will vote for mayor and councilmen again on March 8, and the creation of The Press will restrict Mayor Gilbert or his successor on December 8—the city clerk's paper to the contrary notwithstanding.

If you don't see it in THE PRESS, it is it's no!

Years ago this paper had its hands and columns full setting the News right on many subjects regarding reading or believing it. Now the same task concerning that paper's successor, has devolved upon us. Only a day or two since the city clerk of the Courier announced the intended reappointment of the school-head furniture man, Carey, as captain of police. But THE PRESS of No 7 and THE PRESS was right in spite of the strenuous efforts of the disgraced and disgraceful policeman's friends among whom seems to be included—we regret to say—councilman Marsh.

Friday the Courier published a newly enacted law of the State—with probably explanatory notes—and in an interview with Governor Abbett concerning it—to the effect that all elections hereafter in any township, borough, city or municipality of the State should be held on the second Tuesday in April next following the date now fixed by law. The Courier gaze the law to be understood as stating North Plainfield election would be held, in consequence, on April 12, and that the mayor of this city and the council whose terms expire in April will be permitted to remain in office 14 months yet before their successors should be chosen.

If this was so it would have been in THE PRESS two weeks ago. Because the law that the Courier has discovered but can't read straight, was passed February 10. It was provided for councilmanic municipalities to be held on the second Tuesday in April, but only—as it states in its exacting clause, and over and over again in each and every paragraph—counties of the first class. As the Courier seems to be sorely in need of lot of information about its own State, THE PRESS will forgive it a little right here. Counties of the first class are those having a population of over 150,000, and consist only of the counties of Essex, Hudson and Union, which embrace the cities of Jersey City and Newark with their populations of 163 063 and 181,830 respectively. This Union county in which the Courier's paper is so rapidly growing and improving in every day, in spite of its mistakes, we are pleased to see—is but a second class county with merely 74,297 people. Consequently, in which is North Plainfield borough, has even less inhabitants and is rated as third class with a population of 20 311.

Therefore the law that changes certain municipal elections in this State to the second Tuesday in April, affects this city and the borough over the brook, by more than it affects the date of the Judgment Day.

Agency Grocers Rent and Eat.

Ex-Mayor George W. Bockfellow, ex-Councilman J. F. Mandt-nald, P. M. Demarest, J. Augustus Smith and Councilman H. A. Weber of this city, were there among those who were present in Paterson Feb. 17 at the exposition given by the Food and Health society. A collation was served.

Lenox's Hotel to be Sold

The valuable property on Front street, this city, known as Lenox's Hotel, 185 feet front by 350 feet in depth, including the livery stable and the residence of Mr. Beuline, will be sold on the premises, Monday, March 21, by Sheriff's order. Here is a chance for capitalists to secure a good investment. The property will be positively be sold on the date above given.

No Hope For Carey.

"If you don't see it in THE PRESS it is n't so", and the Courier's latest bluff is about proof of it. The latter said Carey was to be appointed captain of police again; the former said "it must not be", and councilman Marsh in a communication to another column, assures the people that the board has no such intention.

But there is some assertion in the councilman's letter that you will all laugh over, and which the councilman himself cannot believe. That is, that Carey would not accept the appointment again.

Well, THE PRESS and the people propose that he shall not have the chance.

Leap-Year Assessors.

A pleasant leap year meeting was conducted entirely by the gentler sex was enjoyed by two or three score masculine guests at the home of Miss Bertha Pisher, Jackson avenue, Friday night. The event was a most enjoyable one, and reflected great credit on the committee, the Misses Bertha Pisher, Ella Fenner, Linda Dunn and Etta Drake. Plainfield beaux at 5 with five nets continually on the floor was kept up till past midnight. A novel feature of the evening was the fact that the secretary to the social order of things the number of men exceeded the number of ladies, and as a result there were many male wall-flowers.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

EDWIN L. BONNY FOR MAYOR.

Republicans Nominate Their Candidates for Borough and Township Offices.

The North Plainfield Republicans held their township and borough primaries in the public school-house Friday Mayor Charles Force presided, and T. W. Morrison acted as clerk. The tickets nominated are as follows:

TOWNSHIP.

For Town Clerk—George J. Martin.

For Overseer of the Poor—J. W. A. Barcamore.

For Justice of the Peace—John R. Macdonald.

For Member of Town Committee—William C. Smith.

For Commissioners of Highways—Michael Corvan, Francis H. White.

For Commissioners of Appeals—James S. Lunger, David H. Weaver, Johnathan Chewson.

For Poundkeepers—Samuel Hudson, Samuel Wagner, Godfrey Dohmen, John Hunt.

For Constable—One year, J. W. VanHorn; three years, Thomas Sutphen.

For Assessor of roads outside the borough—$1,585, $420 of which is to remain in the hands of the township committee.

For poor fund—$1,500, $300 to remain in hands of township committee.

Salary of town committee—$20 each.

BOROUGH.

For Mayor—Edwin L. Bonny.

For Councilmen—George D. Hallock, T. W. Powell.

For Collector—H. Newton Spencer.

For roads—$2,000 in general, and $500 for use on Somerset street.

For general purposes—$1,500.

For board of health expenses—$200.

It was suggested that Mayor Place be renominated, but he emphatically declined, and made a brief speech warmly thanking his constituents for their indorsement, and support during his term of office.

NEW TOWN ON THE JERSEY CENTRAL.

It Will Be Called Garwood, and Will Lie Between Westfield and Cranford.

An important meeting of the surveyors of the highways of Westfield was held Wednesday night, when a part of South avenue was vacated and moved 100 feet farther south. Application for the change of location had been made by the Garwood Land and Improvement company, and as the change was to

GAMBLING ON HORSES.

Race Tracks Directed to Book-Makers and Betting.

Permission Instinctively to Be Found in Almost Every Large City—Why They Are a Menace to Society—Some Pointed Illustrations.

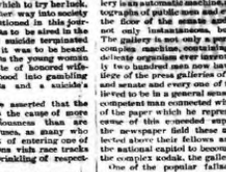
[Special Chicago Letter.]

Betting on horse races is fast becoming the national vice of America. It has led astray more men and women than all other gambling devices combined. Why a horse race cannot be conducted on a strictly legitimate basis, just like baseball and other popular sports, is more than I can see. Thousands of persons attend ball games without ever thinking of betting on the results of the game, but let the same people go to a race and they will put up the last dollar they have on some horse which they think will come in ahead of its competitors.

Unprincipled men who have made human weakness and folly a study have reduced horse racing to a scandal. Almost every large city in the country has at the present time a race course devoted to bookmakers and their victims. The game is a mere cloak. Once in a great while a favorite horse is permitted to win a race, but usually the known animals come in first. A betting crowd always has a favorite. A few hot tips are sent in the shape of rigged bookmakers devote their time to giving "tips" to their acquaintances. In a short while the information is twisted, conveyed from one race track habitue to the other, and a "favorite" is born. Betting rings all have the same cloak of the race the "favorite" is far behind some inferior animal, and the bookmakers have created a golden harvest.

Horse racing that is kept up by the gambling elements is not sport. In the very nature of things there can be nothing honest about it. It is conducted like all other games of chance, to make money for the promoters. Chicago, like every other large city, contains thousands of people who are always scheming in a way to make a living without working, and running from one race track to another, and in cold weather, seem to afford a better opportunity to attain such an end than almost any other form of licensed crime.

The demoralizing effects of unrestricted betting are beginning to be felt in this city in more ways than one. Real estate located in the vicinity of the race tracks has lost much of its

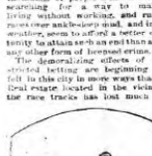


RACING IN THE MUD AND RAIN.

the third picture the reader gets a very fair idea of the condition of the track at some seasons of the year.

Many men are also in various cities to close the tracks with which this article deals, and it is to be hoped that sufficient feeling can be worked up to accomplish such an end. Everybody loves to see a thoroughbred horse, but the fair-minded man or woman likes to have noble animals reduced to mere revolving implements, lower in respect than fare tables or wheels of fortune.

G. W. WHIPPERT.



HOW THE FAVORITE LOSES THE RACE.

Don't Give It Away.

The ground-food pie plate away and ran his eye down the bill of fare until the item he was looking for caught his eye.

"Waiter," he said, "bring me a glass of half-and-half."

"A hoss, you mean," replied the waiter.

"Well, if that's the way you hand it out here bring me a hoss, if you please."

The mixture was brought. It looked like milk.

"What's this?" he asked.

"Half-and half, sir."

"Half-and-half of what?"

"Half milk and half cream."

"Thunder!"

"What did you think it was, sir?"

"What did I think it was! What kind of a restaurant is this?"

"This is a W. C. T. U. restaurant, sir."

"Waiter, here is a twenty-five cent cigar—I tell any of the boys about this"—Chicago Tribune.

HOW TO FILE A SAW.

A Job Requiring Considerable Care and Some Experience.

Every person should have a crosscut saw and a ripsaw and should know how to file both. He will need a three cornered file and a couple of straight-edged boards, two or three inches wide and about the length of the saw. In addition, which to clamp the saw in position firmly while being sharpened. The point of sawing is the same as in all else. In ripping the teeth act like a series of chisels and should conform to that shape of sawing is the same as in all else. In ripping the teeth act like a series of chisels and should conform to that shape. The shape shown in Fig. 1 is about a correct representation of what the teeth of an ordinary rip saw for farmers' use should be. The of rip saws are filed straight across the blade from every way, thus giving an entirely level and straight front to the teeth, as shown in the cut.

The filing of crosscut saws is more difficult than rip saws, at least to the novice, as they are filed at an angle both horizontally and perpendicularly, and the set, or pitch, of the tooth must be preserved by the hardness of the wood to be sawed. The softer the wood to be sawed the lower point of the tooth may be. In Fig. 2 is shown the correct form of tooth commonly called crosscut. The teeth have the sides and base of the tooth are equally long. This gives the base of the tooth the strength necessary for ordinary purposes (see Fig. 3). The set of the tooth may be given in the form of a careful hand, by tapping each tooth with a hammer and punch as it lies flat on the end of a hard wood block, but it is best administered by one of the many good saw sets in use. The object of the set is preserved by the softness or sponginess of the wood. Elastic wood and soda as either requires a very wide set. Give in no instance more set than is required to make the saw run easily, as all beyond this demands extra and useless effort, besides wasting the timber.—Farm and Home.

A Plastering Request.

Servant (from the flat above)—Ma'am lady says to ask you let your daughter sing that afternoon?

Lady (in the flat below)—Why, certainly. Tell your mistress that I am glad she enjoys it.

Servant—Yes, mum. She expects a visit from the landlord this afternoon, an' she wants some excuse for askin' a reduction in rent.—Judge.

Reminded of Home.

"And now," said the Gotham host, as he rose from the dining-table; "will you step into the drawing-room, and entertain the ladies?"

"With pleasure," responded the guest from New Orleans; "I always attend the drawings with great regularity."—Puck.

Help from the Clouds.

Bell Boy (excitedly, to hotel clerk)—Lightning has struck through in to 409, sir.

Clerk—Is 409 hurt?

Bell Boy—No, sir. He's all right.

Clerk (to Manager)—Charge 409 $2.00 for extra heat.—Life.

True After All.

Wilks—There's a man who worked for a street-car company for forty years. Now he is too old to work, but the company pays him a living income right along.

Mills (emphatically)—I don't believe it.

Wilks (calmly)—He is one of the stockholders.—Good News.

THE PRESS GALLERY.

One of the Most Interesting Spots in the Capitol Building.

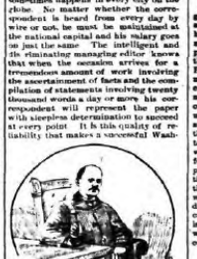
How the Washington Correspondents of the Metropolitan Papers Gather News—Reception Given to Senators and Members.

[Special Washington Letter.]

The press gallery at this session of the year is a busy hive of industry. It is very like an automatic machine, and its photographs of public men and events upon the canvas of the minds of readers are not only instantaneous, but artistic. The gallery is not only a perfect, but a delicate machine, containing the most delicate organism ever invented. Nearly six hundred men now have the privilege of the press galleries of the house and senate and every one of them is believed to be in a general sense the most independent man connected with the staff of the paper which he represents. Because of this conceded superiority in the newspaper field these men are selected above their fellows and sent to the national capital to become parts of the complex zodiac, the gallery.

One of the popular fallacies in the newspaper offices throughout the country is that all the news of the day is gathered by the correspondents from their seats in the gallery, from which they behold and portray all the processings of the national legislature. As a matter of fact the absent, personal and most successful correspondents at the national capital are those who never see the gallery, because that is not a good place to ascertain bottom facts concerning current events. Many of the most important congressional districts whose boundaries are circumscribed by a few county lines, the correspondents represent in no small degree not only the 60,000,000 people in the republic, but a number of them send forth their statements of facts and their opinions concerning affairs to England, France and Canada. Of course for the purpose of having the privilege of the gallery, if for no other reason, the correspondent must be present one of the leading papers of this country; but in addition to that reprehensible fact he has the privilege, and usually avails himself of it, of doing foreign work, whereby an income may be increased or possibly doubled.

None but the most reliable, accurate, conservative and honorable men can be selected leading newspapers in the national capital. The managing editor in San Francisco, New Orleans, St. Paul, Boston, New York, Portland or London must be able to feel that his representative at the city of Washington is constantly alert, diligent and careful in his representation of the paper; must feel that he is unswerving to the good and will on to do his duty; must feel and know that the paper is in the fullest sense safe in the hands of integrity, fidelity and skill. Scholastic training, extraordinary talents and ability as descriptive writers are of course necessary, but never suffice for a lack of painstaking care and a constant feeling of personal responsibility on the part of a correspondent. These representatives in the press gallery sometimes spend whole days or even weeks doing almost no work whatever; but that is in all cases because there is nothing to do and the news market is exceedingly dull. This sometimes happens in every city on the globe. No matter whether the correspondent is heard from every day or by wire or not, he must be maintained at the national capital and his salary goes on the same. The intelligent and silt eliminating managing editor knows that when the occasion arrives for a tremendous amount of work involving the ascertainment of facts and the composition of statements involving from a thousand words a day or more his correspondent will represent the paper with unspeakable determination to succeed at every point. It is this quality of reliability that makes a successful Washington correspondent.



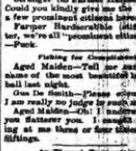
THE SPEAKER IN THE CHAIR.

Another very few of the gentlemen are to be found constantly in the press gallery, nearly every seat having the privilege of that place visits the stage to run back of the gallery either of the house or senate every day, and does more or less work there. The rooms in the senate wing of the capitol were greatly improved during the last congressional vacation by the expenditure of a small quantity of this through filtering paper, and is not fully colorless, and never looked better than now. When this has been done, run the mixture through silk and through filtering paper. When cool it is ready for use. It should be applied with care and uniformity.

Romantic Miss (addicted to poetry)—Oh! I'm just in love with Edgar Allan Poe.

Practical Adorer—Well, that's all right. He's dead.—N. Y. Weekly.

"A FINGER OFF THE LEG."



—Life.

A True Story.

Stranger (to Farmer Hardscrabble)—Could you kindly give me the names of a few of your prominent citizens?

Farmer Hardscrabble (dubiously)—Mister, we've all "prominent citizens" hereabouts.—Puck.

Fishing for Compliments.

Aged Maiden—Tell me candidly the name of the most beautiful lady at the ball last night.

Gus De Smith—Please excuse me, as I am going to judge the baby contest.

Aged Maiden—Oh! I understand you, you flatterer you. I thought you looking at me three or four times.—Texas Siftings.

An Eternal Suggestion.

"How are the Springtimes getting on since their marriage?"

"The old way. You might say they actually still keep up the engagement."

"No lovelier?"

"No; always fighting."—Philadelphia Times.

Sudden Affection.

There's Laughter Twinkles Wrinkle today
The mother-in-law long years in coop,
And just before the funeral day
There's no one like a boy and goose.

Intense Affliction.

Inquiring Child—Papa, why do people stay at a watering place?

Papa (facetiously)—Most of 'em have been married recently.—N. Y. Weekly.

Mrs. Scherzer (observing a new seal skin)—Isn't it beautiful, now?

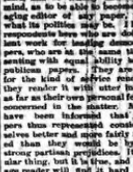
Mrs. Schmaltz (sighing)—Yes. Why, I thought it delightfully warm. Puck.

Never Was Wed Proper.

Jack—Tom, you do not care for me so much when I was away from you.

Tom—Why, Jack, I never saw you the last time you were here.—Life.

IMMINENT LITIGATION.



Clamarity (the section-man)—Thot matthis it. O'hea th' illigraph company ter-morry for larin' a sassige throp ath' wire.—Judge.

Had a Set Better Days.

Mr. Sellit—Well, Uncle Eph, how are you gettin' along these days?

Uncle Eph—Oh, I'm gettin' along fine. It's a mighty poor day I don't make my two or three dollars.

Mr. Sellit—You must be gettin' rich. Upon you pay me that little bill you owe me?

Uncle Eph—Well, you'll have to scuse me to-day, Mr. Sellit. You see I've been havin' a lot of mighty poor days lately.—Harper's Bazar.

Not the News She Wanted.

"Has my husband been here?" inquired a woman of the bartender. "He's a tall, red-complexioned man, and wears a slouch hat."

"A man answering that description got a half-pint bottle of whisky about ten minutes ago."

"How big a bottle?"

"Half a pint."

"Some other man," said the woman.—Texas Siftings.

Plated.

"My father bought me a gold fish for a dollar," boasted Tommy.

"Ho!" sneered Willie, "I don't believe he's solid—not for a dollar." "Harper's Young People.

An Air-Liner for Passengers.

A company has recently been formed in Hamburg for the purpose of putting into practical working shape a novel plan for the transportation of passengers and freight by means of balloons. Each car is to obtain an apparatus filled with compressed air, so that passengers will have an ample supply of pure air as long as they remain boxed up.

Railroads.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROA
THE LUNDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA

(Limited)
(Incorporating Bullock and Block Signalling System)

TRAINS FOR THE WEST

On and after Jan. 4, 1892, trains leave Hoboken as follows:

6:30 A. M. FAST LITE, with Pullman Vestibule Drawing-room Sleeping cars, Dining car to Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, and St. Louis; Pullman Sleeping cars, Cincinnati to Louisville, Indianapolis and Chicago.

8:00 A. M. Western Express, with Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars, Dining car to Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, and St. Louis; Pullman Sleeping cars, Cincinnati to Louisville, Indianapolis and Chicago.

10:00 A. M. Cincinnati, Washington and the Southwest, Pullman Vestibule Drawing-room Sleeping cars, Washington to Cincinnati, Louisville and St. Louis; Dining car to Pittsburg.

12:00 Noon. Pittsburg Express, daily for Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville, Chicago and St. Louis.

3:30 P. M. Pittsburg Express, daily for Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville, Chicago and St. Louis.

4:30 P. M. Pittsburg Express, daily for Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville, Chicago and St. Louis.

6:00 P. M. Pittsburg Express, daily for Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville, Chicago and St. Louis.

7:00 P. M. Pittsburg Express, daily for Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville, Chicago and St. Louis.

11:30 P. M. Pittsburg Express, daily for Pittsburg, Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville, Chicago and St. Louis.

For further information, see time tables to be had on application at the Company's offices.

WALTER E. POOLE, General Manager.
J. R. WOOD, General Passenger Agent.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

THE PORT READING R. R. (N—LENSE.

Commencing on New York Time, Sunday, Nov. 15, 1891.

TRAINS TO LEAVE NEW YORK.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

Leave New York from foot of Liberty street, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

PLAINFIELD AND BOUND BROOK.

Leave Plainfield 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

Leave Bound Brook 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

PLAINFIELD AND BOUND BROOK.

Leave Plainfield 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

Leave Bound Brook 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

Leave Somerville 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

PLAINFIELD AND RARITAN.

Leave Plainfield 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

Leave Raritan 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

1 45 A. M. for Philadelphia, Reading, Bethlehem, Easton, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

2 45 A. M. for High Bridge Branch, Stanton and Intermediate.

5 30 A. M. for Flemington, Jr. R. & V. R. R., Lambertville, Trenton, Philadelphia, Bethlehem, Easton, Pottsville, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

8 30 A. M. for Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Stanton, Lambertville, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

10 30 A. M. for Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Stanton and Intermediate.

12 30 P. M. for Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Stanton, Lambertville, Trenton, Philadelphia, Bethlehem, Easton, Pottsville, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

3 30 P. M. for Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Stanton and Intermediate.

5 30 P. M. for Flemington, Jr. R. & V. R. R., Lambertville, Trenton, Philadelphia, Bethlehem, Easton, Pottsville, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

8 30 P. M. for Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Stanton and Intermediate.

11 30 P. M. for Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Stanton, Lambertville, Trenton, Philadelphia, Bethlehem, Easton, Pottsville, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

SOUTHWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

1 45 A. M. for Philadelphia, Reading, Bethlehem, Easton, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

5 30 A. M. for Philadelphia, Reading, Bethlehem, Easton, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

8 30 A. M. for Philadelphia, Reading, Bethlehem, Easton, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

10 30 A. M. for Philadelphia, Reading, Bethlehem, Easton, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

12 30 P. M. for Philadelphia, Reading, Bethlehem, Easton, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

3 30 P. M. for Philadelphia, Reading, Bethlehem, Easton, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

5 30 P. M. for Philadelphia, Reading, Bethlehem, Easton, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

8 30 P. M. for Philadelphia, Reading, Bethlehem, Easton, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

11 30 P. M. for Philadelphia, Reading, Bethlehem, Easton, Mauch Chunk, Wilmington and Baltimore.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

Leave Plainfield 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

Leave Somerville 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

Leave Raritan 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 A. M., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 P. M., 12 00 Night.

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

SPEAKING CONNECTION WITH OVER 1,000 SUBSCRIBERS—PROTECTION FROM FIRE AND BURGLARS—PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Central Office—40 Month Avenue.

Subscribers' Addresses.

Hilton Miss, Tel.—Park ave and 7th st
Adams, C. J.—32 Grove st
Abe—Rose Cho, Tel.—Madison ave
Abbott, Mrs. M. E.—Somerset st
Adams, Dr. D. C.—46 Grove st
Brokaw, P. V.—Dunellen
Brokaw, Isaac N.—Somerset st
Brokaw, Geo S.—8th and Verona ave
Bonnell, A. D.—Madison ave and Somerset st
Bone, W. C., M. D.—Cor. Front & Central Av.
Bennett, John.—Central ave, and 7th st.
Benjamin, F. A.—Cor. of the estate of Samuel Berry, Jos. F., M. D.—12 Sixth st
Bryant & Hamilton.—Sth st, cor. Madison ave
Booth, H. H.—46 Madison ave
Sth & Liberty, 6th & Madison
Clark, E. B.—3 Washington place
Children's Home.—Jackson ave.
Clement, James H.—Richmond and Front sts.
Conservative Assembly Club.—1 North ave.
Cook, A. D. & Bro.—Park ave and 8th st.
Crider, Dr. H.—Madison and Watchung ave.
Cox, Howland.—Seventh st
Chapman, Mrs. F. A.—4 Third Place
Chittenden, J. S.—126 Central ave
Corman, J. H., M. D.—69 Somerset st
Chase, S. F.—Cor. Somerset and Grant sts
Central Pharmacy—H. F. Lefevre, Mgr.
Park ave and Front st
DAILY PRESS.—3 Washington place
Depew, Mrs. H.—15 Crescent ave
Dorsey, Frank.—52 N. Second ave
Davis, Dr. T. S.—Cor 6th st & Park av
Dey, S. B.—4 Rockview ave
Demarest, P. M.—Cor. Front & Park sts
Dumont, John B.—2 Fifth st
Dumont, Mrs. C.—Somerset st
Dumont, James.—32 Fifth st
Deane, T. O.—Lind F P D.—48 W 5th st
Dunham, E. L.—123 Madison ave
Davis & Swezey, coal and wood.—Mac'n Front
Eastwood, Dr. Geo.—Park ave., and 6th st.
Eaton, Mrs. T. W. Morrison, Estate.—No. 1
Engine No 1.—West 3d st.
Engine No 2.—Somerset st
Evans, Geo. C.—27 Washington ave
Fox, Chas. J.—5th and Somerset sts
Fawcett, Jay station.—Fanwood station
Freight House.—C. R. R. Depot
French, F. S. & Sons.—Front st
Fritts, Dr. J.—73 Park ave.
Fleming, Rev. J.—39 Park ave.
Fisk, Finny.—6 W 7th st
French, C. Frank.—39 Somerset st
Fire Chief No. 1 Chief of Police.—Madison ave
Gordon, A. A.—Cor Central ave & 8th st
Gabriel & Mosely.—Park ave and 2d st
Gaston, M. D., Wm.—5th and New sts
Gordon, A. A.—Cor Central ave & 8th st
Gabriel & Mosely.—Park ave and 2d st
Hagerman, Jas.—Somerset st
Hodges, Dr. Ella W.—43 East Front st
Hyer, Chas.—14 Front street
Hedden, Albert.—63 S. 2nd Plainfield
Higgins, W. A.—16 East 4th st—29 North ave
Hedden, John B.—206 South 3d st—Park ave
Harder, Frederick.—Somerset st
Hall, Miss.—Somerset st
Hubbard's Chip Express.—Somerset st
Jennison, Mr. O. L.—54 W. Front st
Jones, Evan.—12 Somerset st
Kirker, J.—Madison ave and 2d st
Kaufmann, W. T.—65 W. 7th st
Lowry, Rev. Robert.—Rm. No. 4—Park ave
Leech, L. N.—Crossing st
Loud, Wm. A.—Barricdere st
Lewis, Dr. H. M.—Nos. 4-6 Somerset st
Lake, J. J. & Co.—3 Front st
Libby, Frank.—41 W. Front st
Lambert, J. F.—Somerset st
Myers, J. K.—17 and 19 No. 2d st
Miller, Mrs. Wm.—Somerset st
Miller, James.—Widow ave.
Miller, J. G.—16 E. Front st
Mason, Geo. A.—Somerset st
Muhlenberg Hospital.—Scott ave.
Mott, Dr. Wm.—107 Broadway
Matthews, Chas.—Somerset st
Mathias, A. F.—120 Central ave
Mathias, Jos. F.—Somerset st
Mason, Lyell.—46 E. Front st
Mason, Lauthon.—E. Front st
Mason, Jos. H.—Somerset st
Mason, Henry S.—16 E. 7th st
Mason, Jos. F.—Somerset st
Mason, Jr., Thos. B.—Somerset st
Plainfield Gaslight Co.—29 East Front st
Nevius, Aaron & Son.—Somerset st
Nicholls' Boot Co.—56 and Washington st
Nicholls, Dr. Richard's office.—Park ave
Police Station.—Park ave and 6th st
Potter, G. F.—7th and Dunellen ave
Pennsylvania R. R. Co.—Somerset st
Preston, Dr. J. S.—41 Front st
Perkins, Edward C.—Central ave, cor 4th st
Perkins, Mrs. Edward C.—Central ave, cor 4th st
Phillips, Thomas.—134 Central ave
Parker, Mrs. Todd.—Somerset st, cor Madison ave
Pierson Hardware Co.—45 W Front st
Pierson, A. D.—7 Front st—Central Depot
Pierson, Chas. A.—Somerset st
Randolph, Henry G.—Somerset st
Randolph, Mrs. Henry G.—Somerset st
Rogers, Dr. Park and Berkeley
Rogers, H. Washington avenue
Rogers, J. M. & Son.—10 Madison ave
Rockwell, Edward.—Park and Berkeley
Rockwell, Mrs. Edward.—Park and Berkeley
Rockwell, H. Park and Berkeley
Rockwell, Mrs. H.—Park and Berkeley
Randolph, L. S.—Somerset st
Randolph, Mrs. L. S.—Somerset st
Randolph, L. S.—Somerset st
Randolph, L. S.—Somerset st
Randolph,

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & W. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Consolidation Bank Building, Plainfield.
Theodore Fitch, Odell Coddington, Counsel for Park Bank and Second Avenue Bank.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 152, Dunellen, N. J. Orders may be addressed in care of CONSTITUTIONALIST, Town Building.

DR. CHARLES S. THEIS,
Dentist,
30 West Front Street. A new local anesthetic applied painlessly to the gums; teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—tf-42

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock Box 71, Scotch Plains, N. J. Orders left at P. J. Carey's second-hand store, 48 West Front Street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—81382

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
257 Broadway, New York (Room 78 and 79, Importers' and Traders' Bank Building.) Residence, Plainfield, N. J.—[1892

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Is prepared to put in thorough order, Tomorrow-ville, Flat- or Upright Pianos, and to tune by note or by pocket, P. O. Box 156 or at 112 Madison's door there. No. 1 Park Avenue will receive prompt attention. Residence, 31 East Fifth avenue, Plainfield, N. J.—97-1917

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
residence and Shop No. 36 East 3d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. apr

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, cor. Front St., Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
[Successor to E. B. Maynard.]
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., satisfactorily guaranteed. [1792

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES.
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Orders and Stocks for all kinds of Stove's can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware needing to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in the section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.

Tinware Made to Order.

Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

J. Hervey Doane,
6 PARK AVENUE.
[Formerly Clerk's]

Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and promptly done.

Beautiful Assortment!

Furniture!

Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices?
Ever Offered in Plainfield!

23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a thorough and workmanlike manner, and guarantee satisfaction.
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I am prepared to do any work in my line on the shortest notice. I shall have a very large stock of goods on hand, and can furnish them at the lowest possible prices.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 2 DOUGLASS AVE., corner Plainfield, N. J.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.
VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MARCH 3, 1892. No. 9.
"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well as its limitations as to its authorities."—Madison.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

FORCE'S HOTEL,
NORTH AVENUE, [Near R. R. Station.]
JAS. H. FORCE, Prop'r.
A FIRST CLASS FAMILY HOTEL. Steam Heat. First-class Plumbing.
Transient guests at reasonable rates. 10-61-tf

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.
JOHN W. MURRAY, President.
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HAZARD, Secretary.
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
HORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
TELEGOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE. 43tf

ESTABLISHED 1830.

C.E. & J.W. BROWN,
[Successors to D. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Screens, Stock Papers, &c. Bordings for Walls.

Manufacturers of Window Shades.
9-13-17

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES.
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Orders and Stocks for all kinds of Stove's can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware needing to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in the section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables

Front street, opposite Madison avenue.

RIDING OR LIVERY
Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.—oct15y
Quarter Day Weddings, Parties and Funerals a Specialty. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.
TELEPHONE CALL. NO. 16.

LIVERY.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS,
OFFICE—Vanderbeck's Music Store, Park Avenue. The "Accommodation" is now well established for doing all carrying business of the city, delivering packages to and from any part of the city, also to points in the country. Furniture, Pianos, &c., will carry and safely.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
Mar26tf

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers,
Gasolene Stoves,
Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 12 SOMERSET ST. 9-18-tf

GEORGE A. MOORE,
[Of the late firm of Moore Bros.,]
is now the sole proprietor of the old established
No. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the Choicest Groceries.
Fresh and Salt Meats.
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished at short notice.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J. apr 16 1892

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to T. J. Corey.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—28 W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans for Furniture Moving. Orders left at Office or Residence, No. 7 Somerset St., P. O. Box 288, will receive prompt attention.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havanas.
ULRAN HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars. Cigarettes also in abundance always on hand.
Soda's and Articles in Great Variety.
Daily

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMEST'C
SEGARS!
No. 28 PARK AVE., (Next northerly to SHOND'S ST.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smokers' Materials,
of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" smoking Tobacco (without preposterous accusations) on hand.
42tf

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And Dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, long peferred from my 5 cent "Fresh Cut" Cigars. All ers use a 10c cent cent of Maiden Breast, and solicit a liberal patronage of his friends and the public generally. 4-1 mo

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
4tf

J. P. SUCKLY.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 38 NORTH AVENUE
apr30tf

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping. Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning.
Hardware.
A. H. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL. 6. 11 13-tf

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
MANUFACTURED BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
NEWARK, N. J.
1-Y

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN
17 LaGrande Avenue.
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET.
Will reopen THURSDAY, SEPT 17, 1891.
The regular course will include Modeling, Leveling and Drafting. 9 11 tf

SPAIN'S BABY KING.

Biography of His Majesty, Don Alfonso XIII.

The Juvenile Monarch's First Boots and His First Bobbs Doll—Like the Child Was Induced to Take a Cold Bath.

In "Born a Baby King," published by Cassell, Francis and Mary Arnold-Foster give some passages from an early history of his majesty Don Alfonso XIII., King of Spain. Many of the stories told of his youthful majesty have appeared before, but a few extracts from the narrative may be interesting:

One morning in May, 1886, one of the Madrid newspapers made the following announcement: "The cyclone has passed, the king has come; the smallest possible quantity of a king."

The christening was of course a great ceremony, and in due time the pair of little royal feet required to be shod. The baby feet generally do:

The bootmaker to the royal footwear duly measured, the royal bootmaker was duly informed, and the royal boots duly made and sent home. Everything appears then, were, too, that, of course, all had a baby, but lovely to the royal bootmaker, who had to make the boots for the baby king. Now, the baby king of Spain is worth hundred other baby feet in Madrid, and the bootmakers of Madrid are proud to say the queen was pleased to ordain that the occasion of the king's putting on his boots for the first time should be made the important event she bestowed new shoes upon three bootmakers of the city selected, and so it was made a right royal entertainment of the matter.

In his eighteenth month his majesty first entered upon the public duties of his high office, by opening the new session of his cortes.

All the chief personages of Madrid were assembled in the splendid opening ceremony, and the senate house could not contain a tithe of those who thronged the streets of Madrid to see the arms of his faithful American nurse, who stood at the right of the throne, at the left of the throne. He was arrayed entirely in white, his white sombrero hat, tied with white ribbons, was removed on his entrance, and with its red satiest composition he corrupted the scene, almost instantly watching the crowd and bestowing the most delighted smiles on the ministers and the queen's voice to the assembly. The speech over, his majesty evinced a decided wish to be moving, and the queen, who had been sitting in the queen's throne, he remained very quietly until her long speech was finished, when he departed from his first official interview with his queen and his "virtue."

THE KING OF SPAIN.

To bathe in the summer sea at San Sebastian was one thing; to get out of bed and into a cold bath the young king thought was quite another:

Cleanliness, however, he quickly so firmly decided to take his bath that the nurses were obliged to appeal to the queen. "You must take the baby yourself," she said, but she told her an obstinate fit and neither moved nor answered. "Let us tell you what," the nurse-maid bursted by the bedside, "if I tell you to do it, will you have your bath?" Still silence. "If you tell me I will not tell you to do it, baby, but I shall go to my room and bring a baby as big as you are. Do you wish that?" The little fellow's better half was moved, and with the words "Then

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892 as the time, and chooses the City of Chicago as the place for holding the national Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation therein equal to double the number of the representation to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE Chairman.
SIMON P. SHERRIN, Secretary.

ANTI-MONOPOLY.

At an Industrial Conference recently held in St. Louis, Mo., among its formulated principles was the following:

"EVERY DOLLAR TAKEN FROM INDUSTRY WITHOUT AN EQUIVALENT IS ROBBERY."

A great and important truth was therein declared, a truth which combined selfish interests can neither artfully obscure nor forcibly crush out.

Labor creates actual riches, or in other words furnishes directly the necessities, comforts and conveniences of mankind, the vital ingredients of wealth.

Without labor, this vast and developed realm we call our country would to-day be virtually a howling wilderness, wealthy in natural resources, but poor in practical utility.

Labor is the creator of wealth and should be the primary recipient of its benefits.

Buildings, city and rural, cultivated lands, railroads, canals, telegraphs mines, furnaces and factories are all the representatives of labor constructed wealth.

Do we labor enjoy a fair share of the profits of labor? Does it possess the free and equal privilege of accumulating wealth?

We think not.

If it did, the many mills in dollar fortunes now in the hands of speculating non-producers would be found in workers, less gigantic in size, and more equitably distributed among those who in contributing toil and, as a general rule, realize only a bare weekly subsistence.

Monopoly is privileged robbery, cloak it as you please.

Monopolistic Combines say in effect—We furnish the capital and governing brains, therefore to us belongs the lion's share of gain, and the employed, trading, and consuming masses must tamely submit to whatever we see proper to impose.

Is that the plea of justice?

Is it the spirit of freedom?

No! emphatically NO!

It is, on the contrary, it is the essence of tyrannical oppression. It is directly adverse to popular rights, upon the supremacy of which depends the very existence of free government.

LEON ABBETT.

In our humble opinion a large majority of Democratic voters throughout the United States desire the re-nomination of Grover Cleveland for President, as a just recognition of his former dignified and honest administration of public affairs.

Recent political complications in New York may, however, lead the National Convention to select that State as the proper place wherefrom to select a Presidential candidate.

Then why not confer the merited distinction upon Governor Leon Abbett, of New Jersey?

None can truthfully call in question his executive and statesman ad lities, and all must accord him praise for valiant ability in the discharge of every official duty. Leon Abbett is eminently fitted to serve the people as President of the United States, and the unwavering loyalty of New Jersey to Democratic principles certainly entitles her to the honor of his nomination.

Who will second the motion?

THE BOROUGH ELECTION.

Next Tuesday the voters of the borough of North Plainfield will be called upon to elect a Mayor and members of Council to serve until the 1st of May. The Democrats have put a good ticket in the field, and it needs only prompt and efficient work to elect their candidates. The nominee for Mayor, William L. Scudder, is a gentleman of excellent choice, and he has many warm friends among the opposite party. It only requires the earnest and hearty support of the Democracy to elect him. With his election and the good standing of the nominees for Council, and other offices, there is no reason why the Democrats should not carry their ticket. Let every Democrat put his shoulder to the wheel and victory will perch upon their banners. Conservative voters, also, who desire good government, should vote for the candidates on the Democratic ticket.

Senator Wm. J. Keys has been elected President of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture.

Here are some of the names that ought to be selected to go to the National Democratic Convention from New Jersey: Leon Abbett, Senator John R. McPherson, Attorney General John P. Stockton, Hon. Allan McDermott, James Smith, Jr., and Robert S. Green.

The Manufacturer notes that this country has exported nearly $170,000,000 worth of the products of mechanical industries within a year. It says the "free trade organs" do not call attention to our growing export trade. This is not true. Tariff reform papers have called repeated attention to the fact that implements, boots and shoes, cotton goods and iron work are a lot cheaper abroad than at home. When we can undersell the world in a good article it not only magnifies our skill, but it proves that protection is no longer needed for that particular industry.

A CHALLENGE—The proprietors of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup hereby challenge the faculty to prescribe a remedy more effective than this.

I cordially recommend Salvation Oil to all suffering with rheumatism. Jos. S. Fox, Candle Dealer, 127 Morris Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

NIGHT TRAVEL NO MORE AN OGRE. East and West to be United by a Short Block Electric Railway Through Rickards' Barbacoa—Rail Trams to Run at 90 Miles an Hour—A Master-stroke of Enterprise by the Pennsylvania Company.

(From The Press of Feb. 5.)

THE PRESS to-day permitted the privilege of giving to the public first and exclusive information concerning a new railroad project of great importance, extraordinary magnitude, and audacious novelty. As the source of information is official, there can be no doubt of the authenticity of the statements now first made known to the world.

The marvelous development of speed in railroad locomotives has aroused in the minds of the railroad magnates the vexed problem of safety at night. Under the existing conditions the engineer of a fast express knows not at what moment he will strike a broken rail, a fallen rock, or other obstruction, with disastrous results. The ordinary headlight is not powerful enough to reveal whether safety or danger exists ahead, and the electric search-light experiments have not met with the success hoped for.

It remained for the pioneer in railroad improvements, the Pennsylvania Railroad company, to solve the problem. The result of their study of the matter is that they will at an early date begin the construction of a system of electric lights that will annihilate darkness, with all its necessities, comforts and conveniences of mankind, the vital ingredients of wealth.

Without labor, this vast and developed realm we call our country would to-day be virtually a howling wilderness, wealthy in natural resources, but poor in practical utility.

Labor is the creator of wealth and should be the primary recipient of its benefits.

Buildings, city and rural, cultivated lands, railroads, canals, telegraphs mines, furnaces and factories are all the representatives of labor constructed wealth.

Do we labor enjoy a fair share of the profits of labor? Does it possess the free and equal privilege of accumulating wealth?

We think not.

If it did, the many mill-n dollar fortunes now in the hands of speculating non-producers would be found in workers, less gigantic in size, and more equitably distributed among those who in contributing toil and, as a general rule, realize only a bare weekly subsistence.

Monopoly is privileged robbery, cloak it as you please.

Monopolistic Combines say in effect—We furnish the capital and governing brains, therefore to us belongs the lion's share of gain, and the employed, trading, and consuming masses must tamely submit to whatever we see proper to impose.

Is that the plea of justice?

Is it the spirit of freedom?

No! emphatically NO!

It is, on the contrary, it is the essence of tyrannical oppression. It is directly adverse to popular rights, upon the supremacy of which depends the very existence of free government.

LEON ABBETT.

In our humble opinion a large majority of Democratic voters throughout the United States desire the re-nomination of Grover Cleveland for President, as a just recognition of his former dignified and honest administration of public affairs.

Recent political complications in New York may, however, lead the National Convention to select that State as the proper place wherefrom to select a Presidential candidate.

Then why not confer the merited distinction upon Governor Leon Abbett, of New Jersey?

None can truthfully call in question his executive and statesman ad lities, and all must accord him praise for valiant ability in the discharge of every official duty. Leon Abbett is eminently fitted to serve the people as President of the United States, and the unwavering loyalty of New Jersey to Democratic principles certainly entitles her to the honor of his nomination.

Who will second the motion?

THE BOROUGH ELECTION.

Next Tuesday the voters of the borough of North Plainfield will be called upon to elect a Mayor and members of Council to serve until the 1st of May. The Democrats have put a good ticket in the field, and it needs only prompt and efficient work to elect their candidates. The nominee for Mayor, William L. Scudder, is a gentleman of excellent choice, and he has many warm friends among the opposite party. It only requires the earnest and hearty support of the Democrats to elect him. With his election and the good standing of the nominees for Council, and other offices, there is no reason why the Democrats should not carry their ticket. Let every Democrat put his shoulder to the wheel and victory will perch upon their banners. Conservative voters, also, who desire good government, should vote for the candidates on the Democratic ticket.

Senator Wm. J. Keys has been elected President of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture.

Here are some of the names that ought to be selected to go to the National Democratic Convention from New Jersey: Leon Abbett, Senator John R. McPherson, Attorney General John P. Stockton, Hon. Allan McDermott, James Smith, Jr., and Robert S. Green.

The Manufacturer notes that this country has exported nearly $170,000,000 worth of the products of mechanical industries within a year. It says the "free trade organs" do not call attention to our growing export trade. This is not true. Tariff reform papers have called repeated attention to the fact that implements, boots and shoes, cotton goods and iron work are a lot cheaper abroad than at home. When we can undersell the world in a good article it not only magnifies our skill, but it proves that protection is no longer needed for that particular industry.

TRUTH OR IMAGINATION, WHICH?

G. F. C. Smillie at this City Discusses Whether the Painter Shall Follow the Revelations of the Camera or Respect Your Idea of It.

Some time ago president Oscar Teale of the Plainfield Camera club invited G. F. C. Smillie, the artist, of Central avenue, to address the members of the club his views in relation to photography and art. Compliance was not then practicable, but Mr. Smillie has since embodied those views in the following article, which THE PRESS is permitted through his courtesy to present its readers in full:

Ever since the application of photography to the phenomena of motion as displayed by men, animals, and birds, the claim has been made that the conventional attitudes usually given, in art, must be supplanted by the truthful revelations of the camera. This is mildly intimated in the very interesting article in "Photography of To-day" that appeared in last Sunday's Sun. It was more strongly asserted in a recent number of the London Spectator, where a masterly article, submitted to me a few days ago declares that "the best artists are already abandoning what the camera has proved to be false and cultured only because we are accustomed to look at them through the spectacles of artistic tradition".

Permit me to record a dissent from these opinions and give a reason therefor.

The camera has certainly established the fact that rapidly moving creatures never, or rarely assume the attitudes usually depicted by artists, but just as surely the conventional creatures continue to satisfy the eye. The artist believes fully than do the exact representations of photography, and with good reason. For, motion is so simple possession, but a complex one, rapidly changing and of great complexity, varying so swiftly that the impression left on the mind does not conform to any single fact of vision, but is a mean of all of and is composite in its character. So fleeting are they that the revelations of photography appear not only strange, but on examination, which, though very, are both incomplete in itself—the overlapping end of the last and the beginning of the next movement, the elementary fragments of a moment—the result.

All attempts to depict rapid motion or violent action in paintings are unsatisfactory. The effort is too momentary to succeed, as more perfectly appears when stated in less familiar but more exact terms—for, it is an attempt to express statically that which is essentially dynamic. Consequently, dissatisfaction will increase just in the proportion that the elements of the action are particularized or scattered out in the picture. If the wheels of a speeding train or bicycle are observed, the spokes cannot be seen at all; there are hubs and rims, but not the former appear clearly for a lack of light and a few streaks of shadow. To portray the details in such a case would make stationary objects of the wheels and falsify the whole picture. This is a very simple in-tance, whereas the moving bird, horse, or man, presents a most complex aggregate of attitudes, no one of which can possibly convey an adequate impression of the whole, but of which the least displeasing will be such as most nearly approach a condition of completeness. For this reason artists usually choose for representation those phases in the movement where there is an approximation to quiescence—the initial, recover, or concluding stages—where there is a comparative cessation of motion and the eye has come to rest. Safty exact idea of the pose.

Among the artists who have adopted the disclosures of the camera for the depiction of motion, the work of Frederic Remington is probably the most familiar to the general public. It will be found, however, that the satisfaction afforded by his pro fuctions varies greatly, and farther inve-tigation will reveal that satisfaction follows primarily in the degree in which they conform to the principles here enunciated. In all pictures much depends once is placed upon the creation of an adequate mental impression by the selection los of the accessories and effects of the sett-n, and these being less transitory, the eye readily reconciles their accustomed character and the fleeting movement, accepts or interprets the less familiar attitude of the exciting cause. The movement where there is an equipoise—bird, or animal—be separated from its surroundings, and viewed alone. The impression conveyed by the picture as a whole will not long be disturbed by the perplexing, but which may be explained by what has been given above. For instance, the most sensational faces of which satisfactory portrait could only be obtained by the use of the camera which possesses known Washingtonian inexhibition of the momentary expression—by the pencil which has the latitudinarian tendencies of Ananias himself. These faces were invariably highly expressive", and have lost light and shadow, that reflected the passing emotions, and were, therefore, the most attractive. I found that when watching an expression here and an expression there, and then combining and exaggerating that, results were obtained that were pronounced "happy" by my friends, and quite satisfactory. In reality these pictures presented such combinations of expression and such distortions and eliminations as had never been seen. The drawing was a "composite", if you please, and the resulting component could satisfactorily represent the whole.

Thus, it will be perceived, was but the parallel of the horse and bird in motion; but, as we do not contemplate the portraiture of our friend through any "spectacles of artistic tradition", the theory fails to apply here, and the fallacy of such a proposition in the other instance is thus suggested.

Another claim frequently made by amateur photographers is that with the hoped-for ability to reproduce color photographically, the highest art would be within their reach To this opinion they are encouraged by the prodigious improvements in methods and results during the last few years, which will increase rapidly to rank the amateurs; but it is based upon a misapprehension of what constitutes high art.

The most that can be hoped for, with any prospect of realization, must be but reproductions of carefully arranged tableaux—beautiful, perhaps, in their composition, but lacking the true art power, the soul, which is the embodiment of his individuality of the painter. The composition of a gem dish in New Brunswick and a still strong. It ought never to pass the House.

—While a Westfield banker was out for a drive to Dunellen Sunday, a horse ran away, betraying the driver, tossed him out and damaged the cutter with $150 worth of goods.

THE BENEFIT OF MANUFACTORIES.

What the Establishment of Such Industries on the Line of the Central Railroad Has Already Done for Plainfield, Westfield and Elizabeth.

For some years past the territory along the line of the New Jersey Central has been more and more sought for by manufacturing concerns as a most desirable location for many reasons. Among these, because of access to the city of New York, where a number of the largest are employed; facilities for the transportation of all coal and iron needed in manufacturing direct from the mines of the west; and last, but not least, the encouragement offered by land owners along the line and by the management of the Central, in giving such companies low prices for lands, low rates for freight, and privileges for the switches and turn-outs, so that the advantages are hardly less in any respect than they are on water front sites.

Among the largest establishments are the Singer sewing machine works at Elizabeth, the Potter press works at Plainfield, and the Garwood paper mills about to be erected at Westfield. The Potter press works is the largest taxpayer in Plainfield, the Singer sewing machine company the largest in Elizabeth. The Press works at Plainfield have caused a new station to spring up, Grant Avenue station. The Singer works have made Elizabethport almost as large as old Elizabeth-town. At Westfield a new station called Garwood is about to be established which will rank rival in size and importance with Plainfield. These industries are of the greatest interest, first to the citizens, especially the tradespeople and mechanics of the various cities along the line of the railroad, for they involve large pay rolls for the support of every enterprise of the neighborhood in which they are established—as is, for example, the Singer works, which $35,000 a week for Elizabethport, in Plainfield and Westfield other works $5,000 per week. Harper's Weekly and the farmer Beeching's house and farm. The rain above prevented a wholesome conflagration, but Underwood's lodge is heavy; fire insurance light. Incendiarism is suspected.

The alarm for the Bremmer fire was sounded by policeman Fredericksen, who discovered the fire while walking on the city department for a borough fire, but the Plainfield authorities refused Frederickson for his act, as the fire was out of their jurisdiction. Plainfield property was endangered.

The fire-men do even much credit for their promptness and clear-headedness at both the Castno and the Brem-mer fire. They worked splendidly. The Country club members praised them highly, and the latter presented out to the Bremmer fire had a very disagreeable job in the cold and rain, but they did their duty well.

Half Fare All Over for the Clergy.

The Pennsylvania railroad on announced in THE PRESS, has decided to give all Christian ministers half-fare passes over all its lines. The Philadelphia office of the company is now issuing clergymen of all sorts, from bishops to lay readers, Scriptures, and from orthodox pastors to Letter Day Saints, with tickets good for Reading road now announces that it will begin the issue of similar passes to-day.

The Council and its Committees.

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M. of North Plainfield, has decided to give an evening of unusual interest, Friday evening, in connection with the visit of the State Councillor and other State officers.

The council, duly organized, will Bound Brook, Dunellen, New Market, Roselle and Cranford, together with the sister local council, Jersey City, No. 41, have been invited, and will all take part in the exercises.

Should the weather permit, a parade of all the councils will be one of the features. Reception on the arrival of the visitors, who will come by special train at about 7.30, and, headed by the Plainfield Cornet band, will march through the principal streets of the city and borough to the place of the opening of the session. There will be initiation and other interesting features. A supper will be served after the closing of council. All members of the order are invited.

The People's Lyceum Club Meeting Every Day by Those Who Appreciate the Trustee Rent Away.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Your editorial on Electric Light Districts, in Wednesday night's Press is both timely and pertinent, and shows that you are fully alive to the public needs, and to the present system of lighting our streets. The silling of a horse by electric light would not only be a terrible fact in the reminder of the fate of the horse in our city and a second warnire to the inhabitants which they will do well to heed. The public sentiment is the most powerful constant menace to the lives of the people, and some solution should be taken by the city, requiring, within a reasonable time, the removal of the poles, and the placing of the wires underground.

Danger.

Shooting for a Purse.

There was a large gathering of sportsmen at the grounds of the Jersey City Gun club, on Bergen Neck, N. J., Thursday, to participate in and witness the pigeon shooting for the 400-pound prize trophy offered by Jacob Pentz, of Fanwood, for which there is no more exciting sport or gentlemanly sportsman existing Eighteen contestants faced the traps and fired at 25 birds each, with the following result: E. M. Cooper, 20; W. H. Sinclair, 19; Capt. Jones, 16; Edward Collins, 9; C. M. Hedden, 9; L. Lyon, 9; F. Jay, 9; Stanley Bloodgood, 7; Noel Apgar, 7; Dr. Moller, 7; Gus Fisher, 7; Charles Smith, 7; James Wheaton, 7; Thomas Hughes, 8; George Davis, 8; William Pierson, 8; Hugh Leddy, 8.

The winners, Messrs. Captain Jones, of New York, Hollis and Cooper, of Red Bank, N. J., agreed to shoot off their ties on the same grounds, Thursday, March 3, at which time there will also be all-day sweepstake shooting. Genial Al Heritage, one of the best referees known, "did counter," did everything to make things pleasant for all present and succeeded admirably. Alderman Joseph Keogh, of the 4th district, Jersey City, cheered by the waste of the hunny, in a very satisfactory manner. Mr. Pentz acted as scorer and judge. It is needless to say there were no disputes, as among those present the writer had the pleasure of meeting for the first time that well-known sportsman and shrinks shooter, Harry C. Miller, of Richmond, Va. Mr. Miller's northern friends are legion.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THREE FIRES IN ONE NIGHT.

The Country Club-house Threatened, a Tatter Shop Burned Out, and Farm Buildings Set Low Fire to Bedding.

(From The Press of March 4.)

Thick smoke filled the basement of the Union County Country club-house on West Seventh street, at 5:45 last evening, and the alarm was sent in from box 23. When the club steward sent in an alarm from box 23. The department responded promptly, but the services of the engines were not needed, as while the hose was on the firemen put an end to the blaze that was creeping along beneath ceiling and floor in the basement. The cause of the fire is attributed to either the tremendous heat of furnace flue and steam pipes or a spark from an electric light wire. The damage is very slight, only a few laths being burned, but the club house probably did furred by the trampling of many feet.

At 11 last night box 12 summoned the department to a fire that was eating out the interior of the tailor shop of Brenmer Bros., on Somerset street, just beyond the bridge in the First ward. It appeared that a kerosene lamp left burning in the shop exploded. The Alerts stretched a length of hose from a borough hydrant, and the Rescues, Hooks and Ladders and other streams later. The tailor shop was in a one-story frame building. The interior and the stock of goods were ruined. The roof of the building was left standing. The cornice of an adjoining frame building was slightly burned. The total loss is about $1,200, partly insured.

A short time after midnight fire was discovered in the barn of Girard Underhill, in Washington Valley, back of North Plainfield. The residents of the town were in the borough, and at 12.20 the alarm was sounded from Warren engine house. The borough department turned out, but found that the fire was beyond their province. The bucket brigade of farmers was kept at work till 6 this morning. Besides his barns and stables and other buildings, Underhill lost 14 cows and 7 horses, which perished miserably in the flames. The only live stock saved was a little colt. Showers of sparks and bits of blazing shingles were carried over to farmer Beeching's house and barn. The rain alone prevented a wholesome conflagration. Underhill's loss is heavy; his insurance light. Incendiarism is suspected.

The senior editor of The Constitutionalist has appointed the Rev. Dr. Barrows of his brethren of The Eagle, and can truthfully say that Brother Bardon made an efficient Postmaster at Madison under President Cleveland's first administration, while he and his partner Clift publish a live and interesting newspaper.

Address on a Woman's Complaint.

Harry Gordon, of 208 West Front street, was arrested Saturday evening by Andrew Vanderbeek, overseer of the poor, on complaint of a woman who claims to be his wife, and whom he alleges Gordon deserted in Lisle Gordon. She lives at Evona. She insists that he deserted her, and asks that he be compelled to support her and taxi child. Gordon is quoted as saying that she is married to some one else, and was surprised at the arrest. He was taken before Justice Gilbert in judge Codington's office, and his stepfather furnished $1,000 bail for his appearance for trial Tuesday afternoon at

He Has Great Administrative Ability.

[From The Engineering Record.]

Mr. William L. Saunders, Secretary of the Ingersoll Sergeant Rock Drill Co., of this city, is a constituent of the office of Surveyor of Plainfield, N. J. He graduated at Yale college in 1876 from the University of Pennsylvania, and was engaged for several years in different engineering works in this city, from which he went to the present office with the company whose affairs he has administered with ability for ten years. Mr. Saunders is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and is well and favorably known on account of his published researches on compressed air.

Sale of Lange's Hotel.

On Monday, March 21, the old-established Lange's Hotel property in this city will be sold at public auction to close up the estate. This hotel has become exceptionally well-known for over 50 years, and has always been conducted in a first-class manner. Any one desiring to get a good title to a property can be given than to this one. The property has a frontage of 165 feet on Park place, by 100 feet in depth, situate on the principal street of the city. The hotel building is large and commodious and in good repair. Large livery stables and sheds in the rear, with a capacity for 65 horses. Remember the sale is positive and well worth the attention of a prospective purchaser. See advertisement in another column.

Select Excursions for the West.

The American has never become acquainted with the wonders of his continent until he has seen and enjoyed the beauties and marvels of the boundless West. To be satisfied and to feel joyfully the glories of that section one must be sure of the excellence of his railroad ticket. If you desire to join one of the excellent excursion parties that will leave Chicago every Thursday, write to J. C. Jones & Co., 195 Clark street, Chicago, and obtain full information. If you have any doubts whatever for travel they will arrange all the details. They arrange for every comfort of the tourist, and their excursions are select, personally conducted, and in every way a pleasure and a delight.

SEND POSTAL

Answering the following questions:

ARE YOU GOING WEST OR TO PACIFIC COAST?
WHERE ARE YOU GOING?
WHERE DO YOU START FROM?
HOW MANY ARE IN YOUR PARTY?

If you will kindly drop me a postal answering the above questions, I will call on you at your address and furnish you with printed matter giving full information, and quote you the lowest possible rates.

Yours, etc.,

FRED L. CHASE,
South-Western Pass. Agt. Chicago & N. W. Ry.
108 S. Sixth St., Philadelphia, Pa.
Under Continental Hotel. 2 9 tf

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S
BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE

MILWAUKEE'S CITY HALL.

A Grand Structure to Be Erected by Wisconsin Metropolis.

The new building will be located on the triangular block of ground bounded on the south by Oneida street and Mariner square, on the west by East Water street, on the north by Liddle street and on the east by Market street. The ground is a gradual slope from the line of Jefferson street to the south and is 20 feet deep. It is built of gray cut stone. A square tower rises on the southeast corner to the height of 345 feet and on the southwest corner is the clock tower. Along the southern side runs a cloister protected by the overhanging roof, the arches being of heavy stone. The new Bellinger clock will eventually be placed in a taller tower. There is a main auditorium with a balcony across the east end, both together seating 500 ditto to which ample light shafts are provided in the interior which will give to every room in the structure an abundance of natural light and ample ventilation. The exterior of the plan displays as far as possible the defects of the site from a geometric standpoint, and its selection meets with the approbation of a large majority of the citizens—all, in fact, save the interested parties of local architects competing for the award. The building, as will be seen by the accompanying sketch, will be highly ornamental and a credit to the city. It will cost in the neighborhood of $600,000, and it will be ready for occupancy by the close of the present year or early in the spring of 1893. It will be a great improvement in the location in which it is located, for the old structure has long been an eyesore to the city and prevented the erection of valuable buildings, which were attracted to the vicinity by the location of the railroad items of freight and fares and securing activity, business and general prosperity all along its line in consolidate the Eastern wants of his brethren of The Eagle, and can truthfully say that Brother Bardon made an efficient Postmaster at Madison under President Cleveland's first administration, while he and his partner Clift publish a live and interesting newspaper.

PROPOSED NEW CITY HALL FOR MILWAUKEE.

BELOIT COLLEGE CHAPEL.

persons. On the west behind heavy sliding doors are the new quarters of the Milwaukee Library, and the reading rooms thrown 700 can be seated. Across the westend is a platform where the faculty are expected to sit, in massive high-backed chairs.

Half of the money for the structure, which will cost $600,000, is the gift of Mrs. Amelia E. H. Dayon, of Madison, who desired her gift to be a memorial to her mother, Mrs. J. S. Herrick, donor of the college observatory, which she named Smith observatory, in honor of her brother. Other donors are to be chapel are Horace White, of the New York Mail and Express, and her ex-Lieut. Gov. G. W. Ryland, of Wisconsin. The organ, which cost $5,000, is the present of Mrs. Hiram Fitch Story, of Milwaukee, in memory of her husband. In a recent of Milwaukee's population, who hall with delight the prospect of a new and sightly edifice in which the city officials may be housed.

STATUE OF FRANKLIN.

It Will Be One of the Artistic Attractions of the World's Fair.

In a conspicuous position, mounted on a pedestal built after the plans and specifications submitted for the Nebraska state building at the World's Columbian exposition, will stand in 1893. After examining a number of the plans submitted the commissioners selected those of Thomas R. Kimball, architect and principal of mechanical drawing at the Hiakh manual training school of Omaha, and graduate of Yale university. The style is Romanesque and combines the necessary qualities of beauty, durability and economy. The commission not being willing to expend more than $15,000. The cut shows only the east elevation, the perspective not yet having been finished. The building will cover 8,658 square feet, not including the large verandas on the side adjoining the little lake. It is to be entirely of wood, and 9,000 square feet of glass will give sufficient light to show off the agricultural and general exhibit, which is to be in a hall 100x66 feet. Outside over the entrance of the Electricity building, as follows: Franklin, Ampere, Faraday, Ohm, Sturgeon, Morse, Siemens, Davy, Volta, Henry, Arago, Gauss, Ronald, Page, Wheatstone, Gilbert, Davenport, Sommering, Don silva, Arago, Damill, Jacobi, Wheatstone, Gilbert, De la Rive, Joule, Sansanne, Cooke, Yarley, Steinheil, Guericke, La Place, Channing, Priestley, Maxwell, Coxe, Thales and Cavendish.

THE FRANKLIN STATUE.

NEBRASKA STATE BUILDING.

balconies, a lobby and an open reception room facing the exhibit hall will occupy the first floor space. Another large hall for art and statuary exhibits, together with reception and toilet rooms, comprise the second story. The exterior dimensions are 100x132 feet, and the height to the top of the dome is eighty-four feet.

London Thieves in Paris.

A short time ago a New Yorker found was perpetrated upon a Paris jeweller by one of the light-fingered gentry. A gentleman, well dressed and appearing called up the tradesman and asked him to send some jewels for his wife (who he said is in the country) to her residence. The jeweler consented, and in the course an assistant was dispatched to a neighboring house. There he was met by the clergyman, who, asking him to step into the salon, while he carried the ornaments to his wife, withdrew to an inner chamber. The attendant waited for some time and then rang the bell. The matter was answered it informed him that the clergyman had since departed. Neither the divine, nor his wife, nor the jewels were seen again by the Parisian tradesman, whose property, in English, consequently, has not improved.

Most Powerful Explosive.

Chloride of nitrogen is the most wonderful as well as the most powerful explosive known. Since its discovery, many years, from 1811 to 1885, the secret of its preparation was held with a jealous care as a mystery.

A Mean Woman.

First Plaice-Walker—Tells about meanness. I met woman in the black hills in the gold mining days.

Second Plaice-Walker—Did she knock over prices?

First Plaice-Walker—No; she selected her things, and paid for 'em fast enough. But during the whole seven days I remained in camp her husband never bought a single thing.—Judge.

His Beverages Had Always Been Plain.

Uncle Danforth (on a New York visit, from Portland, Me.)—This is grand, ain't it?

His Nephew—Would you like a cocktail before dinner, uncle?

Uncle Danforth (judiciously)—I dunno, Danforth—Take it. Kera, take it. Martha might like one. Don't be a new hermit, when we get back.—One a week.

An Accommodating Official.

"Say, how do I get to the Grand Central depot?" asked a Philadelphia man of a Third avenue elevated gateman.

"Say what?"

"Say, how do I get to the Grand Central depot?"

"How do I get to the Grand Central depot? Anything else you want me to say?"—Texas Siftings.

No Other Lives Like It.

Mrs. Chugwater (while the congregation is passing out)—Never mind, Mr. Josiah. You could make a tremendous fuss about little things!

Mr. Chugwater (still clawing about under the seat for Mrs. Chugwater, who overslept and getting madder every moment)—Do you call anything you wear on your feet little things, madam?—Chicago Tribune.

A Complacent Question.

"But," said the speaker, "there are a great many people in the community in favor of divorce as strongly as I do. What I want to know, gentlemen, and I shall be addressing a young man who was listening with the deepest attention.

"I don't believe in divorce," answered the young man.

"Are you married?"

"No, sir."

"Then! Here is the opinion of one competent to speak on the subject. Now, young man, you may retire."—Detroit Free Press.

A Woman's Instinct.

"Mary," called the husband upstairs, "why don't you come down? I've been pushing your bed for the last hour."

"Why, John," replied Mary, "I've been down stairs for a long age."

"What is that you say?"

"Why, I've been down stairs with my baby two hours."

"Mother Bickerdyke."

How She Nursed Union Soldiers in War Time.

Her Deeds in Camp and on the Field of Battle—One of the Ablest Agents of the Sanitary Commission—Her Record Verified by the Soldiers.

There lives in Russell county, Kan., one of the most remarkable women of the age. Work has always been her watchword and she is now, at past the age when most of us are glad to rest she still feels that she should "be up and doing."

Mrs. Mary A. Bickerdyke, or Mother Bickerdyke, as hundreds of thousands of soldiers called her, says the Chicago Tribune, probably has no European reputation and there may still be the means of the east who never heard of her. Yet she was one of the most wonderful workers and benefits of women. Plain and matronly in appearance, with little education, an enemy to army authority and sometimes when she interfered with the comfort of her "boys," she boldly opposed herself to medical officers and contractors, surgeons, and by the force of good sense she made herself valuable to the armies of the west.

She early attached herself to Gen. Sherman and his corps, and not only followed him to battle, but established healthful sanitary rules where before

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—The trial of Harry Gordon for wife desertion was adjourned Tuesday to March 15.

—David Martin's polo team defeated Richard Smith's team, Saturday, by the score of 20 to 2.

—A Pony Tool workman cut open his scalp by a fall on the stone steps at the North avenue station Saturday night. Dr. Long dressed the injury.

—During Lent there will be services Wednesday evening at 7, in the Holy Innocents' church (Episcopal), of Dunallen, to which all are invited.

—Seven-hand bicycles may be procured at Rogers's, as well as the peerless two-wheel, and at his establishment repairs to invalid wheels are made a specialty.

—James Donahua was brought before Judge Ostrander on Tuesday on complaint of his wife, for wanton trespass. He promised to do better, and sentence was suspended.

—One of THE PRESS intelligent critics says he overhears all the leading business expresses their opinions on the merits of the Plainfield papers and all were of the opinion that THE PRESS was the best.

—Lot 50, Nestor of Mount Pleasant, had an arm injured, Saturday, so badly that it is feared he will lose the use of it altogether. The accident was said to have occurred at Scott's, but this is denied at the office.

—Fires in the neighboring woods have come to be such a serious matter that so far as Fanwood is concerned the township committee have decided to take a hand in preventing them. They promise $10 reward for information leading to the conviction of those who maliciously set fire to the underbrush.

—Eddie Allen, a youthful stage driver, was brutally assaulted by John Mehon, a youth somewhat older, on Somerset street, Thursday afternoon. Mehon tried to board the stage, and when Allen drove him away Mehon struck him a cruel blow on the head with a club. The scalp was cut open, and the wound bled profusely, necessitating surgical attendance. A warrant was issued for Mehon's arrest.

—Charles Hopper, who until recently was the obliging agent of the Union News company at the North avenue station, has gone into business for himself, in partnership with Mr. Hubbard. His firm is prepared to do trucking and express business of all kinds. Furniture and pianos will be removed with care. Leave orders at their office, North avenue, and they will be promptly and satisfactorily attended to.

Thanks from the Tw to They Friends.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—We wish to extend to you a hearty vote of thanks for your kindness to us in regards to the fire which destroyed our entertainment. Your notices helped us very much.

Would you be willing also to extend, through your columns, a vote of thanks to all who so kindly assisted us in various ways. ELSANON T. MORRISON, Secretary.

Laid Up by a Board Walk.

Francis Vanderveort is laid up with injuries inflicted by a board walk. The walk is a new one being laid at Fifth street and Arlington avenue. It was left unfinished and has been in bad condition for some time. Sunday night Mr. Vanderveort, who was unacquainted with the condition, fell over the loose planks, ruined his Sunday trousers, sprained his ankle, and injured his knee.

Started for the Fire, and is Missing.

Patrick McGlynnt, ago about 14 years, and whose parents live on Somerset street, near Dunellen avenue, left his home Tuesday to meet his father at Smalley's butcher shop on Somerset opposite Bailey's mill. He has not been seen since in the direction of the Underhill fire, and has not yet been found. His father was out all night searching for him.

Uncle Hiliy's Sons Now Without.

Johnny Hoffman, the wife, who a few months ago were married in court as the sequel to a breach-of-promise suit, are hereafter to live apart. For some time their wedded life was unhappy, and Sunday both decided on separation. The wife wanted $2,000, but Johnny said he would give her only $1,200. Monday they were reconciled, and the $1,200 sum John agrees to deposit to his wife's credit. Counselor John H. Jackson drew up the separation papers, and both husband and wife signed them. The wife keeps the child.

A Good Time at the Duckie House Warming.

Ex-Councilman Buckle of North Plainfield has just completed for himself and family a lovely, new house on Westervelt avenue, and he had a house warming there, last week. There were about 100 present and a grand good time was experienced by them all. Mrs. Buckle and the Misses Buckle were untiring in their efforts to accomplish the gratification of every wish. The supper was bountiful and the music, by Guttman, kept the young folks busy dancing. Among the old folks like ex-Councilmen Emmons and Vetterlein, and Messrs. Woolston and Chandler, enjoyed the festive game of whist.

Preaching Against Base-Ball Gambling.

The pastors of most of the Plainfield churches Sunday preached stirring sermons against the race-track evil. They said they had been given to understand by Mr. Lindabury, acting president of the State Citizens' League, that there was a chance of the proposed race-track bills being made to do duty in fight-lotteries by securing the legalizing of gambling. The Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor of the First Baptist church, said it would be a crying shame if the Legislature should hold that when legislators openly defied the wish of the people it was time for a revolution. The various clergymen strongly urged their influence and prayers on all in their power to influence the legislators from their districts against the passage of the bills.

A Change Rocket Soon.

It is reported that with the new management of the Central railroad, a change will be made in the manner that information is now given the telegraph office on reaching designated trains. There is a boxed hung outside the station on which is supposed to be bulletined how many minutes late are the trains that are held back for connections. A business man with such information can thus judge whether he will wait or whether he has time to return to his office and finish what business he left in a hurry.

Here is one instance of many and almost daily ones. The 11:09 a. m. for New York, a day or so ago was reported 8 minutes late, then 15 minutes, then 25 minutes, then 28 minutes, but only arrived after its patrons had been kept in the station waiting indecently for 38 minutes.

They Work Wonders.

For over 6 years I have suffered with Dyspepsia, and for the most part could find no relief. Within a few days after commencing to use Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills for 5 weeks, and now am all right. I have also used Dr. Deane's Kidney Pills and found relief from their use. I feel that I am much benefited by the use of these remedies, and cheerfully recommend them to all. Dyspeptics may see fit to try them.

DUNCAN W. FIELDS, Jr.,
Gen. Pass. Agt.

Letter from Byron W. Fiske, Jr.,

6 EAST 56TH STREET,
NEW YORK, Feb. 15, 1892.

Several times this Winter I have suffered from severe colds; on my return each time I have applied Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and in every instance have been relieved by its use. I have also used it in my family, and find it a most reliable remedy for coughs and colds.

PERSONALIA.

Dr. C. M. Field has gone South for two months.

Will Beckelaer of West Fifth street is home from a surveying trip.

Mrs. Hallock of West Fifth street is entertaining her sister, Miss Grace Beak, Ex-Councilman and Mrs. Seymour G. Smith have gone to Hartwick, Otsego county, N. Y., for a ten day visit.

The ladies reception to club members at The Casino Monday night, was the usual success. The music and supper were perfect.

Daniel and Michael Crowley, members of Andrew McC-rdell's department at the Fond Du Lac road, are at Burlington, Vt., attending the funeral of their father.

One of the happiest men in the borough of North Plainfield is Ed. Sebring. The cause of his felicity is the arrival of a new little girl. Mother and babe are doing well.

The Rev. Samuel W. Clark, so well-known throughout the State, having filled the office many years as State secretary of the Sunday-school association, died at his home at Paterson on Saturday.

Mrs. Van Winkle, jr., son of counselor Van Winkle, celebrated his thirty-fifth birthday anniversary Saturday evening, when he entertained a merry party of young people at his home on Duer street.

A Plainfield young lady, leading the Misses Coward of East Front street, the Misses Valentine of Central avenue, Miss Dunham of West Fifth street, and Miss Maltby of Plainfield avenue, has left town for Washington.

Robert Gordon has resigned from the First Presbyterian church choir.

J. Archer Hutchings, a banker of Havardee, Iowa, is visiting his brothers, the Mes-srs. Emerson of Central avenue.

Miss Clementine Yates of this city will speak of "The Duties of the Corresponding Secretary" at the Young Ladies' Society School of Methods at Elizabeth March 17.

Miss Florence M. Randolph was given a most enjoyable surprise party by Plainfield and Dunellen friends, at her home, Grant avenue and Front street, Friday night.

The Hon James E. Martine, the people's choice as to next gubernatorial nominee in this district, has seemingly started in to paint the town red and has begun on the house at the corner of Ninth street and Prospect place.

Funeral services were held over the remains of the late Elisa King at her late residence, 230 West Front street, Sunday. The Rev Dr. Hayes officiated. Appropriate music was sung by Messrs. Elmer E. Bowyer, George Stevens, and B. T. Ib-rsoe.

Alfred A. Marsh, of the firm of Marsh, Ayres & Co., received a telegram, Saturday, stating that his brother, Francis Marsh, age 37, had died suddenly in Chicago, where he had lived fourteen years. Mr. Marsh left at midnight, to attend the funeral.

The Rev. Dr. E. P. Ketcham, in spite of the inclement weather, preached to a full house over the remains of the late "Aunt Sallie" Butcher, Monday. Among the old friends of the departed present at the services were Messrs. Charles W. Dodd, formerly of this city.

The lecture by profes-or Richardson in the Library course, which was to have taken place on the night of the postponement of the concert of the Choral society, be postponed until March 10; and in lieu of the proposed lecture on "The Nibelungen Lied" professor Richardson will by request deliver his famous lecture on "The Passion Play".

Charles Winston, an aged landscape gardener, was found dead in bed at his residence with policeman Flanagan, on Liberty street, Sunday morning. County physician Westcott said heart disease was the trouble. Mr. Winston, brooding over the death of his wife, which occurred three months ago. His age was 63.

Hugo C. Munday, a bright young newspaper-man, has begun the publication of a newsy weekly paper, the Rockland County Herald, at Congers, N. Y. His paper is "independent in politics and religious things", and the Herald shows every evidence of pluck, push and enterprise. It will undoubtedly be the success it deserves to be.

The New York Recorder of to-day says: "George Taggart of North Plainfield has written a very comedy farce entitled 'Four Leaf Clover,' which he and the Spooner brothers will bring out at Plainfield after Lent. Those who have heard the new production promise to brighten the Four-Leaf Clover has ever done, and that is saying a good deal."

Sarah Butcher, who was known throughout Plainfield as "Aunt Sallie", died at 1:30 Friday night, as the result of a lingering illness from which surgical operation failed to save her. She was a good Christian woman, and a member of the First Presbyterian church. Her memory will be cherished by a host of friends. George Butcher, her husband, was formerly driver for No. 1 engine company. He has the sincere sympathy of the community in his loss.

A Pleasant Reception.

Carl Brown delight ully entertained a company of his young friends at his home Mercer avenue, Friday night. Mrs. Emma R. Brown and Miss Grace Brown of Bellevue assisted in receiving the guests who remained until after midnight, dancing and chatting away the pleasant hours. Those present were the Misses Lizzie Brown, Alice Barlow, Blanche Miller, May Shreve, Edith Clapp, Marion Henderson, Ornella Faber, Elizabeth Hull, Ella Loyd, Alice Vanderveer and Grace Bowne; Messrs Belon Hasbrouck, Kate Overton and Hallie VanDeventer; Messrs Burnham Tiler, Everett Dwight, Walter Cowperthwaite, Thompson, Charles Cook, Phill, Wells, Howard Turrill, Philip Jacques, Harry McGee Edward Warling, Perry Lone, Clarence Pack, Fred. Taylor and Lillard Brown.

One of the City's Attractions.

Signs of an early spring are brincing many applications for rooms and suites at The Albion, and a number are already engaged. The dining room will be comfortably filled now, and it is probable that the annex will be thrown open in a few days to accomodate the numerous guests who will make their meals at the hotel, during the weeks that their homes and households are turned upside down by the spring cleaning.

The bar and cuisine of The Albion is the luxurious and generous way proprietor Miller has followed, is one of the greatest of benefits to the city of Plainfield. It proved by the one fact that during the passing season its accomodations have yet at times taxed to their utmost to provide for the many out-of-town society people who have attended the numerous weddings, receptions, teas and other swell affairs here that in days past attracted some of the best-em's friends from New York because they would afterwards be compelled to travel a long way home. Now such people come to Plainfield and go back to the great metropolis full of praise of this city and its hotel accomodations.

Letter from Byron W. Fiske, Jr.,

6 EAST 56TH STREET,
NEW YORK, Feb. 15, 1892.

Several times this Winter I have suffered from severe colds; on my return each time I have applied Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and in every instance have been relieved by its use. I have also used it in my family, and find it a most reliable remedy for coughs and colds. Dyspeptics may see fit to try them.

DUNCAN W. FIELDS, Jr.,
Gen. Pass. Agt.

THE RECEPTIONS.

Plainfield Society Has a Double Feast of Good Things.

The receptions given by Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Robertson at Stonelodge Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Yates and the Misses Yates at West 7th street, Thursday night, were both highly enjoyable events, and complete social success.

The interior of the Yates home was artistically decorated. Large mirrors reflected the beautiful profusion of palms and lilies. The windows were draped with twinings of graceful smilax, and portieres of smilax were hung at the doorways. The mantels were also adorned with green. The mantels were beautified with marmet, bride and pearl roses and smilax. There were carnations in profusion. The conservatory was hidden from view by a bank of ferns, lilies and palms. The stairways and landings were decorated with palms and ferns, with pale candle lights interspersed. The table was beautifully arranged, in pink. The menu was perfect, and the service perfection. The parlors, conservatory and house were perfect for just such a social affair. The costumes of the ladies were superb in simplicity and richness. The general impression of the evening was that the house was perfect for such gatherings. Those who received were Mr. and Mrs. Yates and the Misses Yates assisted by Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, Mrs Henry B. Newhall, Miss Butler, Miss Dumont, and Miss Yates of Brooklyn. About 75 were served 400.

Similarly magnificent were the details of the affair at the Hegeman home, where Mr. and Mrs. Hegeman were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, jr., and by Miss Roome, sister of Mrs. Hegeman. Everything was charmingly suggestive of Easter, and the guests were most hospitably entertained.

Among those prominent at the receptions were the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Taylor and Mrs. Alexander Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. John B Dumont, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Cahoone, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wentz, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cokefair, E. M. Dantel, Mr. and Mrs. Mason W. Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus D. Shepard, the Misses Tracy, Evarts Tracy, Henry B. Newhall, the Misses Anthony, Mr. and Mrs. George Lisegloolo, Dr. and Mrs. Endicott, the Rev. and Mrs. Fernald, Mrs. J. W. Mundhenk, Mr. and Mrs. Murray, the Rev. Wm. E. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Roger F. Murray, the Rev. D. J. Yerkes, Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Ackerman, the Rev. Dr. Goodrich, Dr. and Mrs. Tomlinson, Miss Minnola Tomlinson, Rowland Cox, jr., Mr and Mrs. A. W. Sullant, Dr. and Mrs. Pitts, Miss Pitts, Dr. and Mrs. H. Raymond Munger and Miss Munger, Harry Munger, Cy ig Mar-h, the Misses Marsh Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Goddard, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Richmore, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rushmore, Rev. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rice, Rev. and Mrs. Wm E. Honeyman, Dr and Mrs. H. Lowrie, the Misses Erskine, the Misses Martine, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bunting, and Miss Huntington, Mrs. Dr. Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. Erickson, Mrs. Chas. Hunter and Miss Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Wade and Miss Wade, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Forsyth and Miss Forsyth, Mr. McKenzie, Mrs. West, Miss Edgar, Mr and Mrs. Chas. D. Wadsworth, Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Dumont, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. W. Jacks-n, Mrs. C. Wharton, Miss Niles, Mis-Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Squiers, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stewart, Miss Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. L. U. Lovell, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stillman, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Saville, Miss Saville, John Watson, Mr. and Mrs. James Middleton, Mr. and Mrs. John McKnachton, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Burt, Wm. Martine, Mr. and Mrs. Herring, Mis Kirkner, Mrs. Lauritsen Gilbert, Arthur Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Miller, the Rev. and Mrs. T. Logen Murphy, Miss Margery Lawrence Murphy, Mr. and Dr. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warfog, Mr and Mrs. Martin I Cooley, Mr. and Mrs. James Watt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry McGee, Mr. and Mrs. James B Joy, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wood and Miss Wood, Joseph Sandford, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thompson, Mrs. Tiffany and the Misses Tweedy, Mr. and Mrs. Van Boskerck and the Misses Van Boskerck, Mr. and Mrs. J. H Van Arsdale, Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. J. B Drayton, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. James De Graff, Wm. B. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, Mrs. Stroull, Mr and Mrs. Deane Van Vnet, and Mrs. Fanny Foster, Mr. and Mrs George Chapman, Aaron M. Powell, Miss Dora, Mr. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Patton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ames, Mr. and Mrs Charles Burnet, the Misses Day, the Misses Miller, Mr. John Leal and Miss Way, Mrs. Julia Scribner and Miss Scribner, Mrs. Worthington, Albert Thicey, Mr. and Mrs. Van Seise.

The Victor Takes the Pate.

Time was when those who wanted a bicycle hardly know what to choose, as different machines lacked something of perfection Now, however, there is no question as to which is the superior wheel. Bicycledom all over the world has with delight the advent of the new and perfect Victor, whose merits are so fully explained to inquiring ones by the local agent, William H. Rogers. If you want to buy a new wheel or to replace your old-fashioned with a modern one, see Rogers about it. His Victor will suit you better than anything else.

A Leading Event of the Season.

The largest and most beautiful collection of orchids, plants and rare flowers ever seen in New York city is now on view at the Elsen Museum, on West Twenty-third street. The annual flower show has become one of the fashionable events of the year. Among the patrons and exhibitors are Jay Gould, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Thompson, Charles Cook, Phill, Wells, Howard Turrill, Philip Jacques, Harry McGee Edward Warling, Perry Lone, Clarence Pack, Fred. Taylor and Lillard Brown.

One of the City's Attractions.

Signs of an early spring are brincing many applications for rooms and suites at The Albion, and a number are already engaged. The dining room will be comfortably filled now, and it is probable that the annex will be thrown open in a few days to accomodate the numerous guests who will make their meals at the hotel, during the weeks that their homes and households are turned upside down by the spring cleaning.

The bar and cuisine of The Albion is the luxurious and generous way proprietor Miller has followed, is one of the greatest of benefits to the city of Plainfield. It proved by the one fact that during the passing season its accomodations have yet at times taxed to their utmost to provide for the many out-of-town society people who have attended the numerous weddings, receptions, teas and other swell affairs here that in days past attracted some of the best-em's friends from New York because they would afterwards be compelled to travel a long way home. Now such people come to Plainfield and go back to the great metropolis full of praise of this city and its hotel accomodations.

Letter from Byron W. Fiske, Jr.,

6 EAST 56TH STREET,
NEW YORK, Feb. 15, 1892.

Several times this Winter I have suffered from severe colds; on my return each time I have applied Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and in every instance have been relieved by its use. I have also used it in my family, and find it a most reliable remedy for coughs and colds. Dyspeptics may see fit to try them.

DUNCAN W. FIELDS, Jr.,
Gen. Pass. Agt.

THE LAST AND THE BEST.

Rest the People are Treated to by the Association of Another Philharmonic Drama Next Season.

The Casino was filled to overflowing Thursday night upon the performance of the third and last concert of the New York Philharmonic club, under the management of N. Otis Kerr. Owing to two large receptions to follow—one in the city and one in Washington Park—there was an unusual display of full dress.

The concert as a whole excelled either of the others, and was a fine ending to a very satisfactory course. The programme, as given, was as follows:

PART I.

Symphonie, No. 8, B major.....Haydn
Largo.
Allegro Vivace.
Adagio.
Menuetto Allegretto.
Presto.
(Expressly arranged by the Composer for chamber music.)

Piano Solo—
a. Spinning Song.....S. Hoffman
b. Scherzo di Bravura.....S. Hoffman
Mr. Richard Hoffman.
Cantone, "La Dagherro".....Benedict
(Pete Ohlfiago, Mr. Wiener.)
Miss Marion E. Weed.
Kinderscenen—
a. Der Dichter Spricht. (The Poet Speaks)
Schumann
b. Fastnachtsschuke, (Frightening)
Schumann
c. Romantic.....Schubert
N. Y. Philharmonic Club.

PART II.

Quartette, No. 1, C major.....Mozart
Allegro.
Andante.
Rondo.
Piano, Mr. Richard Hoffman.

Songs—
a. Romance—"Some First I Met Thee".....Rubinstein
b. Unguided, (Impatience).....Schubert
Miss Marion E. Weed.
Serenade and Minuet.....H. Hoffman
N. Y. Philharmonic Club.

Miss Weed did herself full justice. She has always been a great favorite here with all who have heard her, and she gained new friends for herself last evening. Her voice is remarkably pure and sympathetic, her appearance and manner are charming. For both numbers in which she appeared, she received a rebeat.

Mr. Hoffman needs no introduction either as pianist or composer. Although he is not familiar with a Plainfield audience, he will receive a hearty welcome. His playing song and scherzo were charming and of course, played as they existed in the mind of the composer. He received an encore. The Mozart quartette, in which Mr. Hoffman took a prominent part, was also delightfully rendered.

The concert's music was without exception well selected and pleasing. That it was well rendered goes without saying. The Haydn symphonie made the finest impression of the concert course. It has been a matter of comment why, when there is so much grand music by the great composers, the works of inferiors are rendered in their stead, as was the case in the Philharmonic concerts. A contrast to Doppler, for flute, violin and violoncello, was omitted from the programme as originally printed.

The concerts have been such a success this year, that a second series will be given next season under the same management. The list of soloists will be engaged. Due notice will be given regarding subscriptions.

HYMENEAL.

Rohen—Butler.

The marriage of Ellis Walton Hedges, M. D., of this city, to Miss Lelia Butler, formerly of San Francisco, which took place in the first Presbyterian church at 7 Tuesday night, was a very charming event. The church was thronged with invited wit-nesses of the wedding, the fashion and culture of the city. At the fr-nt of the church was a heavy bank of fern, with lilies and palms interspersed. The bridal party entered from the parlors, entered the church, leaning on the arm of her uncle, William C. Butler; and, preceded by the maid of honor and the ot ushers, two by two, passed up the aisle to the altar, where the groom, with his best man and the officiating clergyman, stood waiting. The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Kneeland Pisst Ketcham, was a very pretty one, being Episcopalian in form. The bride was given away by her uncle. The music was by Clarence Eick of Hoboken; and was very beautiful.

The bride presented a most stately and queenly appearance. She was attired in a rich costume of white corded Bengaline, trimmed with point- and Duchesse lace. She carried a handsome bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her gown was caught at the throat with a magnificent diamond ornament, the gift of the groom.

The maid of honor, Miss Emma Butler, sister of the bride, wore a handsome Parisian gown of white silk and mousseline de soie trimmed with white satin ribbons. The best man was Dr. W. Le D. Hedges, brother of the groom. The ushers, who were distinguished by now-knots of gold, were Messrs. Harry Munger, Andrew Conkling and Francis A. Cokefair, of Plainfield; Charles Honeyman of New York, John R. Hardin of Newark, and Dr. J. A. Rohe of Philadelphia.

After the ceremony a delightful wedding reception was given at the home of the bride's uncle, 65 East Front street, to the family and a few friends. The floral ceremonies of the wedding party were notable for their beauty and excellent taste. The bride's gift to the maid of honor was a black satin French gown, trimmed with jets and leather trimming and adorned with diamonds; Mrs. Hedges, the groom's mother, was given a fine fan, and point- and Duchesse lace; Miss Hedges, white silk, with feather trimmings; Miss Belle Butler, plan China silk; Miss Kirkner, a pretty gown, with feather trimming; Mrs. Kirkner, black velvet and diamonds; Mrs. C. C. Cokefair, Nile-green silk.

Miss Etz and Mrs. Hedges have returned from their wedding journey, to May, they will be at home in the beautiful residence prepared by Dr. Hedges for his bride at 101 Broadway.

MAYBE A FATAL ACCIDENT.

Bicyclist Who Carried no Light, Almost Kills Himself in a Collision.

From The Press of Feb. 26.

J. Louis Oliff, prescription clerk in Moy's pharmacy at Park avenue and Fourth street, has met with a very serious, if not fatal accident. Oliff was pleasantly unseasable and his bicycle is a wreck.

As he came at full speed down Park avenue on the right hand side, he saw coming down the left hand side a bicycle with no light on it. It was on the wrong side of the road. He turned in close to the curb to pass just as the coachman turned in to the stepping stone at the gate of Dr. Endicott's new office. Oliff ran with great force into the horse next the sidewalk. He had no light on his bicycle and consequently he did not know of his coming until the collision occurred. The coachman immediately pulled the horses back on their haunches to keep them from trampling on the unfortunate bicyclist, and the unfortunate bicyclist from trampling on the horses.

Dr. Endicott has charge of the case. The patient is in a high fever today and unconscious. The most serious injury is a severe blow over the forehead, which has produced concussion of the brain. Dr. Endicott has charge of the case. The patient is in a high fever today and unconscious. The most serious injury is a severe blow over the forehead, which has produced concussion of the brain. Dr. Endicott has charge of the case.

Orville Mallory, an employe in the Central railroad yards, had the misfortune to have his leg broken by a fall from the top of a car, on Monday afternoon.

OBITUARY.

Richard Reill.
From The Press of March 1.

William Reill, one of Plainfield's oldest and best-known residents, died peacefully to sleep last night and awoke this morning to the eternal happiness of a better world. He retired to bed at his usual hour. As he had been in somewhat feeble health the past few days the members of the family watched over him during a portion of the night. At 4 o'clock he seemed to be sleeping peacefully, and shortly after 6 it was found that his sleep had merged into that which knows no awakening. The end, the approach of dawn his soul had taken its flight, leaving, in departure, a happy smile on the features of the lifeless tenement of clay.

Mr. Reill was a lifelong resident of Plainfield. He was one of the following old-time hatters who once did so thriving a trade in Plainfield. His house was with his son, R. Mulford Reill, the bookseller and stationer, at 60 Grove street. Besides him there survive a daughter Mary, the wife of Samuel Wallace. He was eighty-three years of age last September. Dr. Probasco, who was summoned soon after 6 this morning, said the immediate cause of death was made, said that life had been extinct about an hour. Ripe old age is given as the cause of death.

Charles Frederick Truitt.
(From the Press of March 1.)

After living a year in several months in Southern California in vain hope of permanently restraining the plainly apparent progress of consumption, Charles Truitt, the only grandson of the late John L. Everitt of this city, sailed with his devoted wife for the Bahamas some weeks ago, trusting that those good health again. But it was in vain. In response to his earnest desire that he might not die among strangers, he was brought home to New York on the Friday last, where he lingered until Wednesday. A nature more magnanimous, a heart more generous, a character more noble, or one that bore more gentle and winning yet manly and courageous, were never yet combined in any human being. In heaven above he will be missed by the nobles of the land, whose mind, and heart, and hands and life have been consecrated to naught but thought and care of him, for years past.

Rose Kane Has Set to Love Her.

Funeral services were held at Bound Brook Sunday over the remains of Adella L. Merlatt, daughter of Conductor John Merlatt of the Jersey Central railroad. "Dodie", as she was affectionately called, was born at the residence of her grandfather, A. J. Lansberry, in Bridgebrook, July 30, 1876, and would have been 16 years of age this coming summer. She was taken sick with the measles a week ago Thursday, and the disease going to her brain on Sunday made rapid inroads on her wonderful constitution, and she succumbed to the fell power of the white robed messenger of the night. Her sweet spirit was rounded by her loving relatives. The bereaved parents are well nigh heartbroken, but heroically resign themselves to the decree of God, even in his all-wise mercy has taken Dodie home. She was a member of the M. E. Sunday-school and of the Epworth league, a picture of perfect health and noble character, and one of whom it has been truly said

"None knew her but to love her,
None named her but to praise."

She was a girl of truly lovable character, and had many warm friends in Plainfield.

For a Visit South, the Princess Anne's the Place.

Now that the Lenten season approaches and the claims of society are for the nonce set aside, people begin to cast about for some quiet resting-place, and for such no place is more ideal than a seaside resort. It is just at this season that Virginia Beach is at the height of its loveliness. This queen spot of nature is situated in Princess Anne county, on the eighteen miles due east of Norfolk, and thirty miles from Old Point Comfort, and forms a part of the most beautiful beach on the Atlantic Ocean. The temperature at Virginia Beach is always warm and balmy in the severest winter months, for the prevailing pine forests shut off the icy blasts from the north, and the Gulf stream trends shoreward and tempers the breezes from the sea.

Within easy access to the famous Princess Anne Hotel at the Beach are the famous duck shooting grounds of Broad Bay, and game is abundant in the woods skirting the stretches of meadows. The region has been rightly named the sportsman's paradise, and the surf and still water bathing are unsurpassed. Other amusements include crabbing, bowling, billiards, tennis, horseback riding and charming drives. Rowing sailing and fishing may be enjoyed on the lake, bay and ocean. Lynnhaven bay, an adjacent body of water, is famous for its delicious oysters.

The Princess Anne Hotel is a most magnificent beauty, and is complete and superb in all its appointments. The cuisine is always reputed. Everything conceivable is provided for the comfort and convenience of the guests. There are accommodations for four hundred. It has electric lights, bells, spacious amusement rooms, a billiard room, tennis courts, children's play rooms, private and public parlors for adults, hot and cold seawater baths, elevator, and all other features of a first-class hotel. The pavilion near the hotel is two hundred and fifty feet long and one hundred feet wide, and affords delightful and ample opportunity for out-door exercises, games and sports.

The hotel is eminently popular both as a winter and as a summer resort in winter, glass-inclosed balconies and verandas, sunny rooms and open wood fires add to the enjoyment of the comfort of guests. The hotel has perfect drainage and all modern sanitary appliances. It is accessible by all steamboats, stages and railroads terminating at Norfolk. Trains run hourly between Norfolk and the Beach, where proprietor S. E. Gribbenden of the hotel may be relied on to secure to all visitors a most glorious time. Drop him a line asking for pamphlet, and ascertain further about this famous hotel and its genial host.

Spring Styles for Ladies.

Women who wish to be properly and fashionably attired should be well to glance over the monthly fashion letter in La Mode de Paris, Album des Modes or La Mode, the favorite fashion journals published in the city of the best on the subject with which it deals, explaining particularly the styles prevailing or coming in fashion. Ladies would do well to subscribe for these journals, which are not only reliable, but are now considered the standards of fashion wherever they are known. The publishers, Demorest, have given each month in Album des Modes and La Mode de Paris is intended to explain fully how to make the new styles as soon as they appear. The fullest information has been procured under the direct supervision of A. McDowell, the inventor of the well-known garment drafting machine, and the publishers have had to employ a corps of artists to illustrate the fashionable of dressmakery, and has made the cutting and perfect fitting of ladies' garments an easy task to all. The March number, just issued, price $1.00 a year. La Mode de Paris and Album des Modes are intended for those general use, the subscription price being but $1.00 a year. To every an author for either of these journals who pays a year's subscription in advance will be given a Pattern Book, which is usually sold at retail at $1. Failing to obtain these journals from your newsdealer send your money to A. McDowell & Co., 9 West Fourteenth street, New York.

A CRISIS IN PLAINFIELD.

Business Questions Involving Spring Purchases Under Discussion—Dress and Electric Light Companies Have Never Dazzled.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Your suggestion to organize a Law and Order League is approved by me. Dr. Rodman's letter is a valuable one. May I venture to say that your own journalistic enterprise could hardly be made more effulgent in the public interest than to collect the names and addresses of public spirited citizens who might be willing to join in such a movement? I understand that Dr. Rodman's suggestion embraces two things—first, carefully against immoral and injurious legislation at Trenton; second, assisting in the maintenance in the city of good morals, as well as in the observance of the calls "truth and honesty and right dealing" in our municipal affairs.

As to the former division of such a scope of effort on the part of a "Law and Order League", I beg to call your attention to another race-track bill introduced in the Legislature, and read briefly against in yesterday morning's papers. It is said that this bill is to be rushed through, if possible, during the concluding days of the session.

Among matters which would come under the second division of such a movement, we find the most urgent and pressing needs on the part of the Electric Light company to obtain the auditing and payment of their bills, notwithstanding the apparent fact that has been made of their shortcomings, and of what seems to be clearly established by the testimony taken by the experts (under judicial direction):

(1) That the lamps were in part at least not 25 candle-power lamps; (2) That they did not have the requisite voltage for the circuits; (3) That very often the light supplied was depleted, or partly dissipated, by private wires, for the service of which the company was receiving pay.

Let me in this connection, fellow citizens, thank you for the service you have rendered the public in Plainfield as one of the press of this good town. To me your remarks concerning the leaky wires and rotten poles seem well-timed. You and your contemporaries published recently the fact that a valuable horse had been killed on South avenue by a live electric light wire, and that the owner had a narrow escape from instant death. How long are we to stand the slovenly methods and deteriorated service, and run the risk of further public peril out of our public treasury just as it they were correct?

I will not in this letter burden you with suggestions touching the water and sewerage question, save to say that regarding in a position of danger as to the city's future interests. I was, however, impressed with the view recently taken by one of the leading citizens to the effect that this whole question should not be separated into parts; that the absolute control of the entire water service be the same as that of the sewerage; and Mr. Rockfellow could not, any more than myself, see how that control could be had while either of the two is allowed. Such questions as these might well be dealt with by such an organization as Dr. Rodman proposes, and which, if you should so choose, you could organize and sell. I have notes but find remarks to make of our present city administration, though I cannot, with my own experience and experience in view, help differing with the ideas entertained by some of our public officials. The present is a momentous period in the history of Plainfield, and a "Law and Order League" would be a great help toward a wise and honest administration of public affairs.

Plainfield, Feb. 26, 1892. W. F. RANDOLPH.

IS THIS CITY INCLUDED?

Secretary Elder of the Plainfield Street Railway Company, Joins a Corporation That Proposes to Acquire All the Railroad Franchises in Hudson, Essex and Union Counties.

At a meeting of capitalists at the Essex club in Newark the other day, at which the proposed plan for the consolidation of the Plainfield Street Railway company, the New Jersey Traction company was formed, and under it all the street-railway companies in Essex and Union counties except the South Orange line of Newark will be consolidated. It will also mean the acquisition of the electric line to Jersey City and the Hoboken ferry lines. The new company will take charge of all the lines and guarantee the stock and interest.

The company is organized under the general laws of New Jersey, with a capital stock of $600,000, all of which has been subscribed. It has a power to lease, purchase, or acquire in any way the street-railway franchises and property in Essex, Hudson, and Union counties, and also to extend, improve, equip, and operate street railways in those counties and between the cities and towns of other counties and to other parts of the State. The special purpose of organization, at present is to acquire control and possession of the entire Newark passenger railroad system, including any rights it may have in the operation of the new electric railroad to Jersey City, and to more fully equip and extend the electric lines and to operate them under one control and operation. Stock in the new concern has been taken by the following incorporators:

Benjamin F. Frey, Secretary of the Navy; John J. Mitchell, Vice President of the Manhattan Trust company of New York; Frederick Frelinghuysen, George L. Record, John Kean, jr., Edward Q. Keasbey, James Smith, jr., Bernard M. Shanley, Gottfried Krueger, John F. Dryden, Lewis D. Ward, T. T. Kinney, Chandler W. Riker, Peter Doremus, Martin Murphy, Edmund B. Giddis, Thomas C. Barr, A. Q. Keasbey, Andrew Lemmerman, jr., Henry Conger, S. S. Battin, John H. Ballantine, William Clark, of Newark, Edward Q. Dennistoun, Richard W. Clay, and Edward J. Moore, of Philadelphia.

Officers and directors will be elected on Tuesday next.

FRANCIS WILSON'S GREAT SUCCESS.

Only a Few More Weeks of "The Lion Tamer" at the Broadway.

The success which Francis Wilson and his superior company of comic opera favorites have been enjoying at the Broadway Theatre, New York, since the first of last October, still continues, and their latest and greatest production, "The Lion Tamer", has scored such a record of prosperity and popularity for itself that the New York papers have unanimously declared it to be the most novel, interesting, humorous and elaborate representation of its kind that has been seen in that city in many years. The scenes and incidents relate to circus life in France, and no obstacle, however great, has been permitted to obstruct the adequate production of the piece, even a complete circus parade, in which mounted knights and ladies, a huge band wagon, a cage of lions, and all theatrical car and other features are introduced, while the first act shows the performers' dressing tent. As for Francis Wilson, he never appeared to better advantage, and he certainly never emitted so much laughter in his life. Marie Jansen, Fawn Hope, Nettie Bell, Thomas Reinald, Gilbert Clarke, William Francis and a large and handsome chorus all contribute to this most enjoyable performance. As for the engagement at the Broadway it is limited on a few more only, enforced visitors and theatre par

EARLY FASHIONS.

They Are Seen Already in the Shop Windows.

"The Wrong Styles to Indulge in Sleeves Are to Be Worn in Everything."—Winter Hats Will Not Be Seen Discarded.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Have you seen the early spring fashions? They are displayed already in the shop windows, and they are seen in all the streets as you walk up and down Broadway or any of the large shopping thoroughfares.

With frost in the ground and with occasional falls of snow and wintry winds blowing, one is treated to a sight of some of the prettiest spring goods that could possibly be imagined.

It is very much like looking in a hothouse window to stand up upon a wintry sidewalk and to gaze through the panes at the sateens, the challies, the muslins and the cambrics which are now being displayed so lavishly everywhere. It is as if one were permitted to take an glimpse of rare conservatories growing luxuriously under the sunlight of June, while the poor looker-on stands out in the cold and admires the rare blooms.

Almost everything you see is in stripes. And such very pretty stripes! They are broad and some of them are exquisitely shaded, beginning at the lighter shades and going all the way down to the deeper tones—all in the same stripe. Others are of a color contrasting with the ground work of the material, and making such harmony that it is as good as gazing upon an oil painting just to look through them.

Real artists must have been at work designing such lovely things, and now that they have finished their work they are perhaps gazing upon it from the shop windows along with the other passers-by, they quietly gratified at what with their work, and they cannot help being delighted with the notes of admiration which fall from the lips of the fair ones who stop to make a choice of the pretty materials.

A lovely little gingham has stripes which are at least three inches broad. The stripes shade from almost white to the deepest pink. A beautiful green gingham has pink stripes. The green is rather deep in tone and the pink is fair, as if some delicate pink blossoms had sprung from out a bed of moss.

A soft gray background has broad stripes of black and steel color. The stripes are each an inch wide and are placed both together, and then there is was braided, and straps came over the shoulders as if they were suspenders. The skirt was plain, with a deep band of dark green velvet around the bottom of it.

A BOX BEAUTY.

Last summer there was at Lenox a daring society woman who wore real suspenders with a little silk shirt and a pleated skirt. It was a very bold thing to do, because suspenders are the most essentially mannish things in a man's wardrobe.

The woman was pretty, and so carried off the suspenders nicely. They were exactly like a man's and were fitted out with little clasps and button holes and all that sort of thing in precisely the same way that a man wears his.

The afternoon gown had suspenders, but they were womanly suspenders, and so pliable and did not make the wearer look mannish.

She Pardoned Him.

"Why didn't you come to see me when I was down with the ague, Henry?"

I was afraid—"

"You needn't have been. It is not contagious. But even if it were, your love for me, if you have any, should have led you to risk coming to see me."

"I was beginning to thought the ague was contagious that I didn't come to see you, and also because I am so fond of you," I didn't see how to give me the cold shake."—N. Y. Press.

An Instance of It.

Mrs. McCorkle (showing her new bonnet)—When we came to look at this lot I fell in love with it at once, as I saw it.

Mrs. McCrackle—Ah, a case of love at first site, I perceive.—Detroit Free Press.

Signs of Weariness.

"I am afraid that George is tiring of me."

"Why, dear?"

"He has been telling me that I am too good a woman to be the wife of any man as he is."—Indianapolis Journal.

Versed in Rings.

Gwendolin—Have you the ring?

Harold—Yes, but I'm afraid it is too large for your dainty finger.

Gwendolin—Never fear. That's what Billy Rhone and Horace Fassett said.—Jewelers' Circular.

Just a Moment, Dear.

"Take supper with me here at nine tonight, and place there will be a surprise for you."

And that is why, her husband says,
They saw no play that night.
—Cloak Review.

QUEER WAYS OF CITY DUDES.

Uncle Reuben (from Posey county)—Wall by jiggers, down in de neck of de woods we allus black 'em on the outside. Probably these city dudes black 'em inside. Dey do mos' anything outside with mutton taller.—Chicago Mail.

That's What It Is.

Tolling—When I hear a boy cackle I am always reminded of a one-sided story.

Dimling—I wonder why?

Tolling—Because it is because it is an egg-party statement.—Judge.

Pottey in the Venture.

Old Parkrich—My life is insured for $250,000.

Dora Felicitas—Then policy dictates that I take you.—N. Y. Herald.

Wanted Variety.

"Is Parsons as much of a bibliomaniac as ever?"

"Yes. He paid five hundred dollars to get his own book published last summer."—Brooklyn Life.

The Difference.

"Is income burned on the altars of the Comic Muse?"

"No; nonsense."—Puck.

Willing to Oblige.

She—Would you put yourself out for me?

He—Indeed I would.

She—All right, I've got to get up early to-morrow—please do.—N. Y. Herald.

His Feelings Gone.

Mrs. Bunting—I wonder how that poor man feels who lost both his hands to-day?

Bunting—I don't suppose he can feel at all.—Judy.

"If at First." Etc.

He—Will you be mine?

She—You?

He (of College)—My chief.—Puck.

The Height of It.

We always like to be perfectly correct in all the details of our social duties,
All the calls we send I marry or bury,
I'll bet here I stand on the right side.

TAKING THE "TIP."

Effete Europe and Its Outstretched Palm.

The Fear and the Fund—"Thank You" at Four Prices—Pride of American—Feeling in Paris—Servants, Waiters and Liverpool Millionaires.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Effete Europe's extended palm is what is interesting and amazing American abroad. To the tip, as it is taken in Paris, he can find no parallel at home. It's an institution which compels study, and tuition rates are high.

America would have to change a good deal to conform to European customs in this particular.

Imagine a Denver banker pocketing a fee for talking up a mine!

Imagine the sexton of John Hall's church smuggling a stranger into a choice pew for 50 cents!

Imagine the station master in a big American town gratefully accepting two cents for showing a traveler the shortest way into town!

"JE VOUS REMERCI, MONSIEUR."

Imagine a New Hampshire farmer allowing his children to sing anthems for pennies to passing tourists; imagine his wife joining in the discord and hurling shrill curses after the traveler who remains unmoved by it, after the Swiss custom!

Imagine an apple seller in Central park turning beggar when her stock is sold out!

Imagine an Adams express agent keeping back two cents in making change and grumbling at being compelled to dispense!

Imagine an usher in the Chicago Auditorium "hanging round" for pennies after showing a party to their seats!

Imagine a Washington "help" paying fifty cents to the private soldier who checks out with her Sunday afternoon, or a dollar to a corporal, or a dollar and a quarter to a sergeant, as the London housemaids are said to do!

Imagine the baggage smasher of a back country railroad in Indiana omitting to smash the trunk of the traveler who has crossed his palm!

Imagine Vanderbilt — who is the closest American parallel to a duke in England—admitting the public to his picture gallery at a quarter a head and pocketing the quarters!

Imagine a Pennsylvania railroad conductor bowing humbly, hat in hand, to the dude who has made a point of deliberately bundling into her car the poor wretch who has not a dime to give! Imagine him reserving ten unpaid seats in a sleeping car from Philadelphia to New York for the sake of twenty-five cents, as a German conductor did for a commercial friend of mine!

Imagine the attendant in the Metropolitan museum chasing visitors around with unasked suggestions in the hope of a fee!

Imagine an American omnibus or coach driver waylaying every passenger for "drink money" at the end of a drive!

Imagine the clerk in a "left luggage" office asking whatever you please, simply taking care of a parcel when the regular charge is posted outside!

Imagine Mr. Wanamaker's post office clerks trying to cheat the public, or the ticket sellers in the Grand Central depot "making mistakes" in the change to their own benefit!

Imagine a Kansas City carpenter taking a present of the magnificent sum of two cents and a half for giving a better dressed man a "fight!"

Imagine a bootblacker in a St. Louis saloon expecting one or two cents for himself every time he pours out a drink for a customer!

Imagine a Philadelphia city clerk accepting a three-cent fee for giving a stranger a permit to view the public buildings!

A TWO-CENT THANK YOU.

Imagine the "man at the window" in an American newspaper office adding a few cents daily to his income by taking coppers from people who have questions to ask!

Imagine a policeman who would take one cent for directing a traveler to the nearest letter box!

If a person is gifted with a sufficiently lively intellect to imagine all these things coming to pass in America, not the exceptional instances but as common, every day occurrences, he can then form some faint conception of what a European and American would be like. And it wouldn't suit him so well as the present variety. The American screwdriver, Prof. Sam Langley, would take sips. If he taken them he ceases to be a sovereign and becomes a flunkey.

Giving tips is foreign to a fact sense, the rudiments of which, at least, every traveler ought to acquire. Long experience has taught me that as compared with the Americans who go about recklessly flinging away shillings, francs and marks where no purpose is required. In Queenstown and Liverpool, where most of the summer tourists land, all the hotel waiters and porters are millionaires. They retire early to their country estates and enjoy their fortunes long before they have lines of gray-headed. Nothing goes but shillings with the lately landed. By the time he has reached Switzerland or Italy, which is as far as he usually gets, his rapidly shrinking purse teaches him to be a little more economical. In Italy and Switzerland and on the Rhine the swallowtail-coated jugglers of soup plates get much less encouragement.

Everyone over here understands this propensity of American travelers to give big fees upon landing. Chester is the first city in England usually visited by the tourist, and the fees for seeing the rather second-rate cathedral there amount to something like three shillings. No other English cathedral costs anything like so much. The thrifty Chester people act on the ecclesiastical doctrine of supply and demand. Fees will bear and get a big discount received from the swarms of visitors.

"I don't believe there's a soul in England who won't take a shilling, from the queen down," said a casual acquaintance to me in Liverpool once. "I wish I knew how much I ought to give to the leeches. If I have to fork over a shilling every time one of these dogs anything for me I'll go home dead broke in a week. I've tried giving 'em nothing, and then I've given them a shilling. If they don't see what they want they ask for it."

"Try pennies," said an experienced traveler, laconically.

"Pennies!" repeated the Liverpool person.

"Yes, pennies, singly or in combination; one for the chambermaid, two for the chambermaid and the waiter and so on. That's English style."

The perplexed one looked relieved. "Pennies!" he said, thoughtfully, and refuse tuppences if he can't get a shilling," he added.

"Precisely," was the answer. "On the continent, if you go there, your smaller fees will succeed. A Frenchman will receive fifty centimes and be

EXCELLENT MORTAR.

Satisfactory Results Obtained with Portland Cement.

Dr. J. Takayama, of Japan, has been investigating the properties of cement and Portland cement as adapted to building purposes as a mortar. Large quantities of this decomposed granite are found in Japan, and it is mixed with slacked lime, becomes as hard as European pumalana and trass. The Japanese lime is of a dark color, from a yellowish powder, in appearance like china clay of good quality, and when mixed with lime, is supposed likewise natural volcanic ash. The percentage of silica varied between 68 and 80. Another substance combined with hydrochloric acid. Dr. Takayama attributes the hardening with lime to the formation of aluminates and silicates of lime. A mixture of 10 parts of slacked lime to 100 parts of sand was found to give, on the whole, the highest tensile strength. Briquettes made with that mixture, after two weeks' exposure to the air, gave a strength of 56-20 pounds per square inch, and by fifteen weeks' exposure the strength was raised to 85-70 pounds per square inch.

The same mixture gave the best results when the test specimens were placed in water during hardening, the tensile strength being 74 pounds per square inch after two weeks, and 111-63 pounds per square inch after fifteen weeks. One specimen, however, consisting of 100 parts of slacked lime and 100 parts of sand, had a tensile strength after twelve weeks of 119 pounds per square inch, but the strength declined during the next three weeks. The lime mixture would not stand immersion in salt water, the author attributing the fact to the solvent action of the magnesium salts present in salt water. When the surface of the briquettes was smooth all the mixtures resisted the action of frost except the one containing the smallest amount of lime, (i. e., 8-41 lime to 100 sand); but when the surface was roughened by scratching the 10 to 100 mixture was the only one not acted upon, although frozen and thawed five times.—Scientific American.

Why He Prefers.

Snodgrass—If aerial navigation is ever a success, balloon lines will be the most fashionable means of transportation.

Snively—How do you know?

Snodgrass — Because balloons are swell affairs.—Detroit Free Press.

A Smashing Machine.

Hicks—We've got something new at our house—a machine to wash dishes.

Wick — And how does it work?

Hicks—Beautifully. It breaks on an average of five dishes a day. Each one would have broken if from a hired girl.—Boston Transcript.

Life-Long Devotion Assured.

Mrs. Social—And so Miss Flirtie is engaged to your son. Do you think he will be true to him?

Wise Dame—Oh, she'll be true to him as long as other women admire him, and I guess he'll be handsome all his life.—Drummond's Monthly.

Railroads.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.
THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA.

Operating over 4,000 miles of road.
Connecting system and Atlanta Express.

TRAINS FOR THE WEST.

On and after Jan. 4, 1892, trains leave Atlanta daily:

8:30 A. M. FAST LINE, with Pullman Vestibuled parlor and sleeping cars for Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland, and St. Louis, Columbus, Cleveland, and St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago and the West.

3:30 P. M. WESTERN EXPRESS, with Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars, making our or Pullman sleeping cars for Memphis, Cincinnati and St Louis, daily except Saturday, for Memphis.

11:45 P. M. PACIFIC EXPRESS, with Pullman Vestibule sleeping cars for Memphis, Cincinnati and St. Louis, daily except Saturday, for Cincinnati.

For further information, see time tables to be found at all stations.

W. A. TURK, General Passenger Agent, Washington, D. C.
J. M. CULP, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.
HARLAN B. PURDY, General Manager, Washington, D. C.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

(THE PORT READING R. R. CO.—LESSEE.)
SCHEDULE IN EFFECT JAN. 17, 1892.
Reserve. These trains will leave Atlanta, Nov. 15, 1891:

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 7:14, 8:07, 9:30, 11:03, 11:50, 1:30, 2:30, 3:30, 4:30, 5:30, 6:30, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30, 10:30, 11:30, 12:30

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY,
H. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS a YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MARCH 10, 1892. No. 10.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—Madison.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Chancery Proctors, Notaries, Masters in Chancery, Commissioners of Deeds, Solicitors of Park avenue and Second street, etc.—1m37

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 182. Dunellen, N. J. Orders may be left in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. THEIS,
Dentist,
66 West Front street. A new local anesthetic as applicable for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—1y37

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Box 604 Ft. South Plain, N. J. Orders left at C. J. Quigley's second-hand store, 48 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—1m37

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
207 Broadway, New York city. Rooms 52 and 53. (Up-stairs, Equitable Building.) Residence, Grove street, Plainfield, N. J.

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
All orders promptly attended to, and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at 128 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J. Can be left at Wilson's Music Store, No. 5 Park avenue, or at residence, No. 20 Somerset street. Residence, 21 East Second street. Postal card solicited.—6y1

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Residence and Shop, No. 36 East 8th St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. 1y37

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—National Newspaper Press Building, 39 and 41 Spruce street, New York.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
[Successor to E. B. Maynard.]
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Next door to Dime Savings Bank. Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences if desired. Shampooing, &c., satisfactorily performed.—11y1

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stove s can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware standing to us. We put Tinware, the best Planished, at the same price as the inferior article. We can none but the very best of the metals, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

J. Hervey Doane,
6 PARK AVENUE.
[Formerly Clerk.]
Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry,
Repairing neatly and promptly done. 1y37

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.

Garret Q. Packer.
SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
All orders promptly attended to. Shop, 6 North Second street. Residence, 7 North Second street. Plainfield, N. J.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

FORCE'S HOTEL,
NORTH AVENUE, (NEAR R. R. STATION,)
JAS. H. FORCE, Prop'r.
A FIRST CLASS FAMILY HOTEL. Steam Heat. First-class Plumbing.
Transient guests at reasonable rates. 10-31-87

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.
JOHN W. MIDDAGH, President,
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, " "
ELIAS S. POPE, Treasurer.
1y37

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 86 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
SENT IN THE WORLD.
ALLCODD'S DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE. 10m37

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
PLAINFIELD, N.J.
residence and Shop, No. 36 East 8th St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. 1y37

C.E. & J.W. BROWN,
(Successors to O. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.)
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Raised Flock Papers, &c. Burlaps for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.
2-15-87

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables

Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Carriages for Weddings, Parents and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for country.
Horses for Undertakers, Funerals and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for country.
Boarding of Carriages, Horses, etc., with care and safety.
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 28.

RIDING OR LIVERY
Carriages, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.—1m37
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 28.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
MARCH1

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasoline Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 13 SOMERSET ST. 5-15-87

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
No. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of
Fresh and Salt Meats,
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished at short notice. 6mo 17

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
9 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
6m37

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to T. J. Corey.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—56 W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans to Trains. Goods delivered to any part of the U. S. Furniture packed for shipment. Orders by mail or telephone promptly attended to. P. O. Box 1000. Telephone No. 1000.

TOBACCO, CIGARS, &c

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best Cigar in the State, and made entire premises from the finest Havana.
CUBAN HAVANA SMOKE A SPECIALTY
Always on hand at the Cheapest Rates: Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos always on hand.

Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMEST'C
—SEGARS!—
No. 38 PARK AVE., (NEXT DOOR TO RECORD ST. PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, either for cut or granulated constantly on hand.

PAINTERS & PAPERHANGERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
6m23

E. D. WOOLSTON. J. F. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 28 NORTH AVENUE
10-31-87

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. H. GRIFFEN,
12 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-87

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programme Menus
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST

DAILY PRESS

PLAINFIELD N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
NEWARK, N. J.
2-11

EDUCATIONAL

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN
17 LaGrande Avenue,
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET.
Will reopen THUR SEPT 17, 1891.
The regular course will include Modeling, Drawing and Painting. 9 12 12

THE WOMAN OF FASHION.

And in What Attire She Clothes Herself.

An Ideal Reception Gown—Clothes Striking and Conservative—New Stones in Capes and Gloves—The Latest in Hats.

[Copyrighted, 1892.]

A tall slender figure in white bound about with a narrow band of gold, the bodice cut in a low, square V, with gold lace revers, as large as to form a square yoke, said white to be buried on the shoulders and narrowed down to an edge which almost stands up straight; the sleeves to the elbow, so that the lace falls in a great puff over a band of crepe tied at the top; the bodice covered with a soft drapery of the same, which falls over the right hip to the bottom of the skirt and is embroidered with a fine scallop of gold and white beads on the edge of the skirt trimmed with two rows of marten sable; this a narrow band of gold embroidered with beads at the top; falls almost straight, but is very full at the bottom; the bands to match the lace across the chest and hold the drapery; white gloves edged with gold; white slippers with gold trimmings. Tis is the sight that greets my fair young debutante as she stands and prinks herself before a tall mirror. And as smiles with approval and satisfaction at how she has planned it all herself, and has given her many pleasure, proudly, than she will derive from the fashioning of her gown. And then she takes out the cloak that will envelope the beautiful gown.

This cloak is long—Paradoxical silk brocade. The ront is cut and fitted, like a cape, the fullness being pleated, part in the shoulders, the remainder in the back under yoke of velvet covered with jet shrubbery. The whole cloak is edged with black feather trimming, and lained throughout with gold. The high medici collar comes well together in the front, so that its fair wearer will be well protected against any vats of cold air that might seek entrance.

Midwinter is about over, yet fur still holds its own, though more as a trimming, perhaps, than as an entire garment. It would seemingly impossible to devise anything new in the way of fur trimmings, but a bright young friend of mine has accomplished that task. She had a gray cloth dress which she wished for the theatre, and for that purpose she wanted a sweetheart when he was coming. She made him think of a fur trimming, and he bought it for her, dame, and he did, in a substantial way that all girls appreciate. He sent her enough for a regular set—muff, boa, and she strained every nerve to make both ends of that fur meet. In the first place, she lined her soft brown cloak with a deep rich red, and then edged the red with a narrow band of the squirrel fur. It went all around, from the top of the tails at the back down to the edge, and around up the front on the other side, where it widened into a high collar. Then she made a flat muff lined with red, with ribbons the same color that went round her neck and tied in a large bow on the left shoulder. There was enough left then, by careful managing, to make a low, straight cap, with red ribbons that came under her chin and were brought up the back and fastened on the knot of curls. When the coast flies in the wind she makes a great blaze of color, and the carmine in her cheeks rivals the red that peeps out of over her.

I saw a cloak the other evening which was as much superb and yet was extremely delicate. It was worn by a pure blonde, and as she entered the box at the theatre the light fell full on its exquisite coloring. It was little deeper than a cream and fell to her feet perfectly plain, save that it had four narrow rows of brown mink down the front, and that at the shoulders, there were three separate capes, the last one of which was edged with the brown fur. As she threw it back I saw that it was lined with the palest turquoise blue, just the shade of her gown.

I saw another that afternoon. It was a decided shade, a fine fawn, of Bedford cord, made shorter. It was quite unique, in that it was trimmed with the tails of the wood animals, in groups, of black and white. They were on each seam in the back, there was one on each side in the front, and on each sleeve. A small one on each lily connected the wide pockets with the bands at the back.

Wraps are gorgeous in their coloring, which is growing more oriental every day. There were three on Fifth avenue yesterday that a great many people turned again to look at. One was rarest throughout, embroidered all over in the fine gold work and bright spots of the Japanese, which are impossible to duplicate in this country. The embroidery was set on dark green velvet, and the wrap was trimmed with a deep crepe fringe, with a heading of tiny balls in the bright color of the embroidery. It was beautiful beautiful, and one could not help but admire the courage of the woman who wore it.

The second a deep shade of heliotrope, embroidered in black jet and gold beads. The high collar was edged with feather trimming. There was a large yoke of jet and gold and embroidery, and the sleeves were the plain, puffy long compositions of "leg-of-mutton" which the garment was entirely covered.

The third I fell in love with. It was in perfect harmony. The ground was a pale bistre, and it was covered with a design in dull gold and white beaded beads with fine interlacings of jet. The collar had a high roller edged with feather trimming, and a deep plain fringe to match the bistre.

With all our novelties, the original is up upon which we pride ourselves, with all the striking and even startling things that one sees every day in the shops or the avenues, where everyone goes, there still remains a certain similarity between all women one meets, a nonchalance that the most fertile brain of man or woman cannot efface. For after all, one dress with certain details to any great extent from what is decreed by the fashion as "the thing." All cloaks are long; all wraps are three-quarter length and have high collars; all high collars have feather trimmings; all dresses are trailing and of the same length; all hats are extremely low in the crown, with wide brims and something standing up very stiff and straight above the back. And if one would take his place behind a row of women and survey them from the shoulders down they would all present very much the same appearance.

Although cloaks maintain their length capes are growing shorter, particularly at the hips, where they reach just to among his sitters many of the great men, including Gen. Simon Bolivar. But another sitter was Anthony Joseph Drexel's friends in Philadelphia thought that he was very unwise to go into the banking business with such inadequate capital and with no business experience. From a little office was opened in 1837 in Third street in Philadelphia, and the new great firm of Drexel & Co. began its career. The business at first was naturally very small, and the head of the firm was frequently in doubt as to whether he could afford to go home and eat a midday meal. Gradually his business had been established. Mr. Anthony Joseph Drexel, the present head of the firm, was taken into the service of the bank. This institution grew apace, as the founder of the house soon became well known for his irreproachable integrity. Long before he died, in 1863, he had become a millionaire, a distinction which not many men in America had achieved thirty years ago. When he died the present head of the house took charge of affairs. He had inherited his father's money-making faculties, and under his control the afore-mentioned institution has grown to immense proportions. Besides the parent house in Philadelphia, there are now established a branch houses in the other great money centers—Drexel, Morgan & Co., in New York; Drexel, Harjes & Co., in Paris, and A. S. Morgan & Co., in London. These great firms do a very large proportion of the international banking, and there are few great business undertakings in which their cooperation is not sought. From his father Mr. Drexel also inherited artistic instincts, and he has for a long while been a most discriminating collector of valuable paintings, which he has always been devoted from youth, of which he is passionately fond. He has always set aside as though his great wealth conferred certain obligations upon him, and he has been prominent as a contributor to those philanthropic schemes which in him seemed wise. Though not the most fortunate friend for many years has been Mr. George W. Childs, with whom he is interested in many other charities. Their intimacy, indeed, is so close that it almost seems hereditary in the family.

ANTHONY JOSEPH DREXEL.

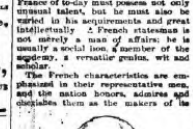
BOW KNOTS IN SILVER AND GRAY.



BROCADED CLOAK.

the waist-line and no more; and on the occasional warm spring-like days that come upon us so suddenly, sometimes the fashionable adies of the day of temperature has been very near zero, it is a fine matter to have one of these little garments to slip on. They are tights fitting now and pointed long in front and sleeves large and full.

Have you been invited to the very last reception that is to be given before Lent, and do you want to wear something befitting the occasion? If so hearken to my words of wisdom so that you may appear in a dress that will be fair and sweet, and yet not too ostentatious. For "coming events cast their shadows before," you know, and you want to be just a little quieter and more sedate in view of the coming season. Select then a heavy silk of a very pale shade of gray, and have your skirt made plain and tight, with the train a little shorter than usual, and simply a deep fall of lace at the bottom. Then have your artist friend outline over the whole, skirt, tiny bow knots in silver. It would seem almost impossible to devise anything new in the way of for bow knots, but a bright young friend of mine has accomplished that task. She had a gray cloth dress which she wished for the theatre, and for that purpose she wanted a sweetheart when he was coming. She made him think of a fur trimming, and he bought it for her, dame, and he did, in a substantial way that all girls appreciate. He sent her enough for a regular set—muff, boa, and she strained every nerve to make both ends of that fur meet. In the first place, she lined her soft brown cloak with a deep rich red, and then edged the red with a narrow band of the squirrel fur. It went all around, from the top of the tails at the back down to the edge, and around up the front on the other side, where it widened into a high collar. Then she made a flat muff lined with red, with ribbons the same color that went round her neck and tied in a large bow on the left shoulder. There was enough left then, by careful managing, to make a low, straight cap, with red ribbons that came under her chin and were brought up the back and fastened on the knot of curls. When the coast flies in the wind she makes a great blaze of color, and the carmine in her cheeks rivals the red that peeps out of over her.

WHITE CREPE AND MANTEN SABLE.

I saw a cloak the other evening which was as much superb and yet was extremely delicate. It was worn by a pure blonde, and as she entered the box at the theatre the light fell full on its exquisite coloring. It was little deeper than a cream and fell to her feet perfectly plain, save that it had four narrow rows of brown mink down the front, and that at the shoulders, there were three separate capes, the last one of which was edged with the brown fur. As she threw it back I saw that it was lined with the palest turquoise blue, just the shade of her gown.

I saw another that afternoon. It was a decided shade, a fine fawn, of Bedford cord, made shorter. It was quite unique, in that it was trimmed with the tails of the wood animals, in groups, of black and white. They were on each seam in the back, there was one on each side in the front, and on each sleeve. A small one on each lily connected the wide pockets with the bands at the back.

Wraps are gorgeous in their coloring, which is growing more oriental every day. There were three on Fifth avenue yesterday that a great many people turned again to look at. One was rarest throughout, embroidered all over in the fine gold work and bright spots of the Japanese, which are impossible to duplicate in this country. The embroidery was set on dark green velvet, and the wrap was trimmed with a deep crepe fringe, with a heading of tiny balls in the bright color of the embroidery. It was beautiful beautiful, and one could not help but admire the courage of the woman who wore it.

The second a deep shade of heliotrope, embroidered in black jet and gold beads. The high collar was edged with feather trimming. There was a large yoke of jet and gold and embroidery, and the sleeves were the plain, puffy long compositions of "leg-of-mutton" which the garment was entirely covered.

The third I fell in love with. It was in perfect harmony. The ground was a pale bistre, and it was covered with a design in dull gold and white beaded beads with fine interlacings of jet. The collar had a high roller edged

TEXAS STATE BUILDING.

It Will Be an Ornament to the World's Fair Grounds.

Texas will have one of the most notable state buildings at the world's fair. Plans for it have just been completed and approved by the chief of the bureau-ville. The structure will be 82x250 feet. The main height of the cornice will be seventy feet.

Constructed entirely after the style of the old Spanish missions, it will, it is presumed, be a good example of Spanish renaissance architecture. The front part of the building forms a square eighty-five feet wide, inclosing a large assembly hall. The general grouping of the building shows that it is flanked on each corner by towers, between the intervening curtains consisting of two stories of open arcaded loggias. The towers have also loggias in their top stories. But the main building and the towers are covered with a low pitched roof of brown-red Spanish tile. Broad surfaces of masonry in a wall crossed by highly ornate carvings around the windows and in the spandrels of the arches.

TEXAS WORLD'S FAIR BUILDING.

Extending from the main building toward the east is a wing nearly 150 feet long. It is one story high in its entire extension, but is designed to be in thorough harmony with the rest of the building. In the center of this wing is a richly carved doorway leading into the different offices, the big assembly-room, and the commissioner's suite. The structure will be built of Texas materials, which have already been guaranteed without grade, including their transportation to Jackson park.

A Lively Gator.

Three boys went out hunting near Milton, Ga., and, among other trophies of the chase, killed an alligator, seven feet long. Putting the body in a wagon they drove homeward, but to town, when one of the boys, who was sitting near the middle of the wagon, noticed that the mouth near the fallen enemy by kicking him in the side. He kicked perhaps twice, and then gave a more violent kick, and, quickly, that the boys could not explain it. There was a rush, a long and a yell, and the kicker went out of the wagon headforemost, leaving, as a souvenir, a part of his trousers in the gator's teeth. The others broke up to the importance of prompt action; but one boy, who took a little too much time in getting out, fell to the floor, and sand back, struck the ground minus a shoe-heel, which the saurian swallowed. The boys finally rallied from their stampede, and, advancing to the wagon, put an end to their lively foe, first time making no mistake about the job.

ANTHONY J. DREXEL.

Something About the Head of a Famous Banking House.

When Francis Martin Drexel, the young portrait painter from the Austrian Tyrol, came to America in 1817, at the age of twenty-five, he probably had no notion whatever that he was destined to do anything else than practice the art to which he had been trained. And for twenty years painting was his only business. He made portraits which were in great demand, and even went so far as Cuba and Peru in the practice of his profession. From this long journey Mr. Harper's Weekly, he returned to his home in Philadelphia and concluded to give up painting and start a bank with the little money he had saved from his earnings. It is likely that he had brought back from South America more money than he had been accustomed to have, as he had had the waist-line and no more; and on the occasional warm spring-like days that come upon us so suddenly, sometimes the fashionable adies of the day of temperature has been very near zero, it is a fine matter to have one of these little garments to slip on. They are tights fitting now and pointed long in front and sleeves large and full.

ANTHONY JOSEPH DREXEL.

BROCADED CLOAK.

Have you been invited to the very last reception that is to be given before Lent, and do you want to wear something befitting the occasion? If so hearken to my words of wisdom so that you may appear in a dress that will be fair and sweet, and yet not too ostentatious. For "coming events cast their shadows before," you know, and you want to be just a little quieter and more sedate in view of the coming season. Select then a heavy silk of a very pale shade of gray, and have your skirt made plain and tight, with the train a little shorter than usual, and simply a deep fall of lace at the bottom. Then have your artist friend outline over the whole, skirt, tiny bow knots in silver. The waist must be made in the style I have sketched—alternating bands of bow knots lace and gray silk edged with silver. The bodice of silk, sprinkled with ribbon that has a silvery sheen, and a bow knot of ribbon in the lace and gray muscadetaires complete the soft effect which is yet extremely attractive.

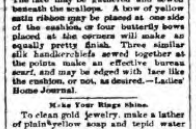
Handkerchief Toilet-Jar.

Materials: A square cushion covered with yellow satin; a small embroidered silk handkerchief, sheer lace three inches wide. The handkerchief is placed cornerwise across the cushion. The lace may be gathered and sewed beneath the scallops. A tow of yellow satin ribbon may be placed at one side of the cushion, or four quarterly bows placed at the corners will make an equally pretty finish. Three similar silk handkerchiefs sewed together at the points make an effective bureau scarf, and may be edged with lace like the cushion, or not, as desired.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Make Your Brass Shine.

To clean gold jewelry, make a lather of plain yellow soap and water, and wash the ornaments in it; dry them thoroughly and afterward brush them with a little dry whiting and finally polish ing them with a very soft leather.

BASEBALL IN AFRICA.



The Boa—Say, get onto my curves. The Traveler (as he empties his revolver)—Shoot! But how do you like my in-shoots?—Life.

The Best Lead Plant Ever Sold.

Mr. Smartchap (who thinks he sees the opportunity of his life)—I have noticed that business has been very dull lately.

Employer—Yes, it has.

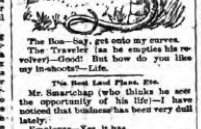
Mr. Smartchap—And your profits have been greatly reduced, with no immediate prospect of improvement.

Mr. Hardhearted—That is true.

Mr. Smartchap—I have therefore come to you to ask you to reduce my salary.

Mr. Hardhearted (in a hollow sepulchral voice)—Humor the poor fellow while I go and telephone to the insane asylum.—N. Y. Weekly.

VERY MUCH ATTACHED TO HIS DOG.



Texas Siftings.

Had Heard It.

"Did I tell you what my boy said to Elsie?" asked Marbery.

"Yes—four times last night and three times this morning," said Barton, wearily.—Judge.

Considerate.

"I suppose your father and do almost anything to get rid of you, Miss Flyppe."

"No, he can't," answered Tommy; "he won't stop the baby crying at night."—Harper's Bazar.

Mrs. Hayes-Ellis.

Mrs. Hayes-Ellis, who is the wife of Rev. Dr. Hayes-Ellis, pastor of the Church of the Disciples, Boston, is a woman of rare intellectual attainments. She is a graduate of Wellesley college, and has been a teacher of literature in that institution. She is a writer of ability, and has contributed to the leading magazines and literary journals. She is a woman of fine presence, and is a favorite in the social circles of Boston.

Mrs. Dr

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, } A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chosen the City of Chicago as the place for holding the national Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation therein equal to double the number of its representatives to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE, Chairman.
SIMON P. SHERRIN, Secretary.

THE PEOPLE'S FRIEND.

The Democratic party came into existence not for the furtherance of the political aspirations of any individual, nor for the enrichment of any privileged class, but for the good and welfare of all the people.

It was founded upon the principles of everlasting freedom and justice, for the supremacy of which the Declaration of Independence was issued, the Revolution waged, and the Constitution of the United States framed and ratified.

Principles not men is a fundamental creed of Democracy.

Democrats may justifiably differ as to mere measures and men, but they cannot barter principles for mere personal ambition, or ruthlessly cast aside the obligations of truth and equity for the attainment of partisan ends, without calling in question their Democratic loyalty.

The Constitution is the guiding star of the party of Democracy.

Steering closely thereby it has safely weathered the political storms of a century, and it is but right to its original course it will still proudly on for hundreds of years to come.

The Democracy, because of steadfast devotion to principles, differs from all other partisan organizations that ever had being in this country, and therein dwells the secret of its continued life and strength.

It has been assailed in every possible manner, but never conquered.

The poison-tipped arrows of partisan hostility have been showered upon Democracy without damaging effect, and why?

Because the Constitution was its invulnerable shield and Popular Rights its rallying cry.

We cannot more appropriately close these remarks than by quoting the language of Judge Turney, of Tennessee, a possible Democratic candidate for the Governorship of that State. He words were—

"Democracy is bold, open and candid, not afraid of light and publicity.

Its principles are embodied in the Constitution and Bill of Rights.

It demands that every member of its family shall publicly subscribe to its faith, and not be ashamed to confess it.

It can and will make no concession to unconstitutional tests.

It is the party of the people—the people's friend."

JUST JUDGMENT.

To prolong, regardless of opposing claimants, the official term of one whose experience and records are of public value, and whose private character stands above reproach, is to act the part of wisdom.

In so doing Governor Abbett has, in several instances, given proof of enlightened administration. The re-appointment of L. vis S. Hyer as Lay Judge of the County of Union is a case directly in point. Judge Hyer has for ten years filled the office so well, so fairly, with ability, honor and honesty. Clear-minded, affable and of unblemished personal repute, to again commission him was just judgment. We thank the Governor for it and at the same time congratulate the Judge.

MAKING A FOOL OF THE CITY.

Councilman Bird, See and Others are Closing Its Treasurer Safe and Driving the Proprietors Out of Town.

Such "consistent" and "model" councilmen as Bird, See and others—who will shut up the City Hotel by refusing a license to Mr. Beerbower in whose place a mouse could not get in Hoss or no—granted a license to barkeeper Windon who himself sold liquor on Sunday—will succeed in the end in doing this city more harm than a city full of "d—s."

James H Force has been compelled by the action of the council in declining his license to give up his hotel. He yesterday bought the lease of Hoss et al, B and Brock, and will take possession Thursday of next week. Mr. Beerbower will be compelled to close up in a few days, and the city will be left without a hotel for transient trade.

Not only does this mean a loss of thousands of dollars to the grocers, butchers and others who deal with the city, but in a score of other ways the community will suffer and the city will be heard of abroad only as the subject of professional jokes and when pictured in the comic papers.

It is now certain, too, that Music Hall man-ti-ne cannot apply most of the companies engaged as are in the habit of feeding at free-lunch counters and sleeping in fifty-cent boarding houses. Six hundred people enjoyed Arthur A West's min-trels, yet those six hundred can never have a minstrel show or any other first-class entertainment in this city, after Mr. Bird, the amateur councilman, and Mr. See and other such "consistent" members, have closed the City Hotel and driven out the other proprietor of his class.

Firemen Not to Elect Their Chiefs.

The fire committee Monday reported that it did not consider it expedient to accept the proposition to change to election by the firemen the method of choosing fire engineers. The report was accepted, councilman Frasee voting no.

Getting Ready for Sewers.

Councilman Case reports that substantial progress is being made in the sewerage matters, and the joint committee of councilmen and citizens in charge of the matter is perfecting a plan for a complete sewer system which will among other things remedy the Liberty street nuisance. Councilman Weber says that if the Liberty street nuisance is not speedily adjusted the residents whose property is flooded at every rain will sue the city for damages.

REDEEMED!

Union County Democratic on Its Board of Freeholders.

North Plainfield Democratic.

Aggressive Campaign did the Work.

MULFORD SCUDDER FREEHOLDER FROM WESTFIELD.

THE SON SUCCEEDS THE FATHER.

BRAD. JONES DEFEATED IN NEW PROVIDENCE.

WHICH IS A PUBLIC CALAMITY!

TO THE VICTORS BOW THE BELL THE REWARD!

There was a political blizzard in Union County last Tuesday and the Democrats are happy. The wind blew too strong for the Republicans and the council of the Board of Freeholders has passed out of their hands for years to come. The first of next May there will be a general exodus of Republican office holders and good Democrats will take their places. The surprises last Tuesday were various and pleasant.

For instance take Westfield. Two years ago that village gave the Republican candidate for Freeholder, James T. Pierson, 251 majority. This time it gives Mulford Scudder, Democrat, 86 majority. The results in the township are as follows: Clark—J ohn A. Riley, Dem. Cranford—Jasper C. Hunt, Dem. Fanwood—George Price, Rep. Linden—J. Irving Winans, Rep. New Providence—John M. Badgley, Rep. 61 majority. Summit—William H. Swain, Dem. Springfield—J. Martin Bell, Rep. Union—Noah Woodruff, Dem. Westfield—Mulford M. Scudder Dem., 86 majority.

Which makes the Board Democratic by fourteen to seven, after Elizabeth has chosen her four additional members under Senator Marsh's bill.

North Plainfield did itself proud Tuesday in the election of the Democratic candidates for mayor and councilmen. Councilman L. Saunders is elected mayor by 56 majority, and Neal and Connolly are elected councilmen by 61 and 39 respectively: all this in spite of the fact that the number of Republican ballots cast exceeded the Democratic by 115. The voters of the borough may rest assured that in the hands of such men as mayor Saunders the continued prosperity of the municipality is assured. Details of the election follow:

North Plainfield Borough.	1st Dist.	2d Dist.	Total
Democratic tickets	316	305	621
Republican tickets	242	264	506
FOR MAYOR—
William L. Saunders (Dem.)	282	281	563
Edwin L. Bonny (Rep.)	277	230	507
FOR COUNCILMEN—
George H. Neal (Dem.)	282	281	563
M. L. Connolly (Dem.)	282	281	563
George D. Holdich (Rep.)	274	241	515
T. Wilford Powell (Rep.)	278	226	504
FOR CONSTABLE—
H. Newton Spencer (Rep.)	280	184	464
(no opposition.)
APPROPRIATIONS.
For roads			$1,200
$50 for use on Somerset street.
For borough purposes			$1,200
For board of health			$ 200
[For appropriations were the same as both tickets, and were unopposed.]
FOR COMMISSIONER OF HIGHWAYS—
Michael Powers (Rep.)	252	187	439
Francis H. Whitely (Rep.)	211	161	372
Thomas Newman (Dem.)	306	305	611

South Plainfield Township	1st Dist.	2d Dist.	Total
FOR TOWN CLERK—
Horace J. Martin (Rep.)	220	241	461
Frank C. Kreuzer (Dem.)	228	238	466
FOR TOWN COMMITTEE—
William C. Smith (Rep.)	211	168	379
David N. Force (Dem.)	238	238	476
FOR OVERSEER OF THE POOR—
J. W. A. Bonnewache (Rep.)	222	166	388
William B. Martin (Dem.)	241	241	477
FOR JUSTICES OF THE PEACE—
Thomas J. Young (Rep.)	212	166	378
Alfred Westerfield (Dem.)	238	238	476
FOR COMMISSIONER OF HIGHWAYS—
Michael Powers (Rep.)	212	168	379
Francis H. Whitely (Rep.)	211	161	372
Thomas Newman (Dem.)	238	238	476
FOR COMMISSIONERS OF APPEAL—
James S. Longer (Rep.)	220	156	376
David R. Warner (Rep.)	212	166	378
Johnathan Chamberlain (Rep.)	211	168	379
John T. Case (Dem.)	240	238	478
Edward C. Mosher (Dem.)	238	238	476
George D. Brammer (Dem.)	238	238	476
FOR CONSTABLES—
John W. Vanliew (Rep.)	222	201	474
John R. MacDonald (Rep.)	224	164	388
William N. Pangborn (Dem.)	238	145	379
FOR SURVEYORS OF HIGHWAYS—
Samuel Hudson (Rep.)	220	159	379
Godfrey Reich (Rep.)	224	159	373
Samuel Taylor (Rep.)	221	159	380
Samuel Taylor (Rep.)	221	159	374
Abram Wade (Dem.)	238	238	476
Harrison Dillon (Dem.)	238	238	476
Christian Stonekin (Dem.)	238	238	476
James H Force (Dem.)	238	238	476
APPROPRIATIONS—
For repair of Roads outside of Borough			$1,000
Still to be left in the hands of Township Committee.
For support of Poor			$1,200
For support of Poor [This is the only difference in the Democratic proposed appropriations was $1,200 instead of $1,500 for the poor fund.]

Warren Township.

The following Democratic ticket was elected in Warren Township. There was no opposition:

For Justice of the Peace—full term, Benjamin L. Pettibone.
For Township Clerk, Peter Shrenkler.
For Overseer of the Poor, James Ralph.
For Township Committee, John D. Bornmiste, 2 years.
For Constable, Wm. Miller, jr., 3 years.
For Surveyors of Highways, Peter Bonnell, Henry F. Williams.
For Commissioners of Appeal, Wm. H. Stiles, Theodore B. Stiles, Andrew D. Johnson.
For Pound Keepers, Lyman G. Hunter, Jerome Johnson, Gottlieb Lemrich.
For support of poor, $ 200
For repair of roads, 1,000

THE LOW-TAX PARTY WINS.

Record Party Vote and Result's Hope by a Big Majority.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

Round Brook, N. J., March 9.—In the municipal election held between C. Howard Perry and Hiram Bergen, Tennant, in Round Brook, Wednesday, Perry came under the wire a winner by a majority of 20 votes. The result was an exciting one, and was between the "Tax-payers" (the low-tax party) and the "Citizens" (the high-tax faction) standing every nerve to win. All day long the hacks were working the different voters, were working the polls, and notwithstanding the storm the vote was very heavy. The close work of counting the ballots was not completed until 11 o'clock, when it was found that Perry was easily elected. The whole "Tax-payers" ticket was elected, much to the chagrin of the "Citizens."

When it was found that Perry was surely to be the next mayor, his friends hired a brass band and at a late hour last night were parading the streets of the borough. They went to Mr. Perry's house and called that gentleman out. He responded with a speech, and then sent the boys to the "Central" hotel in the place to "take one with him". Thus the fight for mayor in the borough of Round Brook ended, amid the blowing of trumpets and the blare of red fire.

SCHORR'S OLD PLACE RE-LICENSED.

Charles Book Also Restored a Majority of Councilmanic Votes, Which Means Two More Saloons.

Towards latter part of Monday night's meeting of the Plainfield common council councilman See arose and made a little speech concerning the important and usually old subject of matter of liquor licenses, and that was merely the preliminary step to granting two more license applications. Mayor Henry F. Winne upon the old Schorch saloon, where he was until recently bartender, and the other to Charles Book on East Second street.

Mr. See said that previous to the last meeting it had been decided by a majority of the councilmen in favor to grant no new applications for licenses, and to see applications from those who had violated the law, but to grant the others. Having violated the law and did not ask for it just to discriminate against anyone not coming in under this category and to refuse one license when he stood on strictly the same place as those to whom license was granted.

Mr. See therefore moved to reconsider the vote on the application of Charles Book.

Mr. Case moved to table the motion. Those voting to table were councilmen Case, Gunn, Gimea and Marsh, 4 to 7, and the motion was lost.

The matter was reconsidered, and the license was granted, by the following vote:

AYE—	NO—
Bird,	Ackerman,
See,	Case,
Frasee,	Gimea,
Gallup,	Marsh.
Johnson,
Weber.

The Windom license-application was reconsidered and granted in exactly the same way, in spite of councilman Marsh's protest that Windom was the ex-bartender for Schorr who was convicted of selling in violation of the laws and that Windom's proposed saloon was Schorch's old one.

Before the vote on either application was taken, the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis made a strong but futile appeal that no more licenses be granted.

The vote to license Windom's place was as follows:

AYE—	NO—
Bird,	Ackerman,
See,	Case,
Frasee,	Brobham,
Gallup,	Gimea,
Johnson,	Marsh.
See,
Weber.

There voting no asked to see the matter tabled, but were unsuccessful.

—Long's Hotel property will be sold at Public Auction March 21. See ads.

Want the Old Grade Back Again.

E. E. Page and other residents owning property along West Fifth street protested against the recent cutting away of the road-bed, leaving in place of a macadamized drive an unbuilding mud-hole, from Park to Arlington avenues. They demanded restoration. The matter was referred to the committee on streets.

The Fire Department Fail.

A considerable number of newly-elected firemen were confirmed in office Monday night, and then a resolution was passed that no more members be elected, on the grounds that the membership is already far larger than needful and that every additional member adds to the cost of the city's receipts under the firemen's exemption law.

Street Railway Matters Moving.

The Plainfield common council will meet again March 21, to consider street-railway matters. On Monday the Plainfield Horse Railway company notified the council that it was going ahead with the work of laying its tracks, and asked for a conference with the street committee to decide on the most satisfactory method of motive power. The matter was referred to the street committee, as were also the applications from Alfred B. Nelson et al for the right to lay tracks, and the manager of the United States Electric railways, for a street railway franchise.

What Privileges Has the Poor Policeman?

Many people envy the blue-coated and brass-buttoned policemen his seemingly free life and privileges, but he is hedged about by regulations under which the average citizen would chafe. At the last council meeting a list of 46 rules was adopted and ordered to go into force. Among other things these rules stipulate that the officers shall not use any coarse or profane language, shall not unnecessarily strike or abuse any man, another or wife citizens, shall not lose the fair opinion and dignity of being public-hood for misdemeanors, and shall not carry walking-sticks or umbrellas.

Everybody Watching John Crane's Latest Move.

(From The New York Recording Mess.)

The American Casualty company, appears to be on the alert for insurance business. It has added a soldiers' policy to its line with a versatility that is somewhat amazing. The best idea is one, we think, which is fathered by John C. Crane (a well-known Democratic politician of Westfield, whose name is as familiar as "Constable" all over this country and in many parts of Europe). Mr. Crane's idea is that the American Casualty company be add to its numerous kinds of insurance that of a "thirty insurance department," which will be under the management of Mr. Crane. We understand the object of the department is to "insure employes against dismissal without cause, or where one does so willful acts or neglegence". We think this idea of Mr. Crane's will be a popular one, as the procedure charged will be but one per cent of the amount named and would, we think, be willing to pay $50 per $1,000 of his annual salary for such protection against being let loose through no fault of his own. We shall watch with no little interest the outcome of this experiment on the part of the American Casualty.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

THE COMPANY ADMITS ITS ERROR.

Settlement of the Street-Light Investigation Has been in Progress Since Last November—Is Just Now Arranged. It will seem somewhat peculiar to the members of last year's common council who were called upon to repeatedly investigate, that the city had been paying for a far better service than it was getting. The committee on lights Monday presented to the common council a report which was accepted after a compromise, and action was taken agreeing to accept from the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light company a credit on the bill of $1,000 to cover the cost of the deficiency reported. By this adjustment the city is really out of pocket, for it gets only $148 as damages from the light company, and after paying $119 for the investigation appropriates $100 to employ an inspector to do the work for which the company ought to be made to employ. The report follows:

Here is the report which was received by the council, and the recommendations of which were adopted:

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield.

GENTLEMEN:—Before definitely fixing the appropriations for the various departments of the city for the current year it seems proper to call your attention to the importance of making more suitable provision for the city's lighting. Your committee on lights and fuel, to whom was referred the matter of the city gas-lighting, have familiarized themselves with its contract and with the service rendered under that agreement, and have carefully considered the recommendations of the city engineer, to which reference is made in the report of the committee on lights and fuel, and to which your attention is respectfully called.

Your committee is convinced that the present method of lighting the streets of Plainfield is not the standard adopted in other cities of like size, and that the city is not receiving the service which it is entitled to under the contract. The company has failed to keep the lights burning all night on many occasions, and has refused to do so when requested by the police. The lamps are frequently not lighted at all, and the lighting under the old system, and no question has been raised as to the right of the city at any time to demand the service rendered under the former contract.

Your committee would therefore suggest that the council making the new contract some such provision as will secure to the city the service which it pays for, and which it is entitled to, and which precludes it from making any claim thereunder.

Your committee, all the expert examination made and all the defects developed seem to point unmistakably to the fact that the service rendered during the month of November last, when the residence of any kind was obtained going much of that period and the lamps were lighted only on the darkest nights of defects that could be ascertained or maintained at the present time, will reduce per cent to the month of November last.

In regard to the service during that month the committee would say that a comparison of the meter readings for that month with those made by the experts shows a deficiency in the amount of gas furnished since the service has been generally satisfactory.

The tests made on 5 of the lamps, taken from various sections, and covering a period of 3 hours these tests applied to all the circuits, seem to indicate a deficiency in the amount of gas furnished not up to the standard, but fell short thereof about twenty per cent; and the committee have accordingly concluded to make a reduction of 20 per cent. of the amount of the bill for the month of November last, which leaves no demanded. The company practically accepted that point to the committee, after some discussion, and has refused to allow any such reduction, and has ordered to allow a reduction of the price of its lamps for one month, amounting in all to $148.36, there being 108 lamps in service in November last.

The company on their part claim that during the month of November last they were negligent in the 3-horse-power engine with one of 10-horse-power, which would account for the deficiency in gas furnished somewhat by the company's disarrangement of their plant, although your committee is not to keep the power up to the requirement of the service, and for an amicable adjustment of the matter would make the above offer, which the committee deems a reasonable adjustment between the two corporations, and advise the acceptance thereof.

The committee think that it would be more satisfactory if the future gas supply contract should be negligent under their direction from time to time to impose and report to them the condition of the street lights in service, and would suggest that they be empowered to employ an inspector to report such an inspector, and that an appropriation of $100 be made for that purpose.

P. F. MIENS,
E. N. BRICKSON,
C. H. CLEVELAND,
Committee on Public and Public Lights.

To square accounts, the amount of rebate was deducted from the last bill rendered, and the balance was ordered paid.

THE SPRING VACATION SET.

Time and Other Matters Considered by the Board of Education.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education was held Monday. The members present were Bedford, Bolton, Bond, Cole and Lounsbury. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The collector of taxes reported having collected for the month of February $1,012 76 a school taxes, which was deposited to the credit of the board in bank. The city treasurer reported having received $1,409.- 97 of the March 1st division, and deposited in bank to the board's credit. The president read a petition addressed to the common council from residents of East Fifth street, asking that the road be put in good condition, and he was authorized to sign the petition on behalf of the board. Dr. Probasco brought before the board the question of raising the grade of the sidewalk in front of the Stillman building on Fifth street, and the committee on repairs was authorized to proceed at once to do the work, not to exceed at an expenditure of not more than $200. The principal reported tuition moneys received amounting to $126 00, which was handed to the president, who ordered it deposited in bank. It was ordered that the spring vacation begin March 28 and end April 4. The secretary was directed to notify the janitors of the Madison and Stillman buildings, and the janitor of the Grant school, to have the buildings in readiness for the opening of the spring term. The following bills were presented and ordered paid:

Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Co., gas	$ 30 00
Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Co., lighting	148 00
Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Co., lighting	148 00
Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Co., lighting	148

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND BY FAR THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

NOW FOR RAPID TRANSIT.

Tracks for a Street Railway to be Laid Without Delay.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Plainfield Street Railway company, held at the office of Walter L. Binfield, 18 Park avenue, on Monday, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the executive committee be authorized to at once let the tracks of the railway, and to enter into the necessary contracts for that purpose.

The company has all along been ready and willing to construct and put in operation its line of railway, but has been prevented through the opposition of local monopolists. Now, however, under the new law just passed by the Board of Equalization and to be signed by the Governor, the company is assured in getting the public demand and lay its tracks.

Rapid transit—for which THE PRESS abuse of Plainfield papers has been fighting, in opposition to the selfish and the bosses—is now assured. The line will be completed and in operation this summer.

—Westfield is planning for electric lights.

—To-day Park club house is to be formally open, but no reception will be held till after Lent.

—The Peace street property-owners who will be affected by the proposed widening of that street will be heard at the regular April meeting of the Plainfield common council.

—During the coming base-ball season the Plainfield Bicycle club will have the use of the Crescents' grounds for their amateur games when the Crescents are playing out of town.

—Workmen have begun renovating Rolling Rock cottage for the summer season, and the management of that popular and famous house are already renting rooms, for which there are daily applications.

—Charley Bodd, of Des Moines, defeated champion Fulford in a five-third shoot at Chicago Thursday. The conditions were, 100 birds each man, for $200 a side. Bodd killed 93 to Fulford's 81.

—Rev. Dr. Edward Ya. Welsh delivered two letters, one day last week, which had been in the New York postoffice since 1861. They came to light during repairs in the postoffice building.

—Although Tuesday was a dull and rainy day the largest number of votes ever polled were cast in the borough of Dunellen. The total was 294 and the Republican ticket received the greatest number as usual.

—Andrew Vanderbeek has prepared a ninety-foot-front room over Prime's office, with entrance on Park avenue, for his office as overseer of the poor. It at any time he needs legal advice he has it very handy, as prosecutor Steele's office adjoins.

—The need of paved sidewalks on Madison avenue from Seventh street to Eighth, was manifest Sunday. People living in that neighborhood going to church had to go blocks out of their way or else wade through mud ankle deep and spoil their clothes. Let it be done.

—The report that the lawsuit of Middlesex county has been possession of and closed the New Brunswick office of the New Jersey Press Telegraph company as denied at the Postal office in Plainfield, where messages are being received and promptly sent, as usual to New Brunswick as well as to other places.

—The Unionist Gazette last week published a searching editorial acknowledging that the streets of Somerville are a "glaring disgrace to any town". It very pertinently asks how the town can be run under such conditions, and suggests in addition to macadamizing the road straw making a fine ornamental border for handsome residences from Raritan to Round Brook.

—During the past three months Judge Outhouse had 96 prisoners before him, 25 of whom were discharged, 21 committed, and 1 committed and fined. On 26 sentence was suspended, and 1 case is pending. The fines collected from which fines was $624.20, of which police sergeant Patrick Lynch received $237.50, being one-half of the fines paid by offending liquor sellers.

—Andrew Vanderbeek, over sec of the poor, paid out $377 56 Monday for the support of the in town last month. Of this amount $210 50 was paid for old Nick contractor prior to February. During the previous three months his predecessor, J. Oakley Nodyne, expended $794 53 in the support of 36 families. There are now 44 families on roll Mr. Nodyne paid out $2,931.23 during the year.

The musical concert rendered Ever Sweet.

It the people of Plainfield had appreciation what was offered them there would not have been room in Music Hall last Tuesday evening to have held them.

The concert given by the Arion Club Symphony orchestra, Walter Damrosch, conductor, was, according to the generally expressed opinion of the large audience, the finest entertainment ever given in this city.

Of the four movements to Raff's "Leonora" all were characteristically beautiful. The third movement "Pastorale", was the most generally enjoyed, and received applause to the point of recall.

Anton Rubinstein's "Kamennoi Ostrow" solo soloist. For both movements to Golterman's Concerto he received hearty applause. The only disappointing thing in the evening was that he did not respond to the encore given him, with some one of those it is gone that are seldom heard except at such times.

Pf infield people are too familiar with the Wagnerian dramas to make comment upon the merit and style of the latter half of the programme, numbers particularly ad. Funeral services took pl from her late residence, 86 Third avenue, Newark, at 3 p. m. Sunday. The bereaved husband is left to mourn the loss of a devoted wife. Mrs. Bodine was a member of the Plainfield M. E. church during ten years of her residence in this city. She had been ill about four years, and was always a patient sufferer. Her gentle and resigned and gladly welcomed the summons to her Master. Her family and friends are deeply afflicted by the affliction.

—Long's Hotel property will be sold at Public Auction March 21. See ads

New Families Admitted into Plainfield Church.

The statement of the Lord's Supper was observed in all of the Plainfield churches, Sunday morning, and the following were admitted to membership in each church:

At the Rev. Dr. Ketcham's church: Three on confession and four by letter.

At the Rev. Mr. Dilts's church: Two on confession.

At the Rev. Mr. Goodrich's church: Four by letter.

At the Rev. Mr. Richards's church: One on confession and two by letter.

At the Rev. Mr. Scudder's church: Received into Hope chapel again are added members.

At the Rev. Mr. Mitchell's church: Three by letter and two on probation.

Letter from Wm. F. Wells, Sr.

Plainfield, 1 East High street, March 8, 1892.

Several times this Winter I have said, Before the Lord I would like to be baptized and join the Church, but I was afraid I could not live a Christian life. Now I feel that I can and will live a Christian life, and I want to be baptized and join the Church. Please write me what they are to be by Christian baptism.

Yours truly, WM. F. WELLS, Sr.

Rev. Dr. Ketcham's Reply.

Plainfield, March 9th, 1892.

Dear Sir:—In reply to your letter of this date, I would say that the Lord's Supper will be observed next Sunday morning, and the ordinance of baptism will be administered to those who desire it. Those who are to be baptized are expected to be present at the morning service, and to remain after the close of the service for the baptismal rite. Those who are to be received into the church on confession of faith and four by letter.

Yours truly, J. KETCHAM.

Rev. Dr. Ketcham's Reply.

Plainfield, March 9th, 1892.

Dear Sir:—In reply to your letter of this date, I would say that the Lord's Supper will be observed next Sunday morning, and the ordinance of baptism will be administered to those who desire it. Those who are to be baptized are expected to be present at the morning service, and to remain after the close of the service for the baptismal rite. Those who are to be received into the church on confession of faith and four by letter.

Yours truly, J. KETCHAM.

"Love thy neighbor as thyself," and "Do unto others as you would that they do unto you" are the two great principles which underlie the whole fabric of Dr. Hall's Church Creed. Price 25 cents.

PERSONALIA.

Mr. and Mrs. James Clark have returned from St. Louis.

Freeholder Vanderbeek was married 50 years ago Tuesday.

Miss Ethel Hall left to-day for a month's trip to Florida.

The Rev. William A. Langford will preach at Holy Cross church, Friday evening.

Mrs. James Mitchell and Miss Lydia Collins of Grove street, are at Washington, D. C.

Miss Adelaide R. Storm, of Rockview avenue, is visiting her former home, Hackettstown, N. J.

Fred S. Cutler, the postmaster of one of the best bass voices in this city, is on trial for a permanent position in the choir of Dr. Ketcham's church.

H. G. Marshall and wife, formerly of Grove street, but now of Monticello, were the guests of B. A. Hegeman, jr., of Myrtle avenue, Sunday.

The pleasant reception was held at the home of Mrs. Martin, Park avenue and Fourth street, Friday night, under the able management of Messrs. F. Leland and C. Ahlgren.

A number of Plainfield guests attended a delightful informal dance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Lawrence, Westfield, Friday night. Andrew G Carpenter of this city furnished the music.

Fred. S. Cutler desires the statement made that he is not yet on trial for a position in the First Presbyterian church choir, and does not expect to be given a trial before some time in April.

Isaac D. Titsworth, one of Dunellen's oldest citizens and president of the First National bank of Plainfield, is quite ill of pneumonia at his home on Watchung avenue, Dunellen.

Mrs. Caroline F. Randolph, daughter of L. V. F. Randolph, returned to Wellesley college Monday. Miss Randolph came home on account of illness, but goes back to her studies fully recovered.

Funeral services were held over the remains of the late William Ebell at his late residence on Grove street Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerxa officiated, assisted by the Rev. A. R. Dilts. A telegram of condolence was received from Bishop Newman, an old neighbor.

A pretty wedding took place at the parsonage of the Church of the Holy Cross last Saturday evening, when the Rev. T. Morton Murphy united in marriage G. F. Hoffman of New Haven, Conn., and Miss Celia E. Clark, daughter of Thomas Clark, of 15 Park avenue. The happy couple left for New Haven.

The death occurred Tuesday morning under especially distressing circumstances, at her home in Albany, widow of Mrs. Benjamin W. Arnold, formerly Miss Harriet A. Thomas, of this city, the sister of Mrs. A. V. V. Raymond. She died very suddenly leaving a daughter and an infant.

The resignation of the Rev. Asa Reed Dilts from the pastorate of the Park Avenue Baptist church was accepted by the unanimous vote of the church at a meeting. A committee app inted to try to adjust the matter made no report. The Park Avenue people—comments an outsider—evidently want a pastor, and not a politician.

It is now understood that Miss Bulkley has definitely decided to accept the preceptorship offered her at the North eastern University at Chicago, and that her resignation from the principalship of the Plainfield public schools will follow as rapidly as the necessary business matters can be finished. Her successors will be Plainfield's loss and Chicago's gain.

The many friends of the Rev. Dr. K. F. Ketcham and of the First Presbyterian church will regret to learn of that estimable gentleman's decision to leave the Plainfield pastorate which he has filled so long and faithfully. It is understood that the resignation is to be officially announced from the pulpit Sunday, March 27, and is to take effect about May 1.

Samuel W. Little has recently purchased for Major Eugene A. Gross the handsome lots at the west Seventh street corner for $6 000 It includes the frontage running from the flatt property to that of F. F. Williams on the corner, and also extends back into Dorrance street. Major Gross will expend considerable money on the place and make it one of the most complete homes in the city.

It will be good news coming on top of the announcement in Tuesday's PRESS of secretary Miner's resignation from the Boys' Club, as has been reported that Mr. Miner was about to accept a position as choir instructor at Saugatuck, Conn. He will spend two days each week in the latter place, but will never be absent from North Plainfield on Sundays.

Edward E. Anthony, of Orange street, has been busy ill with what every one is sick of grip that he doesn't seem to recover at all, let yesterday by the Royal Blue line for Richmond. He has been granted a three months' leave of absence by the insurance company with which he is connected. Mr. Anthony will visit his uncle, J. W. Eaton, manager of the Postal Telegraph company for the southern district of the United States.

In the death of Edna V. Hazeltine, eldest daughter and second child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Hazeltine, which occurred Friday afternoon at 1, sad affliction falls upon a wide circle of loving friends. Miss Edna was a young woman of rare and lovable character, and a devoted member of the First Presbyterian church. She was in the seventeenth year of her age. She is the first death that has occurred in the family, and in the community it is a most grievous affliction. The deceased had suffered for several months from a peculiar lymphatic disease which baffled the skill of physicians.

Death called away, Friday, Carrie J. Ode, the beloved you g wife of Fred. C. Gnann. She had been ill but a short time, and was always a favorite with many friends as a promising and pleasing woman. She is the daughter of Watchel and Mary Bisher. She was born in Germany and had their little home on Third avenue, Near ark. It was nicely fitted up, and everything pointed to a promising future, so the death was particularly sad. Funeral services took pl

ASSAULTING THE CLERGY, NOW.

The Courier-Journal has taken the "Dark" in the North with a clerical blunderbuss, and has begun THE PRESS Against Venerable Attacks.

(From The Press of March 7.)

An infamous falsehood was published in both the Courier and the News of this city on Saturday night in the statement that THE PRESS had refused to publish the announcement of Dr. Ketcham's resignation from the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church, and had thereby violated that pledge. Dr. Ketcham himself will bear proof to the fact that never a pledge was made by any member or employe of the PRESS as to announcing the matter. THE PRESS has for weeks had in its possession, through other sources than Dr. Ketcham, full information concerning the contemplated resignation, and had at its service this knowledge weeks before either the Courier or the News had any talking of the facts. THE PRESS has never been hampered in the matter by any pledge or promise, but has been at perfect liberty to publish at any time all the facts of the case, fully and freely. Dr. Ketcham did suggest by note, that it would be to his liking if public comment on his resignation were withheld for a few days, but that is the sentence he came to treat a request for secrecy. In response to that note no pledge nor promise was given, but the clergyman's petition that his note to us was respected; and publication was deferred until circumstances made the contemplated resignation a matter of *public talk. Not until people of Dr. Ket*cham's church began to spread the report of the resignation, and gossip was distorting the facts to the discredit of the parties concerned, did THE PRESS in justice to church and pastor announce the facts of the case and set the tongues of gossip right. Dr. Ketcham told members of the PRESS staff the very next day, and has told them repeatedly since, that he in no way blamed THE PRESS for publishing the announcement, but himself freely acknowledged that the position of THE PRESS was perfectly right and honorable. Only his respect for himself and his cloth prevents him from denouncing in stronger terms than he uses in the appended correspondence the lies of the Courier and the News. Both papers, conscious of its own integrity and rectitude in the matter, is satisfied with having the indorsement and support of Dr. Ketcham, which fully refutes the malicious lies and calumny of the Courier and the News. Surely a man and minister of Christ with proudly his Christian character as Dr. Ketcham ought to be exempt from the scurrilous misrepresentation of lying blackguards. THE PRESS regrets that the Courier has fallen so low as to be in the same category as the News but that the Courier has gradually been sinking down to the level of the Somerset street sheet has for some months been apparent. It has now deliberately put into Dr. Ketcham's mouth words which he never uttered and which were as repugnant to him as to the public. In this connection the following correspondence will explain itself:

To the Rev. K. F. Ketcham, D. D.

Dear Sir:—In each of two pap rs published in this city to-day appeared an article that was full of false and malicious statements concerning THE PRESS and yourself. These articles are appended:

(From The Courier.)

THE COURIER RESPECTS ITS WORK.

The statement that Dr. Ketcham contemplated resigning his pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church has been in possession of the Courier for more than a week. A Courier reporter interviewed the well-known pastor and received a positive denial. He positively declined to write nothing in regard to it because he was told that every other editor in town had been given the same information. Under such a public reference would be made to it until the matter had been officially announced from the pulpit Sunday, March 27, and it to take effect about May 1.

Samuel W. Little has recently purchased for Major Eugene A. Gross the handsome lots at the west Seventh street corner for $6 000 It includes the frontage running from the flatt property to that of F. F. Williams on the corner, and also extends back into Dorrance street. Major Gross will expend considerable money on the place and make it one of the most complete homes in the city.

It will be good news coming on top of the announcement in Tuesday's PRESS of secretary Miner's resignation from the Boys' Club, as has been reported that Mr. Miner was about to accept a position as choir instructor at Saugatuck, Conn. He will spend two days each week in the latter place, but will never be absent from North Plainfield on Sundays.

Edward E. Anthony, of Orange street, has been busy ill with what every one is sick of grip that he doesn't seem to recover at all, let yesterday by the Royal Blue line for Richmond. He has been granted a three months' leave of absence by the insurance company with which he is connected. Mr. Anthony will visit his uncle, J. W. Eaton, manager of the Postal Telegraph company for the southern district of the United States.

In the death of Edna V. Hazeltine, eldest daughter and second child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Hazeltine, which occurred Friday afternoon at 1, sad affliction falls upon a wide circle of loving friends. Miss Edna was a young woman of rare and lovable character, and a devoted member of the First Presbyterian church. She was in the seventeenth year of her age. She is the first death that has occurred in the family, and in the community it is a most grievous affliction. The deceased had suffered for several months from a peculiar lymphatic disease which baffled the skill of physicians.

Death called away, Friday, Carrie J. Ode, the beloved you g wife of Fred. C. Gnann. She had been ill but a short time, and was always a favorite with many friends as a promising and pleasing woman. She is the daughter of Watchel and Mary Bisher. She was born in Germany and had their little home on Third avenue, Near ark. It was nicely fitted up, and everything pointed to a promising future, so the death was particularly sad. Funeral services took pl

Will you kindly state for publication, over your signature, whether or not the charge s herein made against THE PRESS are true?

Whether or not the language pu blished by The News in quotation marks and attributed to you was ever uttered by you?

Whether or not you were ever in any way authorized by the Board of Trustees or members of THE PRESS staff that nothing should be published in THE PRESS concerning your resignation until you gave permission or made public announcement of same?

Whether or not you consider that under the circumstances, which you fully understand, THE PRESS was not fairly in duty to publish the announcement concerning your proposed resignation?

EDITOR THE PRESS.

DR. KETCHAM'S REPLY.

To THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In reply to yours of March 7, I have to say:

1. That I gratefully appreciate the fact that the News and Courier, at my request, endeavored to publish my intended resignation.

2. That I do not consider a newspaper man under obligations to refrain from publishing what does not go before the jury, and which is not reported by me, even though I have requested it.

3. The alleged quotation from me in the News that I said "Yes I am going," I never to the office and asked the proprietor personally, in addition to asking the reporter, and received this pledge that they would respect my wishes; in full of inconvenience. What is true, and what I said as to this point, is that I had been interviewed from the Press office and had requested the editor not yet to publish and that I thought he would not do so. I did not say, and it is not true, that I had been to the office and received any pledge in the matter. The editor wrote by a boy, and I replied in a note, as above indicated.

4. The Clarion's statement too—that I told the reporter that every other editor in town had given personal assurance that there would be no mention of the matter—is somewhat inaccurate. What I did say was that I had been interviewed by the other editors and had requested them not to publish, and supposed that they would do so.

5. Let me here add as a side item that my contemplated resignation is not due to the slightest reaction in the people.

K. F. KETCHAM.

There is nothing in the world which will so quickly relieve a cough as Piso's Cure. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents.

THE SOLOISTS WERE INFERIOR.

And the Scotch Concert Was Not Up to Those Given by Other Societies.

(From The Press of March 4.)

The second concert of the Choral society, given last evening, equalled as a whole any that has been previously rendered by it. The first part of the programme consisted of vocal solos, part solos, and choruses, and the latter part of the programme consisted of Scotch songs, in which the Choral society "Th vocalists are accompanied by the orchestra in artistically woven—and instrumental selections by the orchestra. The audience was large, and the principal features of the evening, A. D. Gaul's new cantata, Joan of Arc. From this standpoint—the author of The Holy City—the concert was disappointing. The cantata was received. The work in no way falls below the former productions, being strong throughout and powerful in several parts. It is modern, dainty solos, brilliant, martial and pleasing choruses, and the construction is especially beautiful. The soloists were Miss Hattie Miller, soprano; J. H. Richeson, tenor, and Percy Averill, baritone.

Miss Katherine Hilke was not at all pleasing in Fair Elien, as the part was in no way suited to her voice. She was better liked in the cantata and Scotch songs. Her solo in the simple, "simple thing" also received a recall. She is not, however, above mediocrity.

It was difficult to tell at first whether Jessie M. Richeson had any voice at all. In his solo "In dieser stunde", by Spicker, he was so completely drowned by the orchestra, that his attempts to sing were lost in undistinguished. In the Rotoson-White "Evening Hymn" he was also somewhat overpowered by the chorus. His voice, however, redeemed itself in the duo of the making of them will be seen, before many games are played. Affairs are working most harmoniously among the magnates and it is hoped that nothing will be done by any of the four clubs to cause dissension in the ranks.

From Visitors from Plainfield.

Plainfield was more honored than most other places, when the awards were made at the late dog show in New York. Wilson Pinks of Archer road won first prize for English setters (novices) with his Sheldon, 21,806, by Rockingham—Dacca.

T. Boles's bull dogs won two first prizes—S-lect and Carrie; two second prizes—Pathfinder and Cardinal Wolsey; and Lady Eagnet was very highly commended.

A. D Shepard's fox terrier puppy Choker, 21 874, received a ribbon of commendation from the judges.

Bowling-Rooms Burned in the Borough.

The dwelling of David Drake, at the corner of Park avenue and Somerset street on the side of the mountain, near the extension of Rockview avenue, was destroyed by fire, with nearly all its contents, at 2:15 Thursday afternoon. A portion the of household goods was saved, and those were removed to a vacant building on the corner of Park avenue and will be temporary quarters by the burned-out family. The fire was caused by a defective flue in the second story. The loss on the house is $600, and the insurance $900. Warren Engine company turned out in response to the alarm, but was unable to get further than the Rock brook bridge on Rockview avenue. A half-mile of deep mud intervened between the bridge and the burning house.

Base Ball.

New York for the Cranston.

The Plainfield Cre-cents had an easy time with the Arthur Kolb Thursday, defeating the latter by a score of 56. The individual games were rolled. The score:

CRESCENTS.		ARTHUR KOLB.
VanBuskirk	193	Hilke	98
Thomas	152	Hilke	122
Howe	173	Gardner	122
Hoagland	169	Hilke	122
Arnold	135	Sawyer	125
Rent	116	Hilke	122
Smith	146	Hilke	122
Van Winkle	152	Hilke	122
	1,165		1,009

BY AVERAGE.

Crescents...168 152 167 167 193 152 173 169 135 146 1,165
Arthur Kolb...122 Hilke 122 sub 98 Hilke 122 Hilke 122 Hilke 122 Hilke 122 sub 125 Sawyer 1,009

Umpire—Chas. E. Moore, Scorers—Chas. F. Hoagland, C. B. Vance.

Can the City Beat Three Runners for Honors?

The Plainfield Athletic Club Team's Annual Event which last evening a collision occurred on East Second street, between Fence street and Park avenue. A heavy wagon driven by two horses collided with one of three wagons which may be found day or night standing on said street. The heavy wagon was overturned, and the driver thrown out was badly wrecked. Fortunately no lives were lost.

As the city has furnished storage for these wagons, it is claimed that the city has not the city a right to sell said wagons for storage? In this way the city might be able to meet bills for damages which may be presented to the city for accidents occuring from allowing the stones to be thus obstructed.

It is now too late for the city to appropriate to the cause, if nothing referred to in Monday's PRESS, and which has descended one gutter for ten days or more. A cyclone of rain would be following the other with these yesterday morning. 3 5-32.

A Letter Among New York Theatres.

A charming attraction for theatre-goers is presented, next week, at Palmer's theatre, where "Squire Kate", now rusting at the Lyceum Theatre, Fourth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York. "Squire Kate" is a three act play by Clyde Fitch, one of the notable successes of the current theatrical season. The play calls for a fine cast and scenic setting, and receives it at the hands of Miss Isabel Waldron and company in the Presidential canvass than Kelsey, and a company of strong players. Miss Clayton is a woman of delightful personality; she has sweet grace and charm of manner combined with her versatility of action and rendering of the different She role, and of course the leading feature of the play. The character of "Squire Kate" is the sweet simplicity of the English manor-farm, but above this sturdy independence runs like a noble harmony of womanly tenderness. Miss Waldron makes the story of Squire Kate's life out of personal sympathy and delicate discernment. The leading people are intensely dramatic, and the by-play and humor of the piece are very entertaining. As "Squire Kate" is soon to be given up by Miss Waldron, those in town should go to take advantage of the present or following week and enjoy this charming pastoral before it is taken off the boards. The Lyceum is one of the most comfortable and convenient of New York's theatres. Its evening performances are at 8:15; its matinees Thursdays and Saturdays at 2.

The Borough Council Adjourns.

The borough council of North Plainfield met Monday and conducted its business for the year. The work of the council was somewhat light, and the only considerable matter of the settlement of claims to date and the transferring of liabilities between the old and new boards. The new board is composed of the same members as the old, with the exception of the new borough engineer, Charles Pinn, and several holdovers were appointed without change.

Connect then adjourned without day.

THE WORLD FOR 1892.

The most energetic, resolute and relentless journal in America, when it sets out to accomplish a purpose, is the New York World. Its record for 1891 is a fair testimony to its ready humanity, comprehension and persistence."—GAIL HAMILTON

We can tell our Republican readers a good deal about Democratic papers, but we need not. Democratic papers are the World of good news!

The World intends to and will elect another Democratic President this year. As it elected Grover Cleveland in 1884 and 1892.

Whether Democratic candidate shall be Grover Cleveland, representing the views of Tariff Reform, or those of a number of other Democratic leaders, depends upon the action of the Democratic elements of opposition to Republicanism. THE WORLD will be foremost in the struggle for Tariff Reform principles. "I am WORLD never colors news; it photographs it."

The World is now printing an average of 360,000 copies a day. It has more than a million and a half readers every day in the year. It will circulate this year, 1892, more than 360,000,000 copies, or 1,200,000,000 copies of the almost strongest Democratic newspaper ever printed.

The World is recognized as distinctively the Newspaper for the People. It believes that to be the highest journalism and to be rewarded by the largest success.

The World puts best and cheapest within the reach of all. It is the friend of the people, the champion of the poor, the strength of the weak, the terror of evil doers, the unsparing foe of tyranny and wrong, the fearless champion of the People. It gives back to them freely whatever service its influence and circulation can render.

With a perfect equipment, a thorough organization, capital and brains, and the determination to move on and up to higher standards, the management of the New York World wishes its friends to realize a prosperous year, and confidently bids them to expect from it during 1892 even more wonderful things than it has already accomplished.

—Through the courtesy of the librarian of the Denver public library, the Plainfield public library has received a most valuable pamphlet relating to Colorado, and some of especial interest on Denver. These may be seen at any time during library hours.

Hot Springs, Ark.

Hot Springs, Ark., is reached only via the Iron Mountain Route. A solid train leaves St. Louis 9.30 p. m. each day, and a Pullman Buffet sleeper is run through to Hot Springs without change. Arrives Hot Springs 9:30 a. m. next day. Elegant hotels, sulphur baths, delightful climate and healthful surroundings. Descriptive matter can be had by calling on or addressing any agent in the United States and Canada. For further information, call on or address W. H. Bury, Gen'l P. A., 201 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

MR. AND MRS. ROONEY.

Two Members Who Make Up Some Of Those Who Are Missing.

There are some lovely characters in a large western city. These gentle folk have been in Stamford, Conn., about four years, and were educated at Mount Holyoke seminary and came to Plainfield in 1872. She was made matron of the senior class and taught the languages and the higher mathematics. The position she occupied for many years. Upon the death of John P. Gross, in 1886, she was unsolicited. She has extensive traveler, and has visited every portion of the United States and Canada. A year or so ago she spent eighteen months in Europe, visiting Egypt and Asia. She has been an extensive writer upon educational topics, and is one of the leading educators in the country.

An Apology in Order.

To THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—An apology is in order from president Ginna for absence of commissioner Frazee at a meeting on Monday last. Will president Ginna be man enough to set himself right before the people by making an apology to Mr. Frazee as an act manl- ing?

FAIR PLAY.

Sounds as Though It Was Written in the "Nave" Office.

The seventh annual report of the Borough committee on fire, water and lamps gives out this valuable information:

At a regular meeting of the Mayor and Council held April 21, 1891, a resolution was adopted whereby the Fire, Water and Lamps Committee was authorized to have the hose and wheels painted of the fire engines, also to paint the interior of the hose houses, and have this having been done, and improving the Fire Department, as well as giving satisfaction.

Well! well! well!!!

Posted at the Altar.

No more attractive library of good fiction is published to-day than the "Choice Series" issued by Robert Bonner's Sons, 27 Rose and Spruce streets, New York. Up to date the Plainfield Public Library has volumes, all of which are by leading authors, and printed and illustrated in the highest style of the art. To appreciate the advantages and delights of the "Choice Series" one must scan the catalogue. Special mention, however, may be made of the following, which are unusually and intensely fascinating—"We Parted at the Altar", a passionate love story by the favorite writer, Laura Lovejoy; and "Lost in the Desert or Widow I" a strange and absorbing tale, by Malcolm Bell. These volumes, like the entire series, are published in paper, for sale by all book-sellers, or may be obtained in either paper or cloth bindings direct from the publi-hers. The choicest and most popular books of the day is now being published by the Bonners.

Junior Assistant Rockwells Have a Good Time.

An unusually interesting meeting was held by Somerset council, No 104, of North Plainfield, assisted by her sister council Franklin No 61, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, last night at Odd Fellows Hall, 10 West Second street, Friday. Councils from Somerville, Bound Brook, Dunellen, Middlesex and Grassford were well represented. A parade of the visiting councils was given at 7:30 over the line of march published in THE PRESS earlier in the day. During the regular session of Somerset council, a candidate was initiated, after which a banquet was held. Among the numerous toasts responded to and made interesting remarks for the good of the order were: State Councilor F. G. Skirling, of Freehold; Past Councilor Oliver H. Hill, of Trenton; State Council Outside Sentinel W. B. LaRue, of Bound Brook, and Past Councilor W. S. Glenlon, of Elizabeth. J. C. Martin, of Somerset No. 104, gave several vocal selections, among which was one of his own composition dedicated to the order entitled "Comrades" which were well received.

—Long's Hotel property will be sold at Public Auction March 21. See ads.

THE WORLD FOR 1892.

The most energetic, resolute and relentless journal in America, when it sets out to accomplish a purpose, is the New York World. Its record for 1891 is a fair testimony to its ready humanity, comprehension and persistence."—GAIL HAMILTON

We can tell our Republican readers a good deal about Democratic papers, but we need not. Democratic papers are the World of good news!

The World intends to and will elect another Democratic President this year. As it elected Grover Cleveland in 1884 and 1892.

Whether Democratic candidate shall be Grover Cleveland, representing the views of Tariff Reform, or those of a number of other Democratic leaders, depends upon the action of the Democratic elements of opposition to Republicanism. THE WORLD will be foremost in the struggle for Tariff Reform principles. "I am WORLD never colors news; it photographs it."

The World is now printing an average of 360,000 copies a day. It has more than a million and a half readers every day in the year. It will circulate this year, 1892, more than 360,000,000 copies, or 1,200,000,000 copies of the almost strongest Democratic newspaper ever printed.

The World is recognized as distinctively the Newspaper for the People. It believes that to be the highest journalism and to be rewarded by the largest success.

The World puts best and cheapest within the reach of all. It is the friend of the people, the champion of the poor, the strength of the weak, the terror of evil doers, the unsparing foe of tyranny and wrong, the fearless champion of the People. It gives back to them freely whatever service its influence and circulation can render.

With a perfect equipment, a thorough organization, capital and brains, and the determination to move on and up to higher standards, the management of the New York World wishes its friends to realize a prosperous year, and confidently bids them to expect from it during 1892 even more wonderful things than it has already accomplished.

—Through the courtesy of the librarian of the Denver public library, the Plainfield public library has received a most valuable pamphlet relating to Colorado, and some of especial interest on Denver. These may be seen at any time during library hours.

Hot Springs, Ark.

Hot Springs, Ark., is reached only via the Iron Mountain Route. A solid train leaves St. Louis 9.30 p. m. each day, and a Pullman Buffet sleeper is run through to Hot Springs without change. Arrives Hot Springs 9:30 a. m. next day. Elegant hotels, sulphur baths, delightful climate and healthful surroundings. Descriptive matter can be had by calling on or addressing any agent in the United States and Canada. For further information, call on or address W. H. Bury, Gen'l P. A., 201 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

A. M. RUNYON & SON,
UNDERTAKERS, EMBALMERS,
60 PARK AVENUE.
Telephone Call 49.
Residence—38 MADISON AVENUE.
Open at Middle Grave.

CLOSING OUT OUR ENTIRE STOCK
AT COST!
MUST BE SOLD BY APRIL1.
STOVES, RANGES, MACHINIST and CARPENTERS' TOOLS, TIN and GRANITE WARE, PLOWS and AGRICULTURAL TOOLS. NAILS 2 cents a pound.
PIERSON HARDWARE COMPANY,
42 WEST FRONT ST. Telephone 126.
3 9 1mar

Washburn Crosby & Co.
Gold Medal Flour
Buy It! Try It!
The Best on Earth!
For Sale by all Grocers.
WILKINSON GADDIS & CO.
Millers' Agents.
2 12 1m daw

BERNHARD MEYER,

Successor to A. D. Thompson.
Riverside Stock Farm,
AT FINDERNE STATION,
On Central Railroad of New Jersey, will always have for sale a large assortment o
Horses of all Kinds and for all Purposes. Also Mules and Fresh Cattle.
Everything warranted as represented or money refunded.
WM. C. SMITH, Superintendent.
Branch Stables, No 338 Palisade Ave., and Nos. 11 and 13 Ogden Ave., JERSEY CITY.
Have now on hand some fine Road Horses and Trotters, and closely Matched Teams. 2 12 tf

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,
Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.
14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.
ARTISTIC CUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 4 9 tf

Of Interest to You!
Pictures?
Yes, we are selling them.
Pictures in Boys' Clothing.
We stick to our own business, reliable clothing, color that don't fade, and as stylish as the sort of clothing as you see illustrated in the fashion plates. Handsome, stylish, yet tough and true for wear.
Our Clothing is good enough to make Me way in the old-fashioned, a straightforward, honest plan. It sells on merits at our price, and it will wear as well as it looks.
We see no occasion to make a cheap boise about it. You get your money's worth of Clothing—not clatter.
This is our way of advertising, and we do a good deal of it.
The store is full of correct Clothing at the right prices, and we've no old stock to make sensational statements with. The designs are choice from stylish light to dressy dark, and the prices named on each and every garment can only be reached by manufacturing the Clothing ourselves.
We started out to talk about our Boys' and Children's stock, and indeed we have a matchless assortment to show you, but the statements we have made are just as up, lizable to every garment we sell, whether for man or boy.
McGregor & Co., 850 and 852 Broad St NEWARK, N. J.
8 17 y

Lumber & Coal
LOOMIS & RICE
B'dway, 49 Telephone 75 A.

SEND POSTAL
Answering the following questions:
ARE YOU GOING WEST OR TO FARGO DAKOTA?
WHERE ARE YOU GOING?
WHEN ARE YOU GOING?
WHERE DO YOU START FROM?
HOW MANY ARE IN YOUR PARTY?
If you will kindly drop me a postal answering the above questions, I will call on you at your address and furnish you with maps, time-tables, and full information, and quote you the lowest possible rates
Yours, etc.,
FRED'K D. CHASE,
South Eastern Pass. Agt. Chicago & Atlan. R. R.
205 S. Third St., Philadelphia, Pa.
Under Consolidated Ticket. 2 9 tf

THE PLAINFIELD
PACKING HOUSE!
25 West Front Street,
Would respectfully inform its patrons that in addition to its usual stock of Fresh, Salt and Smoked Goods,
It has added a full line of
Fresh Beef, Lamb,
Veal, Mutton & Poultry,
Which it is prepared to sell at Reasonable Prices!
and all goods delivered free of charge.
C. M. ULRICH, Prop'r.

EXECUTOR'S SALE OF
REAL ESTATE!
The subscriber, Executor of the last Will and Testament of Jacob Ackerman, deceased, will sell at Public Auction, on the premises, on MONDAY, MARCH 14, 1892, at 1 p. m., that certain
House and Lot of Land,
Lately owned by said deceased, situated on the northwesterly side of Somerset place, in the Borough of North Plainfield, and known as Lot No. 5, in said premises, as shown on a map of said Borough, filed and made by Edward Hart, C. E., and dated March 1, 1890, and filed in the office of the Clerk of Somerset county, on May 27, 1890.
WILLIAM D. CRAIG, Executor.
Dated February 29, 1892. 3 7 4w

DEATHS.
ARNOLD.—On Wednesday, March 9, 1892, Harry, son of Thomas, 6th of Bell, W. Arnold.
ALLEN.—In this city, March 8, 1892, Dr. John Allen, in his 83d year.
BRADY.—In this city, March 8, 1892, John H. Brady, aged 45 years and 10 months.
DAY.—In this city, March 8, 1892, Jeanie F., only child of Jeanie and Harry Day, aged 1 year and 11 months.
SMITH.—At Scotch Plains, March 7, 1892, Wilson Smith, aged 72 years.
HAZELTINE.—At Plainfield, March 4, 1892, Edna V., daughter of Charles B. and Mary E. Hazeltine, in her 17th year.
PRICHARD.—In Dunellen, March 9, 1892, Henry Prichard.
STONE.—At Metuchen, Friday, March 4, 1892, Mary, widow of Ezekiel Stone, in her 84th year.
WALLER.—In Piscataway Township, March 6, 1892, Mrs. Mary Waller, widow of Capt. Peter Waller, aged 81 years.

OVERLAND EXCURSIONS
LEAVE CHICAGO EVERY THURSDAY
J. C. JUDSON & CO.
192 Clark St., Chicago.

JOHN CHINAMAN'S COAT.

It Is an Elaborate and Very Expensive Affair.

The Dress Worn by China's Aristocracy Depends It Pathers From Age—Rules Noted by the Custom Found in the United States.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

"The apparel oft proclaims the man," said Polonius to his hopeful son several hundred years ago. If we can believe the voracious Chinese historian this Shakespearean axiom is in rank plagiarism, it having been in use among the pig-tailed dwellers in the celestial empire for ever so many thousands of years. In China a man is judged by his clothes. If he can wear but one coat his social standing is below par, but if he can cover his body with twenty or thirty costly robes of silk he is a gunpiddy of some note.

The seasons do not affect the tailor's trade in Mongolia. The man who has money to buy clothes will wear them as cheerfully in the heat of summer as during a Siberian blizzard. He dresses that his acquaintances and the public in general judge his financial condition by the amount of his income, and he cannot afford to dress comfortably. China has a sort of Bradstreet, whose business is to look up mercantile records, it is true, but they keep a sharp eye on the wardrobe of merchants, and even the line of one dress pattern will give rise to disagreeable reports.

When a Chinaman is invited to the house of a high official he dresses himself with great care, putting on as many coats as he can. Frequently the guests resemble stuffed dummies in a shop. They look decidedly uncomfortable and can hardly handle their chop-sticks, but for the sake of style they stand it all without complaint. They are, in fact, a good deal like the hickety civilized women of our own country—who will wear a sealskin coat in a hot room.

Chinese merchants are fond of embroidery and gold lace. Their robes are more glorious than the fabled raiment of Joseph. Thousands of dollars are frequently invested in an outer garment. The most skillful embroiderers of the empire are engaged to put forth their best efforts, and goldsmiths are commanded to exercise their ingenuity in devising new designs for robes to be worn, perchance, to a reception at the viceroy's palace.

CHINESE TROUSERS AND SASH.

Inasmuch as it is not unwritten law among the Mongolians that no garment shall be worn longer than one year it becomes apparent that dressing is the most expensive luxury of the Chinese dudes. After twelve months of absolute ownership a robe becomes "unclean" and has to be sold or given away. The term "absolute ownership," it would seem to the average American reader, is a very elastic one and was probably invented for the benefit of young men who have to wear their tailor's bills. Such individuals, who are said to be just as numerous in Asia as elsewhere, are wont to avoid to shreds before being able to claim ownership and thereby nullify a law or custom which was, nodoubt, established by the powerful guild of tailors in those happy days when people held their cash only and when everybody had plenty of money.

The Chinese who come to America do not belong to the upper tendom, however, and hence it would be a mere waste of space to describe exactly the wearing apparel at length. No man of standing in the Mongolian realm will emigrate unless he be appointed a member of a foreign mission, or compelled to flee from justice or some high official who may happen to have a grudge against him. Expatriation—and by that term is meant removal from one province to another—is considered a disgrace which nothing can blot out. Criminals of the worst stripe are sometimes sentenced to leave the bones of their ancestors and are forever considered dead in the eyes of the law. The people of the northern provinces of the empire are particularly sensitive on this subject and frequently vile wretches consigned to emigrate from their neighborhood have a strong preference to living as outcasts among strangers.

CHINESE BLOUSE.

With the exception of a few merchants, who obtain consent from the local government to emigrate, and students at American and English universities and military academies, the Chinamen found scattered throughout christendom belong to the very lowest class. For the sake of earning a few dollars they sacrifice everything held most dear by their countrymen and become dwellers in countries where they are despised even more than at home.

The clothes worn by coolies are neither attractive nor expensive. A suit consists of a blouse or jacket made from cottonade, blue jeans or a light grade of heavy gauze, a pair of baggy trousers and a sash to hold them up. The entire outfit can be purchased in one of the several Chinese emporiums in Chicago and other American cities for $7 to $8. The merchants usually wear flowing robes of silk, valued at $40, and handsome cloth trousers worth from $20 to $30. The cloth of the blouse is very long and, when turned down reach 5 or 6 inches below the tips of the fingers. A writer in the Chicago Herald, or San Francisco Chronicle, who seems to be familiar with the peculiarities of Chinatown society, states that the wearer employs this extra length of the garment to cover over his nose and mouth when entering a room, until he becomes accustomed to the temperature. The same rule is applied when going out in the air. It is the sentiment that to this custom is attributable the rarity of pulmonary complaints and disorders among the Chinese.

CHINESE FOOTWEAR.

The same authority states that John affects five styles of headgear while sojourning in the land of liberty. "The ordinary laborer or coolie, so he is now fashionably known, protects his cranium with a hat made of bamboo fiber woven into a basket. It is circular in form, with wide brim, and is held in place by strings that tie under the chin

CHINESE HATS.

1. Merchant's Hat. 2. Highlander's Hat. 3. Servant's Hat. 4. Laborer's Hat. 5. Hood.

about $75 annually for the same purpose. This includes the stockings on the hat down to the footwear, which consists of socks or stockings and sandals or shoes. The stockings or socks are made of wool, cotton or silk, and can be purchased at prices ranging from twenty cents to several dollars. The sandals are wonderful productions of the cobblers' art. They are supported several inches from the ground by narrow wooden blocks placed under the ball of the sole and the heel. The shoes are made of felt and leather. The sole is made from light wood or cork covered with felt with a cloth upper. Another feature about these shoes is that they never wear out and one can buy of $1.50 or $2—the price of the different qualities—and have a new suit shod for a lifetime.

Chinese women dress exactly like their lords and masters, the only difference being that the women wear a cloth or silk skirt of dark colors and underneath the blouse which falls to the knees. The women wear no hats or other head covering, but dress their hair in quantities of grease and toilet compounds to lend gloss to the hair and fragrance to their surroundings.

Chicago has in its Chinese colony a merchant whose clothes have become famous among his countrymen. This plutocrat, according to report, invested over $5,000 in an embroidered robe a short time ago. Inasmuch as he owns most of the basement laundries in the city, and controls the labor of nonebeths of his poor countrymen, he can afford to indulge in luxuries which would have been considered extravagant even by Berry Wall and his brainless followers.

G. W. WHITTIER.

A TYPHON OF STRAW.

Two Straws and a Nut Are Necessary to Its Construction.

A typhon to play with can be made with a nut and two straws. Take a shell-nut, as Brazil nut, or any nut with a large kernel, and cut in it two holes at right angles with each other. If you distrust your powers of cutting, rub down the nut on a stone. Then scrape out the kernel with a pin, and insert into each hole a straw, making the joint air-tight with soap or wax. Let one leg be longer than the other.

Now arrange two glasses as shown in our sketch. Put the short leg into the water in the upper glass, give a cock at the end of the long leg, and the water will begin to flow and continue to do so until it sinks below the level of the short leg.

For emptying fishbowls and aquaria, and getting water out of cisterns when frost has put a stopper in the pipes, syphons are freely used, the simplest syphon being a length of India rubber tubing, and the best way of using it is to immerse it in water so as to fill it and then, holding a finger at both ends, keep the water in it till the proper position is obtained with the short leg in the liquid and the long one hanging into the receiver.

A SYPHON OF STRAW.

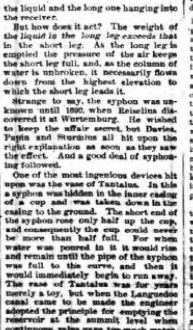
But how does it act? The weight of the liquid in the long leg exceeds that in the shorter one. As the longer leg emptied the pressure of the air keeps the short leg full, and, as the column of water is unbroken, it necessarily flows down from the highest elevation to which the short leg leads it.

Strange to say, the syphon was unknown until 1690, when Reisellus discovered it at Wurtemburg. He wished to keep the fish in their ponds, as Papin and Sturmius all hit upon the right explanation as soon as they saw the effect. And a good deal of syphoning followed.

One of the most ingenious devices his upon was the nose of Tantalus. In this a syphon was hidden in the inner casing of a cup and was taken down in the casing to the ground. The short end of the syphon rose only half up the cup, and consequently the cup could never be more than half full. For when water was poured in it it would rise and remain until the pipe of the syphon was full to the curve, and then it would immediately begin to run away. The case of Tantalus was for years merely a toy, but when the Lancashire canal came to be made the engineer adopted the principle for emptying the reservoir at the summit level when continuous sales gave too much water.—Golden Days.

A LANDED GENTLEMAN.



"SWEET SWEARING AND PAIRS."

Of course when they are married they may swear. To other people they are known as

REST FOR THE WEARY.

How the Homeless Are Cared for in the National Capital.

Reverend Dexter of a Man Whose Name Was Given a Household Word in a Shocking Manner.

[Special Washington Letter.]

There is rest for the weary and hope for the homeless in all cities of the republic. The tragedy tramp upon the street who solicits a dime or a quarter to pay for a night's lodging is not only a nuisance but a fraud. In almost every case the money so solicited is intended as the first payment to enjoy the gentle hightiders from being launched into kingdoms some than it will be given either for the hat in hand nickel-brew, commonly called tramps, in the summer time these creatures of fortune are underfoot in the alleys. They usually secure a steel plate thick enough to turn the edge of the sharpest ax. As the usual armor is reinforced by wood a blow from a club seldom injured the victim.

The ordinary Chinese laborer can dress becomingly for $20 or $25 a year. Merchants of little prominence spend about $75 annually for the same purpose. This includes the stockings on the hat down to the footwear, which consists of socks or stockings and sandals or shoes. The stockings or socks are made of wool, cotton or silk, and can be purchased at prices ranging from twenty cents to several dollars. The sandals are wonderful productions of the cobblers' art. They are supported several inches from the ground by narrow wooden blocks placed under the ball of the sole and the heel. The shoes are made of felt and leather. The sole is made from light wood or cork covered with felt with a cloth upper. Another feature about these shoes is that they never wear out and one can buy of $1.50 or $2—the price of the different qualities—and have a new suit shod for a lifetime.

CHINESE HATS.

4. Merchant's Hat. 5. Highlander's Hat 6. Servant's Hat. 4. Laborer's Hat. 5. Hood.

Chinese women dress exactly like their lords and masters, the only difference being that the women wear a cloth or silk skirt of dark colors and underneath the blouse which falls to the knees. The women wear no hats or other head covering, but dress their hair in quantities of grease and toilet compounds to lend gloss to the hair and fragrance to their surroundings.

Chicago has in its Chinese colony a merchant whose clothes have become famous among his countrymen. This plutocrat, according to report, invested over $5,000 in an embroidered robe a short time ago. Inasmuch as he owns most of the basement laundries in the city, and controls the labor of nonebeths of his poor countrymen, he can afford to indulge in luxuries which would have been considered extravagant even by Berry Wall and his brainless followers.

G. W. WHITTIER.

A TYPHON OF STRAW.

Two Straws and a Nut Are Necessary to Its Construction.

A typhon to play with can be made with a nut and two straws. Take a shell-nut, as Brazil nut, or any nut with a large kernel, and cut in it two holes at right angles with each other. If you distrust your powers of cutting, rub down the nut on a stone. Then scrape out the kernel with a pin, and insert into each hole a straw, making the joint air-tight with soap or wax. Let one leg be longer than the other.

Now arrange two glasses as shown in our sketch. Put the short leg into the water in the upper glass, give a cock at the end of the long leg, and the water will begin to flow and continue to do so until it sinks below the level of the short leg.

For emptying fishbowls and aquaria, and getting water out of cisterns when frost has put a stopper in the pipes, syphons are freely used, the simplest syphon being a length of India rubber tubing, and the best way of using it is to immerse it in water so as to fill it and then, holding a finger at both ends, keep the water in it till the proper position is obtained with the short leg in the liquid and the long one hanging into the receiver.

A SYPHON OF STRAW.

But how does it act? The weight of the liquid in the long leg exceeds that in the shorter one. As the longer leg emptied the pressure of the air keeps the short leg full, and, as the column of water is unbroken, it necessarily flows down from the highest elevation to which the short leg leads it.

Strange to say, the syphon was unknown until 1690, when Reisellus discovered it at Wurtemburg. He wished to keep the fish in their ponds, as Papin and Sturmius all hit upon the right explanation as soon as they saw the effect. And a good deal of syphoning followed.

One of the most ingenious devices his upon was the nose of Tantalus. In this a syphon was hidden in the inner casing of a cup and was taken down in the casing to the ground. The short end of the syphon rose only half up the cup, and consequently the cup could never be more than half full. For when water was poured in it it would rise and remain until the pipe of the syphon was full to the curve, and then it would immediately begin to run away. The case of Tantalus was for years merely a toy, but when the Lancashire canal came to be made the engineer adopted the principle for emptying the reservoir at the summit level when continuous sales gave too much water.—Golden Days.

A LANDED GENTLEMAN.

"SWEET SWEARING AND PAIRS."

Of course when they are married they may swear. To other people they are known as

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

SPEAKING CONNECTION WITH OVER 3,000 OFFICES AND RESIDENCES IN NEW YORK AND SURROUNDING TOWNS.

Central Office—42 North Avenue.

Subscribers' Names. Address.

Gilbert Elevator Co. ..... Park Ave. cor. 4th st
Ayers, C. J. ..... 13 Cleveland ave
Ayers, Wm. C. ..... Madison ave.
Bartholomew & Andrews ..... 20 West 7th street
Bliss, Dr. D. ..... 46 Grove st
Bonnell, Wm. H. ..... Madison ave.
Brokaw, Isaac T. ..... Park ave. cor. 2nd st
Bunnell, Geo. S. ..... 5th and Dekalb ave.
Burnham & Jones ..... 10 Broadway
Burns, W. C., M. D. ..... Cor. Front & Central Ave.
Burnett, John ..... Central ave. and 9th st.
Burrowes & Eaton ..... Cor. Front & Central Ave.
Bury, Jos. F., M. D. ..... 19 E. 6th st
Bush, Wm. H. ..... 5th st. cor. Grand ave.
Bush, E. S. ..... 40 Madison ave
..... 6th & Liberty, 6th & Madison ave
Clark & Co. ..... Jackson ave.
Children's Home. ..... Park ave.
Cleaves, James T. ..... Richmond and Front sts.
Cochrane, Alexander ..... Park ave. cor. 2nd st.
Cook, A. D. & Son. ..... Park ave and 8th
Cushing, Dr. J. H. ..... 19 Madison ave
Cushman, Wm. ..... Manning and Westervelt ave.
Cushman, Wm. ..... Grove st.
Corporation, Wm. P. A. ..... 9 Third Place
Corporation, A. L. ..... 128 Grand ave
Corson, J. H., M. D. ..... 49 Somerset st
Chase, J. F. W. ..... Bonn ave. st
Chase, Mrs. Sarah E. ..... 2 Lovell, opp. Park
Daily Press. ..... 24 and Front st
Dayton, Mrs. E. H. ..... 18 Crescent ave
Day, Frank ..... 34 W. Fourth st.
Day, Dr. F. S. ..... Cor. 4th st. & Park ave.
Day, S. E. ..... Rockview ave.
Dunham, Jos. ..... 2d st. cor. Park ave.
Dunnell, John R. ..... 26 E. 7th st
Decker, T.—pay station ..... Westfield, N. J.
Dodge, Jas. ..... 19 Grand ave
Dolan, T. O.—Chief P. F. D. ..... 66 W. 6th st
Dollner, F. L. ..... 121 Madison ave
Dodd's Express, coal and wood. ..... 24 Front
Dodd, Dr. Geo. W. ..... Park ave. and 6th st.
Dodd, Mrs. Rena, T. W. Morrison, Editor. ..... Grand ave
Dodge No 1. ..... West 1st st.
Engine No 1. ..... Prospect.
Engine No 2. ..... Cor. Front & Watson
Evans, Geo. C. ..... 37 Washington ave
Fish, Chas. J. ..... 39 West Seventh St
Fleetwood, per station ..... Fleetwood, N. J.
Freight House. ..... C. R. R. depot
Fisher, F. & Son. ..... 24 and Front sts
Fritz, Dr. J. F. ..... 73 Park ave.
Fleming, Howard ..... 30 Park avenue
Fish, Fred ..... 15 Madison ave
Fenech, C. Frank ..... 30 Somerset st.
Gale, Geo. W. Chief of Police ..... 14 Third Place.
Gedney, C. H. ..... 17 Park Place.
Gedney, A. ..... 12 E. Front st.
Gleaves, R. D., M. D. ..... 19 Somerset st.
Gale, Jr. ..... Cor. Central ave & 8th st
Howell & Hardy ..... North Avenue
Hay mrt, Jos. ..... 61 & 63 Somerset st.
Hageman, R. A. ..... 107 Sycamore Avenue.
Higgins, M. J. ..... 25 East 6th st
Hall, John R. ..... 24 Front street.
Hall, Wm. ..... Belvidere ave.
Hewlett & Bliss ..... 59 Broadway
Hall, Fred ..... 14 W. Front st
Hall, Frank ..... 15 W. Front st
Hockenbury, F. C. ..... 14 Castle hill ave
Hall, Wm. ..... 14 Castle hill ave
Hoben, Henry A. ..... 9 Park ave.
Hoben, Mrs. ..... 9 Park ave.
Hoben, Miss ..... 9 Park ave.
Hoffay, Dr. Wm. H. ..... 107 Broadway
Hoffman, Chas. ..... 19 Grove st
Hoffman, Wm. ..... 19 Grove st
Hartman, T. W. ..... 31 Somerset st
Hall, Wm. ..... 46 E. Front st
Hayes, Lemuel ..... E. Front st
Hutchinson coal ..... Netherlands
Hall, Wm. ..... 14 Castle hill ave
Hall, Frank Tool Co. ..... Somerset house
Hall, Frank Tool Co. ..... Somerset house
Pierson Hardware Co. ..... 9 W. Front st
Hall, Wm. ..... 14 Castle hill ave
Hall, Chas. A. ..... 37 Myrtle ave
Hall, Wm. ..... 14 Castle hill ave
Hall, Wm. ..... 14 Castle hill ave
Hall, Wm. ..... 14 Castle hill

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MARCH 17, 1892. No. 11.

"Support the Constitution, which is the consent of the Union, as well to its limitations as to its authorities."—Mason.

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY,
M. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public, Offices corner of Park avenue and Front street.

GORDON W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 113. Orders can be left at Constitutionalist office or Union avenue.

DR. CHARLES E. THEIS,
Dentist,
At West Front street. A new local anesthetic administered for painless extraction. Gold fillings a specialty.

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Locust A ve. 11, corner Plainfield, N. J. Orders left at Constitutionalist office, corner of Park avenue and Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.

OSCAR S. TRASK,
Architect,
247 Broadway, New York City. Residence 308 N. Second street, Plainfield, N. J. Residence, Plainfield, N. J.

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. Van Arsdale,
PIANO TUNER,
Has removed to the Shortridge corner, Park avenue and Second street. Piano-fortes tuned, repaired and to let. Orders left at Smith's, 17 West Front street, or at Wilson's, Grove Street, No. 7 Park avenue will receive prompt attention. Residence, 21 East Front street.

JOHN CHANDLER,
JOBBER IN CARPENTER AND BUILDERS' FINISH,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.,
Residence and Shop No. 36 East 3d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. apr

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent,
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, corner Fifth St., Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
(Successor to E. B. Maynard.)
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence when desired. Shampooing and manicuring performed [12tf]

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stove s can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Repairing Tinware attended to at Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.

Tinware Made to Order.

Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

J. Hervey Doane,
6 PARK AVENUE.
[Formerly Clark's].

Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry,
Repairing neatly and promptly done.

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
22, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.

Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

FORCE'S HOTEL,
NORTH AVENUE, (Near R. R. Station.)
JAS. R. FORCE, Prop'r.
A FIRST CLASS FAMILY HOTEL. Steam Heat, First-class Plumbing.
Transient rooms at reasonable rates. 10-31-tf

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually.

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Locust A ve. 11, corner Plainfield, N. J. Orders left at Constitutionalist office, corner of Park avenue and Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

HORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
SENT IN THE WORLD.
CLOTHS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

ESTABLISHED 1836.

C. E. & J. W. BROWN,
(Successors to O. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.)
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

WALL PAPER.

321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Mantel Facings, Hearth, Lambrequin Stock Papers, &c. Borrings for Halls.

Manufacturers of Window Shades.

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables

Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Carriages for Weddings, Parties and Private Use. Light Carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.

RIDING OR LIVERY
Horses, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to horses to be sold or boarded by the week or month.
TELEPHONE CALL, No. 16.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderveer's Music Store, Park avenue. The accommodation of Express will always be the aim of the undersigned in the delivery of packages, parcels, small goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Residence, Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

INSURANCE

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasoline Stoves,
Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 19 SOMERSET ST.

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.,)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established
No. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest groceries at

Fresh and Salt Meats,
Fruit of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the lowest Market Prices.
Anything ever usually kept in stock, forwarded on short notice.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE.
Hugo Weigman,
30 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
(Successor to W. J. Cory.)
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—E. Front St.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of Quality Brands of
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The most delicious cigar in the State, and made with the choicest Havana filler.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
Always on hand a full line of Confectionery, Fruits, Nuts, Canned Goods, Tobaccos, Segars, Etc.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
SEGARS!
Also PARK AVE. corner of NORTH AVE. PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Segars of the Choicest Brands.
Pipes and Smokers' Materials.
A Luxury Smoking Tobacco.
Telephonic Communication. Orders by telephone, with checks, promptly attended to.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And Dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobaccos, and Smokers' articles. Shop on Somerset street, No. 19, next to Somerset House. All orders left at Wolff's Cigar Store, corner of Madison avenue and Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive the best attention.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass,
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

L. S. WOOLSTON. J. F. BUCKLEY.
Woolston & Buckley,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS SUPPLIES. 28 NORTH AVENUE

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing.
Heater Work, Tinning,
Hardware.
A. H. GRIFFEN,
19 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11-15-tf

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes Menus
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Described.

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST §

DAILY PRESS

(Chautauqua" Building).

PLAINFIELD N. J

MISCELLANEOUS

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
D. P. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
RAHWAY, N. J.

EDUCATIONAL

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
CROOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN
17 LaGrande Avenue.
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET.
WILLIAMSTOWN
Next session will include Modeling, Drawing and Cutting. SEPT 17, 1891.

A POPULAR AUTHORESS.

Miss Rose Terry Cooke and Her Excellent Work.

Unquestionably One of the Foremost of American Story Writers—As a Poet She Occupies an Enviable Position.

Some thirty or thirty-five years ago the name of Rose Terry began to appear frequently in the magazines and literary periodicals of the country, attached to stories of the most bright and original stories and charming poems coming from any of our American authors. The initial story in the first number of the Atlantic monthly was from her pen, says Harper's Bazar, and from that time until this it has been pretty busily employed for the pleasure and good of those who delight in pure and sparkling stories, sketches and verse. After awhile the name became Rose Terry Cooke, and under that title, which she has signed since her marriage to E. H. Cooke, in 1873, she has done much of her best work.

Though the name of Rose Terry Cooke became a property one among readers, little was known or written about the person herself, for in those times, a quarter of a century ago, when the writers were not interviewed and written up and exploited for photographs and autographs as they are now. It was known that she lived in Connecticut and her stories and verse were of New Englander born and bred. She surpassed any other writer in those days in depicting the delicate shades and feelings and habits of New England rural life, and though there are many writers now who work more brightly and entertainingly in that field, they have none of them improved upon the original lines marked out by Mrs. Cooke. A large amount of her work, which has been appearing in magazines through all these years, has never been collected in book form. A collection of her poems was published before her marriage and a few volumes of her stories have been issued since. One of her longer stories, entitled "Steadfast," was issued in a book two years ago, and last season there was published a collection of some of her later stories called "Huckleberries from the New Hazel Hills."

ROSE TERRY COOKE.

Much that Mrs. Cooke has written in verse form is charmingly natural and delightfully lovely. "The Two Villages," beginning:

Over the river on the hill
Lies a village white and still, has been printed and reprinted number less times and is an example of sweet and touching simplicity. Also the poems which became universally popular. But perhaps the most of the true soul of her poetry and feeling and expression is found in the often quoted poems, "Vanilla Leaves":

Perfume of the forest!
Blossoming alone,
Where no human creature
Ever set a foot before.

Yet something about copyrights:

The first copyright law," replied Mr. Spofford, "in the United States was passed in 1790. There are now on our shelves bearing that date. In these later days of making books there is no end, but at that time the copyright business was not a haughty part of wisdom; in fact, during the summer of 1790 there were only fifteen copyrights recorded, as follows: Books, 14,798; periodicals (8 mound numbers), 1,000; maps and charts, 200; musical compositions, 6,000; photographs, 3,000; engravings and chromo-lithographs, 2,000; models and drawings, 1,000; designs for signs, drawings, paintings, maps and charts. Formerly business trademarks and labels were also issued under the copyright law, but in 1874 these were transferred to the patent office. The issue of copyrights by the librarian of congress is now confined to literature and art. In the early days of the republic, among the principal pillage of the produce of his brain, as a patent does the inventor. The life of a copyright is twenty-eight years. At the expiration of that time it may be renewed for fourteen years more by the author, or by his widow, if he be dead. It cannot be extended beyond forty-two years. I am chiefly unworthy of you." And there is the sob of a lost soul in his voice.

"That's precisely what pays and ought to, George," the reporter.

"And for a long time thereafter he is silent.—Life.

Mrs. D. Well, Mr. Dumley, what do you think of the new minister?

Mr. D. (tempted) You say you were married before?

Mrs. D. Yes.

Mr. D. Then I don't think he can be much worse than your last husband.—Life.

Mrs. D. Well, Mr. Dumley, what do you think of the new minister?

Mr. D. (tempted) You say you were married before?

Mrs. D. Yes.

Mr. D. Then I don't think he can be much worse than your last husband.—Life.

AMERICAN BRAIN.

A. R. Spofford Discusses Our National Library.

All Among the New Literary Building Which Is to Cost $6,000,000—It Will Be the Largest Collection of Literature in the World.

[SUPPLEMENT, 1892.]

The great American brain is the most active brain in the world. The gray matter which lines our cranial cavities is of a purer fruit than that of any other race, and there are about as many inventions as there are men. Every year, in the United States, a book is sent out, as well as a working one, and the day will come when the National library of congress will contain in size any of the other great libraries of the world. We have a child of twelve years of age, Ainsworth R. Spofford, who for a quarter of a century has been one of the to the congressmen, scientists and literateurs who make Washington their headquarters. I called on Mr. Spofford yesterday and asked him to tell me the extent of the library and give me the condition of the copyright bill. He talks most entertainingly, and the revised result of his conversation is the following. He said:

"We now have in the national library very nearly seven hundred thousand bound volumes and two hundred thousand pamphlets. This is an immense amount of literary matter, and we now rank as the third great library in the world. The five greater ones are the national library of France at Paris, the British museum library at London, the royal library of Germany at Berlin, the imperial library of Russia at St. Petersburg. The Paris library is the largest, containing two and a quarter million volumes. The British museum library ranks second, with one and a half million volumes.

"These foreign libraries are much older than ours. The library of congress has a small beginning in the year 1800, when an appropriation of three thousand dollars was made for purchasing books for the use of congress. The selections were limited as to works were needed by the members for reference. As a people we were then quite unknown in literature. There was evidently no thought of giving to the library its present wide scope. Additions were made from time to time and the library gradually assumed a more extended range.

"Besides copies of all books copyrighted and published in the United States, the library contains probably 500,000 foreign books which we procured by both purchase and exchange. About three-fourths of the whole number are of American and English authors. The remaining fourth represents all civilized nations of the world, with France and Germany at the head. There are books in all the languages of Europe, and a limited number from Asia and other countries. A few foreigner visiting Washington and wishing to consult books in his mother tongue may find them here."

INTERIOR OF THE PRESENT LIBRARY.

"Does the library grow much from year to year?"

"The yearly increase of books in the library is from 15,000 to 20,000. In the present fiscal year the number of volumes is 10,000 to 12,000 greater, as the copyright law requires the filing of two copies of each publication. One copy is placed in the library and the other is deposited in the copyright archives. From 5,000 to 6,000 volumes, chiefly foreign, are added by purchase each year, and as many more by donation and deposit."

"Will you tell me something about copyrights?"

"The first copyright law," replied Mr. Spofford, "in the United States was passed in 1790. There are now on our shelves bearing that date. In these later days of making books there is no end, but at that time the copyright business was not a haughty part of wisdom; in fact, during the summer of 1790 there were only fifteen copyrights recorded, as follows: Books, 14,798; periodicals (8 mound numbers), 1,000; maps and charts, 200; musical compositions, 6,000; photographs, 3,000; engravings and chromo-lithographs, 2,000; models and drawings, 1,000; designs for signs, drawings, paintings, maps and charts. Formerly business trademarks and labels were also issued under the copyright law, but in 1874 these were transferred to the patent office. The issue of copyrights by the librarian of congress is now confined to literature and art. In the early days of the republic, among the principal pillage of the produce of his brain, as a patent does the inventor. The life of a copyright is twenty-eight years. At the expiration of that time it may be renewed for fourteen years more by the author, or by his widow, if he be dead. It cannot be extended beyond forty-two years. I am chiefly unworthy of you." And there is the sob of a lost soul in his voice.

"That's precisely what pays and ought to, George," the reporter.

"And for a long time thereafter he is silent.—Life.

Mrs. D. Well, Mr. Dumley, what do you think of the new minister?

Mr. D. (tempted) You say you were married before?

Mrs. D. Yes.

Mr. D. Then I don't think he can be much worse than your last husband.—Life.

Up to Date.
Old King Cole
Was a merry old soul,
And a merry old soul was he;
He called for his pipe,
And he called for his bowl,
And a customer jay had he!
—Puck

An Editor's Luck.
Society Reporter—Mrs. Skibigh complains the pictures we printed does not look a bit like her.
Editor—That's lucky. We can use it for some one else then.—N. Y. Weekly.

Unappreciative Wife Is.
"You're holding a regular fire trap, sir," said a guest to the proprietor.
"If that is true it is a very poor trap, for it has never caught fire yet," was the reply.—N. Y. Sun.

Many Work.
Scamper—I'm doin' a rattlin' business.
Tramps—Wot are ye at?
Scamper—Blankets dies for drinks.—Brooklyn Eagle.

What It Is.
She—I wonder why leap year has an extra day in it.
He—Oh, I suppose it is to give the girls that much more chance.—Detroit Free Press.

Like His Milk.
"I've had a good deal of trouble," said the milkman, confidentially.
"Yes," replied the cook. "I've noticed that even your milk has the blues."—Washington Post.

Nothing Venture, Nothing Win.
Her Father—Tell me, sonnyboy, Mr. Bonnell, just what your prospects are for Miss Edith. Well, sir, I'll tell you. If you're as liberal as I've been told.—Jury.

A Tow-headed Statement.
The orthodox Icelander believes that the earth has an opening through it from people to gods; in other words, that it is the egress, passage or way of a gigantic head. According to their ideas all waters which flow to the north are carried underground to this opening, and brought back to the ocean's tumbling downward through the bottom which they form in their descent. Their authority for this curious belief is the "Usama Saga," a romance of legendary origin of the fourteenth century. If the ancient volume is to be relied upon, one Biorn Asbrandson, who lived in the northwest part of Iceland about the year 1001, is reported to have made a journey through a region where the waters of all countries disappeared in a gigantic head. According to their ideas all waters which flow to the north are carried underground to a magnificent head. According to their ideas all waters which flow to the north are carried underground to a magnificent head. According to their ideas all waters which flow to the north are carried underground to a magnificent

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, } A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chooses the City of Chicago as the place for holding the national Democratic convention of the party, restricted to a representation therein equal to double the number of the representation to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE, Chairman.
FRED'K P. SIEBERT, Secretary.

AWAY WITH CANT.

The Union League Club of New York is a body of extreme partisans, in whose ranks the Republican party is goodness itself and the Democratic sit together bad.

They have the full right of being Republican politicians, thinking as they please and saying what they like, provided, truth and consistency are not slaughtered.

Consistency is a sterling jewel even politically estimated.

Facts are amusing to nothing, unless consistent practice follows closely in its train and makes action perfect.

To profess party purity and whirk at party degrades it by exactly what fills the land with go-blind hypocrits, and they are not all to be found within the Democratic camp by very long odds.

A committee of Union Leaguers recently put forth, in the shape of a report, a virulent manifesto against Governor Hill and other State officers of New York, charging them with fraud in giving to the State Senate a Democratic majority.

The partisan Republicans of the Club held up their hands with trembling horror and wept bitterly for fallen virtue.

P or creole!

We confess ignorance as to the particulars of that election case, and therefore cannot express an intelligent opinion, but were we conversant with all the real facts in the case, the hideous animal trotted out by the indomitable Cable League politicians could be readily unmasked.

But, suppose there was some crooked political work on the part of the Democratic officials of New York, is the Union League Club a competent tribunal to pass judgment?

We unhesitatingly say no!

When in 1876 the greatest partisan steal of this or any other age was perpetrated by Republican leaders, and the Presidency of the United States filched from its rightful occupant Samuel J. Tilden, did the Union League Republicans protest against the outrage?

Not a murmur of dissent escaped their lips. On the contrary, shouts of hearty applause.

Again, when the Reed-McKinley Congress, in order to strengthen their majority for partisan purposes, disinvestly unseated Democratic members, did the Union Leaguers, boiling over with virtuous indignation, arise and rebuke the Republican offenders.

Never a mite! Never a word!

Away with hypocritical cant!

GREAT HEADS, THESE!

What the ex-Union and the Relentless Organs of the Republican State to Say About North Plainfield's Election.

(The Same—Before Election.)

It is conceded that among the "400", as a society leader and manager of amateur theatricals, the Democratic candidate is a success, but his candidacy in the political line seem short. He has never been identified with its interests and is not familiar with its needs. His election at best would be an experiment, and experiments are dangerous, as people of Plainfield last year learned to their cost.

(The News—After Election.)

THE RESULT ONLY AS EXPECTED.

But while we can hurrah for the ticket, we must go to sackcloth and ashes for the leading candidates, who "fell outside the breastworks", and rub our lachrimonal glands because they cannot join in the merry chorus, being decidedly "out in it".

(The Courier—After Election.)

We believe that the taxpayers of the borough are too well satisfied with the management of its business affairs by the Republican League to make a change now. They will without doubt elect the whole Republican ticket, because they propose to let well enough alone. The borough is a-booming and growing rapidly, and the residents therein are particular who fill their offices.

(The Courier—After Election.

The Borough election was not nearly so much of a surprise to the Republicans as it was to the Democrats.

DENOUNCING THE RACE TRACK.

New Jersey's Democratic Legislature Unanimously Demand That the Law-Breakers be Punished.

The Democratic Legislature of New Jersey made an affirmative and memorable fit closing hours Friday, by the unanimous adoption of the following resolution by Mr. Ketcham:

WHEREAS, It is a matter of daily report that in connection with this State have organized gambling are persistently and shamelessly violated; and

WHEREAS, It is also affirmed in the public press and elsewhere that certain officers of justice of more or less prominence are aiding and abetting these violations of the statutes, thus undermining the very fabric of society and merchandising the good name of the community, wealth, therefore,

Resolved, That the (secretary). That a committee of five be appointed, two from the Senate and three from the House of Assembly, whose duty it will be to investigate and report the truth or falsity of these statements, and to suggest what legislation, if any, is needed to eradicate these scandalous practices.

Resolved, That said committee be hereby empowered to send for persons and papers, and to receive statements under oath.

THEY NEVER FAIL.

J. W. HARRIS & Fulton Market, New York city, says:

"I have been using BRANDRETH'S PILLS for the last fifteen years. There is nothing equal to them as Blood Purifiers and Liver Regulators. But I wish to state one new remedy, that I have just discovered and now easily; I was troubled by those sensations in the back of the head known as nervousness. I had tried many remedies and finally naturally took to the Brandreth Pills, and after using them a few days suffered healthful relief. I tried Holmes, Bootart Inn and Hamilton's of doctoring, but since I did not get any good and I attribute all of the benefit I received to the Brandreth Pills. I have used them for years. I took two every night for ten nights, then I began to improve, and continued to improve. I have used them and I can certainly say they never fail. I take BRANDRETH'S PILLS. They never fail."

SAMUEL TOWNSEND, SCHOOL TRUSTEE.

North Plainfield Voters Heed His Call at the Carroll's Reception.

H. K. Carroll, LL. D., who for half a score of years has served as school trustee in North Plainfield, district 36, was Tuesday defeated for re-election, and Samuel Townsend of Rockview avenue was elected in his stead over The vote was 74 for Mr. Townsend and 37 for Dr. Carroll. Mr. Townsend is president of the Park club, a wide-awake, enterprising citizen, a man of high character and wide popularity. His election in important office is a credit to the borough.

When the result of the election was announced, Dr. Carroll gracefully extended his congratulations to Mr. Townsend, and complimented the voters on their selection of so excellent a man.

Just the New Rush Singer and Stenographer Requires Rather It!

An esteemed contemporary of the State of Iowa, hoists this ticket at its mast head.

FOR PRESIDENT,
HORACE BOIES,
of Iowa.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
JOHN M. MACPHERSON,
of New Jersey.

That's all right except the order of it. The Democracy surely must not go into the campaign with a ticket that's upset at the start, no matter how good the load it has to tote. Here it is to be upset to win, and THE PRESS trusts that its Iowa contemporary will accept the amendment.

FOR PRESIDENT,
JOHN M. MACPHERSON,
of New Jersey.
FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
HORACE BOIES,
of Iowa.

New Laws.

The Governor on Tuesday signed four bills, House 387, 38 and Senate 87. The new laws provide—

For the creation of freeholders by legislative districts.

Setting aside the elections for chosen freeholders already held in counties wherein they are to be elected by legislative districts.

Supplemental to general election law, which requires twenty days' notice to be given of the time and the manner of such elections and ten days' notice of county and legislative elections.

The bill providing for the change in election laws passed Tuesday in April will be approved, but not likely before next Friday.

A Pretty How-do-do!

It is not at all improbable that a prophet will be served upon the city officials in the case of J. M. Low & Co.—Courier.

It does—it takes a very wise man to prophesy that! Of course papers will be served on those who enact ordinances that claim to take away legal property in the same authorities of the past.

It would be pretty how-do-do if franchises were no more enduring or valuable than that. Who would ever apply for such property if the borough body—body—body—situated by good or bad motive—could repeal such grants by a simple ordinance? The action of the present council in passing the ordinance repealing those granting the Plainfield Aqueduct company and the Plainfield Sewerage company was childish and contrary to all precedent or practice Perfectly Right.

The Elizabeth Journal bewails the fact that the Union County Board of Freeholders will hereafter be Democratic, and berates the people of the various townships for their acts in re-electing Republican candidates at the polls on Tuesday, but neglects to explain its reasons for condemning such a majority when a Democratic majority of over 1,000 should be governed by a Republican Board.

In gaining control of the Board, the Democratic party merely secures nothing more than it has for years been entitled to, and it is safe to predict that the government of Union county under its administration, will be conducted on principles so fair and economic, that the people will not again wish to return to the old era of Republican prodigality and injustice, such as we have witnessed in the past.—Sun. ard Record

Appointments by the Governor.

The Governor sent the following nominations to the Senate, Thursday, all of which were confirmed: Notaries public—State Board of Assessors—Anthony B. Kuser, Mercer.

Commissioner of Electrical Subways—Allan L. McDermott, Hudson; Miles Ross, Middlesex; James Smith, Jr., Essex.

Notary Public—Ephraim P. Empson.

Prosecutor—Ocean, Thos. W. Middleton.

Board of Chosen Freeholders, Chancellor Commissioners of Pilotage—Thos. S. Negus, Robert Simpson, Daniel C. Chase.

Board of Commissioners of Charities and Corrections—Benjamin Edge.

Trustees for Reform School for Boys—Joseph Wyis, Burlington; Thomas R. Kenney, Middlesex.

Police Justices—Camden, Harry B. Past; Trenton, John Caminade; Paterson, Frank VanOrden.

Law Judge—Camden, Richard T. Miller.

Judge District Court—Bayonne, Thomas F. Tracy.

Fish and Game Commissioners—Robert D. Cook, Mercer; Jas. Gowen Sharp, Penfield, Camden, four years; Parker W. Page, three years.

The Inheritance Tax.

One of the most important bills passed by the Legislature is the act to tax gifts, legacies and collateral inheritance. The bill aroused but little discussion, and passed both houses very quietly, but as it is strictly revenue measure it will be Governor's measure it will undoubtedly become a law. It imposes a tax of five dollars on every hundred dollars of value of property which passes by will, or by the intestate laws to any person or body politic or corporation other than to or for the use of the father, mother, husband, wife, children, brother or sister and lineal descendants, and the wife and widow of the son and husband of the daughter. All property passing by will or through the Orphans' Court will become liable for any act he may commit to the treasurer of the State, for the use of the State fund, in order to be exempt he collateral inheritances and executors are made liable for it, and estates valued at less than five hundred dollars are exempt.

The Road Bonds to Pay.

The following is taken from the Paterson Herald:—"The eighth Congressional District is a tight district. It contains the prosperous Union County and all that residue of Essex outside of Newark. Among the Democratic candidates mentioned for Congress are Governor Abbett of Hartford and Daniel O'Reilly, as extensive contractor of Orange; Hon. John T. Dunn and Mr. Martin of Union. On the Republican side, Mayor Scudder, of Elizabeth is most prominent, and should he be nominated, the Democrats will have a hard fight to carry the district. We think it would not suit for a Democratic district, but it would be problematical with Mr. Scudder in the race.

There is also a delegate to Chicago and an alternate, and a Presidential elector to be named. As Bayonne, so far, possesses no candidate for Congress, they will also have to be selected from the district.

By the provisions of a bill signed by Governor Abbett last week, the date of the Congressional election has been changed to the second Tuesday in April. Another bill which was also signed last week provides that Mayors of cities shall have an abandonment of the Hudson River, which removes Mayor Bentley of Hoboken from that Board.

—Stand firm against legislative abuse, and join the law and order league.

PISTOLS ON THE SOUTH SIDE.

Shooting Who Carry Firearms and Stones Through Their Quarters.

Members of a gang of young law-breakers living in the neighborhood of Grand avenue and West Seventh street will find themselves in the lock-up soon, day not far distant unless they cease their shooting shenanigan. Complaints are made to that part of the city complain that it has become unsafe both for children and adults to walk upon the sidewalks in the neighborhood of the gang whose ages range from twelve to seventeen years. It is said that the weapons carried are mostly revolvers of 38 calibre. That one less free use of them has not resulted in serious injury or loss of life is not due to the youths who use them so recklessly.

Not long ago a young woman was riding a bicycle along West Seventh street when a boy source entered upon his team drew a revolver on the lady, pointed and fired accurately at her as she sped by him. The bullets whistled unpleasantly about her, and frightened her so that she was not well, being shaken, and has been unable to forego the pleasure of riding ever since.

Not many evenings ago the windows on one side of the Grand avenue street public school were shattered by bullets. A boy who saw this outrage reported the identity of the boys who committed it, and when several of them were brought before the arrest, their well-to-do parents brushed the matter up by paying the heavy damages done to the building. In revenge, the gang waylaid the youthful informer a few evenings later as he was driving home, and fired several shots at him. He escaped almost by a miracle. The home of one of the informants who assaulted him on this occasion, and should promptly furnish the police with this information, so that they may be arrested.

Most of the gang who are terrorizing their more peaceable comp ions are junior grand-sons of the police justice, and carry their concealed weapons into the school rooms daily. It might be a good idea for the teachers to make a daily search through coats and hats. The number of weapons they might find would doubtless surprise them.

MORE SCHOOL ROOM WANTED.

North Plainfield Pupils Crowded in Their Present Quarters.

Dr. H. K Carroll, retiring president of the North Plainfield school trustees, presented at the annual school meeting, on Tuesday night, the following report:

The number of scholars enrolled the present year is 684, a slight increase over the enrollment of last year. The average attendance, however, has been somewhat less, owing to the prevalence of the grip and other kinds of sickness.

The work of the school has been quite satisfactory and noteworthy as to former years. It is our endeavor to give every child so thorough a training at the graded state of the school as our means will permit.

It is with great regret that we are compelled to report the removal out of the town from part of the first grade in the basement. This room was fitted up originally for temporary occupancy only, as was a proper place for children. The ceiling is low, the windows are small, and the room is partly below and partly under ground. It is not a cheerful room, even in bright weather, and on dark and cloudy days it is a gloomy place indeed.

The number of children of school age in the district, more than school census was taken in May, 1891, was 941. This increase is now during the year of 96.

We have now teachers all engaged to fill vacancies caused by resignation. Miss Cutter succeeds Miss Hine as a teacher in the first grade; Miss Shafer takes charge of the third grade in place of Miss Harvey; and Miss Hoffman succeeds Miss Dean in the second. Miss Brenamell having retired from one of the intermediate grades, Miss Hine will take that part, if teachers besides the principals and all are heartily co-operating in the endeavor to make the schools worthy of the name.

The trustees were instructed by unanimous vote, on motion of Mr. Vogel, to call a joint meeting of the trustees and citizens of the district, for the purpose of inquiring into the need of adding to the school facilities.

The Plan to Stay Over Rain in New York

The participatory choice upon in the hearts of Plainfield people for a dinner before, or a supper after, the theatre in New York, is at the Hotel Normandie, 38th street and Broadway. Their president as general manager P. B Wright formerly of this city, who is the youngest hotel manager and secular of hotel managers in the great city. Gail Earle's Hotel Normandie has long been recognized as one of the finest, most select and popular hotels in the city. Endorsement from the New York inspector of out-things, that proves it to be one of the safest.

NOTICE OF THE BUILDING DEPARTMENT, NEW YORK.

St. Plainfield, N. J.

It is not necessary for me to make a re-examination of the Hotel Normandie, situated on the corner of 38th street and Broadway, as the eighth street, as I have already done so. I regard it as one of the best built and most substantial structures in the city. The walls are very thick; the partitions fire-proof; no wooden beams, all iron beams, and in the town with hollow brick and concrete; the stairs iron and marble and no need of outside fire escapes, either, as it is built so as to be security for its occupant.

There are few hotels equal to it and none to surpass it.

If the public knew its strong and safe construction as well as I know, there would not be any rooms therein unoccupied.

Yours respectfully,
W. F. EASTERBROOK,
Inspector of Buildings.

Schultz Claude to Fourth Place.

Five scores were rolled in the Crescent Five tournament on the alleys last night. Schultz won two and increased his pace stage from 660 to 704 and his average from 154 to 156. Hallock won one and stepped above Van Emburgh, one of the others bettered themselves materially, but instead most of them dropped down down.

THE SCORE:

Schultz	170 Moore	150
Van Emburgh	162 Hallock	150
Woodstein	162 Moore	138
Hallock	150 Schultz	138
Burke	130 Moore	115

"Hallock won on the roll-off of the tie.

THE AVERAGES.

	Won.	Lost.
Van Emburgh	12	4
Thelen	11	5
Lyman	17	8
Schultz	10	6
Woodstein	10	6
Arnold	16	8
Hallock	14	7
VanWinkle	12	7
Bond	10	8
Gordon	9	7
John Dunn	11	10
Moore	10	9
Barron	10	11
Burke	9	10
Woodruff	7	10
Stelfield	6	9
Cornell	5	9
C. Bonnell	5	9
Wm. Bonnell	4	9
Lowrie	3	8
Davis	5	9
Hallock	2	10
Johnson	2	10
Bent	2	7
Lefler	2	7
Hallock	1	8
Rich Score—Lyman, 204.
Best Average—Thelen, 167; Lyman, 165; VanWinkle, 160; Hallock, 159; Schultz, 158.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

A GREAT WHIST MATCH.

Duplicate Whist Tournament Between Clubs of Boston and New York.

The following account of a contest at duplicate whist, will be of interest to local players as the winners are well known Plainfield people. The contest was between the Whist Club of New York, represented by George and Cameron Whitney, of New York, and Messrs Ben Knapshall and George Bates of Fanwood. Here is the story: Almost as much excitement as that which broke out in Chicago when the result of the election was announced was caused in the whist world of Boston and New York on Saturday night by the announcement that the Whist Club of New York had defeated the Whist Club of Boston in a duplicate whist match by the narrow margin of 10 points. The match was played on Saturday night, and the news was received in this city on Sunday morning. The Boston players were Messrs. Hall and Sohier, and the New York players were Messrs. Whitney and Whitney. The match was played in the rooms of the New York Club, and was witnessed by a large number of spectators. The Boston players were considered the favorites, and the New York players were not thought to have a chance to win. The match was played in two sessions of three hours each, and the New York players won by a score of 10 points. The Boston players were considered the favorites, and the New York players were not thought to have a chance to win. The match was played in two sessions of three hours each, and the New York players won by a score of 10 points.

THE IRON CHANCELLOR.

Remarkable Letter to Power Not Responsible.

He Created a United Germany Out of Wasting Passions and Principalities.

—The Only Man Able to Control Europe's War.

If the emperor of Germany is really anxious that war should be averted—a war calculated to set all Europe aflame with the result of Bismarck's letter to Bucharest.—He does, says Once a Week, could stem the tide, if not actually put the fire out himself. Emperor Alexander, the grandson of the late Czar, is the arbiter of the destinies of Austria, could hold the reins of the triple alliance. Bismarck's dexterous and omnilitary statecraft alone could bind the Habsburg from quarreling with Germany, and from dragging the feather-brained Hohenzollern. The man of blood and iron might even calm the rage and discord of the Magyar and Slav of the Austrian vineyards, and even, should war be inevitable, woo Old Ole Over England to aid him to be victorious.

Two years ago, ere Otto von Bismarck-Schonhausen had resigned Germany's hegemony was unchallenged. Dare she assert it to-day? Dare she face an unconcilate foe? With France

Blindfolded Medium (with pistol)—"You started from the bank as loser and with a pile of ten and twenty dollar bills, which you have at the present moment in the inside pocket of your waistcoat; you have also two quid's of gold coin in your trousers pocket. Will you kindly throw up your hands for a few moments whilst I convince myself whether I am right or wrong in my surmises?" He was right.—Brooklyn Life.

Heavy Drawback.

Mr. Worldlywise—I wonder if these art ornaments and passementerie on ladies' cloaks and wraps are not made from coal.

Friend—Why do you ask?

Mr. Worldlywise—Because if they are made of coal, and coal goes up as whisky it was last year, I'll shove my wife's jewelry and dresses into the stove and save enough on her coal for my liquor and cigars.—Texas Siftings.

From the Germans.

Absent-Minded Professor—How do you do, Miss Schleimpfeffer?

Miss S.—I am very well, thank you.

Absent-Minded Professor—Is your father dead last week?

"You don't tell me so! When you go home tell your father that I am very sorry to hear of his affliction."

To Fit on Occasion Requires

Mrs. Whalen—How yes enny short pants for boys?

Mr. Silverstein—I hafe not. I hafe long pants for enny. Buy a pair for your boy—I hafe some vat vonce, and dey vill fit der chile. I hafe sold pants dat hafe vent dree a whole cheneration like dot. He looked you vash em de smaller dey gits.—Judge.

A Considerate Passenger.

Worried Mother (in railroad train)—I hope my baby's crying does not disturb you, sir.

Old Bachelor (genially)—I shall not, madam. Don't worry about that. I'm a married man myself, and I've got a wife, children at home young people.—Puck.

Made Him Weep.

"They're on their wedding tour."—Brooklyn Life.

Renowned Oak.

"Ma, do the Royal Gunmints live on oil?"

"Yes, my child, very largely."

"And Isoil Sin?"

"No—Celtic."

"Goodness all over—counted on the ground?"

"Yes."

"Well, the Esquimaux live on the top of the land, then, don't they?"—Democrat's Magazine.

Rather Out of Place.

Mrs. Shoddy—I want to make my son's wife a birthday present.

Salesman—What would you like to see our styles of diamond necklaces?

Mrs. Shoddy—Yes, I want to get her a diamond necklace to wear around her throat. Give me some of those diamond tiaras I have read about in the paper.—Texas Siftings.

A Very Common Disease.

"I heard that you were suddenly called to attend Mrs. Schmidt, the wife of a rich banker."

"So I was."

"She is troubled with an affection of the lungs."

"No, she is not troubled with any affection at all. It is affectation that's the matter with her."

Perhaps It Is Hereditary.

Boy—Do you think I can shall have a good record?

Teacher—I hardly think so, my boy. Your father chose inspection.—Life.

Barber—Maybe you take after your mammy, also.—Courier.

A Clever Woman.

Frances (to her little brother)—Do be quiet, Johnny; don't you know that there's a visitor in the next room?

Johnny—How do you know? You haven't been in.

Frances—But I hear mamma saying "My dear" to some one.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Deserved His Fate.

Condemned Horse Thief (to leader of Arizona Vigilantes)—You ain't going to hang me, are you? I'm a Democrat.

Vigilante—Yes, we believe you don't seem to understand the ropes.

Leader (adjusting the noose again)—We're hanging you in the interest of Republican Tribune.—Life.

"A CHRONIC KICKER."

—Chicago Mail.

Starting His Widow.

"Well, sir, what can I do for you this morning?" said old Mr. Scudds as young Dolbey entered his office hesitatingly.

"I want your consent to our engagement, sir," replied Dolbey. "I love your daughter and I love each other and want to marry."

"Indeed," snorted the father. "Anything else?"

"Well, sir, I might mention before I go that I have recently come into a legacy of five million dollars as a wedding present."—Judge.

Important Information.

A professor in a medical department of Columbia college, asked one of his more advanced students:

"What is the color of the teeth that a human being gets last?"

"False teeth, of course."—Texas Siftings.

Popular Epidemic.

Professor—Mr. Smartman, just name the most of the more prevalent diseases.

Mr. Smartman—Biology, sociology, geology, astrology and dosology.—Puck.

The Usual Kind.

Mrs. Watt—What kind of a surprise party was it, John?

Mr. Watt—The usual kind. The principal person said he was surprised to see so large a crowd present.—Boston Blade.

Wanted to Look Well.

Husband—What on earth did you get that gown for?

Wife—Why, I wanted to look well.

Husband—Well, you succeed girl to-day, and of course, my dear, I must respect your feelings.—Chicago Tribune.

First Circus Man—How do you manage to fill your show with only six performers?

Second Circus Man—I carry wash bill posters.—N. Y. Weekly.

His Desire.

Trotter—I don't envy you five dollars.

Trotter—Well, I say, old man, I'd like

Common Soap

Rots Clothes and Chaps Hands.

IVORY SOAP

DOES NOT.

PUBLIC SALE

OF VALUABLE

REAL ESTATE.

Attention is hereby called to a sale at public auction, to be made by P. F. Healy, the Sheriff of Union county, of the old established property known as

Laing's Hotel,

Said sale to take place on the premises on

Monday, Mch. 21, '92,

At 2 o'clock p. m. The property is situated on the corner of Park avenue and Front street in the centre of the city of Plainfield, N. J., and is 185 ft. FRONT by 350 ft. in DEPTH,

The Hotel Building is large and commodious, and is provided with all the conveniences with the same large Library Stable, with accommodations for 65 horses. Terms of sale will be made known at the time of sale.

This SALE IS POSITIVE, and well worth a tention of capitalists.

For any particulars, address JOHN H VAN WINKLE, Plainfield, N. J.

2 25 wtd 3 4 10 17 19

THE FINEST

Dress Goods Dep't

In New Jersey to-day is at the

NEWARK BEE HIVE.

THE BEE-HIVE
THE LARGEST FANCY GOODS HOUSE IN THE STATE
147 & 149 BROAD ST.

The Lowest Priced Sellers of Dress Goods in the South is the Newark Bee Hive.

Repression kills; values like these command—to like qualities offered elsewhere, it will attract attention.

SILKS—20 inch Cut a Silks, 6 designs, 50c value, 37c yard.

SUITINGS—36 inch Cheviots, new Scotch effects, 25c Ordered Knickerbocker Suiting, 42c yard.

BLACK GOODS—46 inch extra heavy Black Henriettas, new fine as Silk finish, 50c & 75c values, 39c yard.

WASH GOODS—30 ins 32-inch fancy Scotch printed cloths, trade price 20c., Bee Hive Price, 12½c.

WHITE GOODS—Lace Stripe Lawns by dresses and as cuts, 8c yard.

Handsome Side Bands—In Silk and Brocade Ribbons for hats, taking a shape to the head. We show a reflect Goods at 25 to 50 cts. Silk Elastic Belts, 25 cts. Ostrich Bitpes, all the new shades to-day, at $1.49 p.d.

Chamois and Kangaroo Kids—Assortment as large as in Boston. Trade price, 75 cts. Bee Hive offers, in 20 inch Extra Quality Skins 98 cts. value, for 79c yard. Elegant Short Kid Gloves, 5 to 12 buttons, 49c. Largest in New York or Newark Prices, at 49c, 69c, 89c, 98c, $1.25 yard.

New Embroideries, New Laces, New Trimmings, New Curtains, New Baby Goods, Notions and Furnishing for gentlemen, in immense variety.

Five per cent. discount from regular prices if you bring this advertisement or check, cut from THE CONSTITUTIONALIST, or send with your first order.

L. V. SCHAUB & CO.,
BROAD STREET, 707 to 721,
NEWARK, N. J.
Mail orders promptly filled.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

ORGANIZE!

Now's the Time to Form that New Fund Order League.

The unceasing efforts of The Press to secure for Plainfield the organization of the Standard fund law and order league which ex-Mayor Randolph, Dr. Richards, and other leading citizens, have so ably advocated in these columns, now give prospect of bearing fruit.

As a result of the agitation of the matter, a meeting of citizens to take decisive action is to be held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms next Saturday evening.

Let all who desire to see honest and substantial public morality and honest municipal government, attend.

Pitcher John Hopkins is coaching the Lehigh University ball team.

—William Angar of Bronx ate 14 raw eggs and drank two quarts of milk in one minute, recently.

—A service of song will be held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church next Sunday evening at 7:30.

—The Courier remarks about a "big strike of sausage girls in Kansas City." What big sausages the girls make!

—Every substantial citizen ought to attend next law and order meeting Saturday night. He who stays away will neglect his duty.

—The Athletics will spread one of its choice and bountiful dinners before Plainfield council, Royal Arcanum, and its friends, one evening in the latter part of next month.

—Rector H. Bonnell, clerk of North Plainfield school district, reports the total receipts for the past year were $11 836.97, and the expenditures $11 611 26; of this outlay $8 007 50 was for teachers' salaries.

—Thomas E Keller's handsome pointer puppy was awarded prize in the class at the Washington bird show, last week. It was the heaviest lot of pointers exhibited this year, the entries outnumbering those at the recent show in New York.

—Street commissioner Meeker has the thanks of all who travel on East Second street for causing the removal of the old wagon that is so long encumbered that street. He has also made other needed round and caused all sidewalk obstructions to be removed.

—The "Elwood" hall 10 West Second street, which has been used since the suppression of the Salvation Army to-morrow evening at 7:45 Commissioner Billington-Booth, as listed by an able staff, will conduct the service. Adjt. Hall will be in charge of Florence Harris, captain.

—The mad dog incident of Thursday proves again what The Press has insisted upon for years, that the "dog ordinance", or a "Proclamation by the Mayor concerning the running at large of unmuzzled dogs", is just as necessary in midwinter as in midsummer.

—The fire loss of Mrs. Rathletta Drake, of North Plainfield, the 3d inst., has been adjusted by the Assetion Insurance company of Newark, through their agent E. M. Dunham. The amount paid to the assured Friday in cash was $1,150. Mr. Dunham's old established agency is known for its prompt payments. Mrs. Drake has only be insured a month.

—A course of four concerts by Walter Damrosch and the New York Symphony orchestra, with such other musical attractions of solo artists at each performance, has been arranged by Demarest & Rogers, managers of Music Hall, for next season. The price of a seat for the course will not be over five dollars. There will be no concert probably in each of the months of December, January, February and March.

—The Westfield Leader is again at home. Its proprietor, with characteristic push and enterprise, have erected a new building in place of the one destroyed by fire, and have refitted it entirely with new stock. The newspaper has been thoroughly renovated, and is this week handsomely improved, and stronger, better and brighter than ever. J. H. Francis is editor; Edwin Ralph Scudder, business manager, and J. H. Cash printing superintendent. With such men at the helm, the future success of the Leader is assured.

—The annual meeting for the election of one trustee was held Tuesday in the school building at Dunellen. It was generally supposed that Rev. Dr. H. D. Livermore, whose term of office expired with the school year, could not be prevailed upon to serve for another term. He finally yielded to the urgent pressure of his many friends and saw the matter in the light of duty. He was unanimously received Mr. Livermore has been most efficient in the school, and a watchful one on everything that would conduce to the progress and usefulness of the school. Had he persisted in declining to serve again, Thomas J. Todd would in all probability have been chosen in his place.

A Rare Opportunity.

Capitalists and others should not forget the advertised sale of the John W. Laing Hotel property in this city next Monday. Read the sale notice under The advertisement appears in another column —Identify yourself with honest government, and vote for the people's rights, at 1 to 10 law and order meeting Saturday night.

Wheat at Fanwood.

The report that he Messrs. Queenan of Fanwood had defeated Kempshall and Bates in a wheel-in ten was somewhat premature. The series is not yet ended, but so far the result is in favor of the latter. In last night twenty-one games of 25 points each had been played, and the score stood 10 games to 11 games and 427 points; Kempshall and Bates, 11 games and 447 points.

The same players had a sitting last evening, the result of which, which resulted as follows: Queenan, 304; Kempshall and Bates, 299; making a gain of 5 points in the duplicate play of twenty-four hands.

The Indescribable Phenomenon Again Seen.

The Boston Globe says of the spiritualists who will appear in Music Hall, Tuesday evening: "Before a large and critical audience in Lawrence Miss Anna Rea Fay, the "spiritual" attracting so much attention, produced phenomena on an open stage, in plain sight of the whole audience, which disarmed the most skeptical. Possibly there may be more things in heaven and earth than are dreamed of in our every day philosophies. At all events the audience left feeling entitled to a full hearing—the world wants the facts regardless of what effects they may have on this or that sect."

Grand Sale of Hotel Furniture.

The furniture and bar fixtures of Force's Hotel, on North avenue, this city, will be sold at public auction on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the 22d, 23d and 24th inst., by E. M. Dunham, the auctioneer, the proprietor having removed to the Mansion House, Elizabeth, where he will keep hotel. The sale of Hotel Furniture will positively be sold.

Personal.

—Harry Squires is registered at the Ponce de Leon, St. Augustine, Fla.

—Mrs. F. J. Emery, of Seventh avenue, is confined to her bed with a severe attack of bronchitis.

—Dr. E. W. Hedges and bride have returned from their bridal trip to their new residence, 101 Broadway.

—Charles Francis Sullivan and family of Broadway are now at St. Augustine, Fla., enjoying a month's tour through the south.

—The Rev. A. J. J. Carberry of the New Market Baptist church baptized five young men Sunday who had recently confessed Jesus as their Saviour.

—Judge Ulrich sprained his left ankle, Monday afternoon, by a fall from his bicycle. Dr. Jenkins dressed his injuries, and he will be out again in a few days.

—The Governor has again given evidence of the confidence reposed in Joseph E. Mc Ivor of this city by reappointing him commissioner of deeds from the second ward.

—R. R. Field of Broadway, father of Dr C. M. Field, is quite feeble. He has been confined to his bed since his return last week from Chicago, where he went to visit his brother.

—The Ministers' association met at the residence of the Rev. Cornelius Schenck this morning. Rev. Dr. Richards read a current church. The Rev. Dr. Ketchem read an interesting paper, "Small Women Preach."

—Mrs. H. Benton has gone to join her daughter Rachel, who has been in the northern part of New York State for the last three months on account of her health, her illness having taken a more serious turn.

—The Council of the University of the City of New York, at their meeting Monday night, conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity on the Rev. Wm. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church of Plainfield.

—The Athletics will spread one of its choice and bountiful dinners before Plainfield council, Royal Arcanum, and its friends, one evening in the latter part of next month.

—Rector H. Bonnell, clerk of North Plainfield school district, reports the total receipts for the past year were $11 836.97, and the expenditures $11 611 26; of this outlay $8 007 50 was for teachers' salaries.

—Thomas E Keller's handsome pointer puppy was awarded prize in the class at the Washington bird show, last week. It was the heaviest lot of pointers exhibited this year, the entries outnumbering those at the recent show in New York.

—Street commissioner Meeker has the thanks of all who travel on East Second street for causing the removal of the old wagon that is so long encumbered that street. He has also made other needed round and caused all sidewalk obstructions to be removed.

—The "Elwood" hall 10 West Second street, which has been used since the suppression of the Salvation Army to-morrow evening at 7:45 Commissioner Billington-Booth, as listed by an able staff, will conduct the service. Adjt. Hall will be in charge of Florence Harris, captain.

—The mad dog incident of Thursday proves again what The Press has insisted upon for years, that the "dog ordinance", or a "Proclamation by the Mayor concerning the running at large of unmuzzled dogs", is just as necessary in midwinter as in midsummer.

—The fire loss of Mrs. Rathletta Drake, of North Plainfield, the 3d inst., has been adjusted by the Assetion Insurance company of Newark, through their agent E. M. Dunham. The amount paid to the assured Friday in cash was $1,150. Mr. Dunham's old established agency is known for its prompt payments. Mrs. Drake has only be insured a month.

—A course of four concerts by Walter Damrosch and the New York Symphony orchestra, with such other musical attractions of solo artists at each performance, has been arranged by Demarest & Rogers, managers of Music Hall, for next season. The price of a seat for the course will not be over five dollars. There will be no concert probably in each of the months of December, January, February and March.

—The Westfield Leader is again at home. Its proprietor, with characteristic push and enterprise, have erected a new building in place of the one destroyed by fire, and have refitted it entirely with new stock. The newspaper has been thoroughly renovated, and is this week handsomely improved, and stronger, better and brighter than ever. J. H. Francis is editor; Edwin Ralph Scudder, business manager, and J. H. Cash printing superintendent. With such men at the helm, the future success of the Leader is assured.

—The annual meeting for the election of one trustee was held Tuesday in the school building at Dunellen. It was generally supposed that Rev. Dr. H. D. Livermore, whose term of office expired with the school year, could not be prevailed upon to serve for another term. He finally yielded to the urgent pressure of his many friends and saw the matter in the light of duty. He was unanimously received Mr. Livermore has been most efficient in the school, and a watchful one on everything that would conduce to the progress and usefulness of the school. Had he persisted in declining to serve again, Thomas J. Todd would in all probability have been chosen in his place

A Rare Opportunity.

Capitalists and others should not forget the advertised sale of the John W. Laing Hotel property in this city next Monday. Read the sale notice under The advertisement appears in another column —Identify yourself with honest government, and vote for the people's rights, at 1 to 10 law and order meeting Saturday night.

Wheat at Fanwood.

The report that he Messrs. Queenan of Fanwood had defeated Kempshall and Bates in a wheel-in ten was somewhat premature. The series is not yet ended, but so far the result is in favor of the latter. In last night twenty-one games of 25 points each had been played, and the score stood 10 games to 11 games and 427 points; Kempshall and Bates, 11 games and 447 points.

The same players had a sitting last evening, the result of which, which resulted as follows: Queenan, 304; Kempshall and Bates, 299; making a gain of 5 points in the duplicate play of twenty-four hands.

The Indescribable Phenomenon Again Seen.

The Boston Globe says of the spiritualists who will appear in Music Hall, Tuesday evening: "Before a large and critical audience in Lawrence Miss Anna Rea Fay, the "spiritual" attracting so much attention, produced phenomena on an open stage, in plain sight of the whole audience, which disarmed the most skeptical. Possibly there may be more things in heaven and earth than are dreamed of in our every day philosophies. At all events the audience left feeling entitled to a full hearing—the world wants the facts regardless of what effects they may have on this or that sect."

Grand Sale of Hotel Furniture.

The furniture and bar fixtures of Force's Hotel, on North avenue, this city, will be sold at public auction on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the 22d, 23d and 24th inst., by E. M. Dunham, the auctioneer, the proprietor having removed to the Mansion House, Elizabeth, where he will keep hotel. The sale of Hotel Furniture will positively be sold.

WILL WED A BELGIUM CONSUL.

The Coming Marriage of Miss Johnston of This City and Her Fete.

The marriage of Miss Taylor Johnston, daughter of John Taylor Johnston of this city, to Pierre M-il, the Vice-Consul of Belgium, whose engagement has just been announced, will take place April 26. The ceremony will be solemnized in the picture gallery of the Johnston house at Fifth avenue and Seventy-First street. A temporary altar will be erected, and before it, the Rev. Dr Rylance, rector of St Mark's church, will perform the marriage service. A large reception will follow and a week-long dinner for the bridal party.

Mr. Mail belongs to one of the oldest families in Belgium. He is the elder son of Jules Mail, who died at his home in Verviers shortly after a visit to this country, nearly fifteen years ago. The bridegroom, who is 33 years old, has been in New York about 13 years. He studied medicine with Pasteur and, under the auspices of the Belgian Government, went to Brussels, where he established the Pasteur institute, 179 West Forty-first street, New York, whose it has been proved that the bull-dog was used.

In answer to the query "Was the dog really rabid?" the doctor said: "Undoubtedly. The fact that he attacked animals and people without provocation would go far to show this, but I found stronger proof than I out upon the body. Hydrophobia will fail to show some of all kinds of foreign substances, splinters of wood, dirt, stones, straw, bits of paper and string, and the animal will follow and eat anything he would swallow. This is almost an unfailing test of rabies. We shall know certainly before long however, for to-night I shall inoculate a few dog and some rabbits with virus taken from the body of the bull-dog."

Still there are a number in this city who do not believe the dog is mad. A prominent young lay preacher is willing almost to bet that the dog was all right. He said: "Why, that white bull-dog of Fraley's mad? No sir! He's a Yale dog and always stood high in his class. Such dogs never lose their senses." A member of the Van Cortlandt family says the citizens were fussing and plaguing the dog when Brim-A Van Cortlandt interfered out of kindness for the animal. While doing so the dog bit his hand he shook it off and his teeth thus tore the long wounds in the flesh.

Dr. Ditmas said that he did not anticipate any trouble from Miss Thaxworth's case. The thick coat which she wore protected her to a great extend, and although the dog bit her several times it is probable that most if not all of the virus was kept off by the cloth which the tore in had to penetrate before reaching the flesh. Besides the wounds are healing as well as with the virus daily for thirty days.

Mr. Van Zandt is in more danger, although in his case the dog's teeth did not sink deep into the flesh, and the wounds are healing quickly. He does not anticipate any trouble from them.

The young man will be inoculated forty times, once a day. There is little or no irritation a subsequent upon this inoculation, and the patients will be inconvenienced by it.

There are also at the Pasteur Institute, under the care of Dr. G. A. Blair, Mrs. Jones, sister of a congressman, and her little boy The boy was bitten severely by a ferocious dog. The mother suffered severely herself, and kissed her boy to save herself as badly poisoned as the boy.

Four patients were discharged yesterday cured. Oliver Conlin and Frederick Ott of Elizabeth, who were bitten by the same dog about two weeks ago; Samuel Hall, who came from Virginia and was bitten by a mad dog ten days ago, and Charles Mumbley of South Carolina, who was bitten by a mad cat.

Dr. Ginter said he was very much encouraged and in a short time would move to more commodious quarters. During the last two years he has treated over 200 patients and has lost only two.

AN OCEAN UNDULATION!

Collapse of Gallows Brewery Out of the Earth Beneath Fruitless Witness! Any Effect on the Supply.

(From The Press of March 12.)

An unprecedented test is being made by the Plainfield water company to prove of its source of and the results are most astounding.

For three days and nights chief engineer Andrews has kept the two enormous pumping engines drawing water up through the 16 driven wells, and in those three days and nights the water level in the well has never lowered more than nine-tenths of a foot, and to-day—the end of the test—the supply began again on the pumps whenever they locked their strokes.

During the first 24 hours, the engines pumped 2,136,227 gallons; during the second 24 hours, 2,136,227 gallons; during the third 24 hours, 2,448,115, and, during the fourth consecutive 24 hours, the engines are running at the rate of 2,448,000 gallons without any effect on the supply. It takes almost three tons of coal a day to keep up the fires.

—Loring's Hotel property will be sold at Public Auction March 23. See ads.

Admonition From the Rev. Mr. Warnick.

If Chrero's words are true, "Quam sint in scibus rotlegrevitatis", ought not rash Christian to defend his city against a great evil? In our own city council there are men of wisdom and prudence, and we pray Heaven that they may see it in dealing with the saloon. Why should they license so many saloons and thus completely ignore the desire of every true Christian in Plainfield? Why drive them to nestle in a third party?

Rum sells to have three saloons in the vicinity of Third and Liberty streets, and all within a stone's cast of each other. Is it not an insult to the sensibilities of a Christian church Will men who have sworn themselves to protect the city's interests be blind to this fact?

Last, too, there is the same locality closely every day the sidewalks are so occupied by loafers whose breath staring, only intended for the pleasant passage of a lady to pass—Sundays not excepted. Must this same ward be made worse than it has ever been before by being overcrowded with saloons?

Have the Christian men been unreasonable? Have they demanded as impossible? I believe not. I have no fear of the many to loosen be refused a license?

Reader, how would you like to worship in a place where, when you came out of the meeting, the stink of beer and rum met to breast; and where you must listen to the vile imprecations of the half intoxicated?

I am persuaded to believe that no one of the Common Council would like to see his father, brother, sister, mother, son or daughter introduced to the street, and perhaps arrested for drunkenness. But this is the pit into which, a vote for a rum-shop license, invites the families of others to fall.

We appeal to our councilmen in behalf of the best interests of the city not to open the door for greater lawlessness in the fourth ward. Let them consider the issue. We ask you to listen to the cry of appeal, remembering that by it you were placed in office.

Yours truly,
J. FRANKLIN G. WARNICK.

Three Cheers at a Second Fire.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the cow stable of William Bon on Liberty street at about 9 Thursday night. Mr. Bon's two cows were rescued by his wife. Mr. Bon says that he has no doubt that thanks to the attention who extinguished the fire and saved their property—not to the firemen who left not put it out. The borough fire department always responds to all alarms of fire regardless of the reading. The men were sure to get out on the apparatus to the fire, and they were sure to get back to the house in time for supper. The building was a frame one, and the fire was a small one. The loss is but trifling.

—Loring's Hotel property will be sold at Public Auction March 23. See ads.

A YALE DOG BUT MAD.

Dr. Ditmas Says the Animal Passed Some Tests and Pays the Pasteur Treatment to be Taken by Mr. Van Zandt and Miss Thaxworth.

Ernest Van Zandt and 11-year-old Ethel Thaxworth, whowere bitten by the savage bull-dog which ran wild through Plainfield on Thursday, are to take the treatment of Pasteur to-morrow, under Dr. Paul Gibier, at the Pasteur institute, 179 West Forty-first street, New York, whose it has been proved that the bull-dog was mad.

In answer to the query "Was the dog really rabid?" the doctor said: "Undoubtedly. The fact that he attacked animals and people without provocation would go far to show this, but I found stronger proof than I out upon the body. Hydrophobia will fail to show some of all kinds of foreign substances, splinters of wood, dirt, stones, straw, bits of paper and string, and the animal will follow and eat anything he would swallow. This is almost an unfailing test of rabies. We shall know certainly before long however, for to-night I shall inoculate a few dog and some rabbits with virus taken from the body of the bull-dog."

Still there are a number in this city who do not believe the dog is mad. A prominent young lay preacher is willing almost to bet that the dog was all right. He said: "Why, that white bull-dog of Fraley's mad? No sir! He's a Yale dog and always stood high in his class. Such dogs never lose their senses." A member of the Van Cortlandt family says the citizens were fussing and plaguing the dog when Brim-A Van Cortlandt interfered out of kindness for the animal. While doing so the dog bit his hand he shook it off and his teeth thus tore the long wounds in the flesh.

Dr. Ditmas said that he did not anticipate any trouble from Miss Thaxworth's case. The thick coat which she wore protected her to a great extend, and although the dog bit her several times it is probable that most if not all of the virus was kept off by the cloth which the tore in had to penetrate before reaching the flesh. Besides the wounds are healing as well as with the virus daily for thirty days.

Mr. Van Zandt is in more danger, although in his case the dog's teeth did not sink deep into the flesh, and the wounds are healing quickly. He does not anticipate any trouble from them.

The young man will be inoculated forty times, once a day. There is little or no irritation a subsequent upon this inoculation, and the patients will be inconvenienced by it.

There are also at the Pasteur Institute, under the care of Dr. G. A. Blair, Mrs. Jones, sister of a congressman, and her little boy The boy was bitten severely by a ferocious dog. The mother suffered severely herself, and kissed her boy to save herself as badly poisoned as the boy.

Four patients were discharged yesterday cured. Oliver Conlin and Frederick Ott of Elizabeth, who were bitten by the same dog about two weeks ago; Samuel Hall, who came from Virginia and was bitten by a mad dog ten days ago, and Charles Mumbley of South Carolina, who was bitten by a mad cat.

Dr. Ginter said he was very much encouraged and in a short time would move to more commodious quarters. During the last two years he has treated over 200 patients and has lost only two.

AN OCEAN UNDULATION!

Collapse of Gallows Brewery Out of the Earth Beneath Fruitless Witness! Any Effect on the Supply.

(From The Press of March 12.)

An unprecedented test is being made by the Plainfield water company to prove of its source of and the results are most astounding.

For three days and nights chief engineer Andrews has kept the two enormous pumping engines drawing water up through the 16 driven wells, and in those three days and nights the water level in the well has never lowered more than nine-tenths of a foot, and to-day—the end of the test—the supply began again on the pumps whenever they locked their strokes.

During the first 24 hours, the engines pumped 2,136,227 gallons; during the second 24 hours, 2,136,227 gallons; during the third 24 hours, 2,448,115, and, during the fourth consecutive 24 hours, the engines are running at the rate of 2,448,000 gallons without any effect on the supply. It takes almost three tons of coal a day to keep up the fires.

—Loring's Hotel property will be sold at Public Auction March 23. See ads.

Admonition From the Rev. Mr. Warnick.

If Chrero's words are true, "Quam sint in scibus rotlegrevitatis", ought not rash Christian to defend his city against a great evil? In our own council there are men of wisdom and prudence, and we pray Heaven that they may see it in dealing with the saloon. Why should they license so many saloons and thus completely ignore the desire of every true Christian in Plainfield? Why drive them to nestle in a third party?

Rum sells to have three saloons in the vicinity of Third and Liberty streets, and all within a stone's cast of each other. Is it not an insult to the sensibilities of a Christian church Will men who have sworn themselves to protect the city's interests be blind to this fact?

Last, too, there is the same locality closely every day the sidewalks are so occupied by loafers whose breath staring, only intended for the pleasant passage of a lady to pass—Sundays not excepted. Must this same ward be made worse than it has ever been before by being overcrowded with saloons?

Have the Christian men been unreasonable? Have they demanded as impossible? I believe not. I have no fear of the many to loosen be refused a license?

Reader, how would you like to worship in a place where, when you came out of the meeting, the stink of beer and rum met to breast; and where you must listen to the vile imprecations of the half intoxicated?

I am persuaded to believe that no one of the Common Council would like to see his father, brother, sister, mother, son or daughter introduced to the street, and perhaps arrested for drunkenness. But this is the pit into which, a vote for a rum-shop license, invites the families of others to fall.

We appeal to our councilmen in behalf of the best interests of the city not to open the door for greater lawlessness in the fourth ward. Let them consider the issue. We ask you to listen to the cry of appeal, remembering that by it you were placed in office.

Yours truly,
J. FRANKLIN G. WARNICK.

DR. KETCHAM RESIGNS.

Warren Ackerman Protests Against Dr. Ketcham's Resignation, in Behalf of All His People.

Just before the last hymn was sung at the First Presbyterian church, Sunday morning, Dr. Ketcham announced to his people his intended resignation as pastor. Warren Ackerman was on his feet and earnestly protesting against the minister's decision, almost before the announcement was through talking. Mr Ackerman plead warmly and sincerely that their pastor should remain, and the eyes of all present filled with tears. Their handsome church building they owed to Dr. Ketcham, and there was not a soul present but knew him as the most loveable pastor in the city.

He insisted, however, that his people must let him go, and most peacefully came in accordance to his wishes that the resignation of the pastor of the church should be received. This request he will present at the meeting of the Presbytery at Elizabeth on the 29th inst.

A meeting of the congregation to act in the matter, will be held after the prayer meeting of the 23rd.

—Loring's Hotel property will be sold at Public Auction March 23. See ads.

Mt. Clair Wheelmen Reelected.

At the annual meeting of the Plainfield Bicycle club, Monday night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Dr. Charles C. Marsh.
Vice President—E. L. Wale, jr.
Secretary—D. H. Lenox.
Treasurer—C. L. Tilney.
Captain—Frank L. C. Martin.
Trustees { Thomas Sandford, Raymond Rushmore, H. F. Murray, jr.

The club, in order to reduce its expenses, has decided to temporarily quit the League of American Wheelmen. One new member was elected, making the club membership 102. After meeting the expenses of the annual meet, the club's finances to be in favorable condition, the meeting was adjourned.

Hot Medium, Art...

"THE CHAMPION OF AMERICA."

Benched only out the Iron Mountain Route. A SOLID TRAIN leaves St. Louis every day at 9:30 a. m. via Cincinnati, Hocking Valley and Toledo & Ohio Central lines, arriving in New York at 9:30 a. m. next morning. Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars through to New York without change. Elegant dining cars. Reasonable rates. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For information call at or address Chas. W. L. Hoyt, Gen'l P. T. A., 353 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

PERTINENT INQUIRIES.

Have an Unfair Verdict Been Rendered in the Fisher-Johnson Case?

The following inquiries are proposed for answer by Prosecutor Marsh, or by any member of the Union county bar, as they see fit, who can and will answer them:

First Inquiry—If $154 should have been the amount of the bail charged the child for electric lights in Fisher-Johnson case, why did Mr. Marsh at first report the November bill current as made out by the company, and why did the counsel consult with other parties in the matter, and finally fix the bail at $1,000?

Is it understood that after public protest was made against the payment of this bill Mr. Marsh went through the formality of movies that certain papers lying on the council table should be referred to his committee, but these papers were not referred to the committee at the electric light company, were already with Mr. Marsh's knowledge, and were matters of public notoriety, and were not referred to the committee for the light committee from incest the bill current, and before the council ordered it paid, although the public were obliged to protest against it.

Second Inquiry—Where does Mr. Marsh's commission, and where does the common counsel, get the evidence that the bill current for the month of November was only 20 per cent? Do not the sworn statements of the unbiased reports, William E. Boyer, F. H. Tilman and Chas. E Brewer, substantially show that the shortage was much more than 20 per cent.—that it was, indeed, 80 per cent. and upward, according to the detailed facts and figures they furnished?

Third Inquiry—Did not the committee of the common council itself report to the common council in the following words, namely: "These figures show that the city has not been getting quite two-thirds of the light which the contract calls for"? Was not this report signed by a majority of the common council counsel the signed by Ernest M. Ackerman, a member of the present common council?

Fourth Inquiry—Is not a most lame and impotent conclusion, and a most inconsequent and absurd result of after months of investigation, that "FIVE DOLLARS AND FIFTY CENTS DOLLARS should be accepted from the electric light company for this deficiency?

Sixth Inquiry—Did not said committee of the common council go further to the council in the following words, namely: "Your committee is of the opinion that the claim should be paid to the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light company for such an amount as will equitably adjust the matter for the months of NOVEMBER previous to December 1, 1891"?

Seventh Inquiry—Did not Mr. Ackerman sign that recommendation?

Eighth Inquiry—Will Mr. Ackerman now in good faith endeavor to see to it that the just and proper recommendations which he, after investigation of the facts made to the common council shall be carried out, and that the city shall recover from the electric light company the two hundred and fifty dollars of which, according to the substance of his report, it is honestly entitled?

Ninth Inquiry—Does Mr. Marsh, being a lawyer, hold that the common council is in a judicial character and representation, a different interest or corporation from the city of Plainfield? Does he not know that the last council failed to ascertain until near the end of its term that the light company was depriving the city of what the company was paid for, and the city is now not entitled to recover an amount equal to that loss or damage?

Tenth Inquiry—With the force before Mr. Marsh's light committee and before the common council, as set forth by the sworn experts, and by the council's own committee of investigation, does not Mr. Marsh know, and do not the common council all know, that the deficiency on the part of the electric light company had been made up with other matters than the charging of machinery? Do they not all know that the lamps themselves were deficient in candle-power, and that the streets were depleted by private wires for which private customers paid the company, thus putting double profits into the company's pockets?

Eleventh Inquiry—Will not Mr. Marsh, if he really wishes to protect the taxpayers in their rights, move once more to proceed to get evidence and information, and will not his committee in all fairness and honesty make such a report as shall insure the tax-payers' rights as to the relations and matters with the light company?

Twelfth Inquiry—In case this shall not be done, how much protection may the tax-payers of Plainfield expect from the report of Mr. Mar h's committee at a meet to the city of $100 per year?

—Loring's Hotel property will be sold at Public Auction March 23. See ads.

Lawyers Contemplate Suit Against Wild Rake Railroad Directors.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey will undoubtedly be compelled to pay dearly for killing two of Hamilton's bright young men, William R. Cannon and Samuel Liebe, about a year ago. Cannon and Liebe, it will be remembered, attempted to drive across the Central's tracks early one evening at the dangerous Dunellen crossing. There were gates at the crossing, and a flagman was employed to keep the gates closed, warn pleasure-by when trains approached.

On this evening, however, there was no flagman at the gates, and Cannon and Liebe, in their buggy, were crushed to death while the tracks were blocked by big freight cars, so that when the two men drove on the tracks they were unable to see the approaching train of the express. The train de-ad down upon them, and killed them outright probably before they realized their peril.

William A. Coddington of this city has brought suit against the railroad for $25 000 damages in behalf of Edward S Liebe, the father of the dead boy, and Samuel Kalisch of Newark has also brought suit against the company in a like amount for the relatives of young Cannon, who was killed. These two prominent lawyers of those respective cities engaged upon the cases it is supposed that the Central Railroad company will be forced to make reparation for its alleged carelessness.

Grand Sale of Hotel Furniture.

The congregation which filled Holy Cross church to the doors and overflowed into the street Sunday afternoon, was treated to a service which included the baptizing of the third ever before heard in Plainfield. The main choir, under the direction of William H. Miner rendered the hymns in a manner which delighted all, and what is easier, in perfect time, one of Gounod's most difficult compositions. "By Babylon's Wave's", which was rendered by a choir of 30 voices, and in the past has failed to rank amongst the greatest of their work, the grace and taste of their voices being especially noticeable in the solo parts rendered by Miss Lizzie Hoffman and Miss Lizzie Fisher. It was a grand piece of music, grandly sung.

Master Samuel Gave a solo that brought much favorable comment from all present. He has a voice of rare sweetness, and all the choir rendered their parts in a manner which showed that they had been carefully trained. The solo parts were rendered by Miss Lizzie Hoffman and Miss Lizzie Fisher. The choir is composed of the following voices: Sopranos—Miss Lizzie Hoffman, Miss Lizzie Fisher, Miss Mary Hoffman, Miss Mary Fisher, Miss Mary Hoffman, Miss Mary Fisher, Miss Mary Hoffman, Miss Mary

THE APPENDIX.

A Useful Little Intestine That Is Making Trouble.

Prominent Difficulty on in the Case of Capt. Rose—How the Life of Lyman Gage, of Chicago, Was Saved—Operation Upon Vice Chancellor Pitney.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Have you ever thought that you have a vermiform appendix, and that if you are not careful it will be the death of you? Almost every week it brings some new victims to the surgeon's table. That is because we have lost all our respect for this useless organ, and the moment it begins to make trouble we have it cut out. Formerly men suffered and died without knowing just what afflicted them. Now, thanks to the nerve and skill of American surgeons the vermiform appendix rarely kills its possessor.

I went to see Dr. Bull immediately after his successful operation upon Capt. Rose, of the British army, a son of the late Sir John Rose.

This man, Bull, is one of the greatest surgeons living to-day, but he is still a young man. He is a handsome fellow, tall and rather stout, with blue eyes and a heavy mustache. He doesn't like to talk about himself or his work.

"Two thousand books have been written about this little intestine," said he. "It is, so far as we can discover, absolutely useless. Darwin claimed that its existence in the body was one proof that we are the evolved result of age development. But most scientists hesitate to agree with him. The appendix varies in length from two to six inches, and is about the diameter of a goose quill. It is hollow throughout its entire length, and the unattached extremity is blind. It has been known to adhere to the liver, and to completely destroy the functional capacity of that part. It frequently becomes knotted about the intestines, causing strangulation. It is this little hollow tube in which cherry stones, grape, prune, grape and raisin pits are liable to drop. In fact, children have been known to swallow pins which found a resting place in that intestine, causing inflammation and death. Physicians have decided to add to the tribute any function to the appendix. It is found in man and a few apes about as pictured here, while in rodents it has been known to develop to a size exceeding that of the stomach of the animal, but in these cases it is always known as a glandular organ and has a definite function. In rodents also the valve which prevents the return of the larger intestines, from the appendix is well developed and works with the regularity of all vitals. In man this valve is undeveloped and is given the name merely because it has a resemblance to such a part.

DR. F. LANGE.

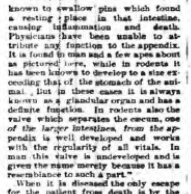
"When it is diseased the only escape for the patient from death is by the operation which was performed on Capt. Rose.

The operation lasted a little over two hours, and Capt. Rose was under ether all the time. Assisting Dr. Bull in the operation were Drs. Francis A. Kinnicutt, Medford, Mass., another consulting surgeons of St. Luke's hospital. When the first cut was made it was found the knife would have to go through a thickness of almost four inches, and would possibly have to pass under the ribs, as the appendix was found almost imbedded and bent into the intestine. It was quickly after this, and on January 11 was removed from the hospital to his hotel, entirely recovered.

It is a remarkable fact that Capt. Rose found no physician in France, England or Canada again closed up. For a week Capt. Rose lay in almost a stupor produced from absolute weakness. He began to move quickly after this, and on January 11 was removed from the hospital to his hotel, entirely recovered.

It is a remarkable fact that Capt. Rose found no physician in France, England or Canada again closed up. For a week Capt. Rose lay in almost a stupor produced from absolute weakness. He began to move quickly after this, and on January 11 was removed from the hospital to his hotel, entirely recovered.



DR. WILLY MEYER.

character the appendix was cut off, secured, and the again closed up. For a week Capt. Rose lay in almost a stupor produced from absolute weakness. He began to move quickly after this, and on January 11 was removed from the hospital to his hotel, entirely recovered.

It is a remarkable fact that Capt. Rose found no physician in France, England or Canada

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS a YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MARCH 24 1892. No. 12.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & JOHNSTON.
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery
Complex Fidelity Building, corner of Park avenue and Second street.—[1067]

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Orchard, N. J. Will attend to sales in care of Cor. FIFTH AVENUE. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. TRIBUS,
Dentist,
30 West Front street. A new local anesthetic applied to the gums, which renders it entirely painless. Teeth extracted without pain. Gold and Crown and Bridge Work a specialty.—[1067]

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
47 Broadway, New York city. Rooms 31 and 32, [Importers' and Traders' Exchange Building.] Residence, Plainfield, N. J.—[1067]

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. Van Arsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
A thorough job in thoroughly done. Postmaster's Office, Plainfield, N. J., or his shop, 116 Somerset street, will receive prompt attention. Residence, 21 Sherman avenue, corner 6th street.—[1067]

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
RESIDENCE and SHOP No. 26 East 2d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. apr7

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison avenue, cor. Front St. Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
[Successor to E. B. Maynard.]
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 36 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, or anything in barbering. [1747

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES.
COOK STOVES.
HEATERS.
Grates and Mantels for all kinds of Stove s can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We can none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping. Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
12 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-47

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest meats it is
Fresh and Salt Meats.
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Goods not usually kept in stock, furnished at 48-49 notice. 6m4 ly

Garret Q. Packer,
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a strictly first-class workmanlike manner, and reasonably.
Having a thorough knowledge of New York and Brooklyn sanitary requirements, I am prepared to give such information as may be desired, and to carry out the same in a satisfactory manner.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 8 SOUTH AVE. 2 and Plainfield, N. J.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

FORCE'S HOTEL,
NORTH AVENUE, (NEAR R. R. STATION.)
JAS. H. FORCE, Prop'r.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL. Steam-Heat. First-class Plumbing.
Transient guests at reasonable rates. 10-31-tf

Dime Savings Institution
OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually.
JOHN W. MURRAY, President.
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HASTED, "
ELIAS S. FOSS, Treasurer.

FORCE'S HOTEL,
NORTH AVENUE, (NEAR R. R. STATION.)
JAS. H. FORCE, Prop'r.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL. Steam-Heat. First-class Plumbing.
Transient guests at reasonable rates. 10-31-tf

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
SENT IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

ESTABLISHED 1836.
C. E. & J. W. BROWN,
[Successors to G. P. A. C. E. Brown & Co.]
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Stained Fresh Papers, &c. Borders for Walls.

Manufacturers of Window Shades,
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES.
COOK STOVES.
HEATERS.
Grates and Mantels for all kinds of Stove s can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We can none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and
Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping. Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
12 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-47

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest meats it is
Fresh and Salt Meats.
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Goods not usually kept in stock, furnished at 48-49 notice. 6m4 ly

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHEAPER THAN EVER.
Hugo Weigman,
24 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
6m3

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
[Successor to W. T. Corey.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
Leave Orchard Terrace, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 8 A. M. Leave Plainfield at 9 A. M. Leave Orders at W. T. COREY'S, Orchard Terrace, or at my residence, 1 Somerset street, Plainfield. 10-31-tf

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables

Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Funerals and Private Parties. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.
RIDING OR LIVERY.
Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month. Quality!
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 36.

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN
17 LaGrande Avenue,
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET.
Will reopen THUR SEPT. 17, 1891.
The regular course will include Modern Languages. 9 11 tf

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The continental claim to the State and made on his premises by himself.
CUBAN HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
All appointments to the Chicago Exposition. Fashion and Banquet Cigarettes and Smoking Tobaccos always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMEST
—SEGARS!—
No. 39 PARK AVE., (REAR OF BOYD'S SECOND ST.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smokers Materials,
Of every description.
THE CELEBRATED "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, without Internal Revenue Stamp (Retail Only).

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS.
Am I sober in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from No. 1 Park avenue, to 41 West Front, one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits a continuance of the friends and the public generally. 4 3 m3

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
A. M. WOOLSTON. J. F. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 36 NORTH AVENUE

INSURANCE.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Waite Store, Park avenue. "Accommodation" Express Wagon will attend to the general carrying business. Parties contemplating moving will do well to leave their orders. Goods stored in rooms for the storing of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
Mortgages

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Gasolene Stoves, Ice Cream Freezers
Hardware, Toys, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 13 SOMERSET ST. 3-24-tf

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
RAHWAY, N. J.

CROWDED FOR ROOM.

Facts About the White House Which Will Be News to Many.

The Building Inadequate to the Demands Made Upon It. The President in Need of Many Secretarial Apartments—White House Receptions.

[Special Washington Letter.]

Ever since the social season was inaugurated by the president's receptions at the white house on New Year's day the crowded condition of the executive mansion has been a subject of favorable comment. The home of the president, when first occupied by John Adams in 1800, was a great deal larger than that when he left the president would ever need. But if fact it was a common criticism of the time that it was a most palatial for the president of a simple republic. The building has grown no smaller, but the republic which then consisted of three and a half million people has expanded in numbers sixty-five millions of people. The national capital, from a straggling village of two thousand people, has grown into a metropolis of nearly two hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants. The congress has increased from a dozen senators and representatives to nearly four hundred and fifty. The wealth of the national capital has increased in proportionate degree and the leaders of society are not limited to the number of four hundred of the chief citizens and families, consisting of full five thousand men and women, young ladies and misses, who are constantly engaged in attention to social affairs and duties. In addition to these people the white house is open to the entire public upon all presidential reception days, and it is manifestly too small to accommodate the guests of the chief executive upon such occasions.

More than a year ago the wife of President Harrison expressed her sentiments in a learned, literary manner concerning plans for the enlargement of the executive mansion. At that time the attention of the entire public was called to the condition of the white house and the proposed extensions, but during the long congressional vacation the subject was entirely dropped and neglected. Some of our statesmen have suggested and advocated the erection of a home for the president out on the Kalorama Heights, near the Boundary and Connecticut street; but this proposition has not been taking the public by storm. The white house has been and always will be, probably, the home of the president, as it is provided for one it by the addition of wings upon the south front it is more desirable and will always be more popular.

The white house is located in the center of the city of Washington on a tree-bordered lawn as which cover many acres. These grounds are surrounded by a high iron fence and upon the north side are large iron gates opening upon the carriage driveways to the east and west of the mansion. Other gates admit the public and beautiful marble sidestone extends along the western border of the grounds, while the dark and dreary Grecian temple, called the treasury, extends along the eastern boundary. Between these two edifices the avenue is separated from the white house grounds by the regular, or irregular, thoroughfares known as pennsylvania and Seventeenth and Fifteenth streets. The war and navy departments and the department of justice to the west within a minute's walk of the president's mansion, while the other departments are within a walking distance. The white house, therefore, is better located than any other selection which could be made in the city. The proposed additions to the white house intended mainly for the purpose of giving to the president not his family more room for their home life and the entertainment of their personal and official friends.

The only room in the building which is large enough and is likely always to be large enough for official and public receptions is the east room, which extends the entire length of the east front of the building. The other rooms upon the ground floor are the private dining-room, the green, blue and red rooms, and the state dining-room. These apartments, built within the last few years, have always been considered of sufficient dimensions to accommodate the families of the president, but as he comes more and more manifest that other arrangements must be made in order that the private life of the official family may have sufficient room. The rooms upon the second floor, which are used for offices, are large and apparently comfortable even until this day; but the executive clerks and other employes there are better aware of the fact than the public can be that their quarters are entirely too crowded for facility of dispatch of business. The living rooms of the presidents and his family in the west end of the second floor could be made into five comfortable bedrooms. The city readers will understand by this that the apartments supposed to five in a flat in a private house which would scarcely be considered comfortable for a prosperous gentleman.

THE PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION.

[illegible] to any of the above [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Constitutionalist.
W. L. FORCE, A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chosen the City of Chicago, as the place for holding the national Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation thereto equal to double the number of the representation to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE, Chairman.
SIMON P. SHERRIN, Secretary.

PATRIOTIC AND MANLY.

In reply to a communication addressed to him by General Bragg, of Wisconsin, ex-President Cleveland wrote as follows:

"LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 9, 1892

"HON. EDWARD S. BRAGG.

"My DEAR SIR:—Your letter of the 5th inst. is received, and I have thought until now that I might continue silent on the subject which, under the high sanction of your position as a fellow Democrat and fellow-citizen, and in your relation as a true and trusted friend, you present to me. If in answering your question, I might only consider my personal desires, and my individual ease and comfort, my response would be promptly made, and without the least reservation or diffidence. But if you are right in supposing that the subject is of importance to the country and to my party, a condition exists which makes such private and personal considerations entirely irrelevant.

"I cannot, however, refrain from declaring that my whole experience in the great office of President of the United States has so impressed me with the solemnity of the trust and the awful responsibilities that I cannot bring myself to regard a second term in the place as something to be won by personal strife and active self-assertion.

"I have also an idea that the Presidency is pre-eminently the people's office, and I have been sincere in my constant assurance of the unofficial participation in political affairs on the part of all our citizens, consequently I believe the people have the right to make the choice of their party candidates, and that they themselves should make nominations exactly as be consistent with open, fair and full party organization and discussion.

"I speak of these things solely for the purpose of advising you that my connection with the nature of the Presidential office, and my earnest conviction that all the voters of our party should be fully free in the selection of their candidates, preclude the possibility of my leading and pushing a new candidacy against the will of the National nomination, even if I had a desire to be thus put in antagonism.

"Believing that the complete supremacy of Democratic principles means increased national prosperity and the increased happiness of our people, I am earnestly anxious for the success of my party.

"I am confident that success is still within our grasp, but I believe this is a time for Democratic thought followed by deliberation, not only as to candidates, but equally so as to the platform of principles of immense interest to the patriotic and intelligent voters of the land, who realize that the Democracy's safety as the price of their confidence and support. Yours very truly,

GROVER CLEVELAND."

That letter of Mr. Cleveland has been given wide circulation through the public journals, but it is so patriotic, democratic and manly, we deem its insertion at length in our editorial columns a proper contribution to the political annals of the day.

Mr. Cleveland takes the high and praiseworthy ground that the office of President is not of his personal responsibility and trust, and ought not to be sought after "by personal strife and active self-assertion."

A noble and truth-founded position to occupy.

He thereby echoes Washingtonian sentiment, and avows himself in direct accord with the vital principles of free government. He is not, in any manner, an candidate aspirant, but if honorably nominated by representatives of the Democratic party, fairly chosen and empowered to act, as a matter of duty he would again become a candidate.

That is exactly the kind of man the honest masses want for Chief Magistrate, and no one of any site characteristics ought to receive popular approval.

Intelligent statesmanship, honesty of purpose, practical business application, devotion to every official obligation, and impartial regard for the public welfare, are the unbreakable reasons why the next President should be GROVER CLEVELAND,

BEWARE.

Martin Van Buren was the recipient of many high honors conferred upon him by the Democratic party.

He held successively the only Governor of New York, National Senator, Foreign Ambassador, Cabinet Minister, Vice President and President of the United States.

Overwhelmingly rejected for re-election in the Presidential contest of 1840, he nevertheless yearned for a re-nomination four years later.

Evidently lacking popular favor he was wisely counseled to be unavailable.

When the Democratic National Convention met in 1844, General Cass, of Michigan, moved that a two-thirds vote should be necessary for nomination. The rule was adopted and has ever since been continued in force.

James K. Polk was nominated, and elected over the stalwart Whig chieftain Henry Clay.

Four years again rolled away, and Lewis Cass, an able, upright and consistent Democrat, was the regular party nominee for President.

To gratify personal animosity, Martin Buren unjustifiably got up a factional fight against Mr. Cass sufficient to cause his defeat.

Moral—

Martin Van Buren sank so deep into political discredit that he never regained former standing and influence.

History repeats itself.

Any Democrat or Democratic journal who in 1892 foolishly ventures to follow the Van Burenish tactics of 1840 will meet a similar opprobrious fate.

Just rectification dies.

"The first brilliant of universal peace never back but a leading officer. So hasty people prefer to tell of the terrible pains they have caused while following it."

A New Strike.—The working classes have struck again—this time against high prices, and are using Piso's Cough Syrup, the great family remedy. 25 cts.

The discussion of the Silver bill was opened by Mr. Blount with the assertion that the bill placed us back a century. That is too far back to go for a like precedent for present financial action.

Hon. Allan McDermott has accepted the Democratic nomination for Mayor of Jersey City. He should be elected by a handsome majority. He will make Jersey City an honest and fearless Mayor.

The work of reducing the appropriation to an economical basis is still progressing in the House. The River and Harbor Committee has completed its considerations of the regular appropriation bill now under that head. The bill will appropriate $20,000,000, which is $300,000 less than the amount carried in the bill reported to the last Congress and nearly $4,000,000 less than was appropriated in the bill that became a law in the last Congress.

Among the appropriations for rivers and harbors made by the House committee are: River mouth comes in for the following: Raritan Bay, $40,000; Keyport Harbor, $5,000; the Delaware River, from Trenton to its mouth, $60,000; the Passaic, below Newark, $30,000; the Hackensack, $40,000; the Shrewsbury, $10,000; Matawan Creek, $9,500; South River, $7,000; Alloway's Creek, $3,000; Elizabeth River, $5,000; Goshen Creek, $3,000 and Salem River, $25,000. Total for New Jersey, $227,500.

LIQUOR LICENSES.

Two Withdrawn, One Granted, One Refused, Two Postponed.

The application of Wallace V. Miller for a license to keep a wholesale liquor shop at 65 Park avenue was Monday withdrawn by him. Permission to withdraw was unanimously granted by the boardmen.

The vote by which Joseph T. Sullivan's application for license to keep a saloon at 1,007 Third street was refused on Monday was reconsidered, and the license was granted. The vote was as follows:

Yeas—Councilmen Brennan, Erickson, Fredericks, Gallup, Jones, Sex, Weber—7.

Nott to reconsider and not to grant—Ackerson, Sullivan—2.

The Sullivan matter was called up by Mr. Sex, who said that the license had for 20 years kept an orderly place and that the police had never made any complaint against it. Mr. Sex evidently never attended a Monday morning session of the local police court.

The application of Eugene Hoerster for a wholesale license at 44 Liberty street, in the Ward fourth, was refused, by the following vote:

Yeas—Councilmen—Ackerson, Bird, Case, Gallup, Gilpin, Johnson, Marsh, Sex, Sullivan—9.

To grant—Fredericks—1.

Not voting—Erickson—1.

Later in the evening, for some unaccountable reason, Mr. Sex moved to reconsider the vote. The motion was lost, as only Messrs. Bird and Force voted for it, and then Mr. Bird blushed and begged leave to be excused from another in time to vote against the motion.

An application was received from John H. Staats for license to open a bar in the City Hotel. It was referred to the license committee.

Permission was unanimously granted to Mr. James H. Force to withdraw his application.

FIRE HYDRANTS FOR PLAINFIELD.

There Will be 200 of Them, and the City Will Pay $6,000 a Year.

The Plainfield common council has at last ascertained that the city is sadly in need of water supply for fire purposes, and Monday it unanimously authorized the immediate execution of a contract for two hundred hydrants, to be furnished by the Plainfield Water Supply company. The contract is to be for 200 hydrants, including the 45 already in position, with as many more as may be necessary. The annual rental is to be $25 per hydrant. The contract is to be for one year, with privilege of renewal, year by year, for ten years. The company will agree to keep its works always ready for emergency, and the full capacity will always be at the city's service, ready for instant use. The rates for flushing sewers are to be $1 per year per hydrant, or 10 cents per 1,000 gallons. The meter rate for domestic purposes is to be 35 cents per 1,000 gallons. Penalties are provided to secure from the company faithful performance of the contract, in addition to a bond of $10,000. The city is to have the right to inspect and telephone at the pumping station.

Mr. Force Withdraws.

The following communication was received and filed by the Plainfield common council Monday night:

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

GENTLEMEN—For the last 15 years I have been a resident of the city of Plainfield, during which time I have conducted a hotel and tavern in various parts of the city.

Throughout this entire period I have kept an orderly and respectable house, for the convenience of the citizens and the traveling public, I have in no wise violated the laws of the State in the conduct of my business, and on the 1st of last February I made application for my license to keep an inn and tavern, conforming in all the requirements of such ordinances as had been previously laid down by your body. The city authorities have seen only to ignore me and unfashionable to grant me a license was refused, and as a result I have been compelled to close my hotel to the public. In view of the situation I must respectfully withdraw my application now before your honorable body.

JAMES H. FORCE.

Mr. Kelly Settles.

(From The Press of March 11.)

John Moore has come out on top of another lawsuit. Last July he started a suit to make Wm. C. Kelly live up to an agreement to buy the City hotel for $27,000. Kelly's counsel had advised him that the agreement was void, but Moore claimed damages named in the agreement for failure to perform, and that Moore could then do nothing about it. Mr. Moore took a different view and brought his suit for specific performance after agreement.

Mr. Kelly engaged ex-Gov. Ludlow and later on also retained ex-Congressman Alvah A. Clark, to represent him. John C. Moore's counsel was Craig A. Marsh. The lawyers had everything in shape for a legal battle for the Monday and to-morrow at Newark before Vice-chancellor VanFleet.

Mr. Kelly began to worry yesterday and finally settled the case by paying all told $1,200 damages and $100 costs of suit and guaranteeing Mr. Moore to protect him against the mortgage on the lot to for one year.

Coroners Get the Grass.

Eddy Daley, the crack third baseman of last season's Sanatorium, has signed with the Crescents of Plainfield. He has an application as the sporting editor of the New York Sun says: "In Daley, Kessler, and Turner the Crescents have three infielders that are the cream of the semi-professional ranks. These boys are not merely clever all-round men, but are generously fellows on and off the field. They are not swell-headed, by any means, and they know how to play the points of the game.

It Is Positively Sold

THAT IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE IS THE ONLY LINE running THROUGH PULLMAN PALACE and TOURIST SLEEPERS, leaving St. Louis 9:00 p. m. daily, for Little Rock, Texarkana and Texas. Also, the only line from Angeles and San Francisco, leaving St. Louis 9:00 p. m. daily. No

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - - City Editor.

THE CITY SUED.

The Court to Decide the Legality of Plainfield's Repealing Ordinances.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

JERSEY CITY, N. J., March 21.—Dickinson & Thompson, counsel for Joseph M. Low, served papers on corporation counsel Craig A. Marsh, in this city, at noon today, calling the latter opposite counsel in Vanbyck et al vs. Trenton on Wednesday, when arguments will be heard in the matter of Low's application for a writ of certiorari against the city. Low will endeavor to have the court set aside the repealing ordinances passed by the present council recently, which attempt to take away his franchises for constructing and operating water-mains and sewers. Granted by the council of last year.

—J. B. Dumont is to erect a new brick dwelling at Seventh street and Crescent avenue.

—Stray dachshunds are busy these days; calling this to opposite notice. Van Vlaydyckel at Trenton on Wednesday, when arguments will be heard in the matter of Low's application for a writ of certiorari against the city. Low will endeavor to have the court set aside the repealing ordinances passed by the present council recently, which attempt to take away his franchises for constructing and operating water-mains and sewers. Granted by the council of last year.

—Somequeer things are taking place among Plainfield's councilman. In their action on the matter of the Park.

—The mud at Sixth and Sycamore streets is to be spanned by a long needed cross-walk of ten flagging.

—Broker E. C. Mulford has sold Mrs. Spooner's house, at 23 Grove street, to a Mr. Simpson, of Brooklyn, at Mrs. Spooner's price, $12,000.

—The old hook-and-ladder truck broke down again Sunday, and is laid up for repairs. The city is just off getting a new truck too long ago.

—The people of East Sixth street have applied to have their thoroughfare macadamized. They agree to pay 15 cents of the expense on each running foot.

—There was an inexcusable absence of policemen from the scene of the Stillman fire Saturday night. Chief Doane had to neglect his own work to secure a special to handle the crowd.

—The trout season opens April 1 Thereafter the law will be attached to anyone catching fish that measure less than six inches. Pickerel fishing cannot be indulged in until May 1.

—Attention is directed to the advertisement in another column headed "Farms for Sale". The Passaic Valley stock farm is a first-class reputation among horsemen and stock breeders.

—A bull belonging to Charles Debele killed two fine Jersey heifers on his farm near Dunellen, last week. The ferocious beast gored the calves, which were quite and one of a half years old, to death in an instant.

—The date of the next and closing concert of the Melopois has been changed from May 10 to May 3. This is so as not to interfere with conductor Chapman's first Patti concert in New York, at which the Melopois chorus also is to sing.

—Can anyone fathom the principles on which the Park committee are working this year? They vote for saloons and disreputable groggeries, but refuse to license respectable hotels. New York seems a tumultuous, peculiar, sly, unjust, and lacking in principle.

—Invitations have been issued to friends of the Park club, to be present at the club building, this week Thursday evening, to witness the first of a series of competing games at bowling, between members of the Union County Country club and the Park club.

—The tramps seem to be commencing their infamous work again. The occurrence in Plainfield last week ought to put everybody on guard. This shiftless fraternity ought to be dealt with very severely, for nothing else seems effective in suppressing them.—Elizabeth Journal —Noticeable arrests were made Sunday, in the hope of catching both the fellows who assaulted Harold Berrell's servant girl and those who held up the young backman Dick Kane. Neither that servant girl could identify the parties wanted among those arrested.

—A horse owned by Michael Quinn was startled by the noise of fire and drums on West 8 st street St. Patrick's Day, and a runaway was threatened. By the superb horsemanship of Mr. Quinn's daughter, however, who was driving, the animal was kept under control and probable disaster averted.

—At a meeting of the Central Base-ball league held last week in this city, it was decided to adopt the National league rules and the Spalding ball." Postponed games are to be played on the following Thursdays. The firm of A. G. Spalding will give the championship pennant that is to be played for.

—Steamer No 2 almost fell in the well at Fifth and Richmond streets recently. She was pumping there when suddenly the well caved and the suction fell to the ground and a foot under the engine. As there is a fire hydrant within a few feet, the well is useless and will probably be filled in with gravel.

—Policeman Glese on Tuesday found a mac wandering about the streets in a state of temporary mental aberration. The man had forgotten his name and home, and did not know where he was. By skillful detective work Mr. Glese found that he was a baker employed in a shop on Liberty street, where the man was taken and cared for.

—A colored base-ball nine is about to be organized under the name of the Germans. The manager will be I. Payne, and the team: J. Taylor, short-stop; W. Carter, first base; J. Stevens, second base; G. Pearson, third base; R. Stevens, right field; I. Payne, left field; W. Wilson, centre field; L. Wilson, catcher; C. Manning, extra; G. Peterson, captain.

—The Pond Juniors have organized their base-ball team for 1892. Those who have already signed are: Pond, Cornell, Gorman, Ryan, Malone and Frey. They will open the season this year by playing the Dunellen team at that place on April 9, and a return game at Plainfield. The Juniors would like to arrange games with any team in the State whose members are between 17 and 20 years of age.

—John Cook, a farmer, drove into town in a light spring wagon Thursday. At the corner of North and Park avenues his sleigh was upset and he was thrown out. He clung to the reins, however, and after being dragged roughly over the snow into Bolen's lumber yard succeeded in stopping his horse and preventing a runaway. He was unhurt. The incident caused considerable excitement among spectators.

Hot Springs, Ark.,
"THE AMERICAN ARTESIAN."

Reached only via the IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE. A SOLID TRAIN leaves St. Louis 9:30 p. m. daily, and a Pullman Buffet Sleeping Car through to Hot Springs at the 9:30 a. m. train. Finest hotels, sublime scenery, delightful climate and healing Hot Springs. Round-trip tickets to this favorite resort for your friends, at points in the United States and Canada. For further information, call on or address W. G. HOYT, Gen'l P. A., 355 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

OPENED WITH A FIGHT.

A Broken Rib Caused Out on the Street From the Saloon That Sold on Sunday but Was Licensed Just the Same.

(From The Press of Mch. 24.)

There is a certain liquor saloon on Front street that the government moved its post-office location to get away from. It is also the saloon to that has recently had fined a few weeks ago for selling on Sunday, yet councilmen Sen, Bird and others granted it another license. Nevertheless, men and a child who were going to the post-office.

What the friends of the Republican party of this city think of the license of its councilmen in power this year in closing the hotels and indiscriminately licensing saloons—good and bad alike—would be interesting reading. And what the Rev. Mr. Richards and other good ministers think, would be interesting hearing from probably after the fight is settled will ever be disclosed in press or pulpit.

PERSONALIA.

Borough clerk H. H. Brokaw has been ill for several days with the grip, from a relapse of his former complaint.

Miss Daisy Randolph of New York is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Bonnell of East Front street.

George F. Brown has sailed from San Francisco for home. He expects to land in New York about April 10

Here's a barbinger! Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Martin of this city are registered at "The Orange," Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Jackson of Crescent avenue left Plainfield Thursday en route for California where they will stay until May.

The Rev. Robert Lowry of this city has written another beautiful service of Scripture and song for Easter-tide, entitled "Christ and Nicodemus".

A daughter from Jerseyville, Ill., states that Dr. C. M. Field is very ill at that place. His housekeeper, Mrs. Collins, has gone on to the west to nurse him.

Miss Fannie Taylor Johnston, whose engagement to the vice-consul to Belgium was announced in THE PRESS the other day, was the guest Sunday of Mrs A. D. Boyd.

Miss Ellis Louise Ball a niece of ex-county clerk James S. Vosseller, died at her home in Elizabeth Sunday last, of consumption. She had many warm friends in this city.

Henry Elliott Bowen of Nebergwood, son of Henry C. Bowen, of the Independent, and formerly a resident of Brooklyn Heights, has taken charge of the Brooklyn edition of the New York Mail and Express.

Dr. C. M. Field has telegraphed to Plainfield that he will be unable to reach home in time to attend his father's funeral. Interment will therefore be deferred. The ceremonies will be placed in a receiving vault, until the doctor's arrival to attend the burial.

J. D. TenEyck and family have removed to Madison, N. J., where Mr. TenEyck engages in a meat market, succeeding to his business here His numerous friends in this city wish him success in his new venture. The citizens of Madison will do well to have an honest and painstaking merchant.

Miss Blanche Fellows, the talented soprano soloist of Dr. Ketcham's church, has tendered her resignation to the chairman of the music committee, to take effect May 1. She has a number of offers with more lucrative salaries in larger churches elsewhere, but has not yet decided which to accept as her long list of vocal pupils in this city require her presence in Plainfield during so much of the time. The First Presbyterian society will have difficulty in securing a successor worthy of her.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Richard R. Field were held at the late residence of the deceased, on Broadway, Tuesday afternoon. The house was filled with mourners. The services were conducted by the Rev. Corbin Lewis, of the whose church Mr. Field had been an elder continuously since 1865. The Rev. Mr. Todd of Dunellen, formerly of Scotch Plains, and Rev. Dr. Boyd, also took part in the services, and spoke very feelingly of the many Christian qualities of the departed.

Reception at Fanwood.

Four men tried to break into the ticket office at Fanwood station Tuesday night between 12 and 1. The night operator, a brave young fellow of nineteen, drove them away, and they ran towards Plainfield.

Rosers, Crane and Wilbur Win With Phenomenal Scores.

Six of Jersey City's most expert whist players visited this city, last week, and in the rooms of the Crescent League were defeated by the score of 182 to 163 in the handsomest game of the season. The Plainfield players were: H. L. Emerson and V. F. Vosinio, C. B. VanWhikle and H. VanEnburgh, John M. Crane and H. C. Wilbur. The last named quartette are not members of the Crescent League but played by request of the Jersey City players. They held remarkable hands, as the score proved, the total of 89 to 43 which was a margin of 20 points more than Plainfield won with.

The Jersey City players were: Mallery and Watson, Littlefield and Clements, Arrowsmith and McIlroy.

Good Time at Ex-Councilman Emmons's Home.

The tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Emmons, 15 Grove street, on Wednesday night under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work society of Trinity Reformed church, was an unqualified success. The affair was largely attended as it would have been were not so many friends of the society called upon to be present at other public events.

The date was also the anniversary of the birth of both Mr. Emmons and his elder daughter, Miss Laura. Every member of the family exerted herself to make the occasion pleasure and gratification of all. It is needless to say again that success was the result.

First Get Your Permit, Then Build Your House.

Lounsbe & Bros petitioned Mayor Sayre yesterday for permission to erect a dwelling house at Second and Washington streets. Mr. Frazee protested that the petition should have been in before the house was built, and that it was a violation of the law against the law, as it was in the fire limits. The owner of adjoining property protested that the building encroached upon his property. The matter was referred to the committee on fire and buildings. The members of the council was opposed to the erection of wooden buildings within the fire limits. The Lounsbe & Bros matter may be ordered torn down.

REMINISCENCES OF THE CENTRAL.

Interesting Glimpses of Nine Jersey's Long-ing Railroad Fifty Years Ago. When It Took Two Hours to Go to Somerville.

Probably the oldest railroad conductor in New Jersey, if not in the United States, who is at present in active service, is Isaac VanArsdale of this city. Mr. VanArsdale was born in 1820, and will be sixty-three years of age this coming August. Although nearly three score and ten, he still evidences a large amount of youthful vigor, and can always be found on duty. He is as straight as an arrow, and moves with a greater alacrity than many men in the service who are only half his age.

In conversation with a reporter, recently, Mr. VanArsdale said: "I entered the employ of what is now known as the Central railroad of New Jersey, in the autumn of 1846. At that time the road extended from Elizabethport to Somerville, and was known as the Elizabethtown and Somerville railroad. The equipment of the road consisted of three tender Baldwin locomotives, one passenger coach and six freight cars. The road went by the name in those days of the 'Snake Road' as the rails resembled in appearance the back of a stringer of yellow pine. It was a frequent occurrence for the stress to become detached from the stringers and curl up behind the train, forming what we called a 'snake head'. Occasionally these 'snake heads' would run through the floors of passenger coaches, causing considerably interesting for the occupants. At one time a passenger met his death by being struck by a 'snake head', in this manner, the iron having forced into his head as he was sitting in the car seat, killing him instantly. In the winter season, during snow and ice storms, it was necessary to place a man on the pilot of the locomotive with a long-handled shovel, or pike, to remove the ice or snow from the straps, or rails, in order that the train might proceed. It took from one and one-half to two hours to make the run between Elizabethport and Somerville, the time consumed as a generality being two hours, oftener than not, which would be considered creeping in this present age of progressive railroading.

"Two boats, the 'Water Witch' and 'Cinderella', were run between Elizabethport and New York city for transferring passengers and freight. The boats were also compelled to keep on the move in order to supply the required amount of steam with this inflammable fuel.

Benjamin Dayton, a son of Judge Dayton, was president of the road in 1846; John O. Stearns was superintendent; and Captain Pegram was secretary and treasurer.

In 1849 a road was built from Somerville to White House and incorporated under the name of the Somerville and Easton railroad. In the same year the Elizabethtown and Somerville, and the Somerville and Easton roads were consolidated, under the name of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. In 1852 the road was extended to Easton, Pa. In 1864 the excursion from Elizabethport to Jersey City was made, thus completing an all-rail route from Easton to that point. This has been gradually perfected up to the present admirable system.

IN MEMORIAM.

Anna Corlinne Livermore.

(The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis in The Sabbath Recorder.)

Anna Corlinne, only child of the Rev. Leander E. and Arloutte Coon Livermore, was born at Walworth, Wis., Nov. 27, 1869. She passed away peacefully at Plainfield, Feb 24, 1892. Corlinne united with the Seventh-day Baptist church at New Market, N. J., by baptism, Aug. 17, 1883. Removing to Alfred Centre soon after, she entered the university, where she studied until her return to New Jersey in 1887. She continued her studies in the Dunellen public school and in the Plainfield high school until failing strength compelled her to leave the latter place in November, 1890.

Overcoming her health, and after a few months as teacher, she determined to study art, for which she had special taste and talent. She entered the art department of the Pratt institute, Brooklyn, N. Y., in Sept. 1891. Delight and success were both attending her work, when on the 14th of February the germs of diphtheria began to develop, and the dread disease went forward rapidly. All that love and skill could do was faithfully done, but Corlinne's work was finished, and her companions and friends. A quiet, restful calm was upon her, and when her messages were delivered and her hopes and plans were spoken, there were an expressed, she sweetly fell asleep in Jesus without a struggle. Oh, the sense of desolation which came upon us! But the light given wonderful light, and we kiss the rod which smites us. On such blessed hour with a dying Christian is worth more in assurance of that a whole life of possession. That hour I have examined many times, since her departure, and with an intensity of prayer and sense of insight into the significance of it I never experienced. Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like hers. . . . She was indeed becoming so meek an intelligence. Her prayer meetings, Christia Endeavor work, Sabbath-school and Sabbath services, that all seem to have lost a strong and faithful supporter."

Because the burial was private, the church of which Rev. Livermore is pastor are assured for a memorial service on the 27th of March, a crowded house testified love and sympathy. Delegations from the Christian Endeavor society of the Seventh-day Baptist church at Plainfield and from the Endeavor societies of the Presbyterian and Baptist churches of Dunellen, together with the society of which Corlinne was a member, sent in memorials. Communications of sympathy came from the Athenæan hymns of Alfred university, from many private hands, and from all directions. The sermon preached from II Cor. v: 1-5. Theme, "A triumphant exchange of the crumbling tabernacle for the everlasting house not made with hands." Corlinne was so appropriate to the memory of one who went so victoriously, and sent back such gracious tones to faithfulness as she passed on to the realities of the celestial city. The Lord grant to the readers of this sad triumph; and I am commanded to say to all the young people . . . Whereforn, my beloved brethren, be ye stedfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

A. H. LEWIS.

[I remember well the day when I first met Corlinne Livermore. It was in the autumn of 1887, when I was a student in Alfred university. She was then a bright, sunny-faced girl of seventeen years, full of life and vivacity. Her father, Rev. L. E. Livermore, was then pastor of the Alfred church, and Corlinne was a member of his family. Her mother, Mrs. Arloutte Coon Livermore, was a graduate of Alfred university, and was a lady of rare culture and refinement. Corlinne was a student in the academic department, and was a member of the class of which I was a member. Our acquaintance was pleasant, but not specially intimate. Corlinne was a bright, cheerful girl, and was a favorite with her classmates. She was a good student, and was faithful in the performance of her duties. She was a member of the Young People's Christian Union, and was active in its work. She was a member of the choir of the church, and was a good singer. She was a member of the Ladies' Glee club, and was a favorite with its members. She was a member of the Ladies' Literary society, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Aid society, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Missionary society, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Temperance society, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Sewing society, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Reading circle, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Bible class, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Prayer meeting, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Sunday-school class, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Sunday-school choir, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Sunday-school orchestra, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Sunday-school band, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Sunday-school quartet, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Sunday-school duet, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Sunday-school solo, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Sunday-school recitation, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Sunday-school essay, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Sunday-school debate, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Sunday-school oratorical, and was active in its work. She was a member of the Ladies' Sunday-school declamation

A DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

The Inside History of a New York Divorce Case.

It Proves That Old Gentlemen Should Not Wed Lively Young Women—Some-thing in the Shape of a Dog and Policeman.

[Special New York Letter.]

AN AVERAGE reader of the New York papers cannot fail to be impressed with the fact that marital infidelity is steadily on the increase. The suits for divorce are apparently becoming more numerous. In fact, a divorce epidemic seems to have broken out, and the cases are so numerous as to disconcert the clergy and congest the dockets of the local courts. There is a mania to relapse, temporarily at least, into a state of single blessedness. It is confined to no particular class or condition of men.

The aristocratic people who reside on Fifth avenue and live suspiciously every day and belong to the upper crust of Gotham society are in many instances addicted to divorce as those who infest the slums of Cherry street, and who cannot afford more or go to Europe in the summer for their health. The causes of marital infidelity are various, but Cupid couples quarrel for divorce reasons, so to speak; but the principal cause seems to be incompatibility of age on the part of the unhappy couples. Old men who marry young wives, and vice versa, are the most frequent applicants for relief from their conjugal bonds. Young women who have aged husbands will flirt with a fifty year old man, and the gentleman who lives on Madison avenue has found out for himself. There are, of course, many notable exceptions, but it would be very difficult to make the elderly gentleman referred to believe that there is an exception to the rule, so prone is the average human being to form his opinions of mankind in general by his own individual experience.

Not long since an item appeared in the New York papers that revealed a domestic earthquake among the elite. It was to the effect that Mr. Burdstick, a wealthy society man, had brought suit for divorce from his young and charming wife, who previous to her comparatively recent marriage was known as the belle of Harlem. In the same paper appeared another item that Park Policeman O'Donohoe had almost pounded the life out of Gus Snobberly, a young society man, and some surprise was evoked by the additional item that although urged to do so Mr. Snobberly refused to prosecute the brutal policeman.

It did not appear that these two items had anything to do with each other, but they had. It seems that among other pets Mr. Burdstick had a dog—a pug dog named Fido—which was the cause of both these disturbances. Mr. Burdstick was a short, fat man, with his head jammed down between his shoulders. He had a turkey-colored face, suggestive of high feeding. He also had great difficulty in catching his breath, like the editor of a sporting journal, in consequence of having had without a great deal of puffing and blowing. He was upwards of sixty years of age. Mrs. Burdstick was not more than twenty-five, good looking, and vivacious, as is usually the case with the belles of Harlem.

The weather was unusually mild for this season of the year, and Mr. B. made it a point to accompany his young wife in her walks. He urged with her to look after and care for her, but there was no occasion for it, as there were several young gentlemen who cared for her and were willing to look after her when she was in the park. Among them was Gus Snobberly, the dudiest dude in Harlem. On this occasion Mr. and Mrs. Burdstick had met the young man on entering the park, and Mr. Burdstick had introduced how-unusual. It was that when he came to the park by himself he never met Mr. Snobberly, but when he met Mrs. B. with him they were sure to meet a fob lot of dudes.

FIDO DELIVERS THE BILLET-DOUX.

"I wonder where is Fido?" said Mrs. B., looking around. Incidentally it may be remarked that Fido was her pet dog, to which she was very much attached, as I have already intimated.

"He was following along behind us awhile ago," said Mr. B.

"No; I mean that other puppy that is such a friend of yours. I refer to that dude."

"Mr. Burdstick!"

"Mrs. Burdstick!"

Mr. Snobberly is only a passing acquaintance. He is an old friend of our family and a perfect gentleman," said Mrs. Burdstick.

"He was out there by the statue of Burns a while ago," said Mr. Burdstick.

"Mr. Snobberly?" asked Mrs. Burdstick, eagerly.

"No; Fido. There they are together, now," said Mr. Burdstick, pointing to a bench in front of which Fido and Gus seated Mr. Snobberly, fondling Fido.

As Mr. and Mrs. B. strolled past, the fleet-winged dog left the bench at the gallop, but Mrs. B. did as she slightly dropped a note, or billet-doux.

Now, if the romance had been carried out, Mr. Snobberly would have picked up the billet, and subsequently pressed it in front of the photograph of his elegant bachelor's apartments. It is wrong and sad to think that such things occur, but they do occur, and occurred, and it does not seem probable that such improper proceedings will ever become entirely free from the taint in this world as we find it. Suttle resume.

As long would have it, Fido saw his mistress drop the letter, and, as he had been trained to fetch things, he snatched it up and darted off toward the fill-associated scene. In vain did Mr. Snobberly whistle softly and call: "Fido! Fido! come here! That's a nice little doggy-woggy." He loathed the opportunity that doomed back to his mistress.

A minute later the intelligent animal was frisking around in front of Mrs. B., wagging his tail and holding up the letter, as much as to say: "Ain't I a smart dog?"

Gill Burdstick swooped down with an agility that was surprising in a man of his years and captured the letter. In vain did Mrs. B. endeavor to secure the

THE COFFEE DID HER WORK PRETTY.

compromising document. He smelt a rat, with livid fingers he tore it open and, after several frantic efforts, he succeeded his glasses to read the

(Continued Next Week.)

MOUNTAIN RATTLERS.

A Wonderful Den of Monsters Found in Kansas.

They Are Numerous and Are Veritable Pests—Discovery of a Remarkable Spring Discovered in an Indian Village.

[Special Kansas Letter.]

There are many strange and snake stories, including the current tales relating to sea serpents, circulated during the bathing season at Surfside and other seaside resorts. Baron Munchausen, Sinbad and even Manhattan have tried their hands at the snake stories, but it isn't that sort of a tale that the writer proposes to rehearse, and in order to escape the imputations that ordinarily attach to the garrulous fisherman and sergeant romancer, the reader is assured in advance that every representation herein made is absolutely true.

During the Indian war of 1868-69, against the Cheyennes, Arapahoe and Comanche Indians, upon the border, Gens. Sheridan and Custer decided upon a winter campaign against the hostiles, in which the Seventh United States cavalry, the Nineteenth cavalry and a detachment of infantry, the object being to strike the Indians in their winter villages when their supplies were short and their ponies unable to subsist on natural forage. After chasing the roving bands out of western Kansas and into the Indian territory, they succeeded in running all of these tribes were attacked and broken up on the Cimarron river, and the hostile warriors were pressed still further south.

Scouts finally again located their principal villages among the Wichita mountains, a range or prolongation of the Rockies extending in the extreme southwestern corner of the Indian territory, and here the troops followed them. Judicious maneuvering upon the part of Gens. Sheridan soon resulted in surrounding and capturing these villagers, the squaws and surplus ponies of the aforesaid tribes in the vicinity of Medicine Bluff creek, and here the little army encamped for several weeks during the months of January and February, 1869.

The camp of the Nineteenth Kansas was located about three-quarters of a mile from the romantic Medicine Bluff, a bald and mural precipice facing the south, no less than 300 feet high, and having the appearance of a small mountain, one-half of which had been washed away by the encroachments of the rapid stream that flowed along the base. For a quarter of a mile out toward the level ground on which the camp was located, there were great, irregular piles of bowlders, which had been washed down by the concentrated force of the mountain torrents, and increasing in height and size as the bluff was approached. Fissures and crevices there were numerous caverns, subterranean holes and passages. Indeed the whole locality was literally infested with rattlesnakes, bull snakes, blacksnakes, bloodsnakes, moccasins, and other hybernating animals, as well as numerous reptiles. The Indians, scouts and old hunters and trappers had frequently described the locality mentioned, but nothing that they had made them so large that we thought them romancing for the benefit of "tenderfoot."

One afternoon in February, after two or three days of quite warm weather, the attention of the command was attracted by a loud and continuous rattling noise, the sound being resembling that made by a large cotton gin some distance away. It was such a remarkable and unusual noise that great curiosity was excited and dozens of the men started out to investigate. They were not long in discovering the large cavern among the rocks, the bottom and shelving sides of which were covered with snakes. There were bull snakes, moccasins, black snakes, an endless variety of prairie reptiles but predominating in numbers were the mountain rattlers. They were tremendous in size and horrible in appearance, many of them being more than twelve feet in length and fourteen and fifteen inches in circumference around the larger parts of the body. Disturbed and their numerous families, running down in size to one or two feet in length, that made the noise.

The preceding warm days had revived them from their torpor sufficiently to permit them to more their tails, and thus they were shaking their rattles in their efforts to escape, and they were coiled in circles and filling the air with the dread

AMONG THE RATTLERS.

buzz. They were not sufficiently thawed out to crawl or more their bodies, and the soldiers killed several hundred of them with forked sticks and fired by revolvers. No less than one hundred of the largest ones were dragged to camp by their forked sticks and fired, and served as trophies of the occasion, or were used to lounge in front of the log huts at comfortable snake story told by the men of the Nineteenth. The writer secured skins measuring over five feet eight inches in length, and twelve inches in girth, this snake having twenty-two rattles and a button, or nine

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MARCH 31, 1892. No 13.

"Support the Constitution, which is the creature of the Union, as well as its limitations as to its authorities."—Madison.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery,
Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street, opposite Post-office.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Real Property attended to. P. O. Box 132. Scotch Plains, N. J., or address in care of The Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES H. TUBBS,
Dentist,
23 West Front street. A new local anesthetic for extracting or filling teeth without pain. Gold fillings a specialty—50-67

JAMES TEALE,
Architect,
37 Broadway, New York city, rooms 32 and 33 (Potter Building, opposite Post-office building). Residence, Plainfield, N. J.—3-61

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. Van Arsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
All instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Orders left at my residence, No. 7 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence, 37 East Front street, corner Elm street.—27-52

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Residence and shop No. 36 East 3d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. 4-49

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—MADISON AVENUE, cor. Front St.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
(Successor to E. B. Maynard.)
PRACTICAL BARBER
and
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at short notice and entirely satisfactory. Shampooing, &c., satisfactorily performed 12-tf

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES.
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of fires can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. Terms Cash. Thanks for past Plainfield and the 1 Cent Store in the Metropolis. We now use the very best of zinc and materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing,
Heater Work, Tinning,
Hardware.

A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL. 6. 11 13-tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.

Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a strictly first-class workmanlike and workmanship manner.
All jobbing executed promptly with the Newest Improvements and Latest Approved Methods. Orders left at my residence, No. 7 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence, 37 East Front street, corner Elm street.
Shop, No. 9 PARK AVE., & 202 Plainfield, N. J.
D. W. LITTELL,

MISCELLANEOUS.

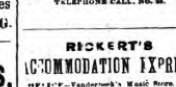
FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. F. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
NEWARK, N. J.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

C. E. & J.W. BROWN,
(Successors to G. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.)
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather and Block Papers, &c. Borders for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables


Front street, opposite Madison avenue
Carriages for Weddings, Funerals and Private use, with light carriages of all descriptions to match.
RIDING OR LIVERY.
Special rate given for keeping of colts or single drivers. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.
TELEPHONE CALL, No. 28.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
Leaves Plainfield—Vanderveer's Mail Route, Park avenue, the one minute before the arrival of the 8:30 A. M. and 5 P. M. trains of the Central Railroad of New Jersey from and to Plainfield, Dunellen, Fanwood, Scotch Plains, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Beautiful Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Gasoline Stoves, Ice Cream Freezers
Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 19 SOMERSET ST. 1-13-tf

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grad e of
Fresh and Salt Meats.
Pork of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished at short notice.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman.
No. 15 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
(Successor to T. J. Gillies,)
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—28 W. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans for Furniture, Goods moved with care at low rates. Orders left at my office will receive prompt attention. P. O. Box 1

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN
17 LaGrande Avenue.
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET,
Will reopen THURSDAY, SEPT. 17, 1891.
The regular course will include Modeling, Drawing and Sewing. 9-13

CIGARS, TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR
The most extensive cigar in the State, and made entirely from the finest Havanas.
CIGAR HAVANA AND DOMESTIC A SPECIALTY.
The only exclusive Key West Cigar Store in the State. Largest assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars. Cigarette and Tobacco always in bond.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in Havana & Domestic
—SEGARS!—
No. 28 PARK AVE., (next to Postoffice) SECOND FLOOR
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smokers' Materials, Grocery Sundries.
The celebrated "Old Judge" smoking Tobacco, with the best coupons attached, constantly on hand.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And Dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco. Also keeps constantly on hand a large assortment of Pipes, Cigars, Cigarettes, &c. All Wholesale and Retail Orders promptly attended to. Factory and Salesroom, 3 and 5 Madison Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES.

Paints, Varnishes, Glass,
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

L. S. WOOLSTON, J. P. BUCKLE,
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers
PAINTERS' SUPPLIES. 30 NORTH AVENUE.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

- Letter Heads,
- Circulars,
- Programme Music
- Addresses,
- Memorials,
- By-Laws of Societies,
- Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation,
- Everything,

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST

DAILY PRESS

(Chautauqua Building).

PLAINFIELD N. J

UNIQUE AND IMPOSING.

California State Building at the World's Fair.

It Will Represent the State's Natural Productions—Quaint and Yet Most Striking Features of the Original Structure.

California is the only state that will come to Chicago with a building whose architecture is all her own, and the visitor will read in the pile that confronts him the whole story of the romantic lives of those who "blazed" the way along this golden shore for the civilization and advancement that has followed.

Inside the portals one will see the California of to-day. Outside one will stand face to face with the California of a day that is dead and gone.

A month ago it was decided to ask for plans. There was a heated discussion as to architectural style and every conceivable kind of a building was mentioned, but at last the commission settled upon the old mission type as best suited to represent the state.

To secure competition from architects the commission offered prizes as follows:

The cost of the structure to be kept as nearly as possible to $80,000 and under no circumstances to exceed $85,000.

As this is a temporary building and we are desirous of getting as good and attractive a building as possible for the money to be expended, it should be borne in mind that all fictitious ornamentation will be unnecessary to make the building perfectly state.

The competitive prizes are as follows:

The author of the plan accepted by this board will be paid the sum of $700 and the further sum of $400 on the approval of the construction drawings of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago.

The author of the second best plan will be paid the sum of $300, and the third, fourth and fifth $200 each.

Should the author of the plan receiving the first prize forthwith, by himself or by some mission to make fully and complete plans, with specifications and working details, be found then receive the further sum of $1,000, or on the cost of construction, not exceeding $75,000, as above, the whole to be paid in three equal parts.

The architects were also told the wishes of the commission as to style, and what the commission met just thirty plans were submitted.

Not one was without merit and unworthy of consideration. Every one was a thing of beauty, and one entire room was occupied by the exhibition.

CALIFORNIA STATE BUILDING AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Finally, by a unanimous vote, the plan submitted by A. Page Brown was accepted.

The accompanying cut gives the best idea of what the building will look like. It possesses all the characteristic features of an exhibition building, and the commission could find nothing that they would desire to have altered. It is California, and it is picturesque.

The effort of the successful architect has produced a building in which the mission stands out above everything, but he has thrown in enough of the more ornate Spanish to take away whatever of somberness attached to the old churches. A great adherence to the mission would not only have made the general effect heavy, but adequate light would not have been afforded. The accepted plans give plenty of room, makes a building that is pleasing to the eye and furnishes light in abundance.

The ground plan gives one immense hall for exhibits. The division into compartments will be made to conform to the extent of the exhibits. Aisles and galleries will follow in the same manner.

The crowning feature of the building is the big dome and the roof garden, which flanks the main entrance. The garden will stand flush with the roofs of the wings, and in it is intended to plant California flowers and shrubs of every variety that can be nursed through the winters. Palms and pepper-trees will be the recreation grounds of the building.

The commercial home furnishes room for a cafe if the commission should desire to have one in the building, or it can be used for special exhibits, though the plans contemplate the placing of exhibits only on the ground floor.

The towers at the four corners and flanking the main entrances are designed after the mission belfries, and some of the old bells will be taken on to be hung there. Each tower is large enough for exhibits should the floors be needed for any thing.

The material of the building will, of course, be wood. The details of the interior arrangement will be determined by the commissioners and the chief of construction.

A Land of Utter Desolation.

Mr. Littledale, who has just crossed the mountainous Pamir in Central Asia, says mountain scenery there is quite different from mountain scenery in Switzerland and Cascasia, where, when the eye is tired of resting on the grand ice scenery, it finds a pleasant change by turning to the green pastures and the lakes below. In Central Asia, however, although the mountains are higher, the glaciers, owing to the puny snowfall, are comparatively small, and the mountains, instead of verdant fields and forests, is a picture of utter desolation that would be hard to match in any other part of the world. The country at the base of the mountain is so high above the sea level that there is very little scanty, and the plains are most forbidding in aspect.

Rent and Grain.

Twenty-two acres of land are needed, to sustain a man on flesh meat, when the same amount of land under wheat feeds 40 people. The rent of every 10 square under potatoes, Indian corn and rice, 176 people, and under the plantain or bread fruit tree, over 4,000 people.

An Insinuation.

Mr. Dissenberry (quite inebriated)—My dear, I couldn't go down that tobogan slide. It would take my breath.

Mrs. Dissenberry—It wouldn't be a bad thing if it did.—Texas Sittings.

A Good Boy.

Fond Mamma (anxiously)—I saw you playing with that new boy across the street. Is he a good boy?

Youngful—Yes, rag'lar chump. —Good News.

Beyond the Bounds.

Lady Visitor—What is that—that person in there?

Jailer—Gubbins. Wife beater.

"O, the brute!"

"But he beat her to death."

"Goodness gracious me! Has the poor fellow anyone who is looking after his comforts?"—Indianapolis Journal.

It Comes High.

Mrs. Dawson—I regret to learn that your daughter's wedding is no better. Of course you have employed the best medical talent?

Mrs. Grubbleson—Oh, you no expense has been spared. We think now of paying this major and some everybody is talking about.—Puck.

Brown It Gently.

Clark—Do you really think, doctor, that I am improved?

Doctor—Decidedly your life for some time to come.

Uncle—Please break this news gently to my nephew. The poor boy will be awfully broken-hearted.

TO LAY AT HER FEET.

What to Give a Fair Young Bride of This Season.

Gifts Suitable and Handsome—Some That Come Under the Head of Fine Trifles in Silver—Presentable and Cost Quotations—Pictures for Homes.

(Copyrighted, 1892.)

The subject of wedding presents is one that lies on almost everyone's heart at this season. We all know somebody that is going to be married, and it is rather convenient to have a list of articles to select from. The price paid vary from $5 to $5,000, but there is just as much variety in gifts to be had for the one price as for the high.

We'll start, then, with $5. For this one can get a very dainty paper and envelope case of white satin, trimmed with graceful bunches of violets. It has three compartments, one above the other, arranged in shape of a writing stand with white sticks, filled in with a deep, full pocket of China silk in a soft light shade. It is equally convenient for a lady's sewing or for notepapers. As a music holder, also, it is very acceptable. The prettiest China vases and porcelain jardinieres can be had for this sum, dainty China silk scarfs, to cover a work basket or the top of the grate fire, with the side adorned with a handsomely embroidered band of flags, or a fine bow on the handle; pretty little bedroom clocks; quaint flower stands; tiny lamps for reading near the bed; silver pen trays, boxes, or chased silver sugar tongs. A cut-glass atomizer, with silver mountings is a nice little gift.

But for a little more—say from $10 to $15—one can get a very pretty little leather letter case with white feathers. The price seems somewhat high till one examines the finely chased field flowers on the silver handle. A young and lovely bride surely could not resist the temptation to dust her valuable bric-a-brac, which she does not want to so near mail, with that little duster.

For a sterling silver shoehorn, marked $10, would be some relief to those on her pretty slippers. There are very pretty manicure sets, with five broad silver knives for serving fish; little jewel cases of porcelain, with Cupid for a driver, in his hand a bunch or spray of forget-me-nots, and his sleigh is sprinkled all over with them; his runners are laid with gold lines. There are, also, porcelain ornaments shaped like a mandolin, with roses and forget-me-nots raised work, forming the decoration. They show to the best advantage laid on a soft plush pad, and are also, like every dainty thing, quaint there. A miniature spinning wheel, suggesting industry, is rather unique. It is of white holly, inlaid with lines of brown, and is a pretty little bright spot. There is a Japanese silver tea tray, with storks flying gracefully over it in all directions; a big, square glove box, made in gray linen, lined with white crepe, and painted with great daisies on the cover; a hand of old gold plush finishes it off. There is an awfully pretty medicine chest in white enamel, all inlaid with a flower design in gold. Around this, again, is a vine of morning glories, painted in natural colors. The small door opens and reveals cubby holes and drawers of all sizes, so that the most anxious wife could keep medicines for almost any known disease, to administer with her own hands to her dearly beloved. I'm sure he'd get better a good deal sooner if he saw her fussing around in these little compartments, just for his sake.

PORCELAIN AND DRESDEN CHINA.

But if you are ambitious to get something a little handsomer and if the amount you have laid apart for your gift is $15 or more you may go to one of the fancy furniture places and get a very pretty chair for the music room or the sitting room. It will be of gilt, the back in the shape of some musical instrument, a harp or violin or some other. The seat is of very rich tapestry or brocade in the old Louis XIV. colors. You can get a pretty little lounging chair for this sum, or even a tete-a-tete, if you get it in simple style; or a great flower holder, which stands on the floor near the fireplace, filled with Lenox ware for roses. The fellow Leeds ware, and is a handsome ornament in almost any room. A Japanese vase, tall and slender, with beautiful gold work; and quaint figures spread closely over it in slightly bewildering confusion after the manner of that race, is also ticketed at $20, and a queer salad set, made of green lettuce leaves of different sizes. The main piece is a big lettuce bend with outstretched leaves and the small pieces of the separate leaves. The edges are ragged, just as they are plucked from the field.

But perhaps $20 is not enough to your estimation to expend on the fair bride of your acquaintance, and you want to get something truly handsome. If so, you will do well to go to Tiffany's and simply order what you want. Then for $30 you can buy a sterling silver bread tray and basket, which will adorn the sideboard of any lady. The basket, also silver; a very pretty cabinet vase, a claret jug, silver mounted, with beautiful cut glass; a tantalus has been well furnished with silver mountings, just the thing for a lying wedding with beautiful bonnets and dresses, with cupids sporting all around, starting all over the vase, tennis players on a silver tray, that my lady can add boxes to and find great pleasure in using; a silver soap dish to put with her toilet articles; a handsome mantel lamp, a crystal and gilt bronze statuette, but even this is but an elegant trifling advertise for proposals as soon as the working plans are completed, with the understanding that all competitive plans for her shall be "home grown." The bids will be opened on the first Tuesday in April, and the active work of construction will be commenced soon after.

MICHIGAN BUILDING.

MR. LINCOLN'S FEET.

Two Picturesque Diplomats Presented by the President's Remarkable Feet.

Numerous relic hunters and curiosity seekers have recently been vainly trying to gain possession of an interesting memento of the martyred president. Mr. Lincoln, says the New York Press. It consists of a big sheet of thick brown paper upon which are drawn the outlines of the martyred president's feet. How this is a relic and in his handwriting will be explained in a moment.

The rough draft was made by the late Dr. F. Bellows of the Unitarian church of New York, at the time that Mr. Lincoln sent for Dr. Bellows, who was a pioneer in what is now termed the "new thought" movement. The doctor had received shoes to fit his feet, and did not feel inclined to mold his feet to fit the shoes.

In order to map out a mountain for his feet the Indian will place his bare foot upon a piece of cardboard and, with his hunting knife cut out the sole, keeping the contour of the foot. The president's instructions were to pursue the Indian method.

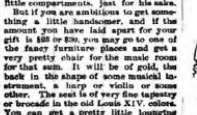
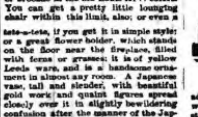
As it was in time of war, and no easy matter to gain an audience with a busy and worried chief executive, Mr. Lincoln sent a card to the doctor, terse and to the point. It read:



The doctor never talked about the interview, but his family gathered from him that it was brief and concise.

The president pulled off his boots, stood upon the sheet of paper, and Dr. Kohler outlined the feet. After the diagram was concluded the president "O K'd" it with his signature and the date like this:



The sheet of paper is now in the possession of Dr. Kohler's heirs, on Broadway, near Thirteenth street, New York, who, despite their indigence and scorn of them extravagantly high, have refused to part with it.

The diagram shows that, like most individuals, his feet varied, the left being somewhat larger than the right, of a different shape, and with most pronounced bunions. The left, however, was distinguished in that the narrower was deformed, which was not the case.

These literal "footprints in the sands of time" are full of character and of marized individuality.

No doubt if the study of the foot was as fully developed as that of palmistry or phrenology, these outlines would furnish a wonderfully interesting subject.

His Name Was Enough.

"I want you to be reliable and always on hand," said a Kentucky gentleman to an old negro whom he had hired.

"Yes, sah."

"Do you know what I tell you."

"Yes, sah."

"I don't mind a man taking a drink now and then, as I do that myself."

"Yes, sah, I knowed dat jes as soon as I laid my eyes on you."—Texas Siftings.

Benighted Superstition.

Mrs. Silmdict—Well, that fellow Longhead, who talked about taking board here, is just about the most superstitious man I ever did hear of. He's actually afraid of geese.

Mail—Ghosts, is it?

Mrs. Silmdict—I see he writes that he has changed his mind about coming, because he's been told that half a dozen geese have been starved to death here.—N. Y. Weekly.

Hard to Accept.

George—Say, John! You've been married several years. How much does it cost a couple to live?

John—Hard to strike an average, George. Sometimes it costs a deal to scrape and borrow, and sometimes hardly anything.

Lily—Horrors! How does that happen?"

"Sometimes we've got a girl, and sometimes we haven't."—N. Y. Weekly.

From Despair to Rejoicing.

Editor—Your manuscript was so badly spelled that we found it almost impossible to make out the sense of it, and—

Literary Aspirant—I—I'm very sorry, sir; I—

Editor—And so we have decided to use it as a French Canadian dialect story. Check will be sent on publication.—Puck.

The Tower That Is.

He—I had such a delightful trip out to California. It happened that I made the acquaintance of the president of the road, who was in the same car, and I was very well treated.

She—What did he do for you; anything special?

He—Oh, yes, indeed. He personally introduced me to the porter.—Life.

The New Reporter.

Mr. Quilldriver (a new reporter)—The storm king hurled his torn and tattering torrents over the ruins of the burned and dismembered edifice.

Editor—What's that? What do you mean, young fellow?

Reporter—The floods washed away Patsy Dugan's old soap factory."—Texas Siftings.

She Didn't Need It.

Proprietor—Look here! What do you mean by telling that young lady that we hadn't any room?

Clerk—I hadn't the heart to sell it to her.

"Eh? What?"

"She blushed like a rose when she asked for it!"—Puck.

Treated So of No Fee.

Stern Parent—I tell you what it is, Martha, I'm tired of seeing that young fellow coming here three evenings a week. I think I shall have to sit down on him.

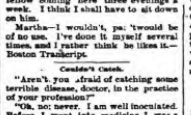
Martha—I wouldn't, pa; 'twould be of no use. I've done it myself several times, and I rather think he likes it.—Boston Transcript.

Couldn't Catch.

"Aren't you afraid of catching some terrible disease, doctor, in the practice of your profession?"

"Oh, no never. I am well inoculated. Before I went into medicine I was a baseball player. Muffed everything."—Judge.

"It's Never Too Late to Mend."



At a Boston Luncheon.

Mr. Dunker (trying to establish a basis of conversation)—A nice cup of tea is very nice. Don't you think so?

Miss Hill—I cannot quite agree with you. A nice cup of tea, may be nice, but it takes a very nice cup of tea to be very nice.—Chicago Tribune.

Complete Extravagance.

Jones—I saw a sculptor last night who would give you two different kinds of drink out of the same bottle.

Brown—Feeble ambition, say boy. We've a grocer in our street who can sell you three kinds of tea out of the same box.—Jury.

DEMOCRATIC WIGWAM.

Plans of the Hall for the National Convention.

Description of the Great Building—The Arrangements for the Speakers and Delegates—Beautiful Lake Front—Cost of the Spacious Hall.

A. M. Allen, who has the contract for the erection of the big wigwam in which will house the democratic national convention, has submitted his plans to the committee of arrangements of the Chicago Iroquois club. The structure will be located on the east side of Michigan avenue, between Washington and Madison streets extended. It will have a frontage on Michigan avenue of 400 feet and will be 450 feet deep. It will be made of wood and, according to the plans, will be attractive in appearance. There will be a tower surrounded by a dagstaff at each corner, and the entrances will be ornamented to an extent that they can be appropriately decorated with flags and bunting. There will be an abundant supply of windows, so that there will be no lack of light or fresh air. The structure will be fifty feet in height.

EXTERIOR VIEW OF THE WIGWAM.

Apparently the arrangement of the interior of the wigwam is complete. There will be no seats on the Michigan avenue side, and will be large enough to accommodate 800 persons. Immediately in front of the stage will be the rostrum for the officers of the convention and the speakers, and directly in front of this platform will be the desks for the official stenographers. On the right and left of the officers of the convention will be seats and tables for 200 newspaper men. The first row of seats for the representatives of the press will be six inches above the main floor and the last two feet, so that all can see and hear. The pit or main portion of the floor will be level and will contain 800 seats to be occupied by the delegates. This portion, together with the stage, will represent one section of the hall. There will be two large aisles twelve feet wide on each side of the stage leading to the delegates' seats. The entrance to these aisles will open onto the street, and no one will be permitted to enter at these doors except delegates, newspaper men and those holding seats on the stage. The remainder of the ground floor will be divided into four portions and each will contain 3,000 seats. There will be a fourteen-foot walk on the north and one on the south side of the building, and there will be a thirteen-foot entrance to each section. There will be no way of passing from one section to another except by going out of the building and entering by another door. The entrance will be on the north and south sides of the building, and the stairways will be perfectly straight. The seats outside the pit will be arranged in semi-circular form. The front row will be slightly elevated and the tiers will rise gradually, the last pine being twenty-four feet above the floor of the stage. The roof and gallery will be supported by large pillars, which will be placed in such a way as to obstruct the view of the audience.

MICHIGAN AVE
GROUND FLOOR ARRANGEMENTS.

No special seats will be assigned to the alternates, but they will be scattered about in the audience. Each section will be guarded by officers, and aisles, and additional exits will be provided, to be used only in case of an emergency.

The gallery will be divided into two sections and will be practically independent of the floor space of the building. Each section will be reached by a stairway thirty-two feet wide leading straight up from the main floor. The entrances will be through the lowers in the rear.

On account of the Illinois Central tracks being in the rear of the building there will be no windows in the east wall. Ordinary chairs will be provided for seats.

The estimated cost of the structure is $50,000.

Mirrors Made of Wood.

In Germany good with a mirror polish be made from wood as a substitute for metal in the finishing of ornamental work. In order to make the wood resemble glass, it is finely polished and then first be submitted to bath of caustic alkali for two days, the bath being kept at a temperature of 175 degrees Fahrenheit all the while. Next it is soaked in a solution of hydro-sulphate of calcium for from twenty-four to thirty-nine hours. The third dip is into a bath of concentrated solution of sulphur. The dip is into a solution of acetate of lead at a temperature of 190 degrees. After being thoroughly dried the wood is polished with a metallic surface imparted to it, which is done by giving it a rubbing with flour powdered fine. Wood thus prepared and treated in the above manner, it is said, will take a polish almost equal to that so often imparted to steel, silver or nickel.

Always the Quarrel.

He—Maud—I—should like to walk home with you, if you will let me.

She—Impossible—You may, if papa gives his permission.

He—Ah! Maud—I'll ask him. Where is he?

She—He went to Chicago last night.—Harper's Bazar.

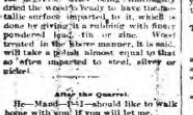
One Forgave Him.

Wife—You've been drinking again. Husband—Can't help it, my dear—make me shappy, m'dear.

"Huh! Makes you happy, eh? I'd like to know why."

"Bekkersh I she two of you, m'dear."—Texas Siftings.

A Leap Year Incident.



"Annie Marian, have you made many proposals of marriage yet?"

"Nor, many; but the year is still young, Father."—Jury.

Worth Keeping.

Father of Family—Madam, what does this mean? Our daughter is alone in the parlor with a young man, and it's after eleven o'clock! I shall go right down and kick the fellow out.

Mother (quietly)—She came up about half an hour ago and asked for two pairs of scissors.

"Huh! What in creation did she want them for?"

"She said she was going to help him clip coupons."

"Whew! I'll go right down and lock the doors so he can't get away."—Good News.

It Was All Right.

Hotel Clerk—I'm sorry a thousand dollar bill the smallest thing you have about you?

Departing Guest—I am afraid it is.

Clerk (to bell boy)—Here, take this bill out to one of the waiters and ask him to change it.—Life.

Museum Amenities.

Armless Wonder—Why don't you quit ridin' next Sunday wid me?

Circassian Beauty (tearfully)—Naw; won't do good—even if yer can drive wid yer feet.—Puck.

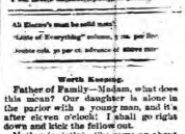
Early Rise-ay.

Toting—Why is his wife raised Cain.

Dunling—Whose wife?

Toting—Adam's.—Jury

"A MAN WITH A FULL."



—Life.

He Was Used to It.

At a social gathering in Harlem a lady remarked to Col. Mountain Howitzer:

"There is nothing, in my opinion, so terrible as a sudden death by violence."

"O, we military men are so accustomed to that sort of thing that we don't think anything of it," replied Col. Howitzer.—Texas Siftings.

Perfectly Willing.

Reporter—Mr. Bigwig, Marshall wishes to print your picture in to-morrow's issue. Will you let us have a photograph?

Important Star—Certainly. Marie, where's that portrait I had taken on my desk. There will be a fourteen-foot walk on the north and one on the south side of the building, and there will be a thirteen-foot entrance to each section. There will be no way of passing from one section to another except by going out of the building and entering by another door. The entrance will be on the north and south sides of the building, and the stairways will be perfectly straight. The seats outside the pit will be arranged in semi-circular form. The front row will be slightly elevated and the tiers will rise gradually, the last pine being twenty-four feet above the floor of the stage. The roof and gallery will be supported by large pillars, which will be placed in such a way as to obstruct the view of the audience.

MICHIGAN AVE
GROUND FLOOR ARRANGEMENTS.

No special seats will be assigned to the alternates, but they will be scattered about in the audience. Each section will be guarded by officers, and aisles, and additional exits will be provided, to be used only in case of an emergency.

The gallery will be divided into two sections and will be practically independent of the floor space of the building. Each section will be reached by a stairway thirty-two feet wide leading straight up from the main floor. The entrances will be through the lowers in the rear.

On account of the Illinois Central tracks being in the rear of the building there will be no windows in the east wall. Ordinary chairs will be provided for seats.

The estimated cost of the structure is $50,000.

Mirrors Made of Wood.

In Germany good with a mirror polish be made from wood as a substitute for metal in the finishing of ornamental work. In order to make the wood resemble glass, it is finely polished and then first be submitted to bath of caustic alkali for two days, the bath being kept at a temperature of 175 degrees Fahrenheit all the while. Next it is soaked in a solution of hydro-sulphate of calcium for from twenty-four to thirty-nine hours. The third dip is into a bath of concentrated solution of sulphur. The dip is into a solution of acetate of lead at a temperature of 190 degrees. After being thoroughly dried the wood is polished with a metallic surface imparted to it, which is done by giving it a rubbing with flour powdered fine. Wood thus prepared and treated in the above manner, it is said, will take a polish almost equal to that so often imparted to steel, silver or nickel.

Always the Quarrel.

He—Maud—I—should like to walk home with you, if you will let me.

She—Impossible—You may, if papa gives his permission.

He—Ah! Maud—I'll ask him. Where is he?

She—He went to Chicago last night.—Harper's Bazar.

One Forgave Him.

Wife—You've been drinking again. Husband—Can't help it, my dear—make me shappy, m'dear.

"Huh! Makes you happy, eh? I'd like to know why."

"Bekkersh I she two of you, m'dear."—N. Y. Weekly.

A Leap Year Incident.

"Annie Marian, have you made many proposals of marriage yet?"

"Nor, many; but the year is still young, Father."—Jury.

Rates of Advertising.

Space	1 week	1 month
1 inch	$1 00	$3 00
2 inches	1 75	5 00
3 inches	2 50	7 00
4 inches	3 25	9 00
5 inches	4 00	11 00
6 inches	4 75	13 00
7 inches	5 50	15 00
8 inches	6 25	17 00
9 inches	7 00	19 00
10 inches	7 75	21 00
11 inches	8 50	23 00
12 inches	9 25	25 00

All Electro's must be solid metal.
Notice of Marriages, Deaths, &c., per line.
Notice cols. 50 per ct. advance on above rates.

The Constitutionalist.

W. FORCE, A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and selected the City of Chicago as the place for holding the national Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation thereto equal to double the number of its representatives to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE Chairman.
SIMON P. SHERRIX, Secretary.

ISSUES FALSE AND TRUE.

It is folly to urge the question of Free Silver Coinage as a Democratic party issue at the present time, for the sensible reason, that Democrats are greatly divided in regard to the practical utility of the measure.

Doubtless much can be said for and against free silver bill as introduced into Congress, but until it can command more unanimity of support, wisdom bids that it be laid aside for mature consideration, and, possibly, acceptable amendment.

There are Democratic issues of vital importance and for which the party is a unit.

TARIFF REFORM and PUBLIC ECONOMY are the popular questions for 1892. The true Democratic issues.

A tariff based upon equal rights and practical business intelligence, framed to advance the interests of labor and all industrial pursuits, to develope the varied resources of our country, to protect and encourage with even-handed justice Agriculture, Commerce and Manufactures, to antagonize class privileges and monopolistic greed, is a genuine Democratic issue.

And to limit the expenditure of public money to essential purposes, thereby stopping the flow of public treasure into greed and waste, is another Democratic issue of sterling worth.

With such a platform, and a Presidential candidate of proven ability and unsullied reputation, the Democratic party will sweep the land next November.

THE NEXT GOVERNORSHIP.

The Governor to be elected in New Jersey this fall will be the largest of appointments in the State, the most important being that of Chancellor, the term of Chancellor McGill expiring May 1, 1894. In the same year Justice Depue and Magee, both Democrats, come at the end of their terms, and in 1895 that of Justice Garrison Dem ocratic, will expire. Of the lay members of the Court of Errors, Judge Clement is prominent in 1894 and Judge Smith in 1895.

Among other coveted appointments to be made by him are two members of the State Board of Assessors. The Supervisor and all the State Prison Inspectors, State Fuel ty Inspector, State Librarian, Chief of the State Live Stock Bureau and various Commissioners and members of Boards, together with Law and Equity Judges and Prosecutors in nearly every county of the State. Included in this are the Law Judge and Prosecutor in Essex. Judge Keasbey's term ending in 1895 and Prosecutor Carey's in 1894.

The last Republican Governor elected in New Jersey was Marcus L. Ward, who served from 1866 to 1869. The Democratic Governor elected at the same time, and most of the State will, therefore, have continued uninterruptedly for twenty-four years when Gov. Abbett's second term shall have expired. The names of Randolph, Parker, Bedle, McClellan, Ludlow, Abbett and Green are associated during that period with the best acts of the State. There is but a single act on the long Democratic administration.

With this honorable record the people of New Jersey are not at all likely to go back to a Republican Governorship again. The appointments to be made will almost certainly fall to the lot of a Democratic ex-active, and in all probability there will be a Democratic Senate to every case to confirm the appointments.—Newark Journal.

PARTY PRESS IN NEW JERSEY.

There are 303 newspaper publications in New Jersey, an increase of seven within a year. Of these seventy are Democratic, seventy-four Republican and sixty professedly independent. In New Jersey nearly all so-called independent papers have Republican tendencies, most of them being owned and edited by Republicans. Twenty-four of the newspapers of the State are printed in the German language.

It is a tribute to the Democratic press of the state that while it is true in the minority in respect to numbers it is in a considerable majority in its influence on political thought in the State. In an interview with Hon. Cushman Cochran of the Republican National Committee, himself an editor of marked ability, frankly acknowledged the superior influence of the Democratic press of the country, and gave as a reason the fact that they were better out and than the Republican newspapers.

Chairman Clarkson might have added another reason, namely, that Democratic papers had a better cause to advocate; but the best cause needs able defenders, and can be lost by blundering advocacy. The intelligent success of Democratic measures and principles in New Jersey, with a minority of Democratic newspapers, can therefore be fairly quoted as a tribute to the influence of the Democratic press as an evidence of the truth of Mr. Clarkson's ex l edness on his party press.—Newark Journal.

Furniture and Carpets.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of Stelling & Co., 218 and 220 Market street, Newark. They announce that they are ready for Spring trade with a large stock of furniture and carpets, the variety, quality, and cost being equ ted anywhere in the State, and at actual cost. They have also a fine stock of baby carriages, which it will pay parents to examine, and satisfy yourself as to style and prices.

I was persuaded by a friend to try "Salvation Oil" for neuralgia and headache, it relieved me in a few minutes. One application. I cheerfully recommend it to all who likewise suffer. G. H. BREE.

DEAD WITH NO GOOD-BYE.

Robert L. Livingston, ex-Chief Engineer of the Plainfield Council, ex-Fire Commissioner, Third-Grand Supreme Recorder, Beloved Husband and Father, Jovial Companion and Enthusiastic Sportsman, Expires in Bed at Midnight Without a Word.

(From The Press of March 31.)

Many and many a heart is sad to-day over the sudden death of Robert L. Livingston, or "Genial Bob"—as his hosts of chosen friends were privileged to call him—and the entire community is full of sincere sympathy for the bereaved wife, and daughter of one of nature's noblemen who shortly after 11 last night, died in his bed at his home, 105 Broadway, without awakening from the quiet slumber he had lain down to but a few short hours before in good health and the vigor of spirits.

It was just about midnight when Mrs. Livingston was aroused by her husband's labored breathing and mutterings. She thought it might be a nightmare and lightly shook him. Failing to awaken him she called her son, Harry Sandford, who with his wife is visiting at his step-father's house. But the latter could not be aroused and died within an hour after. There is no apparent cause for death. Dr. E. W. Hedges thought it might have been the result of the rupture of a blood-vessel in the head and the consequent flooding of the brain and apoplexy.

During the evening Mr. Livingston was in particularly good spirits. William E. McClure of Crescent avenue, and Albert V. Nolen of Broadway, called, and all enjoyed a social chat and partook of refreshments of the plain but substantial order that included fishing trips of which Mr. Livingston was passionately fond.

Robert Lord Livingston was born in Elizabethtown, Essex county, New York, in the heart of the Adirondacks, March 1, 1838. He was in the fire insurance business. He was the son of five children, and his father, Robert W. Living-ton, who was hale and hearty at the age of seventy-five, was a veteran of the war of the rebellion, from which he received wounds which crippled him for life. The latter started in Elizabethtown, the Elizabethtown Post, before the birth of Robert, who afterwards served an apprenticeship to the printing business. A brother of the deceased now owns the paper.

At the age of eighteen, Robert L. went to Troy, and engaged as a clerk in a retail dry goods store, continuing there three years, then removing to New York, where he entered the wholesale dry goods establishment of C. W. & J. T. Moore & Co., from 1855 to 1868. The Moores failed in the panic of 1857, and Mr. Livingston continued with their successors. The next five years he spent in Wall street speculations, from which he acquired a handsome sum, but lost the bulk of it in the panic of 1873. Mr. Livingston then entered the insurance business in New York, in which he was still engaged. Before removing to Plainfield he lived a few years in Westfield. He has been a resident of Plainfield since 1876, has been three years a member of the Plainfield common council, during one term of which he was its president, although a Democrat. His record in the council is that of a thoroughly up hum man in everything with which he had any connection. He was also a member of the late board of fire commissioners, and of Alert Hose Company.

He was elected a senator of this State in 1884 and was chairman of the committee on Banking Fund, and a member of the committees on Militia, Miscellaneous Business, Unfinished Business, and Labor and Industries.

He leaves a wife and a daughter, Laura, both of whom are widely known in the church and charitable work of the city, and highly esteemed in social circles everywhere. He was a thirty-second degree mason and a Knight Templar of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum. The funeral arrangements are not yet perfected. They will be announced in these columns tomorrow.

MORE BILLS SIGNED.

Governor Abbett Affixes His Signature to Another Batch of Laws.

The following bills were signed by the governor Thursday and filed in the office of the secretary of State:

Assembly No. 8, limits the fees in cases of committing trustee to twenty-five cents for the justice and fifty cents for the constable.

Assembly No. 360, provides for the raising of sufficient taxes to pay interest on bonded debt of towns, and also at least three and one-third per centum of the principal of such debt. The salaries of town officers are fixed as follows: Town clerk, $1,000; members of town council, $500; town collector, $1,000; town treasurer, $1,000; recorder, $200; assessor, $1,000.

Assembly No. 81, requires every policy holder or owner of a policy of insurance to keep a docket in which shall be recorded every warrant issued and committment made.

Assembly No. 251, prohibits the killing of pheasants for three years.

Senate No. 160, provides for the appointment by the Governor of a State Board of Arbitration, which shall adjust all labor difficulties; said Board to consist of five members for terms of five years, to receive $10 per day of actual service.

Senate No. 220, gives stockholders of any bank or banking institution one vote for each share of stock held.

Senate No. 107, provides that where a street or highway forms a boundary line between two municipalities, the improvements of said road shall be borne equally by each municipality.

A HOUSEHOLD REMEDY.

ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS are the only reliable plasters ever produced. Fragrant, clean, inexpensive, and effective; they fully meet all the requirements of a household remedy, and should always be kept on hand. For the relief and cure of weak back, weak muscles, lameness, stiff or enlarged joints, pains in the chest, small of the back and around the hips, strains, sciatica, and all local pains, ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS are unequaled.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by interested druggists, who say "just as good," or the reason the fact that they were better oil and than the Republican newspapers.

Chairman Clarkson might have added another reason, namely, that Democratic papers had a better cause to advocate; but the best cause needs able defenders, and can be lost by blundering advocacy. The intelligent success of Democratic measures and principles in New Jersey, with a minority of Democratic newspapers, can therefore be fairly quoted as a tribute to the influence of the Democratic press as an evidence of the truth of Mr. Clarkson's editorial on his party press.—Newark Journal.

Furniture and Carpets.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of Stelling & Co., 218 and 220 Market street, Newark. They announce that they are ready for Spring trade with a large stock of furniture and carpets, the variety, quality, and cost being equ ted anywhere in the State, and at actual cost. They have also a fine stock of baby carriages, which it will pay parents to examine, and satisfy yourself as to style and prices.

I was persuaded by a friend to try "Salvation Oil" for neuralgia and headache, it relieved me in a few minutes. One application. I cheerfully recommend it to all who likewise suffer. G. H. BREE.

MORE NEW LAWS.

Governor Abbett Affixes His Signature to Another Batch of Bills.

The following bills were signed by His Excellency Governor Abbett, yesterday, and filed with the Clerk:

Assembly bill 49, supplement to the orphan's court law. Provides that executors must notify owners that they are performing their work.

Assembly bill 199, enlarges the powers of boards of health.

Assembly bill 241, fixes mileage at four cents per mile each way to be paid petit jurors in addition to the present per diem.

Assembly bill 273, provides that any person carrying a concealed weapon shall be deemed a disorderly person.

Assembly bill 308, provides that in case of contagion local boards of health shall have power to appropriate sufficient funds to meet the expenses thereof.

Senate bill 239, a supplement to an act entitled "an act to regulate the practice of medicine and surgery to license physicians and surgeons, and to punish persons violating the provisions thereof," approved May 12, 1880.

A Riding Ring and Skating Rink for the Park Club.

The Park club intend building a riding ring on their grounds in North Plainfield. The building may also be used for indoor skating rink, and the ring may be floored for skating next winter.

What a Man Wears.

If you are interested in knowing where to go for real good value in men's wear, it may be wise to keep in mind the name of I. S. Plant & Co., of the Newark "Bee Hive," who have a large line in the way of neckwear, collars, cuffs, dress suits, umbrellas, shoes and things of a like nature. They have retail store at 764 Broad street, and as a rule at a better schedule of prices than many of the exclusive establishments.

Balmy Breezes, Sweet Perfumes, Sunny Skies.

TEXAS, MEXICO, ARIZONA AND CALIFORNIA.

Reduced round-trip tickets now on sale via IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE to the famous resorts of Texas, Mexico, Arizona and California. Stop-over privileges will be allowed in the States of Arkansas and Texas. For tickets and further information, apply to or address W. E. HOYT, Gen'l E. P. A. 291 Broadway, New York.

The New Prima Donna to Sing Here.

Miss Margaret Reid, who is to sing at the Monday night concert, May 2, made her first appearance on any stage at the Metropolitan opera house, New York city, the other evening, when she sang in connection with the cast in the place of Miss Van Zandt, who was suddenly taken ill. The New York papers without exception, accorded her a distinct success and announced her appearance as the debut of a new prima donna.

Associates the Bar Catcher.

Considerable excitement was caused on West Front street Saturday night by a row between the dog catcher and an irate citizen of Fanwood. The official had caught the dog and was leading it away when an appeared and objected. A war of words ensued, in the midst of which the Fanwood man struck the dog catcher on the nose. The dog catcher kept the dog and has him under lock and key, and captain Grant has a warrant for the Fanwood man's arrest.

Dentists Mitchell on Tramps.

The Rev Charles H. Mitchell of the Plainfield M. E. church says: "It is neither wisdom nor charity to feed a tramp. The whole lazy brood would soon quit begging if other people would quit feeding them for nothing. The old principle—never turn a man hungry away from your door"—was commendable before those nests of lazy fellows undertook to live on it for by hearing from door to door We must seek the worthy poor The unworthy will seek us."

Second New Jersey Brigade Reunion.

The Fifth annual reunion of the Second New Jersey Brigade society, including the New Jersey regiments 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 11th, Maxwell's old 1st and 11th, New York 21st and 120th, Pennsylvania 95th and 115th, Maine First Heavy Artillery, and B tery B, Clark's, will be held at the Continental hotel, Philadelphia. The society will convene in Vanhouten Post Room G A R, City Hall, at 11 a. m. sharp. After the transaction of the business of the society, a banquet will be spread. The Hon Edward F. McDonald, of the 7th N J, will deliver the address of the day. Edmund Tweedy, U. S. Marshal, baker, of the 11th N J, will read a poem. Generals Sickles, 8 well, Ruting, Hon. Frank Coles and others will be present and address the society.

Governor Abbett Signs a Dozen More Bills.

The following bills with nine others, the official signature of Governor Abbett, attached to them yesterday, and are now laws:

Assembly No 143 An act of great importance to the insurance agents of this State. It provides that the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance shall provide a blank contract or policy of fire insurance Continued to Second Page.

Assembly No 364, prohibits bathing in waters of this State during certain months.

Dr. Ketcham and Church Dissensions.

[From The Newark Daily Advertiser.]

TO THE DAILY ADVERTISER:—In justice to the Rev. Dr. Ketcham, who has many friends among your readers, will you allow the writer to say a few words in relation to the article concerning him in Saturday's advertiser:

Dr. Ketcham's determination to ask for a dissolution of the pastoral relation was formed before any trouble manifested itself in the choir. Though he deeply regretted the action of the organist and music which resulted in the resignation of the organist, he is not a man to allow those feelings among the members of the choir to influence him in so serious a matter. He had not completed this step for a long time, and finally insisted upon it so strongly, that there seemed but one course left open for him to pursue. Each year ably and in willing he repeatedly requested his congregation to offer no opposition to the granting of his application, but the welfare and harmony of the church should be endeavored. So the light of his friends were in a measure veiled, and the wish for peace and his request was practically unanimous.

No other or other officer of the church, said one more before the Presbytery in dispensation of the organist, the organ, or the music. The latter has been of a very high order and acceptable to pastor and people. Dr. Ketcham himself regard the organist, and also the singers, until the present year, performing this duty with care minded taste and zeal.

THOS. SOMP.

PLAINFIELD, March 28.

Friday evening, April 8, Chief Sidney E. Fisher of Plainfield, Sergeant Judge of Grand Order of Red Men, will read before his brothers the original report of Columbus to his sovereign on the discovery of America.

THE HEART BOWED DOWN.

[From The Baltimore American.]

This life is not an empty dream,
Though many of mankind
Who make good gaily ride before the others
trudge behind,
Some all the sweets of life enjoy, and others
only sorrow,
Some all their troubles from away, while others only borrow.

Some seem to meet goods to be broken but others may rejoice,
Some live noble, others die dismal to please mother's choice,
But grieve not thou, O weary soul, the day is coming soon,
When all shall be made even and arrives in the vessel place.

Then other time up, O fainting heart, 'tis
but a troubling world,
And lowers come and lowerings, and leave no recognition,
And as the wheel of fate turns round, some ride above by tire,
While others, prostrate, lie beneath, crushed in the mud and mire.

And who can tell perhaps to-day, thou shalt be exalted too,
And while again in pleasure's hall, with careless step and free,
For those who laugh, for the world laughs too,
but not for those who sorrow,
So thou go forth with smiling faces greet the coming morrow.

HARRY C. NEWTON.

PLAINFIELD, N.J.

THE TROLLEY'S THE THING.

Horses Betterpe are Abused and Always Will Be.

The following from this week's message of the Mayor of Newark, will be of interest to Plainfield people because it is the Newark capitalists who built the model trolley road there and who are to build the trolley road here:

"The demand for rapid transit is still popular. That the present rapid transit character of the city would be willing to forgo the car companies to send cars propelled by electricity through Broad and Market streets at the rate of twelve miles an hour every two minutes, is evinced by their constantly increasing demands.

"To ascertain if it is possible to please all parties and save our broad streets from being defaced by poles and wires, I have examined the methods in many and distant cities, and the results are summed up in an address delivered by George W. Mansfield, of Attleboro, Mass., before the sixth annual meeting of the Ohio State Road Railway Association, held in Pittsburg in October last. The age her s-kl:

"There is not in my knowledge to-day a single railway corporation owning and operating storage batteries solely for what there is in it. Those who believe there ever will be, is now counted that irrigation has interfered with their development. This is absurd. With the improvements in the art which we have made during the past year, I am sure we think that the powerful corporations was here assembled of thousands of dollars in experiment would easily abandon them and devote their energies to a system when they could spend as much as an equal amount in introducing and exploiting, fighting their way inch by inch throughout the country?

Had there been the slightest promise or intimate merit in the system it would have been one this to every city in the land, litigation or no litigation. Experiments in such directions are for the blind and unthinking. For years I have believed that the storage battery for use should be replaced by the overhead position with the air, gas and wind motors. I am more confirmed in this belief than ever.

There are some grouches for hope in the direction of an underground or surface system. But the objections to the latter are enormous sounding on every side for the overhead system.

6,200 cars, operated over 1,000 miles of track in the streets of fully 200 of our towns and cities, surely testify to its merits and value.

It should be understood that if rapid transit is secured, in the present condition of experimental electricity, it will be by the overhead or trolley system.

Baseball Notes.

Warner of Lost ers on's Senators will catch for the Westfield A. C.

There is no chance that the Somervilles won't get Gilroy as pitcher, after all.

Carbonell will again play center field for the West Ends of Somerville.

The dates of the games between the Crescents and N. J. A. C. are Wednesday, June 29 at Plainfield, and Wednesday, August 10, at Bergen Point.

Mileage Tickets Interchangeable.

The latest order of the passenger agent of the Port Reading railroad company is to the effect that mileage tickets issued by the Central railroad of New Jersey will be accepted on the Port Reading road on all portions of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad, (Main Line, Williamsport, Eastern and Northern Divisions) and Northern Railroad of New Jersey, and all Old Highlands, via steamer, or between Perth Amboy and Point Pleasant, also on all portions of the Eastern and Northern divisions of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad, except between Jacksontown and Bound Brook.

Mileage tickets issued by the Philadelphia and Reading railroad company will be accepted within their time limits on all portions of the Central railroad of New Jersey, except between Bound Brook and New York, and Atlantic Highlands, via steamer, or between Perth Amboy and Point Pleasant, and on the West Jersey and Atlantic Railroad, and Delaware Bay Railroad, and Delaware River Railroad, except between Jacksontown and Bound Brook.

Mileage tickets issued by either the Central railroad of New Jersey, Philadelphia and Reading railroad, for Lehigh Valley railroad will be accepted on the Atlantic City railroad.

No Reversal in the Rosen Case.

To-day, Councilor C A Marsh had this to say to a representative of THE PRESS respecting certain statements in print:

"For more than a week down to last night, the newspapers have been sounding the praises of Johnny Loud's case. John C. Rose's legal ability, his tact, etc., and people have come to believe that in some mysterious manner the decision of the Supreme Court and the Prerogative would in favor of John C. Moore in the will cases have been reversed. I do not know how long this false song has been sung, but in the interest of truth let me say briefly that all this talk comes out of a motion in a suit to foreclose a mortgage given by William Rosen to his father, John C. Rose, and not dispute the mortgage, but put in any defense to the suit. The mortgage had not been paid, and the property was sold for the amount due to pay the mortgage, with enough to pay the costs. The property sold for $9,200, being more than enough to pay the mortgage in terms and costs. Afterwards, Mr. Moore filed objections to the confirmation of the sale and asked to have the property sold over again, to make room for him to pay the mortgage and the purchaser moved to confirm the sale already made. The only question on the motion was whether the sale already made should stand, or another sale be ordered. The vice chancellor, after looking into the matter, considered the sale already made a fair one, and that there was no gross inadequacy of price, and therefore the sale was confirmed.

"There has been no reversal of the decision in the case, and the Court of Errors and Appeals and the Supreme Court and the Prerogative court, and on the contrary the only issue was as to the motion to question the finality of those decisions. It was paid $1,500 and costs in motion."

—Eighty plates have been ordered for the Royal Arcanum dinner at The Alden, April 25, and fifty plates for the Easter lodge dinner on the 20th at the same place.

ALL THE WORLD TALKS

Of the Tourist of Probably Record Breaking Length.

Council on the License Question.

The exodus of hotel proprietors from Plainfield because of the license vagaries of the local authorities, police and mental, says the New York Hotel Mail, is what was recently said by some eminent hotel men on the subject of hotels and licenses.

Some hotels were prosecuted on information against those that a hotel of the first-class could not be successfully run on a temperance basis, and this not only, and light wines and ale-by, because of the prejudice of such a concern, but because part, we have a habit of expecting to buy what solid and liquid refreshment they want in a house of public entertainment, and any restrictions in this matter they regard as a trespass on their inalienable rights.

Hotel men do not as a rule conduct houses for fun, and naturally when business in one place does not promise adequate returns they establish themselves elsewhere, as the Plainfield hotel men have done. In short, the authorities have driven them from the town. It seems then that Plainfield does not want any hotels, and has no desire to entertain strangers within her gates. If this is the view of her city-ne, he communities round about have no case to quarrel with her. It is just so much in their pockets.

The Boat to be Laid With Pure Water at Last.

The property recently purchased by eminent postmaster F. A. Page, and published in the s columns, on Sixth street west of Park avenue, is to be occupied principally by the stables for a large numbered of horses and carts to be used during the coming season in thoroughly watering the streets of the city on this side of the railroad. The water will be taken from the Middlesex and Somerset canal.

Town Won't in Book Into Sheriff Hicks, by virtue of several writs of judgment directed to him, will expose for salest the court-house in Elizabeth, Wednesday afternoon, May 4, at 2 o'clock, all the land and premises on which the Hands together with the City Hotel at Second street and Park avenue.

The judgments are held by the following: Patrick Lynch (3), Craig & Mitchell (2), Thomas Callahan, F. J. Carey, Mary Loughlin, Margaret J. Cadmus, Charles A. Reed, Daniel H. Terry and Daniel S. Robbins. The sale is to satisfy these judgments, and won't leave much of a balance for Johnny.

It's Dr Searles and Dr. Rice, Now.

Frank S. Searles of North Plainfield was graduated an M. D. from the Long Island College hospital last Thursday, together with William F. Rice of Somerset street. The new M. D.'s were members of a class of 64. The commencement exercises were held in the Brooklyn Academy of Music. The members of the faculty of the Board of Regents of the college were upon the stage, with a number of well-known physicians. Thomas S. Moore presided. Dr. Joseph H. Raymond, secretary of the faculty, presented the candidates for graduation, who represented all parts of this country and Nova Canada, Scotia d, the West Indies and Germany. Dr. A. J. C. Skene, dean of the faculty, administered the Hippocratic oath. Dr. Raymond then conferred the degree on each of the candidates by Dr. Joel W. Hyde. Dr. Jerome Beers Thomas, jr. received the valley gold medal for the best essay. Drs. Searles, Hayley Thomas, McNamara and Moore were appointed interns at the hospital, as the result of examination. Dr. William Francis Campbell delivered the valedictory. The address to the graduates was made by the Rev. Dr. Robert H. Meredith, of the Long Island Avenue Congregational church.

To unfortun-te chronic coughers we recommend the timely use of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup 25 cents.

THE TRAIN BOY'S BET,

AN AMUSING SKETCH BY

CAPTAIN CHARLES KING,

APPEARS IN

"THE TOURIST" FOR MARCH,

In one page with a poem by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, and a wealth of travel sketches and resort news.

With each subscription is given a copy of a beautiful book on "WINTER RESORTS." Send $1 for "Tourist" and 50 cents for six months, to WALTER I CLARK special agent, Lock box 707, Plainfield, N. J. Sample copy, 10 cents.

THE PLAINFIELD

PACKING HOUSE!

25 West Front Street,

Would respectfully inform the patrons that in addition to its usual stock of

Fresh, Salt and Smoked Goods,

It has added a full line of

Fresh Beef, Lamb,

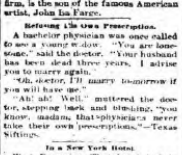
Veal, Mutton & Poultry,

Which it is prepared to sell at

Reasonable Prices!

Agrees all goods delivered free of charge.

C. M. ULRICH, Prop'r.



AT BEDTIME I TAKE A PLEASANT CURE

CASCARET LAXATIVE MEDICINE

HIGHEST IN THE WORLD.

Proposed Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York.

The Grandest Church Structure Ever Planned in America—Estimates of Its Sanctuary—The Men Who Designed It.

We here with reproduce from Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper an architectural view of the proposed new cathedral of St. John the Divine which is to be erected on the ancient Morningside Heights, and One Hundred and Tenth street, New York, within two blocks of the Bellevue river and less than half a mile from the site of the Grant monument. Our picture is from the accepted design of Messrs. Heins and La Farge. The site is in the most elevated and picturesque portion of New York, and the cathedral will occupy it when completed, an eminence which will give it great conspicuity. The plans contemplate a structure with an altitude of 325 feet, which will make it next to the Eiffel tower, St. Peter's, in Rome, in point of height. While the cathedral at Cologne is 510 feet high.

The design, as finally adopted, includes a general groundplan in the form of a cross, the arms of which form nave, chancel and transepts, having each a central and two outside aisles. The exterior design is that of a large central tower crowned with a spire. In the four angles of the cross are four flanking towers with entrances. At the west front are two large towers.

The following will be the dimensions of this great structure: Total external length, 520 feet; width across front, 190 feet, width across transepts, 290 feet; height of central spire, 462 feet from floor, and 548 from level of the city, the difference between these points being that the building will occupy an abrupt elevation, as approached from the city. The nave is higher than the street, width of front towers, 87 feet; height of front towers, 240 feet; width of four flanking towers, 46 feet; height of these flanking towers, 160 feet; total exterior diameter of central tower, 116 feet; total interior diameter of central tower, 96 feet; height of the vaulting, 200 feet; depth of chancel, 120 feet; width of nave and chancel to centers of piers, 60 feet; length of nave, 160 feet; width of front towers, 116 feet; height of nave vaults, 105 feet; height of chancel vaults, 115 feet; height of front gable, 155 feet.

The cathedral will face the west, in the traditional manner, with the principal entrance on Amsterdam avenue. The cathedral will undoubtedly be the principal architectural ornament of the metropolis, and it is not improbable that it will become the metropolitan church, the cathedral of the Protestant Episcopal cathedral, of the country.

Its construction will involve an enormous expenditure, but the liberality already made in furtherance of the enterprise encourage the belief that there will be comparatively little difficulty in obtaining all the money that may be needed to carry to a successful completion.

It is seldom that the distinction of designing so imposing a structure has been achieved by such young men as Messrs. Heins and La Farge, neither of whom is yet thirty-three years of age. They won prize in the competition with some seventy odd architects, including the best-known designers of churches in the world. They were also selected finally out of the five which were regarded as especially worthy. Mr. La Farge, of the firm, is the son of the famous American artist, John La Farge.

Refusing the Doctor's Prescription.

A bachelor physician was once called to see a young widow. "You are lonesome," said the doctor. "Your husband has been dead three years, I advise you to marry again."

"Ah, doctor, I'll marry tomorrow if you will have me."

"Ah! ah! Well," muttered the doctor, stepping back and looking, "you know, madam, that physicians never take their own prescriptions."—Texas Siftings.

In a New York Hotel.

First Drummer—That hotel clerk is there shows a capabilities to run over everybody who comes in his way.

Second Drummer—I can account for that.

"How?"

"You see, he wears a diamond breastpin that was formerly the head lamp taken for the headlight of a locomotive that he really thinks he is one. That's why he runs over people."—Texas Siftings.

Making the Best of It.

Druggist's Clerk—A man gave me a bad dollar in payment for a prescription I filled, and he got away before I found it out.

Druggist—Well, send the boy down to the junk shop with it and sell it for old lead. We'll get twice the cost of the drugs out of it anyhow.—Life.

HER FATHER PROMPTLY SAT ON HIM.

—Harper's Bazar.

In Chicago.

Mrs. Porkchop—Mary, I received another note from our eastern relatives just begging us to pay them a visit. What can it all mean? They never noticed us before.

Mr. Porkchops—They must intend coming to the world's fair, and they think we believe in reciprocity.—Judge.

A Much-heeded Rest.

Burglar—I have decided to go into some other kind of business when I get out.

Prison Missionary—I am rejoiced at your decision—what has brought it about?

Burglar—I find that night work is breaking down my constitution.—Truth.

An attractive face is a letter of recommendation to a thoroughly healthy body. That's what you'll find if you use Pozzoni's Complexion Powder. It's the purest and most beautifying in the world. Try it.

Mrs. Scrubbins, Sufferer, Saved.

Mrs. Scrubbins, sufferer, saved by Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup 25 cents.

Mullins & Co's

The Leading Furniture and Carpet House in the State.

WE ARE READY

FOR SPRING TRADE!

OUR NEW SPRING STOCK OF

FURNITURE AND CARPETS

In Variety, Quality and Quantity

Has never been equaled anywhere.

AT ACTUAL COST!

The best interests in the world have been drawn upon unsparingly. Every article has been secured at actual cost in cash; therefore no house can afford to undersell us.

HERE ARE A FEW QUOTATIONS:

Bedroom Suits, $10.50 and up. Lounges, $5.00 and up.
Parlor Suits, $25.00 and up. Easy Chairs, $5.00 and up.
Soft Beds, $10.00 and up. Extension Tables, $4 and up.

The days of fancy prices in Carpets are gone. We are offering all the best makes and latest designs at lower prices than ever known in the trade. Whitens, 87.40 per yard and up. Body Brussels, 80 cents per yd. and up. Moquettes, $1 per yard and up. Tapestries, 56 cents per yard and up.

A lot of last year's patterns in Carpets, Linoleums and Mattings. Best make at HALF ORIGINAL COST.

Baby Carriages from $3.75 to $30.

218 and 220 Market Street,

COME, SEE AND SATISFY YOURSELF.

BRANCH STORES—121 to 125 Newark Avenue, JERSEY CITY, N. J.
213 Main Street, PATERSON, N. J. 78 to 84 Myrtle Avenue, BROOKLYN, N. Y.
3 31 15w

1892. STALLION SEASON. 1892.

ROUND TOP FARM,

BERNARDSVILLE, N. J.

ATHELL.

Formerly Baby McKee.
Sire Rhett Goode, by Alcyone, 2:20.
100 Trotters in 2:30.
Dam, Mamie, by Dam of Arion, 2:10 3 4

Full Brother to Arion—2 years—2:10 3-4.
Hyperion 2 Hambletonian.
41 trotters in 2:30.
Nutwood 2:18 3-4.
73 trotters in 2:30.

Season, $500. Return Privilege Limited to 10 approved mares.

PALATKA, 5590.

Sire, Nutwood, 2:18 3-4, by Belmont,
75 trotters in 2:30. by 39 trot. Pet 2:30
Dam, Atalanta, by Alcantara, 2:23 sire of 2 years old 42 trotters in 2:30.

Season, $200. Return Privilege.

LORD ELDON, 14024.

Sire, Mansfield, 2:26, by Messenger Duroc,
3 trotters in 2:30. 21 trotters in 2:30.
Dam, Zaetipse, by Kentucky Hambletonian,
Sister of Jay Bird 2:30. 44 trotters in 2:30.

Season, $50. Return Privilege.

AVALANCHE, 9542.

Sire, Alexander, 2:20 3-4, by Abdallah, 2:30.
Sire of Silas Wright 2:20 1-4. by Alcalde,
Dam, Drift, 4 trotters in 2:30 3-4

Season, $10 Payable in Advance.

The above sires carry the noted blood elements that have produced over seventy-five per cent of the record-holders and top-sired sires of the past and present, including Ruby's Hambletonian, Electric, Geo. Wilkes, Nutwood, Alcyone, Messenger Duroc, Mambrino Patchen, Mambrino Chief, Hambletonian, Mountain Maid, Miss Russell, Maggie, Alma Mater, Lady Fallis, Zetalipse, Jessie Pepper, Adelaide and Lady Fallis. They are all unbroken, desirable individuals in and choice selection.

F. P. OLCOTT, Proprietor.
Address GEO. H. MARTIN, Superintendent. 3 31 4t

CLOSING OUT OUR ENTIRE STOCK AT COST!

MUST BE SOLD BY APRIL 1.

STOVES, RANGES, MACHINIST and CARPENTERS' TOOLS TIN and GRANITE WARE. PLOWS and AGRICULTURAL TOOLS. NAILS 2 cents a pound.

PIERSON HARDWARE COMPANY,

42 WEST FRONT ST. Telephone 126.

3 9 10w

CATARRH

CREAM BALM

Ely's Cream Balm Gives Relief at Once. It Cleanses the Nasal Passages of Catarrhal Virus, Allays Pain and Inflammation, Heals the Sores, Protects the Membrane from Additional Colds, Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. A Quick and Positive Cure. Price 50 cents. At Druggists or by Mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York.

HAY-FEVER TRY THE CURE

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents by mail or at Druggists. Circulars free. ELY BROTHERS, Owego, N. Y.

OVERLAND EXCURSIONS

LEAVE CHICAGO EVERY THURSDAY

For particulars address
J. C. JUDSON & CO.
196 Clark St., Chicago.

NOTICE!

The Annual Meeting for the election of Directors and the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting will be held at the Company's office, No. 42 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., on Monday, April 4, 1892, at 10 o'clock a. m.

W. L. DORSETT, Sec'y.
3 17 4w

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

ROYAL ARCANUM.—Members of Plainfield Council No. 711, are requested to attend a special meeting at their rooms on Park ave us, Friday evening, April 1, 1892, to take action on the death of Brother Robert L. Livingston.

A. W. KLEINECKE, Regent.
S. A. TROXEL Sec'y.

—Hotel Netherwood will open June 4.

—Thirty-two dogs were captured last week.

—There were five conversions in the Salvation Army meeting Sunday night.

—Several fine specimens of carp have recently been taken with hook and line in the Raritan river.

—Lounds & Rue of this city, have been awarded the contract for masonry work on the new Westfield Athletic club-house.

—Members of the Independent Gun club had a practice shoot at five birds and blue rocks Tuesday on their grounds in North Plainfield.

—Hitchcocks hope not the leaves and undergrowth on the mountain side near Valley Spring Tuesday. There is a heavy penalty against this practice.

—There is a new fire alarm box up it is No. 56 and is at the corner of Eighth street and Park avenue. There is a key in the station now which is open night and day.

—If something is not done to repair that dilapidated board walk on Second street, between New and Liberty, the city may get a suit for damages, for broken limbs, on its hands.

—Captured dogs are first kept five hours in a barn on Sycamore street near Park and are then kept four days on the Smock farm. Evens, where they are executed if not reclaimed.

—Owners of dogs are warned that the leather bobtail is not sufficient to put on a dog. All dogs running at large must be securely muzzled with wire, or they will be made captive.

—Justice Nash had a wedding at his office Tuesday morning. The contracting parties were John Conway, age 30, and Ivy Hoge, age 19. The happy young people will live in Plainfield.

—Our J. M. C. March is a candidate for clerk of the board of freeholders, and if there is a man in the county better suited for the place, the general public don't know of him.—Westfield Leader.

—Dr. Charles A. Tilton is off rink so from his old-stand and has taken a room on top of his legs, that he cannot even attend to business—not it may be necessary to excuse his foot and leg in plaster.

—A heavily laden wagon belonging to Peach Brook, the millers, was mired on East Fifth street at the corner of Park avenue Wednesday. It was necessary to empty the bags of feed on the sidewalk before the horses could start again.

—A dinner will be served at Hotel Albion, Monday evening, April 18, the day after Easter, to the members and friends of Excelsior lodge, No. 43 of North Plainfield e unci, Royal Arcanum, will also have a dinner at The Albion, some evening next month.

—Edgar Sanderson, a one-armed man—and he a Democrat—assisted in building a soldiers monument in Hoboken. Therefore the citizens of Plainfield—who are Republicans by a majority—should be ashamed of themselves.

—A lad named McLoren was arrested this morning for trespassing on the cars and for detecting coal. He got a good poverty, and said he took the coal from necessity. On promise to sin no more, judge Codington suspended sentence.

—Gentle Willie Murphy has written to magazine Believer of the Cosmopolite that he will play on the Naugawick, Conn., nine, April 4, against the Boston league team, and is keeping himself in condition by open the season on the Crescents in good shape.

—The John Laing property on West Front street, including the hotel building, Laing's hall and Sergeant's residence sold Monday for $26 275 It was purchased by the First National bank and the property is covered its second mortgage. A Delaware, Lackawanna & third mortgage on the property, loses it.

—The attention of the township committee of North Plainfield is called to a dangerous excavation on Second street, near the old stone-arch cher. Some of the timbers of the copper mine have rotted away making a dangerous hole. Should a horse to step in, as the hole is about fifteen feet deep and large enough to hold a team and wagon.

—A new time-table will go into effect on the 3rd proximo, April 3 and from that date the Lehigh Valley will begin to run its trains over the Central's tracks, joining the New York and N ewark branch at Bell's station on the meadows, and running into the terminus at Communipaw, New York passengers over the Lehigh will then use the Jersey Central ferry-boats.

—Sergeant Lynch says that the way to get rid of the tramps is to establish a wood yard where all vagrants would be compelled to work with dull saws on the toughest and knottiest of cord-wood, and live on plain prison fare Such a course of treatment—he argues—would soon spread among the tramp world, thereby the first relief that Plainfield has a good place to keep away from.

—In the ordering of crosswalks, the present council shows about as much judgment as those of the past. A walk has just been laid over Park avenue at Fourth street, where there was already a well-built one on the upper side of the Fifth street hundreds of children wade back and forth through the mud on the side, as no the school is, meeting, now and evening day in a day out, year after year.

—The incongruity of some of the laws passed by the late Legislature is illustrated in one by which cities of more than fifteen thousand population are entitled to three aldermen from each ward. This law was probably passed by purely political purposes, as what do we want of three aldermen or Plainfield—not with three aldermen in for each ward.—Home News—Well it only a plan to Passaic and Atlantic City.

—Stephen Wagener has a project which if accepted by the common council will be a blessing, if actually active the sewerage proved to. He contemplates will it for fertilizing purposes, and also as sale and private matter of the city, and holds that his plan will not only effect a vast money saving to Pl infield but greatly benefit the sanitary condition of the place. He will submit the scheme to the authorities for their consideration.

—"Orpheus", at Herrmann's theater, New York, is described as a music gem of the purest ray. Not a dull moment occurs in the whole performance. The laughter, which is frequent and often boisterous, sometimes part of humorous situations, especially when Kitty foolishly her mate drops E. J. Ridley gives a brilliant character study of a Russian count. He creates profound laughter and wins generous plaudits. Mrs. Rosebrault is, of course, superb in the title role. Herrmann's's number is received at every performance, showing that the popular interest in "Orpheus" is increasing, although the piece is now entering its third month. The heavy advance sale indicates crowded houses for some time to come.

PERSONALIA.

Miss Julia Ady, formerly of this city, sailed for Europe Saturday.

Mrs. Mazson of Westerly is visiting relatives on Central avenue.

W. B. MacClymont will give his second organ concert at the First Baptist church April 13.

Mrs. T. O. Doane is visiting with her son Hervey, at her former home near Folkville.

The marriage of Miss Green Howard and G. Barry Squires, is announced to take place in October.

A son and heir now gladdens the household of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Gardner, Westervelt avenue.

The Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham is at Huntington, L. I., where his father and mother lie seriously ill.

Miss Scudder of the Franklin school will spend her spring vacation at her home in Elmira, N. Y.

Mrs. Minnie Edgerton and James T. Closson have returned to their home, 132 East Front street, for the summer.

David McMurtrie and family have removed from New York to their summer home, 19 Sycamore avenue, North Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hatch—the latter the daughter of Dr. Ketcham—are now regular attendants at Dr. Richards's church.

Samuel St. J. McClutchen has been made school trustee by the North Plainfield board, to fill the vacancy caused by James Mosher's resignation.

Mrs. O. Vail of Eighth street and Madison avenue, has purchased the Bulten property, 34 LaGrande avenue, at a price somewhat beyond $10,000.

The younger daughter of Mayor Saunders of the borough was baptized Sunday afternoon at her home on Mercer avenue by the Rev. T. Logan Murphy.

James Leggett of Princeton, brother of Mrs. Joseph Berger, has received an appointment to preach in the M. E. church at Millersville, Lancaster county, Pa.

It is said that the new choir of the First Presbyterian church is to consist of Mrs. and Miss Lindley Hall, Miss Burdge, contralto, and Robert Gorton, bass.

Charles Brown of the First Baptist church, has changed his residence from 19 Cedar place and is now living on Mr. Sherwin's, corner of Fourth street and Madison avenue.

A contract was signed last week that will result in the presence of Miss Margaret Reid, the most remarkable prima donna of the day, at the closing concert of the Mesopota, May 3.

A Venetian fete will be given recital after Easter. He will play compositions of Beethoven, Scarlatti, Haydn, Chopin, Paderewski, and Liszt. The date and programme will be announced later.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the Rev and Mrs. J. W. Mitchell in the loss of their daughter Hattie, who breathed her last at 6:35 Sunday evening in the twenty-first year of her age.

Sheriff Codington of Somerset county yesterday drew the panel of petit jurors for the April term of court, at which North Plainfield are Samuel Moore, Thomas J Young, Daniel S Berry, John H Carney, Abraham F Voorhees, Philip Swain and Jacob Wilson.

Bishop Vincent has so severe a sore throat that he has been compelled to cancel all engagements to May 1. He will therefore have to disappoint the hundreds of Plainfielders who anticipated hearing him at the M. E. church this Thursday and Sunday.

Honors fell in showers on Miss Julia Bulkley, principal of the public schools. But one of which she is most proud is a copy of one of Sir Edwin Arnold's works, in his own handwriting, presented as a token of his personal admiration of her character, talent and ability.

Frank Newman, son of H. O Newman of West Fifth street, is to be graduated from the Boston School of Teebnology, in a few weeks, having fini hed there a thorough course in architecture. His career in the school has been a most brilliant one, and he has won a number of first prizes.

The soloists selected for the last of the "choral society's subscription concerts, April 26, are Mrs. Patrick Walker, of Boston, who is the "DeVere of the East", Eric Bushnell and Will Belcher. The contralto has not yet been selected, but the society will be a slight one in the oratorio, "St Paul", that is to be sung.

Mr. Bond, tenor of the First Presbyterian church choir, has signed with the Judge Crowe church choir, at 5th and F. S. Cutter, basso of the Trinity Reformed church, has also signed with the Holy Cross, for one year from April 1. He sang Sunday morning on trial and was at once engaged by choirmaster Miner.

On motion of William J Ford, the membership committee Judge, Eulchis of Pythias, unanimously voted Friday night, to secure a photograph of Past Grand Chancellor John Cirich to hang in the asylum hung on the wall of the lodge rooms as a constant reminder of the honor which Perseverance enjoyed in the selection of one of its members to high office.

The Rev Dr. Richards preached in the Crescent Avenue church pulpit, Sunday morning, on the duties of stewardship. Although he is not a steward, he is a rather advised his hearers to put out of office the wicked council of 91 he made no apology for the selection, but he did offer an apology for the selection of the men to high office.

The Rev Dr. Richards preached in the Crescent Avenue church pulpit, Sunday morning, on the duties of stewardship. Although he is not a steward, he is a rather advised his hearers to put out of office the wicked council of 91 he made no apology for the selection, but he did offer an apology for the selection of the members

TO KEEP MAGAZINES.

Covers That Will Stand the Severest Treatment.

Although Made at Home They Are Just as Pretty as Those Sold in the Book Stores—Directions for Putting Them Together.

I shall not consider the dainty protection covers of plush, silk, satin or chamois, with their decorations of ribbon, painting and embroidery, but the plain, serviceable covers for constant use, on the magazines which one wishes to keep for reference, or which may be used in a reading club or, above all, which are likely to receive severe treatment at home.

FIG. 1.

It may happen that it devolves upon one to assist in establishing a reading room "ten miles from a lemon," where cash is scarce and time and ingenuity plenty. In this case, writes Lucia M. Harvey in the Youth's Companion, it is a brilliant double stroke of economy and convenience to make these homemade covers.

Roll the curtains high, and cover the long dining table with a thick layer of wall paper, with plenty more near at hand upon which to paste. Have ready in a basket or tray the necessary materials, namely, scissors, pencil, rule and square, strong cord and an awl; a sharp knife, a pouch and awl, and a paper of glue. From the shoemaker's shops a roll of large, strong pieces of cotton cloth, another of silk and ends of small-figured wall paper, a quantity of the heaviest, stiffest pasteboard obtainable, some book cloth, marbled paper, the inevitable book binders, broad brushes and glue.

The glue, put to melt in a glue pot on the range, will be dissolved by the time a bowl of common flour paste is ready.

Lay the brushes upon a large, clean plate in the center of the table.

Measure the magazines to be fitted, and cut from the pasteboard pieces a trifle larger than the magazines.

From the book cloth cut the oblong pieces for backs and corners, taking care that they are long enough to turn over on the narrow side without creasing.

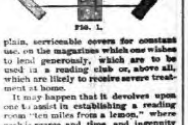

FIG. 2.

Fig. 1 shows the back and corner pieces on the cover, ready to turn over.

Lay out all these book cloth backs in a pile, with edges carefully evened, and with pencil and rule make dots at equal intervals, a distance of half an inch from edge. With a punch make holes over these dots, and with the sett the eyelets may be experimented with.

Next cut from the cotton cloth strips of the same shape as the backs, but a trifle shorter.

Now cut from the marbled paper pieces to fit the outsides of the pasteboards, allowing them to lap over on the wrong side about an inch, and clip off the front corners diagonally.

The inside linings for the wall paper are cut a little smaller than the pasteboard pieces. Now lay all the cut material in neat piles, ready to put together.

Coat the book cloth corners over with paste and glue. Then draw them tightly across the front corners of the pasteboard pieces, lapping on the back edge.

The inside of a back is now coated strongly, and laid on clean papers. Even with, and close to the outer edge of eyelet holes, lay the two pasteboard pieces, one on each side.

Saturate a cotton cloth piece with the paste and glue, and lay it parallel with the book cloth back, joining all together. Turn down the inside lining edges evenly, and let all lie flat a minute, to set.

Coat the outside now with the marbled paper, and lastly the insides with the lining paper, to make all look neat on the inside. If a dry cover an old magazine, the size of the one it is to be used on, if possible, as the proper shape is thus retained.

With an awl and coat the magazine is ready for use.

The appearance of these covers (Fig. 2) is fully equal to that of those costing three or four dollars at the shops, but these cost, made according to directions, less than one dollar a dozen.

Natural Cold Storage Warehouses.

Actual experiment may show that the subterranean chambers of Mammoth cave, who pronounced the Mammoth cave to be a "fine strong warehouse" is not so far-fetched after all. A southern orange grower has placed several boxes of oranges and lemons in a cave where the temperature was about 50 degrees and the air dry, and he has succeeded in keeping the fruit in excellent condition for seven months, the latter for a year. The temperature of the Mammoth cave is about 59 degrees the year round, while the air is so dry that the remnants of the old wooden miner kegs will not mildew. The success of this method of keeping oranges would prove a bonanza to orange growers, as it would enable the fruit people to market their crop when there was the greatest natural demand for it.

Naturalists Puzzled.

Significant talk on occasion is sometimes heard. Recently one telegraph operator said to another, "Have you heard that Dr. Cook has left Chicago?" It was local, of course, and the latter, looking around, replied: "I don't see any Cook west of here, and no one's been working about sixty miles west of Chicago." Puck.

Time is a Newspaper Office.

Visitor (to the office boy)—Please ask the editor if he has time to see me.

Office Boy (to editor)—Yer. He says he is too busy.

Visitor—Well, tell him that I will call again next year. I wanted to pay my subscription.—Boston Post.

Farsighted Answer.

Bingo—Would it be a good girl nowadays to present this morning?

Mrs. Bingo—Yes. Her bean called last night.

Bingo—See if you can't get him to come here and live.—Life.

Great Improvements.

"We are going to accommodate our passengers better," said the president of a street car line to a reporter.

"Going to put on more cars, I suppose?"

"No; we are going to hang four more straps in each car."—Jury.

His Finish.

"Why don't you get an umbrella laugh?"

"I'm afraid somebody might borrow it, and forget to bring it back."—Puck.

Is and Was.

First Small Boy—What does your ma do when you lie to her?

Second Small Boy—She tells pop I take after him.—Good News.

Leprosy in Spain.

Leprosy is increasing at an alarming rate in Spain. From statistics it is reported that several villages are afflicted with the terrible malady. In Nerdorm there are eight families in every member of which is a leper. At Gata the number of lepers is so great that a hospital is to be built for them. Like other points the plague is increasing in a frightful manner and the doctors are unable to cope with it.

JUDGE L. D. THOMAN.

The Noted Chicago Lawyer Married to an Ohio Lady.

Judge Leroy D. Thoman, one of the leading members of the Chicago bar, was recently married at Lebanon, O., to Miss Florence Smith, daughter of Judge James Smith, of the circuit court of Ohio.

Judge Thoman has had an eventful life. He is a native of Columbiana county, O. On attaining his majority he was admitted to the bar and appointed deputy prosecuting attorney for the Ninth judicial district of Indiana. He resigned this position in 1873 and in 1876 he was elected to the bench, being then but twenty-four years of age. He remained on the bench for nine years, and was presided over the democratic state convention, and the same year entered the political arena against William McKinley, Jr., for congress. In 1881 he was proposed for governor by the democrats of Ohio, but, although a enthusiastic supporter, declined the nomination.

LEROY D. THOMAN.

Judge Thoman was also an editor, having purchased an interest in 1880 in the Vindicator, the leading democratic organ in northeast Ohio. In 1885 he was appointed attorney for the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad for Ohio. In 1888 the Pennsylvania civil service bill becoming a law, President Arthur appointed Judge Thoman a member of the United States civil service commission. He served in this capacity and resigned in 1886. Three years ago he turned his face toward Chicago, and became a member of the firm of which his father was at one started to rest upon the practice of his profession, with signal success. He has the confidence of bench and bar, is an able and painstaking lawyer, an earnest pleader and forcible advocate.

Judge Thoman has been active in work for the state, and was a member of the Ohio auxiliary of the world's fair, enlisted the support of his native state, from governor down, and worked hard for Chicago's favor. On social occasions he is much sought after, for the geniality of his presence and his ability as an after-dinner speaker. He is keen of perception, a good judge of men, and has the happy faculty of instilling a good-natured condition of friendliness into any company he goes into.

OHIO FAIR BUILDING.

It Will Be Unlike the Structures of the Other States.

The style of architecture of the Ohio building is distinctive and much unlike that of any of the other state buildings. The building was designed by the commission of architects, of which James C. McLaughlin is the chief associate, with him being Messrs. Yost, G. A. Rapp and F. A. Coburn.

The original idea was to have the building constructed of material furnished gratis by contractors and thus make it in itself an exhibit of the building materials of the state. However, the contractors were slow in taking the matter up, and so many obstacles arose in the way that it was determined to build it of wood. The estimated cost is about $35,000.

OHIO STATE BUILDING, WORLD'S FAIR.

It will contain a reception-room, offices for the director general of the state, assistants, etc. It is to be a place where Ohio people can meet and feel at home. While the building will not rival in size and some of the other state buildings it will, it is claimed, be equally attractive. The decorative features are fine. The large circular portico, with its heavy columns, over the main entrance to the bay windows on the opposite ends of the building are attractive features.

The building is to be two stories, the lower one being of more than the ordinary height.

Equine Friendship.

A story of a remarkable instance of equine friendship comes from Portland. One of a pair of horses belonging to a horse railroad company broke a leg, whereupon his mate, a blind horse, refused to be comforted, and so pined away that the general manager, who came to the new owner of the other steed and asked for the loan of the animal for a visit to the stable. As soon as this horse was put in his old stall the blind horse showed signs of great delight, and at once began to recover his appetite and his health. The owner of the other horse, seeing the love of the animal for his friend, bought him, too, and now drives down town with a span.

Here's Ever with Us.

No bird is more fecund than the sparrow. It has been calculated that a single pair will, in New York, rear twenty or thirty young in the course of the year, and as all will breed, their offspring in the course of ten years would amount to between 27,000,000,000 and 76,000,000,000 birds. The season increase is, however, but a small fraction of this total, for millions die in the nest, in the course of nature, or are hunger, or of cold, during severe weather, or serve as food for carnivorous birds or other wild animals. Assuming that the annual young per pair as only twelve (and in the warmer parts of the United States, where the English sparrow is a serious plague, they are much more numerous), half males and half females, and that all live to five years, the total increase of one pair in that time would be 85, 813 birds. That is the estimate made by officials of the department of agriculture in a report on the sparrow.

First Transatlantic Steamer.

The man who built what is claimed to have been the first transatlantic steamer, the Royal William, lives in North Brandon, one of the suburbs of Chicago. He is James Gordie, a lively person of eighty-three years, small of stature, but vigorous and active. The Royal William made the trip from Pictou, Nova Scotia, to Gravesend in the autumn of 1833, and was probably the first vessel propelled by steam to do so. She was the Savannah, which made the voyage fourteen years before, relying mainly on canvas for speed, and only using her fine weather the small engine that, built on the deck, could not be relied on during storms.

A Simple Cure for a Cinder.

One of the simplest and most effective cures of that often serious affliction to a traveler, a cinder in the eye, is that of a correspondent of the Lancet. A loose may be placed in the eye without injury. They shortly begin to swell and make a globular tumor, which protrudes from the ball of the eye, enveloping any foreign substance that may be there. The pain and irritant may be washed out. Keep a dozen of them seals in a small bottle, and when you have the misfortune to get a cinder in your eye, put one of them

DU MAURIER AT HOME.

He Chats About His Pictures and His Novel.

Pretty More Pretty to Follow "Trilby" before—How He Comes to Do an Article—His Surroundings, Habits and Family.

(COPYRIGHT, 1892.)

All of you have heard of Hampstead heath. Even than a century ago it was a favorite haunt of indulgent cutpurses and jolly rascals of all sorts and conditions.

It is thoroughly proper and respectable now. You may wander about it almost any time and without meeting highwaymen, blunderbuss in hand, or anymore dangerous than a cheerful, inoffensive tramp. If you chat with person at the very end of the heath. He greeted me cheerfully and cordially and expressed his entire willingness to relieve me of any small coin that I might wish to part with.

"Hi 'as to badmit, sir, has 'ow Hi'm a wanderer," he said, "but Hi'm a decent, ardworkin' one."

Who could resist this trump? I could not, and did not. I thought of Charles Dickens' tramp, who was called so by a companion because

"Then you're a tramp,' he see," so the tramp himself tells the story. "I'd rather be than be a beadle, I see."

I verily believed that it was Dickens' tramp that I met. But it was not to meet tramps that I went to Hampstead heath. I had received a note which ran this way:

"If you will drop down upon me in my den I shall be glad to chat with you for awhile, though I won't promise that I will say anything interesting."

The name signed to this note was that of George Du Maurier, the famous artist of Punch, the creator of Maudie and Postlethwaite and Sir Georges Midas and scores of other delightful characters. The famous caricaturist has of late been following the example of Thackeray and gone from the drawing of pictures to the building of novels as well. His first effort was published in January and was so well received that he is just about to launch another one. It was in response to his note that I found myself at Hampstead a couple of days ago.

The artist's house stands on a high hill at the very edge of the heath, and the view from it is magnificent. On one side you may see the famous school of Harrow, where Pitt and Byron and many other famous men were educated. Beyond the steeples of Harrow you can just see in the distance the keep of Windsor castle. Then the heath stretches away from you, and from the top of the hill you may see thirteen counties under the smiling winter sunshine. On another side you may see the spire of London city, that inevitable mist lying upon it, except where the golden cross that tops St. Paul's cathedral rises bright and clear above the fog.

Du Maurier is a modest, unassuming man, of an age that appears to be vastly uncertain. He might be forty and he might be sixty. He wears a mustache and chin whiskers, but they are not of the heavy type familiar to all of us through the pictures of Charles Dickens. His beard is grey, and so is his hair, though there is no trace of grey in it. The man does not appear to value his reputation highly for the sake of mere reputation. He seems to consider himself simply as an artist who has his work to do and does it as well as he can, without thought of the tremendous prestige that it brings him. Neither has he any fear that he will forget the many published accounts of his life.

"Henry James once wrote a very kindly sketch of me," the artist said, leaning back in his chair, "but do you know he made one mistake that all other writers have since made. He stated that I was born in London. Now as a matter of fact I was born in Paris and was educated there.

"You know I was not educated an artist. I was intended to be a scientific chemist. The first work I did in England was in charge of an alleged gold mine down in Devonshire. The only trouble with that mine was that there was no gold in it. After that I gave up my profession and went back to Paris. There I attacked myself to the Gleyre studio. There I met Whistler and quitted. Then I went to Antwerp, where I met with an accident that nearly destroyed my sight. Indeed, for fifteen years I was allowed to work for only two hours each day. I came to London and began to draw for Punch for the English magazines. I worked a good deal for Once a Week and did an occasional sketch for Punch. Tom Leech died, some twenty-seven years ago or more, and I took his place at the table. Shortly after that, which date plans for the next issue of Punch are laid. Since that time I have attended the meetings regularly."

DU MAURIER.

"Then you may be considered as Leech's successor," I suggested.

"Well, no, I won't think so," said the artist. "I trust that our styles are different. You know I put up on the Mark Lemon 'in memoriam' of Punch when I joined it. He said to me:

"'Don't do funny things. Do the graceful side of life; be the French tenor in the opera bouffe.'

I don't affect broad caricature. It is not in my line.

You draw a great deal from real life, do Du Maurier?" I said, when the artist had thus run down his own idea as to his institutions.

"Yes, I do," was the reply.

As for his daughters, he admits that he puts them in many of his sketches. He says, too, that he knows Sir Georgina Midas personally, and that Maudie and Postlethwaite have a real existence.

Then we chatted of the jokes that accompany the Punch pictures, and I was important enough to ask Du Maurier if he wrote his own jokes.

"Yes," came the quick reply, "every one. I do not mean to say that I actually make up the stories that underlie the pictures in all cases, but the letter press that accompanies them is always mine. In most cases, doubtless, it is really my invention. Oftentimes, however, a friend will call and say: 'George, I heard them and them at such and such a place, and if it strikes me as funny I use it. Frankly, it is a terrible task sometimes to get up the 'picture and the fun which is required for the weekly Punch, and I get perfectly wild over it. I walk up and down the room, tear my hair don't know what in the world I shall draw, and then all of a sudden, at the moment, quite likely when the printers are waiting for copy, I either get a suggestion in my own brain or some happy friend drops in and gives me the suggestion."

Then the conversation drifted to illustrations in American magazines and I was much interested with the same work in England.

"American illustration strikes me very favorably," said Du Maurier, thoughtfully. "Of course, the political cartoons in Puck or Judge, and other of your satirical publications, I suppose, do not appeal to me strongly, because I do not understand your politics, but they seem to be well done, and the art of printing in colors has certainly been brought to a very high state in the American publications."

Then we talked of his coming novel.

"Yes," he said, "I am going to publish another story. I have been interested enough to accept and publish that the appreciation which this work may meet. If I find that the reading public cares for my stories I shall write many more, for I have a vast amount of material which seems to me should be interesting, but, if I don't find that they like my style or the material which I have to present, I shall drop it and continue to work solely as an illustrator."

ON ONE OF DU MAURIER'S CARTOONS.

I like your Mr. Abbey very much, by the way," he continued, "he is a most excellent man and the manner in which Harper's, the Century and the Scribner's Magazine bring out pictures in black and white is worthy of all admiration."

Du Maurier is of the opinion that the illustrated newspaper of the future will be an illustrated journal.

The sun had set behind the steeples of Harrow before I, Du Maurier conducted me to the threshold of his hospitable home. As we were passing out in company on a large frame in the hallway in which were gathered some two score drawings of sprites and people.

"There," he said, "is something that can never be surpassed in black and white, I don't care who draws it, or how developed. That work is superb. It was done by Meissonier.

"Say a good word for me to the American people," he said, as he bade me good-by. "I like them and they have been very kind to me."

MOUNTAIN MAKING.

Evidences of Mighty Co vulsion in Long-Past Eras.

Visitors to Mount Washington can hardly have failed to notice in many places by the side of the broad bridle road from the Glen to the summit curiously bent and twisted rocks, some of which strongly resemble layers of crumpled cloth. The evidence which the forms of these rocks furnish of the action of some tremendous pressure in long-past times, which was able to bend and fold the layers of the earth's crust, is a subject that appeals to the eye and mind of the most uninstructed observer.

The effectiveness of the slow contraction which the earth has undergone as its interior has gradually cooled off, in upheaving and deforming its surface, has recently been beautifully illustrated by the experiments of the French geologist, Prof. Daubree.

He took a distended ball of caoutchouc made to imitate the form of the earth, slightly flattened at the poles, and covered it with a layer of tissue paper. Then the ball was allowed to contract a little. Immediately the tissue paper surface was thrown into folds, and fractured, and upheaved in some places and depressed in others, the folds being so produces a striking resemblance to the earth with its mountains and valleys and long beds of bruised and tilted rocks.

So in a few minutes, by this ingenious experiment, the geological history of the earth in miniature can be enacted, and while watching it, with the aid of a little imagination, we may behold some of those mighty processes which, acting through millions of years, have gradually brought our planet into the condition in which we see it to-day.—Youth's Companion.

A Wheedler.

Jimkins—Merry me, Mary Ann! Who did you get this bit of royal Worcester china?

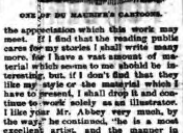
Wife (calmly)—I bought it.

Husband—Bought it! Great snakes! Why did you buy such ruinously expensive ware?

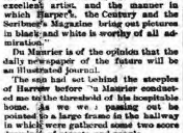
Wife (with suppressed emotion)—I had to buy it to match that nickel saltcellar you got us Judson's new tea cents and premium for a Christmas present.—N. Y. Weekly.

Judge (who is baldheaded)—If half what the witnesses testify against you is true, your conscience must be as black as your hair

Prisoner—If a man's bonsciense is regulated by his hair, I guess mine hasn't got any conscience at all.—Detroit's Magazine.



REASONED.



Visitor—Acuse me, bois; I'z de ballboy.

Mr. Jennings (who had recently travelled from the west)—Oh! all-right. I th-thought for a moment you were another stenographer trying to—Judge.

A Literary Coin.

"I suppose you are familiar with Pope's 'Essay on Man?' said Miss Bodgers.

"I can't say I am," replied Miss Gotham. "If I did read his last encyclical on the labor question, though. It was a delay."—Judge.

Encouragement.

Clevenson—You know, it's a funny thing, but I never can get called on Mrs. Pickerly lately she's been out.

Dashaway (brightly)—Well, never mind, old man, perhaps she'll send one some time.—Life.

Fashion Item.

"What will the coming girl wear?" he says, that I know not," she said.

"Well, she'll wear out your patience, if she is the coming girl in a restaurant where they employ waitresses."—Texas Siftings.

A Senatorial Opinion.

Mrs. Manhattan—Senator, why is it that all the great pianists here each long, bushy hair?

Prof. Spraggs (reflectively)—I presume it is to keep off the flies while they are performing.—Puck.

Naturally.

"And what is the name of your flame?"

"Smith."

"Oh, dear me! How do you tell him from all the rest of them?"

"By his first name. It is John."—Life.

Some Little Kept.

"Willie Wilkins is a generous little soul," said Tommy Tompkins one day. "He's got a dollar and a half, and he's not but he gave it to every one of my four children."—Judge.

A Name-d Quote.

"Man," said the setter, "someone who'll be sate."

"You dint on him, then?" asked Fido, the critic.—Brooklyn Life.

Too Bad.

"Freddy," asked his teacher, "what does leap-year mean?"

"One extra day of school," answered Freddy gladly.—Harper's Young People.

A Reasonable Claim.

Forty years ago a man came to Milwaukee from Germany with $5 in his pocket. He now has a few friends.—Life's Dime.

Not Necessary.

"They say love is blind."

"Well, there's no need laughing at it, then."—Life.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA

TRAINS FOR THE WEST.

CENTRAL RAILROAD OF NEW JERSEY.

(THE POST READING R. R. CO.—LEASED LINES.)

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

ELEPHONE ALL MATED

FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.

ELEPHONE COMPANY!

SPEAKING CONNECTION WITH OVER 15,000 BUSINESS AND RESIDENCE OFFICES AND SUBURBAN—PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Central Office, 49 North Avenue.

TWENTY Years experience in the business.

ALBERT HEDDEN,

Livery and Boarding Stables

FOURTH STREET,

Between Potter Street and Park Avenue.

First-Class Livery

Horses Boarded by Week or Month. Telephone call No. 24.

MISCELLANEOUS

MISCELLANEOUS.

E. P. THORN,

No. 17 Park Avenue,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Pure Wines and Liquors,

For Family and Medicinal Use,

A SPECIALTY.

3-26.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

New Store! New Goods! New Firm

BARKALEW & DUNN,

Fancy and Staple Grocers,

NO. 18 NORTH AVENUE

We sell for Cash and will quote Special Inducements to

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. Castoria, prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. I know of others who have used it, and always with the good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and have Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by their ignorance, morphine, soothing syrups and bastard alcohol. Respectfully,

H. F. Kinchelloe, M. D.,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. Archer, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

United Hospital and Dispensary,
Boston, Mass.

Allen C. Smith, Pres.

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

LEADER OF WHEELMEN.

Col. Burdett, of Hartford, the New President of the L. A. W.

Col. Charles A. Burdett, president of the L. A. W., is forty-three years old and a resident of Hartford, Conn. He was born in Moscow, Ill., and was appointed in company K, C. N. G., April 18, 1860. That year a special order was issued by the adjutant general creating the signal service, with Private Burdett of company K as instructor. January 13, 1861, he was appointed corporal, and soon after he was detailed signal instructor and engineer of the First regiment. In 1863 he was appointed brigade signal instructor, and was complimented on the work of his department. When the act of 1868 was passed creating the signal corps as separate organizations, Corporal Burdett was appointed major, Mr. Burdett is still at it and is now on Gen. Watson's staff. He was elected colonel of the First regiment January 18, 1875. Col. Burdett is one of the most brilliant and energetic officers in the Connecticut national guards, being every inch a soldier, a thorough disciplinarian, and yet a popular officer. He commenced wheeling in 1884, and was a lover of the old ordinary and rode a high wheel until last year when he changed to a safety. In 1890 the colonel was elected president of the state division, through his equerry (Capt. Holford). "Thank you very sincerely for your letter and for the beautiful photograph which I received this morning," said His royal highness thought it most artistic, and I hope to be once more in London would like to make use of your collection."

C. L. BURDETT, PRESIDENT L. A. W.

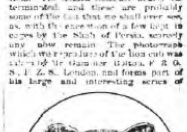
A TROUBLESOME HUSBAND.



"How did you get in?"

"I wanted to see if the ice would bear me and my wife, and—"

"Where is she?"

"I'm standing on her. How the dense crowd I keep up here and above water to yell for help if I didn't?"—Harper's Bazar.

The Irishman's Test.

An Irishman picked up a round bit of tin in the street. It looked like a coin, and he walked into the nearest saloon and ordered a drink, putting down the disk when he had finished.

"Here!" said the barkeeper; "this is tin."

"Yis, is it?" said the Irishman. "Take her wan yerself."—Judge.

Didn't Intend to Become.

She (at the party)—Let us have a ballroom again!—Now, for your own sake look cheerful, or they won't know I have returned.

He—I wish I could, but I can't.

She (generously)—Well, I'll look as unhappy as I can, and they'll think I have married.

A LOVER OF ANIMALS.

Lion Cub Brought from India by the Late Duke of Clarence.

Life itself and the nature of the royal family, the late duke of Clarence was a lover of animals, and often he received them from home in India in 1890 he brought with him a pair of very handsome young lions, and two of the extremely rare Indian lion cubs, all of which he sent to the Zoological society's collection in Regent's park, London.

The young lions lived with the bears, as they were very much of the same size, and excepting at dinner time, when they had separate pans full of mackerels, they have got on well together. The lioness being considerably older than both the bears and lions, as with the possession of a few kept in cages by the Shah of Persia, scarcely ever spoke to them. The lioness which was presented to the late duke by Sir George Birdwood, C. B. G. S. I., a long and interesting series of

LION CUB FROM INDIA.

"Animal Stories from Life," and the late duke of Clarence would appear to have been a great friend of his, as he wrote, through his equerry (Capt. Holford). "Thank you very sincerely for your letter and for the beautiful photograph which I received this morning. His royal highness thought it most artistic, and I hope to be once more in London would like to make use of your collection."

A TROUBLESOME HUSBAND.

"How did you get in?"

"I wanted to see if the ice would bear me and my wife, and—"

"Where is she?"

"I'm standing on her. How the dense crowd I keep up here and above water to yell for help if I didn't?"—Harper's Bazar.

The Irishman's Test.

An Irishman picked up a round bit of tin in the street. It looked like a coin, and he walked into the nearest saloon and ordered a drink, putting down the disk when he had finished.

"Here!" said the barkeeper; "this is tin."

"Yis, is it?" said the Irishman. "Take her wan yerself."—Judge.

Didn't Intend to Become.

She (at the party)—Let us have a ballroom again!—Now, for your own sake look cheerful, or they won't know I have returned.

He—I wish I could, but I can't.

She (generously)—Well, I'll look as unhappy as I can, and they'll think I have married.

Not to Your Liking.

Miss Birdie McGinnis—You young married women treat us unfairly by absorbing the attention of the gentlemen.

Young Mrs. Clamwhooper—That difficulty is easily overcome.

"How?"

"Become a young married woman yourself."—Texas Siftings.

Another Victim.

The man in the steamboat bunk had been studying the time tables in the book for half an hour and getting madder every minute.

"Is that a railway guide?" inquired the man with his feet on the table.

"No!" snorted the other, throwing it on the floor, "I'm the guyed!"—Chicago Tribune.

A Dawning Secret.

"I deem it peeyuph to tell you," said Codling, to the hotel clerk, when he registered, after his visit to "the other side," "that I am the son of an English duke, doncher know."

"All right," replied the clerk, "don't be afraid. I'll not expose you, if you keep your board paid a week in advance."—Jury.

Modern Health Appliances.

Physician—What you need every day is a good shaking up.

Patient—How would horseback ride do?

Physician—That isn't quite severe enough. What you want to do is to take a ride every day in one of our hospital ambulances.—Life.

He Want d to Know.

Philip—Mother, they call all the men in Wall street either "bulls" or "bears." Which is pobs?

Philip's Mother—It's time to go to bed, Philip.

Philip—Well, I only wanted to know whether I was a "cub" or a "calf."—Jury.

A Word of Caution.

Spatts (to Miss Munn)—Mabel, love, I dote upon you wildly.

Miss Munn—That's all right, but don't let papa know it.

"Why?"

"He's violently opposed to young men's wild doten."—N. Y. Sun.

A Daring Spirit.

Ethel—I wonder whom Mr. Dashing will marry?

May—A dynamite bomb, I guess.

Ethel—What do you mean?

May—He is so brave he courts nothing but danger.—Household Monthly.

Very Weak.

Jessie—You must be a hard worker, Mr. Chapley.

Chapley—What makes you think that, Mi s Jessie?

Jessie—George tells me that yesterday that you make him tired.—Once a Week.

A Grand Plan.

"How do you make your paper go, anyhow? I never see it anywhere."

"We print pictures of prominent men, and they buy it."

"Ye-s; distribute it."

"Oh! no; to destroy!"—Puck.

He Knew.

Wife—Shall I have my black silk fixed over, dear, or shall I get a new one?

Husband—By all means get a new one. It's cheaper.—Cloak Review.

Had to Do It.

Briggs—Did you know that that Parker had sold his residence on the avenue?

Griggs—No. What did he do that for?

Briggs—He wanted to get his wife a sealskin cloak.—Cloak Review.

The Landlord.

As a blessing you never were meant;
Of this I have very good proof.
For you make me put up for the rent
And put up with the one in the roof.
—Judge.

A STRAIGHT ANSWER.

Mr. O. Turk—Oi hear that Micky wor hurt in th' blast yisterday.

Mrs. McPhee—Throse fur you.

Mr. O. Turk—An' how is he gettin' along?

Mrs. McPhee—Oh, he can't complain.—Judge.

A Gift of Subscription.

Enraged Contributor — Your proofreader made nonsense out of that article of mine this morning, sir—outrageous nonsense, sir!

Editor—By George, I couldn't make anything out of it all! I'll have that fellow's wages.—Chicago Tribune.

One Town of It.

"I don't think it's exactly fair for my friends to say every inch a soldier, a thorough disciplinarian, and yet a popular officer. He commenced wheeling in 1884, and was a lover of the old ordi-

Exemplifying a Proverb.

"Did you ever get up early, boss?" inquired a tramp of a farmer.

"No, sir, I did not. I have enough to do looking after my hogs."

"Thank Heaven!" fervently ejaculated the tramp.

"What for?" asked the astonished granger.

"Because I have at last met the man who really envies me. Good day, sir," and whistling he turned away.—Texas Siftings.

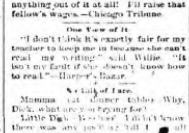
A Terrible Mistake.

"Here's a letter from poor Carrie. She and her husband both want a divorce and neither can get it."

"What's the matter?"

"He, unknown to her, was about to elope with the governess just as she, unknown to him, was about to elope with his secretary. They met in the dark and eloped with each other."—Life.

A BAD CASE OF COLD IN THE BACK.



He Knew Human Nature.

Stranger—Here is a little poem which I wrote on the second friends, and they all said it was worth printing.

Editor (who has friends himself)—I am delighted to get it. The thing which a man's bosom friends fail to criticise must be about perfect.—N. Y. Weekly.

Limitations of High Art.

Manager—I am greatly disappointed in your acting, sir. You have completely ruined the play by your dull and wooden performance in the love scenes.

Leading Man (angrily)—Then why in thunder do you keep on writing love plays?—N. Y. Weekly.

Considerate.

"Dogs are more faithful than people are," said Fogg, heavily.

"Some dogs are," said Mrs. Fogg, with a meaning look at her husband.

"Yes, some dogs are," said Fogg, with a meaning look at his wife.

"Don't you suppose," said Mrs. Fogg, with a look that would have withered a less hardened man, "that the dogs would be more faithful if they were treated better?"

"Yes, I suppose they would," said Fogg, with a look that would have withered a more hardened woman, "and I suppose that people would be more faithful if they were treated better."

"Don't you suppose," said Mrs. Fogg, with a look that would have withered a still more hardened man, "that if husbands were more considerate of their wives, they would be more considerate of their husbands?"

"Yes, I suppose they would," said Fogg, with a look that would have withered a still more hardened woman, "and I suppose that if wives were more considerate of their husbands, they would be more considerate of their wives."

Then they both looked at the dog, and the dog looked at them, and wagged his tail.—Detroit Free Press.

Getting Ready for Us.

Sweet spring will soon employ the pens
Of poets to her praises;
And they'll begin with the hens.
Without the world their hyps.
—Atlanta Constitution.

A Love Effect.

Aunty—Why did you laugh when you told me your dear little dog was dead?

Little Dick—Because it—it's so funny from eyein'.—Good News.

A Thwarted Genius.

She—You look as though you had solved Kiel in your club last night.

He—I did; and what is worse, he raised me back.—Jury.

Like a Daisy.

"Why do you call that a daisy?"

"Because when I proposed, she came with a spring."—N. Y. Herald.

Railroads.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA

TRAINS FOR THE WEST.

Central Railroad of New Jersey.

(THE POST READING R. R. CO.—LEASED LINES.)

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

TELEPHONE ALL MATED

FOR FIVE MINUTES CONVERSATION.

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

SPEAKING CONNECTION WITH OVER 15,000 BUSINESS AND RESIDENCE OFFICES AND SUBURBAN—PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Central Office, 49 North Avenue.

TWENTY Years experience in the business.

ALBERT HEDDEN,

Livery and Boarding Stables

FOURTH STREET,

Between Potter Street and Park Avenue.

First-Class Livery

Horses Boarded by Week or Month. Telephone call No. 24.

W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, APRIL 7, 1892. No. 14.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in the limitations as in its authorities."—Madison.

Published Every Thursday,

AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.

TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

AT PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Advertising at Reasonable Rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters in Chancery, Notaries Public, and Solicitors of Park Awards and Second street.—1m27

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 125, Dunellen, N. J., or address left in care of this office promptly. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES H. THEIS,
Dentist,
At office on Front street, a few doors west of Somerset, for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—3m18

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
247 Broadway, New York city. Corner 29 and 30, Johnson Building. Residence, 2 Bond Street, Plainfield, N. J.—3m27

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
All work and parts thereto guaranteed. Orders left at Smith's Music Store, No. 5 Park avenue will receive prompt attention. Residence, 41 Second street, Plainfield, N. J.—3m27

JOHN CHANDLER,
JAPENTERAND BUILDER.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
RESIDENCE ADDRESS: No. 36 East 3d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. apr7

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Machine Association Block No. 21 Second St.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
(Successor to F. B. Maynard)
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., satisfactorily performed. 12tf

NEW YORK

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.

TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.

Grates and Bricks for all kinds of fixes can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.

Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing,
Heater Work, Tinning,
Hardware.

A. K. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 11 11-tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!

23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.

Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a satisfactory manner, and at reasonable prices. Having practical knowledge of the business, I guarantee satisfaction to all who favor me with their patronage. Shop on Somerset street, rear of Park avenue, where I will be pleased to meet my old customers and as many new ones as may favor me with a call. Telephone Call No. 6.

D. W. LITTELL,
rear of NORTH AVE. & 2d Plainfield, N. J.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. P. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO.
RAHWAY, N. J.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOOD DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

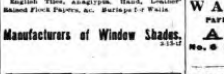
C. E. & J. W. BROWN,
(Successors to C. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.)
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK

English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hard, Leather Stained Flock Papers, &c. Borders for Walls.

Manufacturers of Window Shades.
2-15-12

LIVERY

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables



Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Carriages for Weddings, Funerals and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.

RIDING OR LIVERY.
Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Stables always given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.—oct15y1
TELEPHONE CALL, No. 26.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park Avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the prompt carrying of baggage of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.
May2tf

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasoline Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 13 SOMERSET ST. 3-15-tf

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established
Corner of
No. 24 NORTH AVENUE.
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of
Fresh and Salt Meats.
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished on short notice.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
19 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J. apr2tf

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
(Successor to W. J. Camp.)
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—N. W. FRONT ST.
Large covered Express Wagon. Goods delivered to all parts of the city. Furniture packed and shipped to all parts of the country. P. O. Box 1. Telephone Call No. 6.

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN
17 LaGrande Avenue,
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET.
Will reopen THURS. SEPT. 17, 1891.
The regular courses will include Modeling, Drawing and Swing. 12-10

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

d. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best Havana tobacco is used in the manufacture of this cigar, and it is guaranteed to be equal to any 5 cent cigar in the market.
A representative for the Old Gold Brand of Fine Cut and Cigarettes.
Cigars and Cigarettes.
Tobacco always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
Yard

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
—SEGARS!—
15 PARK AVE., (REAR OF BOND ST. SECOND ENT.) PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, with a premium in each package. 12-10 1y

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And Dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles. Also receives from this N. Front street, a fine assortment of Pipes, imported direct from the Meerschaum Factories, and will be glad to see his friends and the public generally. 4 1 tf

PAINTERS & PAINTERS' SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
apr28

L. B. WOOLSTON, J. P. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 38 NORTH AVENUE
apr28

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Heading,
Circulars,
Programmes Menus
Addresses,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation, Dodgering,

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST

DAILY PRESS

(Chautauqua Building).

PLAINFIELD N. J

Pa Orchestral Association and Its Musical Colony.

Theodore Thomas as a Social Factor in the Windy City—Noted Musicians Who Gather Under His Baton—Will Succession Likely Settle in Chicago?

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Just at present the Chicago people are musical mad. Wherever you go you may hear them talking about Theodore Thomas, Paderewski and compositions for the world's fair. Underneath the craze for making money there is something more elevating. Men who have accumulated fortunes are manifesting love for something that will cultivate their minds. They naturally turn to music, the one art which appeals to the cultured as well as the ignorant.

The organization of the Chicago Orchestral association was the outgrowth of a desire on the part of busy men to benefit themselves and their less fortunate fellow citizens. They met eighteen months ago, organized a society and subscribed a guarantee fund amounting to $50,000 a year for a period of five years.

The question settled, they looked around for a competent leader for the orchestra they proposed to maintain. Naturally, Mr. Thomas was the unanimous choice, and when the noted musician was finally persuaded to accept the position offered him in so flattering a manner the joy of Chicago found expression in the news that was soon heard from one end of the country to the other; but more especially in New York, where for a time it was feared he was inclined to believe that Mr. Thomas could be persuaded to leave the metropolis.

THEODORE THOMAS.

The Orchestral association has placed at Mr. Thomas' disposal in the Auditorium, unquestionably the finest hall in the world for musical performances of all kinds, a fund sufficient to engage the services of eighty-five first-class musicians. The result has been the selection of an orchestra which, although but a few months old, already rivals the Boston Symphony orchestra, for many years considered—and justly so—the finest and most perfect musical organization in the United States.

Mr. Thomas is not a stranger in the city of his adoption. His marriage to Miss Fay which occurred not so very long ago naturally drew him closer to Chicago and will make him satisfied with his new location. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas occupy a handsome mansion on the Lake Shore drive, near the castle of Potter Palmer and the homes of other society leaders, who have extended a hearty welcome to their new neighbors. Socially, the Thomases play a more important part here than they ever did in New York; and as the people become educated up to the high musical standard which Mr. Thomas has always striven to make popular, he will find a congenial and permanent field for the exercise of his professional talents.

WILLIAM L. TOMLINS.

The Thomas orchestra has given summer-night concerts in Chicago for a number of years past, which were patronized by hundreds of thousands; but it was his connection with the great musical festival of 1882 which made the leader popular with the masses. His connection with the ill-fated American Opera Company, organized in 1885 and disbanded in 1887, did not hurt him in the west, although many stories were set afloat ascribing a large share of the blame for the failure of Mrs. Thurber's pet enterprise to the director of the orchestra which, leaving all flattery aside, was the best ever heard in the theaters of America.

WILLIAM H. SHERWOOD.

Mr. Thomas bears his fifty-six years with grace. He seems to be as energetic as ever and can endure more fatigue than most of his juniors. His pretty people's typical Chicago Tribune girl, bright and piquant. Being a popular entertainer she has succeeded in gathering to her side the realms of the west.

Should Mr. Thomas, however, conclude to establish a strictly musical society, he will find plenty of good material, for we have among us several men and women who enjoy international fame in musical circles.

There is, for instance, Prof. William L. Tomlins, a remarkable man, who organized a chorus known as the Apollo club out of the material picked up here and there. He worked like a beaver to bring order out of this chaos, and now has an organization which is the rival in the United States. During the fifteen years of its existence the Apollo club has done much to educate and lead the people of the west, presenting at divers times some of the greatest works of the greatest masters for the public benefit.

Prof. William H. Sherwood is another Chicago musician enjoying a national reputation. His piano recitals have spread his fame into the remotest districts, while his compositions have found favor in many European countries. While completing his education in Germany, Liszt, the master of piano virtuosos, took a strong liking to the enterprising young American, and opened many doors and personal influence to secure for him a hearing before critical audiences. It was at one of these concerts that Rubinstein was induced to be invited discovered to play, and this exhibition may properly be called the baptism of his subsequent fame.

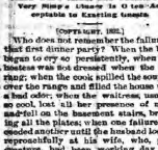
Miss Fanny Elsler Gleason Gives Some Hints to Young Housewives.

The Fatal Effect of Trying to Overreach One's Means and Position—A Very Simple Change in Costume Acceptable to Economical Spouses.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Who does not remember the failure of that first dinner party? When the baby began to cry and the cook left, when the hostess was not dressed when the bell rang; when the cook spilled the soup all over the range and filled the house with a bad odor; when the waitress, usually so cool, lost all her presence of mind and fell on the basement stairs, tumbling all the plates; when one failure succeeded another until the husband looked unspeakably at his wife, who, poor creature, had been working day and night to "get up" this dinner, who is responsible for none of the failures and who has an attack of neuralgia after unsuccessful last effort.

Who has not read Thackeray's witty descriptions of these failures of displays, poor fluid pretentions, ordered in from the green grocer's and uneatable. In London?



FREDERICK GRANT GLEASON.

celebrities. He began his career as musical critic for a daily journal, a position which he resigned as soon as he found an opening in his chosen profession. A romantic opera composed by Mr. Gleason, known as "Otho Visconti," demonstrated that he possessed great genius. Subsequently he composed "Montezuma," another romantic opera, selections from which have been played by the principal cities of the country by the Thomas orch stra.

Mrs. Julia Rive-King clang for many years to the piano, but a year or so ago became a member of Chicago's musical colony. Inasmuch as her remarkable professional success has not turned her head, her popularity is assured. As a pianoforte virtuoso Mrs. King has few equals. Her general experience has been especially wide and met with a degree of favor said to be unparalleled in American musical history.

The sensation of the day is a rumor that Paderewski, the famous pianist, may be induced to become a member of the faculty of the Chicago conservatories. So far as can be learned at present it is stated, has made the long-haired gentleman a handsome offer—$25,000 per year for three months' instruction—and the projectors of the enterprise are entertained that the proposition may be accepted.

JULIA RIVE-KING.

The establishment of the Chicago musical colony who might be mentioned at more length, would space permit, are Prof. Ziegfeld, who is known not only to musicians, but to the students of the land; Prof. Jacobsohn, the violinist, last at one time Mr. Thomas' concert master; Max Bendix, Thomas' present concert master; Prof. Clarence Eddy, whose organ recitals were the wonder of Paris during the last exposition, and Emil Liebling. Some hundred compositions have been awarded prizes in various competitions.

G. W. WESTPHEET.

Bad to Do It.

Briggs—Did you know that Parker had sold his residence on the avenue?

Griggs—No. What did he do that for?

Briggs—He wanted to get his wife a seaskirt cloak.—Cloak Review.

The Landlord.

As a blessing you never were meant;
Of this I have very good proof;
For you make us put up for the rent
And put up with the one in the roof.
—Judge.

A STRAIGHT ANSWER.

Mr. O. Turk—Of hear that Micky wor hurts in ill blast yesterday.

Mrs. McPhee—Turse fur you.

Mr. O. Turk—An' how is he gettin' along?

Mrs. McPhee—Oh, he can't complain.—Judge.

A Gifted Subordinate.

Corner Gustenbor—Your proof reader made nonsense out of that article of mine this morning, sir—out rageous nonsense, sir!

Editor—By George, I couldn't make anything out of it at all! I'll raise that fellow's wages.—Chicago Tribune.

Even View of It.

"I don't think it's exactly fair for my teacher to keep me in because she can't read my writing," said Willie. "It isn't my fault if she doesn't know how to read."—Harper's Bazar.

Sum of Fate.

Mamma—But, dinner tables—Why, Dick, what are you crying for?

Little Dick—Because, I didn't know there was any geology till I got all through.—Good News.

He Could Use It.

Kutten—Yes, that's a good story, but you tell it stupidly. It will suit my purpose exactly.

Dryde—Your purpose?

Kutten—I'm compiling an encyclopedia of shestnuts.—Chicago Tribune.

Nuisance and Aunt.

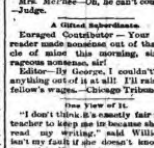
Indulgent Aunty (after stuffing little nephew with doughnuts and fruit cake)—What does your mamma give you between meals?

Nephew—Orders not to eat.—Good Words.

Sensible.

Servant (to Scotch lad in his new boarding place—Shall I put some ice, sir?

Scotch—Nay, it isn't necessary. Just pass the pitcher of ice in the direction of Perth.



Up in Heaven.
Bert (to his little brother)—Do you think you'll go to heaven?
Oh, yes!

How to Dress Well and Economically.

Some Timely Hints Concerning the Proper Attire for Spring—Fashionable Colors and Materials—Some Pretty Designs.

MRS. JOHN SHERWOOD.

they would do well, but they must also, for appearance's sake, do well.

And that is the first mistake. People with $2,000 a year should not try to emulate those who have $10,000 a year.

And Thackeray says again: "But there is no harm done, not as regards the dinner affair, though the dinner eaters may have to suffer. It only shows that the former are hospitably inclined and wish to do the very best by their power. If they do not, they look on their help it? They know no better."

The first thing at which a young housekeeper must aim is to live well; every day her husband should find on her glass and silver clean, a few flowers must be on the table to make it dainty a few dishes well cooked, such a table as will be healthy for her children and acceptable to her husband, and then she has but to add a little taste and skill in it fit for any guest, and any guest will be glad to join such a dinner party.

But here is the rub by the almost unanswerable argument that the simplest dinner is the most difficult to produce. Who knows how to cook a beefsteak, to roast a leg of mutton so that its natural juices are retained, to roast fowl that shall "cut" well under the knife," to mash potatoes and brown them, to make a perfect rice pudding that cook is said by Dexter that cook does bine, which Vatal, Ude and Bechamel carried."

The young housekeeper of to-day, with very modest means, has however, now, to see, a condition of prosperity which even twenty-five years ago was unknown. All extremes of luxury and every element of confusion is now fashionable and, one may say, expected.

And remember that rich people, although with luxury at home, like to be asked to these dinners. A lady in England, very much admired for her witty conversation, said she "tired of a round of dissipation of the ameliorations of the condition of the upper classes, as she thought when the most bored and altogether the least attended to of any people," and we have heard of the rich man in New York who complained that he was not any longer "asked to the little dinners." "There is too much money in it. It is money in our country. In England and on the continent there is no shame in acknowledging I cannot afford it." I have been asked to a luncheon in England where a cold joint of mutton, a few potatoes and a plate of pickles constituted the whole repast, and I have heard more delightful conversation and have met more agreeable people than at much more expensive feasts. Who in America would dare to give such a luncheon?

The simple dinner might be characterized thus, giving the essentials as a soup, a fish, a roast, one entree, a salad, an ice and fruit—simply the fruit—in season, a cup of coffee afterwards, with a glass of sherry, claret or champagne, good enough for anybody; such a dinner is possible to the person of moderate means.

From this up to the splendid millionaire dinners, served on gold and silver, and priceless Sevres, Dresden, Japanese and Chinese porcelain, with dagons of ruby glass, bound in gold, with Benvento Cellini vases, and silver candelabra, the ascent may be gradual. In the one, the tablecloth is of spotless damask, in the other it may be of duchesse lace over red, with velvet mat under the silver epergne. The very mats are mirrors, the crystal drops of the epergne flash like diamonds. It may be served in a picture gallery. Each lady has a bouquet, a fan, a ribbon painted with her name, a basket, or bonbonniere to take home with her. The courses are often sixteen in number, the wines are of fabulous value, antiquity and age. Each drop is like the river Pactolus, whose sands were of gold. The viands may range from Algiers to St. Petersburg, strawberries and peaches in January, the roses of June to February, fruit from the Pacific, from the gulf, artichokes from Marseilles, oranges and strawberries from Florida, game from Labrador and Chesapeake bay, mutton and pheasants from Scotland—luxury from everywhere. The primal condition of this dinner is that everything should be unusual.

But remember that, after all, it is only the unusual that is costly or ornamented. No one person can taste half the dishes. It takes a long time, and the room may be too hot. The limitations of a dinner should be considered. It is a spiritless, dreary, boring. But it need not appall the young hostess who desires to return the civility.

A vase of flowers, a basket of growing plants can replace the epergne. Some dinner cards etched by herself, with a few Shakespearian words showing a personal thought of each guest (how complimentary). Her spotless glass and silver, her good soup, her fresh fish, the haunch of venison roasted before a wood fire, the salad mixed by herself, the delicious pudding made over which she has lingered, a bit of cheese, a cup of coffee, a smiling face and a congenial guest make a congenial company, with withal, who shall say that the little dinner party is not quite as the big dinner? To be composed; yes, that is the first thing to be remembered on the part of the young housewife. She may be naturally nervous and anxious, particularly if she is just beginning to entertain, but let her guard herself and put on a mask of composure and assume a virtue if she have it not. Nothing is more unpleasant than overstepping her own demesnes. A busy hostess who scolds the servants, wrinkles her brow, or even tongues to Delia to the room where she is talking to her is the ruin of a dinner.

Nothing is it a great intellectual feat to achieve a perfect little dinner with a small household and small means, perhaps. A little forms of entertaining may be postponed a few years. Never attempt anything which you cannot well do. There is the afternoon tea, the musical evening, the reception, the luncheon, they are all easier to give than the dinner. The young hostess, ambitious to excel in the "art of entertaining," can choose a thousand ways. Another would attempt the impossible and let her remember that no success which is not honestly gained is worth a pin. If it is money it stings, if it is place and position it becomes the shirt of Nessus. Earn everything honestly.

But for the well-mannered and well-bred American woman what a noble success, what a perfect present awaits her, what a delightful future! She is the founder of the American hospitality. All men bow down to her. She is the queen of the man who loves her. To the young girl with every resource she is to teach the future citizen "honor, loyalty, duty, respect, politeness, kindness and the law of love." Such a one could read his Philip Sidney and yet not blush to find himself a follower. An American woman wields the only right of empire to which American men will bow. She should try to be an empress in the best sense of the word. The young woman entering society we should encourage to avoid pretentious mansions. Not snobbish exclusiveness, but it is always well to choose one's friends slowly and with due consideration. We are not the most perfect beings in all the world. We do not wish to be intimate with too much imperfection. A broken friendship is a very painful thing. We should think twice before we give an intimate friendship to any one. No woman who essays to entertain should ask everybody to her house. The respect she owes to herself should prevent this. Her house becomes a camp unless she has herself the power of putting a stern candidate the door.

And as a hostess is the slave of her guests, after such a dinner party she must be all attention and all suavity. If she has nothing to offer them but the hospitality of a small home, a cup of tea and a smile she is just as much a hostess as if she were a queen. If she offers them every luxury and is impolite she is a snob and a vulgarian. There is no such detestable use of one's privileges to be taken on one's own ground. "The man who eats your salt is sacred." However, "no patronage" is a great necessity in some natures. There is little opportunity for it in free, brave America, but some unfortunate hostesses have gone that way. Every one feels pleasantly toward the woman who invites them or her to her house; there is something gracious in the act. But if, after opening her doors, the hostess with the welcome or treats her guest with a doubtful degree of cordiality, why did she ask you at all? Every young American can become a model hostess, she can master etiquette, create for herself a polite and cordial manner, she should be as serene as a summer's day, she should keep all her domestic troubles out of sight. If she entertains let her do it in her own individual way, a small way if necessary. There was much in Touchstone's philosophy—a poor thing, but mine own." She must have the instinct of good blood and breeding to follow the knife," to mash potatoes and brown them, to make a perfect rice pudding that cook is said by Dexter that cook does bine, which Vatal, Ude and Bechamel carried."

The young housekeeper of to-day, with very modest means, has however, now, to see, a condition of prosperity which even twenty-five years ago was unknown. All extremes of luxury and every element of confusion is now fashionable and, one may say, expected.

And remember that rich people, although with luxury at home, like to be asked to these dinners. A lady in England, very much admired for her witty conversation, said she "tired of a round of dissipation of the ameliorations of the condition of the upper classes, as she thought when the most bored and altogether the least attended to of any people," and we have heard of the rich man in New York who complained that he was not any longer "asked to the little dinners." "There is too much money in it. It is money in our country. In England and on the continent there is no shame in acknowledging I cannot afford it." I have been asked to a luncheon in England where a cold joint of mutton, a few potatoes and a plate of pickles constituted the whole repast, and I have heard more delightful conversation and have met more agreeable people than at much more expensive feasts. Who in America would dare to give such a luncheon?

The simple dinner might be characterized thus, giving the essentials as a soup, a fish, a roast, one entree, a salad, an ice and fruit—simply the fruit—in season, a cup of coffee afterwards, with a glass of sherry, claret or champagne, good enough for anybody; such a dinner is possible to the person of moderate means.

From this up to the splendid millionaire dinners, served on gold and silver, and priceless Sevres, Dresden, Japanese and Chinese porcelain, with dagons of ruby glass, bound in gold, with Benvento Cellini vases, and silver candelabra, the ascent may be gradual. In the one, the tablecloth is of spotless damask, in the other it may be of duchesse lace over red, with velvet mat under the silver epergne. The very mats are mirrors, the crystal drops of the epergne flash like diamonds. It may be served in a picture gallery. Each lady has a bouquet, a fan, a ribbon painted with her name, a basket, or bonbonniere to take home with her. The courses are often sixteen in number, the wines are of fabulous value, antiquity and age. Each drop is like the river Pactolus, whose sands were of gold. The viands may range from Algiers to St. Petersburg, strawberries and peaches in January, the roses of June to February, fruit from the Pacific, from the gulf, artichokes from Marseilles, oranges and strawberries from Florida, game from Labrador and Chesapeake bay, mutton and pheasants from Scotland—luxury from everywhere. The primal condition of this dinner is that everything should be unusual.

But remember that, after all, it is only the unusual that is costly or ornamented. No one person can taste half the dishes. It takes a long time, and the room may be too hot. The limitations of a dinner should be considered. It is a spiritless, dreary, boring. But it need not appall the young hostess who desires to return the civility.

A vase of flowers, a basket of growing plants can replace the epergne. Some dinner cards etched by herself, with a few Shakespearian words showing a personal thought of each guest (how complimentary). Her spotless glass and silver, her good soup, her fresh fish, the haunch of venison roasted before a wood fire, the salad mixed by herself, the delicious pudding made over which she has lingered, a bit of cheese, a cup of coffee, a smiling face and a congenial guest make a congenial company, with withal, who shall say that the little dinner party is not quite as the big dinner? To be composed; yes, that is the first thing to be remembered on the part of the young housewife. She may be naturally nervous and anxious, particularly if she is just beginning to entertain, but let her guard herself and put on a mask of composure and assume a virtue if she have it not. Nothing is more unpleasant than overstepping her own demesnes. A busy hostess who scolds the servants,

THE WOMAN OF FASHION.

She Is Very Busy with Her Trousseau Just Now.

First the Wedding Gown—Then the Traveling Cloak—Useful and Pretty Costumes for Her Honeymoon and How to Make Them.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

The wedding bells are ringing and my fair maid is doing her best to be clothed and ready in time. Her cheeks have deepened into a rich pink in the excitement of dressing and in the flurry and preparations all around, and she has slipped into all the dainty, light undergarments, with their soft lace and silken sheen, and now there is brought out the fair wedding gown in which she shall stand before the altar and plight her troth. Ah, but how pretty it is! My eyes rest lovingly upon it as she slips into it. It is made of the softest and richest of white silk, and at the bottom of the skirt is a wide ruffle of lace, caught here and there with a white with a small bow knot. The court train spreads gently down upon the train and spreads out in the back like a halo, and she looks fit for a king.

FOR THE CEREMONY.

Her bridesmaids suit her well, they are so simple in their gowning. Their dresses are of white, too, but ordinary, and they fall plain and straight to the ground with no adornment whatsoever. The waists are made plain and adorned with a deep lace yoke. They wear long white sashes tied in a big bow at the front, a little to one side. Their hats are their crowning glory, big and soft and white, and drooping slightly over their faces, trimmed at the side with great bunches of purple violets and white tips.

I did not see the trousseau of this bride, but I know she was a sensible girl, and I know about what she would have in it.

I'm sure there would be one grey dress, at any rate, and here is a pretty way to have it made. Skirt plaited with a short train and now of gray passementerie at the bottom; the bodice and sleeves are made to match, and a big cape of the same, with deep scallops, which are also trimmed with passementerie and the yoke is covered also. It must be very soft trimming, or it will spoil the effect. Have the sleeves plain and tight, with a little puff over-puff at the top.

The pension for old age varies from £5 6s. 4d. to £9 11s. per annum, and is granted to every invalided person who has been employed the seventieth year of his age, irrespective of his ability to earn a livelihood, provided that he does not already draw a pension for infirmity. The latter carries from £5 11s. to £8 6s., and is given, irrespective of age, to any person who is permanently incapacitated from earning his living. To receive either pension it is necessary that the infirmity has been brought on wilfully, or in the act of committing a crime, before it is considered infirm if unable to earn more than about one-third of his usual wage.

The time of workmen may be made to receive their pensions entirely in kind. In such cases the pension is paid to the parish authorities, who supply the person concerned with his food, clothing, etc. In order to establish a claim to a pension under the German law, contributions, regulated by the amount of earnings, must be paid for a prescribed period. The means of paying pensions are obtained by fixed contributions from the imperial treasury added to regular payments on the part of the employers and employed. Side by side with this system there continues in operation the law which compels masters to become responsible for the pensions of aged and infirm servants.—Chambers' Journal.

They Had Heard Him Before.

Mr. H. (in a terrified whisper)—Marie, there isn't half enough luncheon for all these people. What on earth am I to do?

Mrs. Hostess—I'll get rid of some of them, dear.

Mr. Hostess (ten minutes later)—You're a trump, Marie! But how did you manage to get so many to go?

Mrs. Hostess—I just whispered to them that you had consented to sing "Beckoned in the Cradle of the Deep."—Boston News.

A Size in Feet.

Pretty Girl—Do you think it would be considered for a woman to propose during leap-year?

Old Bachelor (fervently)—No indeed; no, indeed. I think it would be considerably sensible.

Pretty Girl—That's just what I told old Mrs. Scurface, who admires you so much, but her son said you wouldn't dare.

Then the visconti outfit—a set of dresses for all-round wear. They are extremely soft, just as soft as camel's hair, and very much cheaper. They come in three shades of pale green, with a touch of gray or grayish blue, and brownish cream and grayish green. They're all very pretty and becoming.

Of course a serge must be there. A serge is a good safe dress to have. It will last by all, washable, and can be prettily made be utilized for all sorts of occasions, and anyone getting a really good serge dress will find it is well to get the serge in a dark shade.

For a real dainty dress of the newest description get one of the new cashmeres that are imported all ready to be made up. I saw an exquisite one yesterday of the palest shade of green, the skirt being bordered by a graceful vine. The leaves were green, with a darker green in other shades, and the flowers in need pearl—pale pink, pale blue and cream. On it the vine was put on in such a way as to be the same border, but the ground was a dull pinky chocolate. There ought to be a tea-gown to match, and next season, which looks well made up with a plain dark shade.

A pretty fashion without a traveling cloak is not a consensus at all. And I know of one that will just suit the fair young fiancee. It is made of tweed cloth, made long, of course reaching to her feet. At the bottom is a broad band of astrakhan, and the cape is composed of similar pattern, but narrow, goes from band to band. The cloak is finished off with a wide band of astrakhan, which is also used for the sleeves. The shoulder bands are very full, and the fullness is brought together at the edge of the shoulder, corresponding bands trimming the cape at the back. The cape is also

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chooses the City of Chicago as the place for holding the national Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation therein equal to double the number of the representatives to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE, Chairman.
SIMON P. SHERRARD, Secretary.

ANTI-MONOPOLY.

Anti-monopoly is a positive principle of the Democratic party and no man professing to be a Democrat can be loyally such who favors, either directly or indirectly, monopolies.

What is monopoly?

It is the combination of monied power to arbitrarily control the necessities of life for the aggrandizement of special interests, at the expense of in dustrial labor and the interests and rights of the people.

Sugar coat it as you please that is monopoly.

Brown Monopoly, the concentration of selfishness, and true Democracy, the exponent of justice and liberal equality, there is a chasm wide and deep.

Men seeking legislative positions as representatives of a confiding Democracy may, for reasons best known to themselves, but intensible to the strict adherents of Democratic principles, refuse to pledge monopolistic clans, and thereby subject themselves to the just penalty for political transgression, and incur personal discredit, without involving in their wrong acts the integrity of the party. Democracy, as an organization, it cannot be held responsible.

The Democratic party stands squarely for principles, the very life blood of its existence, and pought to severely rebuke any and every man wearing its honorable badge who dares, for any consideration whatever, to barter pol itical truth for error.

Fairness in success consists in rigid fidelity to avowed principles. In openly and honestly maintaining against every species of opposition and allurement right over wrong.

Steer the good old ship of Democracy close by that chart, and the flag of victory will float from her mast-head and a trustworthy crew crowd her decks.

Democracy and Monopoly are antipodes.

GOV. ABBETT.

Gov. Abbett has done just what all right thinking men has thought that he would do—vetoed the Coal Trust bill. With all the pressure brought to bear upon him by politicians and those who desired to do downfall, Gov. Abbett has smilingly and silently attended to his business in the interests of the people, and when the time came for him to put his signature opposite the most atrocious monopoly bill, which was against the interests of the working people, he did it, just as all who knew his sterling worth, expected him to do. Gov. Abbett, long, stands higher, in the estimation of the working classes than he ever did. It was mainly through his energetic work that New Jersey to-day is so strong Democratic, and if ever a time deserved the position that Leon Abbett aspires to, and has worked so hard for in the interest of the Democratic party—the United States Senatorship—he should have it.

For United States Senator,
LEON ABBETT.

SILVER.

In 1873 when the Republicans demonetized silver, the bullion in a silver dollar was worth $1.32 per ounce, or 3 per cent. more than the gold dollar.

On March 1, 1878, the day after the Bland bill was passed silver sold in New York at $1.20 per ounce, and the coin value of the silver dollar was 93 cents.

In August, 1890, when the Sherman bill went into operation, silver sold in New York at $1.04 per ounce, and the coin value of a silver dollar was 85 cents. To-day the price of silver in the New York market is 86 cents per ounce and the coin value of the Sherman Republican dollar is 66 1-4 cents.

The Actual Loss by Depreciation to the Government upon the Silver Stored in the Treasury Vaults over $100,000,000 caused by Republican Legislation and the Sherman bill.

"I AM A DEMOCRAT."

There is nothing to indicate that the recent trip of Senator D. B. Hill through parts of the South, has strengthened his hold upon the mass of the voters in considering him in the light of a possible Presidential candidate for the Democratic party. The warm welcome everywhere extended Mr. Hill was more typical of Southern hospitality and courtesy, than showing political preferment.—Scantsport, N. C., Leader.

The whole word now operates 900,000 miles of telegraph lines, and the charges of messages amounts to nearly $450,000,000 annually.

That was a glorious speech that Grover Cleveland made at Providence, Rhode Island, Saturday night. It helped bring into line many a vote Democratic for "Little Rhody."

It would be an everlasting reproach to the Democratic party if it should go back on the first Democratic baby the party has had for more than thirty years. We must give at least one term in the White House to Baby Ruth.—Charleston News.

While tearing down an old house at McKeesport, Pa., not long since, which was built in 1838 by Orlando Greer, a box containing the following prophesy was found in the cornice of the building: "Thirty five years from 1838 slavery will not exist in this land, although it will cost thousands of lives to make it so. Thirty five years from now there will be no touch of comic matter in order to elect a factor. The ballot stands for all day will be cast by the people of the United States. Men will touch the ballot as Moses touched the rock for water, and light will dispel the darkness."

COUNCILMAN CHARLES I. FISK.

The Council Resolves Unanimously Thanks to Retired Mr. Ackerson.

(From The Press of April 4.)

The resignation of Councilman Ackerson from the office of councilman from the Third ward was received by the common council last evening. Councilman Marsh, in moving to accept the resignation, said that Mr. Ackerson had left Elizabeth and had requested that Mr. Ackerman had called on to leave the council; he had been a faithful, active member, and had given the city valuable service; and he regretted very much to consent to his withdrawal, and regretted that the resignation was made absolutely necessary by business engagements.

All voted to accept the resignation, and Charles I. Fisk was unanimously elected Mr. Ackerson's successor.

Messrs. Erickson and Frase sought out the new councilman and escorted him to the chamber. Mayor Gilbert administered the oath of office, and Mr. Fisk took his seat after being introduced to his fellow-councilmen.

Mr. Fisk will serve in Mr. Ackerman's place as chairman of the finance committee and on the committees on streets and sewerage and laws and ordinances.

BASE-BALL CHAT.

New Uniforms for the Crescents, and Prom Stand for Reporters.

A representative of a New York sporting goods concern was at the Crescent club-house Saturday night with a line of base-ball and bicycle goods. The boys were measured for new uniforms of gray, with blue and gold trimmings and blue stockings. The club emblem will adorn the breast of each shirt.

Among the many improvements to be made on the Crescent grounds will be a press stand, which has long been needed.

Season tickets will soon be placed on sale.

Past Noble Grand Krank Keeney, of the Order of Rooters, is circulating a subscription paper to raise funds for the new uniforms, and the boys are respo nding gooly.

HO FOR RAPID TRANSIT!

Efforts bis Results a Portion of the Road Will Be in Operation.

A new street railway ordinance was adopted on second reading Monday and ordered engrossed and advertised preparatory to final passage. It provides that the route of the road will be from the corner of West Sixth street and Park avenue along West Sixth street, to Plainfield avenue, to West Seventh street, to Monroe avenue, to West Fourth street, to Grant avenue, to West Front street, to Park avenue, and out Somerset street to the borough line. The experimental section of the road, down West Front street, and through Grant avenue, West Fourth street and Monroe avenue, is to be completed in six months, and the balance within nine months after the council so directs.

An ordinance to grade West Fourth street for the course of the railway was put through its second reading.

TROUBLE OVER A HOUSE.

Permit Refused to Loomis & Rice to Set Their Building Stand

The application of Loomis & Rice for permission to build a house that is already partly constructed in the rear of their lumber yard on the erection of frame buildings inside the fire limits was Monday refused by the following vote:

For—Councilmen Bird and See—2.

To refuse—Councilmen Case, Erickson, Fisk, Frase, Glenn, Johnston, Marsh and Weber—8.

The communication from the committee on school supplies was authorized to purchase some new singing books for the Franklin school.

A communication was received from Miss Bulkley announcing her acc-ptance of the position as Dean of the Woman's college and Associate Professor of Education in the University of Chicago, which will sever her relation with the board at the close of this school term.

The communication was received and ordered to spread on the minutes, with the estimation of the working classes than he ever did. It was mainly through his energetic work that New Jersey to-day is so strong Democratic, and if ever a time deserved the position that Leon Abbett aspires to, and has worked so hard for in the interest of the Democratic party—the United States Senatorship—he should have it.

For United States Senator,
LEON ABBETT.

SILVER.

In 1873 when the Republicans demonetized silver, the bullion in a silver dollar was worth $1.32 per ounce, or 3 per cent. more than the gold dollar.

On March 1, 1878, the day after the Bland bill was passed silver sold in New York at $1.20 per ounce, and the coin value of the silver dollar was 93 cents.

In August, 1890, when the Sherman bill went into operation, silver sold in New York at $1.04 per ounce, and the coin value of a silver dollar was 85 cents. To-day the price of silver in the New York market is 86 cents per ounce and the coin value of the Sherman Republican dollar is 66 1-4 cents.

The Actual Loss by Depreciation to the Government upon the Silver Stored in the Treasury Vaults over $100,000,000 caused by Republican Legislation and the Sherman bill.

"I AM A DEMOCRAT."

There is nothing to indicate that the recent trip of Senator D. B. Hill through parts of the South, has strengthened his hold upon the mass of the voters in considering him in the light of a possible Presidential candidate for the Democratic party. The warm welcome everywhere extended Mr. Hill was more typical of Southern hospitality and courtesy, than showing political preferment.—Scantsport, N. C., Leader.

The whole word now operates 900,000 miles of telegraph lines, and the charges of messages amounts to nearly $450,000,000 annually.

That was a glorious speech that Grover Cleveland made at Providence, Rhode Island, Saturday night. It helped bring into line many a vote Democratic for "Little Rhody."

It would be an everlasting reproach to the Democratic party if it should go back on the first Democratic baby the party has had for more than thirty years. We must give at least one term in the White House to Baby Ruth.—Charleston News.

While tearing down an old house at McKeesport, Pa., not long since, which was built in 1838 by Orlando Greer, a box containing the following prophesy was found in the cornice of the building: "Thirty five years from 1838 slavery will not exist in this land, although it will cost thousands of lives to make it so. Thirty five years from now there will be no touch of comic matter in order to elect a factor. The ballot stands for all day will be cast by the people of the United States. Men will touch the ballot as Moses touched the rock for water, and light will dispel the darkness."

LOOKING FOR A SUCCESSOR.

No Lack of Applicants for Miss Bulkley's Position.

At the meeting of the board of education Monday evening the members present were Messrs. Babcock, Haribut and Probasco. The minutes of the last meeting were approved. The following bills were ordered paid: S. Conway, $7 50; Thos. Peterson, $6; W. Hand, $6; Marsh, Ayres & Co., $3; Plainfield Daily Courier, $15 75; T. and N. J. Telephone Co., $40; Woolston & Buckle, $65 33; L. W. Randolph, $1.75.

The board authorized a requisition to be made upon the assessor and collector to meet the expenses of the school year of 1892 93, of 43 per cent. on the taxable valuation of real and personal property, and also such sums as may be required to make the annual payment on indebtedness and interest.

The salary of the clerk of the board was fixed at $200, for the present year from Jan. 1.

The report was received from the collector of taxes, having deposited $765 in bank, collections for March.

Miss Bulkley was appointed as city superintendent of schools, and supervising principal for the balance of the school year.

The committee on building and repairs reported estimates received for work in front of Stillman building, and the low contract was awarded to Geo. F. White, as was also the work of laying the flagging on Liberty street, at the side of the Washington building.

Tuition money for the second and third quarter was paid over by the principal, amounting to $647.

A set of Appleton's cyclopedia was bought for $70 out of the library fund.

A supplementary catalogue of books in the library was ordered, and the committee on school supplies was authorized to purchase some new singing books for the Franklin school.

A communication was received from Miss Bulkley announcing her acc-ptance of the position as Dean of the Woman's college and Associate Professor of Education in the University of Chicago, which will sever her relation with the board at the close of this school term.

The communication was ordered to spread on the minutes, and confer on all applications for position as principal, and report to the board at the next meeting. the list of applicants is already large.

Auctioned at Alleged Insult.

The communication of James H. Force, presented at a previous meeting of the common council, asking that he be permitted to withdraw his license application, was Monday given further attention at the hands of the councilmen. The communication said:

On the 1st of last February I made application for my license to keep an inn and tavern, confirmed to me all the requirements as to distance as had been previously laid down by the city fathers, and established a good name to yourselves, and satisfactorable to anyone else, my license was refused, and as a result I have been shown the door of your public. In view of the situation I must respectfully withdraw my application now before the honorable body.

The request to withdraw the application had at the previous meeting been regarded. Mr. Erickson had been absent from the meeting. Last night he said that he was surprised, reading the letter in the papers, to think that it should have been permitted to slip through the council unnoticed. Some of the statements—he added—were untrue. The application had not complied with the ordinance. It had not been refused. It had been reported as not complying with the ordinances, as one of the signers was not qualified to sign. If the matter had been referred back to the applicant for correction. He considered that the letter of Mr. F rce that unwarranted reflections on the council. He concluded with the statement that if the application had been correct it undoubtedly would have been granted.

On motion of Mr. Marsh the motion to permit withdrawal of the application was reconsidered, and the motion to permit withdrawal laid on the table. Mr. Frazee alone voted No.

On motion of Mr. Erickson the communication of Mr. Force was ordered returned to him.

Retinal Testimony

W. Thornton Parker, M. D., R. order, Ass-stant of Acting Assistant Surgeons of the U. S. Army, writes:

"SALEM, MASS., March 22, 1891.

"When I was at the front during the Winter of 1861-62, I was suffering from a severe attack of neuralgia, which confined me to my personals. I had, at the Hotel Marquardt, Gonesse, Seine-et-Oise, met Mademoiselle Mary. A speaking of my sickness, he remarked: 'Docteur, you must get some of Allock's Porous Plaster.' To which I replied: 'That may be true, but where shall I get it?' 'Why,' he replied, 'Anywhere in the civilized world, and Mary's home in particular.' Well, I says I could, I always use one and find relief.' I went to the drug store for the plaster, and it did all that my friend had claimed. Ever since then I have found it a reliable remedy from a cold, and I have many times prescribed it for patients.

"The Allcock's Plaster is the best to be had, and does not blister. It is not powerful and undoubtedly, if used promptly will save many valuable lives. Every family should have one on hand, they should put on an Allcock's Plaster as soon as they feel a cold coming on, and it will break it up. Better not wait for the doctor, the upper margin just below the throat. Better not heat too, or milk will curd in the bowels.

"This is not a patent remedy in the ordinary acceptation of the term. It is a standard preparation for the U. S. Army and Navy Hospitals, and I have used Allcock's Porous Plasters for the U. S. Army and Navy Hospitals, and I have used Allcock's Plasters, and find them a reliable remedy for colds, coughs, pains and aches. Allcock's Plasters are the best remedy for colds, coughs, pains and aches. Allcock's Plasters are the best remedy for colds, coughs, pains and aches. Allcock's Plasters are the best

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—James Frisbee, Henry C. Cruse and Charles Long have been made special police.

—The sprains service of the new Grace church will be held Easter Day. Bishop Scarborough will preach.

—Thirty-one electric lights are to be placed on Arlington avenue from Arlington place to Ninth street.

—For delicious ice-cream, and cake to eat with it, go to C. K. Compton's. His is the best of that seasonable dainty.

—The pew committee will be in the new Grace church, Saturday afternoon, to wait upon all who wish to select pews.

—The New York mail that formerly closed in this city at 1:45 p.m. now closes at 12:30, and the 5:30 now closes at 5:20.

—P. M. Hulett has been delayed by ill ness from opening his piano store at 74 West Front street. He will open in a day or two.

—The old town clock no longer strikes, and the committee on fire and buildings has been authorized to look into the matter and consider the question.

—The doctors had a merry meeting at the Alvion Monday night, and their dinner was the best that even the Alvion had provided for them.

—L. B. Taylor, a minor of the First Presbyterian church choir, has been elected superintendent of the Boys' club, and will enter on his duties September 1.

—Somebody wants Tax Payne to again stand back the present line of fence in the North farm, but on a place that belongs to a person by the name of Kitchen.

—The new Netherwood station is to be a handsome affair on the south side of the track, and the approach from the north side is to be by a tunnel under the tracks.

—All property-owners whose sidewalk pavement has been madly uneven by frost or growing tree-roots are to be notified to relay the pavements to an even level immediately.

—Local merchants may now rejoice. A street patrol cart is to be purchased, and the business streets are to be thoroughly cleaned of mud and re'use every day in the week.

—Jennings's blacksmith shop on Madison avenue, which has long been an eyesore, is being torn down by order of the new owner, James W. Jennings, making a great improvement to the street.

—B. T. Barnes cut the thumb off his left hand, Saturday, while chopping wood, clear through the bone, so that it hung by a mere shred of flesh. The surgeons hope to make it grow together again.

—Before you buy your Spring or Summer clothing consult Marshall & Ball, 807 Broad street, Newark. They have a full assortment of their customers with gold watches. Read their advertisement in this issue.

—It is rumored now that Carey, the ex-policeman who is a street railway man for Plainfield, and is using all his endeavor to prevent its construction on West Front street. We'll see about that!

—New crosswalks are to be laid at West Seventh street and Arlington avenue, Eighth and Division streets, Liberty and Second streets, Madison avenue and Sixth street, and Grove place and New street.

—Among the manifold attractions at the coming fair of the Unitarian church will be the exhibition and sale of a series of choice volumes by famous authors, with the well-rs' autorsaph on the fly-leaves.

—The annual meeting of the Boy's Club As ociation will be held in the club rooms, corner of Park place and Front street, on Thursday evening April 14, 1892, at 8 o'clock. All interested are invited to attend.

—The long-deferred trial of the case of Harry Gordon, charged with non-support of his wife, took place before Judge Codington on Monday. The court decided the wife could have a just one, and will fix an amount of alimony.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Drake of Westfield were thrown out of their carriage by their startled team of horses, in front of the Westfield Presbyterian church, Saturday evening. They were badly bruised and shaken up, but not seriously injured.

—Two more big collations are ordered for this month at The Alvion. The first addition to those of Easter lodge on the 18th and Rowe's Arcanum on the 21st. The doctors will have a dinner there Monday night, and the Red Men on the 20th.

—For fair and honorable dealing the firm of Z mmerman & Rumpf can be depended on. They succeed the Pierson Hardware Company at 42 West Front street, where may be found a most complete stock of hardware goods, at lowest cash prices.

—Attention is directed to the advertisement in another column of the Plainfield Produce Co. They have on hand a choice selection of Early Rose, White Star, Hebron and Blush Potatoes, suitable especially for seed, and put up in barrels. Give them a call.

—The sudden expulsion of the members of the Asbedon club, limited, from their rooms on North Avenue, by the landlord, has caused much indignation among them, and hints are made that an action for damages for ejectment will be commenced against the club by its attorney.

—Mrs. John Whitehead says she was assaulted by a would-be robber, Saturday evening, on Fourth street. At about 10 o'clock she went to the kitchen door, to shut the front door, when the departed was discovered behind her.

—William L. Saunders, new mayor of the borough of North Plainfield, made an auspicious beginning of his official career Friday night. His first message is a strong and able document, and he made the pleasing announcement of presenting it verbally to the council, without notes, in ringing and eloquent tones and impressive manner. His appointment of committees was also excellent, the men on their respectivelt committees being especially fitted for the work assigned to them.

—Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson Sunday attended funeral services at Shiloh over the remains of the late Dr. George Tomlinson, father of the Plainfield physician. Deceased was a graduate, in 1831, of the University of Pennsylvania, and practiced medicine in Readstown until 1863. He was one of the organizers of the Cumberland County Bible society, and served as its president in 1857 and in 1872. He was one of the oldest directors of the Cumberland Mutual Fire Insurance company. He was a vice-president of the Cumberland Bible society. For about half a century he had been a deacon in the Seventh-day Baptist church.

Ex-Councilman Cottell Elected Eminent Commander.

At the annual conclave of Trinity Commandery, Knights Templar, of Mt. Holly, held in their asylum Monday night, the following were elected:

Eminent Commander—E. Frank Cottell.
Generalissimo—Charles A. Read.
Captain General—Asa Challer.
Senior Warden—C. H. Hoge.
Junior Warden—C. A. Bugbee.
Treasurer—O. T. Waring.
Recorder—Joseph Hall.
Junior Warden—Henry Woodland.

The Old Home Good Enough.

At the annual meeting of the teachers of the Crescent Avenue Sunday-school, held last week, the following officers were unanimously elected:

Superintendent—W. D. Murfy.
Assistant Superintendent—H. O. Newsom.
Secretary—Miss Belle Feigel.
Treasurer—Jesse Coniglend.
Librarian—J. B. Coward.
Assistant Librarians—H. B. Newbell, Mrs. I. C. Pierson, Mrs. Horace Elmhirst.
Executive Committee—Jerome VanVliet, Mrs. Helen Eaton, Mrs. Goddard.
Literary Committee—H. B. Newbell, J. B. Coward, Miss J. B. Sweetman.

Bailey Benson, Grand Performer, Sunny Skies.

PASSES ISSUED OF TEXAS, MEXICO, ARIZONA AND CALIFORNIA.

Reduced round-trip tickets now on sale via Iron Mountain Route to all points in Texas, Mexico, Arizona and California. Stop-over privileges will be allowed in the States of Arkansas and Texas. For rates, folders, maps, time-tables, call on or address W. E. Hoyt, Gen'l P. & T. Ag't, 261 Broadway, New York.

PERSONALIA.

Charles A. Case is the new bass in the Trinity Reformed church choir.

Mrs. Cornelius Purse has returned from a two months' visit in Nashville, Tenn.

The date of Mr. MacClimont's organ recital is changed from April 19 to April 26.

Miss Libby, of West 8th street, Miss Nettie, of Worcester, Mass., are visiting ex-councilman Hetfield.

The family of S. F. Dunn of East Seventh street have returned from their winter home in New York.

Miss Minnie Hamilton of Paterson is the guest of ex-Councilman and Mrs. E. D. Moffett of Orchard place.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bushnell of Maple Grove, Minnesota, have been spending the winter in New York, have returned home.

Miss Lavers, supervisor of drawing in the Plainfield public schools, has returned from her vacation visit at her old home at Quincy, Mass.

Samuel B. Jackson, father of Mrs J. W. Yates of East Seventh street, died at his home in Brunswick, Me., Sunday, in the eighty-fifth year of his age.

John A. Beerhower and James A. Demarest have been selected by the United States marshal to serve as grand jurors for the United States courts at Trenton.

Miss Edith O. Kellies, one of the most competent and efficient teachers in the Plainfield public school, has sent in her resignation and is to be married this week Thursday.

H. G. Rosale, R. B. Pope, Peter Brunson, A. J. Brunson and E. G. Pope were Tuesday elected directors of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light company for the ensuing year.

J. Fred MacDonald, Seely Eskell, John Johnson, Ralph Bloodgood, Fred Runyon and Elias W. Bird are the Plainfielders chosen on Tuesday to serve on the panel of petit jurors at the April term of court.

The superintendent of the new Grace church will be hel'd on Easter Day, the 17th inst. The session will be preached by Bishop Scarborough. Closing services in the old church will be held next Sunday.

Funeral services over the remains of ex-Senator Robert L. Livingston were held from the late residence of the deceased on Saturday. The attendance was large, and included a number of county officials. The officiating clergymen were the Rev. S. F. Simpson and the Rev. Asa Reed Ditts.

William R. Chapman, conductor of the Metropolis, is to retire as conductor of the Mercurio, club, New York, at the close of the season to be given on the evening of the 19th inst. Frank Damrosch, who is considered by many a superior musician to Theodore Thomas or Walter, will be the man to conduct the "Mercurio" for its future concerts.

Charles B. Davis, who for years made his home in this city, will give a private exhibition of his paintings at his studio, 239 Fifth avenue, New York, April 7, 8 and 9. The exhibition will include oil and water-color paintings, pastels and drawings, by distinguished American artists, including George Wharton Edwards of Plainfield.

Through the exertions of James T. Mitchell and other enthusiastic friends, Charles Burns, secretary of Watchung lodge, No. 161, International Association of Machinists, and chairman of the committee in charge of the very successful anniversary held on the 24th ult., has been presented with an elegant gold badge in token of his untiring efforts in behalf of the occasion.

Ex-councilman John B. Dumont, having purchased the property at the southwest corner of Sixth street and Broadway, will remove thereto from his present standing there and replace it with the house he now occupies on East Front street, which is a beautiful location for owen at Broadway and Seventh street, he will then erect a handsome home for his family.

In the unanimous re-election of Henry H. Brokaw to the office of borough clerk on Friday the North Plainfield council paid a deserving compliment to a most worthy young man and a faithful clerk. Both councilman Bregeman and mayor Saunders took occasion to speak in high commendation of the clerk's past record, and the council did a creditable thing in increasing the clerk's salary from $150 to $200 per year.

A large gathering of mourners attended the funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Jane McGee Saturday. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Mr. Mitchell. Dr. Hurlbut assisting. Appropriate services were held by the Rev. D. E. Titsworth and Mr. and Mrs. L. H Bigelow, jr. The pall-bearers were two sons and four sons-in-law. The floral tributes were many and rich, and the host among whom the departed was sincerely beloved.

William L. Saunders, new mayor of the borough of North Plainfield, made an auspicious beginning of his official career Friday night. His first message is a strong and able document, and he made the pleasing announcement of presenting it verbally to the council, without notes, in ringing and eloquent tones and impressive manner. His appointment of committees was also excellent, the men on their respectivelt committees being especially fitted for the work assigned to them.

Mrs. Mary Ann Bonnell, widow of Joseph Bonnell, died at her residence on Somerset street, Monday night, after a long illness. She was born in Bridgewater, N. J., in the eighty-fifth year of her age.

John A. Beerhower and James A. Demarest have been selected by the United States marshal to serve as grand jurors for the United States courts at Trenton.

Miss Edith O. Kellies, one of the most competent and efficient teachers in the Plainfield public school, has sent in her resignation and is to be married this week Thursday.

H. G. Rosale, R. B. Pope, Peter Brunson, A. J. Brunson and E. G. Pope were Tuesday elected directors of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light company for the ensuing year.

J. Fred MacDonald, Seely Eskell, John Johnson, Ralph Bloodgood, Fred Runyon and Elias W. Bird are the Plainfielders chosen on Tuesday to serve on the panel of petit jurors at the April term of court.

The superintendent of the new Grace church will be hel'd on Easter Day, the 17th inst. The session will be preached by Bishop Scarborough. Closing services in the old church will be held next Sunday.

Funeral services over the remains of ex-Senator Robert L. Livingston were held from the late residence of the deceased on Saturday. The attendance was large, and included a number of county officials. The officiating clergymen were the Rev. S. F. Simpson and the Rev. Asa Reed Ditts.

William R. Chapman, conductor of the Metropolis, is to retire as conductor of the Mercurio, club, New York, at the close of the season to be given on the evening of the 19th inst. Frank Damrosch, who is considered by many a superior musician to Theodore Thomas or Walter, will be the man to conduct the "Mercurio" for its future concerts.

Charles B. Davis, who for years made his home in this city, will give a private exhibition of his paintings at his studio, 239 Fifth avenue, New York, April 7, 8 and 9. The exhibition will include oil and water-color paintings, pastels and drawings, by distinguished American artists, including George Wharton Edwards of Plainfield.

Through the exertions of James T. Mitchell and other enthusiastic friends, Charles Burns, secretary of Watchung lodge, No. 161, International Association of Machinists, and chairman of the committee in charge of the very successful anniversary held on the 24th ult., has been presented with an elegant gold badge in token of his untiring efforts in behalf of the occasion.

Ex-councilman John B. Dumont, having purchased the property at the southwest corner of Sixth street and Broadway, will remove thereto from his present standing there and replace it with the house he now occupies on East Front street, which is a beautiful location for owen at Broadway and Seventh street, he will then erect a handsome home for his family.

In the unanimous re-election of Henry H. Brokaw to the office of borough clerk on Friday the North Plainfield council paid a deserving compliment to a most worthy young man and a faithful clerk. Both councilman Bregeman and mayor Saunders took occasion to speak in high commendation of the clerk's past record, and the council did a creditable thing in increasing the clerk's salary from $150 to $200 per year.

A large gathering of mourners attended the funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Jane McGee Saturday. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Mr. Mitchell. Dr. Hurlbut assisting. Appropriate services were held by the Rev. D. E. Titsworth and Mr. and Mrs. L. H Bigelow, jr. The pall-bearers were two sons and four sons-in-law. The floral tributes were many and rich, and the host among whom the departed was sincerely beloved.

William L. Saunders, new mayor of the borough of North Plainfield, made an auspicious beginning of his official career Friday night. His first message is a strong and able document, and he made the pleasing announcement of presenting it verbally to the council, without notes, in ringing and eloquent tones and impressive manner. His appointment of committees was also excellent, the men on their respectivelt committees being especially fitted for the work assigned to them.

Mrs. Mary Ann Bonnell, widow of Joseph Bonnell, died at her residence on Somerset street, Monday night, after a long illness. She was born in Bridgewater, N. J., in the eighty-fifth year of her age.

GETTING READY FOR WORK.

BOROUGH COUNCILMEN ROLL UP THEIR SLEEVES FOR A BUSY YEAR.

Able Meetings on Interest Before them Never Recorded—Appointments of Borough Officials Considerable Interest—John the Democrats, and the New Mayor Rules the Schools of Power.

The new borough council of North Plainfield organized Monday. The new mayor, William L. Saunders, was escorted to the chair by the retiring mayor, Charles Place, and by him sworn into office. Then the new councilmen, George R. Neal and F. M. L. Connolly, were sworn in, and the mayor flaunders, and all took their seats, in this order:

MAYOR SAUNDERS.
Bregeman	Connolly
Schering	Neal
Hunter	Spencer

Mayor Saunders presented the following message, which was received with applause:

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

GENTLEMEN OF THE COUNCIL—I have, during several years past, visited the affairs of this borough from the standpoint of a tax-payer, and tax-payer, and as I am now honored with the office of mayor it is my privilege as well as my duty to call your attention to questions of importance relating to public interests.

Our citizens have placed upon your shoulders and mine the responsibilities, cares and duties that belong to the management of this borough, but it is not possible that the quality by good conduct only, or that we shall escape criticism unless we can show that the public funds are wisely expended and that the people are protected. It is our duty to do something more. We should anticipate adverse public interest. After giving our first thought to the health and protection of our people we should look to their prosperity by encouraging such public improvements as will fill up our empty lots and add to the number of our citizens.

We need better facilities for transit to such an extent that it becomes our duty to provide them. I am unconditionally in favor of a system of street cars, whether it be by horses, electric trolley or compressed air. The question which we should consider is, how can such a street car franchise is given is small when compared with its great advantages. We should not allow a portion of our streets, and by so we should require the traction company to pay the same part of the street as the condition. That might reduce rather than increase the cost of keeping the streets in order.

Our friends across the brook have taken action on the street-car subject, and we intend to follow in their evident path. We should take steps to extend their system here, provided it is a good one. I believe it has been decided that only the single track introduced, and though I am somewhat inclined to favor a double track, I am convinced that under the tests for propelling street cars, yet to my mind there is nothing the matter with the trolley. It is vastly superior to horse-power and is the most evident quality. I would not recommend the cable. In regard introduction throughout the borough is in my judgment the right policy. It has advanced so far that there is really nothing experimental about it. Our streets are wide enough for a trolley system, and they are not wide enough horse-cars. In the suburbs of the street, and the only free where they are not in the way. It goes without saying that a good system of street cars is to be an advantage to the borough. It will increase our population and increase our property values. It will benefit our churches, our schools and places of amusement, and in doing it this it brings no burdens upon the tax-payer.

Next in importance for your consideration is the question of improving our streets. I am inclined to the opinion that it will be well to adopt a general rule which will provide for macadamizing every street in the borough on which the property-owners subscribe one-half the expense in labor and material. Should we do done, it does not seem to me likely that this will involve any burden, but, on the contrary, those who will be most benefited by such improvement will be called upon to pay the greatest share, and the result would be an increased number of buildings and improved property will equalize in taxes the sum taken from the borough treasury. It has been charged that there are certain streets in the borough which are in such a condition that few engines and heavy trucks cannot travel. If this be true, and if there are any streets which are impassable, it is certainly our duty to see that they are promptly put in good condition.

As to sidewalks, the question seems to have been kept alive during the past year, yet little has been accomplished. The sidewalk is a matter of public health, in their report recently submitted to the council, admit that they have had only two cases of typhoid fever, but do no better than quote the concluding words of their report, which seem to me to be only for your consideration, but your action.

"We do most earnestly recommend, in view of the fact that the subject has been kept alive during the past year, yet little has been accomplished in the matter of sidewalks, that the subject be kept well alive during the present year and that the board of health be given the power to compel such improvement in the re-

You are perhaps aware that a committee was appointed some weeks ago by the Plainfield council did a creditable thing in increasing the clerk's salary from $150 to $200 per year.

A large gathering of mourners attended the funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Jane McGee Saturday. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Mr. Mitchell. Dr. Hurlbut assisting. Appropriate services were held by the Rev. D. E. Titsworth and Mr. and Mrs. L. H Bigelow, jr. The pall-bearers were two sons and four sons-in-law. The floral tributes were many and rich, and the host among whom the departed was sincerely beloved.

William L. Saunders, new mayor of the borough of North Plainfield, made an auspicious beginning of his official career Friday night. His first message is a strong and able document, and he made the pleasing announcement of presenting it verbally to the council, without notes, in ringing and eloquent tones and impressive manner. His appointment of committees was also excellent, the men on their respectivelt committees being especially fitted for the work assigned to them.

Mrs. Mary Ann Bonnell, widow of Joseph Bonnell, died at her residence on Somerset street, Monday night, after a long illness. She was born in Bridgewater, N. J., in the eighty-fifth year of her age.

CHANGES AMONG CONDUCTORS.

What Some of Jersey Central Men Expect for the Near Future Probably.

"Cannon Ball Tuck", of rapid notoriety, is slated for a change in operations. Mr. Tuck's station being the lay-over point. The functionaries are that he will remove his dog kennel to that place, where fleas run wild and then give his thoroughbred animal chance to distinguish himself in between times at clam digging.

Brother Staats, who inevitably never listens Pearsoned of a stupific point on his relieving the mail, and those pleasant days for that station at Graceland, will be promoted to take charge of the "flyer", a train which, having Lorgden and Talking, His grave will be increased in numbers and the o-ffice situs advanced in population.

Mr. Barkly, who frowns on his shape, and whose right hand is known as an informitize, it being said by his enemies that were his mother Burke exposed they would look as though he had been "riding in a jag", has been reported, together with his right bower Eddie Tool, to have earned a vacation; and they may be placed in charge of the dead pound at the "night cleaner" Erebus.

Gentle Willie Rogers will have returned from his well-deserved vacation in time to hear the news as regards himself in the over-worked flutter. I am not posted as yet on what disposition will be made of him, but unquestionably his home will be at Roselle as heretofore.

Warren Sanborn, of military fame, will remain on his present beat. He is one of the most reliable newsmen on the road, and few could find him in the position vice. It seems that he is entitled to a less fatiguing run, but is always good-natured and saves money from his salary. The "Old Man Barley Corn" knows him not.

Joe Rose, not, by the way, a brother of dancing, and plays the violin and the Roselle trains. This will suit Joseph, as a nice little home as the latter place has been in his perspective for some time.

As it now stands, Mr. Rose is to be provided with a bell punch in place of the resolution! His engineer is reported to have said "Great Heavens, if he is I will collect all the fares and punch the entire ticket, for I can hear his click! click! in the ash soon now."

"Pop" Vandale, the man of all others to receive a good berth, by reason of his being one of the seniors in point of service, will in all probability be appointed relief clerk to the assistant general passenger agent, in which position he will have ample time to examine all tickets lifted by his now brother conductors.

Which one of the flight runners, has at present the most trying position, and will probably continue in it. His baggage-master, Thuman, late "spotter" at Jersey City, appears not only to look after his ante-cedent duties, but to keep an eye on his superior. George may have the position of salary reduced, for he has, it seems, that once a spotter, always a spotter.

"Chapple", conducting the Pro-duce express, is sporting a beaming countenance, and well he may, for he has assured him, in the event of suspension, the position of "Sampler" on the floor, providing he will agree to allow snacking to his department, which luxury he now positively prohibits in the rear car of his train, known as the Produce Exchange club car.

"Ike" Muns, of the "Pink" train, with his entire crew, will continue as on the old schedule, providing the floral distillings science to those desirous of "Ike" headers from the platform at the Elizabethport curve.

Such is the report that the "Gilt Edge" conductor will be more run be 2:45 p. m. out. He is to be relieved of such serious burdens, and may run on the "Mosquito Line" between Roselle and Rahway.

Veteran "Billy" Clark will, it is said, be relocated to the care of his brother-in-law George Myer, the expert accountant, and Frank Lake, having time at command that ducks fly northward, and will then have charge of the Barregat express in the fall. So he may find all feel when he escaped his eagle eye up north, on their flight to winter quarters. As he deserves it, good luck will of course attend him wherever he may be.

John Herbert, the only conductor on the line who has as yet proved himself able to control cyclone Jones, the dude passenger-smasher, will, it is said, probably be assigned to the Amboy division and between hours assist canoeing on Lake Lefferts, during the summer revalve. If this crew does not prove there, the veteran nasher Reese Mulford will do well to keep the fences up around his garden.

No other changes have been reported, and so Jake Alcher, who, strictly speaking, is not a Central conductor, may be depended on to prevent (?) his name from appearing in the obnoxious columns of the under-crust on the 12:15 a. m. train for the New York as heretofore

THE COMMUTER.

The Property Owners Rest Pat for It.

$6,000 is said to be the figure that is to be paid the Y. M. C. A., for cutting off some of its property on East Front street, to permit the continuing of Broadway into the borough. The money will be assessed on the owners along the street as benefited, principally on the east side, and probably those also for half a block down each cross street. It is supposed that J. F. Mackenzie, who has many a good sounding foot of property cut off along Broadway from Front to Second street, will be assessed $1,000 gold cash besides.

A Memorial for Al. Bandle.

Many of Plainfield's sportsmen will remember the delightful times had on shooting traps with that congenial and gentlemanly shooter, Al. Bahtle, who died in Syracuse, January 24 after a short illness. His many friends in this city, Dunellen and Elizabeth will be pleased to learn that a movement has been made to raise a memorial fund for a monument to his memory, by selling photographs of the floral tribute which was published by his friends and admirers. At the late tournament in Wilmington, Del., at the suggestion of Fred Kaeple, of the Union Hotel, and Cartridge company, an Al. Bandle memorial race was shot, which netted the sum of $39 towards the fund, which was placed in the hands of Fred. Quimby, of New York, to be sent to the proper authorities. Each shooter put in a dollar and shot at one blue-rock each. It is hoped that all other gun clubs throughout the country will follow this mode of securing the necessary fund, so happily at tried by "Ted Kay".

Don't Be Restrained.

Don't be induced by dealers who pretext that they can sell Dr. Pierce's golden medical discovery at less than those long-established remedy.

Golden Medical Discovery (for Liver, Blood and Lung Diseases), Golden Medical Favorite Prescription (for women's weaknesses and ailments), $1 per bottle, or three bottles (for $2.75, 25 cents per vial. Comp Ext Smart-Weed, 50 cents per bottle. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, 50 cents per bottle.

The genuine medicines can only be sold by druggists, at the above prices. There are more ways than one to make a profit, but the above is the honest one. Reputable dealers tamper with the bottles, or sell imitations. Don't be persuaded to buy a cheap substitute. Buy the genuine, and be sure you get it. Don't be persuaded to buy a substitute. Buy the genuine, and be sure you get it.

—F. M. Hulett, the new piano dealer, is putting in large and handsome stock of pianos and organs.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

OBITUARY.

Smith S. Hedges, M. D.

Dr. Smith Ingalls Hedges, one of the oldest practicing physicians in Morris county, and one of its most valued citizens, died at his residence in Chester at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. He had not been in good health for some time. His death inflicts a deep and abiding sorrow upon the community in which he lived, and where his life was expended for the promotion of the good of its people in every way that human influence could be exerted. Dr. Hedges was born in Bedminster, N. J., 77 years ago, and there his love for his profession, his father, grandfather and great-grandfather all having been physicians, and it is remarkable that his two sons have also had the same profession. He was educated in the Medical department of the University of the State of Penn., from which he was graduated in 1852. He settled in his native village and continued there until within a few years of his death, when failing health led to retire from his profession. He had virtually worn himself out by the assiduity with which he had devoted himself to his profession. As a physician he was eminently successful and was as much beloved for his clearing presence and sympathy as he was for his skill and patience.

As a citizen Dr. Hedges took a foremost position in all movements to promote the public good, and his influence was great because of the confidence of his judgment. His wise counsel has been the stay of many, and he was strong in the possession of all the best qualities of neighbor and friend. In politics he was an enthusiastic Republican, standing staunchly for principle these many years in a community where political sentiment was strongly against him, and for many years he was the postmaster of Chester, filling the position to the satisfaction of the people. In the welfare of the Presbyterian church, of which he was for many years an elder, he was always deeply interested, and his sterling Christian character was to others where recognized. Indeed, in every sense, Dr. Hedges was a well-balanced man—the truest type of a Christian gentleman, and his conception of his duties in every walk of life was equaled only by his fidelity in following his convictions.

Dr. Hedges leaves a widow, a daughter and two sons. The latter are both physicians in successful practice—Dr. Edward W. Hedges, of this city, and Dr. B. Van D. Hedges, resident physician of the Presbyterian hospital, New York city.

MR. McCUTCHEN RETIRES.

His School Secretaryship Accepts His Resignation—Councilman Case His Successor.

The annual election of officers of the First Baptist Sunday-school took place Sunday beginning April, 1892, took place Thursday evening. A very large number of teachers were present. The proceedings were opened with superintendent Charles W. McCutchen in the chair. After the reading of Scriptures, and prayer by the pastor, Mr. McCutchen in a very feeling speech preferred to his many years of service, and requested to be allowed to retire. In severing his connection as superintendent he said he was leaving a greater sacrifice than the school would be.

The election was then proceeded with, and in spite of Mr. McCutchen's withdrawal, he was unanimously re-elected. After some time spent in pleasantries, during which the latter again referred to his inability to assume office another year, a new election was ordered, and councilman Rufus K. Case was elected superintendent for the ensuing year. Messrs. Percy Bigler, Harry Bigler and Brown had received a few scattering votes, and Mr. Case's election was then made unanimous.

The following is the full list of officers elected:

Superintendent—Rufus K. Case.
Assistant Superintendents—Percy B. Bigler, jr.
Secretary—Charles H. Smith.
Assistant Secretary—Harold H. Lenox.
Treasurer—George Brown.
Librarian—B. J. Shriver.
Assistant Librarians—Edward Wilson.

S. B. Joseph was elected superintendent of the Mt. Olive Sunday-school.

Mr. McCutchen has served the First Baptist Sunday-school as superintendent and in other offices most faithfully and acceptably for over twenty years, and his present entire withdrawal is the result of pressure of other work which forces him to lessen his labors in this field. The school has prospered wonderfully under his direction.

Revell a Prouhling Winner.

The second night's bowling in the tournament of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum brought out Revell as high man, and the crack bowler of the Lyceum will have to hustle to beat him.

THE SCORE.

Revell	173	Lynch	160
Revell	180	Gallagher	132
Gunner	160	Gallagher	132
Gunner	127	Owens	159
Revell	132	Gunner	139
Butcher	155	Owens	159
Butcher	127	Gallagher	159
Gallagher	156	Lynch	154
Gallagher	159	Lynch	146

THE RECORD.

	Won.	Lost.	Per.
Revell	3	0	1.000
W. J. Keely	2	1	.666
Gunner	2	1	.666
Carty	2	1	.666
Gallagher	2	1	.666
M. J. Whelan	1	2	.333
Winn	1	2	.333
J. Whelan	1	2	.333
Gunner	1	2	.333
Owens	1	2	.333
Butcher	1	2	.333
Lynch	1	2	.333

High average—Revell, 362; Carty, 156.

Crescent Polos Winners.

The Crescent League tournament finals seems by unanimous consent of the disgusted participants to have languished into oblivion. The games now half, unfinished will probably never be played. Right before last Davis and Green tried to shake up a little excitement, but gave up after a single game, in which Davis made 105 to 187 in Davis's favor. As matters now stand the recipients of the prizes will be:

First—VanBuskirk.	$30
Second—Titus.	20
Third—Harvey Dunn.	10
Fourth—Harvey Dunn.	5
High Average—Lyman, 139.

VanBuskirk's average is 105, but it is stated that no bowler can take two prizes.

From my knowledge of the value of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pills, derived by the use of them in my practice, I do not hesitate to recommend them as a mild and gentle cathartic, producing prompt and healthful results. Jno. C. Peters, M. D., Jackson & Commerce sts., Memphis, Tenn.

Sold by druggists. Rev. C. VAN HANTFOORD, Pastor.

EVERY Family Student School Library
Own a Dictionary.
Care should be taken to GET THE BEST.
WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY
THE INTERNATIONAL NEW EDITION OUTDATED IS THE ONE TO BUY.
SUCCESSOR OF THE UNABRIDGED
Sold by all Booksellers.
G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Publishers, Springfield, Mass., U.S.A.
Send for free pamphlet containing specimen pages, illustrations, etc.

BEAUTY, BRAINS, BRILLIANCY:
THREE CHARACTERISTICS OF "THE TOURIST".
A Charming Volume on Famous Resorts to Given With Each Subscription Mailed to Walter L. Clarke, Special Agent, Lock Box 707, Plainfield, N. J.
Sample Copy, 10 Cents; 3 Year, $1; 6 Mos. 60c.
"TheTourist" Is the Kind of Magazine Your Library Table Ought to Hold.

PRESENTATION
Of New Styles for the Spring and Summer Of 1892, at the
NEWARK BEE HIVE.
THE "BEE-HIVE"
THE LARGEST FANCY GOODS HOUSE IN THE STATE
167-179 BROAD ST.
LADIES', MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S OUTSIDE GARMENTS, SUITS & DRESSES.

Ones more it is our pleasure to direct the ladies of Nes Jersey to our Spring Opening of garments, eclipsing in all the essential features and display it has heretofore been our privilege to offer. Three of the invariable rules upon which the success of this department has been built, are: "Assortments satisfying to the most critical taste." "Prices within the limits of every one's purse." "Materials, such as can be recommended for good service or, in a word, Largest Assortments and Better Values than are obtainable elsewhere in this section. These great inducements should draw every lady to our Department before buying a Spring Garment for self or child.

Spring Exhibit of Pretty Millinery.

Very Latest Modes from Paris, and Original Creations from our Own Workrooms, in a truly grand array of Beautiful Shapes, Jet, Straw and Flower, Toques, Hats and Bonnets. A selection—splendid in variety, beautiful in style and in the standard of change, which has been termed, as a Revelation of Reasonable Prices.

L. S. PLAUT & CO.,

BROAD STREET, 707 to 721,
NEWARK, N. J.

Selling Agents for the Celebrated Standard Quality Worsted Dress Goods.
Exclusive Sellers of the "Bee Hive" Sewing Machines.
Mail Orders Filled.
Mail orders promptly filed.

S 17 y

SHERIFF'S SALE.—New Jersey Supreme Court.

Craig A. Marsh vs. John C. Moore. Fi. fa. de bo. et ter. &c.
Patrick Healy vs. John C. Moore. Fi. fa. de bo. et ter. &c.
Peter Ryan vs. John C. Moore. Fi. fa. de bo. et ter. in debt.
Peter Ryan vs. John C. Moore. Fi. fa. de bo. et ter. in debt.
Mary J. Ingalls

DARKEST WASHINGTON.

The Disease-Breeding Byways of the Nation's Capital City.

Where Misery and Crime Go Hand-in-Hand—A Bright Oasis on Marion Court—Fires for Hire—Attempted Effects.

[Special Washington Letter.]

The alleys and byways of a great city are seldom visited by the busy workers of the world, and are almost entirely neglected usually by those officials who are paid to keep them in a sanitary condition. In this city, however, a recent inspection of the thoroughfares of the poor and lowly developed the fact that the alley system in a well-known portion of the city is not to be equaled for filth, disease and misery in the civilized world. Not a few alleys are known by the name of their occupants, as Hell's Bottom, Goat Alley, Murder Bay, and the like, and in the shanties and hovels which line them are found in the police court. Rattletrap frame buildings are the rule in most of these places, but occasionally a small brick row can be found. All of the houses are unlighted and therefore damp and unhealthful, most of them containing cesspools under their rickety floors, from which all kinds of fetid miasmatic gases proceed, to be absorbed into the lungs and disseminated through the system.

Poverty and crime dwell together all too frequently. Poverty is no doubt many times the cause of crime, while crime is often always the concomitant of poverty. Down by the oyster wharves, described in a recent letter, there is a group of these alleys and courts in which the poor are huddled, and from these places comes the criminals of this city in great numbers. They know and help each other with all the sympathy and fidelity of a family. These are the razor carriers who can and slash their victims upon the slightest provocation with that most deadly of all weapons. The highway robberies committed south of Pennsylvania avenue, with which our daily papers teem, are the work of the people of these alleys near the wharves. They pass their booty from man to man until it is almost impossible to trace the watch or purse which has been stolen, sometimes in broad daylight. The beautiful agricultural forest known as the Arcadia, National Museum, the Smithsonian, Agricultural, and Washington Monument park is surrounded with a well-nigh popular belt. To the west and northwest from the Center market on Seventh street to the treasury department building on Fifteenth street, there is a cordon of crime, lasciviousness, lewdness and profligacy through which the respectable people of the national capital do not care, nor dare, to go. It is densely populated with wicked women and every criminal name. South of the great park are the alleys adjoining and contiguous to the wharves, extending from a point far above the mouth of the Potomac. It is into this section of the city that the investigator, the home missionary and the agent of our charitable societies should go to find the poor and relieve the pangs of poverty.

Marion Court.

Pauline Lucca's Training School.

Baroness von Walhofen, better known by her stage name of Pauline Lucca, has established an operatic training school in her beautiful villa at Gmunden, in upper Austria. A private theater is attached to the villa and during the summer season, when Gmunden is thronged with all the great world of Vienna, the baroness proposes to give entertainments in behalf of local charities, in which her protegés will make their debut. As she is exceedingly wealthy, her organization of this school must be regarded rather as an outcome of love of art than by any pecuniary consideration. She has selected the well-known Italian maestro, Robert Muller, as the dramatic teacher and stage manager. The baroness was a very warm friend of Emperor William, who conferred upon her the title of court contatrice. Prince Bismarck, who was one of her most ardent admirers in days gone by and on one occasion had himself photographed with her. Copies of this photograph are still extant.

MIRROR IN A GLOVE.

A Novel Device for Girls Who Are Fond of Looking Glasses.

Here you have it, girls! Without merely desiring to remind herself of her good looks, a woman often has need of as much looking glass as she can see her face in. In the street, at a ball, at a theater, in the shops, the fear of little disarrangements may count, and to set them right a mirror is an absolute necessity. This now is a new discovery. The want is one that really has been long felt, and some clumsy attempts have been made to meet it. But the very handiest form of portable mirror is the new "mirror glove," which is a St. Louis reporter recently described in the Post-Dispatch. A little flap is buttoned up into the palm of one glove. When it is let down a small circular mirror is disclosed. The advantage of this arrangement is that you can look at yourself without appearing to do so.

A Relic of the War.

The following is a copy of a bill, written in lead pencil on coarse yellow, wove paper, for soldiers' board which every ware sold at auction in Raleigh, N. C., January 7, 1864. The war was still nearly a year and a half from its close, so some idea may be gained of what prices rose to in the last days of the Confederacy:

2 Waiters, each $4.00	$8.00
1 Nurse [illegible]	4.00
2 Stone crocks, each $2.25	4.50
1 Stone pitcher	2.00
6 Teacups and saucers	2.00
6 Plates, each 50 cts	3.00
1 Dish	1.00
2 Bowls, each 75 cts	1.50
1 Pitcher, each $1.00	1.00
1 Sugar bowl and cover	2.00
1 Table cloth, each $1.00	1.00
1 Set stands, each $1.00	1.00
1 Soup ladle	2.00
1 Gravy do	2.00
1 Dozen fine crackers	2.00
1 Dinner plates, each 50 cts	1.00
1 Wash bowl, each 50 cts	1.00
Total	$40.00

How He Dodged the Whale.

A deep-sea fisherman tells of a startling adventure that he had with a whale near Grand Manan recently. He and his fellows were almost in the whale's wake, when the whale, with great presence of mind and steadiness of nerve, hit three a quick blow, striking the monster full in the eye. While the whale was wondering what struck him the fishermen escaped.

Cremation in France.

The French seem to be taking to cremation, and it is predicted that very soon that will be the only method in use of disposing of the dead. It is stated that since last October, in addition to the ordinary crematorium in France, more than 6,000 bodies have been sent from the hospitals to be cremated.

Homemade Ice-Cream.

Anybody can make his own ice-cream in five minutes, and for an expenditure of two or three cents, says a correspondent. If the preparation desired to be frozen is placed in a tin bucket or other receptacle it can be readily congealed by putting it in a pail containing a thick, diluted mixture of coal and water. Into this throw a handful of common Glauber salts, and the freezing cold will ensue. It was that a bottle of wine immersed in the mixture will be frozen solid in a few minutes, and that a pint or less may be quickly and easily prepared.

Monumental Humor.

"Pop, my little boy, 2 feet 8 inches high, is at school; you see too small to work.

"Mary, I have to work to support my family.

"Why, is your father dead?"

"No, sir; he's an inventor."—Texas Siftings.

PLEASURE OF DYING.

Last Sensations in This World Almost Always Pleasant.

[Special Sunday.]

Dr. W. R. Atkinson, secretary of the Chicago Medical association, is a firm believer in euthanasia. This, says the Chicago Evening Post, is the scientific name for a pleasant death, however seductive it really, would hardly, it is to be believed, have commended itself to the philosophy of the epicurean school. Dr. Atkinson and those who believe with him hold that dying is by no means the unmitigated suffering it has been pictured.

As the end of life approaches much is done by the kindly, merciful nature often bringing her peculiar anæsthetic and the person passes off without suffering half the agony which the sickness causing the death brought to the patient. Even men meeting a violent death in the midst of wild battle have a few seconds of calm preparation before dying, which brings relief and a certain degree of pleasure. The great trouble in death is the sickness and pain which carries one to the door of the grave, and it is a remarkable fact that when one suffers all the torment and agony of a disease.

The pleasures of dying can only be likened to those of the dreamy morphine eater. The mind gradually passes into a semi-conscious state where everything seems like floating visions of bliss. The body and nerves are numb, and the excited, overwrought brain becomes quiet and unexcited.

The imagination plays fancifully with blissful pictures, and the whole condition of the nervous system is of a pleasurable character. The dreamy, weak man experiences the same relief and pleasure when the struggles are over and the end is drawing near.

DR. WILLIAM RIDDLE ATKINSON.

Persons frozen in blinding snowstorms have described their sensations accurately, and they all agree that they suffer no pain, only a sense of sufferance which everyone fee s at first in extreme cold, they enter into a blissful state from which they do not wish to be roused.

Before the death rattle is heard the unconscious brain passes into the stage of delirium, which is generally pleasant and during the summer season, when Gmunden is thronged with all the great world of Vienna, the baroness proposes to give entertainments in behalf of local charities, in which her protegés will make their debut. As she is exceedingly wealthy, her organization of this school must be regarded rather as an outcome of love of art than by any pecuniary consideration. She has selected the well-known Italian maestro, Robert Muller, as the dramatic teacher and stage manager. The baroness was a very warm friend of Emperor William, who conferred upon her the title of court contatrice. Prince Bismarck, who was one of her most ardent admirers in days gone by and on one occasion had himself photographed with her. Copies of this photograph are still extant.

MIRROR IN A GLOVE.

A Novel Device for Girls Who Are Fond of Looking Glasses.

Here you have it, girls! Without merely desiring to remind herself of her good looks, a woman often has need of as much looking glass as she can see her face in. In the street, at a ball, at a theater, in the shops, the fear of little disarrangements may count, and to set them right a mirror is an absolute necessity. This now is a new discovery. The want is one that really has been long felt, and some clumsy attempts have been made to meet it. But the very handiest form of portable mirror is the new "mirror glove," which is a St. Louis reporter recently described loading men there was imprinted the murder-mark of Cain, and for a paltry dime or half a dollar possibly they would sacrifice a human life.

MUSIC IN MARION COURT.

South in the northwest section of the city, there is a bevy of houses on Market court, hemmed in from the fashionable residences of Rhode Island avenue and the busy marts of trade on Seventh street, accessible only through a narrow over-arched passageway. There are ash heaps, broken bottles, empty cans, broken bottles, numerous cats, vicious dogs and still more vicious men. There vice and profligacy abound, because the population is dense and the houses small. These people, however, are of a higher grade of civilization than their fellow sufferers in south Washington.

In one of these little cubby-holes there was a broken-down piano with sour notes for keys. Somehow it had been found, and sitting on a soap box before it a colored girl brought forth soulful strains of sacred music. She sang a song learned in some Sunday-school and was accompanied by the heavy base of an unshaved man. The strange part of the girl was the servant of some white family in the neighborhood, to whom the piano had been given when it passed the day of usefulness in the fashionable parlor. In another one of these rows of houses in the court a woman with a throng of children gathered. Two attempted negro minstrel banjos while another swam scraped the strings of a squeaky violin. In a room which one would suppose might not contain more than a dozen persons there were at least twenty or more dancing and clapping their hands in unison with the music. The ordinary "break down" and the wench the roof was singular in the extreme. The alley was a picture of neglect and squalor, yet through the piano window panes there came the sounds of music, giving evidence of an ambition on the part of the poverty-stricken denizens to lift themselves above the level of their surroundings. The churches are all around, but the doors of them are barbed for wealthy people, and the pews occupied by the devotees of fashion. The poor and ill-clad know that they are not welcome in such houses of the Lord as are crowded in these latter days. They know also that no emissaries from these sacred precincts enter their alleys in accordance to the Scriptures.

A PEDDLER IN LOCUST ALLEY.

Cruel Injunction.

"Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in."

Similar scenes to those described above occur wherever the foul alleys, Le Droit court, Chinch Bug row, Soap alley, Glick's alley, Purdy's court, Louse alley, Cabbage alley and other densely populated quarters of the city too numerous to describe in detail, can be found. In all of these alleys oyster dealers and fresh fish mongers go with their goods to sell by the penny-worth or necessaries. Some venturesome peddlers, carrying packs upon their backs containing shoe strings, collar buttons, thimbles, needles, pins, etc., locate in these alleys and do a thriving business. It is a fact that the most profitable business done by the city pawnbrokers is with the denizens of these alleys. After dog, the cat is considered the best meat which comes within impunity, because the inhabitants of these alleys are composed of poverty and filth insure that the life of a well-known pedestrian would not be taken with impunity. Discovery and arrest by the policemen, who are thoroughly familiar with the haunts of these dens of iniquity, would hardly, it is to be believed, have contributed itself to the philosophy of the epicurean school. Dr. Atkinson and those who believe with him hold that dying is by no means the unmitigated suffering it has been pictured.

As the end of life approaches much is done by the kindly, merciful nature often bringing her peculiar anæsthetic and the person passes off without suffering half the agony which the sickness causing the death brought to the patient. Even men meeting a violent death in the midst of wild battle have a few seconds of calm preparation before dying, which brings relief and a certain degree of pleasure. The great trouble in death is the sickness and pain which carries one to the door of the grave, and it is a remarkable fact that when one suffers all the torment and agony of a disease.

The pleasures of dying can only be likened to those of the dreamy morphine eater. The mind gradually passes into a semi-conscious state where everything seems like floating visions of bliss. The body and nerves are numb, and the excited, overwrought brain becomes quiet and unexcited.

The imagination plays fancifully with blissful pictures, and the whole condition of the nervous system is of a pleasurable character. The dreamy, weak man experiences the same relief and pleasure when the struggles are over and the end is drawing near.

DR. WILLIAM RIDDLE ATKINSON.

Persons frozen in blinding snowstorms have described their sensations accurately, and they all agree that they suffer no pain, only a sense of sufferance which everyone fee s at first in extreme cold, they enter into a blissful state from which they do not wish to be roused.

Before the death rattle is heard the unconscious brain passes into the stage of delirium, which is generally pleasant and during the summer season, when Gmunden is thronged with all the great world of Vienna, the baroness proposes to give entertainments in behalf of local charities, in which her protegés will make their debut. As she is exceedingly wealthy, her organization of this school must be regarded rather as an outcome of love of art than by any pecuniary consideration. She has selected the well-known Italian maestro, Robert Muller, as the dramatic teacher and stage manager. The baroness was a very warm friend of Emperor William, who conferred upon her the title of court contatrice. Prince Bismarck, who was one of her most ardent admirers in days gone by and on one occasion had himself photographed with her. Copies of this photograph are still extant.

MIRROR IN A GLOVE.

A Novel Device for Girls Who Are Fond of Looking Glasses.

Here you have it, girls! Without merely desiring to remind herself of her good looks, a woman often has need of as much looking glass as she can see her face in. In the street, at a ball, at a theater, in the shops, the fear of little disarrangements may count, and to set them right a mirror is an absolute necessity. This now is a new discovery. The want is one that really has been long felt, and some clumsy attempts have been made to meet it. But the very handiest form of portable mirror is the new "mirror glove," which is a St. Louis reporter recently described loading men there was imprinted the murder-mark of Cain, and for a paltry dime or half a dollar possibly they would sacrifice a human life.

MUSIC IN MARION COURT.

South in the northwest section of the city, there is a bevy of houses on Market court, hemmed in from the fashionable residences of Rhode Island avenue and the busy marts of trade on Seventh street, accessible only through a narrow over-arched passageway. There are ash heaps, broken bottles, empty cans, broken bottles, numerous cats, vicious dogs and still more vicious men. There vice and profligacy abound, because the population is dense and the houses small. These people, however, are of a higher grade of civilization than their fellow sufferers in south Washington.

In one of these little cubby-holes there was a broken-down piano with sour notes for keys. Somehow it had been found, and sitting on a soap box before it a colored girl brought forth soulful strains of sacred music. She sang a song learned in some Sunday-school and was accompanied by the heavy base of an unshaved man. The strange part of the girl was the servant of some white family in the neighborhood, to whom the piano had been given when it passed the day of usefulness in the fashionable parlor. In another one of these rows of houses in the court a woman with a throng of children gathered. Two attempted negro minstrel banjos while another swam scraped the strings of a squeaky violin. In a room which one would suppose might not contain more than a dozen persons there were at least twenty or more dancing and clapping their hands in unison with the music. The ordinary "break down" and the wench the roof was singular in the extreme. The alley was a picture of neglect and squalor, yet through the piano window panes there came the sounds of music, giving evidence of an ambition on the part of the poverty-stricken denizens to lift themselves above the level of their surroundings. The churches are all around, but the doors of them are barbed for wealthy people, and the pews occupied by the devotees of fashion. The poor and ill-clad know that they are not welcome in such houses of the Lord as are crowded in these latter days. They know also that no emissaries from these sacred precincts enter their alleys in accordance to the Scriptures.

A PEDDLER IN LOCUST ALLEY.

Cruel Injunction.

"Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in."

Similar scenes to those described above occur wherever the foul alleys, Le Droit court, Chinch Bug row, Soap alley, Glick's alley, Purdy's court, Louse alley, Cabbage alley and other densely populated quarters of the city too numerous to describe in detail, can be found. In all of these alleys oyster dealers and fresh fish mongers go with their goods to sell by the penny-worth or FAMILY SCRAP BASKET.

All clothes should be thoroughly aired after washing before starching.

Charcoal dissolves impure and brank will save many a cake of bad yeast.

A small quantity of salt put in eggs before beating will cause them to whip much finer and lighter.

Warmed skimmed milk (sweet) applied to an oil painting or painted floor after washing will improve it wonderfully.

In making sauce for pudding, brown in the dish you intend to serve it in, then dry, add cornstarch, and you will have a much richer sauce.

All the ingredients for good milk-toast should not be cooked in the same dish before the milk is put in. This prevents the slightly burned taste the milk from scalding.

To remove dusty and discolored chandeliers wash in a mixture of whiting powder and copal varnish. The fragrant where they are, purchased will tell you what proportion they should be mixed.

A tin dish will wear much longer and retain its color better if before using it for the first time it is thoroughly greased with good lard (outside and in) and allowed to remain for some time before washing it off.

Have a dozen onions planted in the cellar where they can get a little light and air. Cut off the ends before boiling, and the atmospheric ingredities that are so apt to lurk in such places will be absorbed. Have a small hot soda once a week, then shake it till it is almost dry, and then hang it up or stand it with the handle down. Will last twice as long as it would without this operation.

By lining a lead pencil in a jar of linseed oil until it is thoroughly saturated, lead, wood and all, it will be found that the lead has been toughened and softened, and the pencil will outwear two of the untreated.

A shovel for fine sand placed on a board to rub your flatirons on when ironing; also a piece of paper saturated with beeswax and the iron rubbed over that after it has undergone the said treatment will make the ironing process easier.

PRETTY CARD RECEIVER.

It Is Hardly Made use of as Ornament to Any Room.

A flat basket of fancy weave is used for this dainty receiver. It may be painted pale blue, pale pink, white, gold, silver or bronze, and lined with India silk or soft silk muslin. About the middle of the basket is a wide ribbon that is tied in a handsome bow on the handle; a cluster of Easter lilies, jonquils, narcissus, roses, tulips, or whatever flowers may be in season, are tastefully caught in the bow, with beautiful effect. These baskets are not expensive if purchased at the right time, and they may be easily tinted the color desired.—Old Homestead.

CARD RECEIVER.

SOME NURSERY HINTS.

How to Care Judiciously and Properly for Children.

An ailing child should be kept in a pure atmosphere and have fresh air to breathe. This does not mean that the windows must be thrown wide open and the little body chilled with draughts. The temperature of a sick room should never fall below sixty-five degrees, and by illness be kept at from seventy to seventy-five degrees. Fresh air must be admitted and enough artificial heat supplied to keep the temperature uniform. Even in the extremely cold weather the window must be closed and the room aired when the child is asleep. At this time it can be covered from head to foot with a blanket, the face protected and the window opened for a few minutes. The extra covering must be left on until the thermometer again registers sixty-five degrees. The temperature of a sick room should never fall below sixty-five degrees, and by illness be kept at from seventy to seventy-five degrees. Fresh air must be admitted and enough artificial heat supplied to keep the temperature uniform. Even in the extremely cold weather the window must be closed and the room aired when the child is asleep. At this time it can be covered from head to foot with a blanket, the face protected and the window opened for a few minutes. The extra covering must be left on until the thermometer again registers sixty-five degrees. The temperature of a sick room should never fail

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS a YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, APRIL 14, 1892. No 15.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in the limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

The Constitutionalist.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE,
Editors and Proprietors.
Published Every Thursday,
AT PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Advertising at Reasonable Rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CROWTHER,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Solicitors in Equity, Masters in Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Somerset street, Plainfield.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 114. Office, No. 7, 2d floor. Will take in exchange for or on commission, Furniture, Carpets, etc.

DR. CHARLES H. TRIMM,
Dentist,
At West Front street, a new local anesthetic is applied before the patient is aware, without pain. Gold fillings a specialty.—3-30

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
147 Broadway, New York city, rooms 20 and 21. Lindsley and Talmage Block, Plainfield, N. J., Thursday, P. M.

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VAN ARSDALE,
PIANO TUNER.
Orders may be left through order Terminus Co. and Cranmer & Hooper for sale and to tuning. Residence, 1 Rock Terrace, Plainfield. Van Arsdale's Storeroom, 1 Park avenue will receive orders for tuning, repairing, &c. All Work Guaranteed. Satisfaction.

JOHN CHANDLER,
CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Residence and office, No. 36 East 3d St. Orders promptly attended to. Apply

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, cor. Front St., Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
(Successor to W. S. Maynard.)
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Plainfield, N. J.
Shaving, Shampooing, &c.

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS,
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of fire a can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in the section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping, Plumbing,
Heater Work, Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. 12 11-tf

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Garret Q. Packer.
SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class workmanship and workmanlike manner.
Having purchased Mr. Joseph Wyer's Plumbing and Gas Fitting business, I am now prepared to do all work in that line, and guarantee satisfaction in every case. Orders left at my shop, No. 2 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 2 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
MANUFACTURED ONLY BY THE
D. P. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
NEWARK, N. J.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
BROTHERS' PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
HORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
SENT IN THE WORLD.
GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

ESTABLISHED 1835.
C.E. & J.W. BROWN,
(Successors to H. F. & C. E. Brown & Co.)
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.

English Tints, Anaglypta, Hard, Leather Gilded Flock Papers, &c. Ref ings for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.

LIVERY.
Woolston & Buckle.
PAINTERS.
PAINTERS' SUPPLIES, 20 SOUTH AVENUE

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables

Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Hacks for Weddings, Parties and Funerals. Horses for all purposes. Boarding a Specialty.
RIDING OR LIVERY
Orders left at the office or stables will receive prompt attention.
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 56.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The undersigned would respectfully call attention to the general carting business of the city, delivering goods to and from the depot, or any place in town.
Residence of Farmers, Plainfield, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.
WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Beautiful Assortment!
Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements.
Lawn Mowers, Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 13 SOMERSET ST. 3-18-tf

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Has taken the sole proprietorship of the old established
No. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the best of
Fresh and Salt Meats.
From of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished at short notice.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman
EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON.
[Successor to T. C. Cozey.]
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—E. FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans for Furniture. Goods delivered in any part of the U. S. Baggage to and from Depots a specialty. P. O. Box 1.

EDUCATIONAL

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN
12 LaGrande Avenue,
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET,
Will reopen THURSDAY, SEPT. 17, 1891.
The regular course will include Modeling, Drawing and Cooking.

CIGARS, &c.
D. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The most satisfactory 5c. cigar in the State and also manufacturer of the following Brands:
CLEAR HAVANA AMPERIALS.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
CIGARS!
Tobacco and Smokers' Materials,
Of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" tobacco, the finest, with cheroots manufacturer assistants on hand.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And Dealer in all Kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and Smokers' Articles, 106 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Cigars of my own manufacture of the finest brands always on hand. Orders from the trade solicited.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS' SUPPLIES.
Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
HANG PAPERING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

ROBBER PROOF CARS.

Express Companies Seek or Some Safe Contrivance.

Inventors at Work—One Man Proposes a Monitor Car, Another Has a Armed Man in a Turret—Various Other Suggestions.

[SEPTEMBER, 1891.]

There lie in the desk of the secretary of the American Express Company at his No. 45 Broadway two hundred plans, one of which will be adopted within a few days, as affording the safest means of transporting valuables across the country. The designs are presented only by men who have been or are in the service of one express company in the United States or Canada and cover every feasible idea from the tarreted monitor car to the plain iron box with a drop bottom and the double steel-cage car.

Talking with Secretary Flagg, in whose possession the designs are, about the proposition at the Chicago meeting I was rather surprised to hear him express the view that nothing absolutely indestructible could be built.

"While one of the designs will undoubtedly be accepted and the prize will of course be awarded," said Mr. Flagg. "I still have a hesitancy in believing that we have been able to overcome the danger from the professional criminal genius. After all we must depend upon the watchfulness of individuals. It is not with us as with banks and trust companies where valuables are stationary, and where the amplest protection is provided by means of iron safes and armed guards. With us valuables are continually being moved from place to place, and when we build an iron car in which to transport money and other articles of worth it is more for protection against fire than against the train robber. Why, if we should be able to transport a forty-foot safe across the country there is no question in my mind but that some dynamiting crank would get into it.

L. W. WINCHESTER OF THE NATIONAL EXPRESS.

WEIGHS TOO MUCH.

"Take for instance the monitor design which was submitted to us. That is really an absurd pattern, for its weight alone would make it an impossible addition to any express facilities. Then imagine an armed guard on the turret, and you have the completion of the most ridiculous idea of all. Let a man, the country there is no question in my mind but that some dynamiting crank would get into it.

"Take for instance the monitor design which was submitted to us. That is really an absurd pattern, for its weight alone would make it an impossible addition to any express facilities. Then imagine an armed guard on the turret, and you have the completion of the most ridiculous idea of all. Let a man, I say, the watchfulness and the discretion of individuals on which we depend. I believe that the highest tribute paid to McInerney, the messenger who shot to pieces by forty to his attempt to rob a New York Central express car recently, was by the robbers themselves. McInerney, said he, 'was indiscreet; he didn't put up his hands when I told him to.'

"It will be interesting in this connection to read the exact circular issued on the subject of a prize plan:

"One hundred dollars will be paid, subject to the following conditions, to any man connected with an express company who will successfully submit the best plan for a messenger working or office safe suitable for the carrying and handling of money, valuables and small parcel business, to be placed in the car between the front and right fore will. Plans to be drawn to a scale of one inch to the foot. Each plan must be given a name on face and accompanied by a sealed envelope containing the name of the submitting name, envelope to be indorsed with name of the plan to which it belongs. Plans to be sealed by party submitting plan (who must be connected with an express company) and left at the nearest office of the company, will make the final decision and award of best plan shall have been made.

"The decision will be reached some time in the fall.

The robbery on the New York Central was the straw that broke the camel's back. It was the climax in a year of the most disastrous and successful train robberies the country has known. Every state in the union had a few to record, but the New York express car was as the dynamite year, for no month passed in that memorable period that had not a train robbery as part of its criminal history.

MESSENGER MCINERNEY.

"Bob" Pinkerton, talking about the possibility of breaking into the train robbing gangs, remarked that they had really been more successful in this work than the police. "I suppose," said the secretary, as you know," he said, "is under arrest, and just went we caught Albert B. Hyde in connection therewith. Sig is a much more dangerous man and a much more daring criminal than Peter."

It seems that the Pinkertons have been able to connect Sig with three of the most daring robberies of the year. He is a man who is skillful with the use of dynamite, and it is unquestionably he who, following up the Dunsmuir train robbery, did the terrible work at Glendale. Most on November 30 of last year, and at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in September between Chicago and Milwaukee, a few days before.

The point for Sig, while longer than that for Perry, was full of peril to the men who were on his track. His record was traced from 1885, when he stole $60,000 from the express company in St. Joseph, to his very last escapade. He was captured at San Diego after a most terrible resistance.

"There is one thing I would like to say," said a high official of the American Express Company, after detailing to me the inside story in connection with the Perry robbery. "There never was a braver man in the employ of an express company than McInerney, the messenger who so successfully resisted the attempt at robbery.

"It is subject that we know of Perry's identification after the first robbery at Glen. The Pinkertons had chased him from town to town, and on the day of the second robbery they were within a few miles of the whereabouts of the robber, as they had followed him to Marseilles.

WANTED SOMETHING DYNAMITE PROOF.

Manager Hitchcock, of the United States company, believes that the only feasible car will be that which can prevent the introduction of unbidden dynamite emeute or nitro-glycerine or other explosive.

"You see," said he, "these fellows can always get into a car as it is built now, but they no longer are able to get anything out of it unless they dynamite the new steel-back safes which are being put in everywhere. These, you know, are the safes which contain the money and valuables, and only one at the present time is known to the combination.

"Before these criminals got into the habit of blowing in car doors and ends our old combination portable safes were a source of trouble, but now we realize that we are dealing with men with revolvers. I believe that the most steel car, iron sides and ends, steel floor, would be an expense car and set within this safe locked by one big-fire-proof and burglar-proof combination. Some of the safes will, of course, be so adjusted that the lock can be opened from an inside door by messengers or agents. Dynamite may break the steel partition, but it will not break the safes.

"One of the strongest designs came to the express companies came from St. Louis. It was that of a crank who proposed to build fifteen under the tracks at every station where money and valuables were left. He then proposed that the car be built solidly of iron and steel with a double casing of steel within. All the ventilation would come from a few minute openings at the bottom of the car. This car door was to be locked, so that it had to be opened by some one in the hold at present station. It would then sink and could be unloaded, pushed up and relocked.

THE STEEL CAGE CAR, SHOWING STEEL CASING AND TIME-LOCKED DOOR.

One of the ablest expressmen in the country, Col. Locke W. Winchester, general manager of the National Express Company, has adopted some unique ideas of his own in connection with the transportation business of his company. He, like Waldo Adams, of the Adams Express Company, and H. B. Plant, of the Southern Express Company, believes in increasing the protection to valuables by extra guards, and I understand that in all these companies, as well as on many of the express trains of the other corporations, six men are detailed for duty on every train that carries a large amount of valuable property. One of these is stationed with the messenger in the express car. Another is supposed to move about all parts of the train, from the engine to the last car, as often as possible during the run. The rest are under his supervision, and are stationed wherever he may be desirable to have them. On the gold car from San Francisco which is shown by Percy in his attempt to rob a New York Central express car recently, was by the robber himself, McInerney said he, 'was indiscreet; he didn't put up his hands when I told him to.'

It will be interesting in this connection to read the exact circular issued on the subject of a prize plan:

"One hundred dollars will be paid, subject to the following conditions, to any man connected with an express company who will successfully submit the best plan for a messenger working or office safe suitable for the carrying and handling of money, valuables and small parcel business, to be placed in the car between the front and right fore will. Plans to be drawn to a scale of one inch to the foot. Each plan must be given a name on face and accompanied by a sealed envelope containing the name of the submitting name, envelope to be indorsed with name of the plan to which it belongs. Plans to be sealed by party submitting plan (who must be connected with an express company) and left at the nearest office of the company, will make the final decision and award of best plan shall have been made.

"The decision will be reached some time in the fall.

The robbery on the New York Central was the straw that broke the camel's back. It was the climax in a year of the most disastrous and successful train robberies the country has known. Every state in the union had a few to record, but the New York express car was as the dynamite year, for no month passed in that memorable period that had not a train robbery as part of its criminal history.

MESSENGER MCINERNEY.

"Bob" Pinkerton, talking about the possibility of breaking into the train robbing gangs, remarked that they had really been more successful in this work than the police. I suppose," said the secretary, as you know," he said, "is under arrest, and just went we caught Albert B. Hyde in connection therewith. Sig is a much more dangerous man and a much more daring criminal than Peter.

It seems that the Pinkertons have been able to connect Sig with three of the most daring robberies of the year. He is a man who is skillful with the use of dynamite, and it is unquestionably he who, following up the Dunsmuir train robbery, did the terrible work at Glendale. Most on November 30 of last year, and at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in September between Chicago and Milwaukee, a few days before.

The point for Sig, while longer than that for Perry, was full of peril to the men who were on his track. His record was traced from 1885, when he stole $60,000 from the express company in St. Joseph, to his very last escapade. He was captured at San Diego after a most terrible resistance.

"There is one thing I would like to say," said a high official of the American Express Company, after detailing to me the inside story in connection with the Perry robbery. "There never was a braver man in the employ of an express company than McInerney, the messenger who so successfully resisted the attempt at robbery.

"It is subject that we know of Perry's identification after the first robbery at Glen. The Pinkertons had chased him from town to town, and on the day of the second robbery they were within a few miles of the whereabouts of the robber, as they had followed him to Marseilles.

WANTED SOMETHING DYNAMITE PROOF.

Manager Hitchcock, of the United States company, believes that the only feasible car will be that which can prevent the introduction of unbidden dynamite emeute or nitro-glycerine or other explosive.

"You see," said he, "these fellows can always get into a car as it is built now, but they no longer are able to get anything out of it unless they dynamite the new steel-back safes which are being put in everywhere. These, you know, are the safes which contain the money and valuables, and only one at the present time is known to the combination.

"Before these criminals got into the habit of blowing in car doors and ends our old combination portable safes were a source of trouble, but now we realize that we are dealing with men with revolvers. I believe that the most steel car, iron sides and ends, steel floor, would be an expense car and set within this safe locked by one big-fire-proof and burglar-proof combination. Some of the safes will, of course, be so adjusted that the lock can be opened from an inside door by messengers or agents. Dynamite may break the steel partition, but it will not break the safes.

"One of the strongest designs came to the express companies came from St. Louis. It was that of a crank who proposed to build fifteen under the

L. W. WINCHESTER OF THE NATIONAL EXPRESS

The Constitutionalist.

W... FORCE. | A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chosen the City of Chicago as the place for holding the National Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation therein equal to double the number of the representation to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, are invited to unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE, Chairman.
SIMON P. SHERRIN, Secretary

VOX POPULI.

The views of honest intelligent people on the current topics of the day, the justly revered power, and political parties its predecessor representatives, should command foremost attention and respect.

To discard it is unlawful, to harken and obey is the assurance of success.

The fair cannot be disguised, that a vast majority of Democratic voters the nation the United States, East West, North and South, regard Grover Cleveland for President; and the fact equally patent, that the great body of Independents, the self-thinking acting class on whom the two old parties have no particular party, but who espouse good government and personal integrity with patriotic ardor, are emphatically for Cleveland.

We hear nothing in quarters the most intelligent claims of other prominent Democrats who have now and then been mentioned in connection with the Presidential race, every day confirms us in the expressed opinion that the right man for the Democratic nomination at Chicago is ex President Cleveland.

He held the Executive position four years and gave the country one of the best and ablest administrations it ever enjoyed.

He also stands honorably before the people as a candidate for re-election; but will, if chosen, to again faithfully dedicate his services for the public weal.

He is the open avowed of true Democratic principles and measures, practical tariff reform, a sound finance, moderate legislation, public economy, official fidelity, and the equal rights of all the people and all industrial occupations.

The Democratic standard of Honesty, Ability and Good Name are the earned qualifications.

For President,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

AN UNPROMISING REPUBLICAN OUTLOOK.

Now I may be never very promising food for Republican off in a Presidential year, and the conditions are more unfavorable this year than they ever were before. The "Grand Old Party" has been driven from every vantage ground, and from post to point. It has lost ground in county and municipality, as well as State.

The Democratic plurality on the popular vote has amounted to over four hundred. Already it reached 14,253 in 1889, the plurality for Congressmen in 1890 was 13,609, and it reached 14,550 for Assemblymen last year. Tenty-counties went Republican in 1888 and only seven in 1891. Essex, Mercer Middlesex, Morris, Salem, Union, formerly Republican are now Democrats Hudson and Burlington, Cape May, Gloucester and Passaic are doubtful. The drift is all towards Democracy. No voting community in the State shows a contrary tendency.

There are no off years in New Jersey. We are partisan in the State in a Gubernatorial or legislative election as in a Presidential year. The gains made by the Democracy are, therefore, not on local and temporary issues, but on those of the first party. The tendency of political thought in New Jersey has been irresistably in favor of Democratic principles of government, and it can not be denied that during the past year the party commits some great errors of policy or fallen into the abuses that have placed the Republican party in a permanent minority.—Newark Journal.

The Trenton True American truth fully says: "If on all parts of the country, and in the East and West we continue to come up regulars of the action of Democratic County and State conventions and Democratic organizations of various kinds, and to be in favor of the nomination of Grover Cleveland for the Presidency. He is the choice of the masses of the party, and of the party leaders wherever they reflect their constituencies the most of the party bosses of the State of the party bosses. If the fight continues as it has now been waging ever since Hill's 'snap' convention the nomination of Cleveland is assured beyond any peradventure."

THE LAST BATCH.

The Assembly and State Senate Bills passed by the Governor saturday Session—The Members, Actions and Votes.

The following bills were signed by His Excellency Governor Abbett on Saturday:

Assembly bill 21, by Mr. F. D. Smith, repeals the old Union Turnpike company's charter.

Assembly bill 109, by Mr. Moylan, provides that the town city lines of Bergen, Hudson, Union, Middlesex and Monmouth counties shall be as fixed by the Joint Boundary Commission of New York and New Jersey.

Assembly bill 175, by Mr. Beckman, authorizes third-class cities to levy out, improve, alter and repair streets.

Assembly bill 181, by Mr. Beckman, authorizes towns, villages and other municipalities to acquire lands to be used as sewage receptacles.

Assembly bill 129, by Mr. Smith, authorizes trustees to sell and convey lands.

Assembly bill 201, by Mr. Wright, amends the law relative to laying out streets in towns.

A second note 454 and 457 were also signed. The latter was approved on April 8.

The Senate bills signed were:

Senate bill 44, by Mr. Fowler, provides that assessors in first-class boroughs shall be appointed instead of appointed, by mayor or council as now.

Senate bill 139, by Mr. Hinchcliffe, provides that $300,000 road bonds may be issued by Secaucus township.

Senate bill 155, by Mr. Keys, extends the time for reclaiming swamps and meadow near New Brunswick

This bill is the last of the bills which can be signed within the prescribed thirty days. Any that are not signed now are considered as dead, and if there is any occasion to make them laws, they will have to be revived and passed next year.

IN MEMORIAM.

Robert L. Livingston.

At the semi monthly meeting of the Royal Arcanum council of this city, held last Monday evening, the following minute on the death of the Hon. Robert L. Livingston was adopted:

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, has received the sad news of the sudden death, on March 30, 1892, of brother Robert L. Livingston, and desires to place upon record a recognition of his appreciation of his many and generous character.

He was one of the early members of this Council, having joined it nine years ago, and was a loyal advocate of its benefactor aims and purposes.

He was not only an esteemed member of this Council, but was highly esteemed by the community, entrusted by his fellow-citizens with high public positions. He was elected a member of the common council of Plainfield and, subsequently, a member of the Senate of New Jersey, in the discharge of which important duties he filled with honor and integrity.

He was naturally kind and generous. To the demands of charity he always responded with a willing heart. In all the activities of life he exemplified the principles of virtue, mercy and charity, the chosen motto of our association. In the home circle, in public office and in private life he was always the same genial companion and trusted friend.

We, therefore, bear our testimony that he was an affectionate husband, a devoted father, a good citizen and an honest man, and we commend to the new-made grave this little willflower, bestowed by our tears and consecrated by our loving remembrance.

Resolved, That the foregoing memorial be adopted by this Council, and that a copy thereof be sent to the family of our deceased brother and be published in the daily papers of the city of Plainfield.

TO WATER THE COUNTY.

Plainfield Wells to Supply Bay Water to Elizabeth and Other Neighbors.

A large and enthusiastic gathering of representative citizens of Roselle met at Runner's Hall Monday evening to consider the question of water supply.

The meeting was organized by the selection of H. F. Baldwin as chairman and Orlett C. Smith secretary. Among those present were Wm. H. Peddle, superintendent of the Jersey Central, Miller F. Jones, Col. Fogg, Freeholder R. T. Wood, and many other well-known residents.

The Hon. John Kean, jr., president of the Union Water company, said Frank Morgan, the company's engineer, was present, and Mr. Kean explained the plans and purposes of the company. The supply of water is that drawn from Nethwood, and transported by the pipes laid to Cranford and from Cranford down a fourteen-inch main. Mr. Kean said that the company asked a guarantee of $1,000 of subscriptions and the pipes would be immediately laid so that the supply could be given to Roselle on July 1.

The chairman appointed Freeholder Wood and Messrs. W. P. Stevenson and V. H. Peddle a committee to solicit subscribers. These present subscribed $600 and the balance of the guarantee will be immediately subscribed, as the people are enthusiastic in the matter and great pleased with the progress made.

The meeting unanimously predict that within a short time the mains of the Water Supply company will be extended to Elizabeth, and that city as well as all those along the line will be supplied with water from the inexhaustible wells at Nethwood.

Next Monday the Westfield people will meet to join in the project.

Score Years Not Its Age.

The Plainfield Courier-News says: "It is currently the Plainfield common sense that Monday night and referred to the corporation counsel."

To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

GENTLEMEN: We have been instructed by our committee on Water Supply, meeting of Tuesday, held, and Charles E. Moore, to insist upon the return to said Charles E. Moore of the sum of $2,000 heretofore deposited by said Moore with your city in connection with the water contract made with said Moore on the 1st day of Dec., 1891.

We are informed that a contract has been made between the city and said company, whereby, proposition to supersede the contract of Dec. 1st, 1890. Under the present status of affairs your obligation to return the $2,000 deposited is apparent. We trust that a settlement can be effected without suit.

Very respectfully,
WALLIS, EDWARDS & BENNETT.
April 11, 1892.

Cheap John.

Cheap John prices won't buy the genuine medicines. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, for the Liver, Blood and Lungs; and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for women's weaknesses and ailments), each cost $1 00 per bottle, and his Pleasant Pellets (the original little Liver Pills), 25 cents a vial. Of druggists, the agent.

These genuine medicines are now sold only through druggists, regularly authorized as agents, at these fixed prices. They are the cheapest medicines sold, for you get the best, and you get it only at a regular price. Unless received or so recommended, you pay cash only for what you need, and get no cure, or the money is refunded. Unauthorized dealers may offer spurious imitations on substitutes at lower prices than above.

Sample of all sent.

A perfect remedy for scrofula, in all its forms, however deep-seated, from the worst blood-taint to the slightest pimple, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That, if it's taken in time, will cure Consumption.

For all diseases caused by torpid liver, and blood-poisoning, nothing equals "Golden Medical Discovery." For every form of Skin Disease, Bronchial, Throat, and Lung Affections, Scrofulous Sores, Swellings, Tumors, Old Sores, Eruptions, and Eating Ulcers, it's the only remedy we want that is sure to be guaranteed. Sold by druggists, under our positive guarantee. You have your money back.

TAR AND FEATHERS FOR ELIAS.

He Made Love to His Pretty Cousin, Scared Her Half to Death and Raised a Fuss and Family of His Own.

Elias Barrick, who used to be principal of the North Plainfield public school, has left the town of Pattersville to escape a tarring and feathering from the indignant people. He is accused of making love to Emma Barrick, his pretty cousin, and of creating a scandal by his underhand and intrigues at Black River Falls Park, despite the fact that he himself was a married man.

Miss Barrick is fifty years old. Emma Barrick, his uncle's daughter, is twenty-two. Emma Barrick is acknowledged to be the belle of the section. Her eyes are dark, her hair light brown, and she is pretty. She had many admirers among the plain country lads, but they had little chance against the experienced, instructing cousin.

Barrick and his family are known throughout this part of the State. He is younger than his uncle, a music teacher of considerable local reputation and superintendent of public schools of Somerset county. He was also the village school master of Peapack, near Pottersville, where he was born, and about the same time he acted as superintendent of the Methodist Sunday-school.

Barrick's first love-making to his pretty cousin was done in his uncle's home, at Hacklestown, two miles north of Pottersville, in which village he moved after his father's sad death from the shock of learning of the suicide of Grace Hender son, a girl who accused Barrick of being the author of her ruin.

Later Elias and Emma had a sentimental walk in Black River Glen, a paten of rocky woodland midway between Pottersville and Hacklestown. To reach it Barrick walked about two miles and the girl traversed the same distance across fields and through the wildest part of the hill part of the State. Their meeting place was between two great walls of stone, on one side of which runs the Black river and on the other the road to the Pottersville creek. On an average of three times a week they met in this secluded and romantic spot and Barrick concluded his woes of winning the girl's confidence and affection. Barrick carried wood to the trysting-place and also a large can of kerosene, as the severity of the weather did not materially interfere with the courtship in Black River Glen.

The frequent visits of Barrick to the glen attracted the attention of the village gossips, who became busily interested in the clandestine, and soon the girl's father and brother heard of the matter. Satisfied reports were true, both talked and announced that they would shoot Barrick on sight. The son came upon Barrick one day last week. They were on opposite sides of a field, but the young man, regardless of bullets, vaulted the rail and emptied both charges. Barrick took to his heels.

The shooting was witnessed by several persons who were on their way home from a funeral in Pottersville. The next day Barrick left the place for parts unknown, fearing what had been planned for him.

Barrick's first wife was Miss Plomfield, by whom he had two children. The first one died but if the family his wife returned to her relatives and the two children grew up to be beautiful women. The eldest is now about twenty-five years of age. Both girls were married last winter in New York. The father was not invited to the weddings.

Barrick's life was apparently a right one until after his marriage. While traveling through Maine selling organs he became infatuated with the daughter of a prominent old settler, and after a brief courtship received the consent of the girl's parents to marry the village belle. The wedding was a swell affair, and he took his supposed bride to Montreal, Canada There he lived rooms, but in a short time the girl's cousin was suspicious of his surroundings, and, it is alleged, discovered that she was in a questionable place. She immediately wrote to her father, who set for her and took her home. The father then made an investigation and found that Barrick had a wife and two little children still living in North Plainfield. The girl's mother was so affected by the exposure that she became insane and has since died in an asylum.

When a reporter reached the town yesterday he found citizens discussing the situation. One citizen said:

"Barrick simply imposed on that unfortunate girl. She was one of the best and prettiest girls in this section and everybody liked her. The fellow worked his points well, however, and now she's ruined and poor him. Should she knowingly fall with the desolation he has already caused. If he comes back here I guess we'll be surprised if you hear of a hanging or something of that kind."

THE YOUNG MAN.

He Receives Much Attention from Plainfield's Mayor and Prominent Citizens.

The rooms of the Young Men's Christian association were filled by the members Tuesday evening, the occasion being the reception given in interest of extension work. After a most bountiful supper the following toasts were responded to by the ladies' nine, the different speakers were presented by President Murray, who acted as toastmaster.

He first introduced David E. Titsworth, jr., who spoke on "The Young Man in Politics". In his well-known, off-hand manner he told of the young man's position therein as one of duty to himself and an obligation to his citizenship.

Mr. Kissam followed, to the toast, "The Young Man in Business", showing that the business world is looking for young men of push and ability. Success is trying to get up into small one "who needeth not to be ashamed".

E. H. Clark spoke on "The Young Man as Religion". He said the best way to get a young man in religion was to get religion first into the young man.

The first president of the association, mayor Alex. Gilbert, was called on to speak on "The Young Man in the Work and Developments of Character". His honor spoke with earnestness to the young men present, urging them to the presentation of Christ as the only foundation on which to build a perfect character. Two points he emphasized were the realization of the value of time and the application of it to some work for the achievement of some good purpose.

Mr. Andrews spoke on "The Young Man in Business", the sentiment that most every man was affected that way. He took a model young girl, told of the little brown-eyed, brown-haired girl who afterwards became a young woman and who eventually became the young man's wife, and after all he young man was better off by being in love.

Mr. Titsworth of the international committee spoke on "Extension Work: Its Needs and Its Possibilities"; in lies and His Claims on Christians". He told of the visit of the association 30 years ago and the growth of the association since. His address was highly interesting.

It became an evening was a most delightful and profitable one, and all were sorry when came the parting hour.

The young men seated at the tables were served with refreshments of ice cream, fine dainty arrangement of the ladies and of the floral decorations was admired by all. As the supper united its guests formed a pleasant feast than the more pleasure of eating was in store. Gathered around the head of the table was a group of sixty young men, who, with their mothers, sisters and lady friends, but more for their devotion to the cause of the Divine Master and the welfare of their fellow men. These made the occasion memorable by the wit and sound sense expressed by the toastmaster, Mr. Murray, D. E. Titsworth on the "Young Man in Politics" said that young men were greatly needed in politics, brimful with them unblended in opinion, and the opposite ranks to consider the welfare of the State unprejudiced and not led down by old established precedents. He said that what was needed most was integrity and uprightness which the young men now assembled were of this combination to qualify active. Mr. Kissam in "The Young Man in Business" spoke of the distinguishing work of the Christian young man in the mercantile life, saying "he is the one to whom his employer's interest is paramount; each effort is his best, yet he still works for something better". In both this and the preceding address the character of Joseph was taken as an illustration from Bible history of a Christian prime minister and a Christian financier.

Mr. Murray said he felt some hesitation in introducing the toast of "The Young in Love", for that no one would consider it in that way; but he should take it he feared they might break down, but he said the general sentiment manifested this out just should be considered, and the Rev. H. Andrews had kindly consented to treat this subject. Mr. Andrews spoke of the young man at this critical point of his life, of the dark-haired girl who was also the paternal host, the dog so innocent looking, the sharp picket fence, but the mother with the seven unforgivable daughters was a neighbor for that all she knows the opposition would muster against him, but none regretted the efforts he had put forth to win the pretty little brown-eyed, dark-haired girl to be playmate of his school days, the bosom friend of his young manhood and his lifelong companion. E. B. Clark spoke briefly on "The Young Man in the Work of Evangelism", the class of men which the Christian young man could reach which older men could not, of the influence they could exert. A young Christian is a tower to religion—he said—unless the unselfish, self-forgetful religion of Christ, were in him.

Recalling on Major Alexander Gilbert, Mr. Murray spoke of him as an ex-president and one of the two gentlemen most instrumental in the founding of Y. M. C. A. work in Plainfield, the other being its treasurer for many years. Mr. Gilbert urged upon young men the necessity of the forces lost of habits in youth which, instead of impairing health and bringing premature old age, would, when time for action came, fit him with a vigorous physique and active brain, fully qualified to enter upon his life work. But the brain should not be neglected. An hour a day of study of a practical subject if persistently carried on would greatly developed and transform a man's mind. O he secrets of success two of the greatest are "proper appetite and the value of time" and applied—to the discovery of have in hand". At the conclusion of Mr. Gilbert' talk Mr. Murray said the object of the calling together of the members of the association was to consider the matter of Y. M. C. A. extension in our own land and foreign lands, and the idea of systematic giving in a small way to aid the work. He introduced Mr. Taggart of Pittsburgh, State Secretary of Pennsylvania and member of the International committee of association extension, who spoke at length in regard of the extension work of the Y. M. C. A. The need—he said—is very great, for association of this kind all over the country, and not only here but in India, Japan, Brazil and throughout the entire civilized land, but money is needed to carry the work on, and it must be had so that the work of saving and aiding young men throughout the world can be pursued. No one alone could do very much, but by the united and prayerful efforts of many, each of us a thousand dollars, the needed funds could be realized. A considerable amount was pledged to the cause, and the new systematic giving" basis, for this work.

Medical Testimony.

W. Thornton Parker, M. D., R corder, Examination of Army Assistant Surgeons of the U. S. Army, writes:

"SALEM, Mass., March 23, 1891.

"When at this place, Germany, during the Winter of 1881-82, I was suffering from a severe attack of bronchitis, which confined me to the house. I placed myself, at the Hotel Marquardt, Oberamtsarzt Beardsley, of the United States Navy, for treating me. He prescribed Piso's Cure for Consumption, which cured me. Piso's Cure for Consumption is the only cough medicine I use in my practice."

Piso's Cure for Consumption is the only cough medicine I use in my practice."

Piso's Cure for Consumption is the only cough medicine I use in my practice."

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—Mrs. Bethiel Mattison fell down a heart disease at her home on Nye street a room last Thursday.

—Eli S. A. Gwinnell has transferred to Henry B. Lounsbury, real estate, North Plainfield, for $5,250.

—The Union Good Friday service will be held in Trinity Reformed church, Friday evening of this week at 8.

—William D. Craig, executor of Margaret E. Reed, sold to Lewis Cook, Berkeley Heights, real estate on 1890.

—A bill passed the last Legislature, and has been signed by the Governor, prohibiting the shooting of pheasants for three years.

—The Newark Evening News, the best and cheapest in the state, is now in its fourteenth year of publication. Every business man of prominence is a subscriber.

—Rev. W. Gaylord Hall, pastor of the Second Congregational church, will preach to-morrow morning and evening. Rev. Dr. L. B. Goodrich, brother of the Rev. C. L. Goodrich of this city.

—Messrs. Charles S. Stagg, William H. Villiers and Mr. Wallace Herbert were present at the reunion of the 24 Regt. of N. J., in Jersey City, Saturday last.

—Mr. Fenimo has removed with his family to the house on Second avenue, in one of the prettiest houses in Plainfield—tidy, for its size and style, in the city. L. C. Marsh is the architect.

—The proposed presentation at the Park, of Plangerfle's play, "Chimney of Normandy", by the Thomas Amateur Opera Company, Thursday evening of next week, has been abandoned.

—The new board of directors of the American Mutual Fire Insurance company organized Thursday night by electing Mr. D. W. Lum president and Mr. Bender secretary and L. E. Barbaker treasurer.

—The sudden death of Mrs. Bridget Mullin, at No. 6 West street, Thursday afternoon, was due to a par lytic stroke, instead of heart disease as was at first supposed. She was stricken at noon, but though at first thought to have died instantly she lingered until 4 o'clock, when in spite of medical aid she expired.

—Posters around the city announce the "Young Mrs. Winthrop", the "Matinee Square Theater Success", is to be given at Music Hall. In justice to the regular managers of the hall the public should know that the Hall is hired for the purpose by a local organization, and the play is given here by a collection of amateurs of limited ambitions.

—The editor who is afraid to speak out on a public question, lest some subscriber will stop his paper, will never become a very large circulation or an extensive influence. The editor who speaks his mind everywhere will wind up the career by pleasing nobody. The first lesson of journalism for the new writer is to keep his self-respect as nearly right as possible without fear of the subscriber who stops his paper.

—The week's Judge, the eminent Republican weekly, makes a last break in picturing a "weather bandit" in a cyclone and making his say: "I hate to find fault with the weather, but I do object to tempering the wind to the shorn lamb". If Judge wants to do the right thing now it will let us know where to the Scriptures we may find this shorn-lamb-in-the-storm. We rather think the quickest way to find it would be to read Lawrence Sterne's "Sentimental Journey" first, and take up the Scriptures afterward.

—On the Heights of Netherwood, overlooking the city of Plainfield, N. J., and commanding a varied view of sweeping country, is the Netherwood Hotel and Netherwood. The Netherwood offers exceptional a tractions to business men of New York, who want to spend the summer out of the city, yet not where they can't get all of their offices. Th Netherwood is only forty-five minutes distant from the foot of Liberty street, New York. Only a mile from the Netherwood is the Albion, under F. E. Miller's management. The Albion opens the year round.—St Augustine News

AN OFFICE TO HOPE IN.

John Kean Imparts Irish Bog Oak and Pats Up Political Headquarters.

Ex-Congressman Kean, who owns Elizabeth and has his office in Plainfield, has fitted up palatial headquarters for himself in the National Realty bank building at the corner city, and is now prepared for the political skirmishing to which his youthful and affable young millionaire has taken possession of the quarters until recently occupied by the Prudential Insurance company. Mr. Kean is a director of the Water company, of which he is President and chief stockholder.

The woodwork in it is quartered oak and the New York World says: "Mr. Kean's private office is the rear, which he has by boss dubbed "the Governor's room," is artistically finished with Irish bog oak, imported expressly for the purpose. An immense plate glass door at the entrance into Mr. Kean's sanctum, where he sometimes receives and conveys state secrets known by no the political prospects in New Jersey.

The suite of rooms now occupied by the chairman of the Democratic state committee are probably the finest of their kind in New Jersey.

Ex-Congressman Kean says he is quite hopeful of Republican success this fall. But—

The Belgrade Will Join the Chorus.

The superb festival concerts are to be given at the Madison Square Garden on May 10, 11 and 12, under the direction of Messrs. Adler & Grau. Mme. Patti will sing, assisted by her own opera company, together with a chorus of 1,200 singers, all orchestrated 100 musicians. Signor Arditi will be the conductor for Mme. Patti, and William E. Chapman will conduct the singing of the Mozart Philharmonical society, the Rubinstein and Musicales clubs, the Belgrade of Plainfield, the Kingston Philharmonic, the Rubinstein of Poughkeepsie.

Baltimore Depositor Goes and is Released.

John F. Billings, formerly of Westfield, the fugitive agent of the Jersey Central Terminal company, who was arrested in Chicago on a warrant of extradition, was taken to see Judge Cowing in the General sessions at New York Thursday on the charge of having stolen $700 for the company. He pleaded not guilty, and bail was placed at $1,000 Billings promptly surrendered that sum in cash, and was released. Billings had charge of all the business of the Jersey Central road at Pier 8 North river, and the complaint alleges that he robbed the company by pocketing his receipts for the services of workingmen who were never employed.

Rich Residents.

I have used Dr. Dean's Dyspepsia Pills for Headache, and since I have taken them I have been perfectly free from it. I am cheerfully and conscientiously recommend them to any and all who suffer from the same. Mrs. E. Bradley, Dressing Tool Dealer, 29 Cortlandt St., New York.

PERSONALIA.

—William Underhill will sail for Europe next week.

—General James Kenley is the New Liverpool for home on the City of New York, Saturday.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Doull Miller (nee Miss Kings-ford Sheperd) have just returned from Europe.

—Mrs. Stephen Dayton, of Bernardsville, is visiting her brother, J. H. Searing, 39 Madison avenue.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Abbott of Prospect avenue, will shortly leave this country for a European trip.

—Justice J. Oakley Sudgen, who has so long been sentenced ill, is once more able to attend to his duties at the Bench.

—Miss Maude Agnes Bowers will take part in the entertainment to be given by Holy Cross church choir April 20.

—Charles Bowen has removed from Fourth street and Madison avenue to the house formerly occupied by Dr. Hodges at 64 East Front street.

—Among the students of the Yale Divinity school this year is Mr. Rollin Hartt, who will preach to L. B. Goodrich, brother of the Rev. C. L. Goodrich of this city.

—Messrs. Charles S. Stagg, William H. Villiers and Mr. Wallace Herbert were present at the reunion of the 24 Regt. of N. J., in Jersey City, Saturday last.

—Mr. Fenimo has removed with his family to the house on Second avenue, in one of the prettiest houses in Plainfield—tidy, for its size and style, in the city. L. C. Marsh is the architect.

—The proposed presentation at the Park, of Plangerfle's play, "Chimney of Normandy", by the Thomas Amateur Opera Company, Thursday evening of next week, has been abandoned.

—The new board of directors of the American Mutual Fire Insurance company organized Thursday night by electing Mr. D. W. Lum president and Mr. Bender secretary and L. E. Barbaker treasurer.

—The sudden death of Mrs. Bridget Mullin, at No. 6 West street, Thursday afternoon, was due to a par lytic stroke, instead of heart disease as was at first supposed. She was stricken at noon, but though at first thought to have died instantly she lingered until 4 o'clock, when in spite of medical aid she expired.

—Posters around the city announce the "Young Mrs. Winthrop", the "Matinee Square Theater Success", is to be given at Music Hall. In justice to the regular managers of the hall the public should know that the Hall is hired for the purpose by a local organization, and the play is given here by a collection of amateurs of limited ambitions.

—The editor who is afraid to speak out on a public question, lest some subscriber will stop his paper, will never become a very large circulation or an extensive influence. The editor who speaks his mind everywhere will wind up the career by pleasing nobody. The first lesson of journalism for the new writer is to keep his self-respect as nearly right as possible without fear of the subscriber who stops his paper.

—The week's Judge, the eminent Republican weekly, makes a last break in picturing a "weather bandit" in a cyclone and making his say: "I hate to find fault with the weather, but I do object to tempering the wind to the shorn lamb". If Judge wants to do the right thing now it will let us know where to the Scriptures we may find this shorn-lamb-in-the-storm. We rather think the quickest way to find it would be to read Lawrence Sterne's "Sentimental Journey" first, and take up the Scriptures afterward.

—On the Heights of Netherwood, overlooking the city of Plainfield, N. J., and commanding a varied view of sweeping country, is the Netherwood Hotel and Netherwood. The Netherwood offers exceptional a tractions to business men of New York, who want to spend the summer out of the city, yet not where they can't get all of their offices. Th Netherwood is only forty-five minutes distant from the foot of Liberty street, New York. Only a mile from the Netherwood is the Albion, under F. E. Miller's management. The Albion opens the year round.—St Augustine News

AN OFFICE TO HOPE IN.

John Kean Imparts Irish Bog Oak and Pats Up Political Headquarters.

Ex-Congressman Kean, who owns Elizabeth and has his office in Plainfield, has fitted up palatial headquarters for himself in the National Realty bank building at the corner city, and is now prepared for the political skirmishing to which his youthful and affable young millionaire has taken possession of the quarters until recently occupied by the Prudential Insurance company. Mr. Kean is a director of the Water company, of which he is President and chief stockholder.

The woodwork in it is quartered oak and the New York World says: "Mr. Kean's private office in the rear, which he has by boss dubbed "the Governor's room," is artistically finished with Irish bog oak, imported expressly for the purpose. An immense plate glass door at the entrance into Mr. Kean's sanctum, where he sometimes receives and conveys state secrets known by no the political prospects in New Jersey.

The suite of rooms now occupied by the chairman of the Democratic state committee are probably the finest of their kind in New Jersey.

Ex-Congressman Kean says he is quite hopeful of Republican success this fall. But—

The Belgrade Will Join the Chorus.

The superb festival concerts are to be given at the Madison Square Garden on May 10, 11 and 12, under the direction of Messrs. Adler & Grau. Mme. Patti will sing, assisted by her own opera company, together with a chorus of 1,200 singers, all orchestrated 100 musicians. Signor Arditi will be the conductor for Mme. Patti, and William E. Chapman will conduct the singing of the Mozart Philharmonical society, the Rubinstein and Musicales clubs, the Belgrade of Plainfield, the Kingston Philharmonic, the Rubinstein of Poughkeepsie.

Baltimore Depositor Goes and is Released.

John F. Billings, formerly of Westfield, the fugitive agent of the Jersey Central Terminal company, who was arrested in Chicago on a warrant of extradition, was taken to see Judge Cowing in the General sessions at New York Thursday on the charge of having stolen $700 for the company. He pleaded not guilty, and bail was placed at $1,000 Billings promptly surrendered that sum in cash, and was released. Billings had charge of all the business of the Jersey Central road at Pier 8 North river, and the complaint alleges that he robbed the company by pocketing his receipts for the services of workingmen who were never employed.

Rich Residents.

I have used Dr. Dean's Dyspepsia Pills for Headache, and since I have taken them I have been perfectly free from it. I am cheerfully and conscientiously recommend them to any and all who suffer from the same. Mrs. E. Bradley, Dressing Tool Dealer, 29 Cortlandt St., New York.

HYMENEAL.

Hale—Snipe.

At the residence of W. H. Snipe, Dunellen, last night, Thursday evening, at 8, the wedding of his daughter, Jennie Maud to Barry W. Hull, of Bing Hing, N. Y. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Beattie, of Sing Sing, a near pastor of the parties.

At precisely 8 o'clock Mrs. M. Dutch took her seat at the piano, and as the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin were heard the bridal party entered the back parlor and proceeded slowly to the front parlor, where, surrounded and encircled by Easter lilies, the ceremony took place. The bride was attired in bridal satin, trimmed with steel passementerie, and carried a bouquet of Calleon Lilies. Miss Mertner for ca.

The presents were display ed in an upper room, and occupied nearly the entire floor. There were many pieces of handsome furniture, pictures, elegant and costly bronze vases, and a large quantity of silver. Guests attended especial attention to the wedding cake, which was made from a bird's design of clothes wrens and of lace, the list of the cake being ornamented with a cherub for Miss Dutch. The combined gift was from each side and consisted of the bride.

Stephen Dayton, of Bernardsville was the caterer.

The bridal couple departed on the 9:05 train from Plainfield, for an extended tour after which they will take up their residence in Baltimore, Md.

Among the guests, aside from the immediate relatives, there were present the following:

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Snipe, Miss Sarah Bloom of Salem, N. J., Mrs. Elizabeth Hull, Miss Lillie Hull; Mr. and Mrs. Abram Kipp, Miss Bessie Ville, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kipp, Geo. Kipp, Mrs. James A. Burt, the Anna Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, Miss Jesse Robinson, Mrs. Dixon, Miss Addison Mills, F. A. D. Wells, Mr. Bender and wife, Miss Hanford, Archie Mc. Neal, Miss Annie DeBaun, Miss Carrie Berger, Miss Ida of Sing Sing, Mr. and Mrs. E. Fred Hull, Miss Ella Hines, Walter Hull, Miss Wilcox, Mrs. Will Hull, Miss Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Hull of Brooklyn, Mrs. B. D. Dr. E. Hallidayer, Mrs. Ida L. Hall, Miss Jennie Hunter of Newark, Mrs. Wm. Jones of Astoria, Mr. Mangam of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Miss Lizzie Doyle, Mrs. and Miss Fishbaugh, Mrs. Elias Milliken, W. H. Milliken, Miss Jennie Stevens of Dunellen, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Coddington of Plainfield.

OBITUARY.

John Gardner Bale.

(From The Times of April 8.)

Died—In Redlands, California, March 25, 1892, John Gardner Bale, the Rev. John Gardner Bale, brother of Thomas Bale of this city.

In announcing the above death, which was referred to in the columns yesterday, the Redlands Citrograph says:

"Born in Bristol, England, Sept. 23, 1824, he was one of a large family, members of which have achieved eminence in business and professional life. Among the brothers are the Hon. Matthew Bale, a well-known lawyer of Albany; Wm. B. Bale, for many years a prominent business man of Minneapolis, now residing in Virginia; Judge Robert S. Bale, an eminent lawyer, a recipient of the University of New York; and Henry Bale, lawyer and publicist, of St. Paul, Minnesota—all of whom are living.

"The deceased was educated at the University of Aberdeen and Andover Theological Seminary. He came to California in 1852 as a home missionary, organized the congregational church at Grass Valley, and subsequently at Nevada City, going to Vermont where he was pastor for several year periods of years. In the fall of 1881 he returned to California and came to Redlands in the spring of 1882 to be the pastor of the Congregational church, there worshiping in a small school-house. He continued pastor till April, 1886, during which period the house of worship on Lugonia terrace was built. In the fall of 1885 he was selected to establish a board and day school of high grade, and so opened Bellevue Academy in February, 1886, which prospered as a private institution until 1888, when it was closed. Mr. Bale later assisted to the high school since then he has resided on his homeplace, on Terrace avenue, cultivating a fruit ranch.

"Well-known and highly esteemed, he has left an enviable record as a preacher, a teacher, and a thoroughly conscientious, devoted and self-sacrificing Christian man, whose loss will be widely mourned."

Jessie Ellsworth Rice.

Mrs Jessie Ellsworth Rice, who died March 21, at the home of her father, J. H. Ellsworth, State Normaville, Kansas, was born in Plainfield, N. J., February 25, 1867, was married to Homer Rice, in 1885, and was married to Homer Rice, of Macedonia, where, with her husband, she resided till her death. Five children, a husband, parents, brother and two sisters are left to mourn her loss. She professed religion in early life, and leaves no doubt as to her friends the many rel ief her sweet life and character. The funeral was at the Normaville Seventh-day Baptist church, March 23. The sermon was pre ched by the pastor.

Thomas Leader.

The death occurred on Lodge farm, Bonehill, Kent county, England, last Saturday, March 26, of Thomas Leader, father of Albert J. Leader of 63 Duel street, North Plainfield. The deceased was in his eighty-first year, had been sick and bed ridden with a sudden and fatal stroke of the grip. He was an active citizen of Nuneton, and was hung in a few days before his death. He leaves an aged widow, three sons and one daughter. Albert Leader of North Plainfield visited his father at his home in England last September, and both father and son then engaged actively in out-door sports.

"WE TOLD YOU SO!"

A Contract for a Public Supply of Plainfield Water Kept by Mayor as Pledged at Elizabeth.

(From The Press of April 8.)

On the evening of March 21, the council by a unanimous vote authorized the immediate signing of a contract with the Plainfield Water Supply company for 20 l ster hydrants including the 42 already located and connected. But that contract has not yet been signed. Why?

It seems that people who Tax Fame has been right in appeal in prophesying that the day would come when the Elizabeth tail to the Water Supply company would prove the same "dog That he'd always came". A contract fair alike to the company and the people, was the agreed upon by the councilmen and Messrs. Ben Pepp, Murray and Sidney P. Dodd members of the company, but it it does n't suit John Kean and president Frank Bergen, it does n't go.

To Protect the Public.

To protect the public from fraud and imposition, the genuine medicines of Dr. V. Pierce can be sold only through druggists, with cir cled as agents. They are the cheapest medicines to use, as sold only for what you get. The money is refunded if they ever fail to benefit or cure.

Being sold on this peculiar plan of "value received or no pay", the profession to genuine guaranteed medicines are as follows:

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (the remedy for all diseases arising from a torpid liver or impure blood). $1 per bottle.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets (the original and best Liver Pill). 25 cents per vial.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. 50 cents per bottle.

Dr. Pierce's Nasal Syringe, and rightfully attaches to any medicines purportin to be Dr. Pierce's, when offered at any other price than $1.

A Plainfielder Spins a Tale.

William Cowling Bone urgh, of 28 Jack son avenue, has recently published in dainty brochure form a work from his pen entitled "Tales of Plainfield and Fair". The story is told in blank verse and is published in the highest style of the printer's art. The volume is of five hundred paper throughout, and the type is artistically arranged. The alternative pages are blank, affording the student opportunity for inserting comments on the text. The production of Mr. Cowling will be furnished by the author at 41 piece.

Stayings and Their Sayings.

Captain Frank L. C. Martin of the Plainfield Bicycle club has just appointed the following aids:

Chief—Bugler—George Nelson.
Second lieutenant—E. V. French.
Bugler—A. T. Hinrichs.
Color-Sergeant—W. Morston.

The club has not, as reported, changed the age of admission for members, nor has it changed the color of its uniform. The action of the club recently credited to the Plainfield Bicycle club was in reality that of the bicycle club of the Crescent League. The Crescent League club has adopted a black uniform with braid trimmings.

I FEEL it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm. I was entirely deaf in one ear, and had been for years. I purchased a bottle of the Cream Balm, and before it was half gone found it to be most wonderful remedy. The hearing in the deaf ear was restored after I used it a few days, and I am now in possession of both ears. Many of my neighbors have also used the Cream Balm with most satisfactory results.—Edward H. Warren, Ann Arbor, Mich.

It is Irrefutably said

THE IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE is the only LINE running THROUGH PULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPING CARS between St. Louis, Los Angeles and San Francisco, leaving St. Louis 9:30 p. m. daily, via Little Rock, Texarkana and El Paso. Time quicker than the above via any other line. Correspondence solicited. Call on or address W. G. Hoyt, Gen'l E. P. & A. Agt., 349 Broadway, New York City, N. Y.

ANOTHER BLOW TO OLD FRIENDS.

Governor Abbett Refuses even to Receive an Act of the Last Legislature in spite of the Pleadings of some of the Best Democrats in the State.

It seems that again is proof furnished that governor Leon Abbett would rather do what he thinks is right than be seen or News was received in The Press office Saturday evening that he had added bill 192 by refusing to sign it. It is the at-tic railroad bill, that was intended to nullify the decision in the Supreme Court in the suit brought by George A. Halsey and others to prevent the construction of elevated roads in Newark and Trenton.

The governor's action will not materially affect Plainfield's road on the count of its unanimously for it and the people by a large majority are opposing legislation being convicted at last by THE PRESS that it is a mighty good thi g to have Governor Abbett put the interests of the people in Newark, Passaic, Paterson, Camd n, and other places in New Jersey in the Light of trespass.

Many people Newark look upon the electric roads as the only solution of the rapid transit problem. They are surprised at the governor's action in view of the fact that Messrs. Smith, Gould, Kruger, the officers of the Prudential Insurance company, and many other influential men in politics on both sides are deeply interested in electric road projects, and roads are being laid or projected between Newark and Jersey City, Bonehill and Newark, Elizabeth and Passaic, and in many other cities and villages. One of the governor's best friends in Trenton said to a Press reporter recently: "If the bill is not signed I'll be ruined."

Millions of dollars have been invested in the new system by local capitalists in proposed roads in all the biggest cities in the state, and the strongest influence has been brought to bear upon the governor to sign the bill.

Mr. Halsey's suit was brought to prevent the Newark company running an electric line along Broad street to Bloomfield. Horse cars are now run on this route. The report of the Governor's action created a sensation Saturday night throughout the city of Newark, but the action of the bill will not stop the extension and maintenance of the system in that city. Newark has been given such powerful rulings by such broad and generous men as Messrs. Nevins and Hiker—now of the Plainfield Street Railway company—that the merchants on Broad and every other business street that has such them are crying for the trolley. Streets where are the horse cars are deserted by shoppers, callers, theater goers and everyone else.

The effect of the Governor's action is that all trolley roads that were changed from horse to electric power before they are running in contravention of law as the supreme court recently decided that the power of a common council is limited to the granting of the right of way and horses. It is without authority to authorize a railroad company to replace horse and steam power with electricity. Instead of appealing from this finding to the court of last resort, the company concerned had an enabling act introduced and passed through the legislature. Though it was among the earliest passed it did not reach the governor until after the legislature had adjourned—The governor might sign it we been delayed in the hall on his way to the governor", is now set for March explained It to a Press reporter. Governor Abbett has signified had no chance to pass it over a veto if he wanted to.

The question that now interests the roads is does Abbett in as to what they shall do to save their plants from destruction. They may, in the hope of securing favorable legislation next year, keep their poles and wires, appeal to the court of errors. By the time a decision is reached they hope the next legislature will be in session to give them relief.

PLAINFIELD THE HEALTHIEST.

The State Board of Health's Report Shows Its Death-Rate Lower Than All Others.

The 15th annual report of the State Board of Health just issued, is a most encouraging one—tatistics the following death rates for cities of over 5,000 inhabitants—on b lief that Plainfield's name leads all the rest:

Plainfield	11,267	14.89
Orange	21,000	15.71
North Amboy	8,241	17.00
Salem	5,346	17.46
Belleville	11,365	17.70
New Brunswick	18,603	17.71
Burlington	7,284	18.39
Gloucester	4,564	18.39
Elizabeth	37,764	19.20
Camden	58,313	19.22
Millville	10,922	19.64
Hoboken	43,648	19.91
Atlantic City	13,056	20.01
Bayonne	12,325	20.37
Trenton	57,458	21.37
Union Town	10,843	22.47
Paterson	78,347	23.12
Orange	13,044	24.39
Jersey City	163,003	25.62
Hoboken	43,067	25.82
Camden	58,313	26.56
Newark	180,000	27.39
Harrison	7,000	27.67

Rainey Brothers, wagon Performers, Nanny Skinner, Pantomimist.

FAMOUS EXCURSIONS OF TEXAS, MEXICO, ARIZONA AND CALIFORNIA.

Reduced round-trip tickets now on sale via Iron Mountain Route to the famous resorts of Texas, Mexico, Arizona and California. Stop-over privileges will be allowed in the States of Arkansas and Texas. For tickets and further information, call on or address W. E. HOYT, Gen'l E. P. A., 391 Broadway, New York.

Its Support a Business and a Disaster.

The following appeared 'At least two days in succession, last week, in the News of this city:

Do you know that the side B [The News] takes on public questions always wins.

Do you know that the reason that the things the News most bitterly opposes, win. Here are a few "public questions" the News fought against:

Electric Roads.
Fire department horses
Street railways
Electric fire signal.
Expansion of policeman Carey.
Board or of Mayor Saunders.

The only public questions the News favored that ever won, where those that had a large majority of the people on their favor and consequently the support of the News could not result in their overthrow. The consequence was the city repudiated the News and started the Courier assume that in dorsement of the former was a disgrace and a disaster.

$100,000 FOR THE C. A. RS.

Senator McPherson Says Will Give Them All They Ask For.

The appropriation bill to provide for the encampment Grand Army encampment in Washington, was discussed in the Senate at Washington, Friday.

The Democratic members of the State, John R. McPherson, of New Jersey, made a rate of the bill that the country at large would not sympathize with the niggardly feeling which had been followed. John McPherson, Democrat, of New Jersey, said he was glad to see that everything that was asked for in the reception of these old veterans was to be granted. He thought the people of the whole country would be only too glad to show their appreciation of the services of the boys in blue. An appropriation of $100,000 was then passed.

It has been determined to continue the line of the Lake Hopatcong railroad to Budd's Lake via Stanhope, thence to Netcong's junction, terminating in the Lehigh Valley.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.
ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

EVERY Family Student School Library
S-H-O-U-L-D Own a Dictionary.
One should be taken to suit the home.
WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY
THE INTERNATIONAL
NEW EDITION OF WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY.
SUPERSEDES OF THE UNABRIDGED.
The work is right in revising, 100 editors employed, over $300,000 expended.
Sold by all Booksellers.
G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Publishers, Springfield, Mass., U. S. A.
Be sure you get the genuine of recent date, and do not be induced to buy reprints of obsolete editions. Send for free pamphlet containing specimen pages, illustrations, etc.

The Governor's Base-ball Schedule.

The Plainfield Crescent League match game has scheduled the following games:

April 30—Against Plainfield Bicycle Club.
May 4—Against Asbury Park A. C., at New Brighton.
May 9—Against Unions of Woodbridge, at Plainfield.
May 11—Against Tigers of Brooklyn, at Plainfield.
May 14—Against Harlem A. C., at Plainfield.
May 18—Against Crescents, at Plainfield.
May 23—Against Westfield A. C., at Plainfield.
May 25—Against Arions of Brooklyn at Plainfield.
May 28—Against Westfield A. C., at Westfield.
May 30, a. m.—Against Ridgewoods, at Plainfield.
May 30, p. m.—Against Flushings, at Plainfield.
June 4—Against Elizabeth Y. M. C. I., at Plainfield.
June 6—Against Staten Island A. C., at Plainfield.
June 11—Against Y. M. C. I., at Elizabeth.
June 15—Against Staten Island A. C., at New Brighton.
June 18—Against West Ends, at Plainfield.
June 22—Against Athletics.
June 25—Against Asbury Park, at Somerville.
June 28—Against New Jersey A. C., at Plainfield.
July 2—Against Westfield A. C., at Westfield.
July 4, a. m.—(open) at Plainfield.
July 4, p. m.—Against Allertons.
July 9—Against Y. M. C. I., at Plainfield.
July 12—Against Staten Island A. C., at Plainfield.
July 16—Against Y. M. C. I., at Elizabeth.
July 20—Against Morristown A. C., at Plainfield.
July 23—Against Y. M. C. I., at Plainfield.
July 27—Against Boston Amateic, at Plainfield.
July 30—Against West Ends, at Somerville.
August 1—(open).
August 6—Against West Ends, at Plainfield.
August 10—Against New Jersey A. C., at Plainfield.
August 13—Against Y. M. C. I., at Elizabeth.
August 17—(open).
August 20—Against Y. M. C. I., at Plainfield.
August 24—Against Westfield A. C., at Plainfield.
August 31—(open).
September 3—Against Westfield A. C., at Westfield.
September 5, a. m.—(open).
September 5, p. m.—Against Highland A. C. of Philadelphia, at Plainfield.
September 10, 17, 24—Against West Ends, at Plainfield.
September 15—(open).
September 21—Against West Ends, at Somerville.
September 29—Players' Benefit, (open).

A Few of the Candidates.

The Elizabeth Herald says that a prominent Democrat thu- predicts the candidates for State and county officers:

In all probabilities the Republican ticket will read—For governor, John Kean, jr.; for governor, John C. Smith, jr.; for surrogate, George L. Parrot; for county clerk, Foster M. Voorhees.

Among the many persons who are mentioned as probable candidates for congress on the Democratic ticket are Hon. John I. Dunn, senator F. C. March, James M. Martine of Plainfield, Francis C. O'Reilly of Orange, Lewis Hedden of Hudspeth of Bayonne and ex-mayor Hartford of Orange.

For surrogate may be mentioned aldermen John Sheppard, Joseph Hillard and Walter Hetfield of Plainfield, James H. Durand of Rahway.

For county clerk are mentioned Charles Moore are the only candidates mentioned for the lucrative position of county clerk.

The newly-elected Board of Freeholders will meet next month and elect a direct r and various county officials.

John J. Donahue, William H Trahon, Charles Moore and Samuel Holday of Rahway would like to succeed to the director's chair and handle the gavel.

There are a number looking for the office of sheriff in the event of the candidates are Jeremiah F. Dee, now sheriff; C. Lathrop, John Lane of Summit, John M. C. March of New Brid, Thomas McMahon of Cranford and Louis H. Brown of Plainfield, besides several dark horses.

In the field for the collectorship are county collector Patrick Sheridan, Francis C. Engel and J. Williams Drake.

The following named persons are mentioned for county attorney: William K. McClure and Walter Hetfield of Plainfield, James H. Durand of Rahway.

Among those who desire to watch the county's prisoners and act as warden of the jail are: Jas. C. Fetder, J. Edwards Marsh and Patrick Lynch of Plainfield.

It is reported that James J. Carey will accept the position of deputy warden.

Dr. E. E. O'Reilly, Dr. A. Q. Donovan and several other well-known physicians are mentioned as candidates for county physician.

Leigh Quinn, John M. C. Marsh and William Colgan are spoken of for county engineer.

CATARRH
ELY'S
CREAM BALM
Cleanses the Nasal Passages.
Allays Pain and Inflammation.
Heals the Sores.
Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell.
HAY-FEVER
A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists; by mail, registered, 60 cents. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. —Between Lake S. Gifford, complainant, and John E. Van Nest and others, defendants. Fi fa. out of Mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE EIGHTEENTH DAY OF MAY, A. D., 1892,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day all that tract or parcel of lands and premises situate, lying and being in the township of Scotch Plains, in the county of Plainfield, in the state of New Jersey, and bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Beginning at a stone in the middle of the road leading from Scotch Plains to Fanwood, at the corner of lands of Peter Van Nest, and running thence (1) along said Van Nest's land south fifty-six degrees and fifteen minutes west 14.50 chains to a stone; thence (2) south thirty-three degrees and forty minutes east 14.50 chains to a stone; thence (3) north fifty-seven degrees and fifteen minutes east 14.50 chains to a stone; thence (4) north thirty-three degrees and forty minutes west 14.50 chains to the place of beginning. Containing 21 acres of land, be the same more or less.

Dated, March 19, 1892.

JOHN W. HUGHES, Sheriff.
Elizabeth, N. J., 1892.
Thos. Kean, Sol'r.
3 19 4 16 $6.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. —Between Lake S. Gifford, complainant, and John E. Van Nest and others, defendants. Fi fa. out of Mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE EIGHTEENTH DAY OF MAY, A. D., 1892,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day all that tract or parcel of lands and premises situate, lying and being in the township of Scotch Plains, in the county of Plainfield, in the state of New Jersey, and bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Beginning at an iron spike in the intersection of the road leading from Scotch Plains to Fanwood with the road leading from the center of said road to Westfield, at the corner of lands of Peter Van Nest and Lott Gifford, and running thence (1) along said Gifford's land south forty-three degrees and fifteen minutes west 14.50 chains to a stone; thence (2) south fifty-six degrees and fifteen minutes east 14.50 chains to a stone; thence (3) north thirty-three degrees and forty minutes west 14.50 chains to a stone; thence (4) north fifty-seven degrees and fifteen minutes east 14.50 chains to the place of beginning. Containing 21 acres of land, be the same more or less.

Dated, March 19, 1892.

JOHN W. HUGHES, Sheriff.
Elizabeth, N. J., 1892.
Thos. Kean, Sol'r.
3 19 4 16 $6.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. —Between Lake S. Gifford, complainant, and John E. Van Nest and others, defendants. Fi fa. out of Mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on

WEDNESDAY, THE EIGHTEENTH DAY OF MAY, A. D., 1892,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day all that tract or parcel of lands and premises situate, lying and being in the township of Scotch Plains, in the county of Plainfield, in the state of New Jersey, and bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Beginning at an iron spike in the intersection of the road leading from Scotch Plains to Fanwood with the road leading from the center of said road to Westfield, at the corner of lands of Peter Van Nest and Lott Gifford, and running thence (1) along said Gifford's land south forty-three degrees and fifteen minutes west 14.50 chains to a stone; thence (2) south fifty-six degrees and fifteen minutes east 14.50 chains to a stone; thence (3) north thirty-three degrees and forty minutes west 14.50 chains to a stone; thence (4) north fifty-seven degrees and fifteen minutes east 14.50 chains to the place of beginning. Containing 21 acres of land, be the same more or less.

Dated, March 19, 1892.

JOHN W. HUGHES, Sheriff.
Elizabeth, N. J., 1892.
Thos. Kean, Sol'r.
3 19 4 16 $6.

WANTED, INFORMATION, &c.

DELICATE WOMEN find relief in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a powerful restorative tonic, and invigorating cordial, imparting vigor and health to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness, nervousness, prostration, headache, backache, and the many ailments of the sex. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. See guarantee printed on bottle wrapper. Only by druggists, at a fixed price, $1.00 a bottle, or six bottles for $5.00.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, biliousness, sick headache, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. Sugar-coated, small, and easy to take as candy. Only 25 cents a vial.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst case, no matter of how long standing. 50 cents, by druggists.

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Coated Tongue, Pain in the Side, Torpid Liver, Piles, are promptly relieved by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Sugar-coated, small, and easy to take as candy. 25 cents a vial.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, or Consumption Cured, is sold by druggists, at a fixed price, $1.00 a bottle, or six bottles for $5.00. Its makers have unbounded confidence in its power to cure the worst case of any disease afflicting the throat, chest, or lungs, short of consumption, and even in that stage of the disease, in many chronic cases, it will give relief and prolong life. Its makers have thousands of grateful letters from cured patients, but they do not publish them. They prefer to let the "Discovery" rest on its own merits. Its makers have also published a book of 160 pages on Consumption, which they will send to any address on receipt of 10 cents in stamps. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, 700 illustrations, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of mailing only. Address as above.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong, sick women well. Sold by druggists, at a fixed price, $1.00 a bottle, or six bottles for $5.00. See guarantee printed on bott

THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

M. Sadi-Carnot, President of the French Republic.

The Picture of a Sober, Patriotic Statesman True to Republican Principles Under Trying Circumstances—His Popularity in Paris.

M. Sadi-Carnot became president on the 2d of December, 1887. He was the only prominent man in the congress who seemed utterly indifferent to the balloting. It is doubtful if he had the least idea he would be chosen. At all events, he forbore to telegraph the fact to his wife, who, had she not been accidentally informed of the honor that had passed by a friend, has said that she would have been terrified out of her wits had she without warning found her husband arrive at her door in the afternoon surrounded by a troop of cavalry.

President Sadi-Carnot was born at Limoges in 1837. As a boy he developed an extraordinary taste for mathematics, science and his father sent him to study engineering at the school of mines. His career there was a brilliant one, and he left laden with honors. He was a state engineer at Annecy when the war broke out in 1870. The provisional government sent him to organize the defense of Normandy against the Germans, and his solid services there procured for him the office of prefect of the Seine Inferieure, which he held till peace was proclaimed. The Cote d'Or returned him as deputy to the assembly, where he joined the party of the left center. From that he was distributed to the opportunists, and in 1887 he was one of the republican "independents." He was minister of finance in M. Ferry's administration and of finance in the governments of M.M. Brisson and De Freycinet. Then he became president; and by tact and suavity and sterling good sense rallied the common sense of France to the side of the third republic, wearing out all antagonism by serene patience and rigid adherence to constitutional duty. M. Carnot rouses no enthusiasm, but he inspires confidence and respect. He is the very soul of honor, utterly incapable of the pettifogging intrigues, self-seeking ambitions, or super-subtle finesse which ruined the reputations of the three greatest living statesmen in the republican party. He is neither daunted nor elated by power. He is now as he was when in a private station—a quiet, grave, thoughtful man, neither seeking nor evading society, very taciturn, very kindly and considerate, very dignified and stately in his bearing, and very rapid, industrious, clear-headed, and sensible in the despatch of business. You see at a glance that he is not only a man of fine culture but of high breeding, and the fact that the last of three is obviously that of a simple loyal gentleman with a delicate sense of honor only too rare in public men. He usually speaks in monosyllables, and though chivalrous and courteous he always seems afraid of the presence of other women of the world. This is strange, because his wife, to whom he was married when he came of age, and to whose society he has spent all his life that has not been given to his profession or to the state, is herself a remarkably bright and clever woman. Mme. Carnot has revived the social amenities of the Elysee, but she has done so with a grace and elegance that invest her receptions with a peculiar charm, and one that has earned from her home to her palace the exquisite atmosphere of refined luxury which no wealth can create—which, indeed, wealth poisons and pollutes if it be divorced from delicate culture, grace, and elegance. And, as Mme. Carnot would have said, "high distinction of soul." Of M. Carnot's behavior in the recent ministerial crisis it is not necessary to say much here. Though entirely devoid of vanity, or self-conceit, or illusions as to his power, he is dogged and tenacious in clinging to his sense of duty. He is a rigid constitutionalist, and so long as he is president he will not permit the republic to drift hopelessly into the mael-strom of faction.

PRESIDENT CARNOT.

English Law Costs.

Just how expensive a luxury the law can be upon occasion is illustrated by a recent case in London where the costs were seventeen times as large as the sum originally in dispute. A Mrs. Large refused to pay rent for a house on the ground that it was in such an unsanitary condition that her husband inhaled sewer gas there and died in consequence. An action was brought against her, and, for some reason which does not appear, she failed to defend it. Judgment was given against her for the £41, and the costs amounted to £700. Mr. Justice Grantham went so far as to declare that it was "one of the most scandalous things he had ever heard of," adding that the moment a fund was in court it seemed to be treated like a red rag to a bull. Nevertheless, The Judge's indignation, however, did not help Mrs. Large, as she had practically put the matter out of court by not defending the action.

Issue Were Kid Gloves.

Kid gloves were mentioned in the Bible. In the sixteenth verse of the twenty-seventh chapter of Genesis Isaac's wife is accused of putting on the hands of her son Jacob the skins of the kids of the goats."

AN ENGLISH RELIC.

It Is a Wonderful Specimen of the Medieval Toxicologist's Art.

Anything once possessed by royalty is supposed to have a peculiar current all the eyes of ordinary folks particularly if the royal person existed some centuries since. If there is any doubt of the actual value is added to the fetiches one, and where the persons of several royalties in succession have owned the precious thing the valuation increases accordingly until it becomes worth a small fortune. The article in question that induces these remarks, says Harper's Weekly, is a solid cup that once belonged to the ancient royal monastery of England. This cup is wrought in enamel with scenes from the life of St. Agnes, the patron saint of Charles V., of France, to whom the cup originally belonged. The relic came to England some where about that time, but the exact date is not known. At any rate it came to the kingdom before Henry Tudor came to the throne, and is believed to have been the cup mentioned in a royal inventory as that of Henry VI. When Henry VIII. and Queen Elizabeth "took stock" of the royal treasures the cup in question was duly referred to, but its value was not great. At the financially stricken ruler known as James I. the cup was not especially necessary England. This last monarch of the Stuarts, who was never over particular, seemed to have no objection to the cup, and the only punishment I got was to say good night when I was ready to go to bed. I have been kissing and hugging and to the very best Sadi Mahon's mouth made for me to hit since."

"SADLY MIXTE DRINK."

—Life.

Writing of Spinning.

Writing of spinning men with different tactics reminds me of some of my other battles, and the most powerful opponent I ever had was Jem Mace, of world-wide renown as one of the greatest of defensive fighting-whipped Jim Hall three times in succession. The first time I saw at the very outset that I could get at his face without much trouble and with a severe punishment, and in the second round I made his nose my mark, and at the end of the fifth round

FITZSIMMONS AND HIS MANAGER CARROLL.
[From an instantaneous photograph.]

Hall's seconds threw up the sponge. It is almost discouraging to be hit in the nose fifty times in quick succession on one mouth. In my second battle with Hall he protected his face. He had received a thing or two, and I then aimed for his stomach. It took just five rounds of that kind of hitting to finish him. Billy McCarthy made a good fight, but he was unable to touch me, so I hit him at random everywhere. I came out of that fight without a scratch. Upham, when I whipped in five rounds in New Orleans, was also an easy mark.

Britannicus was one of the heavyweights I fought in Australia. It was science backed by hard hitting that beat him. I fought only

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, APRIL 21, 1892. No 16.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—Madison

The Constitutionalist,
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
Published Every Thursday
AT PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Advertising at Reasonable Rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & CODDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds for Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, California, Oregon, Nevada, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Dakota, Arizona, New Mexico, Alaska, Washington, Indian Territory, and Canada.
Office, corner of Park avenue and Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 153, Dunellen, N. J. Office in case of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. THEIS,
Dentist,
30 West Front street, a new local anæsthetic especially for extracting teeth without pain. Gas also administered.

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
242 Broadway, New York city. Rooms 9 and 10. Residence, Plainfield, N. J. Post-office Box 1,000.

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
All orders left at the Music Store, Terrace, Plainfield, Piano and Organ Tuner, will receive prompt attention. P. O. Box 186 or 1,000. Smith's Block, No. 6 Park avenue, will receive orders left at the Music Store. ST. HELP CHRISTMAS, corner 4th street.—3717917

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.,
undertakes and does No. 36 East 2d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. 1917

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue cor. Fifth St. Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, Dyeing satisfactorily performed. 1791

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stove can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware needing to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in the section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and
Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping. Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. E. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL. 6. 11 11-17

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices?
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.

Garret Q. Packer.
SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a satisfactory manner, and at reasonable prices.
Having associated myself with the "Peerless" Furnace Co., of Boston, Mass., I am prepared to put in the best Furnace in the market, and guarantee satisfaction. Call and see them in operation.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 9 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
MANUFACTURED AT
D. P. COLES' DRUG AND MED. CO.
RAHWAY, N. J.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
THE BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
—SEGARS!—
No. 13 PARK AVE., (NEXT DOOR TO POST-OFFICE.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials,
Of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, will at the proper season furnish "GREEN LEAF."

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And Dealer in all Kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed to No. 26 PARK AVENUE, next door to Mead's Grocery, one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of the friends and the public generally. 1 y 3 3

PAINTERS & PAINTERS' SUPPLIES.

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

D. B. WOOLSTON, J. F. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS' SUPPLIES. 20 NORTH AVENUE

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Leinz.)
Laing's Hotel Stables

Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Parties and Funerals. Light carriages for all descriptions for owners.

RIDING OR LIVERY
Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month. 1-21-1917
TELEPHONE CALL, No. 16.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderveer's Music Store, Park avenue. The above accommodating Express will attend to the usual carrying business of the city. Delivering goods or baggage to and from the depots, or from place to place.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers, Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasoline Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 12 SOMERSET ST. 3-31-17

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grade of
Fresh and Salt Meats,
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished at short notice.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
(Successor to T. T. Dorey.)
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—20 N. Second St.
Large Covered Vans for Pianos, Goods delivered in any part of the City. Furniture Packed and Shipped to any part of the U. S. P. O. Box 7
Will Store Furniture if Desired.

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN,
17 LaGrande Avenue,
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET,
Will reopen THUR SEPT. 15, 1891.
Circulars may be obtained at the above address, or by addressing Box 1113

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best 5 cent cigar in the State. And made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CUBAN HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
Also a large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Smokers Articles always in stock.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.

CHICAGO'S ART PALACE.

It Will Be the Finest Structure of Its Kind in America.

Eight Hundred Thousand Dollars to Be Expended in Its Construction—What It Will Contain—Other Notes.

Warehouse for Chicago.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

When, some years ago, a number of enterprising citizens of Chicago first conceived the idea of organizing an art institute in Chicago the project was received with many sneers. But despite the sneers, the organization of a society was effected, ground purchased and a building erected. This building has been added to and enlarged by many gifts, considered one of the most valuable specimens of Chicago architecture by its owners and seemingly fire thousand dollars were invested before an effort was made to acquire the position at large with the fact that the west side was an institution which would be a credit to any country. Private collections of paintings, water colors and sketches were purchased. Private galleries were opened for exhibitions of the works, and the institute was opened to the public. Although large sums of money are necessary to maintain the institute, Saturdays and Sundays were set apart for the public, no admission being charged on the last named days of the week.

THE NEW ART INSTITUTE.

Mr. Charles L. Hutchinson, for many years the leading spirit of the institute, realized that, no matter what the ultra-optimistic might say, the "common people" would have to be interested in its exhibits to make its mission a real success. The records of attendance on the free days prove that his ideas were sound and founded on close observation. Mr. Hutchinson, by the way, is a son of the famous Benjamin F. Hutchinson, for decades the great financial figure on the Chicago board of trade and now the most noted grain speculator of New York.

At the beginning of the institute increased the demand for more room became urgent, and when congress located the World's Fair in Chicago the directors naturally desired to erect an art palace which should represent the importance of the great west and the interest taken by the progressive and intelligent population all around it. Hence the plan now unveiled to locate a permanent building of this kind on the exposition grounds, and the directors approached the city authorities with an offer to erect a handsome structure on the lake front to occupy the site of the old exposition building. After many weary arguments the city fathers concluded to accede to the demands of the public-spirited art enthusiasts, who, without delay, secured plans for the new building which will eventually be one of the chief attractions to visitors to the exposition.

The plan in place, according to the plans of the architects, will have a frontage of 710 feet on Michigan avenue, and on the same avenue opposite the center of Adams street. The depth of the building on this line will vary from 321 to 398 feet, but in the main the plan of the structure is that of a parallelogram.

The base of the building will be constructed as far as the top of the first floor of Bedford stone. It will contain a band of chiseled stone surmounted by panels filled with sculptures. Above these panels will be an entablature and cornice, richly decorated, whose effect will be highly increased by the plain panels of the frieze, which will be of copper and glass. The main entrance will be marble and mosaic, and the entrance hall will be of the finished kind. The galleries lead out from the entrance hall, and will be reached by the entrest through chaste arch openings. The whole building, it is perhaps needless to say, will be fireproof, and supplied with all modern improvements.

The interior will be divided into two galleries, the first being devoted to plaster casts, sculptures, busts and models; the second to pictures. The latter gallery is to be lighted entirely above by skylights. The walls will be of hard finish, and this planks are to be placed, covered with neutral cloth, to which the pictures will be screwed. The main galleries are to be twenty-seven and the second galleries twelve feet wide. The main staircase will in front, in the center, as the visitor enters. On one side will be a lecture room capable of seating one thousand people and on the other a library for reference books.

ENTRANCE TO ART INSTITUTE.

The cost of the structure, including interior finish, is estimated at $800,000, of which the world's fair directory will pay one-fourth. The trustees have sold the institute building for $275,000 to the Chicago club for $275,000, and the balance of the amount will be raised by private subscription under the direction of Mr. Hutchinson, who has duties regarding the ultimate outcome of his labors in this direction.

The art school carried on in connection with the art institute will, of course, be greatly benefited by the change in location for the reason that it will extend its already excellent reputation to the remotest sections of the country. The school, which is under the immediate supervision of the board of trustees of the institute, has been remarkably successful, and its appointments have from time to time been forced to add new classes. Students from all of the leading states attend the lectures and bear testimony to the efficiency of the management. The classes which seem to be most popular are divided as follows: Costumed life class, nude life class, painting from still life, classes in anatomy, modeling, perspective, artistic anatomy, ornamental designing, lithography, china painting, class for art teachers and teachers, evening life and antique classes, architectural class and composition. During the fall the institute will open a class for children, which will be so conducted that students can pursue almost every known subdivision of art from the rudiments of education to the highest degree of proficiency in professional. While the institute and school are by no means charitable institutions, they are conducted on a liberal basis, and the tuition fees are very moderate. The management, however, has found it necessary to put certain difficulties in the way of pupils.

That Chicago will be even greater than it now is no one can doubt. That it is the greatest commercial city in the world is a fact that no one disputes. That it is the greatest manufacturing city in the world is also a fact that no one disputes. That it is the greatest city in the world for the accumulation of money men who devote not only their money but also their time to the development of what I might call its life. No city on the face of the earth has ever been built so rapidly, so substantially, so well. Some cities, even metropolis which, a few decades ago, was considered a mushroom town whose existence depended upon the accumulation of wealth and where one could not find a single poet capable of writing a poem, has now its poets, its writers of fiction and real estate bulletins. Time has proved that the men who made Chicago what it is, and who have also made her the literary center of the new world, and although she has no Mecca of learning, she has the attraction of the greatest libraries, the grandest university ever conceived, an American soul which will soon have one of the finest art institutes.

From all to the collection of Uncle Sam's import duties for a long step, but before closing this series of letters devoted to Chicago's public buildings I must mention the new appraiser's warehouse, completed but a short time ago. This structure, according to the best authority, is one of the few government buildings which have been erected according to specifications and without steals of any kind. It stands eight stories in height and covers an area of seventy by ninety feet on the corner of Harrison and Sherman streets, near the freight houses of the principal eastern and western trunk lines. On both street facings there is a vacant space of forty feet on each side of the building. The material used throughout is Connecticut brownstone, from the Middletown quarries. The inside partitions are of cut Bedford stone, the building approaches, with the interior driveways, being constructed of the principal materials

NEW APPRAISER'S WAREHOUSE.

The Constitutional list.

W. L. FORGE, Editor and Proprietor. A. L. FORGE

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chosen the City of Chicago as the place for holding the national Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation thereto equal to double the number of the representation to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of party affiliations, associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE, Chairman.
SIMON P. SHERRIS, Secretary.

THE PARTY LEADERS FOR CLEVELAND.

Judge Krueger of Newark, in an interview published in the Newark Call, declares himself very distinctively in favor of the nomination of Grover Cleveland for the Presidency for reasons which he gives as follows:

"I am for the nomination of Mr. Cleveland. I believe he should be nominated for President because he is a man the people trust. They know that he came from a wise, honorable administration when he left the Presidency, and they have faith in him. The business men fully believe in him and they would feel that business interests were safe if in his hands. He has strong convictions and fully lays down the principles of a positive and determined one. I know that he will receive the support of many Republicans, and he is the choice of the Democratic masses as we say other men. I expect that he will be nominated, and I shall do all I can to bring about that result. Count me for Cleveland first and last."

The Call also publishes the results of interviews with other representative Democrats. State Treasurer Gray said: "I am and have been a Cleveland man, and believe he should be nominated." Comptroller Connolly, of Newark, said: "Mr. Cleveland's policy is affirmative, and his candidacy would arouse a very active campaign." Senators McPherson and Blodgett are also quoted upon that side, and the Call says that "it is generally reported that Governor Abbett may be coupled with the name of those who believe the Democratic party of this State should support Cleveland." Besides, "nearly all the leading Democratic newspapers have advocated the nomination of Cleveland." All this is merely the reflection of the sentiment of the rank and file of the party, and means that the leaders having definitely ascertained that drift of sentiment are putting themselves in line with it.—Trenton True American.

THE MAN AND THE ISSUE.

The Democratic State Conventions now in course of assembling for the purpose of selecting delegates to the Chicago National Convention have, with marked unanimity and enthusiasm, voiced the popular demand for the re-nomination of ex-President Cleveland.

He is the man.

The honest masses are for him, basing their preference upon the substantial fact that he is worthy of confidence, in every respect qualified and reliable, and admiring as they justly do his honorable attitude as a non-aspiring patriot.

When the people move obstruction-ists must stand aside.

Political, like ocean tidal waves, sweep everything before their swelling torrents.

The representative Democrats in State Conventions, Pennsylvania as well as Massachusetts, have also declared, without a sign of dissent, in favor of Tariff Reform.

That is the issue.

To thoroughly reform the obnoxious one sided tariff act bearing the name of McKinley, a measure concocted and formulated by mercenary interests for their own pecuniary benefit, regardless of the equal rights of the people, and in flat threat to guarantee real protection to labor, industry and legitimate enterprise, to profitably enliven general business pursuits, to give just encouragement to commerce, agriculture and manufacture, and relieve the toiling millions from monopolistic greed and onerous exactions.

Cleveland is the man.

Tariff Reform the issue.

A DEMOCRATIC SUMMONS.

A trumpet call to the Democratic societies of the country for organization is sounded by the National Association in a circular just issued. The association urges the timely formation of primary societies in every district, and their early union in State societies and in the National Association. The general committee of the association will meet in Chicago on June 21 and issue a call for a national convention of Democratic clubs.

An early response to this circular should be made in New Jersey. The time is approaching when the issues of the great contest of 1892 will be joined. The battle ground will be one of the most momentous that has been fought in many years, and the Democratic party cannot take too much time for preparation. The example of the Democratic societies in New York will have a good effect in other States, if they are among the first to take the field.—Newark Journal.'

The latest report from Indiana is to the effect that the Cleveland and Gray wings of the Democratic party in that State have reached an agreement by which harmonious action is assured at their State Convention, and is to the effect that the "State platform shall declare tariff reform the issue, and Cleveland the logical candidate, but that the name of Governor Gray shall be presented to the National Convention, and that in the event of Cleveland's nomination being deemed inexpedient by that body, the Indiana delegation shall do its utmost to secure Gray's selection as the Presidential candidate."

The Bergen Democrat, edited by State Senator Henry D. Winton, talks some plain truths about the Jersey City elections. "It is the contrap," says the paper, "of a free, honest, body of unwarrantable interference in local affairs; in the adoption of hasty and ill-advised legislation; and in the attempted consolidation of the party power in the hands of persons of private interest and personal aggrandizement. In all this the people's rights have been lost sight of, with a result which might reasonably have been expected."

LET IT BE A CHAPEL SOON.

Beautiful Progress and Bright Prospects of the Baptists' Third Street Mission.

Most people in Plainfield know that there is a mission in the eastern part of the city, but as to its work in detail very little is known among the majority.

The East Third Street mission, as it is called, was opened last August with the tent work, as already told in these columns, under the supervision of the Young People's League of the First Baptist church. The enthusiasm and zeal put into the work by the young people made it a success from the start, and at no time was there any doubt as to results. The meetings have always been characterized by that freedom of spirit which is so accurable of the best results. Those who have attended these meetings know much needed in that community. Walter C. Dobbins canvassed the entire neighborhood searching for those who did not attend any church, and the results of this week's work was that on the following Sunday 19 had responded to the calls made, and that they were ready for work. The interest shown gave much encouragement, and although Mr. Dobbins and one or two of the other workers had to go out of town for a few weeks, some of the homes and bring the children to the school, it was with no other purpose nor aim than to have these tears about the Master, which they undoubtedly seek to teach in as simple a manner as possible, so that all could understand.

The school had been fairly organized when L. W. Crandall was duly appointed superintendent of the mission. At that time the field was again canvassed, from time to time, and more children were secured to attend the school, who had never been in the habit of going anywhere. Steadily the school has been growing, until now the attendance numbers about 90. The regular attendance has been on the increase, and now the rooms are crowded on Sunday and Thursday evenings with those anxious to hear the words of the king's best Christian workers have led these meetings, and both they and the hearers have received blessings and have always been welcome to attend again. During the past months, entertainments have been held at different times, and it has been a pleasing feature of the work. On one of these occasions popular talks have been given which were thoroughly enjoyed.

W. F. Richards, who recently came to the mission, has shown that he has the true spirit. He at at once started a boys' prayer meeting, which has been one of the most promising features of the work. Mr. Richards has succeeded in getting the boys, and one better adapted to the work could not have been secured. Closely following this, a young women's meeting was organized, in charge of Miss Emma Thorn, who was assisted by Miss Florence Dodge, H. E. Needham, Irving Healy, and W. F. Richards. Miss Randolph is the superintendent and has entire charge of the mission.

It might also be stated that a piano has recently been placed in the room, which have been raised by those connected with the mission. It is hoped that the time may not be far distant when a handsome chapel will be erected for this most important work.

Uptown—Later.

The following wedding note is from the Rev. C. L. Goodrich's monthly paper, Our Church:

"The pastor officiated at a quiet home wedding at 11 West Front street last month, and in consequence Miss Lizzie Laing is no longer Miss Lizzie but Mrs. Lizzie Wyckware. It was perhaps something of a surprise to many of our friends, as there had been report of a severed engagement, but from time immemorial it has been the privilege of young lovers to disagree and then agree again. It was thought best, however, to have the wedding a private one. No invitations were issued."

PROGRESS OF THE WATER SCHEME.

Westfield Soon to Have Its Supply from the Rahnerwood Stand-pipe.

[From The Elizabeth Journal.]

The Hon. John Kean, jr., president of the Union Water company, and Frank Bergen, counsel for the company, met the Township committee at Westfield Monday evening and discussed the part of the company to extend a water main from Netherwood to Elizabeth, supplying Fanwood, Westfield, Cranford and Roselle on the way. The main has already been laid as far as Fanwood, and the encouragement received from conferences with citizens and officials of the towns has led the company to decide to proceed at once with the work. The first car-load of pipe arrived at Fanwood Monday morning, and was unloaded during the day. A force of fifteen laborers are already encamped near Fanwood, and will begin work as soon as sufficient pipe arrives to keep them employed. The engineering committee of the association will meet in Chicago on June 21 and issue a call for a national convention of Democratic clubs.

An early response to this circular should be made in New Jersey. The time is approaching when the issues of the great contest of 1892 will be joined. The battle ground will be one of the most momentous that has been fought in many years, and the Democratic party cannot take too much time for preparation. The example of the Democratic societies in New York will have a good effect in other States, if they are among the first to take the field.—Newark Journal.'

The latest report from Indiana is to the effect that the Cleveland and Gray wings of the Democratic party in that State have reached an agreement by which harmonious action is assured at their State Convention, and is to the effect that the "State platform shall declare tariff reform the issue, and Cleveland the logical candidate, but that the name of Governor Gray shall be presented to the National Convention, and that in the event of Cleveland's nomination being deemed inexpedient by that body, the Indiana delegation shall do its utmost to secure Gray's selection as the Presidential candidate."

The Bergen Democrat, edited by State Senator Henry D. Winton, talks some plain truths about the Jersey City elections. "It is the contrap," says the paper, "of a free, honest, body of unwarrantable interference in local affairs; in the adoption of hasty and ill-advised legislation; and in the attempted consolidation of the party power in the hands of persons of private interest and personal aggrandizement. In all this the people's rights have been lost sight of, with a result which might reasonably have been expected."

SUING FOR DEBTS FOR 25 YEARS.

Peter Brunson Was Left Nothing by Jeremiah Vanderpoel's Will, and Now Sues Augustus Bruson for Legacy and Interest.

When the case of Peter Brunson vs. Augustus Brunson and Caroline Brunson, executors of the estate of the late J. M. H. VanDerveer, was called at Somerville Tuesday, there was a lively discussion between counselors Richard V. Lindabury and Craig A. Marsh, as may also be expected when the chosen counselors are pitted against each other.

The suit was brought by Peter Brunson to recover for services rendered from 1867 down to 1892. Mr. Lindabury moved to amend his pleadings by adding a plea that the claim was barred by the statute of limitations, in other words, that it was outlawed. He said that he had ordered his clerk to file such a plea, but that the latter had neglected to do so.

Mr. Marsh opposed the motion and cited a recent case decided by the Supreme court in which it was held that the statute of limitation was a strict defense, and if the party failed to file the plea that he not help him. The case was produced, and examined by Mr. Lindabury and the court, after which the court remanded that it seemed to cover the case in point, and that he would deny Mr. Lindabury's motion, with leave to renew it for further argument if desired. Later, counsel stated that the case should go for the term, and the judge said he would refer the point to the Supreme court.

It is expected that the point will be soon when it is remembered that unless the statute of limitations is pleaded, Peter Brunson is at liberty to go back in his account twenty-five years, whereas if the statute is pleaded, he can only go back six years. Jackson & Codington brought the suit for Mr. Brunson.

It is supposed that the reason that Peter Brunson is now suing for his services and to recover loans is because he was omitted from the list of beneficiaries under Mr. VanDerveer's will. He has expected to be a legatee, and hence never rendered an account of what was due him till he found that he had not been remembered.

That G. A. R. Fight.

That G. A. R. trouble was brought to the front again at Friday night's meeting of the North Ward post. The cause was not new. The matter of making an appropriation for Memorial Day observance came up, and considerable discussion arose as to whether it ought to be given to Windfield Scott post or divided with Major Anderson post. Wm. Smith of Winfield Scott was present and said that his post was the only one that held memorial services. The Major Andersons, he said, only shared by invitation in the celebration which his post arranged and paid for.

Comrade Randolph said that he had personally been at the head of a disagreement between the posts, and as it was stated that the Major Anderson post was arranging for a celebration for it's own, the matter was left for the mayor to adjust, and the sum of $25 was appropriated to be applied by him to Memorial Day observance.

Smalley Bros. Get the Contract.

The borough council of North Plainfield Friday night considered bids for crushed stone for the year. The bid of Smalley Bros. was accepted, and they will furnish all sizes of stone at 95 cents a ton, delivered. Alfred C. Johnson put in a lower bid, but it was said that his crusher could not be put into operation in time to give the borough its spring supply. During the evening some warm discussion arose over the old trouble the council and Smalley Bros. had last year. Charges of broken faith were freely made and as freely refuted. The dragging has been dropped as far as possible, unfortunate, and by common consent the matter was dropped so that pleasant relations with the contractors might be resumed.

Special Music and a Good Sermon.

At the Congregational church Sunday everything had an Easter tint. The display of flowers was not large nor showy but no more exquisite taste in arrangement was displayed anywhere in the city They were arranged by Mrs. W. H. Webster and Mrs. Waldron. The choir consisted of H. J. Martin, tenor, Mrs. Collier, soprano, Miss Julia Ketcham, alto, and Robert Gorton, bass. The service was opened by the anthem "Awake up My Glory", by Barnby, beautifully rendered. At appropriate intervals the choir also sang a Te Deum by Schnecker and an anthem "As Sleep Takes Every Night", by Shelley; and Mrs. Collier sang a solo.

Mr. Goodrich spoke from the text "The power of an endless life."—Heb. VII. 16, to a large audience.

A Double Quartette at Trinity.

At the Trinity Reformed church Sunday there was a very large attendance both morning and evening. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, delivered a carefully prepared sermon from the text "Mary Magdalene was there, and the other Mary, sitting over against the sepulchre" Matt. XXVII. 61. The singing of the double quartette choir, under the leadership of F. F. Hazell, was also greatly enjoyed, and Mr Hazell and his choir received many congratulations on their proficiency. The floral display, arranged by Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, Mrs. F. A. Emmons and Mrs. C. Frank French, was particularly fine, and many remained after the services to enjoy the beautiful sight and to examine the lilies on the table displayed in their arrangement. A. L. Titsworth was the entertaining and efficient organist.

Jolly Stationers on a Western Jaunt.

A merry and congenial party of New Jersey stationers, consisting of senator M. T. Barrett, comptroller James F. Conlan, assemblyman Peter J. Rice, board commissioner Thomas Harlan, the Hon John Kennell, senator John Hinchliffe, assemblyman Thomas P. Lane, and Mark Wall's fair companion, Mrs. Wall, have been enjoying a trip to the celebrated Hot Springs of Arkansas. The trip had been in contemplation for many months and had been looked forward to during the closing weeks of the recent session of the legislature, at which all members of the party had been more or less active. The journey was made in a writing long letters home to their friends, and to the Newark newspapers, describing the delights of the Hot Springs region, and their praise is unbounded of the courteous and excellent service extended by the management of the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain railway. They speak in high terms of the beautiful scenery along the Iron Mountain route, and of the comforts, conveniences, luxuries and pleasures of travel on that road. The Iron Mountain service, they say, is simply superb, and they recommend all who want a royal good time to go to the Hot Springs via the Iron Mountain route penetrates a region unsurpassed by no other first-class road, and all who contemplate a western trip should correspond with W. E. Hoyt, 201 Broadway, New York, for Iron Mountain passage.

To Buy New Lands by Way of Iron Mountain.

Great tracts of free land are being opened up in the Southwest, notably the famous Iron Mountain route, which runs from Missouri to Texas (all roads from St. Louis). Those desiring to secure new lands for themselves in the development of the country just should take a trip without delay over the Iron Mountain railroad, descriptive of which full information will be furnished by W. L. Hoyt, general eastern passenger agent, 201 Broadway, New York.

BRIGHT GLIMPSES OF THE PAST.

A Delightful Literary History Read by Miss Clarke at Monday Afternoon Club Celebration.

The anniversary celebration of the Monday afternoon club, held at the club house, is fully described in these columns that evening, was altogether one of the most delightful events in the history of the club, and one that will long be remembered with joyous feelings by those who participated. Not the least of the pleasant events of the day was the paper on the history of the club, written for and read by the recording secretary, Miss Charlotte E. Clarke. This paper was heartily enjoyed by all the notable company present, and the request for the reading of reproduction in full. It is as follows:

In the presence of so many of those who were among the first to take part in the work for a very prolonged history of the Monday Afternoon club, it seems hardly necessary that in but four years old can scarcely be expected to contribute a very large funds to the history of the past, and that it is for the eyes of our distinguished visitors it will appear but the "Short and Simple Annals of the Poor."

I think it must be merely the absence of club memory to remove unpleasant recollections, for they train our gaze to reach beyond our own horizon and to seek the records of the experience of others, rather than of our own. Even now our eyes are turned toward our sister clubs, and we wait for signs of growth in prosperity and advancement, with an interest that can hardly be repressed.

Our club has been the scene sort of a magic mirror to hold up before you in which might be reflected a picture of the principal events of the four years which at present form the boundary of our existence as a society.

In such a collection of sketches we should expect to find a wide range of topics, historical and at least one hundred first-winged poems, and all the tuneful Millet ever painted, the Spanish question, the Empire, the Fair, the Shakespeare, and the Old Woman Smiling Bonus, could not equal of various subjects, the general interest would be sufficient to represent the executive board.

In such a single mirror we might not be able to discern the traditional "midnight sleep," nor any other of the orthodox paraphernalia of entertainment; but I think we could point to four years of very earnest work; to meetings flying rapidly by, to an ever-deepening interest in the study of literature; to ever-widening views of history; to an ever-enlarged sense of obligations of club meetings, and to a steady growth of affection for our club and its interests.

We have passed now to make a habit with the past, and a brief backward glance over our own history may not be without some fruit-ful hints for the future, even if it only serve to show us what we have left undone.

During our four years of club life we have had to mourn the well-springs of literature. We have made our bow to art, we have set foot within the sacred precincts of science, and each year we have encouraged social culture to the extent of a frugal cup of tea together.

Our first year found us in the midst of the World's Fair excitement, and indulged in our own representative way set in the first of the pleasant, and nobody tried very much to get out of it. Our first year's history is now enshrined stanley through the flowers of Africa, and grappled with the effort let go, voices and our legs at the same time. Upon the club floor we have invited the wisdom of the most eminent advisers, and have acted with the courage of our convictions in defining by-laws.

It would seem rather a work of supererogation for me to go back to our starting-point, and try to give an account of the forming of the Monday Afternoon club. It was a great success from the very first. Ever since the first time when we ventured our ideas, trembling and very low-voiced opinion of whether we agreed!

The day is long since gone by, when we were so terribly afraid we should not "know enough to keep." Now, when there is a paper to be written, we all speak at once. It would be utterly impossible in the time allowed me to give all the work of four years, therefore I will briefly recount the subjects which we have chosen for each period, varying as may serve to add to the interest, our method of study.

The first year was largely spent in studying the "Origin and Aims of the American Constitution," and the "Origin and Growth of the Constitution." Subdivisions for discussion included "The Relations between the States and the General Government," "States Rights", "The Calhoun Doctrine", etc. Notebooks were prepared on these subjects, and we proceeded to dissect the subject of the "English Commonwealth."

The "Early History of John Boston" furnished our next theme, followed by "Henry M. Stanley," "Dr. Livingstone," "Emin Pasha's Effort in Africa". As a succeeding topic, "The Comparative Merits of Norman and Saxon in Fiction" were discussed with much interest at several meetings.

The "Early History of Germany" also enter the fantastic mazes of "Folk Lore", wherein we strayed for many a day. Learned papers with much research were read upon the "Myths of Greece, India, Germany, Finland and France, demanding that they give us of their "Folk Lore and Stories" whatever might be found "Fairy Tales", "Children's Games", and "Nursery Rhymes" were also in order. Yesterday, and made us feel as though we had some strange lacking distance of our childhood, and the fountain of years.

"Etching and Etchers" furnished our next field of study and research. "Modern Art" and "Russell Lowell" considered as a type of American culture is still providing for us frequent intellectual repasts.

This meagre summing up of main subjects is quite inadequate to express the interest they awaken among us, when discussed in their various sub-divisions—especially when some able essayist is at work. Or the wider field of discussion, possibly represent even to herself, and mention it with fear-like-shall we say, for instance, as "Objections to the Higher Education of Women", and the negative side of "Missionary Work in Africa."

During the year 1890, the Monday Afternoon club made a very earnest attempt to direct our unusual training into the Plainfield public schools, as a factor of education. I think I may say that they have not forgot the subject, but are still sowing the seed, and trusting to a kinder future to ripen the fruit of their efforts. The time was one to act, but in time to come we hope to stretch out a wider hand to philanthropy, and to give more personal attention to the times.

While considering a plan of work for another year, we have already set aside 2 graver allowance of time for the study of native productions of the day which touch upon the welfare of humanity, and tend toward the greatest good of the greatest number.

Our last year's work has been devoted to not less than six lectures, appropriate to our line of work, and found them very helpful.

Doubtless the experiences of other clubs has been similar to our own in one respect—that we have not always been able to secure the most unknown talent, and in days to come if we have a "Longfellow" or a "Lowell" we will undoubtedly realize that a large amount of contemporaneous fanciful literature might safely be relegated to the waste basket by which study is lost.

The subject of slow or rapid growth, flourish best where they can strike their roots the deepest, and we hope the happy day will not be when the Monday Afternoon club will have a club-house of its own, which shall become to it a real and substantial home. A home, in which we can feel a settled security, and be free to form that which we love, look attachments, and to which we can bring all that is interesting and valuable to us, and which is touchingly that I can say of our affection for our club as an institution. Upon such a home, with its many rooms, we could hang the adornment of ambition, some responsive deed of each member of the club, and the fruit of its improvement, until, like the seasoned wood of a musical instrument, it would give forth a richer and more responsive tone.

And now let me say, I only wish I had been able to speak of all the work of the club in the sweet greatest. How gladly, then, I would have lifted up the tribute of my voice.

Let us, then, be thankful for the past, and hopeful for the future.

To judge, to praise, to criticise
Is much more easily than to write;
When these were told no single voice was heard.

The treasurer reported that since the formation of the society $602.85 had been collected by dues and assessments and $712.71 expended in feasts and other ways, leaving a balance of $110.14. Early after the society was organized two members died and $100 for each had to be raised, so an assessment of $2 each was levied upon members of the club. Monday and Monday the association is well on its feet. In one week, about New Year's Day, there were 16 on the sick list, at one time, and 18 members in all. The banks which have occurred the officers have made a good showing for the first six months of the association's existence.

A Choice Literary Menu.

A most delightful set of literary companions are the volumes of the "Choice Series" issued semi-monthly by Robert Bonner's Sons, corner William and Spruce streets, New York. The books are printed in large, clear type, on fine paper, nicely bound, and handsomely illustrated. Only the best of modern fiction is selected for the series. Among the charming tales of recent issues are that fascinating problem "Was She Wife or Widow?", by Malcolm Bell; the famous novel "Vivia", by the "Country Doctor", by Honore de Balzac; the entrancing "Fleetbel's Lover; or, Rival Belles", by the popular authoress Laura Jean Libbey; and the intensely dramatic story from real life, "Lida Campbell", by Jean Kate Ludlum. These are all most excellent books, and are just the sort of companions for while away the lazy spring and summer days. One can always be sure of a superior volume by drawing on the "Choice Series", which will be supplied by the publishers or by any newsdealer.

A FAMOUS HISTORIAN.

Heinrich von Sybel and the Work He Has Done.

The Organizer of the Statistics of the German Empire—His First Inspiration Due to the Teachings of Ranke.

Heinrich Kart Ludolph von Sybel was born at Dusseldorf, on December 2, 1817. The year in which the idea of founding a society for German history first came to light. After eight years of preparatory study at the gymnasium of his native town, the talented youth of sixteen went to the university of Berlin, where in seven semesters he was graduated as a full fledged doctor of philosophy. For four semesters he attended the historical lectures of Ranke.

When Sybel joined this class he was the youngest, and, though he was vividly influenced by the new methods of treatment, he would seem to have allowed himself to be carried away with the stream less than did any of his fellow students. In addition to attending this history class he pursued a very systematic and full course of study, which was supplemented by the impressions he received from the many distinguished authors and scholars who frequented his father's house.

Sybel's first dissertation was on the Gothe and their historical Jordanis. Another, on the "Origin of Royalty in Germany" (1844), kept in motion for years a legion of critical pens, great and small.

Meanwhile Sybel had attracted universal attention by his "History of the First Crusade" (1841), the foundation stone of his fame. Two years later appeared his "Kleine Schriften," which made him professor extraordinary at Marburg, and has become a recognized standard.

The favor with which King Maximilian II. of Bavaria looked upon the study and the writing of history rendered possible the production of historical works of permanent value. Ranke himself could not take up his abode in Munich, but both he and the king advised Sybel to go there and fill the chair of history at the Bavarian university.

In 1861 the Prussian government summoned him back to Bonn. The latter his special genius came to the front, and the more definite his conception of decisive moments in history became, the louder grew the voices of the opposition party. It is due to the instinctions of his opponents that we owe "The German Nation and Emperor," to a certain Sybel's reconfession of faith. A year after he returned to Bonn he was elected a member of the Prussian chamber of deputies, but an eye affection caused him to resign again and confine his powers to the humdrum of teaching. When the Schleswig-Holstein complications set in he accompanied the thunder of the German army with his pen. Prussia, Germany and Denmark in the Thirteenth Century," "Austria and Prussia in the Revolutionary Era" followed, up the weakness of Austria; in "The New Germany" (1870) he wrote a hymn of praise for France, and when the German troops stood victorious on French soil, he entered into a discussion of the event and its consequences in the Forty-eighth Review of January, 1871. From 1871 to 1875 he was a member of the North German confederation and in 1876 he resigned the Bonn professorship to succeed Alfred Dove as director of the archives at Berlin, but nearly another decade passed before it was rumored that the new German empire had found its historian in the great organizer of the state archives.

HEINRICH VON SYBEL.

EASTER SUNDAY IN ROME.

The Pope Used to Hold Statuesque Spring Time Fetes in the Vatican.

At Rome, as might be expected, Easter Sunday is celebrated with elaborate ceremonies, the day which preparations have been making all the previous week. The day is ushered in by the firing of cannons from the castle of St. Angelo, and shortly several gaily decked ringes with ladies and gentlemen are beginning to pour toward St. Peter's. In the meantime Rome is not to be found to be richly decorated for the occasion, the altars are freshly ornamented and the lights around the tomb and figure of St. Peter are now blazing after their temporary extinction. According to custom the pope celebrates Mass at 10 o'clock in St. Peter's, and he does so with very imposing accessory that can be found in the Catholic church. Bands of hall in the palace of the vatican he is borne into the church under circumstances of the most splendid splendor. Seated in his Sedia Gestatoria, his vestments blaze with gold, on his head he wears the tiara, and in his hand he carries a long staff, resembling a bishop's crook, which is announced to signify spiritual power. Before him are borne the fabelli, or large fans composed of ostrich feathers, in which are set five sparkling jewels of peacocks' feathers, to signify the five wounds of our Saviour. Behind him is borne a rich canopy richly fringed. After officiating at mass at the high altar the pope is seated in the throne chair, and to the sound of trumpets is borne through the crowded church, and the ceremony over for the day.

Common Soap

Rots Clothes and Chaps Hands.

IVORY SOAP

DOES NOT.

It Floats.

Mullins & Co

The Leading Furniture and Carpet House in the State.

WE ARE READY

FOR SPRING TRADE!

OUR NEW SPRING STOCK OF

FURNITURE AND CARPETS

In Variety, Quality and Quantity

Has never been equaled anywhere.

AT ACTUAL COST!

The best markets in the world have been ransacked, and unsparingly. Every article has been secured at actual cost in cash; therefore no house can afford to undersell us.

HERE ARE A FEW QUOTATIONS:

Bedroom Suits, $10.50 and up.	Lounges, $5.00 and up.
Parlor Suits, $25.00 and up.	Easy Chairs, $5.00 and up.
Sofa Beds, $10.00 and up.	Extension Tables, $4 and up

The days of fancy prices in Carpets are gone. We are offering all the best makes and latest designs at lower prices than ever known in the trade. Wilton, $1.65 per yard and up. Body Brussels, 85 cents per yard and up. Moquettes, $1 per yard and up. Tapestries, 50 cents per yard and up.

A lot of last year's patterns in Carpets, Linoleums and Mattings. Best make at HALF ORIGINAL COST.

Baby Carriages from $3.75 to $30.

218 and 220 Market Street,

NEWARK, N. J.

COME, SEE AND SATISFY YOURSELF.

BRANCH STORES—121 to 125 Newark Avenue, JERSEY CITY, N. J. 213 Main Street, PATERSON, N. J. 78 to 84 Myrtle Avenue, BROOKLYN, N.Y. 3 31 13w

CLEANING and DYEING.

Have Your Spring Wear Cleaned or Dyed in time for warm weather.

Challies, Flannels, Summer Silks, Ladies' Dressing Sacques and Wrappers cleaned to look like New.

Entire suit of Men's Clothing cleaned or $1.50.

Samples of the New Spring Shades on Hand.

HILLIER & CO., 49 North Avenue.

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,

Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.,

14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.

ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 4 9 1y

1892. STALLION SEASON. 1892.

ROUND TOP FARM,

BERNARDSVILLE, N. J.

ATHELL.

Formerly Baby McKee.
Sire Electioneer, by Mambrino Patchen.
100 trotters in 2.30.
Dam, Manette, by Full Brother to Arion—2 years—2:10 3-4.
Dam of Arion, 2:10 3-4 by Rysdyk's Hambletonian.
107 trotters in 2.30.
Netwood, 2:18 3-4
76 trotters in 2.30.

Season, $500. Return Privilege. Limited to 10 approved mares.

PALATKA, 5590.

Sire, Nutwood, 2:18 3-4, by Belmont,
Dam, Alalantra, by Mambrino Patchen.
Bred at 3 years old 42 trotters in 2.30.

Season, $200. Return Privilege.

LORD ELDON, 14024.

Sire, Mansfield, 2:26, by Messenger Duroc,
3 trotters in 2.30. 21 trotters in 2.30.
Dam, Lantigua, by Rysdyk's Hambletonian,
Sister of 2 in 2.30. 41 trotters in 2.30.

Season, $50. Return Privilege.

AVALANCHE, 9542.

Sire, Alexander, 2:20 3-4, by Abdallah, 2.30.
Sire of Star Wright 2:24 3-4
Dam, Drift, by Alexander,
4 trotters in 2.30.

Season, $10 Payable in Advance.

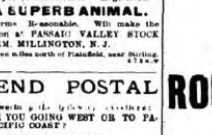
The above sires carry the noted blood elements that have produced over seventy-five per cent of the record or here and 2 re ord trotters of the past and present, including Rysdyk's Hambletonian, Electioneer, Geo. Wilkes, Nutwood, Alexander, Mambrino Chief, Mambrino Patchen, Mansfield, Messenger Duroc, Green Mountain Maid, Miss Russell, Mambrino Chief, Daisy Patchen, Lady Pepper, Adelaide Pepper, Addie and Baby Family. They are all unexcelled as individuals and challenge admiration.

F. F. OLCOTT, Proprietor.

Address GEO. H. MARTIN, Superintendent. 3 31 4w

Percheron Stallion

"Santor,"



Imported from France Registered.

A SUPERB ANIMAL.

Terms Reasonable. Will make the season at PASSAIC VALLEY STOCK FARM, MILLINGTON, N. J.

Seven miles north of Plainfield, near Stirling. 4 7 4w

SEND POSTAL

Answering [illegible] advertisement,

ARE YOU GOING WEST OR TO PASCIFIC COAST?

WHERE ARE YOU GOING?

WHEN ARE YOU GOING?

HERE DO YOU START FROM?

HOW MANY ARE IN YOUR PARTY?

If you will kindly drop me a postal answering the above questions, I will call upon you at your address and furnish you with maps time-tables, and full information, and quote you the lowest possible rates.

Yours, etc.,

ELY'S CREAM BALM

Opens the Nasal Passages,

Allays Pain and Inflammation,

Heals the Sores.

Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell.

CATARRH

HAY-FEVER

A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents, including a Blower. Sold by druggists, or by mail, registered, 60 cents. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

TRY THE CURE

DO YOU COUGH DON'T DELAY TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM THE BEST COUGH CURE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Is a Harmless, Positive Cure for the worst form of Female Complaints, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors.

It removes faintness, flatulency, weakness of the stomach, cures Bloating, Headache, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion, also the feeling of Bearing Down, causing pain, weight, and backache.

It acts in harmony with the laws that govern the female system under all circumstances.

For Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed. Correspondence freely answered. Address in confidence, LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., Lynn, Mass.

A DMINISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT.—Notice is hereby given that [illegible] George W. P. Dunn, late of Plainfield, in the county of Union, deceased, and reported his settlement to the Orphans Court of said county, and that the [illegible] day of June next. [illegible] JOHN D. STILES, Dec. 22 4w $ 50

THE PLAINFIELD

PACKING HOUSE

25 West Front Street,

Will respectfully inform its patrons that it is ready to [illegible]

Fresh, Salt and Smoked Goods,

It has added a full line of

Fresh Beef, Lamb,

Veal, Mutton & Poultry,

Which it is prepared to sell at

Reasonable Prices!

and will guarantee satisfaction. Goods delivered free of charge.

C. H. ULRICH,

Proprietor.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

The Board of Equalion at their regular monthly meeting held April 4, 1892, adopted the following resolution, viz:

RESOLVED, That a notification be made upon the Assessor and Collector of Taxes for this city and school district to assess and collect the tax to rest upon the sum of 40 100 per cent. on the taxable valuation of the real and personal property up to the sum of $2,000,000, for school purposes for the school year 1892-93, commencing Sept. 1, 1892, and also with power as may be required for an annual payment or indebtedness and interest, the requisition to be signed by the President and Secretary, and a copy of the same served upon the Tax and Collector, and authorized to compliance with the law governing the same.

Signed, GEORGE E. BARCOCK, Pres.
E. L. PIXON, Secy.

Plainfield, N. J., April 4, 1892. 4 11 and 14

A. M. RUNYON & SON,

UNDERTAKERS, EMBALMERS

20 PARK AVENUE.

Telephone Call 40.

RESIDENCE—68 MADISON AVENUE.

Telephone Call 37.

Open Day and Night.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—An electric railroad is projected to connect Rahway and Elizabeth.

—The camping-fund entertainment at Holy Cross church is postponed from this week Wednesday to next week Thursday.

—The entertainment recently given by New Market women for the benefit of Colonel Jr. O. U. A. M. council netted about $50.

—The colored companion of the tramp recently found dead at Rutherwood from an overdose of wood alcohol is now recovering at the hospital from his dose of the stuff.

—The members of the Union County Country Club will give a "Fantasie in Cork" Saturday evening, May 7, at the Casino. The tickets of admission will be $1 which is just $99 less than the real worth of the entertainment.

—Persons holding invitation tickets for the Odd Fellows' anniversary entertainment, of the 29th inst., can exchange them at Meeker's for reserved seats, at Reynolds's Central pharmacy. Front street and Park avenue.

—George Belcher, of 75 Broadway, was painfully injured this morning. His horse became frightened by the shrieking of a locomotive whistle as it went under the railroad bridge —The administration of the affairs of the borough of North Plainfield for the coming year is evidently in good hands. Mayor Washington's sudden exit into the county has been highly extolled by the Plainfield press, independent of politics.—Somerville Messenger.

—Judge Codington has decided to suspend sentence in the case of W.W. Cortell, who was arrested for abusing street commissioner Hooker and refusing to obey that official's orders to clear the sidewalk of obstructing merchandise. The court told Cortell that the sidewalk must be kept clear in the future.

—A farmer-medic with a plot has at last been unearthed based on the idea of illustrating the "survival of the fittest." It belongs to Nellie McHenry who first gave the people good, wholesome stage fun. Miss McHenry's new piece has been called "A Night at the Circus," and the dashing Nellie appears in it at Music Hall, next Thursday evening, in the double role of a lady and a clown.—Somerville Press.

—Sunday's World printed a pretty fair portrait of one of Somerville's most distinguished citizens—Hon. James J. Bergen, Speaker of the House of Assembly. The accompanying article is headed "He May Be Governor". Stranger things than that have happened. Mr. Bergen has made a good record, and he is a straight-out Democrat. Should he not receive the Gubernatorial nomination this year, it need not follow that he never will. He is a young man, and public honors are likely to be put upon him for years to come.—Somerville Messenger.

County Finances at Holy Cross.

Three splendid sermons at Holy Cross church Sunday, and all were generously attended. A communion service, with singing by a choir of men, took place at 8 in the morning and was followed at 11 by morning prayer, and a second communion service. The rector, the Rev. T. Logan Murphy, preached an able and appropriate sermon, and the musical portion of the programme was well rendered by the choir of men and boys, the singing of Gounod's Sanctus and Stoodley's offering Benedictus in number seven, with solos by Masters Herbert Schutt and Fred Tallamy, being especially enjoyable. At 4:30 p. m. the annual baptismal service of the church took place, at which enrols were sung in the church and the school was addressed by the rector.

The floral decorations, as usual, were among the handsomest and costliest in the city. High tanks of flowers framed the altar, and graceful cullas shot out from the brazen candelabra. A profusion of fragrant Easter lilies rose from the floral mounds and ornamented the altar, filling the church with its sweet perfume. Handsome floral memorials graced the pulpit, lectern and font.

The annual parish meeting is to take place in the church at 7:30 this evening.

Tropical Flowers, and a Pastor's Resignation.

The Easter services at the Park Avenue Baptist church were very interesting and profitable to the large numbers present morning and evening. The Sunday-school Reed Dittle took for his morning theme "Results Consequent on a Dead Christ". The evening subject was "An Open Tomb". Many musical selections and encouragements were draw from these subjects. At the close of the morning service his letter of resignation as pastor was read to the church, the last Sunday in April. The choir, ably led by Albert S. Roe, rendered special music at both morning and evening services. Miss Anna Rogers sang the contralto solo "But the Lord is Mindful of His Own", and Albert S Roe sang the tenor solo "Be Not Afraid." The Easter Anthem, among the finest in the oratorio of "St. Paul", were effectively rendered. Anthems by Wiegand, Steele, Stainer, Barnby and Shelley were tuneful and pleasing as rendered by the full choir, while the services of the day were fittingly closed with the two-part song for soprano, "Evening Prayer", by Little. Miss Alice Goard at the organ contributed much to the charm of the day's music. Great credit is due to the committee for an elaborate display of tropical and native plants and flowers very tastefully arranged.

Easter Elections at the Churches.

The annual meetings of Grace and Holy Cross church parishes took place Monday night, when the following officers were elected to serve during the coming year:

GRACE CHURCH.

Wardens—E. L. Thomas, Sheriff Dull.
Vestrymen—John Rothermund, W. E. Lowe, J. E. Erickson, W. H. Cook, W. T. Pelletier, Howard Pierson, O. T. Warner.
Delegates to Diocesan Convention—J. B. Dumont, C. P. Bull, W. E. Lowe.
Alternates—O. T. Warner, Howard Pierson, W. H. Cook.

HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

Senior Warden—George F. Dupee.
Junior Warden—Samuel Townsend.
Vestrymen—Messrs. W. T. Tilley, Charles J. Taggart, Thomas E. Warman, John H. Corman, William L. Saunders.
Delegates to Diocesan Convention—Robert S. Miller, J. A. Alexander, Henry B. Phillips.
Alternates—J. S. Platt, Charles Graves, Henry F. Williams.

Sheriff Dunham in the Search.

William H. Dunham is proving himself a most widewawake and efficient borough marshal. Of late he has been very busy inspecting sidewalks throughout the borough, something which previous marshals have neglected. To-night he will make an exhaustive report to the committee, and as a result of his enterprise all diseased walks will be put into good condition.

Hood's Sarsaparilla.

I have used Dr. Dean's Dyspepsia Pills for Headache, and since I have taken them I have found entirely free from it. I can safely say that I am entirely cured of Headache by them. They are all we claim for them.—Mrs. Ida Wilson, Shoe Stitcher and Typewriter, Room 19, Evening Post Building, New York.

PERSONALIA.

Peter Schultz, of C. Schepflin & Co., has returned from an extended Southern trip.

—Conductors and other officials of the Jersey Central are making a strong effort to get the color of the cars changed from the present yellow to battle green.

Supt. W. H. Hobbs of the Central railroad, sustained a fracture of the collar bone in a fall from a car platform.

—Mrs. Mary Hughes, the gentlewoman of the Netherwood Bowling club our sincere thanks for the bountiful gift which they have so generously remembered us. We feel sure that this a friendly and generous spirit which is very much appreciated, and we trust that by accepting our earnest invitation to frequently visit us you may give us a chance to in some measure reciprocate your kindness.

Yours truly,
WM. L. SAUNDERS, Secretary.

Skipped the Thirteenth Child.

In conversation with Director Hubbard and a Press reporter, the other day, freeholder Dobbie told of his anxiety a few weeks ago when he, already the father of 12 children, was presented by his wife with "another". He feared a 13th kinds of ill luck for a thirteenth child, so his relief may be imagined when he learned that the thirteenth "was" twins.

The conversation then drifting to the subject of large families, Captain Hubbard confessed that he was his mother's twentieth child.

Plainfield's New Hotel.

Plainfield in a few weeks will be boasting with pride of her Hotel Vendome. That is to be the name of what was first Flagg's hotel and more recently Force's hotel on North avenue adjoining The Presbyterian. The new name will be painted on the face of the building, set in cement in the sidewalk and flung to the breeze from the flag staff.

The new proprietors are spending time and money to make the hotel the equal of any in the State. A new dining room will be provided down stairs and other very desirable changes made.

Hot Springs, Ark.,

—THE CHOSEN OF AMERICA—

Reached only via the IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE. A SOLID TRAIN leaves St. Louis 9:30 p. m. daily, and a Pullman Buffet Sleeping Car through to Hot Springs on the 9:30 a. m. train. Elegant hotels, sublime scenery, delightful climate and healing Hot Springs. Round-trip tickets on sale throughout the year from all coupon points in the United States and Canada. For further information, call on or address W. E. HOYT, Gen'l P. A., 201 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Brother of the Famous Golden Medical Discovery. Learn the reason so many different doctors say so different things to you. They all have the same knowledge. There's a torpid liver at the bottom of most blood. And they all know it. But they differ in telling—they're cured, by their remedy.

FAIR WOMAN CELEBRATES.

NOTABLE ANNIVERSARY OF THE MORNING AFTER AFTERNOON CLUB.

Prominent Society Women Present Gems, Many Other Pieces—Literary Exercises at the Congregational Church, and a Brilliant Banquet at the Casino—Fiction Was Tabooed—Recited and Standing Toasts Were Participated.

(From The Press of April 19)

WOMAN, fair woman, has taken possession of the town today, and the town is glad of it. Notable representatives of the sex from many other places have gathered in Plainfield, to join in the festivities which the good women of the Monday Afternoon club have long been planning, in connection with their fourth anniversary celebration.

Bright and beautiful was the gathering of the genius sex at the Congregational church this morning, when the literary exercises of the day were held. The exercises began at 10:30, and admission was strictly by invitation.

A charming greeting was given to the assembled guests, by Mrs. Davie Prescott Hall, president of the Monday afternoon club. She was followed by Mrs. Charlotte Emerson Brown, President of the General Federation of Women's clubs, who told interestingly of the benefits of federation, and described the best ways to extend those benefits to the individual members of individual clubs.

The next paper was the essay by Mrs. Jennie de la M Lozier, President of Sorosis, New York, but in her absence the Rev. Mrs. Francis Bellamy read it. Famous clergyman, read her paper, telling what the members should gain collectively and individually from club life.

Mrs. O. W. Fields gave a entertaining description of the Wilmington club and its work; and Miss Charlotte E. Clarke, recording secretary of the Monday Afternoon club, gave a history of the home organization.

Miss Clarke's paper was a bright and original document of the career of the club, the various questions that have come up for consideration, the club's attitude on national problems, and similar interesting matters. The reading of this was a pleasant one, and the paper was heartily applauded by the appreciative audience.

Organization Among Women was the title of a valuable paper by Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, president of the New England Woman's club; and Mrs. Mary E. Mumford, president of the New Century club of Philadelphia, gave an excellent homily on the subject of extending the benefits of literary club life to working-women.

Mrs. Mumford also aptly described the many advantages of each club having its own building, and told of the best methods of meeting the expenses involved in their construction and maintenance. These papers showed the comparative advantages of large and small clubs, and of limited and unlimited membership, by Miss Adeline Thompson, of the Woman's club of Orange.

Mrs. Helen H. Bastens, president of the Brooklyn Woman's club, spoke pleasantly of the desirability of providing reasonable accommodations for women from club meetings, and the exercises closed with a spirited debate on the desirability of women's clubs engaging in philanthropic work. The affirmative of the topic was ably taken by Mrs. Antoinette Brown Blackwell, and the negative was stoutly maintained by Mrs. Isaac L. Hunt, vice-president of the Monday Afternoon club.

The luncheon, to which the gentler sex only was admitted, was being rightly exercised, being held in the Casino at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The Union County country club had gallantly tendered the entire club-house to the Monday Afternoon club for the day, and right royally did the ladies preside over their new dominion. The decorations were very lavish and beautiful, and were executed by two electric illuminations. The table were arranged so that the president constantly held the chair at the top of two hundred and fifty fair sculptures. The effect was truly beautiful and artistic. The costumes of the women were unusually becoming, and the event was in every way a most delightful one.

Presiding at the head of each of the eleven tables were Mrs. D. F. Hall, Mrs. L. L. Miller, Mrs. C. E. Ryder, Mrs. A. D. Newton, Mrs. O. W. Edwards, Mrs. E. H. Hatch, Miss C. E. Clarke, Miss E. E. Kenyon, Mrs. J. K. Myers, Mrs. C. C. Wadsworth and Mrs. W. L. Saunders, respectively; and several of Plainfield's society buds and belles acted as ushers, namely: Miss Stewart, Miss Louise Stone, Miss Ida Murphy, the Misses VanBokkeveld, Miss Hunter, Miss Yates, Miss Marsh, Miss Munger and Miss White.

The table presided over by Mrs. Ed wards was composed entirely of young ladies. The toast cards were very tastefull and original, being designed by Secretary Stanton Edwards especially for the occasion. The list of toasts, which were given delightful responses, was as follows:

Presiding at the head of each of the eleven tables were Mrs. D. F. Hall, Mrs. L. L. Miller, Mrs. G. E. Ryder, Mrs. A. D. Newton, Mrs. O. W. Edwards, Mrs. E. H. Hatch, Miss C. E. Clarke, Miss E. E. Kenyon, Mrs. J. K. Myers, Mrs. C. C. Wadsworth and Mrs. W. L. Saunders, respectively; and several of Plainfield's society buds and belles acted as ushers, namely: Miss Stewart, Miss Louise Stone, Miss Ida Murphy, the Misses VanBokkereck

GIVING AWAY SECRETS.

Executive Clerk Young Described to Senatorial Loquacity.

A Shady Page in the Transactions of the United States Senate—The American House of Lords at War with the Newspaper Men.

[Special Washington Letter.]

Some of the singular circumstances and environments of the news-gathering profession are worthy of record in the papers of our days.

A few weeks ago I wrote you a letter about executive sessions of the senate, telling you how the potent, grave and reverend seigneurs of the senate try to keep their proceedings secret, and how they are published in detail by the daily papers. In the past it has been fun to the correspondents to witness the antics of these solemn solons in their pretended efforts to ascertain the source or sources whence the newspapers procure their information. Recently, however, the matter has become serious.

The senators have been acting in a manner most reprehensible. Probably no man has greater respect for the senate as a body, or, for almost every member of the august assemblage is my friend; but as individuals they are prone to human frailties, human errors. The senate, in executive session, has of late been trying to shift its sins upon other shoulders, and therein lies a fault too grave to forgive, too flagrant to deserve a single word of excuse. The senate has concluded from its executive sessions a number of employes who have for many years been faithful and honorable servants, thereby casting upon them the stigma of suspicion. But worse still, a resolution was introduced for the removal of the executive clerk, James R. Young. That was an outrage, an unpardonable sin.

EXECUTIVE CLERK YOUNG.

James R. Young never gave away any secrets of executive sessions. He is incapable of such dishonorable action. The secrets of the senators belong to themselves, and Mr. Young has always held them inviolate. But the senators themselves have betrayed their own secrets, from time to time, and they will always do so. There is a small man has been selected to the senate because the newspapers men have induced the dear people to believe that he was a big man and great. It is a very slight return favor for a senator to tell a correspondent a washed linen of forbidden news. Every senator is under more or less obligations to his friends of the press. James R. Young is a newspaper man himself, and is under no obligations to his friends of the press politic. There is no reason why he should betray a secret of the senate, and every reason why he should not. He is a gentleman and his associates are gentlemen. There is not a reputable newspaper man in Washington who would dare to even dream of asking Mr. Young a singlequestion concerning executive sessions. Moreover, there is another Young, Mr. Peter (father), I was compelled to paint the picture as you see it, for the saint could not bear the smell of onions."—Chronicle.

THE MAN OF FASHION.

The Game of Golf Will Be Played by Swell Athletes.

Famous "Links" at Southampton and at Cedarhurst—What Will Be Done for Golf Playing at Tuxedo—Some of the Best Players.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Golf is to be the fashionable game this summer, and already it is up on "links," "tees," "holes," "putting," etc., you will be altogether out of the world. I am told nonetheless that the swell Southampton club on Long Island has had over one hundred requests for admission during the past month, and many of the applicants are the very cream of the fashionable athletes of New York city. Philadelphia and Boston athletes are forming golf clubs, and tennis and football will lose at least a small percentage of popularity.

GETTING SENATE SECRETS.

DIAGRAM FOR RURLING GROUND.

Tuxedo park is to have four of these fashionable "links," or golf grounds, one in charge of Mr. Shieffelin, the banker, another to be operated under the guidance of Mr. Mead, the banker, and the other two to be purely private links for the use of some of the best of the Tuxedoites.

Perhaps the very prettiest golf ground for the links this season will be that at Van Cowd, at Islip, L. I. It is a rolling bit of meadow land and for all the world like a bit of Scotland, which is said golf can be played with greatest success.

Golf is really a Scotch game and has been in vogue for I don't know how many centuries.

"It is a 'dying terror,'" said that expert Wall street broker and golf player, S. W. Parish, "for it is all a great effort to get into and beyond the holes in the ground. When you have put the ball into eighteen of them you are through with your game for the day, and if the next man can put the ball into the holes with fewer strokes, he wins."

The ball is of gutta percha and very hard. This can be driven over 300 yards by good players from the tee, on the raised bit of ground at the starting point. The holes vary from 100 to 300 yards apart and form either a circle, or, if land will not permit, can cross and recross each other. It is played in pairs or by individuals, and where nothing is at stake the game is not so hard on the man who gets around first. In a champion ship games the number of strokes used decides. The game is somewhat like bagatelle. But to begin with the "drive." This is used "with the head" of the club, and is started off the "tee." The tee is a bit of the earth or sawdust to enter to the free dom of the ball's capture, and is the part of unwisdom to seek their security, when, by a friendly warning, their safety may be found in avoidance. These are the words of wisdom.

TOOLS USED IN GOLF PLAYING.

Under the recent resolution creating Adam Badeau consul general to Havana he was also excluded from the floor of the senate, during executive sessions. This was considered a suspicion, by himself, upon one of the most honorable positions of the consular service of the government of the United States, especially. Mr. Stewart is from Iowa, and it is not to the credit of the senate from that state that they permitted this indignity.

THE WOMAN OF FASHION.

What Styles of Outdoor Garment Are Worn.

The Dress-Coat and Objections to It—All Sorts of Jackets Described—Some Terrible Trimmings—The Tailor-Made Long Jacket.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Of course the box coat is the very latest thing, and of course we are all in duty bound to wear it. But, dear me! who wants to wear a coat that is going to swing like a pendulum, or a cloth lad down the back, and two straight pieces laid down the front? It is a shame, if such a really good figure—slender waist, small and well proportioned—is destroyed so heavily in that way, and how much more a shame—in fact, what horror is the thought!—if one has no figure at all, but is short and stout and needs to be compelled to don one of these long, ungainly garments! Yet how many are hesitating to and his judgment is so acute that he can tell on a moment's notice what the play to be made is and which one of the numerous tools it can be made with.

TAKING THE LINE.

A. B. Ten Eyck, of the Manhattans, is one of the best golf players in America. His "link" is at Cedarhurst, and he is arranging for some great playing there this summer. Mr. Ten Eyck is as enthusiastic over the fine points of the game as a Scotch caddy, and gave me some inside information on how golf should be played. "It is really an athlete's game, for a man must be in condition to do some heavy lifting, and his aim must be accurate. There are times when the good runner can win a game. That, of course, is where the effort is solely to get around first.

"The good player will devote considerable time to finding a neat place to drive from the tee. He will place his ball and stand back from it, with the legs about two feet apart. The position of the ball may be described thus: If a line were drawn straight out from the left foot the ball should be at least four inches behind that line, at a club's length from the left knee. In driving the movements of the body should be free and easy, the shoulders kept square and the left foot used as a pivot to turn on. Hold the club firmly with the left hand and loosely with the right, the thumbs being well around the shaft. Swing the clubeasily back in such a way as to catch it on the turn without jerking, and bring the same forward together so that both hands will be straight with the shaft at right angles to the ball in the act of striking.

"Then there are the 'wrist iron' shots and the 'putting' shots, both of which require exceedingly different. All these can only be learned by watching the game carefully and by constant practice."

Another prominent club is that of the Stevens family at Hoboken. Mr Upham, of Yonkers, has another magnificent stretch of golf ground. Mr. Mc-Twoshiney has a pretty links at his place in Madison, N. J., and Mr. Lorillard, of the club at Newport, is the swell organization to whose efforts the popularity of the game this season is due. Among the best players are J. C. O'Connor, R. W. Parish, Charles L. Atterbury, Thomas H. Barber, A. L. Morton and Horace Russell.

Another game to which the man of fashion is going this year with much hope that it will furnish forth its quota of summer amusement is hurling. It is a good deal like lacrosse, but much more exciting and somewhat more dangerous. It will surprise people to know that there are now twenty-one clubs in the vicinity of New York, and that these propose to hold a tournament during the summer for the sake of possessing a cup. Thomas M. Hazel, one of the finest hurlers in the United States, and captain of one of the best of these clubs in the vicinity, told me that the game was now in great favor, and that the athletic clubs of New York propose putting in several strong teams this year.

DRIVING.

The field should be less than 300 meters and not more than twenty-one players on a side in regular matches," said Mr. Hazel, "and the ground should be 100 yards long by 140 yards broad.

"The goal-posts stand at each end, in center of goal-line. They should be twenty-one feet apart, with a crossbar twenty-one feet from the ground. Besides the goal-posts, there are two upright posts standing in each goal and twenty-one feet from the goal-posts. A goal is won when the ball is driven between the goal-posts and under the crossbar. A point is counted when the ball is driven between the goal-posts over the goal-line within twenty-one feet of either goal-post.

"The qualifications of the teams toss for choice of side before commencing play, and the hurlers stand in two lines in the center of the field, facing each other, and catch hands or hurleys across, and then throw the ball up between them and the ball along the ground between the players. That calls play.

"The hurley is a very fast stock, erring at the end. It is riveted where the curve begins, and makes a light and very effective implement. The ball which is used is about five inches in diameter, weighs from seven to ten ounces and is made of cork, woolen thread and a thick covering of leather. The game is decided by the greater number of goals. Where no goals are made, or where the goals are equal, the match is decided by the greater number of points. The time of play is one hour."

From what Mr. Hazel told me, I can see that the game is much more exciting than lacrosse, and offers equally as good exercise. I was told that Athlete Ford and Heffelfinger, the student football players, were going to organize a club for the game of "hurling," and were both so delighted with its many exciting features that they will introduce the game into amateur athletic and college athletic organizations.

ALBERT EDWARD TYRRELL.

He Was a Recitationist.

A mite of a boy, with begrimed face and ragged clothes, elbowed his way into a crowded car the other day one evening. He had two or three torn and soiled newspapers under his arm, but he made no effort to sell them. He turned out to be a recitationist. Beginning at the forward end of the car he addressed each sitting passenger as follows:

Higgins, Piggins, turkeys hot,
Eight and seven is not.
I can hungry and so are you;
Please give me a penny or no end shoe.

This verse the lad rattled off in a singsong tone, without the slightest facial expression. He was a mere automaton. Even the pennies that were given him elicited no sign. They went into the pocket of his ragged coat as though dropped into a tin bank.—N. Y. Times.

Insane Criminals.

Police Judge (to prisoner)—And what are you doing here, sir?

Prisoner—I don't know, your honor. Ask the policeman.—Puck.

"Yes, I did," said the policeman, "but I didn't want to come.—Detroit Free Press.

Immense Barrel.

In 1889 J. O. Billinger, a cooper of Allegan, Mich., performed the remarkable feat of making 10,000 barrels in forty hours, working eighteen hours per day, which beats all records of barrel making in the United States. The staves, head, hoop and nail were of course, made separately, and were not finished pieces ready for packing. To make 10,000 barrels Mr. Billinger used 170,000 staves, between 20,000 and 30,000 hoops and nailing, etc., in proportion. Taken altogether, it was a remarkable piece of work, and one that will stand for all time. Talent and energy, plus a long head, placed Mr. Billinger where he is, and there every man who has these qualities can follow in his footsteps. After the contest was made up a train of fifty cars was loaded with barrels.

A LIGHT HANDLE FOR EVENING WEAR.

English bearing, and tall, well proportioned figures; but most the millions suffer for the love? Because a woman has a pair of backs and shoulders to fit, must all the great world of fashionable women go parading about in a garment that precludes all possibility of their appearing well? No, it is unbearable; we must have a change, and for once we turn gladly to nature. Although these are loose, also, they are loose in a different way. They do not, by any means, make the lshenumus a very attractive pet.

The Egyptian species is much larger than the Indian, measuring three feet from the head to the tip of the tail. The Greek name lchneumon, which signifies tracker or "hunter," was evidently given to the animal on account of its exploring and inquisitive habits. The generic term, Herpestes denotes a "creeper," and both names are truly descriptive of the characteristics of the animal. The Egyptians, for instance, to take Mungo for a walk in the garden; he will follow up every scent by the way, and, with little coaxing, sniff with keenest interest into every mouse hole, until at last I get out of all patience and put him on my shoulder —remainder of my ramble. Some

Railroads

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
THE STANDARD RAILWAY OF AMERICA
PROTECTED THROUGHOUT BY THE Pennsylvania Railroad Block Signal System.
TRAINS FOR THE WEST.
Go and come as follows, Eastern Standard Time:
LEAVE ATLANTA.
2:30 P. M. (Daily) for Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Chicago, Louisville and St. Louis, with Pullman Sleeping Cars through to Cincinnati, Louisville and St. Louis.
8:30 P. M. (Daily) for Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Chicago, Louisville and St. Louis, with Pullman Sleeping Cars through to Cincinnati, Louisville and St. Louis.
ARRIVE AT ATLANTA.
11:30 A. M. (Daily) from Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Chicago, Louisville and St. Louis, with Pullman Sleeping Cars through to Atlanta from Cincinnati, Louisville and St. Louis.
8:30 P. M. (Daily) from Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Chicago, Louisville and St. Louis, with Pullman Sleeping Cars through to Atlanta from Cincinnati, Louisville and St. Louis.
For Baltimore, Washington and the North.—8:30 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Dining Car. Arrive Washington 6:40 P. M., Baltimore 7:20 P. M., Philadelphia 9:40 P. M., New York 12:01 midnight.
8:30 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. Dining Car. Arrive Washington 6:40 A. M., Baltimore 7:20 A. M., Philadelphia 9:40 A. M., New York 12:01 noon.
For Lynchburg, Richmond and Norfolk.—8:30 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Washington, Lynchburg, Richmond and Norfolk. Dining Car. Arrive Washington 6:40 P. M., Lynchburg 6:30 P. M., Richmond 8:30 P. M., Norfolk 10:30 P. M.
8:30 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Washington, Lynchburg, Richmond and Norfolk. Dining Car. Arrive Washington 6:40 A. M., Lynchburg 6:30 A. M., Richmond 8:30 A. M., Norfolk 10:30 A. M.
For Charlotte, Columbia and Charleston.—8:30 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Washington, Charlotte, Columbia and Charleston. Dining Car. Arrive Washington 6:40 P. M., Charlotte 6:30 P. M., Columbia 8:30 P. M., Charleston 10:30 P. M.
8:30 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Washington, Charlotte, Columbia and Charleston. Dining Car. Arrive Washington 6:40 A. M., Charlotte 6:30 A. M., Columbia 8:30 A. M., Charleston 10:30 A. M.
For Augusta.—8:30 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Washington and Augusta. Dining Car. Arrive Washington 6:40 P. M., Augusta 6:30 P. M.
8:30 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Washington and Augusta. Dining Car. Arrive Washington 6:40 A. M., Augusta 6:30 A. M.
For Rome.—4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Rome. Arrive Rome 8:30 P. M.
For Macon.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Macon. Dining Car. Arrive Macon 1:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Macon. Arrive Macon 8:30 P. M.
For Birmingham.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Birmingham. Dining Car. Arrive Birmingham 1:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Birmingham. Arrive Birmingham 8:30 P. M.
For Montgomery.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Montgomery. Dining Car. Arrive Montgomery 1:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Montgomery. Arrive Montgomery 8:30 P. M.
For Mobile.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Montgomery and Mobile. Dining Car. Arrive Montgomery 1:30 P. M., Mobile 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Montgomery and Mobile. Arrive Montgomery 8:30 P. M., Mobile 1:30 A. M.
For Memphis.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Memphis. Dining Car. Arrive Memphis 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Memphis. Arrive Memphis 6:30 A. M.
For Shreveport.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Shreveport. Dining Car. Arrive Shreveport 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Shreveport. Arrive Shreveport 6:30 A. M.
For Texarkana.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Texarkana. Dining Car. Arrive Texarkana 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Texarkana. Arrive Texarkana 6:30 A. M.
For Little Rock.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Little Rock. Dining Car. Arrive Little Rock 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Little Rock. Arrive Little Rock 6:30 A. M.
For Hot Springs.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Hot Springs. Dining Car. Arrive Hot Springs 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Hot Springs. Arrive Hot Springs 6:30 A. M.
For Kansas City.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Kansas City. Dining Car. Arrive Kansas City 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Kansas City. Arrive Kansas City 6:30 A. M.
For Denver.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Denver. Dining Car. Arrive Denver 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Denver. Arrive Denver 6:30 A. M.
For Omaha.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Omaha. Dining Car. Arrive Omaha 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Omaha. Arrive Omaha 6:30 A. M.
For Portland.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Portland. Dining Car. Arrive Portland 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Portland. Arrive Portland 6:30 A. M.
For San Francisco.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to San Francisco. Dining Car. Arrive San Francisco 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to San Francisco. Arrive San Francisco 6:30 A. M.
For Los Angeles.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Los Angeles. Dining Car. Arrive Los Angeles 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Los Angeles. Arrive Los Angeles 6:30 A. M.
For San Diego.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to San Diego. Dining Car. Arrive San Diego 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to San Diego. Arrive San Diego 6:30 A. M.
For Seattle.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Seattle. Dining Car. Arrive Seattle 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Seattle. Arrive Seattle 6:30 A. M.
For Tacoma.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Tacoma. Dining Car. Arrive Tacoma 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Tacoma. Arrive Tacoma 6:30 A. M.
For Spokane.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Spokane. Dining Car. Arrive Spokane 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Spokane. Arrive Spokane 6:30 A. M.
For Helena.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Helena. Dining Car. Arrive Helena 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Helena. Arrive Helena 6:30 A. M.
For Butte.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Butte. Dining Car. Arrive Butte 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Butte. Arrive Butte 6:30 A. M.
For Missoula.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Missoula. Dining Car. Arrive Missoula 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Missoula. Arrive Missoula 6:30 A. M.
For Great Falls.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Great Falls. Dining Car. Arrive Great Falls 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Great Falls. Arrive Great Falls 6:30 A. M.
For Billings.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Billings. Dining Car. Arrive Billings 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Billings. Arrive Billings 6:30 A. M.
For Miles City.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Miles City. Dining Car. Arrive Miles City 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Miles City. Arrive Miles City 6:30 A. M.
For Bismarck.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Bismarck. Dining Car. Arrive Bismarck 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Bismarck. Arrive Bismarck 6:30 A. M.
For Fargo.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Fargo. Dining Car. Arrive Fargo 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Fargo. Arrive Fargo 6:30 A. M.
For Minneapolis.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Minneapolis. Dining Car. Arrive Minneapolis 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Minneapolis. Arrive Minneapolis 6:30 A. M.
For St. Paul.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to St. Paul. Dining Car. Arrive St. Paul 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to St. Paul. Arrive St. Paul 6:30 A. M.
For Duluth.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Duluth. Dining Car. Arrive Duluth 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Duluth. Arrive Duluth 6:30 A. M.
For Chicago.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Chicago. Dining Car. Arrive Chicago 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 6:30 A. M.
For Milwaukee.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Milwaukee. Dining Car. Arrive Milwaukee 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Milwaukee. Arrive Milwaukee 6:30 A. M.
For Detroit.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Detroit. Dining Car. Arrive Detroit 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Detroit. Arrive Detroit 6:30 A. M.
For Toledo.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Toledo. Dining Car. Arrive Toledo 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Toledo. Arrive Toledo 6:30 A. M.
For Cleveland.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Cleveland. Dining Car. Arrive Cleveland 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Cleveland. Arrive Cleveland 6:30 A. M.
For Buffalo.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Buffalo. Dining Car. Arrive Buffalo 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Buffalo. Arrive Buffalo 6:30 A. M.
For Niagara Falls.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Niagara Falls. Dining Car. Arrive Niagara Falls 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Niagara Falls. Arrive Niagara Falls 6:30 A. M.
For Rochester.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Rochester. Dining Car. Arrive Rochester 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Rochester. Arrive Rochester 6:30 A. M.
For Syracuse.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Syracuse. Dining Car. Arrive Syracuse 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Syracuse. Arrive Syracuse 6:30 A. M.
For Albany.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Albany. Dining Car. Arrive Albany 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Albany. Arrive Albany 6:30 A. M.
For Boston.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Boston. Dining Car. Arrive Boston 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Boston. Arrive Boston 6:30 A. M.
For New York.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to New York. Dining Car. Arrive New York 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to New York. Arrive New York 6:30 A. M.
For Philadelphia.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Philadelphia. Dining Car. Arrive Philadelphia 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Philadelphia. Arrive Philadelphia 6:30 A. M.
For Baltimore.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Baltimore. Dining Car. Arrive Baltimore 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Baltimore. Arrive Baltimore 6:30 A. M.
For Washington.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Washington. Dining Car. Arrive Washington 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Washington. Arrive Washington 6:30 A. M.
For Richmond.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Richmond. Dining Car. Arrive Richmond 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Richmond. Arrive Richmond 6:30 A. M.
For Norfolk.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Norfolk. Dining Car. Arrive Norfolk 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Norfolk. Arrive Norfolk 6:30 A. M.
For Lynchburg.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Lynchburg. Dining Car. Arrive Lynchburg 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Lynchburg. Arrive Lynchburg 6:30 A. M.
For Charlotte.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Charlotte. Dining Car. Arrive Charlotte 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Charlotte. Arrive Charlotte 6:30 A. M.
For Columbia.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Columbia. Dining Car. Arrive Columbia 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Columbia. Arrive Columbia 6:30 A. M.
For Charleston.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Charleston. Dining Car. Arrive Charleston 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Charleston. Arrive Charleston 6:30 A. M.
For Augusta.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Augusta. Dining Car. Arrive Augusta 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Augusta. Arrive Augusta 6:30 A. M.
For Rome.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Rome. Dining Car. Arrive Rome 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Rome. Arrive Rome 6:30 A. M.
For Macon.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Macon. Dining Car. Arrive Macon 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Macon. Arrive Macon 6:30 A. M.
For Birmingham.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Birmingham. Dining Car. Arrive Birmingham 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Birmingham. Arrive Birmingham 6:30 A. M.
For Montgomery.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Montgomery. Dining Car. Arrive Montgomery 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Montgomery. Arrive Montgomery 6:30 A. M.
For Mobile.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Montgomery and Mobile. Dining Car. Arrive Montgomery 6:30 P. M., Mobile 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Montgomery and Mobile. Arrive Montgomery 8:30 P. M., Mobile 1:30 A. M.
For Memphis.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Memphis. Dining Car. Arrive Memphis 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Memphis. Arrive Memphis 6:30 A. M.
For Shreveport.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Shreveport. Dining Car. Arrive Shreveport 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Shreveport. Arrive Shreveport 6:30 A. M.
For Texarkana.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Texarkana. Dining Car. Arrive Texarkana 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Texarkana. Arrive Texarkana 6:30 A. M.
For Little Rock.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Little Rock. Dining Car. Arrive Little Rock 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Little Rock. Arrive Little Rock 6:30 A. M.
For Hot Springs.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Hot Springs. Dining Car. Arrive Hot Springs 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Hot Springs. Arrive Hot Springs 6:30 A. M.
For Kansas City.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Kansas City. Dining Car. Arrive Kansas City 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Kansas City. Arrive Kansas City 6:30 A. M.
For Denver.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Denver. Dining Car. Arrive Denver 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Denver. Arrive Denver 6:30 A. M.
For Omaha.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Omaha. Dining Car. Arrive Omaha 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Omaha. Arrive Omaha 6:30 A. M.
For Portland.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Portland. Dining Car. Arrive Portland 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Portland. Arrive Portland 6:30 A. M.
For San Francisco.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to San Francisco. Dining Car. Arrive San Francisco 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to San Francisco. Arrive San Francisco 6:30 A. M.
For Los Angeles.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Los Angeles. Dining Car. Arrive Los Angeles 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to Los Angeles. Arrive Los Angeles 6:30 A. M.
For San Diego.—8:00 A. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to San Diego. Dining Car. Arrive San Diego 6:30 P. M.
4:00 P. M. (Daily) Through Vestibule Train, Pullman Sleeping Cars to San Diego. Arrive San Diego 6:30 A. M.
For Seattle.—8

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 1892. No 17.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON

The Constitutionalist.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE,
Editors and Proprietors.
Published Every Thursday,
AT PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Advertising at Reasonable Rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

J. AGESON & CODDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
AND
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public, Office, corner of Park avenue and Second street. [apr6]

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Private Property solicited. P. O. Box 182, Dunellen, N. J., or address left at Day & Co's. retail store, Dunellen, promptly attended to.

DR. CHARLES E. THEIRS,
Dentist,
39 West Front street. A new local anesthetic applicable for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty. [apr7]

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
241 Broadway, New York city, (corner 1st and 2d, Elberon's and Long Branch Building). Residence, Plainfield. [apr7-1y]

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let on easy terms, by special P. O. Box 289 or left at Wilson's Music Store, No. 5, Front street, will receive prompt attention. Residence, 21 East Fifth street, corner Elm street. [apr7-1m]

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Residence and Shop No. 26 East 3d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. apr7

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue cor. Front St., Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
(Successor to E. B. Maynard.)
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Razors and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., satisfactorily performed. [apr7]

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS,
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Bricks for all kinds of Stove s can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tin ware Mending to Us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best Gas-fitters in the county. No one none but the very best of material and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping. Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning,
Hardware.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6. [1 11-tf]

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
Best Goods!
Lowest Prices!
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in the most first-class, workmanlike and satisfactory manner.
Having practical experience with the Messrs. Fuller, and Messrs. Carney of New York City, I am confident that I can give entire satisfaction to all who favor me with their patronage. I solicit a share of public patronage.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 9 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. P. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
RAHWAY, N. J.

BUSINESS CARDS.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
SENT IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOOD DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

ESTABLISHED 1836.

C.E. & J.W. BROWN,
(Successors to O.D. & C. E. Brown & Co.)
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Raised Flock Papers, &c. Borders for Walls.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.

LIVERY.

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables

Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Funerals and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.

RIDING OR LIVERY.
Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.—[oct29-1y]
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 16.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderhoef's Music Store, Park avenue. The accommodating Express will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Pianos, Furniture, Pianos, &c., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers
Gasoline Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 13 SOMERSET ST. [1-13-tf]

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of
Fresh and Salt Meats,
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Game, Game in season, at the Lowest Market Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished at short notice.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Hugo Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
(Successor to P. J. Carey.)
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—N. W. HOUSE, 107.
Large Covered Vans or Wagons. Goods delivered to all parts of the country. Careful packing a specialty. Charges Reasonable. P. O. Box 1, Plainfield, N. J.

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN,
17 LaGrande Avenue,
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET.
Will reopen THUR SEPT. 17, 1891.
The regular course will include Modeling, Drawing and Cooking. [1 14]

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best cigar in the State, and made on the premises. Don't be fooled.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of fine Chewing, Smoking, Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobacco always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMEST'
SEGARS
No. 28 PARK AVE., (near corner Second St.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smokers' Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, with the cup in each package, at factory prices. [1 6m]

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
Just issued in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from No. 11 Front street, to 42 West Front, one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally. [1 3m]

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES.

Paints, Varnishes, Glass,
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

J. B. WOOLSTON. J. F. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS SUPPLIES. 28 SOUTH AVENUE

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings,
Circulars,
Programmes Menus
Addresses,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any Other Matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything,

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST
DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building),
PLAINFIELD N. J

THE MASTER WOMAN

A Talk with Mrs. Sheldon, the African Traveler.

How She Is Afraid of But Two Things on Earth—An Unpleasant Visitor Disturbed Her Slumbers—How She Received the Native Chiefs.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

The average reader, doubtless, may have pictured Mrs. French Sheldon as the veritable amazon, big, strident, masculine, for women stepped quite out of their sphere who penetrated unbeaten paths trodden by ladies of the cultivated class, to which this fair explorer by birth and education belongs.

What is she like, this woman who led a band of fierce, rough Nubians into the jungles of Africa? If you succeed in reaching her luxurious apartments in the Cambridge, where she sits surrounded by a fascinating jumble and interesting collection of Masai spears, shields, poisoned arrows, fire arrows, cups, vases, household utensils, amulets and girdles of beads, bracelets, anklets, belts, wigs, rings, ngiwi aprons and a thousand and one other curios, you find a dainty little woman in an old-rose plush tea gown. She has the bluest eyes in the world and masses of deadblack hair, which is as soft, as pearly and fluffy as a girl's, and is worn caught up in the most negligee, and fastened with a pin of still comb nearly as big as one of her marvelous East African spears. You will notice that the little hands are literally swamped with rings, for Mrs. Sheldon confesses to a thoroughly feminine adoration of these ornaments. She says rings talk to her, and she wore all these beautiful rubies, pearls, diamonds, sapphires, emeralds and opals through the wildest portions of Africa, and never missed a gem. You will discover, too, the suspicion of a lisp when Mrs. Sheldon speaks, and you will catch a glimpse of marvelously little feet encased in Parisian slippers, and you cannot in any way reconcile those feet and high-heeled slippers with the 900 miles which she lately tramped at the head of her caravan through an African wilderness.

QUEEN OF SOMALI.

"Weren't you afraid?" is the first question you naturally put to her when you watch the perfect feminine personality of this unwilling little traveler.

"Afraid? No. I am afraid of nothing on earth save drunken men and the English sparrow. I am afraid of the sparrow because, when I am dressed, and she hands you a square piece of dried apricot and the entire contents of a bottle of python skin, and while with a shudder you drop it on a convenient table, she will pounce upon it and, after sweeping in her palanquin she suddenly wakened and saw this python whose remarkable markings had been puzzling me about her palanquin and reaching down its ugly head, waving to and fro its forked tongue; how she slid down to her bed and shouted to her attendants; how they came thronging and fell in fury upon the reptile which had dared disturb the slumbers of their "bebe bwana" and cut him into little bits. Oh, the marvelous ingenuity of woman! Frightened of a mild-eyed cow, and fearing neither venomous reptile, beast of the jungle nor African devils.

WOMEN IN MRS. SHELDON'S CARAVAN.

And one word here about these "African devils" whom famous explorers and army officers have described as being so many insects. This gentle, dainty little lady who went among them on principles of kindness and gentility, courtesy and kindness, received nothing but the most uniform kindness and courtesy in return. Even the ferocious Rombos, in the neighborhood of the unutterable Lake Chala, who have been denominated by all travelers as a most tricky and savage tribe, were eager to do her bondage and loaded her with gifts. Six weeks after Mrs. Sheldon passed through this section, leaving a train of gentle remembrances of the goddess and princess who came from the far west, the German explorer, Dr. Carl Peters, came along with his caravan. What sort of a train did he leave in his wake? The bodies of 120 slaughtered natives!

Mrs. Sheldon insists that the east African is a human being and can be treated as such. At the same time she was always careful to surround herself with a halo of mystery and prestige. Her crown, her jewels, her luxurious palanquin all played important roles. When she received the chiefs it was in a superb white silk gown embroidered with silver and wearing a girdle and necklace of jewels and a tremendously smart blonde wig, whose curls fell to her waist. The savages looked upon her as a princess and brought her their presents and their wigs. From Mrs. Sheldon's staff dangled always a pennant, bearing in gold letters "Nous Ne Tangerons." When her attendants asked her the meaning of this legend she told them that every white woman carried that motto about her; if nowhere else, in her heart. Thus by these outward and visible symbols of rank and superiority the lady earned and kept the title of "bebe bwana" for her faithful attendants—that of "bebe bwana," "the master woman."

Only once did Mrs. Sheldon experience any symptoms of mutiny, and she proceeded quickly to quell it. Tolling one of her servants to bring her a little bowl of water and the mustaches to stand before her and gave each a few short, sharp strokes, which effectually tamed the grumblers.

Mrs. Sheldon's palanquin was lined with pale blue silk, the curtains of which and upon with yellow silk. Enormous cushions of yellow silk gave it a the women of the middle class, while subservient to their husbands, are yet allowed to have servants; the women of the harem are dull and stupid, who do nothing but eat sweets and smoke all day. One of the sultan's harem is rather a handsome woman of the large, languishing and lazy type, but intelligent, and while she was not as far as possible the dress of the European, is still ugly and jealous in the presence of white women. Many of the harem favorites are dispensing with the trousers, which are a badge of servitude, quite contrary to our ideas, and established upon that who wears the breeches is master.

THE LORD OF THE HAREM.

The queen of Somali is a beauty. She is only twenty-one unmarried, at liberty to choose for herself. She is like a superb statue of ebony, with the most so-lait tinted lunes, with her flashing eyes, scornful lips and perfect physical development. She is haughty, carries queenly airs and very jealous and intolerant of her rights. She dresses in Arabic cloth of most gorgeous coloring, white, yellow, red and blue, and wears superb gold and silver ornaments on her arms and in her hair.

The ornaments of many of the women here are of the most barbarous kind, with which Abrahan loaded his prisoner, Zenobia. Mrs. Sheldon has the ivory and ebony bracelets of the Masai women of rank. They are heavy metal cages, reaching from knee to ankle and above the wrist. Each of the ornaments of these women weigh sixty pounds. The ear ornaments often drag the lobe of the ear to the shoulder. The wife who sleeping in her palanquin she suddenly wakened and saw this python whose remarkable markings had been puzzling me about her palanquin and reaching down its ugly head, waving to and fro its forked tongue; how she slid down her bed and shouted to her attendants; how they came thronging and fell in fury upon the reptile which had dared disturb the slumbers of their "bebe bwana" and cut him into little bits. Oh, the marvelous ingenuity of woman! Frightened of a mild-eyed cow, and fearing neither venomous reptile, beast of the jungle nor African devils.

WOMEN IN MRS. SHELDON'S CARAVAN.

And one word here about these "African devils" whom famous explorers and army officers have described as being so many insects. This gentle, dainty little lady who went among them on principles of kindness and gentility, courtesy and kindness, received nothing but the most uniform kindness and courtesy in return. Even the ferocious Rombos, in the neighborhood of the unutterable Lake Chala, who have been denominated by all travelers as a most tricky and savage tribe, were eager to do her bondage and loaded her with gifts. Six weeks after Mrs. Sheldon passed through this section, leaving a train of gentle remembrances of the goddess and princess who came from the far west, the German explorer, Dr. Carl Peters, came along with his caravan. What sort of a train did he leave in his wake? The bodies of 120 slaughtered natives!

Mrs. Sheldon insists that the east African is a human being and can be treated as such. At the same time she was always careful to surround herself with a halo of mystery and prestige. Her crown, her jewels, her luxurious palanquin all played important roles. When she received the chiefs it was in a superb white silk gown embroidered with silver and wearing a girdle and necklace of jewels and a tremendously smart blonde wig, whose curls fell to her waist. The savages looked upon her as a princess and brought her their presents and their wigs. From Mrs. Sheldon's staff dangled always a pennant, bearing in gold letters "Nous Ne Tangerons." When her attendants asked her the meaning of this legend she told them that every white woman carried that motto about her; if nowhere else, in her heart. Thus by these outward and visible symbols of rank and superiority the lady earned and kept the title of "bebe bwana" for her faithful attendants—that of "bebe bwana," "the master woman."

Only once did Mrs. Sheldon experience any symptoms of mutiny, and she proceeded quickly to quell it. Telling one of her servants to bring her a little bowl of water and the mustaches to stand before her and gave each a few short, sharp strokes, which effectually tamed the grumblers.

Mrs. Sheldon's palanquin was lined with pale blue silk, the curtains of which and upon with yellow silk. Enormous cushions of yellow silk gave it a given her by the Masai people. There is a lion cloth worn by the Wa-chaga women and the first ever brought to this country. It is of skin covered with beads, and there is a curious superstition attached to it, which says that if a man accepts possession of it he has the former wearer inside power and can at any time summon her to his bed and she is powerless to resist. Hence these women will not sell or give away their skin cloths. They use a belt made of the heads of their dead and deposit them in urns among the branches of trees, where they bleach in the sun.

ARAB WOMEN OF HIGH DEGREE.

The Arab women of high rank wear a curious head ring of wood and metal ornaments, which frame the sides of their heads, from which depends the long face veil of white and gold. Women of the poorer classes wear a simple head mask. The pretty water carriers of Aden wear a long, flowing robe of yellow cotton cloth, which is beautifully dyed in the here cotta and brown hues of the water jugs they carry gracefully poised upon their heads. It is no uncommon sight to see before the door of some humble house in Aden or down a native street a group of these women waiting their turn to fill their husband's head. Mrs. Sheldon has also sampled one of these women's dresses, and is now supplying the office of a fine-tooth comb.

Mrs. Sheldon starts with enthusiasm

MRS. FRENCH-SHELDON'S PALANQUIN.

ing American woman who has proved conclusively that she who has brains, courage, tact and natural kindness of heart can go unmolested among the most unsocial and savage people of the globe. EDITH SESSIONS TUPPER.

Preparing for the World's Fair Year.
She was seated at her little desk with memoranda, writing paper and envelopes piled up around her, and was hard at work, when her friend and neighbor dropped in to see her.

"I'm making my plans for the world's fair year," she explained.

The visitor shuddered.

"For some reasons," she went on, "I dread to think of it. There'll be a fearful crush. What plans are you making?"

"Why, I have made up a list of my out-of-town friends, decided on the accommodations I have here, and I'm sending an invitation to each to visit me at a specified time."

"Dear me; but you are hospitable."

"Not at all. I'm wise. I'd go away if I could, but I can't, and my only plan is to have my house filled with my friends. If I don't—"

"Well, if you don't?"

"If I don't acquaintances will keep it full and—and, I don't want to be so pleasant. As a matter of precaution I am making sure of the friends."—Chicago Tribune

FORTUNES IN DAMAGES.

Astonishing Sums Awarded Plaintiffs by Juries.

Mrs. Baldwin Sues for a Quarter of a Million Dollars, and Gets Once Awarded a Plaintiff in Such a Case in England.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

Mrs. Homer R. Baldwin's suit for a quarter of a million dollars damages against the New York Central Railroad Company has unquestionably attracted the attention of lawyers and litigants all over the civilized world. Such an item of news as this would even study and get a few lines in a London journal. The sum somehow fills the mind. The amounts claimed as damages for personal injuries. The sufferings on which the demand is based. The trial to ascertain extreme verge of human endurance, so far as we may judge from experience, though some thoughtful men say there is no limit to what a woman can endure.

Here is a fortune in damages, and an almost universal opinion among those familiar with the facts of the case that a fortune will be awarded by the jury and paid by the railroad company if the claim indeed be not compromised and settled before the case reaches court.

A fortune, indeed, in damages. Yet it is doubtful if the most grueling money changer in the whole world, the most despairing wretch, who, for the lack of enough silver to buy alcoholic relief, leaps from a bridge or swallows rattlesnake, would consent to undergo what a frail little woman has suffered since Christmas eve, 1891, even with the certainty that a quarter of a million dollars would eventually be awarded the sufferer and the lawyers.

Legal text books will, beyond question, refer from this time on to the Baldwin case as a precedent. They do not give the facts of the case in any one suit for damages up to this time, which exists in legal memories and by hearsay, like Jarndyce, or action for damages for personal injuries brought by an eminent English physician. The story goes that he sustained many of the injuries while riding on the defendants' railroad; that he was thenceforward incapacitated from professional practice. On the trial of the case it was shown, report says, that he earned something like £50,000, or $200,000 a year, and the jury promptly brought in a verdict for $200,000. This is said to be by all odds the greatest sum ever awarded by a jury for personal injuries. Of course, there have been immensely greater awards of liquidated damages, as they are technically called, the amount in the very nature of the case required to be awarded for breaches of contract. For example, in the superior court at Wilmington, Del., on January 2, 1886, a jury gave to Mrs. Elizabeth S. McComb in a suit against the Southern Railway Association a verdict for $6,304,100. Certainly no other woman ever got such a verdict, and assuredly Mrs. Homer Baldwin's will be equally "a leading case."

THAT THOUSAND DOLLAR KISS.

As the two famous instances have features in common, it may be just as well before going further with the mention of enormous verdicts to speak of several other large money actions for damages in which the fair sex has won signal victories.

Before the case of Lockwood against the Twenty-third Street Railway Company, reported in the 104th volume of state reports, page 16, the court of appeals of New York held that a woman 61 years of age who had been thrown from a car and received injuries to her schatic nerve, which resulted in nervous prostration, could not be justified in refusing a verdict of $10,000 which a jury had awarded her. The court calmly informed the lady that unless she was willing to consent to the reduction of her little fortune in damages to $4,000, it, the court, would have to grant the new railroad gave him $11,000 damages on February 25, 1890.

MARTIN CHRISTIANSON'S SELL.

$25,000 FOR AN ARM.

In the case of Hickinbottom against the Delaware & Lackawanna Railroad Company, the court of appeals of New York held that a verdict of $25,000 for the loss of plaintiff's arm, where the injury incapacitated him for carrying on a business which brought him in $5,000 a year, was not excessive.

There are a great many men who would quite willingly give an arm for that sum; but there are few juries, probably, who would so award an award. The judges watch the amounts of verdicts very carefully. In Block vs. Webb, 88 Hun., p. 181, the supreme court of New York declared that where no personal damages had been for a verdict of $5,000 against a man requiring a passenger to ride in an ordinary car instead of a drawing-room car. The jury was the court, and the sole judges of the measure of damages. But the latter and the other perior court awarded her $17,500 damages. She was then just 22 years of age.

A FORTUNE FOR A KNOCK.

Miss Clara A. Lake, of North Gage, N. Y., recovered on the supposition that she had been married, and with the rural idiocy commonly displayed on such occasions, he fired a gun off and put out one of her eyes.

Miss Hannah Wherry's $5,000 damages suit against the locality and light companies, brought in January, 1892, for damages caused by splinter running through her shoe sole into her foot as she was walking over the promenade, is looked forward to with considerable interest by the legal fraternity.

MR. PARNELL'S $5,000 VERDICT.

When Mr. Charles Stewart Parnell sued the London Times for a half a million dollars' damages and only received $5,000, the latter tried to encourage themselves to believe that the result was a virtual victory for the defense. But the fact remains that verdicts for damages in Great Britain, as in New York, rarely exceed the figures of Mr. Parnell's suit.

The greatest sum ever recovered for personal injuries in Pennsylvania is said to be $25,000, awarded to Mr. Sweig, of Erie, Pa., in an action against the Lake Shore Railroad Company. Mr. Rosecrans, of Chicago, received his earnings yearly ran from $30,000 to $40,000, and he was run over by one of the defendant's trains. He would have been, without fault of his own, put off another. A Canadian blacksmith is said to have received $50,000 damages ago from the Great Western railroad for similar injuries.

The court of appeals of New York in 1889 affirmed the judgment of the Orange circuit of the supreme court on a verdict of $25,000 damages awarded to William N. Alberti, a passenger who had been injured in the sleeping car on the New York, Lake Erie & Western road by the swinging door of another train passing.

A most remarkable case is that of Martin Christianson, a Dane, who has brought suit for $75,000 damages against the New York and Cuba Mail Steamship Company for injuries sustained from a fall down into the hold of one of the defendant's steamers. The spinal column was fractured above the lumbar region, and the man, who was taken to Bellevue hospital, not only did not die, but actually seemed after a time to have become well—save in the waist. He very properly expects to be well paid for having been turned into a freak, a surgical marvel, a man who can live on and on after having sustained injuries which send most of their victims into the next world, and only lacked one-half of Martin Christianson.

A freight brakeman has rights which some Jersey lawyers respect. H. L. Hall, while coupling cars on the Rock Island road, lost a leg. A jury at Fairfield, Ia., gave him $11,000 damages on February 25, 1890.

$25,000 FOR AN ARM.

In the case of Hickinbottom against the Delaware & Lackawanna Railroad Company, the court of appeals of New York held that a verdict of $25,000 for the loss of plaintiff's arm, where the injury incapacitated him for carrying on a business which brought him in $5,000 a year, was not excessive.

There are a great many men who would quite willingly give an arm for that sum; but there are few juries, probably, who would so award an award. The judges watch the amounts of verdicts very carefully. In Block vs. Webb, 88 Hun., p. 181, the supreme court of New York declared that where no personal damages had been for a verdict of $5,000 against a man requiring a passenger to ride in an ordinary car instead of a drawing-room car. The jury was the court, and the sole judges of the measure of damages. But the latter and the other lawyers who are not on the bench are constantly defining these legal scarecrows to take away from juries this constitutional prerogative. They interfere on the ground that a verdict has been rendered for an excessive amount by reason of "passion" or "prejudice." They are, indeed, continually interfering with what they say is "not legal," however right and just it may be.

$25,000 DAMAGES FOR A BABY.

In the case of Ehrman against the Brooklyn City Railway Company, 38 New York state reports, page 506, the court of appeals held that a verdict of $25,000 for a child three and a half years old, who lost his leg through the negligence of a car driver, was not excessive.

The Chicago & Northwestern railroad paid little Dora Paine's guardian $7,500 for having killed her mother and crippled her father at Rose Hill. The Highland Terry Company, at Poughkeepsie, had to pay $7,500 to little Alice Bartholomew after she stepped in a hole in the ferry house and was crippled for life. Manuel Silverstein, a boy, got $15,000 damages in the supreme court of New York because a litigation street botched car ran over him and cut off his arm. But the corporation's shrewd lawyers managed to get the verdict set aside. That is what corporations hire lawyers for. If they can't get such verdicts done away with legitimately they will contrive all sort a trap for the trial judge, artfully inducing him to rule on some apparently minor question in direct contradiction to some decision of the court of appeals. Then these crafty fellows come to court to carry the verdict in. They feel sure they will get a reversal!

Little Manuel's suit, by the way, was tried a second time in November, 1890, and he got $10,000 that time. Little Lena Schmidt was actually encouraged by the good fortune of some of her little fellow citizens and defendants before the courts to commence an action at No. 128 East Thirty-sixth street for $2,000 damages because a limestone flag in their yard fell on her toe and mashed it so it had to be cut off. Lena's friends saved the toe, fortunately, in advance, and showed it to the jury in court.

Some of the curiosities of the law of negligence are worthy, from a newspaper point of view, of an article all to themselves. If you, in broad daylight, go into a man's vineyard to borrow some of his grapes without his knowledge and consent, but is so unfortunate as to lose your life in the act, you are a trespasser. If he has set a spring gun there for thieves, and the gun goes off and kills you, he can recover damages from you. This has been decided in force. But if the trespasser should be caught, then you couldn't get any damages.

THE EXPLOSION FOR WHICH FRANK CAREW GOT $5,250.

Frank Carew brought a gun in London some years ago and went to Africa, to shoot antelope with it. He was plugging away with it one day when a native, who had the gun for $5,000 damages, and what more, he got the money.

The biggest damage suit on record, so far as anybody seems to know, was brought a good many years ago by the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Co. vs. Higgins & Co., for the infringement of a patent wire motion, to a carpet loom. The damages claimed in the suit were $20,750,000. Of course, that suit is too fat in pickings for the lawyers to permit it to come to an end. It is still pending! JOHN PAUL BOCOCK.

A Majestic Presence.

It is related of a king of Wurtemberg, in the Fatherland, that he was Falstaff on a big scale kingdom. He was extremely fat, in fact, so big that in petticoats with a circle about he would have been able to command his own kingdom. His dime museum, managers as a fat lady. The most prominent feature of the king; in fact his chief characteristic, his wish his stomach. He had a paunch that was simply majestic. The Merry Wives of Windsor found it hard to squeeze jolly Sir John Falstaff into an interior circle, but, bless you, if they had had to deal with a man as big as the fat king of Wurtemberg they would have had to use a coal big or box car.

On certain days when the king was feeling well he would give his people a chance to look at him. And he would grant the favor of appearing in case of his palace window. He could not get all of himself into view at the window but he did the best he could. He wedged his big abdomen into the open window so that it protruded out like one side of a balloon. And when the assembled multitude saw this they always gave a shout of joy and cried:

"Behold the king!"—Peck's Sun.

STORY OF TWO MONKEYS.

Joker's Meeting with Sepoy on Board a Ship—Their Friendship.

Joker was glad when he and Harry went aboard the ship bound for England. He soon felt at home in the little cabin. Harry hung a tiny hammock above his own berth, and Joker found it a nice resting place. He soon learned that he was to have the company of one of his relations on the voyage. Sepoy was the captain's monkey. The two met on deck. Joker was strutting about in his Jacky Tar suit when, suddenly, something dropped from the rigging right on to his back. Mad with fright, he leaped, but his collar caught in a wild run. Still the thing clung to him. Kneeling against a steamer-chair, however, he found it was only a monkey, freed himself and the next moment was face to face with Sepoy.

Sepoy was old and brown, and wore a shabby suit. As he looked at Joker he gave a comical shrug and a hitch to his trousers—as he was used to seeing the old suits discarded, said, in his monkey speech: "Bah! a foolish, fair-weather sailor."

Joker turned his back on the rude creature, and sat looking out to sea.

The next day the waves were high, and Joker felt queer. He thought he was going to die. He was only seasick. Then Sepoy came along. Shutting one eye and swelling out his cheek with his tongue, he said: "I tell you, Joker sprang up and chased Sepoy into the rigging. After that he felt better.

By the end of the week Sepoy became friendly. A storm came, and then everybody learned to love him. He stood on deck with the captain when every one else had been ordered below. He cheered the sailors. And when he ran up into the rigging and caught the rope of a sail that had broken loose and would not be taken down quickly enough.

"Ah!" said Harry, "Sepoy's the right kind of a sailor!" And Harry, wrapped in his red flannel dressing gown, and lying helpless in his hammock, glanced at his jacky Tar suit hanging limp in a corner, and sighed. He was learning that it takes more than fine clothes to make a fine fellow.

When pleasant weather came Harry made a bosom friend of Sepoy. One of the two taught him to pig it. The monkey watched the work with interest and was delighted when it was finished.—Mary C. Crowley, in Our Little Men and Women.

WAYS OF LEGISLATORS.

How a Bill Introduced in Congress Becomes a Law.

Considering the number of laws enacted by each successive congress, it might be imagined that the process was simple, whereas it is long and rather complex. To introduce a bill is the work of a few minutes, and then it is referred to a committee. From the committee it is reported to the house, let us say, and is debated. If it is passed, it goes to the senate, and through a similar ordeal.

After a bill has run the gauntlet of the two houses it is publicly signed by each presiding officer and taken to the president for his approval. He has ten days, not including Sunday, in which to examine the bill and make up his mind. If nothing is heard from him by the end of that period the bill becomes a law without his signature.

Should he disapprove or veto a bill, he sends it back to that house of congress in which it originated, stating his reasons in opposition, and then the measure is referred to a committee and undergoes much the same experience as it did at first, with this important difference, that it must be voted for by at least two-thirds of the members of each house in order to overcome the objections of the chief magistrate.

Only very strong public sentiment will develop sufficient votes to override the president's veto, and this right gives him almost equal power in legislation with congress. Should the president decline to sign a bill, and congress adjourn before the expiration of the ten-day period, it receives what is popularly known as a "pocket veto."

After a bill has been approved by the president, the department of state passes it to be printed and promulgated. But the slightest error on the engrossed bill in printing the new law, even mistakes in spelling and punctuation are closely guarded.

Many people would think this a foolish waste of time, but it is wise precaution, after all, for were the secretary of state given permission to revise the language of a bill, he might make changes in wording and punctuation that would completely overturn the intentions of congress and those who had drawn and engrossed the bill, thus you couldn't get any damages.

Frank Carew brought a gun in London some years ago and went to Africa, to shoot antelope with it. He was plugging away with it one day when a native, who had the gun for $5,000 damages, and what more, he got the money.

The biggest damage suit on record, so far as anybody seems to know, was brought a good many years ago by the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Co. vs. Higgins & Co., for the infringement of a patent wire motion, to a carpet loom. The damages claimed in the suit were $20,750,000. Of course, that suit is too fat in pickings for the lawyers to permit it to come to an end. It is still pending! JOHN PAUL BOCOCK.

A Majestic Presence.

It is related of a king of Wurtemberg, in the Fatherland, that he was Falstaff on a big scale kingdom. He was extremely fat, in fact, so big that in petticoats with a circle about he would have been able to command his own kingdom. His dime museum, managers as a fat lady. The most prominent feature of the king; in fact his chief characteristic, his wish his stomach. He had a paunch that was simply majestic. The Merry Wives of Windsor found it hard to squeeze jolly Sir John Falstaff into an interior circle, but, bless you, if they had had to deal with a man as big as the fat king of Wurtemberg they would have had to use a coal big or box car.

On certain days when the king was feeling well he would give his people a chance to look at him. And he would grant the favor of appearing in case of his palace window. He could not get all of himself into view at the window but he did the best he could. He wedged his big abdomen into the open window so that it protruded out like one side of a balloon. And when the assembled multitude saw this they always gave a shout of joy and cried:

"Behold the king!"—Peck's Sun.

STORY OF TWO MONKEYS.

Joker's Meeting with Sepoy on Board a Ship—Their Friendship.

Joker was glad when he and Harry went aboard the ship bound for England. He soon felt at home in the little cabin. Harry hung a tiny hammock above his own berth, and Joker found it a nice resting place. He soon learned that he was to have the company of one of his relations on the voyage. Sepoy was the captain's monkey. The two met on deck. Joker was strutting about in his Jacky Tar suit when, suddenly, something dropped from the rigging right on to his back. Mad with fright, he leaped, but his collar caught in a wild run. Still the thing clung to him. Kneeling against a steamer-chair, however, he found it was only a monkey, freed himself and the next moment was face to face with Sepoy.

Sepoy was old and brown, and wore a shabby suit. As he looked at Joker he gave a comical shrug and a hitch to his trousers—as he was used to seeing the old suits discarded, said, in his monkey speech: "Bah! a foolish, fair-weather sailor."

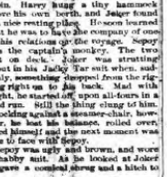
THE EASTER EGG HUNT.



Suddenly—Appearing Chick—I object! [Disturbed Unbatched Voices—So say we all of us.—Goldie Darby.

Bad Learned Her Lesson.

"John," said Mrs. Harkins, "there are burglars downstairs."

"Very well, my dear. Go tell them to move on."

"Why, you awful brute!"

"What? You requested me not to interfere in domestic matters last night. Surely this is one."—Harper's Bazar.

Not Guilty.

Careful Mother—Hark! Hush! If a young man wants to talk to my daughter, he can just talk out loud. I hear whispering in the parlor.

Small Boy—They isn't whispering, mamma. They is only kissing.—Good News.

A Pocket Dare-Devil.

"Have a cigarette, Cholly, ol' fel?"

"Where'd you get them, dash boy, and I'm really surprised that you have that vice."

"Weakness? I'll have you know, then, that it takes a pretty strong chap to stand cigarettes!"—Puck.

The Constitutional list.

W. L. FORCE. | A. L. FORCE
Editors and Proprietors.

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chooses the City of Chicago as the place for holding the national Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation therein equal to double the number of the representation to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE, Chairman.
SIMON P. SHERRIS, Secretary.

FOR GOVERNOR.

The Democrats of the State are somewhat restless in regard to a candidate for Governor. The action of the Legislature on the Reading bill eliminated certain forces and shelved quite a batch of candidates, and the names of available aspirants has narrowed down a good deal.

In fact, four names will to-day cover the list from which apparently the nominee will be chosen. If he would consent to the use of his name, Ben F. Lee, the present efficient and popular clerk of the Supreme Court, could appparently have the office for the asking, but he does not desire the worry and annoyance of the Gubernatorial position, being satisfied with the favor and esteem he has earned in the discharge of the duties of his present position. At present two men divide the attention of the Democratic leaders. Judge Allan Kirkpatrick of Essex and ex-Congressman Pidcock of Hunterdon, Judge Wetts and Congressman Geisenhainer are also spoken of by the more modest as men of the party who consider them especially available and safe leaders for the positi n. After the convention to select Presidential delegates, public opinion will concentrate rapidly on one or more of these gentlemen, any one of whom we believe could be elected and would fill the position with credit to the party and State.—Elizabeth Herald

DUTY.

The duty of the Democratic party was never more clearly apparent or more timely than now. It is the public welfare than at the present time.

Personal bickerings and ambitions form no part of Democratic duty and should be positively discountenanced.

Principles are of first importances, men of secondary account.

Every true-hearted Democrat must desire the success of his party for the sake of good government.

Equity, Honesty and Economy are the essentials of a government administered on behalf of and for the best interests of all the people. No other kind can be called Democratic.

For that praiseworthy end, the sovereignty of popular rights, the Constitution of the United States was adopted, and for the protection and perpetuation of its embodied principles the Democratic party came into existence and lives to-day.

Tariffs levied for special benefits,
Unequal and ruinous taxation,
Sordid monopolies of every grade,
Public extravagance and waste,

Are the enemies of freedom and popular rights.

To openly and fearlessly battle for the people, irrespective of class, creed or worldly condition, and against every hostile demonstration is Democratic duty.

Democrats! Do your duty!

The Republican State Convention to send delegates to the National Convention met in Trenton Wednesday. Ex-Judge John A. Blair, of Jersey City, was appointed temporary chairman, and he made a long speech, in which Harrison's name was slightly, and Blaine's vociferously applauded. The district delegates to represent the State at Minneapolis are as follows: First—David Baird, Daniel Elmer; Second—Washington A. Roebling, Henry P. Thorne, Third—B. F. Howell, W. T. Hoffman; Fourth—Frank Swayze, Geo. W. Jenkins; Fifth—William Barbour, John E. Miller; Sixth—Dr. H. C. Herold, Frank Parker; Seventh—Gilbert Collins, Thomas McEwen; Eighth—Alexander Gilbert, Elias Gondit.

The delegates go to the National Convention unpledged, but it is understood that they will favor the name of Harrison.

The Hackensack Republican sagely remarks: "The Republican politicians of the State should not lose their heads over the Jersey City victory. It was a very inspiring and welcome result, but we still say 'don't make a Summer,' and success in one municipal election will not carry the State of New Jersey for the Republicans."

Very true. Nor would it be well for the Democratic politicians of the State to lose their heads over the Democratic victory in Camden on the same day That county will, in all probability, give as large a Republican majority next Fall as it did last. One swallow doesn't make a Summer.

We agree with a correspondent of the Elizabeth Herald, who says:

"It isn't necessary for a man to go stumping all over the Nation's domain, proclaiming—I am a Democrat. Cleveland's name is the proper one. The people of the country are for tariff reform and will have it."

The Democratic State Committee will meet at Jersey City, April 30, to fix the date of the State Convention. It will probably be held the latter part of May.

Startling Phenomena of a Nine Beast.

Nothing that has been produced on the Eden Musee in a long time has drawn such enthusiastic audiences as the present combination of Powell and Rajiltzo is doing. Powell is the possessor of an extensive repertory that there seems to be no end to the wonders which he produces on the hands some little stage of Madison square. The funny antics of Madison square children and their elder sizes, and are characterized by much agility. Powell will introduce startling spiritual phenomena in a short time. The American Residential Gallery is nearly ready to be opened and will contain many of the chief events in the history of the nation. With the Wax Works and the Living Curiosities and the Musee offers a programme that cannot be equaled for the price of admission asked.

HYMENEAL.

Rose—Feller.

The wedding of Alexander Martin Rose and Miss Sarah Florence Feller took place Tuesday night at the residence of the bride's father, Charles Feller, 42 West Seventh street, at half-past seven o'clock. The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis performed the ceremony which made the couple man and wife. The house was very handsomely decorated with palms, Easter lilies, roses, and other flowers. Miss Mabel Foster was the bride's maid. The groom's attendants of the bride, were the bridesmaids. The bride wore a dress of white satin, trimmed with seed pearls and point degenet lace, with diamond ornaments. At the conclusion of the ceremony a supper was served by Clark, the caterer, of Twenty-third street, New York. Music was furnished by New York artists, and a choice selection of musical gems entertained the guests. Among those present were the following: Mrs. A. M. Rose and the Misses Rose of West 42 Street, mother and sisters of the groom, Mrs. William Pearson of Brooklyn, N. Y., Arthur L. Titsworth, Dr. George W. Wells, George H. Babcock, David E. Titsworth, H. Titsworth, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Bell of Brooklyn, N. Y., Charles Pearson, Jr., and Mrs. Wallace H. Pearson, Mrs. Martin of Newark, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. John S. Clark and family of New Brunswick, N. J., Dr. Sneed, Dr. E. Kemp, Dr. R. S. Wells, Dr. J. A. Allis, J. F. Pearson, Clifford Pearson, W. W. Pearson, W. C. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Spicer, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Hinchman, Charles Fowler Rogers and many others.

The happy couple left on their wedding tour on the 9:55 train for New York. The bride's present to the groom was a large set of very handsome and valuable presents: from the groom a Jurgensen watch studded with diamonds; from the bride's father, a solid silver tea set, consisting of seven tea piece; from the groom's mother, an oak cabinet, containing seven dozen solid silver knives, forks, and spoons, consisting of eighty-four pieces; from his sister, Miss Hattie, a decorated dinner set, from Haviland's New York firm, consisting of one hundred and five pieces; sister, Miss Carrie, a grandfather's clock from Tiffany's, an onyx clock, and ornaments; from the bride's mother and from other friends, the following: silver bonbon dish, Dresden china ice-cream set, cut glass berry dish, with glass stand, salad fork and spoon, two pair of candelebras and glass celery dish, two chiffoniers, numerous brick-a-brac and other presents.

The groom is a young man of fortune. His annual income from his father's estate has for years been $10,000, and at his marriage he gets half a million. A great many society people attended the charming wedding.

Walsh—Cadlipp.

The new Grace church building was the scene of its first wedding Wednesday night when Miss Sarah Allen Cadlipp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben C. Cadlipp, of 256 Ninth street, was married to William S Walsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Walsh of Metuchen. The wedding was a very pretty one, and was witnessed by a large number of invited guests.

The officiating clergyman was the Rev. E. M. Rodmond, rector of the church. The best man was E. A. Hall of Brooklyn. G Harry Squires of Plainfield, Charles Kendrick of Nutley, John Joy and Sidney Maddock of Brooklyn, E. L. Estil of Montclair and G. B. Tooney of Westfield were the ushers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Grace Howard of Plainfield and Miss Smith of Brooklyn. They were becoming costumes of white crepe de chine trimmed with ribbon and white ribbons.

The bride was charmingly attired in a rich gown of white satin, trimmed with old point-lace. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms, and she wore handsome diamond ornaments, the gift of the groom.

A Wedding.

The marriage of John Stevens, formerly of Plainfield, and now of Cranford, to Miss Ada Cairncross, formerly of Plainfield, and latterly of Colorado, took place Monday evening at the home of Thomas Whitely, Brooklyn. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Whitely of the city. Miss Kate Moon, Miss Marie Kelly, Miss Flynn of New York, and many others. The happy couple received many valuable gifts, and congratulations were showered on them by their friends. They will reside in Cranford.

STRICTLY AMATEUR BASE-BALL.

The St. Clair's Summer Will Open Saturday, on the Ground Grounds.

The Plainfield Bicycle club base-ball schedule for the season is as follows:

April 23, P. BI. C. vs. Leal's school at Plainfield.
April 26, P. BI. C. vs. Crescent League at Plainfield.
May 7, P. BI. C. vs. Wyoming A. C. at Wyoming.
May 14, P. BI. C. vs. Y. M. C. I. A. at Elizabethport.
May 21, P. BI. C. vs. Rahway A. C. at Rahway.
May 28, P. BI. C. vs. Elizabeth Field club at Plainfield.
June 4, a. m. and p. m., P. BI. C. vs. Montclair A. C. at Montclair.
June 11, P. BI. C. vs. Elizabeth A. C. at Elizabeth.
June 18, P. BI. C. vs. Rutgers College at Plainfield.
June 25, P. BI. C. vs. Summers of Brooklyn, at Plainfield.
July 2, P. BI. C. vs. Elizabeth A. C. at Plainfield.
July 4, P. BI. C. vs. Somerville at Plainfield.
July 9, a. m. P. BI. C. vs. Somerville at Somerville.
July 9, p. m. P. BI. C. vs. Cranford B. B. C. at Cranford.
July 16, P. BI. C. vs. Madison B. B. C. at Madison.
July 30, Open.
July 23, P. BI. C. vs. Somerville at Somerville.
July 30, P. BI. C. vs. Flemington at Plainfield.
August 6, P. BI. C. vs. Somerville at Morristown.
August 13, P. BI. C. vs. Somerville at Plainfield.
August 20, P. BI. C. vs. Elizabeth A. C. at Elizabeth.
August 27, P. BI. C. vs. Elizabeth Field club at Plainfield.
September 3, P. BI. C. vs. Summers of Brooklyn at Plainfield.
September 10, Open.
September 17, P. BI. C. vs. Corinthian A. C. at Plainfield.
September 17, Open.

TO UNITE THE TWO CHURCHES.

St. Olive and Immanuel Baptists to Join Together in Worship.

The interest manifested in the meetings at the Mt. Olive Baptist church deepens. Last Sunday the pastor baptized four. The house was crowded at each service. Sixteen have been added to the church. During the week each afternoon and evening the church has been thronged with eager hearers. The pastor, assisted by Rev. J. W. Mitchell preached an able sermon. Three came forward for prayer. At the close of the meeting all the Baptists in the city were invited to remain and evangelist Murphy gave some very profitable advice. Remarks were made by pastor Warnick and the Rev. J. W. Mitchell, after which Murphy announced that our lady the Immaculate and the Mt. Olive churches. Both pastors appear willing to unite.

Mr. Murphy will close his labors here Friday evening, when a reception will be tendered to him. He will leave a lasting impression for good on the people of this city throughout New Jersey, and build up the colored people through his efforts. Pastor Warnick received 16 converts at 6:30 o'clock this morning. Mr. Murphy is here he seems destined to do a good work. The Mt. Olive and the Immanuel church will hold a union baptism in the former's house of worship next Sunday.

EXAGGERATED PRAISE A MISTAKE.

"Quality" Given as Unbiased Opinion of Last Sunday's Meeting at Holy Cross.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I was surprised on visit to attend to see the report of yesterday's meeting at Holy Cross. The extreme praise lavished upon the singing of the "Hallelujah" and "Worthy is the Lamb" was out of the keeping with the spirit of the meeting, by the choir of the Church of the Holy Cross. When that was followed by a shouting attack upon the efforts of others, I thought your reporter must have been a little dazed down. He should be aware that exaggerated praise of a thing only brings its merits into greater prominence. As I had not thought of describing any conclusion, my opinion Sunday afternoon was entirely unbiased, and I was forcibly reminded of it last evening.

Considering the great difficulties of the work undertaken, and the extreme youth of most of the singers, all was exceedingly well rendered and showed the natural musical and perseverance of their leader; but there were parts that, to one familiar with the music as it should be, were very faulty and not particularly better than the worthy leader himself. As for the uninitiated in the mazes of those choruses—and your critic must have been one of them—the same is possible there was the more lost in admiration they were, perhaps, since it all came right in the end, and when an unwary member brought in the strain "Hallelujah" or two, they perhaps thought it part of the performance.

I wish you to understand that I do not desire to undertake the singing on Sunday. I enjoyed it, myself, very much, and decidedly admired the way in which some kept their heads in the heels of great confusion, but the performance was not the perfect one your critic would lead one to suppose. Master Schutt's solo was carefully and well rendered, and his breathing might be a study for many a more pretentious singer. Altogether, the choir is as fine a one as could possibly be gotten together in a town of this size, where selection is necessarily limited.

JUSTICE.

NOT THE BEST EMBLEM.

Grace Church Parishioners Protest the Cross in the Choir.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The "cook" on Grace church tower having given rise to much comment, and having caused many remarks to be made of a timid sort at all faltering to the taste of those responsible for the decoration (?), it is but natural that defenders should arise to tell us where to go to find a similar style and to inform us of the antiquity of it.

But your correspondent whose letter appeared in Tuesday's paper should not have been so general in his statement as to the approval of the weather-vane. He says:

"To us who have the privilege of listening to Grace parish the new church, as a whole, is a written 'sermon in stone,' and partakes of the essence of a beautiful benediction of meaning and life, and we claim the cock as a correct architectural decoration."

I have the satisfaction and honor of being one of those church people, and I have talked with many in the parish on the subject of the "decoration" mentioned, and have not heard one expression of approval.

To go far back in the world's history, or even to modern England, for an occasion which here causes ridicule and regret to be offended, seems particularly out of place, when we have one which is recognized by Christianity at large—in fact, by every body—as most fitting for a place of worship; that emblem which reminds us, not of the denial of Christ, but of His suffering for our salvation; not of the ignominious death of a thief, but of the out of the voluntary sacrifice of the Redeemer of mankind.

As for the design of the church, without the weathercock, I think we will all agree that it is beautiful.

Y. Y. Z.

Judge Ulrich's Announcement on Retiring.

Remarks [From The Royal Craftsman.]

With this issue of the Royal Craftsman retires the present editor of this publication from its active business and editorial managements, owing to his time and attention being required in other fields. Six years ago he assumed the task of introducing to New Jersey Masons a paper which would be devoted exclusively to their interests. In the beginning there were prophecies and sons of prophets, their sayings and predictions were varied. Some there were who bespoke but a short literary existence, others were more hopeful and encouraging. While the management and object stood steadily at the wheel with but one aim, and that was to publish a clean, conservative and an interesting Masonic paper, and how well it succeeded our readers best can tell. Humanity is liable to err, because it would be strange if no mistakes had been made, in taking a retrospective view it can be said that there was chance of improvement, but notwithstanding it will also truthfully be said that the subscribers have freely received good pro you.

The Royal Craftsman s ill be edited and conducted by Bro. J. A. Demarest, of Plainfield, whose newspaper abilities are well known throughout the State. He is the present able and bright city editor of the Daily Press and the Constitutionalist, of Plainfield, and he will bring into these columns a literary knowledge gained by years of rich experience and labor. We sincerely hope that the same courtesy and uniform kindness which has so long been extended to us by the press and craft may with like earnestness be given him.

No Race Shoe Than Plainfield Had.

The Union Water company that Kean & Bergen are trying to seize control of in Cranford, is still out for a fight. A meeting of the stockholders is called for May 16, to elect seven directors. The original incorporators of the company who claim they still own a protest that they will never give in to Kean & Bergen. Kean & Bergen & Kean, which is the truer composition of the partnership. But there is no reason in the world why they should not escape the clutches of that combination any longer than did Plainfield.

To Wield the Racket and Fly the Wheel.

A baker's dozen of Plainfield's most athletic young men have banded together and organized the Odd Thirteen Racket club, for bicycle and tennis purposes. The membership is as follows: Bessie Compton, treasurer; Miss Haynes, Mabel Hurlbut and Alice Loomis, executive committee; Grace Bonny, Linda Hull, Agnes Hall, Emma Fish, Lou Prouse, Ethel Holmes, Helen Hasbrouck, Florence Smith and Beatrice Craig.

Dr. Richards Thanks THE PRESS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I wish to thank you for correcting the exaggerated report in the morning paper concerning the attempt to sell the Crescent Avenue church, and would only add the further correction that the indebtedness is not $4,000, but $3,000 on our family. She has apparently been cured from with some other person.

WM. E. RICHARDS.

April 26, 1892.

Murphy Reported Better.

Murphy reported this morning. He will stay in town and will preach to-day.

Admission to all games up to the league park will be 25 cents; grand stand, 35. Saturday's game will be called at 3:45 p. m. Base ball begins.

AMONG THE MASTER MASONS.

Thomas Armstrong Dead.

There was a large gathering of representative masons in Masonic Hall, Tuesday evening, upon the occasion of the raising of Thomas S. Armstrong to the sublime degree of master mason. The work was accomplished to perfection by worshipful master H. B. Lewis, S. W., C. C. Rose, and J. W., R. Wilson. Rev. S. C. Hastings, D. D., W. S. Cook, masters of ceremonies P. A. Timmons and J. M. Cooke, stewards R. O. Bowers and T. C. Force.

Among those present of Another lodge were: The Rev. E. M. Rodmond, W. A. Freeman, F. O. Boering, James T. Scott, H. J. Hendrickson, C. C. Peck, Jr., G. F. Mauch, William Thompson, O. L. Jenkins, C. G. Crawford, F. A. Dunham and W. A. Coddington. The visiting brethren from Masonic lodges included: G. H. Rugg, H. Woodland, J. A. Beerbower, W. L. Titsworth, W. B. Codington, Rev. J. Ford, J. W. Vanhyning, E. D. Fiske and A. Q. Fiske. There were present from out of town: C. B. Mitchell of 128, Kansas; A. B. Lace of 34, New Jersey; F. W. Humphrey of 3, Missouri; John D. Wright of 35, New York, and Charles T. Smith of 66, Staten Island.

A supper was served at the close of the evening, by stewards F. C. Langborne and J. A. Smith.

The Concert Before the Game.

The arrangements for the opening of the base-ball season are fully completed for Saturday, and every effort is being made by the members of the committee of the Crescent League club to care comfortably for the great attendance anticipated on that occasion. A large number of reporters from the city is expected, will be on hand with their fair base-ball sentiments, all the local cranks of course will be there. The Plainfield Cornet band of seventeen pieces has been secured and as Mr. Guttapfle has been given carte blanche to select his artists he has undoubtedly secured one of the best musical aggregations in this part of the State.

Fire in Germania Hall.

The members of the German societies had practice singing in their hall on Somerset street, last evening, and later went to the alleys below and bowled awhile. Presently a strong odor of smoke was noticed, and investigation revealed the fact that the exhibition stage in the main hall was afire. By strenuous exertions the flames were extinguished without calling in the fire department, but not before the stage, scenery and curtain were badly damaged.

No Explanation Needed.

Robert (who owns an office very late last night)—My dear, have you seen anything of my boots?

Wife (sweetly)—Yes, John; they are down here on the hat rack.—Fury.

A Suggestion.

"I say, Joshaw you ought to have called your paper the Weekly Gripe."

"Why, sir?"

"Why, because more people would have taken it, of course."—Puck.

Mere Chance.

Mrs. Binks—The paper says a seven-ton woman has a baby that has never acted in its life.

Mr. Binks—By jove! I wonder how she'll trade.—N. Y. Weekly.

Proof.

Judge—Were you drunk when you committed the assault?

Prisoner—I must have been, y' honor, 'cause the other feller's tories my size.—Judge.

A Wayby Orgain.

Earnestine, tearfully—If I give you money, will you spend it for drink?

Keggy Tom—No, mum; I'm waiting up to go out west and try the gold cure.—Puck.

His Requirements.

Doulin—I have three tailors, doncher know, Miss Airy.

Amy—Ah! then you only need six more to make a man of you.—Truth.

NOT A LAUGHING MATTER.

Party Behind Screen—Oh, you may laugh as much as you like; but I tell you it's no joke to wake up and find you've been robbed of everything you possessed—clothing, money, valuables, all gone, even my wig and false teeth. And I am to be married in a couple of hours, too; that's where it hurts me most!—Life.

A Repetitive Babe.

Little Solomon—Pa, had a great mark-down sale at dad's store to-day, Dacy.

Dacy—On, wot?

Solomon—Beats. We marked two dollar bants from the dollars down to cheap.—Yankee Blade.

Predictable Accuracy.

School Girl—How many teeth has a hen?

Mother—A hen hasn't any teeth. Why?

School Girl—I am writing a composition on "The Care of Poultry."—Good News.

To Make Sure of Her Knowledge.

Maud—What did papa mean when he said he should have to make oath to some papers the lawyers had made out?

Mabel—I guess he meant, dear, but I think it's something about a blank it mortgage.—Chicago Tribune.

The Recent Tax.

Mrs. Donobrook—I think I shall call on the new neighbors.

Mr. Donobrook—Do you think they people enough to return it?

Mrs. D.—Yes. They own a piano lamp.—N. Y. Press.

Unfortunately.

"I was awfully lost at Mawson's ball last night," said Chappie. "I was half shaved."

"Mawson told me he thought you were half behind," returned Hicks.—Harper's Bazar.

A Shower.

"Hooray!" roared the fire as it leaped up the tall pine.

"Hey, stop that!" yelled the twinkling star "Or I'll put you out."—Harper's Young People.

HOW DOLLY IS MADE.

In 22nd Century She Will Be Born in a Little Germon Oist.

It is an open secret that Santa Claus brings the greater part of his vast stock of Christmas toys from the continent. When he declines an argument made by real toy, however, he goes to France for its to factory for his Noah's ark and all the other animal toys, to Nuremberg for its tin trumpets and magic lanterns, and to Thuringia for its toy China tea sets.

For more important than all other toys are the dolls, and of these the best are little German girls. In whole districts of Germany the country people make dolls' clothes and dolls' bodies, filling their fields in summer. The cheap wax doll, commonly known as "composition wax," which is made by the ton, and are fastened to a cloth body stuffed with sawdust, and daily goes off to the factory.

An expert workman in the factory, holding fluffy by the feet, dips head and shoulders for a moment in melted wax, and she emerges from the bath all complete except the doll of complexion. When she is sufficiently dry she passes into the hands of a girl operator, who quickly paints the pink flange upon her cheeks. Another girl adds the blue eyes, still another the eyebrows and eyelashes, and then the proper pair hands of a row of girls, one girl for each tint, the whole process taking about six hours, for there are delays while the paints are drying. In six hours six girls are expected to paint nearly 1,500 dolls complete. This requires rapid work, and the girls receive about $1.50 a week each. Flowing locks of mohair are fastened to the head and dolly is now a little wide.

THE GIRL OPERATORS.

For the real wax doll, a more expensive article, the molds for the head are made in three parts—one back and two fronts. The mold is filled with melted wax. Which by a process to remain for a minutes or two, and then all that has not hardened is poured out. This leaves a hollow wax head about a quarter of an inch thick, which is afterwards strengthened by "backing" with a quarter of an inch of papier-mache. Some pattern "washable" dolls are made of hardened papier-mache, and when these have cloth feet, which will not break, they are a valuable addition to the nursery.

The most desirable doll is the market, however, according to an expert German toy manufacturer now in this country, is the "kid body doll." The kid bodied doll is made of kid, and is finished with bisque heads. Occasionally a swivel is substituted for the hair stuffing.—N. Y. World.

Hereditary Knowledge.

A little three-year-old, whose father, two grandfathers and a great-grandfather are physicians, was entertaining herself one day by playing doctor to her dolls. The nurse kept the young physician going on a round of calls from doll to doll, and was much interested in her lahyish hieroglyphics. At last the weary little body climbed into an arm-chair and lay back for a moment's rest. The nurse, fearing lest the slight-est diversion should turn the active little brain toward something that would demand more of her attention, sought to reawaken interest in the dolls by a wry face and helpless mamma. The little doctor straightened up at the time-honored, long-suffering look, and reaching her elbow on the arm of the chair and making a receiver of her dimpled hand, asked what was wanted. She was informed that Jenny Purdy needed her services at once. With a sigh of impatience at the multiplicity of calls together as if for a plunge out of the big chair; then a look of intelligence dawned over her face, and she leaned back with this pithy message: "Tell Miss Purdy de doctor can't tome; he's busy sittin' in de office."

Once Are Flowers.

Clover are the unopened flowers of a small evergreen tree that resembles in its appearance the bay tree. The tree is a native of the Malacca, or Spice islands, but has been carried to all the tropical portions of the world, and it is naturalized in the tropical regions of Asia. The flowers are small in size, and grow in large numbers, in clusters at the very end of the branches. The clusters we use are the flowers gathered before they are opened and while they are still green. After being gathered they are smoked by a wood fire and then dried in the sun.

A Busy Household.

Sociable Minister—Do you read your Bible every day, my little dear?

Little Dear—No, indeed. I don't have time. I'm too busy helping mamma store raisins and things, so as to always have something nice for dinner every time you come.—Good News.

Idest of the Open Goer.

He—I see that some people of our set are to produce grand opera at their country house.

She—How delightful; then there'll be none of those odious music-loving people to disturb the conversation.—Life.

The Wherefore of It.

Tom—Harry said that you owed something to a woman he knew. I told him it was not so, because—

Jack—Ah, then I have a friend!

Tom—Because every tailor wouldn't

There's light ahead for the woman who suffers, if she'll only turn toward it. Health is a great deal more than the absence of disease. Chronic weaknesses, nervousness, "female complaints," all yield to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

For a legitimate medicine that's purely vegetable and perfectly harmless—a promoter of health, strength, and nerve force, and invigorating the whole system—there's nothing else like the "Favorite Prescription." It's the only medicine for women sold by druggists, or by medical men, the makers of which have a printed guarantee, on every bottle-wrapper, of its making good in every case, or money paid for it is returned. It is cheap, too, for you only pay for the good you get.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

HOUSEHOLD BREVITIES.

—A cheap paint for iron fencing is made by mixing tar and yellow ochre. It will be a good green color and is excellent for painting rough woodwork and iron.

—Boiled Frosting.—One coffeecup of sugar, five tablespoonfuls of milk; boil five minutes and when cool, pour over the cake. This makes a clear, soft and inexpensive frosting.—Detroit Free Press.

—To make a splendid cement that will hold together with a wonderful tenacity wood, stone, glass, ivory, leather, porcelain, silk, woolen or cotton, take two parts (by weight) of pitch and one part of gutta percha, and melt together in an iron vessel.

—Oaten Meal Muffins.—Make a rather stiff batter with a pint of sour milk, a teaspoonful of soda, salt, a little sugar and oat-meal flour. Set that the soda is thoroughly dissolved in a little water before putting it into the milk, then beat it a few minutes, add the other ingredients, beat well and bake in a good oven in well-greased pans or rings.—Household Monthly.

—Oranges and Apples.—The mild, easy-cooking, tart varieties of apples make an excellent sauce served with one rilled slices of oranges, from which the seeds have been removed. Just before serving, add the orange, mix gently so as to preserve the form of both fruits until the apples are tender. Add sugar to sweeten, and if desired, a very little of the grated yellow of the orange rind.—Good Health.

—Pap of Grated Flour.—Take a quarter of a pound of flour and pour on just enough water to moisten it. Form it into a ball and rub it in a dish, closely and firmly. Put it in a vessel of boiling water and let it boil the whole day. Then take it out, and, with a little more water, remove the cloth, and place it in a cool oven to dry, when it will be fit for use. To make pap, grate some of this, mix it to a paste with cold milk, and stir it into some boiling milk until it slowly ons or fifteen minutes.—Boston Budget.

—A Recipe For Lemon Cheesecake.—Have a smoothmeal in quarter of a pound of good butter and one pound of granulated sugar; then add six eggs (leaving out the whites of two) and the grated rind of three lemons, with their juice, put all into a pan over a moderate fire and stir occasionally. Let it simmer until the sugar is dissolved and the mixture assumes the consistency of honey; then put it into cups or jars to cool. It may either be used immediately or covered closely and set away in a cool larder for any length of time. For the pastry make ordinary short or puff paste and bake in small patty pans. Serve with filling each with the cheesecake.—Ladies' Home Journal.

SPRING STYLES.

Appropriate Costumes For the Season of Flowers.

Brocaded coats with Watteau backs are among the new importations.

There is very little change in the shape of skirts, and the ordinary close-fitting basque still remains. Full topped sleeves, fitting quite closely below the elbows, are still the favorites. For summer dresses, very full sleeves with fitted cuffs will be preferred for thinner fabrics. The regular leg-o'-mutton sleeve with modifications will prevail for fashionable of all sorts.

A spring suit of fine camel's hair has a slightly trained skirt and a waist which is made with a full yoke, with straight widths fall one-third the length of the skirt. This fullness is gathered into a belt about two inches wide. The shirring is covered by a very full collar of gold filigree. The rolled deep cuffs, the edge of the basque skirt and the hem of the skirt are finished with passementerie, in which there is a large admixture of gold.

There is a decided fancy just now for many of the new black or colored waists. They are made of cloth, silk, or velvet, and are worn with skirts of black silk, satin, or hair, or, indeed, any other popular black fabric. These waists are of all sorts; from the simple and becoming blouse, which is the favorite by misses and young ladies, to the more elaborate velvet or brocaded dress-coat, suitable for the matron or the lady of advanced years.

A writing dress of silk, of almost any popular color or quality, so that it is good, will be almost a necessity for evening wear, afternoon receptions, etc., on occasions of dress entertainments in which every one is likely to take part. This silk should be trimmed in the prevailing manner or garniture of this character. Lace is frequently found among the trimmings of colored silk. It will do better for black. Indeed, judiciously used, it is one of the good things of the season, and will be popular during the entire season.

One of the new ideas in the trimming of a cloth dress is a band of plain velvet around the hem of the skirt. From this are bands of velvet graduated length extended up the skirt and finished at the ends with square bows. The bodice is edged with ribbon and from the collar over the front and back are graduated bands of ribbon also with bows at the ends. The sleeves have straps of ribbon over the puffs nearly to the elbows. The skirt is finished in the same way. At the back of the collar is a small bow with ribbon ends which reach to the waist line of the skirt. A suit of this sort has a color and cuffs of closely curling feather trimmings.

Yours, etc.,

Nellie.

Never is a great variety of fashions, basques, waists and coats of various lengths. Some of the new dress coats are of cloth with sleeves of velvet or bengaline. There are extra skirts and panels also of velvet or other combination material. A novel design has the body of fine, close-woven camel's hair. The fronts of the basque, which falls about eighteen inches below the waist line are of the cloth. The skirt portion is cut off at the second dart, and large, square revers are fitted over the hips. These are finished with very rich ornaments of passementerie. Velvet sleeves with leg-o'-mutton shape, and elaborately trimmed cuffs of the camel's hair and velvet, with passementerie.—N. Y. Ledger.

Plenty of Money in London.

The superabundance of money awaiting safe investments in London was put in evidence a few days ago when the chancellor of the exchequer invited tenders for £1,000,000 of treasury bills. Applications for ten times that amount were at once sent in, and the chancellor was able to get the money at the market at the lowest terms ever secured for an English loan—namely: 2 1-16 per cent. At the same time, the rapidity with which has been largely developed in the English investor by his calamitous experiences with gaseous South American securities, and it is the universal testimony that shaky enterprises never found it so hard to get backing in the London market. Financiers there as here have no confidence in the future, and propose to be well ready for a financial storm if one comes.

The Army of Turkey.

According to the latest military laws of the Turkish empire the Turkish army on a war footing will be increased shortly from 800,000 to 1,000,000 men. When this prospective increase has come the necessity for a new arming of the soldiery is felt. Canning of the new artillery will not be ordered for some time, probably, as the army has 1,600 large guns. Only 400 of these are mounted and ready for the field. The equipment of the other 600 will be begun at once. The Turkish infantry has also Winchester carbines and will retain them for a short time. The infantry has 500,000 Peabody-Martini rifles and 220,000 Mauser rifles of 8.5 millimeters caliber. An order was placed in Austria for 300,000 more rifles and 300,000 Mannlicher rifles of 7.5 millimeters caliber.

A Solution.

Before you go to war pray once before you go to sea pray twice; before you get married pray three times.—Judge.

Three's Company.

Interlocutor—Have you got your step-father?

Bones—Yes, sir! Do you want a safety or the other kind?

"Hum! Let's see. Is he safety or bicycle? Is he mother?"

"Yes, sir."

"Perfectly safe?"

"Absolutely, sir."

"Then I reckon I'm sure my boy will ponder the other kind."—Life.

IVORY SOAP

99 44/100 Pure.

THE BEST FOR EVERY PURPOSE.

1 20 tf

CATARRH
HAY-FEVER
ELY'S
CREAM BALM
Opens the Nasal Passages,
Allays Pain and Inflammation,
Heals the Sores,
Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell.
TRY THE CURE
A particle is applied into each nostril and is agreeable. Price 50 cents at Druggists or by mail registered, 60 cents. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

AT BEDTIME I TAKE A PLEASANT HIRES DRINK
THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.
Hires Rootbeer is a pure, wholesome drink, made from roots, herbs, barks and berries. Ask your druggist for it. Hires Rootbeer is prepared in 5 cent packages to make five gallons each. Sold everywhere. Never buy Hires Rootbeer which does not bear the name Hires. In order to be sure of it, insist on having the genuine.

LANE'S MEDICINE
Keeps the Liver and Kidneys in healthy action, Purifies the Blood, Makes the Complexion Clear, Gives Strength and Vigor to the Whole System. Sold by druggists at 50 cents per bottle. Prepared only by C. H. LANE & CO., San Francisco.

THE PLAINFIELD
PACKING HOUSE!
25 West Front Street,
NEWARK, N. J.
Would respectfully inform its patrons that in addition to its usual stock of Fresh, Salt and Smoked Goods,
It has added a full line of
Fresh Beef, Lamb,
Veal, Mutton & Poultry,
Which it is prepared to sell at Reasonable Prices!
and all goods delivered free of charge.
C. M. ULRICH.

CLEANING and DYEING.
Have Your Spring Wear Cleaned or Dyed in time for warm weather.
Challies, Flannels, Summer Silks, Ladies' Dressing Sacques and Wrappers cleaned to look like New.
Entire suit of Men's Clothing cleaned or $1.50.
Samples of the New Spring Shades on Hand.
HILLIER & CO., 49 North Avenue.
2 16 tf

Misses A. L. & M. D. GORSLINE,
Fancy Goods, Notions, Art Needle Work, Painted Novelties, &c.,
14 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
STAMPING AND DESIGNING A SPECIALTY.
ARTISTIC OUTLINING AND EMBROIDERY. 4 9 tf

Percheron Stallion
"Santor,"
Imported from France. Registered.
A SUPERB ANIMAL.
Terms Reasonable. Will make the season at PASSAIC VALLEY STOCK FARM, MILLINGTON, N. J.
Seven miles north of Plainfield, near Stirling
4 7 3 mos

1892. STALLION SEASON. 1892.
ROUND TOP FARM,
BERNARDSVILLE, N. J.
ATHEL.
Formerly Baby McKee. Sire, Nutwood, 2 16 3-4. 100 Trotters in 2:30. Dam, Minnette, Dam of Aries, 2 16 3-4 by Full Brother to Ariel—2 years—2:16 3-4. Bradley's Hambletonian. 41 trotters in 2:30. Nutwood, 2:16 3-4. 75 trotters in 2:30.
Season, $500. Return Privilege. Limited to 40 approved mares.
PALATKA, 5590.
Sire, Nutwood, 2 16 3-4. 75 trotters in 2:30. Dam, Atalanta, Bred at 3 years old by Belmont, 30 trotters in 2:30 Alcantara, 2:23. 42 trotters in 2:30.
Season, $200. Return Privilege.
LORD ELDON, (4024.
Sire, Mambrino, 2:26. 3 trotters in 2:30. Dam, Xantippe, Sister of Jay Bird 2:10.
by Messenger Duroc, 31 trotters in 2:30. Hyndyk's Hambletonian, 41 trotters in 2:30.
Season, $50. Return Privilege.
AVALANCHE, 9542.
Sire, Alexander, 2 20 3-4. Sire of Elsie Wright 2 04 1-4. Dam, Drift.
by Abd

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—The city clerk's paper has just issued some of its advertising space for cheap cigars and tobacco.

—A meeting of the Alumni of the Plainfield high school will be held in the Millman building Tuesday, May 3, at 7 p. m. Members of the earlier graduating classes are especially desired to be present.

—Lessels & Bion have torn down the dwelling-house which they erected without the permission of the common council, and it is said that they contemplate erecting a cheap tenement-house in its place.

—By what circumstance, or for what cause, is it that the one who furnishes the press matter that he issues the least about New Jersey politics, writes the "Gossip of a Great State" in the New Jersey edition of the New York World?

—The Somerset county grand jury had made a special visit to ascertain the cause of the whistle on the Somerville woolen mills. Manager Brown retorts that if his whistle is to be silenced church bells and railroad whistles must also be subdued.

—The Plainfield firemen are very grateful to the Westfield people for the hospitality shown on Monday. The visitors were handsomely treated to a substantial luncheon, and were made to feel amply repaid for the assistance they gave at the fire.

—The Press is in receipt of a communication criticising the police for not putting a stop to the law-breaking of alleged "blind pig dives" in the south-west portion of the city. If the correspondent has any evidence he ought to submit it to the authorities.

—Wm. K. McClure, of Plainfield, appears to be the most prominently mentioned for the position of county attorney, under the next board of freeholders. He is a sagacious and popular lawyer and a consistent Democrat, and no better man could be selected.—Rahway Democrat

—If you have any old shirts in stock, or stale bread, or faded roses, or rusty shoe liner, or brass collar buttons, or clams, or any cheap thing you deal in, take it down to the Courier office, the city court will trade for it cheaper than you can sell or get rid of in any other way

—A little girl named May Southard was knocked down by a horse on North avenue last Saturday evening. Carpenter McClure picked her up and carried her into Reynolds's drug store. She was found to be severely bruised, but not seriously injured. The driver of the horse knocked her down was arrested, but later released as blameless.

—Of all Nearay's renowned and well patronized clothing stores, one of the very highest reputation for stylish material, true cut, fine trimming and proper make, that Kilpatrick & Betts, 745 and 747 Broad street. They are now receiving the latest in dress suits, cut from fancy checks, worsteds, basket patterns, the soft, unfinished Clay diagonal, etc., for $15 and $18.

—After all and despite what the newspapers had to say, the other day, of the purchase of the Miller pharmacy by Dudley Miller and James Bailey, the deal has fallen through. When it came to signing the necessary papers, the "parties of the first and second part" could not agree on terms, and consequently G. Miller Smith retained the business and is still to be found at the same old stand opposite the post-office.

—Fred W. Dunn, having purchased the entire business of Barkalow & Dunn at 18 North avenue, will continue at the old stand with a complete line of the choicest teas and coffees, together with a full line of the finest domestic and imported canned goods, fruits, dried and preserved, and the best of everything in the line of groceries. His long experience as a buyer in the New York market enables him to secure the pick of what is offered on such terms that he is always in a position to give his many customers the utmost advantage in the way of goods and prices.

Death in Dunellen of the Rev. Dr. Tyng's Son-in-Law.

William Ward died on Saturday morning at his home in Dunellen, where he had lived for the last seven years. He was born seventy-two years ago yesterday in a house in Veney street, New York. His father was an old citizen of New York, and his mother was a daughter of Thomas Willett, brother of ex-Chancellor Walworth. In 1840 he was married to Julia Griswold Tyng, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Stephen H. Tyng. She died in 1876. There are two sons, Walworth Ward, of Brooklyn, and Irving Ward, of New York city. Mr. Ward was a man of considerable literary attainments, and occasionally wrote for newspapers, principally upon financial topics. He was an old familiar friend of Horace Greeley. He was well known as a former broker in Wall street. He had been sick a great deal in the last six months, but his death was unexpected finally by analysis, with which he was stricken about ten days ago.

Plainfield's Military Organizations.

The members of Leal's Cadet Corps, the new military organization at Leal's school, city, make a very attractive appearance in their handsome uniforms and the sorrels. The corps is fast growing in popularity among the students, and already forty have joined. These are being carefully drilled by George F. Edwards, who is an acknowledged authority on military tactics, by special request of Mr. Leal. The boys are greatly attached to their new drill master, call him "Ned," and are enthusiastically preparing a Memorial Day parade, their first public appearance. The officers of the corps are as follows:

Captain—Rowland Cox, Jr.
First Lieutenant—C. C. Ball, Jr.
Second Lieutenant—Harry Lowe.
Sergeants—First, Coe Thompson; second DeWright Tabor.
Corporals—F. VanFleet, Geo. Ball, Francis Frost, Francis Bonknell.

A DEAD CHILD FOUND.

Boys Fishing in Tier's Lake Find the Body Wrapped in the "World".

Two boys fishing in Tier's pond Tuesday afternoon, found a suspicious looking bundle in the water, near the North Plainfield bank of the pond, below the Somerset bridge. Upon opening the bundle the dead body of a very young child was found within.

The outside wrapper was a copy of the New York World dated April 15. The body had been first rolled carefully in some clothes, and the whole bundle was tied with pink tape such as is used by dressmakers use. The twine was also tied in a flat bow knot after the manner of graduates of the schools of phrenology.

Special constable George Decker took charge of the body and has just notified the coroner of Somerset county.

Only Right To Tell.

The Rev. Mark Guy Pearse, the eminent English divine, writes:

"I think Kemp's Balsam for Throat and Lung Troubles is the best medicine I have ever known. I find Aspinwall's Imperial Hair Restorer an excellent preparation for the hair; I have used it myself and my friends find it answer very completely."

Many congregations, increased power of the lungs and voice, are the rewards upon taking Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, to all consumptives.

PERSONALIA.

Mrs. F. J. Berry at 13 Westervelt avenue is very seriously ill.

Mrs. Lissignolo and daughter, of East Front street, have gone to Providence for a week's visit.

Lawyer W. A. Coddington has gone to erect a $6,000 dwelling for East Second street, near Richmond.

Dr. and Mrs. Ellis W. Hodges are obliged to omit their reception days on account of the death of Mrs. Hodges' father.

Charles S. A. Davis, of Broadway, writes from Farmville, Va., that he will return from his extended trip through the South, to-morrow.

Charles T. Holmes, one of New York's prominent customs brokers and forwarding agents, has recently moved to this city with his family.

The wedding of Miss Clara O. Dunn, of Park avenue, and J. Henry Manning, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will take place in the Crescent Avenue church during June.

Mr. Venino's piano recital, which was to have been given Thursday evening, has been postponed because of sickness. The new date of it will be announced in a few days.

Samuel Moore, Thomas J. Young, Daniel S. Berry, John H. Carney, Abraham P. Van Schoyck, Philip Irwin and Jasper Wilson are the North Plainfield men serving on the present panel of petit jurors in Somerset county.

Robert O. Nitsch died at her home on Grove street Monday in her eighteenth year. She was the daughter of Mrs. Nitsch, who was the author, under the name of Catharine Owen, of well-known household books.

David Neighbour, father of Calvin Neighbour of 59 East Front street, died at Low Valley, Hunterdon county, Thursday, and the funeral services will be held Monday, from the Lower Valley Presbyterian church.

Miss Nettie Allison of Somerset street sailed Saturday for Havre, to join the French line steamship La Bretagne. Among her fellow passengers are Mr. and Mrs. Rutolph Aronson, Col. and Mrs. Daniel Dougherty and Miss Sarah Bernhardt and her company.

Irving G. Stille has the sympathy of the community in the loss of his wife, Estelle Pauline, who passed away at her home in Dunellen, in her twenty-second year, Thursday. Funeral services will be held from the Dunellen M. E. church to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The engagement is announced of Miss Mary of West Seventh street, and George Schoonmaker, a prominent member of the Crescent avenue Baptist church. Organist McClure picked her up and carried her into Reynolds's drug store. She was found to be severely bruised, but not seriously injured. The driver of the horse knocked her down was arrested, but later released as blameless.

—Of all Nearay's renowned and well patronized clothing stores, one of the very highest reputation for stylish material, true cut, fine trimming and proper make, that Kilpatrick & Betts, 745 and 747 Broad street. They are now receiving the latest in dress suits, cut from fancy checks, worsteds, basket patterns, the soft, unfinished Clay diagonal, etc., for $15 and $18.

—After all and despite what the newspapers had to say, the other day, of the purchase of the Miller pharmacy by Dudley Miller and James Bailey, the deal has fallen through. When it came to signing the necessary papers, the "parties of the first and second part" could not agree on terms, and consequently G. Miller Smith retained the business and is still to be found at the same old stand opposite the post-office.

—Fred W. Dunn, having purchased the entire business of Barkalow & Dunn at 18 North avenue, will continue at the old stand with a complete line of the choicest teas and coffees, together with a full line of the finest domestic and imported canned goods, fruits, dried and preserved, and the best of everything in the line of groceries. His long experience as a buyer in the New York market enables him to secure the pick of what is offered on such terms that he is always in a position to give his many customers the utmost advantage in the way of goods and prices.

Death in Dunellen of the Rev. Dr. Tyng's Son-in-Law.

William Ward died on Saturday morning at his home in Dunellen, where he had lived for the last seven years. He was born seventy-two years ago yesterday in a house in Veney street, New York. His father was an old citizen of New York, and his mother was a daughter of Thomas Willett, brother of ex-Chancellor Walworth. In 1840 he was married to Julia Griswold Tyng, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Stephen H. Tyng. She died in 1876. There are two sons, Walworth Ward, of Brooklyn, and Irving Ward, of New York city. Mr. Ward was a man of considerable literary attainments, and occasionally wrote for newspapers, principally upon financial topics. He was an old familiar friend of Horace Greeley. He was well known as a former broker in Wall street. He had been sick a great deal in the last six months, but his death was unexpected finally by analysis, with which he was stricken about ten days ago.

Plainfield's Military Organizations.

The members of Leal's Cadet Corps, the new military organization at Leal's school, city, make a very attractive appearance in their handsome uniforms and the sorrels. The corps is fast growing in popularity among the students, and already forty have joined. These are being carefully drilled by George F. Edwards, who is an acknowledged authority on military tactics, by special request of Mr. Leal. The boys are greatly attached to their new drill master, call him "Ned," and are enthusiastically preparing a Memorial Day parade, their first public appearance. The officers of the corps are as follows:

Captain—Rowland Cox, Jr.
First Lieutenant—C. C. Ball, Jr.
Second Lieutenant—Harry Lowe.
Sergeants—First, Coe Thompson; second DeWright Tabor.
Corporals—F. VanFleet, Geo. Ball, Francis Frost, Francis Bonknell.

A DEAD CHILD FOUND.

Boys Fishing in Tier's Lake Find the Body Wrapped in the "World".

Two boys fishing in Tier's pond Tuesday afternoon, found a suspicious looking bundle in the water, near the North Plainfield bank of the pond, below the Somerset bridge. Upon opening the bundle the dead body of a very young child was found within.

The outside wrapper was a copy of the New York World dated April 15. The body had been first rolled carefully in some clothes, and the whole bundle was tied with pink tape such as is used by dressmakers use. The twine was also tied in a flat bow knot after the manner of graduates of the schools of phrenology.

Special constable George Decker took charge of the body and has just notified the coroner of Somerset county.

Only Right To Tell.

The Rev. Mark Guy Pearse, the eminent English divine, writes:

"I think Kemp's Balsam for Throat and Lung Troubles is the best medicine I have ever known. I find Aspinwall's Imperial Hair Restorer an excellent preparation for the hair; I have used it myself and my friends find it answer very completely."

Many congregations, increased power of the lungs and voice, are the rewards upon taking Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, to all consumptives.

PLAINFIELD LOSES A BELLE.

John Goltie Paton, a Prominent Businessman Dies, Miss Ella Allen Solemn and Sweet Ride Away to Fitchburg.

RESCENT avenue church, at 7:30 Friday night, said to be the largest representative people gathered to witness the wedding of Miss Ella Holmes, oldest daughter of Captain and Mrs. Augustus D. Holmes, to John Goltie Paton of Fitchburg, Mass. In spite of the storm everyone of her remarkably large circle of friends was present, and although she was the belle of all from the start on, she was a bride modest in the light and warmth of the sincere smiles of regard, and benevolence, and hope of all a thousand and more.

The bridal party consisted of Miss Augusta D. Holmes, a sister of the bride, as maid of honor. She wore white crepe and chiffon and carried pink roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Ethel Holmes and Miss Florence Paton, sisters of the bridegroom. They were attired in white silk and chiffon and carried pink roses. After the bride herself, Miss Ethel Holmes, her younger sister, was the subject, even in such a party, of universal admiration.

The groom waited the coming of the bride at the altar with his brother, Harold P. Paton. The ushers were: Alfred Holmes, Frank Clawson, William Hilliard, Frank Hubbard and Max Munger of this city, and Edward Spencer of Philadelphia.

The bride's gown was of white bengaline with points de Gene lace. Pendant at her throat was a diamond star, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried bride's roses with arbutus, and she carried long-stemmed white roses loosely tied with white ribbon. She entered the church on the arm of her father.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Richards. Miss Jessie Utter was the organist. The floral decorations were profuse, and presented principally of white lilies. At the close of the service, at least 200 of those who had been favored with invitations to the reception, went to the bride's home, 40 East Fifth street, and overwhelmed her with unfeigned congratulations and real, true wishes for her future. Mr. and Mrs. Paton received under a tower of smilax. The presents displayed were countless and costly—evidencing everybody's esteem and the depth of it. Supper was served by Mrs. Elizabeth. Mr. and Mrs. Paton left on the 10:13 p. m. train for New York, by the elegant part of their honeymoon in Washington. Their home will be in Fitchburg where Mr. Paton is connected with one of the most prominent local papers. Besides being an editorial writer and correspondent for many of the best known journals of Massachusetts.

Among the guests present were: Mrs. J. G. Paton and Miss Randell of Quincy, the mother and aunt of the groom; Miss Emma Clifford of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. David A. Sayre and Miss Florence Fuller of Fair Haven; Mrs. Charles *Dey of Brook*lyn; E. Wood Perry of New York; the Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Hurlbut, ex-councilman Dr. and Mrs. Tuttle, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron M. Powell, assessor, and Mrs. Joseph A. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Pierson, ex-councilman and Mrs. J. K. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gaunt, Mrs. Samuel H. Milliken, Miss Julia Bulkley Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Struthers, captain and Mrs. William B. Ostrom, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gavett, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Runyon, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Cone to attend the Crescent avenue chapel, which she presented to the chapel shortly before she passed away. It is eminently fitting that there should be remembrances of her presence in the form of sweet music, the memory of that good woman whose kind heart and gentle ways won for her so warm a place in the affections of the people.

The final lecture in the public library course will take place at the Casino on the evening of May 5. The lecture will be by the Rev. Dr. Deems, of New York, on the subject of "Work." This lecture will be in lieu of the one which was to have been delivered by bishop Vincent. While it is to be regretted that the people of Plainfield will not have the treat of hearing bishop Vincent, it is thought that the lecture by Dr. Deems will be one of unusual interest.

D. M. Bristol, who will exhibit his remarkable horses at Music Hall, this week, is one of the most successful horse trainers in the country. He was born in Flint, Mich., about forty years ago. He was brought up on a farm, and at an early age he showed a strong liking for horses. His training was like that of boys, in that he subsequently gave up the study of law to enter upon the training business. For a number of years he traveled and put on exhibitions of his system for the training of horses for practical purposes.

Frank O. Herring and Charles C. Burnett represented the Union County Country club at the opening of the Elizabeth Athletic club's new home, Tuesday evening. The event brought together 1,000 sports from the New York A. C., the Jersey City A. C., the Palma, the Plainfield Crescent League, the Manhattan, and other well-known clubs of New Jersey's vicinity. Starting the reception a match game was bowled on the new alleys by teams of the E. A. C. and the Palma. Fully 500 viewed the game. There are eight alleys, and the apparatus arranged like a grand stand. The Elizabeth club's members proved themselves royal hosts.

Dr. Charles F. Stillman was brought back to Plainfield Monday afternoon, from the Battle Creek Sanitarium, Battle Creek, Mich., suffering from hasty consumption. He arrived on the 2:32 train, accompanied by his brother, William M. Stillman, his brother-in-law, J. K. Myers, and a physician from the sanitarium. He was taken to the home of his mother, where he was greeted by his wife and child, and there he will call his friends. It is apparently in the last stages of the disease, and is rapidly passing away. A number of his old friends saw him at the station, and were deeply grieved to learn of his condition.

MRS. GARVEY BRINGS HIM UP.

And Judge Codrington Orders Mr. Garvey to Pay $2 a Week Towards His Child's Support.

Robert Garvey was arraigned before Judge Codrington in the city court Monday morning, charged by his wife with non-support. The judge released him upon his agreement to contribute $2 a week towards keeping his seven-months-old child. Mrs. Garvey, who earns $12 a month in the Cheshire carpet mills on South avenue, has the baby. Garvey's wages are $6 a week.

Mrs. Garvey was a Miss Maude Hadden, daughter of Solomon Hadden of this city. She is still a young and pretty woman, although she has buried one other husband —John Labbie, formerly a teacher on Somerset street. She married Garvey about two years ago, claiming that he betrayed her vows, she was an innocent and confiding young widow. He courted her, promised her the usual matrimonial bliss, and left her. Since then, as told above, he has been living in Newark and she here.

Cuts, burns and all other wounds, can be cured in a short time by the use of Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth. Let pain.

A WOMAN'S INSANE FREAK.

She Threatened to Burn the Crescent Avenue Church, Tell Dr. Deems and Other Members of It What She Intended Already.

(From the Press of April 25.)

James Stewart, assistant sexton of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, was in the church parlors at the rear of the building, last evening, when a woman entered and asked him for a lecture ticket. In spite of the sexton's questions she said that she was going to set fire to the building. She promptly ejected the woman from the church, and Henry Anglemyer, who is a special policeman. The two men then took the woman into custody and Mr. Stewart went to the police station. After being put out of the church, and just before section Anglemyer appeared on the scene, the woman passed Mr. Stewart on the sidewalk and ground the roots of a tree, and set fire to it. The small blaze thus produced soon burned itself out.

Dr. Deems, Mr. Stewart and Allyn made an examination of the state of the woman's mind. They pronounced her insane, and will be taken to the asylum by Mr. Morris Plains this afternoon. Her name is Marie Mahon, age 30. She was a servant in the employ of Clinton Wharton, 11 Cornelia street.

The congregation knew nothing about the episode till after the service of the evening, and then it was only casually whispered among a few.

The girl used to work for the family of pastor Richards. She had been queer for some time, and in her insanity developed a violent hatred against the ringing of the Crescent church bell.

These are the facts of the case, which occurred last night by some unidentified individual into the following ridiculous nightmare:

The congregation of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church at Bloomfield and Jay, was startled and almost thrown into a wild panic that evening by a young woman rushing down the aisle in the middle of the services calling loudly for the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Richards. The pastor, rather but not wrapt, and her red hair was streaming behind her. A prayer was being offered at that minute and when the interruption, preceded by the violent slamming of the front door, was heard by the congregation, numbering about 800, it created an impression not altogether favorable.

Then from the stairway leading from the vestibule music was seen to curl up into the gallery and the sexton, who had extinguished it thoroughly, and then had thrown a match on the oil, so that the blaze might be extinguished. It was at this time that the woman who had started for the church, and had run all the way, reached the room and was rapidly eating their way up the stairs to the gallery. There was a scattering among the worshipers. Water was hastily procured, and after a time the fire was extinguished.

This done, attention was given to the woman who stood in the church to the people. She had been recognized as Marion Mahon, a servant employed by Clifford Wharton, who lives in Cornelia street avenue. It was found that she had left the Wharton house shortly before 6 o'clock, taking with her a can of kerosene. Reaching the church she poured the oil around lavishly and lighted it. As soon as it began to burn she threw open the door and thrust in upon the startled congregation.

The woman, who is about thirty years old, was arrested. For some time she has been looked upon as being slightly demented, but no one thought that she was harmless. The damage to the church is not great.

This story appeared in the New York Tribune, and was duplicated in substance by many other papers. The members of the Crescent Avenue congregation are greatly incensed at its malicious fabrications, and propose sending a committee of the Tribune office to protest against such gross and willful misrepresentation.

Mr. Hanstaens, the accredited correspondent of the Tribune from this section, did not, like the local correspondents of other papers that have been similarly misled, are fully as indignant at the story as are the Crescent Avenue church people. Mr. Hanstaens promptly started in the skating steps to find out and expose the person responsible for the yarn.

His Grandfather Was Alexander Hamilton's Second.

Nathaniel Pendleton Rogers, father-in-law of Mrs. Nathaniel Pendleton Rogers, of Park place, Plainfield, died at the family residence, 6 West Twenty-second street, New York. Mr. Rogers was past 70 years of age and retired from the active practice of the law more than twenty years ago. He was an enthusiastic sportsman and was particularly partial to yachting and was a salmon fisherman. His paternal grandfather was Moses Rogers, who resided in the house 7 State street, New York, where Nathaniel was born. His grandfather on the maternal side was Nathaniel Pendleton, colonel on the staff of Gen. Nathaniel Green of the Revolutionary army, and second to Alexander Hamilton in his fatal duel with Aaron Burr. He studied law under Francis B. Cutting and was associated in practice with Alexander Hamilton, jr., and Francis B. Rives. He leaves a wife and five children: Mrs. Charles D. Fuller of Morristown, N. J.; Henry Pendleton Rogers of Hyde Park; Nathaniel Pendleton Rogers, jr., of Plainfield; J. Sard Rogers, and Miss Elizabeth M. Rogers. The funeral will be held at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning in St. Bartholomew's church. Mr. Rogers had been a member of many clubs, but retained membership only in the Knickerbocker at the time of his death.

Mrs. Grover Cleveland's Brother Was There.

A reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Hagan, Prospect avenue Wednesday night, from 8 to 11 after which a banquet was tendered in honor of the oldest supper was served. The floral decorations were very fine, and choice music was rendered by Andrew G. Carpenter. Among the invited guests were Gen. and Mrs. Stewart L. Wood and the Misses Wood, of Brooklyn; the Rev. and Mrs. Neil Cleveland, brother of ex-President Grover Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. William L. Patton, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kirkner, Miss Kirkner, Lawrence Prahler, Mr. and Mrs. John Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Julius S. Davett, Messrs. Emile and Easton Davett, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Abbot and Miss Abbot, Sylvan H. Valentine, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Sarbell, Miss S. Sarbell, Wm. Pittman, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Simpson, Mrs. John Grey Foster, Mr. and Mrs. C. VanVleit, jr., and Mrs. W. J. Smith, F. Pentz, the Rev. Chas. L. Goodrich, Wm. Palmer, Miss C. C. Dewey, Fred Newman, Miss C. C. Dey, Mr. Sandford, Mrs. S. McEwen, Mrs. Jay R. Bonnell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. T. Polak, Dr. J. Osborne Polak, the Misses Marston, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Crosswell, Messrs. Frank and Howard Martine and many others.

A Cleveland Ratification.

The Essex County Democracy, Edward W. Hudnut, president, will hold a ratification committee, and the Cleveland Democratic association of New Jersey, announce a mass-meeting to be held in the Academy of Music, Jersey City, next Monday night in the interest of Grover Cleveland as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. Congressman Benjamin F. Shively, and other leaders will be prominent in the party, are expected to speak.

—Alexander Thorn's block at 57 Somerset street was Monday bought at sheriff sale by J. F. Homan, for $6,700.

THAT GRACE CHURCH ROOSTER.

It Is a Source of Annoyance to a Number of Residents.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—You are doing a public service in calling attention to the rooster, as he sits in the Grace church tower, safe in concluding his article "what's the matter with it, anyway?"

So many people have, it appears, been asking the same question, coupled with the query as to why "the people" who are annoyed by it do not complain, that I am tempted to reply, asking the privilege of doing so through the medium of your valuable columns.

The solemn dong-dong of Grace church bell, so musically reminding of the early type of Gothic architecture, as well as for so sonorously penitent solemn purposes, has made it the favorite of the parish.

In the churches of the twelfth century we find the noblest development of the Gothic style, and to-day many examples may be seen, both in France and England. In France we find invariably the tall steeple, circular nave, the rounded arch and the tasseled cap with the tall spire. In England we find the square ends, the pointed arch, extended transepts and the low buttressed tower. The latter are characteristic on the whole in the earlier returning to rural England from the continent invariably finds a rest-house in contemplating the one he did not find in the other. The Reformation changed, grand and inspiring; the English beautiful and picturesque, the towers peculiar and low, buttressed with lancet windows, crested irregularly by the weak-kneed, originally.

The "cock", as a rare was and both on the towers of England and the empire of France, and was one of the symbols of the Paseleo. It is found, with others of the group, on mural decorations of the Catacombs. It was adopted by the Goths as a symbol of warning and admonition, and used in the ornamentation of all public buildings. The combination, as in the "vocation without legs", was known as the Gallic cock, and every Warrior had it outlined on his shield.

To trace the primary use of the cock in ecclesiastical architecture, we have to go far back in the world's history. We find it at one time in the Catacombs of the Roman communion by an especial edict of the Pope in the ninth century, and it was universally used by the early Christians. In England there was a great excitement among the congregation, and there was quite a panic, for the old men who preserved their presence of mind quieted the affrighted women, while the boys ran for the constable.

In the vestibule it was seen that a deliberate attempt had been made to burn the church. Someone had poured oil on the floor and then set fire to the woodwork, soaking it thoroughly, and then had thrown a match on the oil, so that the blaze might be extinguished. It was at this time that the woman who had started for the church, and had run all the way, reached the room and was rapidly eating their way up the stairs to the gallery. There was a scattering among the worshipers. Water was hastily procured, and after a time the fire was extinguished.

This done, attention was given to the woman who stood in the church to the people. She had been recognized as Marion Mahon, a servant employed by Clifford Wharton, who lives in Cornelia street avenue. It was found that she had left the Wharton house shortly before 6 o'clock, taking with her a can of kerosene. Reaching the church she poured the oil around lavishly and lighted it. As soon as it began to burn she threw open the door and thrust in upon the startled congregation.

The woman, who is about thirty years old, was arrested. For some time she has been looked upon as being slightly demented, but no one thought that she was harmless. The damage to the church is not great.

This story appeared in the New York Tribune, and was duplicated in substance by many other papers. The members of the Crescent Avenue congregation are greatly incensed at its malicious fabrications, and propose sending a committee of the Tribune office to protest against such gross and willful misrepresentation.

Mr. Hanstaens, the accredited correspondent of the Tribune from this section, did not, like the local correspondents of other papers that have been similarly misled, are fully as indignant at the story as are the Crescent Avenue church people. Mr. Hanstaens promptly started in the skating steps to find out and expose the person responsible for the yarn.

ANNIVERSARY AND BANQUET.

Royal Arcanumites Feast on Good Things at Hotel Albion.

Nearly a hundred congenial spirits gathered about the long tables in the dining room of the Hotel Albion Friday night, and partook of the bountiful feast of good things provided by Councilor Miller for the members and guests of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum. It was the decennial celebration as well as the annual dinner of the council, and a number of grand officers were on hand to participate in the festivities. Among these were C. E. McDowell of Bloomfield, supreme regent; Oliver Ellis, of Elizabeth, past grand regent; R. H. Alberts of Hoboken, grand secretary; W. W. Baxter of Jersey City, grand guide; and S. J. Kellman of Jersey City, grand trustee. Others at the main table each side of regent Kleinecke were past regents Rand, Hoffman and Leonard.

The dinner was a sumptuous one, served in innumerable courses, and reflected great credit not only on the committee under the order, but on Mr. Miller, who had spared no pains to give his patrons all of the choicest delicacies of the season from the New York C. C. the Jersey City A. C., the Palma, the Plainfield Crescent League, the Manhattan, and other well-known clubs of New Jersey's vicinity. Starting the reception a match game was bowled on the new alleys by teams of the E. A. C. and the Palma. Fully 500 viewed the game. There are eight alleys, and the apparatus arranged like a grand stand. The Elizabeth club's members proved themselves royal hosts.

Dr. Charles F. Stillman was brought back to Plainfield Monday afternoon, from the Battle Creek Sanitarium, Battle Creek, Mich., suffering from hasty consumption. He arrived on the 2:32 train, accompanied by his brother, William M. Stillman, his brother-in-law, J. K. Myers, and a physician from the sanitarium. He was taken to the home of his mother, where he was greeted by his wife and child, and there he will call his friends. It is apparently in the last stages of the disease, and is rapidly passing away. A number of his old friends saw him at the station, and were deeply grieved to learn of his condition.

MRS. GARVEY BRINGS HIM UP.

And Judge Codrington Orders Mr. Garvey to Pay $2 a Week Towards His Child's Support.

Robert Garvey was arraigned before Judge Codrington in the city court Monday morning, charged by his wife with non-support. The judge released him upon his agreement to contribute $2 a week towards keeping his seven-months-old child. Mrs. Garvey, who earns $12 a month in the Cheshire carpet mills on South avenue, has the baby. Garvey's wages are $6 a week.

Mrs. Garvey was a Miss Maude Hadden, daughter of Solomon Hadden of this city. She is still a young and pretty woman, although she has buried one other husband —John Labbie, formerly a teacher on Somerset street. She married Garvey about two years ago, claiming that he betrayed her vows, she was an innocent and confiding young widow. He courted her, promised her the usual matrimonial bliss, and left her. Since then, as told above, he has been living in Newark and she here.

Cuts, burns and all other wounds, can be cured in a short time by the use of Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth. Let pain.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
Highest award of latter baking powder. Highest award of all in baking powder. United U. S. Government Food Report.
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

AT TARGETS AND PIGEONS.

Sharp Competition by Independent Gun Club Men.

Under the shadow of the Orange Mountains at Hyde's Woods, North Plainfield, the first regular tournament of the Independent Gun club took place yesterday. The weather was all that could be desired for a day's sport at the traps, and a large number of shooters took advantage of that fact, thus making the events lively in character. Eight events at blue-rock targets were shot from five expert traps in squads of six men at a time. A good supply of live birds was also on hand, and they were a fast-flying lot, much above the general average. The scores:

First Event, 20 Blue Rocks—Hart and Brantingham, 20 each; Manning, 8; Smith, 7.

Second Event, Same Conditions—Cooper, 16; Smith, Brantingham, and Rust, 9 each; Manning, 8.

Third Event, Same Conditions—Manning and Rust, 20 each; Brantingham and Mason, 9 each; Cooper, Hart and Smith, 8 each.

Fourth Event, Same Conditions—Brantingham, 18; Hart and Rust, 17 each; Mason and Smith, 6 each; Cooper and Smith, 7 each.

Fifth Event, 15 Blue Rocks—Brantingham and Mason, 15 each; Rust and Cooper, 14 each; Smith, 12; Trust, Manager, Pierson, Dougan and Archer, 11 each.

Sixth Event, 10 Targets—Soper, Rust and Hoey, 10 each; Brantingham, Smith, Mason, Trust, Manning and Rothaker, 9 each; Stryker, 7; Von Hartmann and Douglass, 6 each.

Seventh Event, Same Conditions—Smith, Soper and Rust, 10 each; Brantingham and Trust, 9 each; Hartmann and Pierson, 8 each; Cooper, Hoey, Manning and Mason, 7 each.

Eighth Event, 5 Live Birds; Entrance $5, 30 Entries—Rust, Trust, Soper and Hoey second divided first money, with 4 each; Hartmann, Smyt, Larry, Dan Mason, Rothaker and Adams, 3 each; Yoohi tied for second money; they shot this off in the next event, and Rust, Soper and Terry divided it; Smith, Force, Brantingham, Love, and Moore tied, with 2 each, and Cooper, Hoey, Manning and Von Hartmann, 1 each.

Ninth Event, same conditions—Tom Kay, W. Terry, Rust, Trust, Mason, Douglass, and Dan Terry divided first money, with 4 each; Smith, Love, Manning, Moore, and Soper divided second, with 3 each; Hartmann, Terry, Yoohi, Rothaker, and Hartmann each killed 2, and Force, Hoey and Cooper killed 1 each.

A nine-and-out sweep, with 15 entries at 25 each, closed the day's sport. Smith, Hartmann, Rust, Douglass, Rothaker and Brantingham shot all the others out, and after killing 6 each divided the stoney.

How the Organ of 13,000 Rascals Will Be Cared for in Judge Ulrich's Absence.

(From The New York Journalist.)

The fraternity has been honored in the selection of the Hon. John Ulrich, of Plainfield, editor and ex-assemblyman, by the national management of the Republican party, to take charge of the work of organization throughout the State. It is to have full charge of the New Jersey work during the coming presidential campaign, and will be a busy man in politics until after the election.

He will necessarily have to leave in the sandsof another his Royal Craftsman, the handsome and thrifty little organ of the order of the Masonic fraternity, and he has made to his brother Mason, James Alfred Demarest, managing editor of the Plainfield Daily Press, a most delightful and able take charge of the paper for the balance of the year. Mr. Demarest is already one of the busiest men in the profession, and Judge Ulrich hopes he prevailed upon him to add to his manifold duties this undertaking also. Through Judge Ulrich's press of legal and political duties the Royal Craftsman has of late suffered neglect. It needs just such a man of executive ability as Mr. Demarest to carry it to the front of the world of fraternity newspapers.

New Jersey Provision for Pensioners.

It may not be generally known, but it is nevertheless a fact, that Jersey is the only State supporting a bureau for the collection of her citizens' pensions. If pensioners were aware of its existence they would not swallow the bait and run away with the lines set by professional pension agents for such unfortunates. The State investigates every pension claim sent to it, and once a week an experienced man goes to Washington to place the latest cases in the proper Government channel. Notwithstanding the immense number of pensions secured by the bureau, cases continue to come in at the rate of twenty-five a week. Penniless claimants, notifying the governor of their lack of means, are called upon by an attache of the bureau; the case, if just, is made up and pressed to payment. Not a penny is charged by this department for the work of obtaining pensions. Fraudulent cases are promptly thrown out, and then fall back on public pension agents to do their work.

Salary Reasons, Sweet Perfumes, Sunny Skies.

FAMOUS REMORSE OF TEXAS, KENSINGTON, LARKSPUR OF CALIFORNIA.

Reduced round-trip tickets now on sale via IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE to the famous resorts of Texas, Mexico, Arizona and California. Stopovers and side trips will be allowed in the States of Arkansas and Texas. For tickets and further information, call on or address W. E. Hoxie, Gen'l P. A., 291 Broadway, New York.

PEACH trees for sale. 4,000 1 year old trees; best orchard varieties. J. M. Badgley, near Folsville, P. O. address Newark, N. J. 4-23-1m

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

TO THOMAS R. BISSETT—

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the 23d day of March A. D. 1892, on the application of the undersigned, Matilda M. Wood as complainant, against you and others as defendants, you are required to appear and answer the bill of complaint filed against you and others in the said Court of Chancery on the first Monday in May next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you. The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage made by Anna S. Miller and husband to Matilda M. Wood, dated March 1st, 1887, and recorded in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, in Book 222 of Mortgages for said County, page 57, &c., to hold a mortgage upon the land described in said bill.

ALEXANDER CUMMINS, Solicitor.
Solicitor of Complainant, 31 Stanley Street, Newark, N. J.
Dated April 6, 1892. 4-16-7t

SHERIFF'S SALE.—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Peter Schaefer, complainant, and John C. Van Doren, et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for foreclosure and sale.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed and delivered, I will expose for sale at public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, on WEDNESDAY, THE EIGHTEENTH DAY OF MAY, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that certain lot of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, and bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Beginning at a point in the northerly line of Leland avenue distant 100 feet westerly from the corner of Leland avenue and Dudley street, in a magnetic course north forty-seven degrees west from Second street to a magnetic course north forty-seven degrees west from Second street to a magnetic course north forty-seven degrees west from Second street to a magnetic course north forty-seven degrees west from Second street to a magnetic course north forty-seven degrees west from Second street to a magnetic course north forty-seven degrees west

SOCIETY'S BREAKS.

One of the Latest, in Proposing the Toast.

Unobtainable Women Have Their Counsels Evenly Either Cast in the Cut, Brown or Marble or Else Cut Glass.

A Shot at Them.

In this age of freaks and fads nothing is very surprising. A ratlipd departure from that to which all are accustomed, of course, draws attention for the time being, but the talk is short lived, and few days roll around before something is discussed by others of another innovation. What an endless amount of gossip the quiet Detroit New Prune was caused by the adoption of the decollete dresses not many years ago. How the caricaturists strove to outdo each other in their caricatures, and how the paragraphists labored to produce funnier jokes about the prevailing styles than their rivals. Yet this is all over, and today a high-necked dress is indeed rare at a grand ball. So with the jewelry, the young man and his knuckerbund, particularly. But they appear to have come to stay, and the ladies prefer these departures tire of them and look for something new.

These changes, or progress, as they are termed, are not alone confined to dress. All the arts must step up in their turn and keep with the head grace changes which would make the old masters seek oblivion in some convenient cave. Among these fashions which fade of this season are two which have given the photographer and designer in plaster of paris much to do. The one is to climb a lady with a pretty foot, which she could not display to a sufficient degree to satisfy the rage, owing to the social restrictions which compel both rich and poor to wear shoes, conceived the idea of having a perfect form and a likeness made in bronze. Like wildfire did the craze spread, and the parlor vaulted the civilized world. In some cities which never assume the initiative in such departments the embellishment of this charm was slower than in the metropolises of both worlds, but it came at last, and the sculptor, or whatever you may call the artistic plasterer, is reaping a harvest. Detroit belongs to this latter class, and the sculptor owners of its population have the malady badly.

The method was learned at a studio where the work is performed. Copy does the maiden acquaint the master with the object of her visit, and a time is set for the sitting. She then comes on the appointed day, and, releasing her foot from the prison of silk and leather which it has been from early childhood, stations on which the natives trampled in bygone years, she places it in the position to be done. Her ankle and her spinal column as the plaster is applied, and when the foot has been completely covered up to the ankle the cast is taken off and allowed to dry for a week. The soft, slightly moistened and the liquid plaster is poured in the mold, from which it is taken as soon as sufficiently hard to allow the final drying and smoothing off takes place. At the end of a week there is an exact counterpart of the foot in plaster of paris.

The work is difficult and the price for a plaster cast is three-five dollars. If the lady desires it in bronze the cost is sixty dollars; and if in marble one hundred and fifty dollars, which probably more if the sculptor's reputation is such as to warrant him in charging one person specially. All elementary education in the art.

The expense of the plaster and bronze casts makes it impossible for the lady to distribute these touching remembrances of herself, and some genius in feminine garb launched the idea of having the foot photographed. It has taken well in this mode, and it has been reported that ladies their feet taken."

One called to mind the earliest idea of what the foot looks like from the shoe except as to length, and in the days when the heels were worn under the instep you couldn't tell even that.

"It is not the foot which looks pretty in the shoe which is pretty, not by any means," said an artist. "Asa rule the women have the prettiest feet who wear the most comfortable shoes and their feet look larger and not nearly as shapely as they do when they wear tight shoes when on the street."

ALLIGATOR AND CAT FIGHT.

An Exciting Combat in Which Tabby Comes Off Victorious.

One of the most remarkable combats ever witnessed in Louisiana occurred on Holmes river, near Verner, Pla., lately. In the battle a cat and an alligator fought for three hours with the final result in favor of tabby.

A house on the bank of the river is pranched too near the water in its eagerness to get a fish, and was suddenly grasped in the huge log by an alligator about three feet long.

The cat made a spring and got away, but for the life of her could not bind freely. The taste of blood seemed to put the alligator in a frenzy, for it came out on the bank and made a rush for the parent.

The cat turned on its enemy and then began one of the fiercest fights seen in a long time. The cat was so quick that it was impossible for the alligator to get a bite at it, and the result was that the saurian was soon endeavoring to beat a retreat to the river.

But the cat now began an offensive attack and cut off the way, nipping the alligator on the head and neck and legs under the arms, until the reptile was bleeding and almost exhausted.

The contest lasted for several hours, and when at last the alligator gave up it was bleeding from over one hundred wounds. The cat was not injured in the least, except in the wounded leg, which was injured before the fight began.

SCHOOLBOOKS SIXTY YEARS AGO

How they Were Taught in Olden England and to Like French.

The schoolboy who was fortunate enough to be born in the pedagogical era of the thirties, had a lot to contend with which the happy youth of these later days knows nothing about. Subjects to rack, though perhaps learned, had no part in the curriculum of the period for the fine art as it is now understood, all differences of opinion between pupil and teacher being settled by the summary decision of the value of an equation was cut short by a flogging, and parents, who had themselves undergone the same at the same way, were inclined to judge of the excellence of the school by the vigor with which the birch was applied.

In those days we had geographies without proper maps, arithmetics and algebra of a most elementary character or indiction, and Lindley Murray's rules were exhibitions. For history we had a list of the kings of England and of France, and for our own country certain spirited rubbish, which had the effect of giving the youthful mind to understand that the United States consisted of the six states east of the Hudson river, and some outlying territory, while such important historical events were imparted to us as the "Deerfield Massacre," which cutus "The Landing of the Pilgrims," also with cuts, and the story of the Charter Oak.

These were memorable things in our history, and well to be informed about, but we have since thought that there were other matters about which boys ought to have been taught, and which had learned all about the pre-colonial geography of New England. In the same way we had to spell the names which we could not have any use except with Great Britain, and when the Serbian war occurred, in the days of our early adolescence, it was a surprise to youths who had always imagined we must fight men in red coats, instead of others in dark green.

These reflections were caused by reading an article of that title in the New England Magazine. The general idea being that one of the best schools of living men, but the writer thinks otherwise in spite of that. He says: "I had a deep dislike for the whole thing. I could talk and cast as our turkey gobbler exhibited to a red petticoat when he drove my sister into the house. When I was taught that the highest intellectual life was to get behind a close wall and study Latin and Greek, I, for the time being, thought I should go to the devil. So thoroughly was this drilled into me, that in after life it was a matter of reasoning on my part that I should treat an Englishman decently.

"The difference between the English and that which I had heard the Frenchmen, who fought us with the Indians, and who helped the savages to scalp us, was that the French had many fellows who did not know how to read and write, the French had helped us in the revolution against the British, so that we would forgive them, but the Britishers, never!"

When the writer of the above was stunned at the naval academy, a few years after the war of 1812, the midshipman was held in poor account by many of the townspeople, who, like most people, who do not know a war, are apt to remain most unreconcilable. When the place was seized by the northern troops, because secession in Washington was cut off by the regular route, the "one-horse" railroad was partially disabled by disengaging the connection of the locomotive, and it stated, he exercised the right of a general in a place held under martial law and summoned all able-bodied men to work on the intrenchments. The week was done—but no fooling was permitted, but a few years after the war was over it was impossible to find a man who would admit that he had worked at the intrench ments.—United Service.

Best Things.

The best law is the golden rule; the best philosophy, a contented mind; the best statesmanship, self-government; the best war, that against one's own weaknesses; the best medicine, cheerfulness and temperance in all things; the best music, the laughter of an innocent child; the best science, the study of ourselves and of God; the best art, painting a smile upon the face of childhood; the best geography, the life which writes charity in the largest letters, which loves wherever it looks; a ray of light into a gloomy heart; the best engineering, building a bridge of love over the waters of death; the best diplomacy, effecting a treaty of peace with one's own conscience; the best mathematics, bringing only the right and the true; the best navigation, steering clear of the rocks of personal contention; the best mathematics, that which doubles the most joys, subtracts the most sorrows, divides the gulf of misery, adds to the sum of human pleasure and cancels all selfishness.—Detroit Free Press.

A Suspicious Circumstance.

Bank Director—How are the cashier's accounts?

Bank President—Why do you ask?

"I heard yesterday that he had lately been vaccinated."

"Well, what of that?"

"I thought perhaps they had smallpox in Montreal just now."—Texas Siftings.

Mutually Tired.

Wife (indignantly, after reading paragraph)—I am pretty sick and tired of reading about his hats in the theaters.

Husband (mildly)—Not half so tired, my dear, as we men are of seeing them. —Texas Siftings.

DAKOTA'S AWFUL CLIMATE.

There Is Nothing Like It Anywhere on the Earth.

The Indians, it was asserted, went to Dakota because they thought that no white man would follow them to such a place. The winters were so cold, and the winters, the torrid heat of the summers, the well-nigh ceaseless wind, the tropical downpour of lightning and rain, the long drouths, the dust storms, must be experienced to be appreciated. Everything seems to be on the excessive scale in Dakota. The velocity of the wind when the mercury is standing at forty degrees below zero if one is out in it, will take the animal heat out of one in a few minutes. No amount of clothing can prevent intense suffering. One feels as if one had forgotten to put on a few pounds of the encountering that cruel wind naked. Perhaps the wind is the worst feature of the climate. When it is blowing on a cold night, people who live on the prairies frequently do not go to bed. They sit all night on a chair or lay on a red-hot stove. Even then the side that is turned from the stove is cold.

One day last winter, when there were 25 degrees below zero, and the wind was high, the thermometer in the city by the stove indicated 115 degrees above zero, and eight feet off the thermometer in the house stood at 50 degrees—a difference 65 degrees. It was necessary, on winter nights, to get up at least once to put wood in the stove, but in what was called bad weather this had to be done several times during the night. Many people sleep by an alligator about three feet long.

The cat made a spring and got away, but for the life of her could not bind freely. The taste of blood seemed to put the alligator in a frenzy, for it came out on the bank and made a rush for the parent.

The cat turned on its enemy and then began one of the fiercest fights seen in a long time. The cat was so quick that it was impossible for the alligator to get a bite at it, and the result was that the saurian was soon endeavoring to beat a retreat to the river.

But the cat now began an offensive attack and cut off the way, nipping the alligator on the head and neck and legs under the arms, until the reptile was bleeding and almost exhausted.

The contest lasted for several hours, and when at last the alligator gave up it was bleeding from over one hundred wounds. The cat was not injured in the least, except in the wounded leg, which was injured before the fight began.

SCHOOLBOOKS SIXTY YEARS AGO

How they Were Taught in Olden England and to Like French.

The schoolboy who was fortunate enough to be born in the pedagogical era of the thirties, had a lot to contend with which the happy youth of these later days knows nothing about. Subjects to rack, though perhaps learned, had no part in the curriculum of the period for the fine art as it is now understood, all differences of opinion between pupil and teacher being settled by the summary decision of the value of an equation was cut short by a flogging, and parents, who had themselves undergone the same at the same way, were inclined to judge of the excellence of the school by the vigor with which the birch was applied.

In those days we had geographies without proper maps, arithmetics and algebra of a most elementary character or indiction, and Lindley Murray's rules were exhibitions. For history we had a list of the kings of England and of France, and for our own country certain spirited rubbish, which had the effect of giving the youthful mind to understand that the United States consisted of the six states east of the Hudson river, and some outlying territory, while such important historical events were imparted to us as the "Deerfield Massacre," which cutus "The Landing of the Pilgrims," also with cuts, and the story of the Charter Oak.

These were memorable things in our history, and well to be informed about, but we have since thought that there were other matters about which boys ought to have been taught, and which had learned all about the pre-colonial geography of New England. In the same way we had to spell the names which we could not have any use except with Great Britain, and when the Serbian war occurred, in the days of our early adolescence, it was a surprise to youths who had always imagined we must fight men in red coats, instead of others in dark green.

These reflections were caused by reading an article of that title in the New England Magazine. The general idea being that one of the best schools of living men, but the writer thinks otherwise in spite of that. He says: "I had a deep dislike for the whole thing. I could talk and cast as our turkey gobbler exhibited to a red petticoat when he drove my sister into the house. When I was taught that the highest intellectual life was to get behind a close wall and study Latin and Greek, I, for the time being, thought I should go to the devil. So thoroughly was this drilled into me, that in after life it was a matter of reasoning on my part that I should treat an Englishman decently.

"The difference between the English and that which I had heard the Frenchmen, who fought us with the Indians, and who helped the savages to scalp us, was that the French had many fellows who did not know how to read and write, the French had helped us in the revolution against the British, so that we would forgive them, but the Britishers, never!"

When the writer of the above was stunned at the naval academy, a few years after the war of 1812, the midshipman was held in poor account by many of the townspeople, who, like most people, who do not know a war, are apt to remain most unreconcilable. When the place was seized by the northern troops, because secession in Washington was cut off by the regular route, the "one-horse" railroad was partially disabled by disengaging the connection of the locomotive, and it stated, he exercised the right of a general in a place held under martial law and summoned all able-bodied men to work on the intrenchments. The week was done—but no fooling was permitted, but a few years after the war was over it was impossible to find a man who would admit that he had worked at the intrench ments.—United Service.

Best Things.

The best law is the golden rule; the best philosophy, a contented mind; the best statesmanship, self-government; the best war, that against one's own weaknesses; the best medicine, cheerfulness and temperance in all things; the best music, the laughter of an innocent child; the best science, the study of ourselves and of God; the best art, painting a smile upon the face of childhood; the best geography, the life which writes charity in the largest letters, which loves wherever it looks; a ray of light into a gloomy heart; the best engineering, building a bridge of love over the waters of death; the best diplomacy, effecting a treaty of peace with one's own conscience; the best mathematics, bringing only the right and the true; the best navigation, steering clear of the rocks of personal contention; the best mathematics, that which doubles the most joys, subtracts the most sorrows, divides the gulf of misery, adds to the sum of human pleasure and cancels all selfishness.—Detroit Free Press.

Suspicious Circumstance.

Bank Director—How are the cashier's accounts?

Bank President—Why do you ask?

"I heard yesterday that he had lately been vaccinated."

"Well, what of that?"

"I thought perhaps they had small-pox in Montreal just now."—Texas Siftings.

Mutually Tired.

Wife (indignantly, after reading paragraph)—I am pretty sick and tired of reading about his hats in the theaters.

Husband (mildly)—Not half so tired, my dear, as we men are of seeing them. —Texas Siftings.

DAKOTA'S AWFUL CLIMATE.

There Is Nothing Like It Anywhere on the Earth.

The Indians, it was asserted, went to Dakota because they thought that no white man would follow them to such a place. The winters were so cold, and the winters, the torrid heat of the summers, the well-nigh ceaseless wind, the tropical downpour of lightning and rain, the long drouths, the dust storms, must be experienced to be appreciated. Everything seems to be on the excessive scale in Dakota. The velocity of the wind when the mercury is standing at forty degrees below zero if one is out in it, will take the animal heat out of one in a few minutes. No amount of clothing can prevent intense suffering. One feels as if one had forgotten to put on a few pounds of the encountering that cruel wind naked. Perhaps the wind is the worst feature of the climate. When it is blowing on a cold night, people who live on the prairies frequently do not go to bed. They sit all night on a chair or lay on a red-hot stove. Even then the side that is turned from the stove is cold.

One day last winter, when there were 25 degrees below zero, and the wind was high, the thermometer in the city by the stove indicated 115 degrees above zero, and eight feet off the thermometer in the house stood at 50 degrees—a difference 65 degrees. It was necessary, on winter nights, to get up at least once to put wood in the stove, but in what was called bad weather this had to be done several times during the night. Many people sleep by an alligator about three feet long.

Agriculture is the chief occupation of a cold night, people who live on the prairies frequently do not go to bed. They sit all night on a chair or lay on a red-hot stove. Even then the side that is turned from the stove is cold.

One day last winter, when there were 25 degrees below zero, and the wind was high, the thermometer in the city by the stove indicated 115 degrees above zero, and eight feet off the thermometer in the house stood at 50 degrees—a difference 65 degrees. It was necessary, on winter nights, to get up at least once to put wood in the stove, but in what was called bad weather this had to be done several times during the night. Many people sleep by an alligator about three feet long.

The cat made a spring and got away, but for the life of her could not bind freely. The taste of blood seemed to put the alligator in a frenzy, for it came out on the bank and made a rush for the parent.

The cat turned on its enemy and then began one of the fiercest fights seen in a long time. The cat was so quick that it was impossible for the alligator to get a bite at it, and the result was that the saurian was soon endeavoring to beat a retreat to the river.

But the cat now began an offensive attack and cut off the way, nipping the alligator on the head and neck and legs under the arms, until the reptile was bleeding and almost exhausted.

The contest lasted for several hours, and when at last the alligator gave up it was bleeding from over one hundred wounds. The cat was not injured in the least, except in the wounded leg, which was injured before the fight began.

SCHOOLBOOKS SIXTY YEARS AGO

How they Were Taught in Olden England and to Like French.

The schoolboy who was fortunate enough to be born in the pedagogical era of the thirties, had a lot to contend with which the happy youth of these later days knows nothing about. Subjects to rack, though perhaps learned, had no part in the curriculum of the period for the fine art as it is now understood, all differences of opinion between pupil and teacher being settled by the summary decision of the value of an equation was cut short by a flogging, and parents, who had themselves undergone the same at the same way, were inclined to judge of the excellence of the school by the vigor with which the birch was applied.

In those days we had geographies without proper maps, arithmetics and algebra of a most elementary character or indiction, and Lindley Murray's rules were exhibitions. For history we had a list of the kings of England and of France, and for our own country certain spirited rubbish, which had the effect of giving the youthful mind to understand that the United States consisted of the six states east of the Hudson river, and some outlying territory, while such important historical events were imparted to us as the "Deerfield Massacre," which cutus "The Landing of the Pilgrims," also with cuts, and the story of the Charter Oak.

These were memorable things in our history, and well to be informed about, but we have since thought that there were other matters about which boys ought to have been taught, and which had learned all about the pre-colonial geography of New England. In the same way we had to spell the names which we could not have any use except with Great Britain, and when the Serbian war occurred, in the days of our early adolescence, it was a surprise to youths who had always imagined we must fight men in red coats, instead of others in dark green.

These reflections were caused by reading an article of that title in the New England Magazine. The general idea being that one of the best schools of living men, but the writer thinks otherwise in spite of that. He says: "I had a deep dislike for the whole thing. I could talk and cast as our turkey gobbler exhibited to a red petticoat when he drove my sister into the house. When I was

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

SPEAKING CONNECTION WITH OVER 10,000 OFFICES AND RESIDENCES IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK, BROOKLYN, JERSEY CITY, HOBOKEN AND NEWARK.

Albion Hotel, Thos. ... Park av and 9th st
Amos, C. J. ... 19 Chestnut ave.
Anderson, Mrs. Wm. ... 1 Bellevue ave.
Anderson, Mrs. P. H. ... 20 West 7th avenue
Adams, Dr. D. ... 46 Grove st.
Adams, F. P. Mrs. ... 1 Bellevue ave.
Beckett, Isaac H. ... Bound Brook
Bell, Alexander ... Bell Telephone Co.
Barnes & Davis ... 38 North ave.
Bonnet, W. Co. M. B. ... Cor. Front & Central av.
Bonnell, J. ... Central R. R. Depot, Jersey City
Bergen, J. T. ... Park av and 32 st
Berg, Geo. F. M. D. ... 16 E 6th st
Board of Education ... 40, 4th and Washington sts
Bell, Alexander ... 66 Madison av
Bell, Alexander & Lidgerwood, Mfg. Co. ... 26 Park pl
Clark, S. B. ... 2 Haywood place
Children's Home ... Jackson ave.
Chamberlain, Mrs. ... 1 Bellevue ave.
Chamberlain Alice Online ... 3 North ave.
Cook, Dr. J. Bon. ... Park ave and 8th
Conrad, Dr. J. E. ... Madison av and W'ington sts
Cox, Rowland ... Sagaponack
Chapman, Mrs. E. ... 7 Park Place
Cruikshank, A. A. ... 19 Carlton avenue
Carman, J. P., M. D. ... 49 Somerset st
Cook, Dr. ... Park ave and 32 st
Central Pharmacy, G. E. Leggett, Mgr. ... Park ave and Front st
Daily Press, ... 9 North ave.
Depew, Mrs. H. ... 10 Crescent ave.
Dey, Frank ... Park ave and 32 st
Doyle, Dr. T. S. ... Cor 6th st. & Park av
Dey, Mrs. ... 1 Bellevue ave.
Demarest, P. B. ... 37 Park av
Demott, John R. ... 24 E 7th st
Dunham, Mrs. ... Westfield
Dolliell, James ... 22 E 6th st
Dolliell, Mrs. ... 22 E 6th st
Dolliver, S. L. ... 121 Madison av
Davis & Sorrens, coal and wood. ... Office W. Front
Eastwick, Geo. H. ... 1 Bellevue ave.
Elmira News, T. W. Harrison, Editor ... 7 Scott st.
Engine No 1 ... West 3d st.
Engine No 2 ... Park ave and 32 st
Engine No 3 ... Somerset st.
Engine No 4 ... Cor. Central av and Front st.
Fish, Chas. Jr. ... 30 West Seventh st.
Fleetwood, pay station ... Fleetwood station
Fisher, Mrs. ... Park ave and 32 st
Fitzgerald, M. ... Somerset st.
Fitzgerald, Mrs. ... Somerset st.
Fitzsimmons, Mrs. ... 19 Park ave.
Fleming, Howard ... 38 Park avenue
Flint, Pliny ... 4 W 7th st.
Fleming, Mrs. ... 38 Park avenue
Grant, Geo W, Chief of Police ... 36 W 6th st.
Godfrey, C. H. ... 17 Third Place.
Gilbert, Mrs. ... 1 Bellevue ave.
Gaston, M. D., W. F. ... 5th and Sec ave
Gaston, Mrs. ... Cor. Central av and 5th st
Howell & Hardy ... North Avenue
Hoffinger, ... 81 & 83 Somerset street.
Hall, Mrs. ... 107 Somerset st.
Hedges, Mrs. ... 16 Madison av
Hedges, Mrs. ... 16 Madison av
Hedges, Mrs. ... 16 Madison av

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXV. PLAINFIELD, N. J. THURSDAY, MAY 5, 1892. No 18.

"Support the Constitution, which is the consent of the Union, as well as the limitations as to its authorities."—Madison.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

JACKSON & GOODRICH,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Conveyancers, Notaries Public, Masters in Chancery, Solicitors in Bankruptcy, Commissioners of Deeds, Etc.
Office: Rooms 1 and 2, Second Floor, Front Building, Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 125, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES H. TREAT,
Dentist,
24 West Front street. A new local anesthetic applied to the gums before the teeth will insert, pain will be entirely prevented.

OSCAR S. TRALAU,
Architect,
241 Broadway, New York city, (corner 31 and 32, Importers' and Traders' Exchange Building.) Residence, Plainfield, N. J.

BUSINESS CARDS.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Also attending to the thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let, on easy terms by postal. P. O. Box 100 or left at Wilcox's Shoe Store, No. 1 Park Row, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention. Residence, 21 East 7 Second street, Plainfield.—1y1197

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Estimates furnished and contracts taken. Jobbing promptly attended to. 1y47

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
GEORGE—MACHONNACHIE & GILLIES, Principals.
Goods received on consignment.

WM. B. RANDOLPH,
(Successor to E. P. Maynard.)
PRACTICAL BARBER
AND
Artistic Hair Dresser,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., at Establishment.

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Backs for all kinds of Sure to can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware Mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best One-Sixers in the section. We mean what we say. Give us a trial order, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

Parlor Stoves,
Furnaces, Ranges,
Water Piping. Plumbing.
Heater Work. Tinning.
Hardware.
A. H. GRIFFEN,
18 East Front Street.
TELEPHONE CALL. 6.

Beautiful Assortment!
Furniture!
Largest Assortment!
'Best Goods!
Lowest Prices?
Ever Offered in Plainfield!
23, 25 and 27 PARK AVE.
Garret Q. Packer.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.
Having purchased the entire stock of the above business (including all contracts and accounts) we are now prepared to do all of the above branches of work in a first-class manner and guarantee satisfaction. Having had many years experience in the business we feel confident that we can please all who may favor us with their patronage. Shop in rear of 21 East Front street. Entrance on Somerset street.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 9 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

MISCELLANEOUS.

FOR MALARIA,
GENERAL DEBILITY
AND
ALL STOMACH TROUBLES
USE
COLES'
PERUVIAN BARK
AND
WILD CHERRY BITTERS
ARE THE BEST.
A Vegetable Substitute for Quinine.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per Bottle.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE
D. P. COLES DRUG AND MFG. CO
RAHWAY, N. J.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
SENT IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

C. E. & J. W. BROWN,
Importers, Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
WALL PAPER.
321 Canal Street,
NEW YORK.
English Tiles, Anaglypta, Hand, Leather Raised Flock Papers, &c. Borings for Walls.

CARNEY BROS., Ag'ts,
7 WEST FRONT ST.
Manufacturers of Window Shades.
TINNERS,
PLUMBERS,
GAS FITTERS.
PARLOR STOVES,
COOK STOVES,
HEATERS.
Grates and Backs for all kinds of Sure to can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your Tinware Mending to us. The best Tinners, the best Plumbers, and the best One-Sixers in the section. We mean what we say. Give us a trial order, and our work always gives satisfaction.
Keys of All Kinds are Made Here.
Tinware Made to Order.
Ranges, Brick and Portable Furnaces
SANITARY PLUMBING.

LIVERY.
A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables

Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Parties and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.
RIDING OR LIVERY.
Charges, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month or year.
TELEPHONE CALL, No. 26.

RICKERT'S
ACCOMMODATION EXPRESS.
OFFICE—Vanderbeek's Music Store, Park avenue. The "Accommodation Express" will attend to the personal carrying business of the city, delivering goods or baggage to and from the depot, or from place to place.
Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety.

INSURANCE.
WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
FIRE AND LIFE
INSURANCE AGENT,
Office cor. Front St. and Park Ave.,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale & Exchange.
MONEY TO LOAN
On Approved Security.

Fresh Garden Seeds
AND FERTILIZERS,
Farm and Garden Implements,
Lawn Mowers Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezer
Gasoline Stoves, Hardware, Tools, etc.
J. J. HEIDELOFF,
No. 12 SOMERSET ST. 3-15-tf

GEORGE A. MOORE,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established Market at
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of
Fresh and Salt Meats,
Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Game, Game in season, at the Lowest Prices.
Anything not usually kept in stock, furnished at short notice. 6tm 12

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE
Apply at
LEWIS B. CODDINGTON,
(Successor to T. J. Gillies.)
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE—No. 97 FRONT ST.
Large Covered Vans for Trucks. Goods delivered in any part of the U. S. Special attention given to moving Pianos, Furniture, &c. P. O. Box 1 Telephone No. 26.

EDUCATIONAL.

Miss SCRIBNER
AND
Miss NEWTON'S
SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
AND KINDERGARTEN,
27 LaGrande Avenue,
CORNER OF WASHINGTON STREET,
Will reopen THUR SEPT. 17, 1891.
The regular course will include Modelling, Drawing and Cooking.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises in the Rear Entrance.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMEST
—SEGARS!—
No. 32 PARK AVE., (NEAR CORNER) SECOND ST.
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials,
Of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, with the corporation seal, always kept on hand.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS,
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles. Has removed into his New Store, No. 41 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue, and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass,
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

L. B. WOOLSTON. J. F. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS SUPPLIES. 38 NORTH AVENUE.

WHATEVER form of printed matter you require we can be of service to you; whether it be

Letter Headings.
Circulars,
Pamphlets,
Prospectuses Mercantile Addressees,
Memorials,
By-Laws of Societies,
Prospectuses and Reports of Financial Associations, or any other matter for Public or Private Circulation.
Everything,

WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST
DAILY PRESS
(Chautauqua Building).
PLAINFIELD N. J

MINES OF MUMMIES.

Digging Up the Dead a Regular Industry in Peru.

A Rainless Region Where Flesh Dries Without Decomposition—Queer Finds Among the Ancient Tombs of Inhumed Aristocrats.

Just north of the Morro is a low line of verdure, modern built houses clustering in it, surrounded by a white barracoon church, and a long mole, the latter piled up with bags, bales and boxes, and covered with soldiers, merchants and cargadores. This is Arica, a port of considerable consequence, because being the outlet to Tacna and rich mines beyond, and the "key" to the still debatable territory. Notwithstanding its site, writes a correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, steamers must anchor away out in the bay, and passengers be rowed ashore in boats. However, they no longer have to be carried through the surf on the backs of men, as during the Peruvian regime.

Behind the town a great windrow of yellow sand sweeps back among the Morro, forming a kind of amphitheatre, surrollowed by tree or shrub or blade of grass. This valley, all the desert for miles beyond, is a rich, burial ground, which must once have been of great importance, for it is known that during the last hundred years the ocean has made considerable encroachment upon the shore, where workmen were digging up the sand to fill Arica's pier, and opening a track for the railroad to Tacna. The Tacna (the important city of the district, forty miles inland), they found mummies everywhere, but the richest deposits, men, wrapped in their nets, and lowly tillers of the soil in shrouds of braided rushes, but also mummies of the high chiefs and other personages of consequence, enveloped in fine cloth and thick layers of beaten gold. These discoveries of a bygone age fared worse than their brother plunder, for while the latter were left comparatively undisturbed, los Ricos, now grim and ghastly as the corpses, were stripped of their gold beads and their crumbling bones tossed, scattered, by the wayside. Our party went scouring through the wasteful, striking straight across the desert to a point about five miles south of Arica. We were encouraged to do this by Pedro (laborers) and a suitable escort; for it is considered unsafe for strangers to go into unsettled parts. Highwaymen are abroad in the land and the pecons might be tempted to make new mummies if anything of value was unearthed. However, popple bent on such bloodcurdling errands as disturbing the dead are not likely to hunt down, the naturally prefer company to keep their spirits up.

Dig anywhere and you cannot go amiss of a grave. The spades of other huaqueros (mummy hunters) have scratched the desert here and there, but the bulk of it is entirely undisturbed except by ages of winds that whirl the sand in crescent-shaped mounds; and doubtless it will remain so until, in the lapse of ages, the slowly-accruing Pacific shall swallow it all. Nothing can decay protected by the magnetic dust of this rainless region, and the contents of the tombs look as if they were put there yesterday. There is no consuming worm or insect. Flesh dries without decomposition; wood and vegetable matter petrify from the absence of moisture, while fabrics and articles in stone and clay "keep" forever.

Our workmen dug in several different places to the depth of five or six feet, "ahi hemos" on a small scale—and soon tripped up their shovels with dusty wrappings intact. The most curious things we found that day were not the rings of fine gold or the silver ornaments, only fingers, nor clay water-jars moulded in quaint designs, nor bone spindles, with thread still on them, but the fine weaver laid down his work some centuries ago, but the petrified eyeballs, which a scarf of gauze had been deftly slid seldom inserted in the face of the mummy, but fallen out among the wrappings, as if the embalmer had become comprehend how these eyes were preserved; the commonly accepted theory is that they were part of the mixed organs of human beings, but those of cattlefish, with which the more perishable optics of the subjects to be mummified were replaced. But they are not less curious, and are really beautiful things —flat on one side, round and smooth on the other, amber-like yellow in color, holding light as an opal, and varying in size from the tip of your smallest finger to the end of a man's thumb. They are eagerly sought for by the curious of glass, sleeve-buttons, etc., and are durable as most jewels.

The early Peruvians preserved their dead something after the manner of the Egyptians, except that the mummies of Peru are always in a sitting posture, with knees drawn up to the chin and hands clasped in front of the knees. The head and all is first enveloped in dyed cotton cloth, bound with ropes of braided flaxen wool (similar to the ropes made to-day by Indians) the whole of the whole uncanny bundle inclosed within another netting of ropes, or a basket-like case of braided rushes. Between the cloth and the hair, always long, black and glossy, will be found closely matted, perhaps pearl or silver earrings in the ears, and a necklace of the same beads or a sharp ornament breast. The features are well preserved, even to their expression, which is usually one of pain and agony—confirming the assertion of historians that those about to die were placed by the Incas in the position in what was considered the correct position for a mummy, and firmly bound with ropes, which have held only the body and death stiffened the muscles.

Medical Training in India.

The medical training of the native young women of India is extending with great rapidity under the encouragement of the Countess of Dufferin. Recently, in Bombay alone sixty-five native girls have been admitted to the medical class, within the last six years, and several of them are qualified practitioners.

NATURE AS AN INVENTOR.

Fresh Hay Has One Kind of the Electric Fluid—Interesting Experiments.

Most of the skillful devices invented by men for doing fine work rapidly can be found, sooner or later, somewhere near ages they have been operating, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. The discovery of the value of the appliances of mechanics might be shown that his idea was as old as the hills. It is suggested that a study of nature's methods will be those who resolutely study the natural world. The stones of the mills are another type of this truth, which grind all the grist that mill men shall bring.

The bodies of birds are made of parallel planes like carriage springs. The front tip of human hand with the thumb with and by cubbist makers. The jaws of the tortoise turtle are natural pincers, and the mouth of the catfish is in his mouth and the hippopotamus is provided with sieves which strain the water from the food they have taken.

The screw-propeller is found in the jaws of the fish. The woodpecker has a chisel for his beak.

The diving bell imitates the water ouzel which builds a nest under water, under the water, drags a bubble of air between its hinges and dives down to its nest, discharging the water gradually until its place is filled with air. The fish has a bladder filled with air, which it can contract or expand at will, and thus rise or sink in the water. The gannet dives like an arrow into the water, and pierces those fish the shape of a knife.

The sword fish has a sword, and the saw fish a saw, with which they attack their enemies. The electric eel has a battery with which he can kill his prey at a distance. The flying fish has wings, and the nautilus has a sail with which he navigates the ocean.

The cuttle fish has a bag of ink, which he squirts out when pursued, and thus darkens the water around him, and escapes under cover of the obscurity.

The chameleon has the power of changing the color of his skin to suit his surroundings, and thus escapes detection by his enemies.

The ostrich has a stomach which digests iron, and thus can swallow any sort of missile with impunity.

The flying squirrel has membranes between his fore and hind legs, with which he can make long flights from tree to tree.

The bat has membranes between his fingers, with which he flies, and a sonar apparatus, with which he avoids obstacles in the dark.

The porcupine has quills, with which he defends himself from his enemies.

The mole has a shovel nose, with which he digs his way through the earth.

The rabbit has a split lip, which enables him to nibble grass close to the ground.

The elephant has a trunk, with which he can pick up a pea or a tree.

The camel has a hump filled with fat, on which he can live when he cannot get food.

The giraffe has a long neck, with which he can reach the leaves of trees.

The hedgehog has spines, with which he defends himself from his enemies.

The rhinoceros has a horn, with which he defends himself from his enemies.

The boa constrictor has a body which can crush his prey to death.

The anaconda has a mouth which can swallow a horse.

The shark has a set of teeth which can bite off a man's leg.

The alligator has a tail which can break a man's back.

The lobster has claws with which he can crush his enemies.

The spider has a web with which he can entangle his prey.

The ant has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The bee has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The wasp has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The hornet has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The scorpion has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The centipede has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The tarantula has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The black widow has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The brown recluse has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The hobo has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The yellow jacket has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The hornet has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The wasp has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The bee has a sting with which he can kill his enemies.

The ant

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORGE, A. L. FORGE
Editors and Proprietors.

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held in the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, the 21st day of June, 1892, as the time, and chooses the City of Chicago as the place for holding the national Democratic convention. Each State is entitled to a representation in branch equal to double the number of the representation to which it is entitled in the next electoral college, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and efficient national government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

CALVIN S. BRICE, Chairman.
SIMON P. SHERRIS, Secretary.

Democratic State Convention.

The Democratic voters of New Jersey are requested to meet at such times and places as may be designated by their local committees, to elect delegates to a State Convention, to be held at Taylor Opera House, in the city of Trenton, on WEDNESDAY, MAY 25, 1892, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of selecting four delegates and alternates District delegates to the Democratic National Convention, to be held in the city of Chicago on the 21st day of June, 1892, to nominate candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States.

The basis of representation will be one delegate for each two hundred Democratic votes cast at the Gubernatorial election of 1889, and one for each fraction of the same over one hundred; but each ward and township shall be entitled to at least one delegate.

ALLAN L. McDERMOTT,
Chairman Democratic State Committee.
WILLARD C. FISHER, Secretary.
Democratic papers please copy.

PERILS OF THE REPUBLIC.

It is a fallacy to think that Republics, even one so well founded as that of the United States, are proof against danger and destruction.

The support of a Monarchy is physical force, the safeguard of a Republic abides in moral principles unflinchingly maintained.

As a Republic we are surrounded by many perils, not intelligible, but insidious and therefore of greater dread.

Among the most malignant enemies of popular freedom in this country is the corrupt political use of money.

The power of election and appointment of men to high official and legislative positions solely because of their ability and inclination to raise and use money for the purpose of polluting ballot boxes, is the enormous crime against representative government and the liberties of the people.

The man who acquires wealth legitimately is worthy of confidence and respect, but if in reality an honest and honorable man, he would rather lose his right arm than for himself or party, either directly or indirectly, bribe a single voter.

We have no controversy with monied men of that stamp. It is the opposite kind we condemn.

If dollars are to be the controlling factor in deciding the name of Republic will become a sham.

To prevent such dire result every patriotic voter ought to register a vow.

The Newark Journal notices the fact that, by the failure of the Republicans of Sussex county to nominate a candidate for the assembly last fall, leaving the contest to the Democrats and Prohibitionists, they now are not recognized as a party under the election law. Their candidates this year, instead of being nominated by convention will have to be nominated by petition.

Senator McPherson has introduced an amendment to be proposed to the Springer wool bill, providing that all sugars, syrups, etc., shall be admitted free. Also, an amendment to be proposed to the River and Harbor bill, providing for the survey of a channel west of Robbins Reef Lighthouse, to connect the mouth of Arthur Kill with New York harbor.

The question of female suffrage is having a boom by the introduction in the House of a bill giving every woman in the country who is 21 years of age the right to vote for Representatives in Congress. The Congressman who does not vote for that bill might as well make up his mind to retire at the end of his present term.

The State Committee has named the 25th of May as the date of the Convention to select delegates to the Chicago Convention, and there is every prospect that there will be no serious opposition to the proposal of a delegation that will give to Mr. Cleveland an honest if not a warm affirmative support.

The Right Way to Fish.

While on a fishing expedition recently Eugene Field, the tuneful manipulator of "Sharps and Flats", in the Chicago News, took several columns to describe his new style of fishing practised by the rest of his party. They kept moving around in search of "better places" not remaining long enough in one place to give a fish a chance at their hooks, while the leisurely Mr. Field kept his bait moist and captured the string. In the meantime, with the genial and polished soul philosophizes upon this common failing of fishermen:

"Life is full of this spirit of impatience and unrest, and that is why there are so few fish caught. As for us, it contents us to push out from shore, drop the anchor and cast our line—no worry, no fretting, no labor—only quiet waiting for the bite and success. What sweeter thing is there to be practiced or imagined than this sport as we pursue it? We lie in the bottom of the boat, our head pillowed upon a cushion at the bow; a green umbrella forefends the ardor of the sun, and with a companionable book the hours are beguiled. The humble but serviceable bob apprises us when it is time for landing. Oh, this is fishing that is indeed fishing! Why toil hither and thither over the ruffled expanse when fruition comes easier with repose? The vacant mind can row and sweat, but only a genius as philosophize and catch fish."

A New Form of the Four-Leaf Clover.

Some forgotten poet has sung:

"April's soft, subduing showers
Leave the world all freshness."

Among the brightest flowers that will bloom this, in these parts this May will be the new form which the Four-Leaf Clover is to produce in a few weeks. If you like to laugh, you want to take it in.

I suffered severely from rheumatism during winter. After using Salvation Oil two days I was entirely relieved, and now I am a well man. H. Kantz, Baltimore, Md.

McPHERSON FOR PRESIDENT.

His Name Is Now Second Only to That of Cleveland in the United States—He Is a Power in the United States Senate—Democrats Should Rally to the Great Man of All Parties, and of Peculiar Value to This Section Now.

The N. Y. World of Saturday printed the following—which however, is only one of many of the same kind that are sweeping steadily into the public mind in this vicinity:

To the Editor of The World:

At once vote voted for Polk and Dalton I would like to see the name of Senator McPherson in your journal to-day of the nomination of John S. McPherson for the Presidency. He is a Democrat, a statesman, a thorough Democrat, can carry all the doubtful States and has never been beaten in any canvass he has ever been before. JOHN H. GRAHAM.

New York, April 28.

The same day the New Jersey Democratic State committee met in Taylor's Hotel, Jersey City. The chairman, Allan L. McDermott, presided. It was decided that the convention to elect delegates to the National convention should be held in the Taylor Opera house, Trenton, on May 25. The Democratic party of this State by a large majority favors the nomination of Senator McPherson be one of the delegates chosen at that time.

A Washington correspondent writes that McPherson's Chickasaw slate has started out to "boom" New Jersey's belated senior senator for the presidency. It is one, as yet, of small dimensions, but like Topsy it is going to grow. The initial promises of the congressman are that if neither Cleveland nor Hill can assure success in New York, and political conditions the nomination of an Eastern man, the most promising individual can be found in the person of senator McPherson. No one could be more acceptable to the Democracy. It is one, as yet, of small dimensions, but, like Topsy, it is going to grow. The initial promises of the congressman are that if neither Cleveland nor Hill can assure success in New York, and political conditions the nomination of an Eastern man, the most promising individual can be found in the person of senator McPherson. No one could be more acceptable to the Democracy. It is true, as yet, of small dimensions, but McPherson is popular with all classes of Democrats, and Mr. Cadmus claims that he would not only sweep New Jersey, but also New York. Of course, the senator himself is a Cleveland man, and is not seeking the nomination himself—he told a representative of THE PRESS, a few days ago, that so-pointed Cleveland would be nominated by acclamation—but many prominent Democrats in Washington believe him to be "more available" than any other Democratic statesman named, outside of New York, not even excepting Arthur P. Gorman.

"In the Senate he has come to be a power, being honored by his Democratic associates with a place on two of the most important committees—Finance and Public Lands—and, besides, holding one of the few chairmanships awarded to the minority of that body. No one, of course, puts senator McPherson forward as a candidate, but it can be said that he stands well up head with that class of senators known for business wisdom and practical sagacity, and whose views, therefore, are likely to weigh much respect on both sides of the chamber, and whose pronouncements carry prevail in legislation.

Such men possess a peculiar value in this modern age, when mere oratory, it can be affirmed, is at a discount."

He is always looking after the interests of the particular of the men who have the country we live in. At the instance of Senator McPherson, the other day, the Senate committee on Military Affairs recommended the passage of a resolution directing the Secretary of War to revoke and set aside the special orders of the department, dated march 30, 1863, discharging from his service, for absence without leave, Henry Lane, late first lieutenant Company F, Thirteenth New Jersey, because he was then on duty in the field, and to grant him an honorable discharge. This dismissal was one of the many unjust administrative acts of the war, and the committee says it should be corrected.

The Senator has also asked the committee to report a bill allowing the legal representatives of the late Captain Henry V. Bonford to enter suit in the Court of Claims for any balance that may be due to him from the Government.

ROBBERS IN THE BOROUGH.

They Get Away with Silver-Ware from Mr. VanDerveer's Residence, and Found in Mr. Alexander's Cellar.

Burglars entered the home of Augustus VanDerveer at the corner of Wilson and Washington avenues Monday night and stole a quantity of clothing and silverware.

They seem to have been experts at the business, for they skillfully rejected all plated ware and took only the solid. They also left the most of the latter, for about this morning Mr. VanDerveer had to come to town bareheaded to buy a head covering.

Entrance was effected through a window. Mr. VanDeventer offers a reward of $50 for the detection of the thieves, who left no clue behind. Mr. VanDeventer especially requests that the account of the loss of the silver service that had so long been an heirloom in his family. During the night the thieves entered the cellar of J. A. Alexander's residence on Mercer avenue, and regaled themselves heartily on refreshments.

CHEAPER ICE FOR PLAINFIELD.

An Ice Combine to be Formed, and Lower Rates Promised.

On excellent authority THE PRESS is informed that an ice combine is to be organized in Plainfield, in which J. W. & H. Coddington, John Morton and Andrew Wilson will be the principal factors.

These men will incorporate what will probably be known as the City Ice company. They will buy the large ice-house recently erected by Mr. Brady at Grant avenue, and will fill it full each winter with Lake Hopatcong ice. The capacity of the ice-house is 60,000 tons, and now holds 36,000 tons.

The combine promises to supply ice to Plainfield consumers at a much lower rate than they have ever experienced. They have the exclusive privilege to market the Lake Hopatcong ice in this section.

They will harvest Hopatcong ice extensively, and will not bother with the small local ponds any more.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE KRANKS.

Hofford Will Captain the Crescents, and Now the Peasant Is Sure.

THE PRESS has positive assurance, from private sources, that the redoubtable "Chink" Hofford will catch for the Crescents this season and captain the team. All arrangements will be complete by to-morrow, and Hofford will be in his legal work with the Crescents in the game against the Staten Islanders.

This will be great news for manager Keller and the admirers of the Crescents, who will probably receive official verification of this statement to-night.

Mr. Keller has all along been trying for Hofford, but such a star player was not easy to secure.

Jim Hofford's record is familiar to all lovers of base-ball, and it is needless to say that the news of the favorite's coming to Plainfield will be received with enthusiasm.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

THE CLOSING MELOPOIA.

The Last Night and Matinee Musicale Held in Plainfield by Dr. Chamberlain's Society.

The closing concert of the Melopoia, last evening, was fully as enjoyable as its predecessors. The outside wave of the heat, the chorus was as large as possible, and produced its usual effect, and set off by a mass of blooming plants tastefully arranged. Throughout the audience there was more than a sprinkling of evening dress, and there was the same feeling of good fellowship and non-critical spirit which always seems to pervade that atmosphere. The programme was as published in last evening's issue. The floral decorations were a special feature of adornating. They were the work of W. H. Flortstead.

The honors of the evening appeared to be divided between Miss Reid and Miss Von Stosch. It is long since America has been favored with a singer with so sterling adverse criticism less than Miss Reid. Her voice is full and pure, being peculiarly rich in the medium and lower register, while her style and method are almost faultless. The artistic finish with which she sang the aria from Traviata was truly delightful. One had a feeling of disappointment in hearing that Tosti's "Good-bye" was to be substituted for the Waltz from Romeo and Juliet, as that originally beautiful song had been rendered in so many styles that it had apparently died a natural death, but one felt last evening that one had never appreciated it in its merits before. The ballads she gave as encores were charmingly rendered.

Miss Von Stosch proved herself a born artist. She played with sweetness and breadth of tone, and brought from the instrument a wealth of expression of which one hardly thought it capable. She received a rose for her solos, it being especially demonstrative in the latter instance.

Mr. Rieger sang in his usual good style, but owing on the programme immediately after the newer star, he was received with little enthusiasm. His second solo fell very flat.

The audience did very fair work, though there was not much depending upon it. The opening selection was sung with vigor and in good time generally. There were incidental solos by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knight and Fred. Walz. In the Boatman's Good-night, the syncopated passages were well rendered. The organization was not always perfect, but those faults occurred in passages where almost impossible intervals made them excusable. The bridal chorus from the Maiden, with the violin obligato, was especially pleasing, and received a deserved encore. "Tell me, Flora" was in perfect correction, also enjoyable. The Easter hymn and Sanctus were not noteworthy.

The one who receives least notice, but who often makes or breaks the effect is the accompanist. Mr. Levy amounts to perfection in that line. It was a pleasure to attend to accompany for the late Miss Maiden, with the violin obligato, was especially pleasing, and received a deserved encore. "Tell me, Flora" was in perfect correction, also enjoyable. The Easter hymn and Sanctus were not noteworthy.

The one who receives least notice, but who often makes or breaks the effect is the accompanist. Mr. Levy amounts to perfection in that line. It was a pleasure to attend to accompany for the late Miss Maiden, with the violin obligato

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF ESSEX.

J. A. DEMAREST - - City Editor.

—Nicholas Myers is now a special policeman.

—School montays amounting to $722.74 were collected in April.

—A new crosswalk is to be laid at Madison avenue and Fifth street.

—The street gutter line along the Washington street park is to be curbed.

—The fire department is to have 1,500 feet of new hose, at a cost of 70 cents a foot.

—The date of Mr. Venino's piano recital is now announced for Thursday, May 19.

—That unsightly hollow in the roadbed at Sixth street and Arlington avenue is to be filled in.

—H. H. Baker wants the job of removing the city on the block system. He will do it for $25.

—The date for the fourth team contest of the New Jersey Trap Shooters' league has been set down for May 14, on the grounds of the Rolling Springs Gun club, at Rutherford, N. J.

—There will be no recount of the votes in Hillsborough township, and the Democrat board of freeholders will be elected in May by the Republican majority, the courts having put an end to the contest.

—The next regular examination for first and second grade teachers' certificates will be held at Wechsler on Friday and Saturday, May 6 and 7. Examination for first grade branches on Saturday; all other branches on Friday.

—That genial Boniface, W. J. Lowe, the new proprietor of the Scotch Plains hotel formerly owned by Mr. Britton, will give a public opening May 9, to which all the people of Plainfield and vicinity will be cordially welcome. Mr. Lowe will make his hotel a first-class resort, and those out driving or bicycling will find it an excellent place to stop at any hour for refreshments.

—J. Evarts Tracy has presented to the public library a copy of "Knapp's Photographica of the World." This work contains photographic views of cities, public buildings, scenery, etc., from all parts of the globe; also photographs of famous paintings and pieces of statuary in the 20 finest galleries of the world. This work will be a reference work only, to be seen on application to the librarian.

FIREMEN'S ELECTIONS.

Foremen and Other Officers Chosen by Each Company.

The fire department elections of Plainfield and the hotbeach took place Monday night. The officers elected were as follows:

GARDELLE ENGINE CO., NO. 1.

Foreman—Charles Johnson.
1st Assistant—William T. Newman.
2nd Assistant—Charles Graves.
Secretary—Theodore A. Rodell.
Assistant—David Dunavan.
Treasurer—Vincent L. Frazee.
Financial Secretary—Wm. H. Gilman.
Engineer—William B. Grannett.
1st Assistant—John Gilbert.
2nd Assistant—Wm. Dunavan.
1st Assistant—David Bell.
Representative to Relief Association—Joseph A. Hubbard, Lorenzo J. Spicer.

PLAINFIELD ENGINE CO., NO. 2.

Foreman—Thomas Moore.
1st Assistant—Patrick McCourt.
2nd Assistant—Harry Conner.
Secretary—Adolph Kahrmann.
Assistant—Chas. W. Smith.
Treasurer—Fred. Rinaldi.
Engineer—Frank Schuck.
1st Assistant—Chas. Smith.
2nd Assistant—Jos. J. Newman.
Assistant—Wm. Hoffman.
Representative to Relief Association—B. B. Rogers, C. W. Smith.

DEPOT HOOK & LADDER CO. NO. 1.

Foreman—E. L. Force.
1st Assistant—George Ball.
2nd Assistant—George Moll, jr.
Financial Secretary—Samuel C. Blimm.
Financial Secretary—Samuel L. Miller.
Treasurer—Wm. Hoffman.
Auditing Committee—Ed. Wolf, F. B. Hue, M. Seuler.
Representatives to Relief Association—Jacob Blimm, C. McGinley.

ALERT HOSE COMPANY.

Foreman—J. L. Moore.
1st Assistant—C. C. Burnet.
2nd Assistant—C. H. Rogers.
Secretary—H. M. Demarest.
Treasurer—E. F. Murray.
Engineer—E. E. Force.
Representative to Relief Association—J. E. Turrill, S. F. Kimball.

WARREN ENGINE CO., NO. 1.

Foreman—G. H. Fairchild.
1st Assistant—C. H. Bond.
2nd Assistant—D. Bodine.
Secretary—J. D. Anderson.
Treasurer—D. C. Allen.
Engineer—E. Kolbacher.
1st Assistant—W. T. Newman.
2nd Assistant—D. C. Allen.
Steward—G. W. Vanderbeek.
Representative to Relief Association—W. T. Newman.

OBITUARY.

F. F. Knauft.

Frederick Ferdinand Knauft, who died at his home, 322 West Fourteenth street, last Thursday, was an octogenarian. For many years he lived in Newark city. He was born near Hamburg, Germany, in 1810, and came to America in 1839. He was at one time a leather dresser in "Swamp". After 1867 he was engaged in business for himself. Mr. Knauft was twice married, his last wife being a sister of Miss Mary Ann Bliss. She is still living, and so are their nine children, two boys and seven girls. Ernest Knauft, the youngest son, who until recently was a well-known resident of Plainfield, is an artist and is the Director of Fine Arts for the Chautauqua society. The funeral took place this forenoon from the residence.

Miss Keagon, President.

At the annual meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club, held Monday, the following officers were elected for the ensuing club year:

President—Miss E. E. Keagon.
First Vice-president—Mrs. Dwight B. Opdyke.
Second Vice-president—Miss A. Newton.
Third Vice-president—Mrs. Charles D. Wakeman.
Treasurer—Mrs. J. F. Harmon.
Corresponding Secretary—Miss J. K. Myers.
Recording Secretary—Charlotte E. Clarke.

Preventive Better Than Cure.

Many persons are afflicted with sick headache, bad or bilious. BRANDRETH'S PILLS taken freely will in a short time effect a complete cure of all such troubles. Users of long standing have been cured by them. Unbounded praise bestowed on their inefficacy by them. The worst fever sores, boil sores, and the like have been driven from the skin by them. Only begin in time and a few of BRANDRETH'S PILLS will prevent such a disease.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless and safe to take at any time.

The City's New Re-Numbering.

The street committee of the common council have been authorized to draw up a new city map, properly numbered according to the new block system, and in accordance with that map the necessary re-numbering ordinance will be drawn.

A Pretty Home, 707 North Richmond Street.

The residents of North Richmond street are desirous of changing the name of that thoroughfare to Norwood avenue. The matter was presented to the councilmanic committee at present.

PERSONALIA.

Herbert Case was given on a business trip in the west.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lister have returned from their wedding trip.

W. T. Kenyon arrived from Liverpool Wednesday, on the steamship St. Louis.

Alfred Compton, son of Halsted Compton, is about to take a western trip, to be gone a year.

Dr. James Allen Wilson, of Glasgow Scotland, has returned home after a week's visit with his aunt, Mrs. John Wilson.

Dr. Charles H. Sullivan died at the home of his brother-in-law, J. E. Myers, Saturday evening at 5:45. The funeral was private.

The Park Club will give an informal dance each Thursday evening in May. Members will be permitted to bring two guests apiece.

A pleasant surprise party was given to Miss Nellie Cleves of Arlington avenue by a merry throng of Hasbrou and Plainfield friends Friday evening.

James L. Anthony has recently purchased of J. H. Pullen, the latter's handsome residence corner of Putnam and Kensington avenue.

Mayor Alexander Gilbert will address the members of the educational department of the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday, May 15, on the grounds of the Rolling Springs Gun club, at Rutherford, N. J.

—There will be no recount of the votes in Hillsborough township, and the Democrat board of freeholders will be elected in May by the Republican majority, the courts having put an end to the contest.

—The next regular examination for first and second grade teachers' certificates will be held at Wechsler on Friday and Saturday, May 6 and 7. Examination for first grade branches on Saturday; all other branches on Friday.

—That genial Boniface, W. J. Lowe, the new proprietor of the Scotch Plains hotel formerly owned by Mr. Britton, will give a public opening May 9, to which all the people of Plainfield and vicinity will be cordially welcome. Mr. Lowe will make his hotel a first-class resort, and those out driving or bicycling will find it an excellent place to stop at any hour for refreshments.

—J. Evarts Tracy has presented to the public library a copy of "Knapp's Photographica of the World". This work contains photographic views of cities, public buildings, scenery, etc., from all parts of the globe; also photographs of famous paintings and pieces of statuary in the 20 finest galleries of the world. This work will be a reference work only, to be seen on application to the librarian.

THE MATERIAL'S HERE.

WORK ON PLAINFIELD'S STREET RAILWAY TO BEGIN AT ONCE.

Cars Will Probably be Running by July—All Contracts Practice for Work and Material. Given to Plainfielders—The Construction to be the Best and the Rolling Stock the Finest—A Model Road to be Built and Kept so—The Cultured and Artistic Women of the City Invited to Visit the Cars—Everything Promises to be Colored and Decorated.

(From The Press of April 30)

The appeal "Oh, for a street railway", that THE PRESS has echoed for the people day after day, and month after month, is at last to be answered. All alone, against the reprehensible opposition of both the other papers combined; all alone, against the culpable tactics of obstruction adopted by the selfish and the strikers; all alone, against the manipulations of the cleyer lawyers retained by the Republican powers of Elizabeth and Plainfield; all alone has THE PRESS stood up and talked back, and kept at it for the people's sake, until even the council of '92 that was once in sentiment arrayed against a trolley road in Plainfield, is now convinced that it's a mighty good thing to have and that it can't come too quick.

And Plainfield is to have the finest road in the land. President Novins and Secretary Elker propose to build a model piece of road in this city—a model in every way. And they propose to keep it so. No expense is to be spared. And such Plainfield people as can do any of the work or furnish any of the material, have been given the chance.

Consequently L. W. Serrell, jr., son of ex-chancellor Serrell, has been given the contract for the overhead construction. He had to secure THE PRESS that his orders are to build the best he knows how. Mr. Serrell is the brilliant young electrical expert, constructing engineer and inventor who was appointed by the Daft company to succeed Leo Daft in their new organization. He has had a great deal of the Meadow-closed electric work in the United States.

The contract for the trolley poles has been given to the Milliken Bros., of New York, sons of Samuel H. Milliken of Central avenue. It is rumored that the price paid is much above what poles are selling for to-day, but it is a pole beyond comparison and Messrs. Milliken & Riker propose to have it for that reason and because two of Plainfield's good citizens and taxpayers will reap the profit. The idea also are to be furnished by a dealer of this city, A. D. Thompson, and if there is anything else necessary in the construction or maintenance of the road that can be bought here, the Plainfield Street Railway company will be found a ready purchaser.

As to rails, although the specifications of their contract with the city calls for a 55-pound rail—which is even heavier and better than most other cities are favored with—Messrs. Novins & Elker have decided to lay the Plainfield road with a 70-pound rail which will make such a substantial track that the heaviest of trains could run over it all day long and still it would keep its perfect level, compact joints and fine condition. This costs more money, but the comfort and gratification of the people will be accomplished by the smoothness of the track and the easy riding of the cars, which is all the company is after for.

A reporter of THE PRESS had the good fortune to meet, the other day, the vice-president of the J. G. Brill company of Philadelphia, builders of the cars for the purpos e of James L. Anthony's residence on Belvidere avenue, and Anthony Dyett, attorney for the Importers and Traders National bank of New York, who bought Henry E. Bowen's house opposite. They're two of a kind that suburban cities like to desire.

F. A. Dunham, of this city, engineer and superintendent of the famous Union county roads, has just returned from Cortland, N. Y., where he has been in consultation with the officials of that town and the engineer of the State board of health, in relation to a system of sewerage for that place. Cortland thus shows its intention of having the best.

George F. Randolph, brother of L. W. Randolph of this city, and one of the most expert telegraph operators in the country, has removed to Plainfield, and is making his home at 49 Grandview avenue, where he and his wife celebrated their thirteenth wedding anniversary Saturday evening. A number of friends dropped in, were provided, and all had a happy time Mr. Randolph is telegraph operator at the Produce Exchange.

William Kelley returned Monday from a three weeks' tour through Florida and Georgia, looking after his interests in the orange growing business. He reports the weather delightful and the prospects for a full crop good. In his journey he visited Waycross, Ga., where he met a former Plainfielder, Mr. Murphy, a builder, who took up to a Georgia town to start growing town. Mr. Kelley says that he found the people where he visited strongly in favor of Grover Cleveland for president.

The very many friends of John L. Force, son of the late proprietor of Force's Hotel, this city, and now of the Mansion House, Brooklyn Bridge, are overjoying him with congratulations upon his securing one of the most charming young women of the State as his wife. The marriage took place at New York at Wyckoff last evening. The Rev. M. V. McDuffie, pastor of the First Baptist church of that city, officiated. The bride was Miss Mattie S. Wyckoff, a lady long and one of the highest esteemed and admired of New Brunswick's best society.

Miss Virginia F. Randolph of this city is expected to sail for New York on the steamship Etruria next Saturday. She is now in Paris, to hich city she has just returned from a two months' tour of the Italian cities. A letter recently received by a friend of hers here bore date of Easter Sunday at Venice. She wrote that in arriving in that queen city of the Adriatic, she left Milan at 8 o'clock in the midnight, instead of taking a carriage to their hotel, they took a "gondola" to their "palace" for it was everything here to do a "palace" and all journeying is done by a "gondola". The effect by moonlight on the river, the singing of the gondoliers, the reflections of the lights in the water, are all described as romantic and very striking to the stranger. Miss Randolph and her friends have visited Genoa, Pisa, Rome, Pompeii, Nice and Florence. She has passed a year in study in Paris under eminent artists, including Collin, De la Cluse, Laurens and Benjamin Constant, and has spent about three or four months in travel. On the occasion of Miss Randolph's return, a reception will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Randolph and daughter, on Monday evening, May 16, to which invitations have just been issued. After the reception Mrs. Randolph and Miss Randolph will be at home Wednesdays until June 15.

A Fatal Shot.

A half-headed eagle, the first of its species seen in this section in some time, was shot a few days ago by S. B. Wheeler, manager of the Netherwood stock farm. Mr. Wheeler saw the big bird circling over the house, and, hastily catching up his gun, went out after it. The eagle swooped towards the ground, and Mr. Wheeler fired both barrels at it, but only heavy buckshot into it. It is a handsome specimen of this powerful species.

A Policeman on the Corner.

An excellent order has just been issued by police captain Grant, by which sergeant Lynch will be kept on the block on the corner of North and York avenues from 6:30 to 7 a. m. and from 4:30 to 6:30 p. m., to see that no fast driving is indulged in. The idea is to prevent future accidents of children or accidents to pedestrians at this dangerous point.

THE EMPLOYERS' MONEY MISSING.

Bookkeeper Tyndall and Cashier Daniel Henry Disappear, Taking the Change of the Establishment.

Henry S. Phillips, who for a few years has been a trusted clerk in the employ of R. W. Rice & Co., the North Plainfield coal dealers, was arrested on the charge of embezzling money from his employers.

Phillips is the fellow who figured prominently in the Rice-Phillips case, recently settled, which advised during the celebrated trial of Rice vs. Stockwell, and whatever Mr. Stockwell's witnesses swore to, Phillips swore to something entirely different on the stand. At that time the reporters spoke of him as a person of abominable features, cherubic smile, and manufactured yellow whiskers, and Mrs. Phillips thereupon expressed a desire and a determination to scratch out the nasty reporters' nasty eyes.

Mr. Rice trusted Phillips implicitly, and to all appearances Phillips was a most humble and subservient creature. But Mr. Rice now declares that he knows that Phillips is a cunning rogue and a Uriah Heep of iniquity.

Mr. Rice was warned at times to look out for Phillips, for whose he was placing so much confidence, but only recently did he ascertain that the suspicion thus aroused was just.

The facts in his possession he deemed it best to discharge the clerk, and last Saturday Phillips was turned out of the store, and went to Newark to work for Stockwell.

Further examination by Mr. Rice revealed the magnitude of Phillips's operations, and information caused to be advertised and a warrant was issued for the misguided clerk's arrest.

Thursday afternoon officers Job Coddington went to Newark, armed with the warrant, arrested Phillips, and brought him back to Plainfield.

Phillips was taken before justice Crater, who took the plea of not guilty. Phillips waived examination, and was held to await the action of the September grand jury.

There are five counts to the complaint against him, and he is charged with having disappropriated funds aggregating $1,000.

Mr. Rice claims to have abundant evidence of the clerk's guilt. His method seems to have been to collect from customers on his route and turn in only a portion of the amount paid, pocketing the rest.

Phillips stoutly maintains his innocence, and Mrs. Phillips denounces the arrest as an outrage.

FRUITS OF THE "ELKWOOD" SOWING.

Sad Result to a Career of Dissipation—An Erring Husband and a "Rich Kicker"—Story of the Outgoing Wife.

(From The Press of April 29.)

In a neatly-kept cottage at 62 East Fourth street a frail little woman sits waiting to-day for a husband who does not come, and that husband's name is bandied about on the tongue of gossip, the subject of a scandal that had its inception in the spacious resort which has so lately a career under the guardianship of Joseph Bonaglio Miller.

The afflicted woman is the wife of James Heath, who, in the days when the "Elkwood" flourished, was one of its staunchest adherents. Heath was a warm friend of Miller, and was among those who, he says, by that fellow's financial operations. Heath's own story is that he raised money to help Miller by mortgaging the household effects.

Now the public tongue is busy with the story that Heath has left his wife and baby for another and gone to parts unknown. It was with the purpose of getting at the facts of the alleged elopement that a PRESS reporter called on Mrs. Heath this noon.

Mrs. Heath has been quite ill for several days. She is therefore pale and weak through worrying over her husband's absence. She is also a attractive young woman, and her home gives every evidence of thrift and careful attention to study duties.

"It is true"—she said—"that James has gone. He has been away since last week Tuesday, and I do not expect to see him again. I have no means of knowing definitely that he has left me for good, but what else can I think? Something to do with his departure When I found out about his attentions to her I told him plainly that he must choose between me and that other woman. Soon after that he left his place in Moore's meat market on North avenue, or was discharged, I don't know which. A week ago Tuesday he packed up all his clothes and went away. He told me he was going to get work in New York, and that he would send me money Thursday night. That promise he did not keep.

"It has been very hard"—continued the sobbing wife—"to bear his cruel treatment. Some of it I expect to forgive, but he made it a habit to spend his Sundays in New York altogether. He would leave the shop Saturday evening and not show up again until Monday morning. Saturday me and my fifteen-months-old child alone. He did not seek to give us any pleasure.

"If I had ever done anything to merit shame and desertion I should not mind it so, but I have always tried to be a faithful, loving and dutiful wife, and it is very hard to have my efforts in his welfare so foolishly rewarded. We have been married five years, and never had any trouble till this "Elkwood" business began.

"Now I do not care ever to see him again. I could not receive him back, were he to come to me. I shall go to the home of my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walpole, at South Plainfield, and take my child with me."

Protest the Rear Ends.

For the information of those boys who have been in the habit of robbing birds' nests, and killing song birds, we publish the law regarding the same, so they may be wise for their warning.

CHAPTER CCVII.

An act for the preservation of birds.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no person shall at any time within this state, catch, kill, trap or expose for sale, or have in his possession after the same has been caught, killed or trapped, any night hawk, whip-poor-will, mocking bird, cat bird, robin, thrush, finch, martin, swallow, woodpecker, robin, oriole, red or cardinal bird, cedar bird, wren, blue bird, blue jay, yellow bird, or any useful or any insectivorous or song bird, not mentioned or named herein.

2. And be it enacted, That no person shall in the months of March, April, May, June, July or August, in any year, within this state, kill, take or willfully molest, tear down or destroy the nest of any bird, or take, carry away or destroy the egg or eggs of any bird, or have such nest, or such eggs, at any time aforesaid, in his possession, or buy or sell the same or any of them named in section one and three of this act.

3. And be it enacted, That it shall not be lawful for any person to kill or catch, buy or sell any of the birds mentioned in section one of this act, or any of the birds commonly known as game birds, or any sandpiper, plover, curlew, snipe, woodcock, rail, heron, or any other commonly called shore or bay birds, or any wild duck, brant, wild goose, swan, loon, or any other waterfowl, at any time in the year, except that it shall be lawful for any person to kill and have in his possession, for the purpose of preserving or stuffing the same as an article of ornament or use, any of the birds aforesaid.

4. And be it enacted, That any person violating the provisions of this act shall be liable to a penalty of not less than fifty dollars for each offense, and one hundred dollars for each subsequent offense, and shall stand committed until the said penalties and costs of prosecution are paid; and it shall be the duty of the justices of the peace and police officers of the several counties in this state to prosecute for all penalties incurred by the violation of the provisions of this act.

5. And be it enacted, That nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the killing of any of the birds mentioned in the first section of this act, which may be found destroying the crops of the owner of the land on which they are found.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 26, 1892.

BOODLE FOR CAREY AND LYNCH.

The City Council Obtains the $10 Difference and the Assistant Receiver Pay for Their Trouble.

The Plainfield common council has decided to settle with ex-policeman Carey by paying him $10 less than the amount of the bond given with Leonard Lynch by paying him the full amount of $50 which he holds to date him. The following report of the committee on police, to whom the communications were adopted, some citizen Gallup alone voting no:

To the Common Council of the City of Plainfield.

GENTLEMEN—Your committee on police, to whom was referred the claims of Thads J. Carey and Patrick Lynch, late chief of police, respectfully submit the following statement of the police force, in the years 1890, 1891 and 1892, to the present time, and the decision of the Supreme Court on the contract sent out by Thads J. Carey, and the opinion of the Deputy Attorney General of 1890, in suspending him for the period of three months from the 20th day of April, 1892, and most gratefully entitled to recover three months as Captain of Police, at the rate of $60 per month.

The same principle involved in his case is involved in that of ex-Assistant Patrick Lynch, and your committee respectfully ask his suspension and forfeiture of pay for the month of April, 1892, and that he be entitled to recover the salary for that month at the rate of $50 per month.

The claim of Thads J. Carey for salary for the balance of the year, from July 1, 1892, to the present time, he having refused to take the oath of office, and his refusing to serve in that capacity with a reduction of salary, he not being from all claims on the payment of said three months' salary and penalties of the salary for the balance of the year, from July 1, 1892.

Your committee consulted the corporation counsel and was informed by him that he was not entitled to the salary. Mr. Carey had any claim for compensation beyond three months, which is denied by your committee, and for defense, yet in his opinion the chances are further against the city. For that reason the committee have decided to recommend a fair adjustment of the matter with Mr. Carey; and finally recommend the reduction and the payment of $50 in full of all claims against the city, which offer he finally agreed to accept.

Respectfully submitted, HENRY RICHARDSON, Chairman.

That the sum of $50 be paid to Thads J. Carey, in full of all demands against the city, arising out of the matters aforesaid; and that the sum of $50 be paid Patrick Lynch in full of his demand aforesaid.

F. R. MASON,
H. H. BAKER,
E. A. WEBB,
Committee on Police.

May 2, 1892.

PLAINFIELD CASES IN COURT.

Interesting Lawsuits Next to Come to Trial at Elizabeth.

The May term of the Union county courts will open on Monday in Elizabeth. The Plainfielders on the list of petit jurors are Elias W. Bird, Beely Edsall, George Frazee, John H. French, John Johnston and J. Fred McDonald. The list of causes to come up for trial includes the following in which Plainfield people are interested:

SUPREME COURT.

Percival Knauth et al., partners, etc., vs. Edward M. Field, John F. Wiechers, et al., partners, etc. Op contract. Wallis Edwards & Bunsted. R. V. Lindabury.

Percival Knauth et al., partners, etc., vs. Edward M. Field, John F. Wiechers, et al., partners, etc. On contract. Wallis Edwards & Bunsted. R. V. Lindabury.

Globe Hard Vein Slate company, vs. J. T. Odam & Son. On contract. W. M. Stillman. W. B. Wilson.

Susan Charlotte Savage vs. Rosh W. Pike. On contract. Aug. W. Cutler. W. A. Coddington.

John V. Cockcroft vs. Emil Woltman and John F. Wiechers. On contract. Collins & Corbin. R. V. Lindabury. P. E. Marsh.

Aaron D. Thompson vs. Mrs. L. H. Smith. On contract. Chas. A. Reed. D. Haney, jr.

Melvin H. Cheesman vs. Andrew J. Lindberger. On contract. Hudson & Codington. James J. Bergen.

The Prairie Cattle company, limited, vs. Francis X. Schoonmaker, et al. On contract. Nelson Bunyon. W. H. McGhee.

The Peoples National Bank of the City of New York vs. Edward P. Thorn. On contract. James G. Clark. Walter L. Redfield.

Stephen H. Quillin, et al., vs. John J. Conard, et al. On contract. John S. McMaster. Craig A. Marsh.

CIRCUIT COURT.

James A. Demarest vs. Rowland M. Stover. In tort. Craig A. Marsh. Fred C. Marsh.

Electric Therapeutic Institute vs. Walter L. Hatfield, executor, etc. On contract. Chas. Brind. Craig A. Marsh.

George Taylor vs. Charles H. Westphal. In tort. Craig A. Marsh. W. H. McGhee.

Charles Ayres vs. Abraham Collins. In tort. W. H. Davis. R. V. Lindabury.

Mary Muldoon vs. John C Moore, heir of William Moore, deceased. On contract. T. F. McCormick. W. A. Coddington.

David B. Dunham vs. James Clark. In tort. W. A. Coddington. Chas. A. Reed.

Mary Kisby by John W. Kisby, guardian, vs. the City of Plainfield and Jacob Jones. In tort. W. H. Davis. Craig A. Marsh.

JURY APPEAL ASST.

Charles T. Kissam, appellant, vs. Arthur M. Griffen, appellee. Justice V. W. Nash.

William J. Nelson, appellant, vs. Thomas Cox, appellee. Justice V. W. Nash.

JUNIOR APPEAL ASST.

Aaron D. Thompson, appellant, vs. John E. Munn, appellee. Justice L. F Wadsworth.

Women Elect Officers.

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Christian Work society of the Trinity Reformed church, Monday afternoon, the following officers were elected for the year:

President—Mrs. C. P. Lorentz.
First Vice-president—Mrs. A. L. Force.
Second Vice-president—Mrs. C. Schenck.
Third Vice-president—Mrs. G. Q. Bodiver.
Secretary—Mrs. C. H. Smith.
Treasurer—Mrs. Wm. G. S. Roe.

The public annual meeting of this very excellent society will be held next Sunday evening, in the church, at which time the report of the year's work will be read, and the new officers elected by the Rev. Mr. Davis of North Branch.

License for Soloist Vendores and Setherwood.

The license application of Wallace V. Miller, to keep a hotel at 7, 9 and 11 North avenue, was granted Monday night by the common council. The vote on the hotel application was unanimous. The vote for bar-room privileges was as follows:

For grant—Bird, Brickman, Fish, Gallup, Johnston, Roe, Weber—7.
Against—Bonaglio, Conard, Mason—3.
Absent—Tremain.

License was also granted to Frank E. Miller for Hotel Setherwood, Consolidated Clam and Shrimp House, and Setherwood against granting liquor-selling privileges.

Reached only via the Iron Mountain Route.

5:30 p. m. daily, and a Pullman Buffet Sleeping Car through to New Orleans without change. Solid vestibuled train, with Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars, daily, leaving 11:55 A. M. Delightful climate all the year. Fast Line Excursions. Round-trip tickets on sale throughout the year from all accepted points in the United States and Canada. Descriptive pamphlets free. Apply to or address W. H. Hoge, Gen'l Pass. Agt., 391 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—Latest U. S. Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., N. Y.

SEVERED THREE ARTERIES.

O'Rourke Had Delirium, and Was Nearly Killed by a Chisel.

James O'Rourke met with Harding on the street Friday night, as Harding was returning from work, and attempted to assault him. Harding's arms were full of tools, and as he raised his hands to defend himself the edge of a chisel struck O'Rourke on the temple, severing three arteries. O'Rourke bled almost to death before patrolman Force could be summoned, and when taken to the hospital was thought to be dying. Dr. Frobesco successfully stanched the flow of blood, and found that O'Rourke had had a drink of delicious tremens. O'Rourke had a hard night of it, but is to-day improved, though very weak from loss of blood.

Exempt Firemen Electioning.

At the annual meeting of the Exempt Firemen's association, last night, the following officers were elected:

President—A. Salteman.
Vice-president—T. J. Gillies.
Secretary—G. Tracy.
Treasurer—J. A. Hubbard.
Board of Trustees—D. W. Littell, Joseph A. Hubbard, Alex. Thrower, Wm. H. Harding, A. D. Jennings.
Representatives to Relief Association—A. Salteman, G. Tracy.

A resolution was adopted transferring the entire monthly dues to the Sick Benefit fund.

The annual report of officers showed the association to be a flourishing condition.

Real-Estate Transfers.

Recent real-estate transfers in Somerset county include the following of properties in North Plainfield:

William J. Conroy to Peter G. Doeringer, $1. Geneva Home to Chas. Keller, $750.
William Demarest to Margaret E. McLaughlin, $1.
Marie Duronsoet to Howard S. Turner, $1.
Peter G. Doeringer to William J. Conroy, $6,200.

Realty Changes.

Recent transfers of property in this city, as recorded in the county clerk's office, include the following:

Park avenue corner of Fourth street, 20x165: Elias W. Pepper, executor of estate of Joseph H. Burlingham, to Charles B. Clifton, $6,500.

Fourth street, 50x165: John D. Runyon and wife and Charles H. Hand and wife to Arthur Hand, $695.

Ramont place, southeast of Third street, 25x100: John D. Runyon and wife and Charles H. Hand and wife to James P. Homan $200.

New Jersey for Cleveland.

[From The Elizabeth Herald.]

Public opinion in this state has consolidated very rapidly in the last two months in favor of the ex President's renomination. One by one Democratic papers have declared for their choice preference, until we do not at present know of one that in any way opposes his nomination. Yesterday's Jersey City News has the following: an enumerant of his candidacy: "The people want him, and if he is nominated, they will elect him. If he be not nominated, the voters will be unable to receive the assurance that in ignoring their will by defeating the candidate whom they impose upon the country".

The people recognize in Mr. Cleveland clear, specific and wise conceptions of national policy. They recognize that he has the honesty and courage to stand by his ideas of right under all circumstances, and regardless of consequences to himself. The people have grown tired of jugglers and tricksters. They want a man in whose truth they can believe.

We would go too far if we said that a ticket headed by Mr. Cleveland would be the only one that could win. The party unquestionably has other leaders in whom the people have confidence, and many winning combinations might be devised. But we insist that it was the thought of so strong as that which Mr. Cleveland would appear in, and we further insist that any which has the appearance of the exception of being machine-made has not the ghost of a chance. This is going to be either a people's fight, in which case we will vote for one here the people will go—or a machine fight, in which the Republicans will win, for they have a better, stronger, more cast-iron, and vastly better lubricated machine than we have.

Bailey Resumes, Sweet Fortunes, Sassy Skies.

FAMOUS RESORTS OF TEXAS, MEXICO AND CALIFORNIA.

Reduced round-trip tickets now on sale via IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE to the famous resorts of Texas, Mexico, Arizona and California. Stop-over privileges will be allowed in the States of Arkansas and Texas. For tickets and further information, call on or address T. H. Hoge, Gen'l P. A., 391 Broadway, New York.

PEACH trees for sale. 4,000 1 year old trees; best orchard varieties. J. M. Badgley, near Pittsville. P. O. address, Wellsville, N. Y.

FOR SALE.—Good family horse, sound and kind, 15½ hands high. Address F. Jenner, New Market, N. J., or Box 312, Plainfield.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

TO THOMAS K. HOBART:—

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery, made on the 25th day of June instant, between Matilda M. Wood is complainant, and you are defendant, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of complaint filed against you in the above cause within the Seventh Day of July next, or said bill will be taken pro confesso against you. The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage made by John B. Miller and husband to the complainant, dated the 1st day of May, 1888, to the County of Union and State of New Jersey, and recorded in the Clerk's office of Union county, in book 1 of mortgages, page 1 &c.

RANDOLPH, CORNEY & BLAIR,
Sol'rs. of Complainant, 1 Montgomery Street, Jersey City, N. J.
Dated April 4, 1892. 4-20-7t

SHERIFF'S SALE.—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Lucy Ann Cooper, complainant, and John K. Van Nest, et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above stated writ of fieri facias to me directed and delivered, I shall expose for sale at public vendue, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, on WEDNESDAY, THE EIGHTEENTH DAY OF JUNE, D., 1892, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all the following tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union, and State of New Jersey, and bounded and described as follows, viz:

Beginning at an iron spike at the intersection of the center of Madison avenue with the center of Second a rest; thence along the center of Second a rest south fifty-eight degrees and forty-five degrees and forty-eight minutes east 51 of deg 45 min 48 sec east 100 feet to the center of Lot No. 2 on said map; thence along the center of said Lot No. 2 north thirty-one degrees and fifteen minutes east 31 deg 15 min east 100 feet to an iron pin in Elizabeth Urton's line; thence along said Urton's line north fifty-eight degrees and forty-five minutes west 58 deg 45 min west 100 feet to an iron pin in the center of Madison avenue; thence along the center of Madison avenue south thirty-one degrees and fifteen minutes west 31 deg 15 min west 100 feet to the point and place of beginning, and being Lot No. 1 on said map. Being the same premises which were conveyed to the said John K. Van Nest by deed of Elizabeth Urton, dated the 1st day of May, 1888, and recorded in the Clerk's office of Union county, in book 1 of mortgages, page 1 &c.

Dated May 2, 1892.

JOHN K. VAN NEST, Sheriff.
